Q.- You weren't interested in who ordered the killing of these German soldiers, and -- whether it was an officer of the partisans or a court, who ordered that.

A.- I got the impression this was just talks about some soldiers by some partisans, but maybe it is true. I don't know.

Q.- But before you told us that you heard about these things from various sides, at least that is what the translation brought out. This wasn't just talk and gossip by one partisans. Several people must have talked about it.

A.- I heard that from several persons, and I remember very well I heard it this way from several individuals.

Q.- And you didn't know whether that was mere gossip?

A.- I don't know. I had heard it.

Q.- But you did hear of the shootings of the 8,000 Serbians which you told the court about. You know about those shootings. Was that mere gossip, or was that a fact? How did you know that?

A.- About 8,000 people who were killed in 1941, there are plenty of documents testifying to that, and there are still the ditches where the corpses of these people are lying.

Q.- But just previously you told us you were so sick all of the time and your wife also that you could not possibly be interested in all of the things that went on. How then do you know now that there are documents? Did you see those documents in existence? Did you see those documents in spite of your illness or how did you know that and since when?

A.- Now I am not sick any more, and the place -

DR. SAUTER: Now you are not sick any more?

A.- The population is going there, it is a religious place now in Kragujevac.

Q.- Witness, what then did your partisans tell you why the German soldiers were being killed or hanged? What reasons did they give you?

A.- I didn't hear that from partisans. I saw this poster, with my own eyes at the first time I left my home and went to the building myself, to GFP. I saw the poster with 1200 names.

Q.- I believe, witness, you misunderstand my question. Yesterday you told us, and today you confirmed it, that you heard from partisans that captured German soldiers were killed, and now I would like to hear from you what did the partisans tell you; for what reason were the German soldiers killed by the partisans? I only want to know the reason, nothing else.

A.- I don't know this.

MR. DENNEY: If your Honors please, I suggest that he establish whether or not he was given any reasons, assuming reasons were given him, as to whether or not these Germans were killed. He assumes that he was given reasons. He can ask him, and if he tells him "yes" he can inquire.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: He has given the comprehensive answer that he does not know. Proceed.

Q.- Witness, today you say you do not know the reason, but yesterday you did give the reason. I put this question, in order to find out how far your answers are credible. Please employ your memory and tell us what the reason was why those German soldiers were shot. I just remind you, you said yesterday the German soldiers were taken away when they had fallen in battle, by the partisans and others again were killed. Now I want to know from you, - and that is on your oath, - what reasons were you being told why those soldiers were killed?

A.- I told yesterday that there were some cases, - that is to say, I heard about some of these cases, that this was depending on the military situation, that is to say, if there was possibly time to take these captured German soldiers into the rear zone the partisans did take them, but sometimes it was not possible, the soldiers were killed.

DR. SAUTER: Your Honor, I have no further questions to put to the witness, I think.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Do I understand that counsel terminated his examination at the conclusion of yesterday's session, and there is no further examination?

DR. RAUSCHENBACH (For Defendant Foertsch): When the session started I had already mentioned that the cross-examination which was started yesterday by my assistant is considered finished. There are no further questions.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed.

MR. DENNEY: May it please your Honors, we have no further questions to put to the witness and if there are no questions by the court, I request that the witness and Mr. Targoni be excused, unless there are further questions by the defense.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: The members of the Tribunal have indicated that they have no questions.

The witness may be excused.

MR. DENNEY: Thank you, your Honor, Mr. Fenstermacher will proceed with document book 13.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Proceed, Mr. Fenstermacher.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honors will recall with the introduction of Documents in Document Book 13, we are concerned with the final period, from the staff end, and the number of defendants involved, it is the most important period in this case, – that is, the period from August 1944 until October 1944, when the German troops withdrew from Greece and Yugoslavia.

We were concerned yesterday particularly with the events in Croatia and during that period, your Honors will recall, that in Croatia at that time, General Rendulic was Commander in Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army, and that the defendant, General Dehner was subordinate to the General Rendulic, as Commander of the 69 Reserve Corps and in November 1943 the defendant Leyser also became subordinate to the defendant Rendulic as Commander of the XXI Mountain Corps.

Turning now to page 39 of the English, page 27 of the German Document Book, NOKW-739, it is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 321. These are two extracts from enclosures to the War Diary of the 21st Mountain Corps, for the period 26 August to 30 September 1943. The entry for the 13th of September, 1943: "Commander in Chief Southeast," and your Honors will recall that at that time the Commander in Chief Southeast was also simultaneously Commander of the Army Group F, was the defendant von Weichs.

"Commander-in-Chief Southeast orders the execution of General Roneaglia, Italian XIVth Corps, for his disobedient attitude in case deportation to Belgrade, is not guaranteed. Corps Headquarters instructs 118th Division to send General Roneaglia immediately to Belgrade under guard."

"1620 hrs Report to 2nd Panzer Army on changes in the departure plan of the Italians in compliance with proposal by Army. 118th Jaeger Division receives the order to send General Roneaglia immediately to Belgrade under guard."

Court No. V, Case No. VII

DR. TIPP: Dr. Tipp, Defense Counsel for Defendant von Leyser. I believe that the Prosecution made a little mistake just now. This Document NOKW-739, General Command of the 21st Mountain Corps, at this time, does not refer to the Defendant von Leyser.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: May it please. I didn't say that this document related to the Defendant von Leyser. I simply pointed out that the document was extracts from the War Diary of the 21st Mountain Corps for the period from 26 August to 30 September 1943. I had earlier pointed out that the Defendant Leyser became Commander of the 21st Mountain Corps in November, 1943.

DR. TIPP: Thank you.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Turning next to Page 40 of the English and Page 28 of the German Document Book, Document No. NOKW-727, which is offered as Prosecution's Exhibit No. 322. First is an order from the 21st Mountain Corps to the 118th Jaeger Division, dated 13 September 1943:

"To the 118th Jaeger Division General Roncaglia, Commanding General, Italian XIVth Infantry Corps, is to be shot without delay as a franc-tireur on the basis of illegal conduct reported in the Daily Report of the XXIst Mountain Corps of 13 September 1943, in the event immediate transport to Belgrade is not fully guaranteed."

MR. FENSTERMACHER: This, if Your Honors please, is signed by the Commander in Chief of the Second Panzer Army, who, at this time, was the Defendant Rendulic; and there is a "Addition of the XXIst Mountain Corps: Transport of General Roncaglia by plane under escort is to be carried out at once. Report of completion is to be directed to Corps Hqs." And the order is signed "XXIst Mountain Corps," by the Operations Corps, Ia officer. And then for the 18th of December 1943 in the War Diary, "1235 hours, the 100th Infantry Division reports..."

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, I request to ask the Interpreters to ascertain whether the translation of the order just read to the 118th Jaeger Division is correct or not.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Proceed. The form followed by the Tribunal will be followed in this matter, if you will hand the transcript to the Interpreter. (Court Page hands papers to Interpreter). Now, Dr. Laternser, if you will indicate the portion of the document on which you wish further explanation.

DR. LATERNSEER: I am concerned with the Document No. NOKW-727. That in the English Document Book is on Page 40, at the top; and in the German Document Book, it lies also on the top of Page 28.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: It may be done so. Will you indicate the language in question.

DR. LATERNSEER: Thank you, Your Honor. The paragraph starts with "General Roncaglia" and ends with "guaranteed." In this paragraph there is in the second half of a sentence a mistake in the translation, that is, in my opinion. I would like to have a renewed translation by the Interpreters.

MISS SCHAEFFER (German-English Interpreter): I think what Dr. Laternser means is that "widersetzliche handlung" is translated "with illegal conduct." The word shouldn't be "illegal." It should be "insubordinate" or merely "resistance."

DR. LATERNSEER: No this is a wrong idea of the interpreter. This part is correctly translated only the second part. The English translation is, "In the event immediate transport to Belgrade is not fully guaranteed." That is correct, but in my opinion "widersetzliche" is an insubordinate attitude and not an "illegal" attitude. There is nothing illegal in being insubordinate, and it can't be assumed immediately that it is illegal. Your Honor, in the German it is being expressed "falls", that is, in the event it is not fully guaranteed, and this sentence should, in my opinion, be started with "if" or "when"; it is not correct.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honors, please, I don't think Dr. Laternser should argue with the interpretation given by the Interpreter.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Do I understand that you disagree with the Court No. V, Case No. VII.

interpretation given by the Interpreter for the disputed question or item?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Are you addressing me, Your Honor, or Dr. Laternser?

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I am addressing Dr. Laternser.

DR. LATERNSE: When the words "in the event" mean the same as "if" or "when" then I agree.

MISS SCHAEFFER (German-English Interpreter): "In the event" is perfectly correct.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Is that quite sufficient, Dr. laternser?

DR. LATERNSE: Thank you.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Continuing now on the bottom of Page 40 of the English and Page 28 of the German with the entry from the War Diary for 18 September 1943, "1235 hours, the 100th Infantry Division reports: Order to the divisions concerning treatment of Italian troop units who deliver up their weapons to insurgents. Officers are to be shot by court martial; transport to the East for labour service is stipulated for NCOs and men." Turning next to Page 42 of the English, Page 29 of the German, is Document No. NOKW-916, which is offered in evidence as Prosecution's Exhibit No. 323. This, if Your Honors please, is a quite important order. It's dated Fuehrer Headquarters, 15 September 1943. It related to the:

"Basic Policy Concerning the Treatment of Soldiers of the Italian Armed Forces and of the Militia.

All previously issued orders concerning the treatment of soldiers of the Italian armed forces of the Militia are herewith rescinded and the following is ordered:

I. Basic Principle:

Italian soldiers must declare unequivocally whether they desire to continue fighting on our side or whether they wish to participate in the breach of faith of the Badoglio Government."

Court No. V, Case No. VII.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honors will recall Here that on the 8th of September 1943 the Italian forces surrendered to the Allies, and as the terms of the armistice provided that the Italian troops should return immediately to the Italian Mainland, under orders of their Commander in Chief, Marshall Badoglio.

"Whosoever is not for us is against us and consequently he becomes a prisoner of war. (Irrespective of any German citations of War he may have received.)

"II. One must distinguish three classes of Italian Soldiers including the Militia:

1.) Italian Soldiers faithful to the alliance who

a) wish to continue armed fighting on our side

b) wish to be employed in the order and security service, in the supply organization of the Wehrmacht units or with the Navy of the Ground Forces of the Luftwaffe without, however actively participating in combat.

2.) Italian soldiers who do not wish to assist us in any way.

3.) Italian soldiers who have resisted either actively or passively or who have allied themselves with the enemy or with bands.

"To 1.) (Italian Soldiers faithful to the alliance):

Italian officers wishing to fight on our side according to 1 a) or 1 b) are to retain their arms, the same applies to non-commissioned officers and men in as far as they are committed in organized formations on newly organized units. The treatment of these Italian soldiers who remain faithful to the alliance is to be one which is completely consistent with their honor.

Their rations are to be based on those of the German; if possible, they are to receive their own kind of food derived from Italian supplies. Until the final completion of the regulation, they are to receive 50% of the German Court No. V, Case No. VII pay corresponding to their ranks.

"A special order will be issued regarding the oath and/or another declaration of obligation by Italian Soldiers loyal to the alliance.

Commitment:

a) Commitment as units limited up to company (Battery, etc.,) strength within German units or by insertion of strong German cadres (for instance, heavy artillery with Army Group B and C-in-C West).

b) Commitment in Militia Units in accordance with detailed directive of Reich Fuehrer SS within Italy as a Police Unit, outside of Italy in the fight against bands. The last named employment may be taken into consideration particularly if the Italian troop units concerned have previously seriously taken up the fight against bands together with us as, for instance, in Istrien. After (the units have) proven themselves, they will also be employed with Security Troop Units."

Then, if Your Honors please, there are certain words which are crossed out in the original. Continuing now in sub-paragraph "d":

d) Commitment as "Italian Voluntary Helpers" within units of our own. The Security requirements of the unit decide the extent and form of this employment of foreign forces. The employment is regulated by 2 a (1) - (4) of the Order concerning indigenous helpers dated 4 February 43." And then, the code number for the order is given. "Italian Voluntary Helpers" can be employed if there is a vacancy in the table of organization.

e) Soldiers of the Luftwaffe, of anti-aircraft artillery and of the air reconnaissance service of the Italian Navy including those who were employed in coastal Court No. V, Case No. VII.

defense, who are willing to fight with us are to be made available to the C-in-C Navy: Naval Soldiers in the sense of this order also include all those employed with coastal batteries committed to fire against Naval targets."

"Employment in accordance with principles a) to c) is prohibited altogether in areas whose indigenous population is of German origin, and in the Croatian and Bulgarian area.

Any additional employment is and remains impossible if troops who have fought against us with force of arms at present influenced by the release of the Duce now declare their willingness (to fight on our side).

To 2) (Italian Soldiers who do not wish to assist us in any way). Italian soldiers who do not wish to be available to continue fighting on the German side are to be disarmed and are prisoners of war. The OKW/Chief of Prisoner of War affairs will take them over first. Regarding their sifting and distribution for purposes of war economy, there is a special directive in agreement with the Reich Minister for War production and armament and with the Plenipotentiary for Labor Employment.

To 3) (Italian Soldiers who have resisted either actively or passively, etc.)

Italian soldiers having actively or passively resisted German measures or having allied themselves with the enemy or with bands are also Prisoners of War. The following directives which are most severe apply to them:

a) By order of the Fuehrer, the following procedure is to be applied to all Italian Troop Units who have let their arms fall into the hands of insurgents or in any way made common cause with the insurgents:

1. The Officers are to be shot to death by summary court martial.
2. Non-commissioned Officers and men are to be transferred to the East for labor employment with AWA/Chief Prisoner of War Affairs and made available to the Army General Staff/Gen. Qu., if possible avoiding transit through the Reich."

b) An ultimatum with a short time limit is to be sent to Italian troops or other armed units still offering resistance at this time.

(This ultimatum) is to make it clear that the Italian Commanders responsible for the resistance will be shot as franc-tireurs unless they have ordered their troops to surrender their arms to the German units before the time limit expires.

If your Honors please, I should like to recall to you that these Italian troop units were acting under orders of their own Supreme Commander, Marshal Badoglio, to return to the Italian mainland.

"Paragraph III. Sifting: The following is ordered in order to relieve transportation --"

DR. LATERNSEER: Mr. President, I have to object to the last remark of the prosecutor. That again is purely an assertion which to be put into evidence has to be proved. I have seen no evidence for the fact that the Italian troops which were against the Germans in the Balkans received any orders from Badoglio for this behavior. I object to this statement.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: We will introduce proof on that point later but I am sorry for the remark and I withdraw it.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, you may proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: "III. Sifting:"

"The following is ordered in order to relieve transportation: Army Group B, C-in-C West and C-in-C Southeast are to classify and to retain immediately:

1. Italian units continuing the fight on our side.
2. Individual Italian soldiers willing to continue on the German side and who may be organized into new Italian Militia Units or who may be employed as Italian voluntary helpers in German troop units.
3. All Volksdeutschen Italian soldiers. They are to be collected at a camp to be installed in South Tyrol by Army Group B for the purpose of later recruitment for the German Wehrmacht and Waffen-SS.

4.Units and troops as well as individual Italian soldiers that are in the Luftwaffe and Navy in the Reich, in the area of operation or in the occupied territory will remain available for the Luftwaffe and Navy and are to be treated according to the foregoing policies.

5.All other officers and men are to be evacuated to the Reich in so far as Special Directive II, 3, comment to 3) is not applicable.

6.C-in-C South transfers all Italian soldiers to Army Group B excepting Italian voluntary helpers. Army Group B is charged with the immediate transfer of prisoner of war transports" of C-in-C South to the Reich.

7.All Fascists (i.e. members of the Fascist Party) who wish to cooperate further are at the disposal of the Reich Fuehrer SS at his request.

IV. Treatment of Officers and Higher Staffs.

Officers and Higher Staffs who have declared their willingness to be committed on our side according to II, 1 a) and b) or according to their special qualifications but for whom there is no use at present are to be kept in honorary confinement by the Army Groups in their corresponding areas.

Proper billets(for instance in hotels to be confiscated) are to be secured. Until further notice they are to be informed that because of the restless attitude of the population and for their own interests they will be granted no release for him even though it may be within the area of German authority.

And the order is signed Chief OKW Keitel".I think it within the bounds of prosecution, your Honors, if I may comment at this time and direct your Honors attention to the fact that there are no limitations in this order and that so far as the order itself is concerned it applies to uniformed Italian troops fighting under responsible leaders and obeying the rules of land warfare as well as to un-uniformed Italian troops.

Turning now to page 48 of the English, page 33 of the German, Document NOKW-701, which is offered as prosecution Exhibit 324, this is a report from the 297th Infantry Division to the headquarters of the 21st Mountain Infantry Corps, the Section Ic or Intelligence Section, your Honors will recall that the XXIst Mountain Infantry Corps is at this time subordinate to the Defendant Rendulic as commander-in-chief of the 2nd Panzer Army.

"In the combat at Kruga 30 Italians and 7 partisans were shot on being taken prisoner.

"85 enemy dead counted up to now. Exact determination not possible because of roughness of the terrain.

"Besides the combat action, 66 officers, 1512 non-commissioned officers and men deserted and part of them have already been evacuated."

And then there follows a table of Italian troops and units which I believe is self-explanatory.

Turning now to page 50 of the English, page 34 of the German, Document NOKW-896 becomes Prosecution Exhibit 325. This is a receipt showing the transfer of Italian prisoners from the 7th SS "Prinz Eugen" Division to the 114th Jaeger Division. The heading at the top of the page is "SS Volunteer Mountain Division "Prinz Eugen". Command post 29 September 1943 to the 114th Jaeger Division.

"The SS-Volunteers Mountain Division Prinz Eugen transfers today to the 114th Jaeger Division:

"9400 Italian prisoners (NCOs and men) who according to Fuehrer decree" and then the order number" ..are available for work camps in the east." Signed for the Division Command, the 1st General Staff Officer, SS-Hauptsturmfuehrer.

"Transport of prisoners taken over," dated "Klein the 30th Sept. 1943," signed by a captain.

On the left hand side of the document, "Transport of prisoners turned over," dated again the 30th of September, 1943, and signed by a Lieutenant, presumably of the Prinz Eugen Mountain Division.

The next on page 52 of the English, page 35 of the German, Document NOKW-830 becomes prosecution Exhibit 326. This is a series of extracts from the War Diary of the 15th Mountain Corps. The War Diary started on the 26th of August, 1943, and concluded 31st of December, 1943. The cover sheet of the document states "Corps Headquarters XV Mountain Corps", and indicates that the Mountain Corps from 26th of August, 1943, until further notice was subordinate to the 2nd Panzer Army which, your Honors will recall, was at this time commanded by the defendant Rendulic.

On page 53 of the English and page 36 of the German we begin the entries in the War Diary, which are pertinent to this proceeding. On the 27th of September, 1943:

"Banja Luka: 0700 hours SS Division and motorized Regiment 92 approached SPLIT."

The city of Split, your Honors will recall, is on the Dalmatian Coast of Yugoslavia.

"0800 hours reached northern edge of SPLIT. 0900 hours city and port of SPLIT occupied against local resistance. 202 Italian officers and 9000 men captured.

Italian officers are to be shot to death according to Fuehrer orders.

Commanding General has caused investigation to ascertain guilty officers. Then the entry in the War Diary for three days later:

30.9.43 3 Generals in SPLIT shot to death by virtue Banja Luka of summary Court-Martial.

The entry for the 1st of October, 1943, again Banja Luka 45 additional guilty officers (Italian) shot to death by virtue of summary Court-Martial in SPLIT."

The next on page 54 of the English and 39 of the German is the entry in the War Diary for the 3rd of December, 1943; Banja Luka. Your Honors will recall that I mentioned earlier that in November of 1943 the defendant Leyser succeeded to the command of the 15th Mountain Corps which was at that time subordinate to the defendant Rendulic; and here is the entry in the War Diary from that 15th Mountain Corps for the 3rd of December, 1943. It is the final entry in the War Diary for that period.

"2nd Panzer Army sanctions intention "Panther" and orders preparation of evacuation, which is to be kept completely secret from Croatian authorities, (and further orders) suggestions for its execution to be submitted. It is believed practical to transport the population capable of bearing arms, to Germany for labour employment."

The War Diary is concluded on the 31st of December, 1943, and the last page of that War Diary is signed "The Commanding General von Leyser, General of Infantry."

I should like your Honors to examine this document, especially the final page for the signature of the defendant von Leyser.

Turning next to page 55 of the English, page 41 of the German, Document NOKW 910, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 327. This is a collection of orders and reports of the Second Panzer Army and its subordinate units, among them the XV Mountain Army Corps and the 7th SS Prinz Eugen Division. You might as well note on the first page of the document page 55 of the English, 41 of the German, the sender, in the middle of the page is the Second Panzer Army, the date of transmission of the order is the 11th of September, time: 1500 hours.

"OKW has ordered: Wherever Italian Troops or other Italian bearer of arms are still offering resistance at this time, they are to be given a short term ultimatum which is to express that the Commanders responsible for the resistance will be shot to death as franc tireurs unless they order their troops by the time stated to surrender their arms to the German Units.

"Implementation 2nd Panzer Army. All Italian Command Authorities within reach are to be informed of this order."

Signed, Chief of Staff 2nd Panzer Army, Operations officer Ia.

I should like your Honors to note the code numbers for this order, 313/43 which we will find appearing in several documents which will be later introduced.

Turning next to page 56 of the English, page 42 of the German, another order transmitted by the 2nd Panzer Army which was commanded by the defendant Rendulic at this time. The communication is on the 12th of September, 1230 hours received on the 13th of September 0420 hours.

Subject: Returning of Italians.

Pursuant to teletype 2nd Panzer Army Ia No. 127/43 top secret of 12 Sept.

43 it is ordered:

According to the order of XVth-Mountain Army the direction of the return of the Italian troops in the area of the XVth Mountain Army is in the hands of the Italian XVIIth and the Italian VIth Corps. For this purpose, the Commanding General of this Corps is to be given order as follows:

to.

1. The Italian XVIIIth and VIth Armies with their entire personnel and material are German Prisoners of War. Should Italian Units refuse to lay down their arms, they will be subdued and subsequently their leaders will be shot to death as insurgents.

More sections to follow: The order is signed and Certified true copy by person whose signature is illegible.

Next on page 57 of the English, and 43 of the German, another order transmitted by the 2nd Panzer Army on the 12th of September 1943, received on the 13th of September. The order is sent from the 2nd Panzer Army to the XV Mountain Army Corps. I should like your Honors to compare the textual matter contained in this order, with the order we have just seen, the previous exhibit the Keitel order of the 15th of September 1943 which was introduced on page 42 of the English and 29 of the German, as Exhibit 323. The Keitel order was on the 15th of September. This order of the defendant Rendulic was transmitted on the 12th of September.

The Commanding General of the XVth Mountain Army Corps, General Lueters issues order to the Commanding General of the Italian XVIIIth and VIth Army Corps:

A) Organization of units, keeping Italian troops in their present billets, securing transportation and all heavy weapons and of all motorized vehicles (except 2 supply trucks per battalion)

b) Direction of return of Italian units to the localities ordered. Direction of the supply during the marches. Keeping up strict discipline.

4. Reprisal Measures:

A) In case of destruction or looting of arms, ammunition, fuel, supply depots, besides the culprits 1 officer of the Divisional Staff and 50 men of the Division concerned will be shot to death.

b) Any soldier selling or giving away Italian arms to civilians or destroying them without orders will be shot to death.

c) Any Italian soldier arriving at the entraining railroad station without arms left to him will be shot to death together with his responsible unit leader.

d) For any motorized vehicle which has been destroyed 1 officer and 10 men will be shot to death.

e) In case of excesses toward the civilian population, looting of agricultural products, cattle and the like, the culprits as well as a responsible officer will be shot to death.

5.) This order is to be transmitted immediately to all Divisions and corresponding units and to be published down to companies, batteries, etc.

6.) Every Divisional Unit and corresponding Corps Unit temporarily retains for his supply a 40 ton column. That cancels the subordination of Italian VIth Army Corps under the Italian 9th Army.

The order is signed by operation officer 2nd Panzer Army and your Honors will keep in mind the code numbers for this order; General Rendulic for the 12th of September, code number 127/43.

JUDGE CARTER: Do I understand that this order was sent out three days before the Keitel was transmitted?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: That's right; your Honor, the Prosecution contends this is an order which the defendant Rendulic sent out on his own initiative before he received orders from higher headquarters in Berlin.

Turning now to page 59 of the English, page 45 of the German, another order from the 2nd Panzer Army, to the XV Mountain Army Corps. Your Honors will also notice this order was also transmitted on the 12th of September 1015 hours and received on the 12th of September 1826 hours.

1.) Tonnage for the evacuation of the Italians from Zara by sea can not be secured within a reasonable time. Rations also in this way are a problem.

2.) XVth Mountain Army Corps immediately dispatches the Italian Units situated in the area of Zara-Split including with one responsibility suitable Italian Commanders, Commanders and Command

Authorities for leadership and supply on the march on Bihac, if necessary severest measures of compulsion and in case of refusal, reprisal measures (shootings to death) are to be applied.

Small arms as a protection against bands must be left to them. Continuous guarding by Luftwaffe whose immediate combat commitment in case of a possible running away of the Italians or of band attacks must be guaranteed, is to be secured.

3.) If the Italians remain any longer in the area of Zara it will be impossible to supply their rations. That must be made clear to them.

4.) Intention with time table is to be reported.

From 2nd Panzer Army, operation officer."

And, again, the code numbers 127/43, those which we have seen on the previous orders which appear on page 58 of the English and page 44 of the German.

Continuing now on page 60 of the English, page 46 of the German, we have an order by the XV Mountain Army Corps to its subordinate units, to SS Division and 114th Division and 373rd Division. This, if your Honors, please, is passing on of the XV Mountain Army Corps of the order which we have previously seen on the succeeding page, page 59 of the English, page 45 of the German. The text is almost identical. I think we needn't read it in its entirety. I again direct your Honors' attention to the language in the first paragraph of the order, beginning with the seventh line of the first paragraph:

"In case of refusal (application of severest coercive measures and/ or reprisal measures (shootings to death))."

Next on page 61 of the English, page 47 of the German, is another order by Corps Headquarters of the XV Mountain Corps dated the 12th of September 1943 to the SS Division:

If it is confirmed that after having been offered (the opportunity to) surrender in Split, Italians are carrying out destruction, the persons responsible are to be shot to death publicly as franc-tireurs and this to be published giving the reason.

Next on page 62 of the English, page 48 of the German, is an order of the 2nd Panzer Army to the XV Mountain Army Corps. Your Honors will note that it was transmitted on the 13th of September 1943 and received on the 14th of September, one day later.

Your Honors will note on page 63 of the English and 48 of the German the code numbers for this order, 131/43 which were the code numbers we have seen earlier on the Keitel order of the 15th of September. I simply call your Honors' attention to note the code number on this order 131/43. They will appear later and I ask you to note these numbers because they are distinct from the code numbers 127/43 which were the code numbers for the Rendulic order of the 12th of September.

OKW has ordered: "Subject: treatment of Italian Troop Unit turning over arms to insurgents and/or negotiating with insurgents. By order of the Fuehrer, the following procedure is to be applied with respect to any capture Italian Troop Units which have permitted their arms to fall into the hands of insurgents or who have cooperated with insurgents at all.

- 1.) The officers are to be shot to death by summary court martial procedure.
- 2.) Officers and men are immediately, if possible through (corrected mistake; leading) avoiding transit to the Reich to be sent East by AWA/Chief Prisoners Affairs to be at the disposal of the Army General Staff, General Quartermaster for labor employment.

"Implementation 2nd Panzer Army: All such cases are to be reported to 2nd Panzer Army.

We turn next to page 64 of the English, 49 of the German. This is simply a message to the 2nd Panzer Army with respect to the mistake in the transmission of the order which we have noticed in the parenthesis of the proceeding order. It is of no particular importance so I think we may pass on.

Turning to page 65 of the English, page 50 of the German, is another order from the 2nd Panzer Army to the XV Mountain Army Corps:

"Against Italian Combat Groups disarmed after having offered armed resistance in area Cattaro - Gruda.

"120th Infantry Regiment is to proceed ruthlessly with severest measures pursuant to Fuehrer order.

Report of execution requested."

And the order is signed by the operations officer of the defendant Rendulic.

Next on page 66 of the English, page 51 of the German, is a report from the SS Division Prinz Eugen to the Corps Headquarters of the XV Mountain Army Corps.

"Division Reports execution" and the report is signed Mountain Division, Prinz Eugen."

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, I'd like to ask that it be ascertained whether the translation here is correct. The german word "Durchfuehrung" has been translated as "execution". I am talking about page 66 of the English, Document, and page 51 of the German Document Book.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: That reference is made to the words "Division Reports Execution."

DR. LATERNSEER: Yes.

Mr. President, I did not get the answer of the interpreter.

INTERPRETOR: I said the word "execution" has two meanings; it means carrying out, and it also means an execution or hanging, but in this case it means carrying out. The German word is given in parenthesis in the English text just because the word "execution" has two meanings. In this case it means "carrying out".

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Very well, proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Continuing on page 67 of the English, page 52 of the German, is another order of the 2nd Panzer Army. Your Honors will note in the middle of the page, to the right: Sender: 2nd Panzer Army, middle of the page, XV Mountain Division, transmitted/19th of September, time: 1810 hours.

"Report immediately.

"a) Which Italian units are defending Split?

"b) What is exact enemy and own situation there, course of front lines?

"c) Does employment of dive bombers on water works of Split hold promise of success? No.

"d) What propaganda measures and threats of retaliation against Split are intended or have been carried out?"

And, again the order is signed by the operation officer of the 2nd Panzer Army.

Continuing on page 68 of the English, page 53 of the German, another order of the 2nd Panzer Army to the XV Mountain Army Corps, of the 20th of September:

"Because the Italian Divisional Commander of Korsika is treachorously continecis to withdraw the Fuehrer has commented that any kindness and comradeliness toward the Italian Officers is entirely out of place. That is why severe measures are to be applied everywhere as ordered several times before and the Italian Prisoners of War are to be sent marching ruthlessly even though local difficulties may have to be put up with.

2) The commitment of entire armed Italian Units in Croatian and Albanian territory is not permissible for any length of time. Those are to be dispatched as soon as possible to the entraining stations and to be disarmed. No objections exist to their employment in road construction and Prisoner of War Labor Battalions if sufficient German security is available. The employment of Italian volunteer helpers is also desirable.

Again the order is signed 2nd Panzer Army, Ia operation officer.

Continuing on page 70 of the English, page 54 of the German, your Honors will note this is also an order sent by the 2nd Panzer Army, XV Mountain Army Corps, transmitted on the 21st of September at 1235 hours. Your attention is especially called to order, Chief II, Panzer Army Ia, No. 313/43, Secret, 11 September and 2 Panzer Army Ia No. 131/43 Top secret.

Your Honors will recall the familiar code number 313/43 which refers to the Keitel order and the code numbers 131/43 which refers to the earlier Rendulic order.

"Care is to be taken that these orders get through to the subordinate unit and that they are carried out in the individual case without any scruples.

The shootings to death carried out pursuant to the two orders mentioned above are to be included in each case in the daily report stating name and rank of people shot to death."

Signed 2nd Panzer Army Ia, and on page 71 of the English, and page 55 of the German is an order of the XV Mountain Corps dated 23 of September 1943 to the subordinate units 114th Division and SS Division.

"The orders of Army Corps Headquarters XVth Mountain Army Ia, No. 775/43 top secret 14 September 1943 and Ia No. 4816/43 secret to be followed ruthlessly. Name and rank of people shot to death by summary court martial to be included each time in Daily Report."

Next on page 72 of the English, page 56 of the German is an order from the XV Mountain Army Corps dated Command Post 26 September 1943, to: the subordinate 369th Division and 373rd Divisions:

"Subject: OKW has ordered: treatment of Italian Troop units turning over arms to insurgents and/or negotiating with insurgents. By order of the Fuehrer, the following procedure is to be applied with respect to any Italian Troop Units after they have been captured which have permitted their arms to fall into the hands of insurgents or who have cooperated with insurgents in any way at all."

Then I think your Honors are familiar with the text of this order which we have seen on several occasions earlier and I think it need not be read at this time.

Continuing now on page 74 of the English, page 58 of the German, your Honors will note that this is a report from the SS Division as sender of the communication to its next higher headquarters, the XV Mountain Army Corps. The report transmitted on the 27th of September:

"Split 3 Generals, 300 officers and about 9000 non-commissioned officers and men (non-combatants) arrested. Is treatment of Italians according to last order.?"

The inquiry is signed by Ia operation officer, page 75 of the English, page 59 of the German, is the reply of the next day which the Corps sent to the inquiring division, teletype to SS Division transmitted 28th of September, for information 2nd Panzer Army:

"Proceed with 300 Italian Officers and 9,000 men captured in Split according to Corps Headquarters Ia 772/43 top secret," and the reference to the order of the 2nd Panzer Army with the code numbers 131/43.

Which Prosecution submits is reference to Rendulic order of the 13th of September which we have earlier noticed on page 62 of the English and page 45 of the German, part of this same exhibit.

Court No. V, Case No. VII.

Continuing now with the answer of the 15th Army Corps to the inquiry of the Subordinate SS Division on page 75 of the English and page 59 of the German.

"(Officers to be shot to death by summary court martial, non-commissioned officers and men to be deported East for compulsory labor employment). Prisoners are to be turned over separately for transport."

And the message is signed: "15th Army Corps."

Continuing on page 76 of the English and page 60 of the German is a message transmitted from the SS Division on the 29th of September, received the same day, 29th of September. The message directed to the Corps Headquarters of the 15th Corps:

"Secret. Italian General Cigala Fulgoui convicted again of being main culprit in delivering weapons to partisans and sentenced to death. Inquiry whether shooting to death is to be carried out here. Answer urgently. Simultaneously, directive for other accomplices."

And the message is signed by the Commander of the 7th SS (Prinz Eugen) Division, von Oberkamp.

Page 77 of the English and 51 of the German is a reply from the 15th Army Corps to the inquiry of von Oberkamp. To the SS Division:

"For information: 2nd Panzer Army.

"Comment by Army regarding shooting to death:

"Main culprits and accomplices are to be shot to death. Accomplices generally are: Older commanders and General Staff Officers. In case of doubt, there is no objection to a suspension of sentence. Evacuate innocent ones. Sentence to be carried out there."

The message is signed by the Corps Headquarters of the 15th Mountain Army Corps.

If your Honors Please, the prosecution submits that the words, "Comment by Army Regarding Shooting to Death," refers to an inquiry on the part of the 15th Mountain Army Corps to the Higher Headquarters, the 2nd Panzer Army, commanded by the defendant Rendulic.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Mr. Fenstermacher, we will pause here and take our recess until eleven-fifteen.

(A recess was taken).

Persons in the Courtroom will please find their seats.

Military Tribunal V is now in session.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed, Mr. Fenstermacher.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Before continuing with the present exhibit, which is 327, we should like your Honors to make one correction in your document book, which is on page 70 of the English, and page 54 of the German, as part of this very same exhibit. Dr. Laternser called my attention during the recess to the fact that there were four words left out of the English translation, in the English document book. This is on page 30 of the English, and it is the 4th line from the bottom of the page, the sentence beginning, "Death carried out", The words, "After summary court martial" should be inserted at that point.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: What is the page number again?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Page 70 in the English.

DR. FRITSCH, (for the defendant Rendulic): Your Honor, before we leave Exhibit No. 327, I would like to refer back to a short argument which Mr. Fenstermacher mentioned before with regard to the so-called Rendulic, because to this point one of the Judges made a special comment, because he probably thought it was important.

Mr. Fenstermacher said that the Rendulic order was issued before the Keitel order. This means on the own initiative, - of the defendant General-Oberst Rendulic, I must only point out that this argument is not correct.

On page 1 of document 910 -

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If your Honors please, I believe that this is a matter which can best be cleared up when the defense puts its case in chief.

DR. FRITSCH: Your Honors, I also think that this is an important question, but since Mr. Fenstermacher mentioned this point before when he presented the document, I would only like to draw attention to the teletype, the radiogram Exhibit 327 -- I would like to point out to this, from which it can be seen that already on the 11th of the month, 1943, that is before the Rendulic order, - the chief contents of the Keitel order was transmitted.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Consideration will be given to the remarks of counsel, and if the facts bear out the indication of the document, it will be considered by the Tribunal.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Continuing now, 78 of the English page, 62 of the German, part of this same Exhibit 327, to its subordinate units, the 114th Jaeger Division, and 369th and 373rd Infantry Divisions. The subject is, "Organization of Prisoners Construction Battalions": "Lack of construction troops compels extensive employment of prisoners of war for road construction, bridge building and similar purposes.

As soon as feasible, the Division will organize from the incoming Italian Prisoners a construction detachment up to 1800 men strong. Engineers suitable for the work mentioned above and Artisans/ are to be selected from the prisoners.

RESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Pardon me, Mr. Fenstermacher on which page is this?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: On page 78, Your Honor. Continuing now. "Possibly those prisoner detachments will later be exchanged for German Construction Troops. The prisoner construction detachments are to be equipped by the Division in such a manner as to be able to be committed at any time (Field Kitchens, most necessary supply vehicles, tent planes, blankets, etc.) Labor equipment (apades, etc.) can be requisitioned from Corps Headquarters.

Orders will be issued in due time concerning the German Guard Personnel.

The Organization of the prisoner construction detachment is to be reported to Corps Headquarters."

The order assigned "Pfaffmatt" For Corps Headquarters, The Chief General Staff.

Continuing now with the same exhibit on page 80 of the English, page 63 of the German, it is a message sent by the SS Division to Corps Headquarters of the 15th Mountain Army, message transmitted on the 1st of October 1943:

"Proceedings against Italian Officers, concluded.

On 1 Oct. an additional 45 Italian Officers of Division Bergamo were shot to death. Sentenced to death in absentia by summary court martial were: General Bacuzzi, Commanding Officer of Infantry Division Bergamo, Colonel Boschi Chief of General Staff, Division Bergamo, Admiral Bobesi Commanding Admiral Split. Records of investigation with courier. And the message is signed by the Operations officer of the SS Division.

On page 82 of the English and 64 of the German, Prosecution's next document, Document NOKW 1242, which is offered as Prosecution's Exhibit 328 This document represents an exchange of messages between the second Panzer Army and its subordinate 15th Mountain Army Corps, first as a communication from the 15th Mountain Corps dated, "Headquarters of the Corps, 6 October 1943."

"Subject: General Court Martial for Italian Officers."

It is sent to the headquarters of the 2nd Panzer Army commanded by the defendant Rendulic:

"1) Enclosed comprehensive folder contains as No. 18 the report of the commander of the SS Mountain Division "Prinz Eugen", about the General Court Martial which met on 30 September 1943 to confer about the treason charge preferred against the responsible officers of the Italian Infantry Division "Bergamo" at Split.

2) The General Court Martial sentenced to death 3 Generals and 47 officers named on the roster attached to this report. The sentence was executed.

3) On the basis of further investigations 9 additional Italian officers according to Daily Report of 3 October 1943, Ic No. 5221/43 secret, were found guilty of treason, sentenced to death, and shot.

Roster will be forwarded upon receipt.

4) Reference is made to documents No. 13 and 14 in the folder: The treaty to surrender arms, concluded by the Commander of the "Bergamo" Division and representatives of the Communists and the Anglo-American Military Mission.

5) Confirmation of the verdict reached by the General Court Martial is requested, and the assurance of its execution on the 3 fugitives also sentenced to death, General Becuzzi, Admiral Bobesi, and Colonel Boschi, in case they can be arrested.

(Handwritten initial)

Lueters.

The message is signed by Lueters, whom your Honors will recall is the Commander of the 15th Army Corps at this time.

Continuing now with the same Exhibit, page 84 of the English, 66 of the German, it is a message from the 2nd Panzer Army Headquarters to 15th Mountain Army Corps, transmitted on the first of October 1943:

"All Italian troops, or whoever else bearing arms, who still offer resistance, are to be presented immediately with a short-dated ultimatum, if necessary parachuted by the Luftwaffe. In this it is to be made clear that those commanders are responsible for resistance will be shot as being insurgents, if within the time set they do not issue an order to their troops to surrender arms. German headquarters will report on 5 October 1943, compliance with the ultimatum presented with indication what Italian troops were included in this.

2) Further reference is made to the Fuehrer Order concerning the treatment of Italian troops who let their weapons fall into insurgent hands, or have at all."

Now, if your Honors please, we turn to page 86 of the English Document book for the conclusion of the message:

"made common cause with the Insurgents."

It is signed, "Headquarters 2nd Panzer Army, 1a Section."

I think that that page may be missing from the German Document book, but should any of the German counsel wish to examine the original document and include any portions not included in this document book they may do so.

DR. LATERNER: Your Honor, on Page 66 of the German and on Page 83 of the English Document Book, there is the word "Freischuerler" in the original of the German text, translated as "insurgents." I think the translation is wrong because "Freischuerler" is a legal term, which should be translated as "franchiseurs" or "partisans." I would, therefore, ask that a correction be made in the translation.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: The document will be submitted to the Interpreter for such translation as it may require.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: We agree to that procedure, Your Honors, but I ask, Your Honor, if I can make one remark at this time. When Dr. Laternser or any of the other defense counsel has comments on the translation, will they simply say that they believe there is an error, and ask that it be submitted to the Interpreter, rather than suggest another interpretation. We believe that this suggestion has influenced, in some cases, whether the Interpreter would change the translation or not.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I think that procedure may be followed without violence to the ordinary rules of practice.

DR. LATERNSEER: I gladly agree to this.

MISSEVAND (German-English Interpreter): "Freischaerler" can be translated as "partisans" or "guerillas" or "insurgents."

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, since I don't agree with this translation, I would like to get information on the correct translation of the German word "Freischaerler" from the chief of the Translation Division.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I am sure there will be no objection on the part of the Tribunal to that procedure, and it may be submitted at such time as will be appropriate.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Turning now to Page 88 of the English, Page 68 of the German, is Document No. NOKW-721, which becomes Prosecution's Exhibit No. 329, the report from the 21st Mountain Army Corps to its higher headquarters, the 2nd Panzer Army--the Daily Report of the 9th of October 1943:

"Operation against Division Taurinense concluded in the main. Number of prisoners and amount of captured material still increasing.

Except for about 5 to 8 hundred Italians, who together with the partisans, have fled into the area northeast Nikaio, one need no longer count on the appearance of independent closed Italian units in the area of Risan Grabovo - Niksia. Bloody enemy losses amount to 4 to 5 hundred (estimated) dead, up to now 100 wounded. The number of wounded is probably higher. Reprisal measures were carried out against 18 officers, in particular commander and their responsible leaders. At the moment the number of captured and deserting Italians amounts to 3,780 and is still increasing."

MR. FENSTERMACHER: And the report is signed by the Ia Operations Officer of the 21st Mountain Army Corps.

Next, on Page 90 of the English, and Page 69 of the German, is Document No. NOKW-722, which becomes Prosecution's Exhibit No. 330. These are two reports from the 21st Mountain Army Corps to the 2nd Panzer Army. The first is dated the 12th of October 1943. "4 more officers of the Taurinense shot as reprisal." If Your Honors please, we believe that refers to the Italian Taurinense Division, which is mentioned on Page 88 of the English, Page 68 of the German, the document which we have just finished with. "The situation sharply south of Tirana requires larger operations within a short time. The well armed and well organized enemy standing here (approximately 1 to 2 thousand communists and 500 - 100 Italians) led by Commander Firenze represents a threat to Tirana which must be taken seriously." The report is signed by the Operations Officer of the 21st Mountain Army Corps. On the same page, both the English and German is "Activity Report No. 2 for the War Diary, from 1.10-31.10," and the entry for the 11th of October 1943 reads: "Pursuant to teletype, 2nd Panzer Army Hq IIa dated 10.10.43 (order OKH PA Ag Pl Chef Section (b) dated 4.10.43) General Bader is transferred to the Fuehrer Reserve OKH/peace-time garrison effective 10.10.43." And the entry for the 13th of October 1943: "General Bader leaving by plane. He is accompanied by Lieut. Colonel Meyer to Belgrade. Arrival of General of Infantry, Fehn, who is appointed as Commanding General of the XXIst Mountain Corps pursuant to the above order." If Your Honors will remember, this date, the 13th of October 1943, when General Fehn, who previously commanded the 15th Mountain Army Corps, is now being transferred to the Command of the 21st Mountain Corps.

We will see from later documents that the Defendant Leyser succeeded General Fehn, as Commander of the 15th Mountain Corps about this same time, 13th of October 1943. Continuing now on Page 92 of the English, Page 70 of the German, is No. NOKW-1244, which becomes Prosecution's Exhibit No. 331. This document is a series of reports from the 15th Mountain Corps to the 2nd Panzer Army, with respect to the execution of Italian officers. Your Honors will note that the first report is the Daily Report for the 14th of September 1943, and the distribution list is of interest. "To Headquarters 2nd Panzer Army," and we believe that means the 2nd Panzer Army. Your Honors, we submit that there has been a mistake in the translation. The words "PQNOKZ" appear in the original document, which we believe refers to the 2nd Panzer Army, commanded by the Defendant Rendulic. The Tribunal may wish to examine the original document. A copy of the report also goes to the "Headquarters Army Group F," which, Your Honors will note, at this time, was commanded by the Defendant Weichs, and his Chief of Staff was the Defendant Foertsch. Another copy went to "Fliegerfuehrer in Croatia." Another to "XXIst Mountain Corps", another to (IIIrd "Germn.") SS Panzer Corps", and a final copy to LXIXth Reserve Corps," which, Your Honors will recall, was commanded by the Defendant Dehner. Under the portion of the 15th Mountain Corps' report dealing with the IInd Croatian Corps...

DR. FOEHSE: Foehse for the Defendant Dehner. I would like to point out that when this teletype was handed to the 69th Reserve Corps, in the English text, on Page 92, there is also a comment that the letter was not sent because there was something wrong with the line. The Prosecutor probably missed this; I would like to point it out.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I have not finished reading the document, if Your Honors please. I was coming to that next. Your Honors will note on the left-hand portion of the page, Page 92 of the English, a handwritten note: "Cannot be dispatched since line is out of order." Under the portion of the report of the 15th Mountain Corps dealing with the IInd Croatian Corps:

"Ist Battalion 8th Infantry Regiment attacked by a strong band whilst marching to equipment changing station 3 km North of Raca. The battalion fought well. 4 dead, 15 wounded (2 officers); 47 enemy dead, 16 more enemy prisoners beaten to death by Domobranen." And the report is signed "Headquarters XVth Mountain Corps... 14 September 1943." Turning next to Page 93 of the English, Page 70 of the German, another report of the 15th Mountain Corps, dated 19 September 1943. This time, your Honors will also note that there are handwritten notations, but they do not indicate that the report was not sent to the distribution which appears in the center of the page, and which is again the same as on the original report. Copy to the "2nd Panzer Army", commanded at this time by the Defendant Rendulic. Copy to "Headquarters Army Group F," commanded at this time by Defendant Weichs, and as Chief of Staff, the Defendant Foertsch. And another copy to the "LXIXth Reserve Corps," commanded at this time by the Defendant Dehner. This is the Daily Report of the 19th of September 1943, and under that portion of the report which deals with the activities of the "SS Division 'Prinz Eugen'":
"Communists at Split frequently in Italian uniforms.

Italian officers and men fight with bands... In course of retaliation against Italian "Emilia" Division 7 officers were shot." Next, on Page 94 of the English, Page 71 of the German, the Daily Report of the same 15th Mountain Corps, with these same distribution lists with the copies of the report. The Daily Report of the 24th of September 1943, under the 373rd Division: "Strong forces of the bandits, supported by the population, are assembling in the area S. Bos. Krupa. Protected Signal Repair Squad attacked. 4 dead, 15 missing. Retaliations ordered." Looking now at the bottom of Page 95 of the English, Page 72 of the German, the Daily Report of the 15th Mountain Corps, as of 28 September 1943: "Situation: The main enemy forces in the area SPLIT withdrew to the DINARA Mountains, and parts to MOSOR in face of the SS Division's attack. The tenacious defense of the last days served merely to remove Italian booty.

Majority of Bergamo Division taken prisoner. 300 Italian officers will be executed according to martial law in compliance with the Fuehrer Order." And the portion of the report dealing with the SS Division:

"SS Division:

Enemy facing the Northern group withdrew towards Northwest and East. Weak rearguards still offered resistance. (Handwritten note: Hrvace 7 enemy trucks and 1 Armored Car destroyed.)

0700 the Division was ready to attack, had reached the outskirts of the town by 0800, and occupied SPLIT 0900. 300 Italian officers and 9000 Italian men captured. Details about SPLIT now known. Radio interrupted since 0100 28 September. Own losses on 26 September: 7 wounded, enemy losses: 187 dead counted, including 6 leaders."

The portion of the report dealing with the activities of the "373rd Division:

Mopping up completed in the area Southwest of Bos. Krupa. About 100 bandits fled to the wooded mountains in the Southeast. Communists' houses were burned. 15 enemy dead, 7 prisoners."

Next on page 97 of the English, page 72 of the German, report of the same XV Mountain Corps for the 1st of October, 1943. I call your Honors' attention to the portion of the report dealing with the activities of the SS Division:

"Executed according to martial law.

"Major General Pelligra, Corps Artillery Commander, XVIIIth Italian Corps.

"Major General Felgosi, Commander XVIIth Coastal Brigade.

"Major General Poticardi, Corps Engineer Commander, XVIIIth Corps."

Next on page 98 of the English, page 73 of the German, report of the XVth Mountain Corps for the 2nd of October, 1943, under the SS Division, "Case against Italian officers of the Bergamo Division concluded. On 1 October additional 45 Italian officers of the Bergami Division shot."

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, I now refer to page 97 of the English document book and page 73 of the German, The German words "standrechtlich erschossen" are on page 97 of the English document book translated as "executed according to martial law." I would like to query the translation since we have already received the official translation from the Translation Division.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: May it please Your Honors, that this is the word about which we have had a memorandum from the Chief of the Translation Division. I myself have forgotten the correct translation which Mr. Jacobs suggested but perhaps your Honors have a copy of the memorandum handy, or perhaps the interpreters know of Mr. Jacobs' recommendations on the translation of the word.

JUDGE BURKE: The memorandum to the Tribunal states, "According to expert opinion, "standrechtlich erschossen" should be translated 'shot after having been sentenced by a summary court martial'.

"2. It ought not be translated 'according to martial law,' as there is a difference between 'standrechtlich' and 'kriegsrechtlich'.

"3. 'Standrecht' may be a peacetime emergency measure; 'kriegsrecht' is not.

"(signed) Noah J. Jacobs, Chief Translation Branch, Language Division."

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I believe Dr. Laternser would be satisfied then if your Honors changed your books to read on page 97 of the English "sentenced to death after having been"--no, I suppose "shot to death after having been sentenced according to summary court martial."

JUDGE BURKE: Does that satisfy the requirement?

DR. LATERNSE: Yes.

JUDGE BURKE: It may accordingly be done.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Continuing on page 98 of the English and 73 of the German with the daily report of the XVth Mountain Corps for the 2nd of October, 1943, under the SS Division;

"Case against Italian officers of the Bergamo Division concluded. On 1 October additional 45 Italian officers of the Bergamo Division shot.

"The following were sentenced to death by Court Martial in absentia:

"General Bacuzzi, Commander of the 'Bergamo' Infantry Division.

"Colonel Boschi, Chief of Staff 'Bergamo' Division."

May I call your Honors' attention to the execution here of the Commander of the Division as well as of his Chief-of-Staff.

"Admiral Bobesi, Commanding Admiral at SPLIT."

"Losses: Operation Split (10 September - 27 September.)"

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, I regret I have to mention a translation again. On page 98 of the English document book, page 73 of the German, the German text reads: "45 Italian officers of the Bergamo Division shot." And the translation on page 98 of the English document book is "On the 1st of October, additional 45 Italian officers of the Bergamo Division shot." I would like a correction to be made of this mistake on translation.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Perhaps your Honor would pass the original document to the translators since the word "additional" may well have been omitted from the German document book, but perhaps be contained in the original photostat.

JUDGE BURKE: That proceeding will be taken.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I think this is on page 11 of the original photostat copy.

JUDGE BURKE: It is found under the daily report for 2 October 1943.

INTERPRETER: The translation in German - the translation from the original German reads: "On the 1st of October further 45 Italian officers of the Bergamo Division were shot."

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I take it there has been an omission from the German document book and it has not been correctly transcribed from the photostatic copy.

JUDGE BURKE: Does it represent simply an omission from the German document book?

DR. LATERNSEER: First of all, comparing the German original and the German document book, the difference is perhaps only an apparent one because the words "On the 1st of October, additional" would be crossed out in the original and therefore this can explain the version in the German document book.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I would suggest, your Honors, that the defense counsel insert in their document books the German word for "further" and then cross it out very lightly with a line. Your Honors may like to look at the actual condition of the word in question. It is a little difficult to tell whether the line is a scratch on the photostat plate or whether it is meant to be a crossing out of the word.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Our translation of it adds nothing to the sum of knowledge on the subject. Perhaps an agreement will be able to be reached with Dr. Laternser.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Continuing with the daily report for the 2nd of October, 1943, of the XVth Mountain Corps on the bottom of page 98 of the English, page 73 of the German, the German losses involved in the operation are listed.

Page 99 of the English, 73 of the German, the total losses are given and then paragraph 2, "Enemy losses: 1200 dead."

Bottom of page 99 of the English, page 74 of the German, is a supplement to the daily report for the 3rd of October, 1943, under the portion of the report dealing with the 114th Division:

"114th Division:

Landing operation on Osljak Island (4 km South Southwest of ZARA) unsuccessful in spite of large employment of artillery. Strong enemy in fortified field positions and bunkers.

SS Division:

Additional 9 officers of "Bergamo" Division executed according to martial law."

I take it there again if your Honors please, we should change our English copies to read as we did before "shot after having been sentenced according to summary court martial."

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: That should take care of the matter.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Next on page 100 of the English, 74 of the German, the daily report of the XVth Mountain Corps for the 5th of October, 1943, under the SS Division--this is on page 101 of the English, 74 of the German:

"Colonel Verdi ('Bergamo' Division) was shot in compliance with the Fuehrer order."

Continuing with the daily report for the 6th of October, 1943, 373rd Division, "Continued danger to railway Bos. Novi - Bihac. 3 more interruptions. Hostages arrested."

Next on page 102 of the English, 75 of the German, daily report of the XVth Mountain Army Corps for the 13th of October, under IInd Croatian Corps, "Increase in enemy pressure on railroad Derventa Doboje. Train set on fire, line temporarily interrupted. Railway base Southeast of Gracanica overpowered, 6 Germans, 36 Domobrans killed. Retaliation measure."

Next the daily report for the 14th of October, 1943, page 103 of the English, 76 of the German, "II Croatian Corps: Enemy from the area of Tuzla by-passed Gracanica in the North and South. Garrison withdrawn to defense position Southeast of Doboj."

Your Honors will recall the report of the 13th of October on the preceding page.

"In retaliation (yesterday's report) village burned down, 100 enemy dead."

Under the 373rd Division: "Bandit activity in the vicinity of Prijedor. Several clashes with small enemy groups (handwritten annotation: Bruvno) at Bos. Krupa, Bihac, Vrtoce, and Bruvno. In return for railway sabotage West of Prijedor 7 hostages arrested."

Next the daily report of the XV Mountain Corps for the 16 of October 1943, bottom of page 104 of the English, page 77 of the German, under SS Division:

"Near Metkovic 20 bandits were hanged for attempting to blow up railroad tracks.

Next the daily report for the 22 of October 1943, page 105 of the English, 78 of the German:

"373rd Division: Southwest of Bruvno explosives, propaganda, and ammunition captured. 3 bandits shot."

Next the report for the 27 of October 1943:

"373rd Division: Local fighting activity. Protected harvesting detachment attacked 6 km North of Lapac. Immediate search of wooded areas unsuccessful. 11 hostages taken."

Finally, the daily report for the 20 of September 1943, page 107 of the English, 79 of the German:

"373rd Division: Reconnaissance near Mazin, local engagement. 5 villages (strong points of the bands) set on fire by shelling and gasoline depot exploded hereby. Area Banja Luka: Nothing special to report."

This report, as were all the others, are those which the XV Mountain Corps sent to higher headquarters of the 2nd Panzer Army, signed by the Operations Officer.

We turn next to page 108 of the English, page 80 of the German, Document NOKW 053 which becomes Prosecution Exhibit 332. With the first two portions of the exhibit we turn temporarily to conditions in Serbia. Your Honors will recall with the re-organization of the Southeast Command which occurred in the end of August 1943, General Felber was brought in to become Military Commander Southeast and simultaneously Military Commander of Serbia. Your Honors will also recall that the defendant Geitner continued to be Chief of Staff of the defendant Felber as he had earlier been Chief of Staff to General Bader in Serbia.

I might mention in my remarks a defendant Felber the adjective "defendant" should be stricken, because, of course, Felber is not part of this proceeding.

This is the daily report of the military Commander Southeast of 4th October 1943, page 108 of the English, page 80 of the German:

"Serbia: Temporarily quieter.

"1) Communists (100) raided an agricultural school in Leskovac. Buildings burnt down, cereals were robbed, the Bulgarians did not intervene.

"2) In operations involving Bulgarians and German field -gendarmes district Uzice, 1 DM - bandit was shot 26 captured, houses burnt down.

"3) In Cacak 283 DM-hostages and 42 Communists were whot on the 1st of October in reprisal for a certain number of attacks carried out in the district of the F.K. 610 in which German and Bulgarian soldiers were killed."

I think we need not read the rest of the report. It pertains for the most part to operational and tactical details in which we need not be concerned.

Turning then to page 109 of the English, page 80 of the German, Daily report of the Military Commander Southeast for the 25 of September, 1943.

Serbia.

1). Political and enemy-situation unchanged. Continuous acts of terror by the insurgents of both parties against the civilian population and the local Serbian administration. Attacks of mobile guerillas against patrols of the occupation forces.

Continuous mobilization activity of the DM gangsin South-Western and Western Serbia and of the Communists in the Southern Leskovac sector.

2. In Bulgarian operations against DM-gangs in the sector North-east of Nisch 17 enemies killed, 4 captured, 35 houses and 200 alpine cottages burnt down, our losses, 2 men dead, 1 officer and 2 men injured.

3) Reports about an increasing number of dropped weapons and explosives in the vicinity of Uzice as well as the parachuting of 7 English Officers,

4). After having takne Bijeljina (Croatia) West-South West of Sabac, parts of the Croation 8th sharp-shooter Regt. escaped across the Brina, combat group of the 173rd reserve division from South and East were checking the advancing Communists.

5). 5 other members of the DM-Intelligence staff which was raided yesterday as well as members of the DM civilian staff, Belgrade, were arrested in Belgrade.

6). Montenegrin frontier: Between Sjenica and Duga Poljana the detail which was intended to reinforce the group Buerger with customs-frontier-service was attacked, 1 driver dead, 7 men missing, 3 men came back.

7). 1 enemy operational flight in the south-western Uzice sector. Under "Greece", the Military Commander Southeast reports:

Greece:

In Athens an increased communistic propaganda-activity by means of inscriptions on walls.

Croatia:

No report so far.

Next on page III of the English, and page 84 of the German is the daily report of the XV Mountain Army Corps Headquarters for the 28 September 1943.

Your Honors will recall that the XV Mountain Army Corps at this time was subordinate to the 2nd Panzer Army commanded by the defendant Rendulic.

"General situation: Mass of enemy forces in Split area retired before SS Divisions attack toward Dinava, some parts towards the Mosor mountains. The persistent defense of previous days only served for removal of Italian booty. Masses of division 'Bergamo' captured. 300 Italian Officers shot according to Fuehrer decree.

"114th Jaeger Division: Strong enemy forces, probably 6th, 8th and 10th Bosnian Brigade---"

I ask your Honors to note the reference of the Germans to the enemy units, 6th, 8th and 10th Bosnian Brigades.

"--beaten in the area Muc - Ramljane. Due to air interference no further news."

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor I would just like to ask which page of the document is now being read from.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: This is on page 84 of the German Document Book.

DR. LATERNSEER: I have found it. I would like to ask for the correction of a translation on page 84 of the German and 111 of the English Document Book. The German text runs, and I quote, (in German); the translation on page 111 of the English document book reads: "300 Italian officers shot according to Fuehrer decree." End of quotation. I would like to ask for a correction of the translation.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: We will follow the same procedure as we have adopted heretofore.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I am sending the original document to the interpreters for their version.

DR. LATERNSEER: Might I please have the original back in order to show the place.

INTERPRETOR EVAND: The translation of the original German reads: "300 Italian officers are about to be shot after having been sentenced according to summary court martial." "Are about to be shot."

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, I am very sorry; I have to object to this translation. "Werden" means in the future; I am very sorry I have to object to this translation, "300 Italian officers will be shot after having been sentenced by summary court martial."

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Does the court interpreter agree with Dr. Laternser's change?

INTERPRETOR EVAND: If it says "warden erschossen werden" it means "about to be shot" and that is also in the future.

DR. LATERNSEER: How then should this sentence read in the final version?

INTERPRETOR SCHARF: The original version of the translation should then read, "300 Italian officers, according to Fuehrer Befehl, are about to be shot after having been sentenced by summary court martial."

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: We are satisfied with the requirements of the situation. At this point we will take the usual recess until 1:30.

(A recess was taken until 1330 hours.)

AFTERNOON SESSION

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed, Mr. Fenstermacher.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: May it please The Tribunal, Your Honors will recall prior to the luncheon recess we were considering Document NOKW 053, which is Prosecution Exhibit 393. We were especially examining the daily report of the 15th Mount Army Headquarters, which is on page 111 of the English and page 84 of the German Document Book. The portion of the 15th Mountain Crops report dealing with the Jaeger and the SS Division Prinz Eugen:

1) Enemy evaded Northern group toward North-West and East. Weak rear continued resistance. Division started attack at 0700 hours, reached town-boarder at 0800 hours and occupied Split at 0900 hours. Captured 300 officers and 9000 Italians. Details on Split not available. Wireless connections interrupted since 0100 hours today. Casualties on 36 September: 7 wounded. 187 registered dead enemies, 6 of them leaders. Strong forces evaded into Moser-Mountains presumably well equipped with Italian guns, endangering future garrison troops at Split. Parts of the 1st Prol. Division block western and northwestern of Imotzki all roads leading to Sinj. Intension: Division follows and beats enemy forces in the Moser-Mountains. Forces: G.R. (mot) 92, 2 Btl. SS, 2 Art. Abt. II/92 ordered towards Dugopolje on 28 September. Concentrated forces join 29 September, action continues until 3 October."

I think we need not read the rest of this report except the reference under 369th Jaeger Divsn, which is in the last portion of pg 111 English, and page 84 of the German:

2) Local partisan activities in the area of Travnik, Kiseljak and Prozor. Position at Visegrad worse. Cetnics received more reinforcements, ostensibly also from Italians. 0900 hrs attack by 400 Cetnics, supported by artillery on Visegrad, repelled. 2 dead, 10 wounded. Casualties of enemy not available. Railroad Sarajewo - Wisegrad interrupted.

Turning next to page 118 of the English, which is page 82 of the German. This particular exhibit is assembled in an unchronological manner and that is why we are skipping from page 111 of the English to page 118, Page 82 of the German. This is the report sent by the 2nd Panzer Army, commanded at this time by the defendant Rendulic, of the same date as the previous report of the 15th Commanding Corps, 28 September 1943. The report on the 2nd Panzer Army was sent to the Plenopentiary General in Croatia, and also to the Military Commander of the Southeast. This is the daily bulletin for 28 September 1943:

3) At the XXI Mountain army corps (Geb. A.K.) over-all situation unchanged. In the district of the WV. Mountain army corps area, Split the enemy avoided the attack of the SS-Div-"Pr.E." by moving in masses in direction of the Dinara mountains, and in parts to the Moser mountains. Parts of the attacking groups are pursuing the enemy. 300 officers and 9000 enlisted men of the division Bergamo have been captured. Treatment according to the Fuehrer's order has been started.

And this reference, if Your Honor please, contained in the report of the Second Panzer Army, commanded at this time by the defendant Rendulic.

I think I need not read further, but pick up the report page 119 of the English, page 83 of the German, the report dealing with the Mountain Army Group and SS Division Prinz Eugen:

4) Partisan groups in the area Split avoided the progressing attack of the attacking force on Split by moving to the northwest and east. In Split resistance has been offered by weak rear-guards only. At 9:00 Split was seized. By small losses, 187 of the enemy were counted killed. The division is pursuing the enemy who escaped to the Mosor-mountains with the Gren.Reg. (mot.) 92, 2 Batl. SS-Div. "Pr.E." and 2 artillery corps. Enemy rear-guards escaping northwest towards the Dinara-mountains have been engaged in battle near Hrvace. Supplyroads leading from Sinj to the east are blocked by partisans.

Turning next to page 112 English, which is on page 86 of the German, we have the Daily Report of the 69th Reserve Corps for 28 September 1943.

That group was commanded at this time by the defendant Dehner. Paragraph I, "Position Unchanged:"

"On the 27 September, 0125 hours, an Army transport train hit on a mine on main line in the East of Ruma. The engine and 7 cars derailed. Both rails of line are blocked for the time being. (already reported). Action Kammerhofer: On 26 September during clearance of Belegie gendarmerie fired on.

Arrested 2 armed partisans. One arrested communist official committed suicide. 1 partisan dead, 34 hostages taken. No casualties on our own side."

I direct Your Honors attention to the manner in which the enemy units are described during this period.

"According to the Security Service the Communists divisions 'Wolves' and 'Panthers' have been requested from Bosnia to avenge the action Kammerhofer. In continuing clearance of area the North of the Blankamen Beska road unto the Danube, action resulted in the death of 8 enemies and captured 125 partisan-members. No casualties on our side."

The remainder of the 69th Reserve Corps Report contains for the most part professional and tactical details with which we are not concerned.

Turning next to page 120 of English and page 91 of the German we have the Daily Report of the same 69th Reserve Corps, this time for 4 October 1943. The defendant Dehner still in command of the 69th Reserve Corps:

6) Ia Guerilla warfare situation unchanged. Only one plot against protected railroad sections.

II. 173 Reserve Division

a) Police project Kammerhofer in Save Bulge was continued. The horse-drawn Police battalions hardly had any contact with the enemy. A motorized combat group consisting of 1 Police Armoured Corps, 1 Battery and one Engineer Company of the 173 Reserve Division advanced as far as the Save Loop Kupinskut (40 kilometers southwest of Belgrade.)

Small gerilla forces fled, taking along wounded and weapons of those killed in the swamp areas. Three gerilla camps destroyed. Own losses: one dead, one seriously wounded. Enemy losses: 31 dead; 47 prisoners. Booty: 1 rifle, one pistol, handgrenades, rifle munition, 2 bicycles, engineer equipment: 11 horses; Sanitary Corps material; considerable quantities of textiles and food.

In Prhovo (18 kilometers southwest of Ruma) Material of escaped guerilla bands safely guarded. After combing Save Bulge at Bechmen (18 kilometers west of Belgrade) country police guards, strength: 1:3; 100 employed."

Under Sub-Para. B of the 69th Reserve Report:

b) As measure of reprisal for assaults on railroads in recent days (refer to daily report of 1 October, figure IIc and daily report of 3 October, figure IIb) a total of 40 hostages were executed on the spot."

c) During night of 2 to 3 October passenger train hit a mine on main track near Grancenica (41 kilometers south-south-west of Bjelovar). Mail car and locomotive derailed. Traffic maintained through boarding other train; steps taken for levy of hostages at Gracenica and surrounding localities.

Continuing on page 122 of the English and, I believe, 93 of the German, under "69th Reserve Motor Transport, 173rd Reserve Division:

"As measure of reprisal for assaults on railroads 40 hostages were executed."

I believe this is on page 93 of the German.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: On what page?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Page 122 of the English, your Honor, the portion under, "173rd Reserve Division," which your Honors will recall is a subordinate unit of the 69th Reserve Corps Commanded by the defendant Dehner.

"As measure of reprisal for assaults on railroads 40 hostages were executed. Parts of I Don Cossack Regiment I undertook attack against village in 25 kilometers northwest Mitrovica occupied by guerilla bands."

Turning to page 115 of the English, page 88 of the German Document Book, we have a report of the 2nd Panzer Army, dated 4 October 1943. This is an operation reaction report which contains information -for the most part, matters with which we are not particularly concerned.

I call your Honors' attention, however, to the references throughout the report which refer to the size and location and descriptions of enemy units.

Turning next to page 123 of the English, page 93 of the German, Document NOKW-1552 becomes prosecution Exhibit 333. These are various extracts from the daily reports of army headquarters in Berlin, the OKH reports which the OKH compiled after having received various reports from the subordinate units in the field.

The first report is of the 27th of September 1943. Paragraph 3 of the report refers to the Balkans. There is nothing of particular interest for us under "Army Group E" which your Honors will recall at this time was commanded by General Loehr.

Dropping down to paragraph "b) Mainland: Mountain Corps:" We have a reference to events in Greece during this period:

"Corfu is firmly in our hands excepting the mopping up operation necessary in the northern part. On the Island of Ithaka (east of Kefallonia) mopping up operation under way. South of Coreia, an enemy ammunition depot destroyed, 50 bandits shot to death."

And the report is signed by Heusinger, who we will note has signed the remainder of the particular reports in this exhibit.

Next on page 124 of the English, page 94 of the German, is the daily report of OKH for the 30th of September, 1943. Again we are only interested in the portion of the report which deals with the activities of the various army units in the Balkans. Under "Serbia":

"The center of band activity continues to be in Southwest Serbia particularly in the area of Uzice. German and Bulgarian security Detachments were disarmed by superior DM bands who subsequently released the soldiers. During local operations, 27DM suspects were arrested and 38 bandits caught carrying weapons. 10 reprisal shootings."

Your Honors will recall that the defendant Geitner was Chief of Staff in Serbia at this time to the Military Commander Southeast and simultaneously Military Commander in Serbia, General Felmy.

Next on page 125 of the English, page 95 of the German, the OKH General Report for the 5th of October 1943, under "Balkans" - "Islands":

"Combat activity on Coo stopped on 4 October, 1315 hours; by evening a total of 600 English and 2500 Italians was captured. Enemy losses have not yet been reported. Own losses; 15 dead, 17 wounded.

"The Italian Commandant of the Island was shot to death. Advance elements of own transport ships have arrived in Piraeus on their way back. Mopping up has started of those elements of the Island Occupation Troops which have fled into the Mountains."

Continuing with the same report, on page 126 of the English, page 96 of the German, there is a portion which deals with the activities of the 22nd Mountain Corps which at this time was operating in the Western or Pyraeus section of Greece and was commanded by the defendant Lanz:

"Operation 'Spaghetti': Eastern combat group has forced enemy to evacuate Tepelea (50 kilometers southeast Valona) western combat group has taken Kuc (20 kilometers southwest Tepeline). Weapons and equipment taken in booty.

"One battalion (100 Jaeger Division) is advancing from Valena to Tepelene. In reprisal for the murder of the Regiment Commander, a village north of Phillipines was destroyed, its inhabitants shot to death."

That, if your Honors' please, is a report of the 22nd Mountain Corps Commanded at this time by the defendant Lanz.

Continuing on page 126 of the English, 96 of the German, the OKH report for the 10th of October, the only portion of the report in which we are interested, deals with the "Balkans " under "Army Group." On page 127 of the English, 97 of the German, is a report of the activities of the 68th Infantry Corps which is a subordinate unit of the Army Group E, operating in Greece, which was commanded at this time by the defendant Felmy:

"In reprisal for band attacks, 100 hostages were seized and several villages destroyed, northeast of Githion. Aracheva (20 kilometers west Levadia) was occupied. During mopping up in area of Melos (elements of 1st Panzer Division) minor enemy resistance.

"395th Administrative area Headquarters (Salonika): Band center on the upper reaches of the Aliakmon River mopped up. Strong, wellarmed band repelled with losses. Five villages, several depots with weapons and supplies destroyed. The Italians employed in this operation have proven themselves."

And then the section of the OKH report dealing with the 2nd Panzer Army which was commanded at this time by the defendant Rendulic under the title of the "2nd Panzer Army: Albania, Montenegro:

"118th Jaeger Division: Mopping up operation against remaining elements of the "Taurinense" Division still under way. One no longer has to count on the appearance of organized Italian units in the area of Kiksic, Risan, Grahove.

"Enemy losses: 400 to 500 dead, 5037 prisoners. Reprisal measures were executed against 18 officers. Captured Material up to now: 2000 rifles, 12 light machine guns, 31 heavy machine guns, 15 trench mortars, 2 guns, 1 anti-tank gun, considerable amount of ammunition and equipment of all kinds. Own losses: 11 dead, 97 wounded, 2 missing."

I direct your Honors' attention to a comparison of the German losses with those reported suffered by the enemy.

Finally, on page 128 of the English, 98 of the German section of the OKH reports under the "2nd Panzer Army," which deals with the activities of the 69th Reserve Corps Commanded at this time by the defendant Dehner:

"100 hostages seized for fire attacks. Two villages burned down. Attacks and acts of sabotage against trains, east of Bjelovar, southeast of Vincevei and railroad station southwest of Virovitica."

Next the report of OKH for the 11th of October 1943 under the only portion of the report in which we are interested: "Balkans, Army Group E, Islands:"

"The operation against Leres and the renewed attack against Sini have been delayed.

"Crete: A mopping up operation south of Rethymen is concluded, 50 bandits shot to death, weapons captured."

And the portion of the report dealing with the activities on the Greek Mainland, the activities particularly of the 68th Army Corps Commanded at this time by the defendant Felmy:

"The mopping up operation in the Helikon Mountains is concluded.

The destruction of the ammunition and supply depot and that of the band villages had deprived the bands of their mobility for the near future. Mopping up operation in the area of Molos was continued, resulting in losses to the enemy and in booty."

And a portion of the report dealing with Serbia where at this time, your Honors will recall, defendant Geitner was Chief of Staff to the Military Command in Serbia, General Felber:

"Communist sabotage against telephone lines, attacks on Communities, live propaganda activity and murder of political enemies. 30 DM reprisal shootings to death."

Finally on page 130 of the English, page 100 of the German, the OKH report for the 18th of October 1943, again we are primarily concerned in the portion of the report dealing with events in Serbia:

"Decreasing band activity. In reprisal for attacks on German border police patrols in the area of Administrative Subarea Headquarters 610 (Sabac) 100 D.M. hostages were shot to death and in Belgrade 150 Communist hostages were shot to death."

The report is signed, as are all the other reports, by Heusinger.

Turning next to page 131 of the English, page 102 of the German, Document NOKW-951 which becomes prosecution Exhibit 334, these are extracts from the War Diary of the 21st Mountain Army Corps for the period from the 1st of November to the 30th of November, 1943 during which time the defendant Leyser was commander of the 21st Mountain Army Corps. Under the section of the report which deals with the activities of the 100th Infantry Division --

DR. GROSSE)(Counsel for defendant Leyser): The prosecutor is mistaken. The defendant von Leyser was at that time not Commander of the Corps which is mentioned here -- Army Corps which is mentioned here.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honors, I'll prove that in the very next document book.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: The question of the report which dealt with the 100 Infantry Division:

"3 of the Communist ring leaders from Elbasan shot to death. All others arrested already marching to Struga. Reprisal measures are being taken against the two Italian colonels."

"(1 and 11a of the 9th Italian Army) captured near '505'" That, if your Honors please, refers to Count III of the Indictment, under paragraph 12.

"Conference of Commanding General with Oberfuehrer Schaefer Major Sattler and Captain Hausding regarding commitment and tasks of the SD. The SD will be at the disposal of the Government at the latter's request and on the other hand it will serve Corps Headquarters as a "feeler", however, it will not participate actively in the combatting of bands. Complete agreement is achieved in all questions, good cooperation is assured."

The activities of the SDG become important later on in this case, if your Honors please.

Now, on page 132 of the English, 102 of the German, continuing with the extracts of the War Diary of the 21st Army Mountain Corps:

"The Ia/ Corps Headquarters discusses with the Commander of the 522nd Grenadier Regiment, the execution of the large scale raid in Gross-Razzia in Durazzo and Shijak (operation "Hafenfahrt") intended for 20 November. All arrested Communists are to be sent to Concentration Camp Semlin, all other Italians to be collected in a work camp so as to be available later for labor for the fortification construction staff."

Beginning on page 133 of the English, page 103 of the German, the document which your Honors find there has already been introduced in evidence as Exhibit 318. We ask your Honors to strike it from your document book, and also from the index at the beginning of Document Book 13.

daily report of the 2nd Panzer Army dated 26 November 1943, under the 297th Jaeger Division. Your Honors will recall the 2nd Panzer Army at this time was commanded by the defendant, Rendulic:

"During mopping up of the territory northwest of Dedar 16 communists shot to death, 30 Italians taken prisoner. Reprisal measures taken against 6 Italian officers."

Under the portion of the report dealing with the 69th Reserve Corps, at this time the defendant Dehner, the activities of the subordinate unit of the 69th Reserve Corps:

"187th Reserve Division: In the area of Derventa surprise attack by a company of the 6th Mounted Cossack Regiment on 400 bandits in Italian uniforms."

On the last document in Document Book 13, page 137 of the English, 107 of the German, Document NOKW 293, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 336---

DR. LATERNER: Mr. President, may I have a look at this document before it is to be read.

Your Honors, I object to the presentation of this document.

The document bears, first of all, no heading. Second, there is no date; third there is no signature. Thus, I cannot ascertain who made this compilation, and who is responsible for it, and who signs for it. There are all three of the things missing which make up a document. I therefore object to its introduction.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If your Honors please, this is a captured document and it is now in exactly the same condition in which it was found. Here is a certificate of the Washington Research Analyst who found it, who states this, that he is forwarding to us from Washington 264 page report by Captain Kaiserlich of the German Army and Administrator of occupied territories divided into the sections in Croatia, Bulgaria, Slovakia, Roumania, Italy, Finland and Hungary.

Of the portion of the report which has been forwarded to us, we have used only the section dealing with Croatia. That is the document which is Court No. V, Case No. VII.

in question here now.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: For reasons heretofore assigned by the Tribunal the document will be admitted in evidence for whatever weight, if any, the Tribunal deems it may be worthy.

You may proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: The heading of this report is Croatia, and it will tell exactly what is happening in Croatia from the time of the German occupation of that country until the evacuation of German troops from it, in 1944.

Your Honors will recall that the period in which we are primarily interested at this time is the period during which the defendant Rendulic was Commander of German Troops in Croatia, and as Commander-in-Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army:

"Directly after the beginning of the German campaign against Yugoslavia (6 April 41) Croatia was proclaimed as an independent state (10 April 41) and as such was recognized by Germany already on 15 April 41.

"The basis of the German military cooperation with Croatia was Croatia's joining the Three Power Pact (15 June 41) and the Anti-Comintern Pact (25 November 41). On 2 July 41 Croatia entered the war actively against the Soviet Union; on 14 December 41, against the Allies.

"Already in 1941 the German Military Attache in Zagreb was appointed German General in Croatia for the unified concentration and representation of the interests of the German Armed Forces in Croatia. This office was later renamed 'German Plenipotentiary General in Croatia.'

"He was subordinated, without prejudice to his relationship of subordination as Military Attache, above all to the Chief of the High Command of the Armed Forces.

"The development of the situation however made it necessary at the end of 1942 to join all the German forces and offices in the Balkans in a unified manner under one person.

Accordingly, the Plenipotentiary General in Zagreb was also subordinated to the Commander in Chief South-East, created by Fuehrer Order 47 of 28 December 42 (from the former Armed Forces Commander, S.E.). (again without prejudice to his position as Military Attache)."

"The German Plenipotentiary General had the position of a Commanding General and executed the tasks and exercised the authorities of a Wehrkreis Commander with regard to all units and offices of the German Armed Forces in the Croatian area.

"The Plenipotentiary General had the following tasks:

(a) To represent the interests of the German Armed Forces to the Croatian government and the Croatian Army Staff and to make valid the requirements for the conduct of the war according to the instructions of the Commander in Chief South-East; with the Croatian Government. This applied especially, also to German proposals for the subordination of Croatian units and formations under the command of the commander of the German Troops in Croatia.

"(b) The Plenipotentiary General had further to guarantee Army Staff with the Croatian the smooth and successful accomplishment of the operational tasks of the Croatian Armed Forces. In the parts of the country occupied by German troops (there was first of all also an Italian zone of occupation, the whole Adriatic Coast) as well as in the area in which German troops operated (bandit combat) appertained especially thereto:

The distribution of the Croatian troops irrespective of the operation and the troop disposition within the operational territory.

"(c) Furthermore the German Plenipotentiary General had used his influence with the Croatian government, so, that the measures necessary for the pacification of the country in the territory of administration agreed with the interests of the conduct of war and the tasks transferred to the German occupational troops. The Plenipotentiary General had to place basic demands of this sort, in agreement with the German ambassador whose cooperation he also had to demand, in important military-political and administrative technical affairs.

"(d) Furthermore the Plenipotentiary General directed the new arrangement of the Croatian Armed Forces, representing and according to the orders of the Commander in Chief South East (up till then a special German inspector was installed).

"The Transport Base Hq., at Zagreb, the Croatian Intelligence Office, the Signals Officer of the German Wehrmacht, the War Economy Officer, and the Chief Administrative Office of the Wehrmacht in Croatia were incorporated and disciplinarily subordinated to the Plenipotentiary General for unified observation of the German military interests, without prejudice to their technical subordination. Administrative sub area Headquarters (725) and the Army Reconnaissance Service Group, as well as the German Liaison Staff with the 2nd Italian Army (Supersloda Command) were further subordinated to him.

"The German troops deployed in Croatia were not subordinated to the German Plenipotentiary General. They were subordinated rather to the:

'Commander of the German troops in Croatia', who was likewise subordinated to the Commander in Chief South East. The Plenipotentiary General and the Commander of the German troops were instructed to cooperate closely.

"The German Navy and Air Force maintained their own offices in Croatia. Like, the German Army, they endeavoured to set up of Croatian units, as well as to recruit Croatian forces for their own units. The Croatian soldier was known from the first World War from the time of the then K.K.

Austrian-Hungarian Army especially for his ability and endurance. The German expectations built up in this war were not fulfilled.

That was not founded on human material, but had political causes.

(a) In the formation of the Croatian state extensive consideration had to be taken for the Italian points of view.

(b) In the establishing of borders for the new Croatia, the borders of nationality were not taken into consideration. Instead of restricting Croatia to the part of Yugoslavia overwhelmingly settled with Croatian population, further parts of the Serbian territory, especially Syrmia, were incorporated into the new Croatia. Through this, not only conflicts of nationality resulted, but religious conflicts especially resulted, which were arbitrated also vehemently in the Balkans. The overwhelming Roman Catholic Croats carried on a sharp battle against the Pravoslavs. Between both groups stood the Mohammedans, especially numerous in Bosnia.

German military offices especially the Commander in Chief South East, the Plenipotentiary General in Zagreb, and the Commanding General in Serbia, attempted repeatedly to justify the settling of the border in a solution more just to the Serbian interests. That was, however, refused by the Fuehrer. Except for the Croatian government, the German Ambassador in Zagreb (SA Obergeruppenfuehrer Kasche) was the most vehement opponent to another solution.

(c) Instead of building up Croatia with the Farmers' Party (Dr. Matschek) predominating in the country, a dictatorship was drawn up with the emigrant group from Italy, of Dr. Ante Pavelitch, which had probably only an estimated five percent of followers in the country. The Farmers' Party was not unsympathetic to the German entry.

(d) The Croatian population which after 1919, after its incorporation into Yugoslavia, had carried on a fervent national struggle against Belgrade, had conducted a battle of somewhat passive resistance in the Yugoslav Army. By this, some of the previous Croatian soldierly virtues were killed off.

After the creation of the "Military Commander, South East", according to the Fuehrer Order 48 of 26 July 43 (see the work "The Army and the Occupied Territories") the German Plenipotentiary General was subordinated to the Military Commander, South East, since the Commander in Chief, South East, was to be made completely free for his coming combat missions.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: And, if Your Honors will note in the chart, you will see how we have indicated that subordination.

"So far as executive power was to be exercised in Croatia, in the territories occupied by German troops, because of the failure of the Croatian government to act, it was now exercised for the Military Commander, South East, by the Commander of the German troops in Croatia.

An "affirmative attitude of all German offices toward the Croatian state" was once more demanded by order of the Fuehrer through the Order of the High Command of the Armed Forces of 7 September 43, concerning the point of view of all responsible German Military offices in the Balkans and referred accordingly to the fact that concerning this, only the Ustachi regime of the Poglavnik (Dr. Pavelitch) would come into question. But in the meantime, however, the other political establishments in Croatia were no longer prepared to cooperate with Germany. They had either decided in favour of the Bolshevik tendency (TITO) or for the Allies.

The idea of a German military administration in Croatia for pacification of the country was discarded by the German political leadership in consideration of the Ustachi regime.

(In contrast to the attitude of the German ambassador in Zagreb (Kasche) the Political Special Plenipotentiary of the Reich for the Balkans (Dr. Neubacher) agreed especially also in Croatia with the demands of the responsible German commanders in the Balkans after a revision of the German political course. He, however, was not successful.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: And that, if Your Honors please, completes the presentation of the documents in Document Book No. 13. Mr. Rapp will continue with the presentation of the documents in Document Book No. 14.

DR. SAUTER: Your Honor, Dr. Sauter for the defendants Lanz and von Geitner. I think it is a matter of principle how far a document like the previous one can be admitted. The Tribunal has ruled that this document is admissible; however, I'd like to point out that we of the defense have, so far, not heard of the date this document, who it is addressed to, and, above all, where it originates. From the index I can see -- the index which is on the first page of the Document Book 13 -- that in the last number there it says it's a report of Captain Cartillieri, that is page 3 of the index. Irrespective of whether this document which has just been read has a special meaning or is of special importance or not, in my opinion it is the certain duty of the Prosecution to tell us who the author of this is. The Prosecution must know that, for the index shows that a certain Captain Cartillieri is allegedly the author of this document. And I am of the opinion that in the future, as well as concerning this document, it is necessary that the Prosecution tell the Tribunal, as well as the defense, who is the author of such a document. This is a question which will probably come up again in other similar reports which probably will be more important concerning other documents, and, therefore it has to be clarified somehow.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If Your Honor please, I think the Prosecution has already given to the defense and to the Tribunal all the information which it has concerning this document. We received it from Washington with a certificate of a research analyst in Washington, stating that it was part of a 260-page report by Captain Cartillieri of the German Army on the administration of the occupied territories. That is all the information we of the Prosecution have on it.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I think the ruling heretofore made by the Tribunal in respect to this type of document will still hold good in the present instance.

I think it is obvious to Dr. Sauter, and it must be to the Prosecution, that the acceptance of the document in evidence was accompanied by the statement that such weight would be given it, if any, as the circumstances seem to require.

DR. SAUTER: Then, as defense counsel, I can assume from this attitude of the Tribunal, that in the future the defense also will have the right to put in its evidence some kind of reports which do not show clearly, and without the defense having to show, when this report was made, by whom, and for what purpose, because whatever the Prosecution claims as its right, the same rights go for the defense. I, therefore, assume that in the future, we will also have the right to put in such reports as evidence, and that the Tribunal will accept these in the same way, and under the same circumstances.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: It would be a little difficult, Dr. Sauter, at this time, to answer in advance a ruling covering the type of evidence that the defense desires to submit. I am certain that at the time it is offered, such ruling that the Tribunal will make will be one that is just and fair and equitable under the circumstances.

DR. SAUTER: I thank you.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed, Mr. Rapp.

MR. RAPP: If the Tribunal pleases, the Prosecution is now presenting Document Book No. 14. This Document Book, Your Honors, will deal with the period, August 1943 to December 1943, inclusive. It will primarily emphasize the military picture in Croatia at that time. But there will be several documents pertaining to the picture in Greece. The defendants involved in relation to this evidence are the Defendants Weichs, Foertsch, Rendulic, Leyser and Lanz. Your Honors, our first document, which you will find on Page 1, also on page 1 of the German Document Book, is Document No. NOKW-1391. It will become Prosecution's Exhibit No. 337. There is before us a document from the Air Liaison Officer, dated on the 25th of August 1943, addressed to the Commander of German Troops in Croatia.

And on Page 2, Your Honors, this being a TWX telegraphic message, you will find the statement, "There are communists in black uniforms newly arrived from Skender Vakuf." And then it gives various priorities and numbers affixed to the TWX. Your Honors, if you turn to Page 3, also page 3 of the German Document Book, we will find a document dated 31 August 1943, which is Document No. NOKW-1423, Prosecution's Exhibit No. 338. This, again, Your Honors, are various telegraphic messages sent to the Headquarters of the 15th Mountain Corps, and at the bottom of the page it states that "In Trilica 55 kilometers South of Vakuf, 20 pack-animals and about 50 men some of whom in gray uniform." And then, Your Honors, on August 29, 1943 another TWX on Page 4 of your Document Book, also defense counsel's Document Book Page 4, we find this Daily Report stating, "Own reconnaissance established that the band reported on 28 Aug. in Oberak (5 kilometers North of Ulog) was not the group Vlada Segrt but it is assumed that it was the Herzegovinian Brigade." Your Honors, if you now turn to Page 6 of your Document Book, NOKW-076, which becomes Prosecution's Exhibit No. 339. Defense counsel will find this on their Page 5. This, Your Honors, is once again a teletype message sent on the 17th of September, 1943 and it is addressed to the German General Plenipotentiary in Croatia, General Glais - Horstenau, and it is sent by the Operations officer of General Rendulic, who at that time commanded the 2nd Panzer Army.

You are requested for information as to what measures are being taken in order to prevent the further dissolution of the Croatian Wehrmacht. The 2nd Panzer Army believes the best means would be reprisal measures against family members of the "Traitors to their Country" to stop further desertion of the Croatian Units and the subsequent dissolution of the Croatian Wehrmacht.

2nd Panzer Army Ia And then various illegible signatures certifying to its being a true copy.

On page 7, Your Honor, there is a report from the 1st Mountain Brigade about the subject of treason and desertion of Major Bradac Milan. It is dated the 17th of September, 1943. This unit belonged to one of the non-German units fighting with the German armed forces in the Southeast Area. It is addressed to the Group West, for information: Minister of the Armed Power.

On 14.9.1943 at about 2200 hours the Commander of the III Battalion of the 7th Regiment Infantry, Major Bradac Milan ordered the Company Commander of the 3rd Company of the IIIrd Battalion of the Vth Mountain Regiment Lieutenant Rukavina to march with his Company in the direction of Kriz Since Kriz and the train coming from Zagreb were being attacked.

Lieutenant Rukavina accepted the order and when he marched out of Popovaca he went to see Sergeant Sol and said to him that this seemed suspicious to him, that they were betrayed and that caution seemed indicated.

For this reason Lieutenant R. did not march in the direction ordered but changed the direction.

After the 10th Company had marched off, at about 0030 hours loud firing could be heard from the direction which the Lieutenant had been ordered to take. But this fire was only staged by the partisans in agreement with Major Bradac. Thereupon Major Bradac ordered the 9th Company from Popovaca to go immediately to the assistance of the 10th Company.

When the men had assembled in front of the Company Office partisans came from all sides. About 300. Company Commander then told his people: "Now other times have come, for two years now we have been fighting for nothing".

Then Major Bradac ordered the collection of all arms and equipment and had them loaded on to vehicles, which was also done. And then he marched off with the partisans in the direction of Garic with the 9th Company which had been taken prisoner in this way and with detachments of the Machine Gun Company.

When the Domobranes realized that they had been cheated and betrayed, some of them cried in despair, others again seized the first opportunity to flee with their arms, so that up to now 10 men with 1 light machine gun and 9 rifles have taken to flight.

There were a few who resolved to kill Major Bradac but they were unsuccessful because of the great caution and protection by the partisans.

According to statements collected up to now more than 100 men refused to join the partisans.

In Garici Major Bradac made a speech to the Domobranes asking all of them to remain with him but he did not succeed.

From the above it is clear that Major Bradac as a Commander of the III/5 Mountain Regiment had prepared and executed with forethought the betrayal of the units of the Battalion from Popovaca which were subordinate to him.

He ordered the 10th Company from Popovaca to go in the direction of Ludina-Kriz where an ambush of 3 partisan battalions had been established. Now if the Company had marched in this direction it certainly would have been annihilated.

This Company was sent into the ambush only because of the fears of the Commander that his intentions would be frustrated and that is why the Company was to be annihilated.

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, I can not understand what the document is supposed to deal with this trial. It is purely a Croatian matter and I don't know what we have to do with such a document. I, therefore, object to its introduction.

MR. RAPP: If the Tribunal pleases, the purpose of this document, Your Honor, is closely connected with the previous documents I have read to you into the record showing how the Commander-in-Chief of the II Panzer Army intended to punish deserters of the so-called Croatian volunteer army fighting with the Germans.

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, something is brought into a connection here which can't be put into connection. It is an order of the Panzer Mountain Army which has been read whereby it had been recommended that it would be the best means to make reprisals against relations of deserters. But that this recommendation of the Panzer AOKII, can have any connection with the document which has just been read, does not show clearly at all because the report which has been read is likewise of the 17th of September, so that an order of the AOK-II given on the 17th of September or rather a recommendation cannot have any effect on that same date in Kutina. That is purely a Croatian matter which has nothing to do with this trial.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Toward what defendant or defendants are you directing the offer of this alleged proof?

MR. RAPP: To the defendant Rendulic, Your Honor.

Your Honor, the Prosecution cannot ascertain if such occurrences have happened prior to the issuance of the order by the then Commanding General, of the II Panzer Army, defendant Rendulic. We would like to ask the Tribunal to accept this document into evidence and give it such weight as the Tribunal may feel it right to give, if any.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: For the time being, the motion of Dr. Laternser will be granted with the Understanding that later, if the prosecution may present some type of more formal, and legally recognized proof, it will be admitted but until that time the motion will be granted.

MR. RAPP: The next document, Your Honor, will be Document NOKW880 which will become Prosecution Exhibit 339 – and the previous prosecution Exhibit being 339 is deleted. Is that agreeable to Your Honors?

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: That is agreeable with the Tribunal.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, I just have been advised that only a portion of this document which previously was introduced as evidence, 339, has not been accepted. Is that correct, Your Honor?

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: The whole exhibit was included within the scope of the ruling of the Tribunal.

MR. RAPP: Very well, Your Honor. Your Honor, NOKW-880 will now become Prosecution Exhibit 339. This is a document dated 3 August 1943, an excerpt from a War Diary of the 1st Mountain Division which at that time was a part of the XXIIInd Mountain Corps, commanded at that time by the Defendant Lanz. It states:

Paragraph 4) Carrying out security:

Suspicious male civilians are to be shot if they carry arms; otherwise, they are to be arrested and transported to Joannina.

For the Division HQs The Second General Staff Officer (signed) Brannerer Major General, General Staff Corps.

Distribution, and finally the official seal of the Division.

On page 11, Your Honors, this document continues. This is page 8 and 9 of the German document book, and it says, under paragraph 6:

Security of the convoy by means of a civilian truck occupied by hostages:

In front of the security truck, a civilian truck occupied by hostages is to go every day, which will force anti-mine blockades to explode and will accordingly warn the security trucks in time.

And this is signed "Hageneinder".

And at the bottom of page 11, which is page 9 of the German document book, Your Honor, we find a subject pertaining to the quarterly ration report and it again comes from the 1st Mountain Division and it states, on the prisoner-of-war affairs: "All together, 2400 PW's and hostages were held in custody by the Field Gendarmerie in its jail and collecting points within the Division area and evacuated from there to the rear."

That is signed for the Division Headquarters for the Second General Staff Officer. This, Your Honor, concludes NOKW-880, Prosecution Exhibit 339.

Court No. V, Case No. VII.

Your Honors turn to page 13; this will become Prosecution Exhibit 340, NOKW 509

DR. FROSE: Before the documents being read may I please look at it.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Will you repeat please.

DR. FROSE: May it please your Honor, may I look at the photostat before the document is to be read?

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I am sure counsel will afford you the courtesy.

MR. RAPP: Very well.

DR. FROSE: (Attorney for the defendant Dehner) May it please your Honor, I will have to object to the introduction of this document. The document shows a heading, "General Command 69th Reserve Corps", but no address; it does not show to whom this order is addressed. It shows no signature, but starts immediately with several enclosures. In the further course of the document, in the German version, there is a name turned out which is signed, the Chief of Staff for the 69th Reserve Corps as Nebenbach. There was never an officer "Nebenbach" in the 69th Reserve Corps, I have to contact the authenticity of this document and I have to object to its introduction.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: For the information will you please state the exact page of the English document and the location of the name referred to.

DR. FROSE: Page 14 is the end of the communication of the 69th Reserve Corps. It has no signature in the English oh page 14.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: The signature is illegible, is it not?

DR. FROSE: In the German text that is not so.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: In the English text I find the following:

"Certified to be a true copy, Corps Headquarters, dated 2.12.43, signature illegible, Captain."

DR. FROSE: I beg your pardon, your Honor, that is the signature for the enclosure to the alleged order of the 69th Reserve Corps, and not to the main part of the communication, page 13.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: For the reasons already assigned by the Tribunal with respect to this type of offered testimony it will be received.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, on page 13, we have a letter from the High Command of the Wehrmacht, Fuhrrer Headquarters, dated 18.8.43. It makes reference to the Chief of Staff of the High Command of the Wehrmacht, WFST/Organization II, No. 02958/43 secret dated 8.7.43.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Will you permit us to interrupt. Will you be kind enough to hand to the Tribunal the document in question? Thank you.

MR. RAPP: You are very welcome, your Honor. The document states:

"In order to clarify any doubts in connection with the order pertaining to the treatment of prisoners taken during the combatting of bands in the East and Southeast the following directives for the execution of No. 4 of this order are issued in agreement with Reichsfuhrer SS and Chief of the German Police:

"1) All members of bands surrendering or captured in combat wearing enemy uniform or civilian clothing are to be treated as prisoners of war. It is within the discretion of the Hq's authority or the local troop leader in accordance with a given situation to treat as prisoners of war also, those persons found in the immediate combat area against whom no combat action can be proven but who are considered as the accomplices of bands.

"2) Excepted from the treatment as prisoners of war are: members of bands - regardless of how they are dressed - who report with or without arms to a German or allied unit outside of combat action. They are to be treated as deserters.

"b. Members of bands captured in a German or allied uniform (not deserters). After thorough interrogation they are to be shot.

"3) Commanders having the rank of at least that of divisional commander are empowered in cases of particularly malicious procedure on the part of bandits or their accomplices to issue precautionary directives not to take any prisoners or, respectively, that prisoners and the population captured in the combat area may be shot.

Without adequate orders, local commanders will act accordingly on their own responsibility. The Chief of the High Command of the Wehrmacht signed Keitel "Addendum High Commander Southeast Figure 4 mentioned above reads as follows:

4.) Male prisoners from 16 to 55 taken during combatting of bands in the operational area, the Army area, the East Kommissariat, the Generalgouvernement and the Balkans are to be considered prisoners of war in the future. The same applies for these men in the newly conquered territories in the East. They are to be transferred to prisoner of War camps and from there to be sent for labor employment into the Reich.

Certified to be a true copy Corps HQ.

dated 2.12.43.

Captain" Your Honors the next page, page 15, we will find a letter from the then Commander in Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army, the defendant Rendulic issued from the 15 of September 1943 at his Army Headquarters.

The letter is:

"Intelligence Offices(III) Registration No. 39/43 secret.

Subject: Combatting of bands, reprisal and evacuation measures.

I. Band activity within the area of the 2nd Panzer Army is growing everywhere to a serious threat endangering, in particular, the entire supply where the troops lack the necessary severity toward each individual bandit.

II. Hence I order to the troops subordinate to me

1) All operations against collective bands or against individual bandits are to be executed with ruthless severity.

The unit employed in band combat is not to be satisfied merely to chase away the bands but it must attempt again and again to exterminate bands or at least parts of them. Of course the plan of the operation is to take this request into account.

2) "The severity of the fights against the cunning enemy often makes it impossible to bring in prisoners without endangering one's own men. The precautionary directive under No. 3 of the OKW order below not to take prisoners will frequently become necessary against the bands in the Serbo-Croatian area. Should the individual bandits nevertheless be captured alive by our own troops they are to be treated in accordance with the attached order of the OKW/WFSt/Operation (N) No. 3408/43 secret, dated 18.8.43.

3) "On the other hand another medium to reduce the bands is applicable, having proven its value of the Eastern Front: propaganda to induce desertion. This propaganda has to be carried into the homes of the population, (women and parents of the bandits who are in danger of losing their houses, or who may become hostages, if the bandit does not desert in time). The bandit is to be given an opportunity to desert; outside of combat action, with the assurance of good treatment and the description of the foolishness of band combat by leaflet and by the propaganda of confidential agents (V-Mann).

"A well organized reception organization and careful counter intelligence measures a necessary for that. The numbers of deserters will increase when people start talking about the good treatment and food the deserters receive.

"Bandits deserting only during battle cannot count on any favors. The divisions are to report the number of deserters of the preceding month or the first of each month. They are also to inform the Corps HQs of executed or intended measures to increase the number of deserters. On the 8th of each month the latter will submit a collective report to the Army Ic.

"4) In territories permeated by bands in which attacks are to be expected and also in the areas where attacks have occurred the arrest of hostages from all classes of the population is a successful means of intimidation.

"As hostages are to be considered primarily:

- a) The dependants of members of the band
- b) persons guilty of having assisted bands
- c) Other suspicious persons The Population of the territory concerned is to be informed of the arrest of hostages and to be told that the hostages will be shot at the first attack which occurs.

The threat is to be put into effect immediately if the attack is executed.

(A recess was taken)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed, Mr. Rapp.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, prior to the recess we were on page 17 of your document book and we are now approaching paragraph 5 of this document.

"Attacks on German members of the Wehrmacht and damages to warimportant installations are to be answered in every case by the shooting or hanging of hostages and the destruction of surrounding villages which latter is to take place, if possible, after the arrest of the male population inform the German authorities if bandits collect so as to avoid reprisal measures.

"Unless in individual cases different orders are issued, the rule for reprisal measures is;

1 German killed 50 hostages 1 German wounded 25 hostages."

Your Honors, in the original document we have also the words, "shot or hanged" after 1 German wounded and "25 hostages"; and then it says "shot or hanged." I would kindly ask the Tribunal to enter this on your document book and I will also hand the document to the court interpreter for proper authentication, if that is agreeable to the Tribunal.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: That may be done.

INTERPRETER: The translation from the original German is as follows: "Unless in individual cases different orders are issued, the rule for reprisal measures is:

1 German killed 50 hostages 1 German wounded 25 hostages shot or hanged."

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Is it agreed that that represents the translation of the German text? The correction may be made.

MR. RAPP: "Kidnapping of a German will be considered equal to killing a German unless the kidnapped person does not return within a definite period. According to the severity of the attack a hundred hostages may be hanged or shot for each attack against war essential installations.

The reprisal measures are to be executed if the culprit is not caught within 40 hours.

"Where possible, reprisal measures in Croatia are to be executed by Croatian police under the supervision of executive bodies of the Secret Field Police of the Field Gendarmerie, or the SD, but in no case is it permissible that a delaying of measures by the Croatian authorities creates a disadvantage to or imperils German soldiers. In urgent cases the responsible leader has to act independently. The execution of reprisal measures with the reasons therefore is to be made known to the population by leaflets.

"The Divisional Commanders or independent Regimental Commanders are to issue orders for the arrest of hostages and for reprisal measures. These commanders decide whether the reprisal measures are to be executed at the scene of the action or in prison camps. Arbitrary excesses of subordinate authorities and of individual soldiers are to be prohibited. The arrest of hostages and the execution of reprisal measures is to be contained from time to time in the Daily Report of the 2nd Panzer Army.

"Male inhabitants aged from 15 to 60 years are to be evacuated from those band infected areas which are particularly important for the conduct of the war. At first they are to be collected in work camps under guard. The Army will order further employment for labor. The evacuations are to be executed by surprise action in order to avoid a previous flight of the population.

Areas to be evacuated are: the country neighboring on important heights of passes and roads of passes sectors along railroad tracks which are particularly in danger, etc.

"Intentions to execute evacuations are to be reported by the Corps Headquarters to the 2nd Panzer Army Ia and 2nd Panzer Army OQU., 1 copy each."

Signed: "illegible signature" and then "Signature General of the Infantry. Certifying the correctness of the copy: Corps Headquarters dated 2.12.43. (Signature illegible) Captain. Distribution: PP."

Your Honors, on the next page, page 19, page 10 of the German document book, we find a letter from the "Corps Headquarters 69th Reserve Corps, Operations Officer No. 1078/43/1074 secret II.A. "dated 23rd of September 1943, at a time when the defendant Geitner commanded the 69th Special Purpose Corps.

This letter implements the letter which the defendant Geitner received from the defendant Rendulic which was previously read into the record. The reference is: "The Commander in Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army Intelligence Officer III, Registration No. 38/43, secret, dated 15.1.43; To Corps Headquarters 69th Reserve Corps, Ia No. 1078/43/1074 dated 19.9.1943."

"To supplement the order previously issued by the Commander in Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army, the following has been ordered.

"1 to 3) Propaganda to induce desertion.

"a) Suggestions for leaflets are to be submitted to the Corps HQ's by the division before 5.10.43. Soldiers of all grades (newspaper men and publicity experts, teachers, professors, etc) are to be interested in suggesting these drafts. The best leaflets will be printed by the Corps HQ's and will be dropped over the band territory in the German and Serbo-Croatian languages. A punctual report on the 1st of each month is to be observed.

"b) The Corps HQ's will apply to the Army for monetary rewards in return for timely reports of intended attacks and for information on the hiding places of the bandits. These monetary rewards are to be paid. If these attacks are frustrated and if bandits are found in the hiding places. Monetary rewards also are to be paid for turning in of arms, ammunition and explosives. Special suggestions for leaflets concerning these monetary rewards are to be submitted to the Corps HQ's.

"II. to 4, 5 and 6 Hostages.

"a) Divisions are requested to report the number and location of hostages in their custody or in the custody of the units before the 1.10.43. They will submit lists showing name, age, sex, profession and place of resistance.

In taking hostages close cooperation with the German and Croatian police? with the SD and the Croatian authorities is requested in order to avoid affecting circles of the population which have nothing to do with the bandits. The wishes of the Croatian authorities to arrest certain persons as hostages are to be granted as long as no particular reasons exist to the contrary.

"a) The divisions are requested to report before the 5.10.43 which territorial sectors are being evacuated, together with a time table of evacuation. At the same time it is requested that a report be made in which work camps the male inhabitants between 15 and 60 are collected, together with the number.

"b) Reports concerning the taking of hostages and the execution of reprisal measures are to be contained in the Daily Reports from time to time."

And then there are some handwritten illegible notes: "War Diary No. 1 (?) 69th Reserve Corps? 46521/4."

Your Honors, if you will kindly turn to page 21 of your document book 15 of defense counsel, we will find another letter from the 69th Reserve Corps at that time under the command of the defendant Dehner dated 6 October 1943:

"Subject: Combatting of bands, reprisal and evacuation measures."

Then there are references:

"1) Corps HQ's LXIX Reserve Corps Ia No. 1078/1074/43 secret II Ang.

2) 187 Res. Div. Ia/E Az. 5 General No. 7613/43 secret, dated 27.9.43

3) 173 Res. Div. Ia No. 930/43 secret dated 29.9.1943."

These are units within the 69th special purpose corps.

"I. Regarding installation of reprisal camps at evacuation camps we refer to Figure 4.) of the order "The Commander in Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army.

The Army has issued orders that captured members of bands, hostages and evacuees are not to be transferred until further notice.

II. The Army requests an exact report of the territories to be evacuated with a time-table of evacuation attached. Only males from 15 to 60 are to be evacuated but no old men, women and children, as the 187th Reserve Division supposes. This will do away with objections the 187th Reserve Division has voiced regarding the erection of camps. As a result of the evacuation many buildings in the villages on the railroad tracks will be made free, or they could easily be emptied by consolidating old men, women and children in billets. Without much effort and additional construction the evacuees and the hostages are to be billeted in these buildings.

Of course the camps of the evacuees are to be kept separate from those of the hostages – since the first mentioned are to be considered free workers. As ordered previously only such persons as are politically suspect, or whose relatives are proved to have joined the bands or those who cannot or do not wish to give any information as to where their relatives are, are to be taken as hostages.

Croatian soldiers to whom a German cadre is assigned may be used for guards. A German officer or non-commissioned officer must always be the camp commander. Officers having been promoted from non-commissioned officers will be particularly suitable as commanders.

The Communities are to supply rations for the evacuees until other rules are prescribed. Corresponding tribute is to be exacted from the communities.

Until further notice the rations of the hostages are to correspond to other prisoners of war.

III. Evacuees and hostages are to be employed in hard labor for clearing the sector (prohibited zone of 300 meters each on both sides of the main roads). And order will be issued regarding wages for the evacuees.

IV. The 187th and 173rd Reserve Divisions are requested to report immediately from which villages on the railroad – except those villages reported previously by the 187th Reserve Division – the male population from 15 to 60 years of age is to be evacuated and at what time.

Qu. (simultaneously IVa) Ia (draft) War Diary If your Honors will now turn to page 24, we will find a document which was sent by a regiment within, or a part of the 187th Reserve Division, which was in turn again a part of the Special Purpose Corps, commanded by the Defendant, Dehner.

We would like to call your Honors attention to the fact that this document is possibly one of the very few documents that has come into the hands of the prosecution staff, in which the number of hostages executed is less than the numbers of soldiers killed on the German side, and we wish to point out that we are putting this document in nevertheless.

This document is to the 187th Reserve Division. Reference -- I believe this is on defense counsels' page 24, (page 24 of the English):

Reference: Commander in Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army, Intelligence Officer As reprisal measures for the attacks on railroads executed on 8.10.

1943 near Paulovac, 17.10.1943 near Vukosavljevica and 19.10.43 near Severin and Paulovac during which 12 German soldiers, 9 German gendarmes, 1 Croatian gendarme, 1 member of the Croatian legion, 5 members of the Croatian armed forces and 2 members of the Ustacha were killed and during which 12 members of the Gendarmerie were wounded and from which 10 members of the Ustascha still are missing, 25 bandits and followers of bandits were shot to death by order of the area command by the Croatian Gespanschaftpolizei on 19.10.1943. The population has been informed of the execution of the reprisal measure, by means of leaflets which contained all the reasons for it. Since the urgency of the case did not permit time to ask for authority post factem agreement is requested.

Signature For the correctness of the copy Dr. Gernstein, Captain Your Honors, turning now to page 26, I believe page 20 of the German Document book, we will find a report on the training of the troops, the attitude and morale of the division, the preparation of troops, and various references to a Cossak-Division which fought in that area:

....The long lasting preparation had alerted the bands and had given away our aim. Therefore band troops were able to retreat unhindered towards the South across the Save. The carefully planned and ordered operation Herbst II became void.

2.) Degree of training of the troops employed. The police company particular the one from Djakovo is extremely inferior. It is poorly trained, or not at all, and poorly disciplined. The fully trained Domobranes (all instructors) were distributed as riflemen and quite useful. The young recruits of the regiment were extraordinary. Even though they had not come to battle they proved themselves to be all right despite the short term of training (two weeks basic training). They were disciplined, their appearance was striking, they were attentive as guards, they kept very good fire discipline. The Ustaschal Company had not received any training at all.

3.) Attitude and morale of the population. The population was extremely obliging and glad to cook the rations for the soldiers. Since no field kitchens were available civilians brought the food to the soldiers at their posts. No friendliness to bands was noted. The population open heartedly notice the tremendous difference between the German soldiers and the cossacks. Demands for help and protection against the Cossacks were not infrequent.

The Cossacks behaved like the Huns. Their behavior toward the population led to the conclusion that the influence of the German leaders and sub-leaders was not very great. The Cossacks confiscated anything they could find: vehicles, bicycles, horses, cows, oxen, pigs, chickens, geese, hay, oats and straw. This was regular pillaging without asking any questions and without any compensation or receipt.

They procured for themselves special rations and everywhere enforced a surrender of alcoholic supplies. In a state of intoxication they annoyed the women, regardless of age, forced their way into their apartments at night, threw civilians out of their beds, and with force and threat abused many women. Later reports stated that among these were even girls from 12 to 15 years of age. Not infrequently a woman was abused by several cossacks throughout the whole night. It became known that in Gradiste alone 11 women had to have medical treatment. Complaining women asked for the removal of the Cossacks. In its own sector the regiment had employed patrols and had known how to stop excesses on the part of the cossacks. In almost every case the complaints could not be checked because different Cossack units passed through constantly. The population could not be helped.

4.) Passwords. Notwithstanding orders, different passwords had been issued to the German units and to Cossacks, so that wild shooting developed at one time on the East blockade. The Cossacks mostly did not know any password. Finally one had to be satisfied, after an agreement that the Cossack identify himself, if stopped, merely with the word "Cossack". The passwords are much too difficult to enunciate. It is impossible for either Croats or Cossacks to remember them (for instance Friedrichshagen, Lausanne, etc.). If possible, simple one or two syllable words should be selected in order to make allowance for the lack of intelligence of these soldiers.

5.) Field kitchens. Field kitchens must be taken along if the commitment lasts longer than 2 days. It is going too far to ask a soldiers to subsist on cold rations for almost 10 days. The usual consequences are that he practically attempts to bed (warm milk, soup, etc.).

6.) Means of communication. The broadcasting sets are very old and require a through overhaul after each employment. At this time 6 Dora sets are out of use due to this.

A new supply of broadcasting sets is required since one can usually work only by radio during an operation."

Your Honors, we find in Paragraph 7:

"Special incidents.

19.10.: 2 bandits arrested in Andrijasevci shot while trying to escape.

20.10.: Battalion Meinicke takes 2 prisoners which were transferred to the SD Vinkovci.

21.10.: I/130 arrest 9 deserting Domobranes in Babinagreda. Handed over to Vinkovci.

22.10.: Because of cowardness in the face of the enemy 2 Croatian auxiliary policemen were arrested and handed over to the unit leader.

23.10.: Domobrane Josip Berinc of the 1st Company/II/Syrm.Brig. was found intoxicated while on duty as guard in Gradiste. He resisted arrest using his gun and said that he would join the bandits because it is better there. He was given over to the E.K.3. Vinkovci.

2 drunks cossacks threw hand grenades at their own troops and shot off their rifles. The Cossacks were arrested and given to Cossack Regiment No. 5 in Zupania.

25.10.: Captain Meinicke arrested a Croatian unit leader for cowardness in the face of the enemy.

IV. Losses.

a) Own: 1 non-commissioned officer wounded.

b) Bands: 3 dead, 8 prisoners.

c) Deserters: 15 Domobranes were brought in.

Then on the next page is "captured materials." We don't have to go into all of the details.

Your Honors, it is pointed out that during this time a Cossack Divi vision in this area was fighting under the over-all command of the defendant Dehner.

Here again we find a document addressed to the 69th Reserve Corps at that time under the command of the defendant, Dehner, from the 2nd Panzer Army. The date is the 19 December 1943, defense counsel on page 28, I believe:

Evacuation measures outside of the area the 1st Croatian Mountain Brigade may be continued. However, they are to be checked once more according to the following points of view:

1) Reprisal and evacuation measures are to achieve best possible effect in combatting of bands.

2) For this purpose it is useful not to evacuate villages adjacent to the railroad line but to use the inhabitants as far as possible to help with the security.

3) For this purpose definite sectors of the tract should be allocated to individual villages. Appropriate reprisal measures are to be executed where attacks occur which the population did not stop or regarding the preparation of which nothing had been reported. These reprisal measures include arrest of hostages, partial evacuations of the population, burning down of individual houses.

4) Bandit nests near the railroad tracks are to be evacuated entirely and to be destroyed.

MR. RAPP: If Your Honors will turn now to page 32 of this Document Book, defense counsel I believe page 16, we find a report addressed to the 187th Reserve Division which fought in Defendant Dehner's corps at that time. It is called, "Subject:

Operation "Herbst II" (which is operation Augumn) and "Wildsau" (which is operation Boar".

Reference: Discussion with the Cossack mounted regiment.

To the 187th Reserve Division:

Operation Herbst II ended with the order of the Division to the Commanding Officer of the Reserve Grenadier Regiment 45 to transfer all Battalions to Colonel Schulze and to take over the command of the blockade and to strengthen the blockade as far as possible.

The purpose of the blockade is clear and does not require any clarification. Parts of the 5th Don Cossack Mounted Regiment came from an easterly direction on 22.10 about 1600 o'clock and went into bivouac.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, then we find the order of battle of this outfit, and it is continued.

Having suffered casualties while units were marching to Cerna the regiment immediately made contact with the commanding officer of the regiment. On this occasion it came out that the Cossacks not only were ignorant of the road block East Vinkovci - Zupanja but that they were surprised to find German troops there. The Regimental Commander informed the leader of the Cossacks (Adj) of the operation Herbst II and the events up to now and himself asked for a short orientation regarding the situation of the Cossack Division. That the Cossack Division - in particular the 5th Don Cossack Mounted Regiment - was ignorant of the existence of a blockade line, now having an inverse front toward the East - results from the fact that the regiment went into bivouac in Stitar and Cerna, in order to prepare for an attack in this area after a rest day. Asked why they could not get ready for combat just as well in Gradiste and Zupanje since the country did not contain any enemy, it was explained that they were following orders.

They were also ignorant of the battle around Brcko as well as the existence of the Group Colonel Schulze and of the newly established southern blockade of the regiment in the area of Brcko-Bosnjaci. The order of battle as ordered also proves that the existence of these German forces down there was not taken into consideration.

The German Regimental adjutant of the Cossacks was informed of the situation by the regiment (the pertinent radio message dated 22.10 from Colonel Schulze to the division has been monitored) and gratefully accepted the information.

On the 24.10 at 1600 o'clock the 5th Don Cossack Regiment made ready for an attack in the area of Stitar on both sides of the Gradiste in a Southeast direction with artillery positions close to the southern edge of Gradiste.

MR. RAPP: Then, we have some geographical subdivision of the various lines different units were to hold. And now we come to the last paragraph of this page, which illustrates the purpose of this document:

The behavior of the Cossacks: The Cossacks - to say it mildly are degenerating into a public calamity. The population is scared and has sufficient reasons to be. The Cossacks are actually "pillaging". They take away without compensation horses and vehicles, hay, oats and straw, cows, pigs and bicycles, and care little for the complaining population. Frequently the population avoids the Cossacks with alarm because it has received information of assaults, which are said to have occurred.

For the files.

Then it continues:

The population reacts pleasantly to the behavior of the German troops and by implication connects the Cossacks with Bolshevism.

Information received states that the officers attached to the Cossack Regiment are almost powerless. The men do many things without the knowledge of the officers. There are Russian officers here too!

According to the statement of a commanding officer the thought was expressed that Russian peculiarities must be considered to a very large extent where this detachment is concerned.

The regiment has found it difficult these two days to quiet the population. Wherever possible, assistance was given but it was a hopeless enterprise. Manes and tails of the horses were cut off so that they would become immediately unrecognizable. Even if horses and vehicles are recognized they are not being returned or no compensation is being given.

The regiment doubts that in this respect the behavior of the Cossacks toward the population can be improved.

signed: Ruckser D/II Staff Headquarters dated 28.10.1943

MR. RAPP: If Your Honors turn now to page 35 we find that this report from the Regiment was sent to the 187th Division, which, in turn, endorsed this report to higher headquarters, this being the 69th Reserve Corps. It did come, in other words, from the Regiment which issued the original copy, to the attention of the Corps. If Your Honors turn now to page 36 we find a teletype message - on page 22 of the German Document Book – we find a TWX addressed to the Fliegerfuehrer, the Air Commander, Croatia Ia, Zagreb. It says in Paragraph 1:

Heavy enemy concentrations in the villages of Potocci Vojakovci, V. Poganac (3, 5 and 14 N. Krizevci.) Sizeable food, ammunition and medical installations in V. Poganac. The population of the 3 villages supports the communist bands.

Corps requests destruction of the villages by sizeable air force operation (Stuka; the German Dive-Bomb version).

Kapela and Rakitnitci (9 N. and 12 NW of Bjelovar) main assembly places of 3 communists brigades who are seemingly preparing large scale attack on Bjelovar.

MR. RAPP: On page 37, "Corps requests strong air force operation against these villages." And that then is signed by the "Air Liaison Officer, LXIX Reserve Corps, Korth, 1st Lieutenant."

DR. FROESE: Dr. Froese for the defendant Dehner. Might I please look at the teletype which has just been read. From the German text there's no date. Also, from the original one can see when it was sent, and I can't see why it is brought forward in this connection, whether it is a teletype with an order or whether it is a fact from this period. I must object to the introduction of this.

MR. RAPP: That, as has been pointed out previously to the Tribunal, this particular document like many others, was found in Washington within the files of the various corps, division, and army headquarters we had screened for that purpose. We feel that since this particular instrument was included in these documents, not through us but by the German Army, we felt that it should be introduced as part of the record at this time.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: For the same reasons heretofore assigned by the Tribunal, and with the same limitations, the document will be received.

MR. RAPP: If Your Honors turn now to page 38, which is page 23 of the German Document Book, we will have before us a rather bloody account of the excesses of the Cossacks, which were part of the 69th Special Purpose Corps, at that time under the command of Defendant Dehner, who was subordinate to General Glaise-Horstenau. That is page 38 of the English Document Book.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed.

MR. RAPP: It is called "Excesses of Cossacks, 20 November 1943", and the heading is subdivided in columns, which on the top from left to right read: "No," – "Facts of Case" – "Reported by" – "1st Cossack Div. requests investigation on" – and then "Action taken by 1st Cossack Division." I now cite:

"No. 1; Facts of Case: Pillaging in Divosch; Reported by: District of Vuka; 1st Cossack Div. requests investigation on: 19.10. 43 Ia; Action taken by 1st Cossack Division: 1st Cossack Division Facts of Case: Hanging of the German; Reported by: District of Vuka; 1st Cossack Div. requests investigation on: No.

1651/2458/43; Action taken by 1st Cossack Division: dated 22.10.42 number – Facts of Case: Deputy Mayor Kuhn; Reported by: No. 1246/43; 1st Cossack Div. requests investigation on: Secret and No. 1652/2459/43; Action taken by 1st Cossack Division: 1345/43 secret" and then we come to Confiscation of Cattle in Mandjelos (district Mitrovica); Reported by: Secret 14/11/43; 1st Cossack Div. request investigation on: Secret." And then we go to the right column and we find "Concerning Mayor Kuhn: care has been taken that similar incidents will not occur; concerning requisitioning of Cattle. 1st Cossack Div. Ib dated 30.10.43: issuance of pertinent orders of the day. Kuban-Mounted Regiment has been requested to report regarding confiscation of vehicles and horses." And, Your Honors, the second incident was "Confiscation of horses and mistreatment of farmers in Hrvatski Karlovci." And it was reported by the "German Plenipotentiary in Croatia Zagreb dated 23.10.43". And we find no entry for the "1st Cossack Div. requests investigation on" and no "Action taken by 1st Cossack Division." The third is "Raping of women and girls and pillaging in Oriovac (20 W. Brod.)" And there we find, "Teletype II. Croat. Corps HWs. No. 1141 dated 26.10.43." 1st Cossack Div. requests investigation on: "Teletype dated 27.10.43, Ia No. 1790/2784/43, secret. Teletype dated 30.10.43, Ia No. 1853/2936/43 secret." Action taken by 1st Cossack Division:

"Teletype 1st Cos. Div. dated 31.10. No. 1469/43 secret: The divisional court martial dispatched local court on 19.10. 8 Cossacks shot to death for looting and raping between 25th and 28th of October."

On the next page, Your Honor, page 23 of the German document book, we find entry number four, the facts where thefts and rapes in Podvinje, district of Brod, were reported by the 187th Reserve Division, and the 1st Cossack Division requested an investigation, and it says:

"Action taken by 1st Cossack Division: Investigation by Kreisgerichtsrat Mueller of the 1st Cossack Division" -- that is Judge Advocate -- "enclosed with 1st Cossack Division Brigade," dated so and so, "secret, dated 6.11.43. Report of the investigation to 2nd Panzer Army, 1.10.11.

"5. Confiscation of horses and vehicles. Shooting to death of a 70 year old man in Sibirj on 26.10.43.

"6. Rape of 16 women and girls in Mlinici (district of Brod).

"7. Confiscation of 11 pigs in the village of Grabarje.

"8. Looting and burning of the apartment of 1st Lieutenant Bosanac in Novo Topolje (claim for damages).

"9. Confiscation of vine and brandy in Brodskl Varos on 30.10.43."

I think Your Honors have 13.10.45 in the books but it should undoubtedly be 1943.

"10. Murder and looting in Babina Greda on 26.10.43."

We find in the document pertaining to the incidents between entry number five and entry eight any action that has been taken. Also for nine.

Then paragraph ten:

"Murder and looting in Babina Greda on 26.10.43.

"11. Theft and threats in Podvinje on 7.11.43.

"12. Looting and rape in Gromacnic."

Reporting by the II Croatian Headquarters and an investigation was ordered.

"13. Looting and murder in Andrijevc (13 Cossacks shot to death)."

1st Cossack Division. Copy went to Corps Headquarters.

"14. Looting and assault in Andrijevc. Complaint of Oberfaehnrich Pindaric.

"15. Looting, rape and murder in Lacacac (district of Mitrovica).

"16. Acts of assault by the Cossacks in Gradiste."

The next page, Your Honors, page 41:

"17. Confiscation of 300 horses, 500 sheep, 400 head of cattle, and 200 pigs from the villages of Ljuba, Grgurevei, Mandelos, and Schuljan."

This was reported by the District of Buka. The 1st Cossack Division requested the investigation and the action taken was:

"Comment of the 1st Cossack Division dated 7.11.43; captured cattle partly from bandit villages request information from which villages loot has been taken illegally in order to recompense with Reich monies.

"18. Complaint of master forester Ebenhoeh, 2nd Panzer Army."

The 1st Cossack Division reported:

"Events in Ilok partly invented, partly intentionally exaggerated with intent to discriminate against the 1st Cossack Division.

"19. Arrests of Croatians by Cossacks."

And finally: "Excesses of the Cossacks in the community of Morovca."

If Your Honors turn to page 42, page 25 of the German document book, we find items:

"21. Excesses of Cossacks in the community of Privlaka, District of Vuka.

"22. Arrest without cause of Ustasha follower Marijan Stivic and family Stivic." And the Cossack Division said, "No arrests, only drafted for transportation work.

"23. Complaint of the postmaster of the Croatian post office Osijek.

"24. Confiscation of horses of Domobrane Parasilona Marko" and "Excesses of the Cossacks in Kamenica."

DR. FROEHSE: Dr. Froehse for the defendant Leyser. Your Honor, I would like to point out page 38 of the English, No. 3. I would like also to point out that orders were given and also executed. The prosecution didn't read this part in column four but that says that eight Cossacks were shot to death for looting, etc. I think it is important that this also should be read into the record

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, the entry in paragraph three on page 38 of your document book I will now read again into the record. "Action taken by 1st Cossack Division. Teletype 1st Cossack Division, dated 31.10, No. 1469/43 secret. The divisional court martial dispatched local court on 29.10. Eight Cossacks shot to death for looting and raping between 25 and 28 of October."

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: It is my impression that it had previously been read.

MR. RAPP: That is correct, your Honor.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Very well.

DR. FROEHSE: I am sorry.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, the next page, page 43 in your document book, which is page 26 of the German document book, is a letter from the 69th Reserve Corps, at that time commanded by the defendant Dehner, to the XVth Mountain Corps, stationed in Banja Luka, at that time commanded by the defendant Leyser, and it states:

"Reference: 187 Res. Div. Ia/E No. 9852/45 Secret dated 19.

11.1943.

To XV Mountain Corps Banja Lu ka For information 187 Reserve Division German Railroad Security Staff Croatia Inspector of the Railroad Security Croatia The constantly repeated attacks on the railroad line Zagreb Jasenovac seem to make it desirable to evacuate all villages close to the line and if necessary to destroy them so as these villages cannot be garrisoned with railroad security troops and in particular with the 1st Cossack Division.

The Corps Hq's requests information as to the intentions in this respect since the German Railroad Security Staff Croatia which is subordinate to the Corps Hq's, has been entrusted with the security of this line.

For the Corps Hq's Chief of the General Staff" And then there is an illegible signature.

"Copy, Top Secret." Then something handwritten 25.11.43.

Then if your Honors turn now to page 44, this is nothing but a tactical operational page still part of the same document. You will find this on page 26 of your document book, defense counsel, and now we are turning to page 45. If the Tribunal permits me, I would like to ask defense counsel at this time whether or not they have this particular page. When I checked the document book last, at least in the copy I had, the German copy, this particular page was missing in the German document book.

Dr. Laternser, is that missing? Of course, you wouldn't know if you had no page. It is this particular page.

If your Honors permit, while defense counsel is checking whether or not this page has been furnished to them, we suggest that if defense counsel does not have this copy, we will furnish them a German copy of this particular page.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You are referring now to page 45 of the document-

MR. RAPP: I am referring now to page 45, your Honor.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Of document book 14.

MR. RAPP: Of document book 14, NOKW-509, which is Prosecution Exhibit 340.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Are you prepared, Dr. Laternser, to state whether you have it in your book?

DR. LATERNSE: I haven't found it yet.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may pass to the next matter that you have in order, until it has been determined whether they have it or not.

MR. RAPP: Very well, your Honor. Well we will then turn to page 46, your Honor, which is page 27 of defense counsel's document book and this particular document is a copy of a letter of the Plenipotentiary of the Croatian State Government, who was attached with the 69th Reserve Corps, and it is the "Ustasha Colonel P.T.B. Vieskoslav Serveatzky," and his subject is "Draft of labor and hostages in agreement with the author ities and with the Ustashal movement."

Then there is handwritten and it says: "To the Headquarters of the 69th Reserve Corps in the Field."

"Answered by Ia on 4.12.43: Affair had been submitted to the Army so that relief can be had via the German Plenipotentiary General Zagreb."

"The Ustasha district leader of Karlovici has reported to me that entirely unobjectionable Croats had been compulsory drafted among others from the city and its environment for construction work at the Vienac (Fruska Gora). There they were submitted to inhuman treatment. They were insulted, beaten, billeted in penal barracks for almost a month under the worse conditions without compensation and with insufficient rations. They had to work without a rest day. German non-commissioned officers and soldiers, often times drunk, insulted them as "Partisans."

Several of these pitiful creatures had escaped from the Herzegowina province and other threatened territories with their families in order to save their bare lives and to make a living by honest work. The sons of some of them have been fighting in our Ustasha Units for 2 years.

At the occasion of my inspection trip I personally interrogated some mistreated Croats. The above report is supported by 7 written statements.

It is requested that:

1.) The case mentioned above be investigated and the guilty ones called to account."

2.) These unobjectionable Croats be dismissed whose names are submitted as quickly as possible to the commander of the units employed at the construction there by the Ustasha district leader.

3.) All subordinate HQ's receive an order to the effect that the drafting of labor, hostages, or other persons to be interned is to be undertaken exclusively in agreement with the administrative authorities and the Ustasha district and local leaders, in order to avoid similar incidents which upset the entire Croatian population, which are regrettable and impede the absolutely necessary close cooperation of the civilian population.

The commander of the unit employed at the construction at the Vienac (Fruska Mountains) is said to be Lieutenant Colonel Appell, or Apel and his officer is said to be Obersturmbannführer Konrad. The unit is said to have APO number 26967-A.

It is said that the contractor Wolf has instigated the mistreatment of the workers by the German non-commissioned officers and soldiers.

Ready for the Poglavnik and country! H e i l H i t l e r ! Ustasha Colonel P.T.B. Vjek. Servatzy:

Signed signature.

Certified to be a true copy! Corps HQ. dated 6.12.1943 (Illegible signature) Captain.

And then it is certified to be a true copy, Corps Headquarters, 6.12.43, and an illegible signature "Captain."

If Your Honors will now permit I would like that you turn please to page 51. I believe that as to pages 48, 29 and 50 I am advised that a similar situation as previously exists, where through some miracle defense counsel did not receive the German pages of the document.

THE PRESIDENT: While we don't believe in miracles at this time, we are willing it should follow the same ruling.

MR. RAPP: On page 51, this will be NOKW 1137, and this will become Prosecution Exhibit 341 - Defense Counsel will find this on page 29.

This, Your Honor, is a document which emanates from the 7th SS Mountain Division, the so-called Prinz Eugen Mountain Division, and is dated 1 October 1943. This mountain division, your Honor, shown at that time as part of the 5th SS Mountain Corps, and the 5th SS Mountain Corps was subject and under command of the then Commander of the 2nd Panzer Army, the defendant Rendulic. It is a teletype message, and it is dated 1 October 1943, and it says:

"Railway line Ragusa - Metkovic interrupted.

Own losses: None Enemy losses: 19 partisans shot.

Bootes: 1 75 mm (°) battery with ammunition of this one gun with breechblock, equipment, clothing and medical equipment. Signed SS Division Prinz Eugen, Ib."

"1. In front of the right wing of the division no enemy resistance to-day. Group Peterson has taken up the assembly position as ordered, after eliminating flanking enemy resistance from the West slopes of the Moser Mountains.

2. SS Division "Prinz Eugen" with attached 92nd motorized Infantry Regiment will take Split on 27. September 1943.

Page 2 of this particular document, page 52 of the Document book. "The unit safeguards itself by immediate arrest of hostages. The slightest resistance is to be broken with ruthless terror." And then there is illegible handwriting and handwritten: 6318 Stamp: 4 Oct 1943 - Radio message.

And it says at the bottom:

"In Prozor on 2 September the district superintendent of Prozor as well as his driver were publicly hanged. Connection with bands clearly established"If your Honors will turn to page 53 we find a document dated 14 August 1943 and it states:

"with Participation Southeast of Mostar versus band (insurgent) villages Pitkubas and Suzian completed. Both villages, except for houses of reliable inhabitants, destroyed.

This was sent to the Commander of the German armed Forces in Croatia, and information to 373rd Infantry Division. The sender was SS Division Daily Report of 13 August 1943.

This, Your Honors, will conclude Document 1137.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed.

MR. RAPP: Very well, Your Honor.

If the Tribunal, please, will you now turn to page 54, page 33 of Defense Counsel's book, and we will now have Prosecution Exhibit 342. This, your Honor, is an affidavit given by the Defendant Leyser, which we are now offering as evidence;

AFFIDAVIT:

I, Ernst Hans-Ulrich von Levser, being duly sworn say and depose:

On 18 November 1889 I was born as the fourth child of the then 1st Lieutenant Hans von Leyser and of his wife Emillie nee von Wurmb in Steglitz-Berlin.

I joined the Cadet Corps in Oranienburg near Diez a.d. Lahn in fall 1900; Easter 1906 I attended the Main Cadet Institute in Gross-Lichterfelde where I graduated as Officer candidate Easter 1906.

Subsequently - up to March 1909 - I was in the Selekt (Kriegsschule) (Military Academy) of the main cadet Institute where I graduated as an officer.

On 24.3.1909 I was commissioned Lieutenant in the 5th Guard Infantry Regiment. As such I went to the front as platoon leader in August 1914. Without any serious wound or illness I took part in the entire war at the front with my regiment until September 1918. I was platoon leader, battalion adjutant, company commander, regimental adjutant and battalion commander.

In June 1915 I was promoted 1st Lieutenant and in June 1918 I was promoted to Captain. In September 1918 I became brigade adjutant of 1st Guard Reserve Brigade. In November 1918 I became battalion commander in the 1st Guard Reserve Regiment. In January 1919 I went to the Baltic as Brigade Adjutant. In summer 1919 the German troops had to withdraw from the Baltic. In the other Reichsheer I was then company commander with the 115 Infantry Regiment in Stettin, Prenzlau and Spandau. When the army was reduced to 100,000 men I had to resign toward the end of 1920. Thereupon I transferred to the Prussian Police as Captain and leader of a unit of 100 men. As such I was in Muehlheim (Ruhr) and Essen until 1926. After taking an examination in Eiche near Potsdam I was promoted to Major in April 1927, and was transferred as teacher and trainer to the Police school in Kiel. In the fall of 1932 I went to Bochum-Horne as deputy Unit Commander, later as Deputy Unit Commander to Muenster/Westfalen and Iserlohn. In 1935 I was promoted to Lieutenant Colonel and was attached to the staff of the Police Regiment in Duesseldorf.

At the time of my transfer into the Army I was taken over, in accordance with my own application as Lieutenant Colonel on the staff of the 77th Infantry Regiment. In 1936 I became commander of the Panzer-Jaeger-Battalion 2 in Stettin. I was promoted Colonel in 1937. In 1938 I was Colonel and commander of the Panzer-Jaeger-Truppen XIV at first in Leipzig with Group Headquarters IV and later in Magdeburg with the XIV Infantry Corps.

At the beginning of the Second World War in September 1939 I became commander of replacement Infantry Regiment Number 6 in Bielefeld and in October 1939 Commander of Infantry Regiment 169. As such I participated in the French Campaign in 1940. I was promoted Generalmajor (Brigadier General) in February 1941. I was appointed Commander of the 269 Division in March 1941. I led this division in the Russian campaign up to before Leningrad. In October 1942 - as Generalleutnant (Major General) I was charged with leading the XXVI Army Corps at Lake Ladoga. I was appointed in December 1942 General of Infantry as the Commanding General of this corps.

From the end of October 1943 until July 1944 I was a commanding general of the XV Mountain Corps in Croatia and in August 1944 Commanding General of the XXXI Mountain Corps in Albania."

This, your Honor, should be 21st Mountain Group, I believe. "In April 1945 until the Armistice, due to illness, I went to Gastein for the cure. Since, then I have been an American Prisoner of War; in Gastein, Augsburg, Neu-Ulm hospital, Neu-Ulm and Garmisch.

War decorations I have received:

World War I: Iron Cross 1st and 2nd Class.

The Hohenzollern house order with swords.

Austrian War Merit Cross.

World War II: May 1940, Clasp for the Iron Cross 2nd class.

June 1940, Clasp for the Iron Cross 1st class.

September 1941, Knights Cross of the Iron Cross.

March 1943. German Cross in Gold.

Party member from fall 1932 to 1935.

In April 1927 I married Klara Gleisner daughter of the business man Max Gleisner and his wife Anna nee Witt in Hamburg. In January 1928, my son Hans-Polykarp was born in Kiel.

On 28 September 1944 an enemy bomber attack on Magdeburg completely destroyed my residence there. My son was heavily wounded and my wife was killed.

At the present time my son is attending school in Hamburg where he lives with my widowed mother-in-law who has also been totally bombed out.

I have read the statement above, consisting of 3 pages in German language, and I declare that to the best of my knowledge and belief it is the entire truth. I had the opportunity to make changes and corrections in the above statements. I have made this statement voluntarily without any promise of reward and I was neither threatened nor compelled to do so. Nuernberg, Germany, dated 12 March 1947 (Signed) Ernst Leyser If your Honors permit I would like to hand this document up to the Court at this time so that you may readily identify his signature.

THE PRESIDENT: If it is agreeable to the other members of the Tribunal we will discontinue at this place, and you may hand it up in the morning

MR. RAPP: Very well, your Honor.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal will recess until 0930 tomorrow morning.

(Thereupon the Court recessed)

Official Transcript of Military Tribunal V, Case VII, in the matter of the United States of America vs. Wilhelm List, et al, defendants, sitting at Nurnberg, Germany, on 1 August 1947, 0930, Justice Wennerstrum, presiding.

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the courtroom will please find their seats.

The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal V.

Military Tribunal V is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

There will be order in the court.

May it please Your Honors, all defendants are present in the Courtroom.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: You may proceed, Mr. Rapp.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors will recall that prior to our recess yesterday afternoon, we were discussing Document NOKW 877, which was Prosecution Exhibit 342, which Your Honors will find on Pages 54, 55 and 56 of Document Book 14. German defense counsel, I refer to pages 33 and 34 respectively.

We had already read this document into the record, and I asked the courts permission to hand this document up to the Court for identification of the signature of the defendant Leyser. I now would ask the court's permission to do so.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: You may hand it up.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, we will proceed now to NOKW 720, page 57 of the English document book, pages 35 and 36, respectively, of the German document book. This, Your Honors, will become Prosecution Exhibit No. 343.

This document, Your Honors, consists first of a teletype message dated the first of November -- 2nd of November, 1943, and it is a daily report. It is from the 15th Mountain Corps, and it states:

1) "Area Bosnia Krupa:

Passenger Train Bilvac - bos Novi 1.11.915 hours near Blatna hit a mine despite previous reconnaissance of tracks and ridges South of the Una.

Mine was released by train wire which was stretched across the Una. Presumably track will be usable again 2.11 evening. The Engineer Company of the 2nd Croatian Jaeger Brigade also employed in cleaning up work. 5 soldiers, 10 civilians dead, 4 soldiers, 4 civilians wounded, 3 cars completely destroyed.

Reprisal measures:

Houses directly North of the Una into which the wire led burned down.

Houses empty."

Your Honors, turning to the next page, we will find the service record of the defendant, Ernst von Leyser, and various comments, the superior officers of the defendant Leyser made at that time. It starts out with name:

1- Name: von Leyser, Ernst 2- Birthday:

18.11.89 3- Entered on Active Duty:

24.3.09 4- Birthplace:

Prussian (Berlin-Steglitz) 5- Rank:

1942 Commanding General XXVI th Infantry Corps 10.

8.1943 OKH Fuehrer Reserve 10.

10.1943 Commanding General XV Infantry Corps 20.

7.1944 Commanding General XXI Mountain Corps 19.

4.1945 Fuehrer Reserve OKH" His decorations are:

Clasp to the Iron Cross, second class, which he obtained on 17 May, 1940; Clasp to the Iron Cross, First Class, which he obtained on the 18 June 1940, the Knight's Cross which he obtained on 18 September 1941, and the East Medal the 26 July, 1942.

At the bottom you will find various military instruction courses which the defendant attended.

If Your Honors will turn to your next page, you will find comments of his superior offices at that time.

On the 15 of February, 1941, his commanding officer had this to say:

"Elegant appearance, soldier through and through. Brief, decisive and energetic in character, socially adroit, tenacious and efficient, fills his position well. Suitable as divisional commander."

On the 10th August, 1941, the former Field Marshal von Mannstein said this about him: "Fresh active personality. Has proven himself fully before the enemy. Leads division well, with initiative and energy."

On the 13 August, 1941, former Colonel General Von Reinhard had this to say about his: "He produced exceptional success with his division. By his personal freshness, applicability, energy and not last by his fearlessness, he pulled his excellent unit through immense difficulties to highest achievements. He has showed himself capable as tactical leader of coping with all situations. Definite thoughtful with a pronounced clear conception of what could be achieved and what was practical, he was a support to me which I could firmly count. In the face of other difficult problems also, he did not know any "ifs and buts". He has filled his position as Commander of the division very well. I consider him equally well suited for the command of a Panzer Division or of a motorized Infantry Division since he has that particular freshness and his pliability which is needed, in particular, in commanding mobile troops. As former Panzer Jaeger Officer, he had other wide experience in motorization and tactical measures."

16. August 41 General Hopner: "I agree. General von Leyser led his division very well and had it firmly in hand. He personally sets an excellent example because of his freshness and smartness.": "I agree."

On the 5th April 1942, the following comment was made:

"A Divisional Commander who combines common sense and clear tactical perception with great resoluteness and willingness to accept responsibility. Ruthless employment spurs the unit to maximum achievement. The division was led in an exemplary and certain manner at the focal points. F.s.g.a.

Commanding General of an Army Corps."

MR. RAPP: If Your Honors turn to Page 60, then Colonel General Lindemann on the 16th of April 1942 said:

"I thoroughly agree. The division was excellently led in mobile warfare as well as in heavy defensive fighting. Commanding general.

MR. RAPP: On the 25th of April 1942 the former Fieldmarshal von Kuchler said: I agree. In heavy Winter fighting outstanding. Precise and thoughtful in his decisions. Energetic. Hard and able to withstand crisis.

Then, on the 3.8.42, it was said: He has proven himself continuously. Fully suitable as Commanding General.

12.9.42: He has continued to prove himself fully.

1.3.43: Very intent on independence and glad to accept responsibility. He has a particularly clear tactical judgment and a healthy view toward the overall picture. In difficult situations also, he commands energetically and quietly. He puts particular value on the preservation of extreme discipline. Average. Leave in present position.

19.3.43 v. Kuchler: I agree. He has also shown himself in difficult situations as a considerate and energetic leader of troops. It remains to be seen whether he is suitable.

19.8.43 Lindemann: Like 1.3.43 over sensitive. Intent on recognition. Somewhat rude in behaviour. Commanding General.

5.9.43 Kuchler: Well Proven as Commanding General.

"1/3/44 Rendulic" - the defendant Rendulic who at that time commanded the 2nd Panzer Army, of which the Defendant Leyser's corps was a part, said about him; "Distinguished, very temperamental personality. N.S." We believe this to be National Socialist. "Circumspect and energetic leader. His piercing temperament sometimes influences the calmness of decision. Glad to accept responsibility. Somewhat sensitive. The over-sensitiveness mentioned in previous estimates could not be confirmed.

Average. Leave in position." And then the former Field Marshal, and now Defendant von Weichs, who was at that time Commander in Chief Southeast, said, "I agreed." And then, if your Honors turn to the next Page, you will find a schedule of dates on which the Defendant Leyser was promoted through the various ranks as an officer in the German Army. Your Honors, we turn now to page 62. We are still concerned with the same document, and then we find here a teletype message from the 373rd Infantry Division, addressed to Corps Headquarters XVth Mountain Corps, at that time commanded by Defendant Leyser, and under the Daily Report of the 6th of November 1943 it states (that is Page 37 and 38 of the German defense counsel's book): "Area Box/Krupa/Dopp/during special operation to Ivanjska /OT A VE 4/11/Klauf/2 North Blatna 1 man and four women arrested and 12 houses burned down as reprisal measures for railroad dynamiting 1/11 population had fled." Your Honors turn to Page 63, defense counsel's document book, Page 39, we will find again a message to the 15th Mountain Corps, from the 373rd Division, and this time it is dated the 8th of November, and it states:

Area of Lapac:

Operation II /3841 in the Kamesnsko Area 7.11 carried out according to plan. Bands seemingly have withdrawn, only weak enemy near point 1259, who retreated. Barracks, shelters, supplies of hay and straw burned down. Two men and two women arrested as band suspects. Twenty head of cattle and 18 smaller animals captured.

MR. RAPP: This Your Honors, concludes this particular exhibit. And, if you please, well turn now to Page 65 of your Document Book, defense counsel's book Page 46. We have NOKW-733. This, Your Honors, will be prosecution's Exhibit No. 344. This is an order dated the 10th of October 1943 of the 373rd Croatian Legion Division, and this particular division at that time was fighting as part of the 15th Corps, commanded by the Defendant Leyser.

It says:

Subject: Railroad and Road Security.

.....

- 1.) Any natural growth or any artificial cover offering protection (single houses, walls, fences, etc.) is to be removed from within these closed areas. The population is to be employed for such work.!
- 2.) The closed areas created in such a manner are to be indicated publicly, immediately (by proclamations and posters) and to be shut off by "closed area" signs.
- 3.) After this publication any unauthorized person found in any closed area is to be fired on without warning.....
- 5.) Villages and individual houses within the closed area are to be evacuated unless covered by our own units.
- 6.) The population of villages situated along the road of traffic is to be employed for rapid transmission of communications regarding band attacks impending or in progress. Each village will be assigned an area of responsibility. In the fixing of the area of responsibility and in the transmission of communications the Croatian authorities are to be included (Mayor, Croatian Gendarmerie and Police as well as the Secret Field Police, the SD, etc.)
- 7.) For the purpose of retaliation in cases of railroad and telephone sabotage, each German Headquarters authority, down to the regimental staff, is to install within its area of command a hostage camp. Bandits captured or hostages arrested (if possible members of bands or persons suspected of being enemies of the State) are to be divided according to their origin from the individual districts in such a manner that reprisal measures will directly affect the area in which the sabotage occurred.

Exchange of such persons or their origin from certain districts will be determined by agreement between the different units.

Special attention is called to order 373. (Croatian) Infantry Division, Ic No. 3583/43 Secret dated 29.9.43."

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, the following statement appearing in the English Document Book before you, on Page 66, is missing in the German translation. If this is agreeable to the Tribunal I shall now hand the original document, as far as it pertains to this paragraph, to the official Court Interpreter and have the translation read into the record so that defense counsel can insert that part into the document book.

(Mr. Rapp referred to the following passage: "Beginning immediately the reprisal measure carried out in retaliation for railroad sabotage or for an attack on supply columns is to be reported in every case.")

THE PRESIDENT: You may handle it in that manner. May I suggest to the Interpreters that they read this paragraph slowly so that defense counsel and others who may be interested may write it into their German Document Books.

MR. SCHARF (English-German Interpreter): (Reading the German)

MR. RAPP: I believe, Your Honor, that some of the defense counsel were not able to keep up. Would it be alright if the Interpreter would repeat this please?

THE PRESIDENT: May I suggest, then, that this portion of the document be read again, indicating where it should be inserted in the German Document Book.

MR. RAPP: It would be on Page 47 of the German Document Book.

DR. FRITSCH: Dr. Fritsch for the Defendant Rendulic speaking. Your Honor, if I may suggest to you, it is not necessary for us to put this into writing because we have it in the record. It is enough for us just to make a note in the document itself.

THE PRESIDENT: All right, if that satisfies the counsel.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, if you turn to Page 67, please, defense counsel to Page 47, you will then find that this document was signed by order of Fischer, Generalmajor, which is Brigadier General in the American Army. If Your Honors turn now to Page 68 you will find the Service Record of this particular individual, Theodor Fischer, who, at that time, commanded the 373rd Croatian Legion Division. We are introducing this particular document because it was a part of the whole document, and we did not feel that we could rip the document, as such, apart, but I do not believe that it will be necessary to read, at this time, the record of the Former General Fischer into the record because it has no direct bearing on our case at this time. If Your Honors permit, we are now turning to NOKW-1058. You will find this document on Page 70 of your Document Book, and Page 50 of the German defense counsel's Document Book. This will become Prosecution's Exhibit No. 345. This, Your Honors, is again a collection of various teletype messages sent by the 369th Division to the 15th Corps, and giving the situation and strength of enemy units at that time operating in this area. It states under 369th Infantry Division, the date was the 13th of October 1943: "Area Travnik-Zenica --- According to statements of residents bandits assembling near Orahovica (5 West Nemila) Area (8 Southeast Travnik) 200 Bandits."

On the next page, your Honor, page 71, page 50 and 51 respectively of the German document book, we find another message contained in the same TWX and it says:

"Area Rama: According to statements of confidential agents and of gendarmerie 11.10. Two bandits brigades from KUPRES to SOLAKOVA KULA enemy groups area 5/11 kilometers West IVAN SATTEL About 7,000 Italians alleged to be with bandits in area RAMA."

On the next page, your Honors, and this is also in the next of the same page of the German document book, we find still more information from this TWX and it states:

"250 Chetniks occupied JABUKA Gorge during the night of 13.10.. 500 Chetniks 1,5 kilometer North of RENOVICA and 300 Chetniks 1 kilometer North of RENOVICA

3) During raid in Zenica 42 persons arrested and turned over to the SD. 1 looter shot to death.

4) Studencica (9 North of Rama) set a fire since on 10.10 and 12.10 our own JagdKommandos had been fired on."

This, Your Honors, completes Document NOKW-1058, prosecution Exhibit 345.

Your Honors, we turn now to NOKW-143 which will be offered as prosecution Exhibit 346. This is a daily report of the LXIX Reserve Special Corps, commanded by the defendant Dehner at that time to the II Panzer Army and it pertains to the arrest of a Croatian Captain who deserted to the partisans.

The 187th Reserve Division reports: "18.10. Arrest of a woman teacher in Kapela (9 Northwest of Bjelovar) as a hostage, whose husband, a Croatian Captain, deserted to the bandits and wanted to cause soldiers of his company to desert."

Your Honors, turn now to page 74, page 53 of the German defense counsels' book, the prosecution submits now NOKW-791 which will become prosecution Exhibit 347. This is an order of the 373rd Croatian Infantry Division which fought within the XVth Corps and pertains to the security for railway communication and highway lines.

The order reads as follows: "Staff headquarters 19.10.43. Subject: Railroad and Road Security."

"Supplementing the order mentioned in reference above, attention is called to the following:

1.) In creating closed areas attention must be paid that the unit assigns new shelters in territory secure from bands to the civilian population which must leave the closed area. For this purpose the help and advice of the competent Croatian Administrative Authorities is to be requested. In cases where the Croatian authorities resist cooperating with advice and help in the evacuation, report is to be made to the division.

"The population is to be given opportunity to take their moveable possessions with them to their new shelters. Before they are being evacuated, they are to be informed that it is not a matter of a penalty measure but of a necessary security measure.

"It is to be avoided under all circumstances that part of the population goes over to the bandits because of the evacuation.

2.) The road Bos. Novi - Bihac, running along side the railroad lines to be secured and the road Bihac - Lapac - Crecac, are contained within this closed area. Because of the necessary provisioning of the civilian population the civilian traffic on these roads cannot be prohibited. For this reason road traffic is to be supervised severely. As many check points as possible, which are to change their control points continuously, are to make sure that unauthorized persons are not permitted to be on the roads within the closed area. The use of the streets is to be permitted only to local residents who are known to be unobjectionable. Any civilian wishing to use these roads must have a short term special pass issued by a German-Croatia Military authority.

"Along the roads 'Closed Roads' signs are to be installed which point out that leaving the streets is permitted only on specially marked points. Special passes are to be issued only to persons having in their possession the identification card prescribed by law for Croatian territory.

"Whoever does not have an identification card and the special pass is to be arrested and – if he belongs to a band – is to be shot to death or if he is suspected of belonging to bands – to be sent to a hostage camp.

"The civilian population must be informed of these severe restrictions. The Division will inform the Croatian civilian authority.

3. The hostages camps ordered by paragraph 7 of the order mentioned in reference above are to be erected not only by the German Headquarters Authority but also by the Croatian Military Authority.

"Captured bandits and hostages seized are to be put separately into these hostage camps.

"The division is to be informed by name of incoming bandits and hostages. The report must show further: sex, place of birth, date of birth and residence.

"In regard to seizure of hostages attention is called to the circle of persons pursuant to order Ic secret 2 Enclosure.

Major General Mojor (Brigadier General) Distribution:

Your Honors will recall that this particular division commanded by General Fischer fought as a part of the XVth Mountain Corps at that time.

Your Honors, turn now to page 77, defense counsel to page 55 please. We are now offering NOKW-1117, prosecution Exhibit 348. There again, your Honors, we have a number of German teletype reports which were addressed to the XVth Army Corps which at that time was under the command of the defendant Leyser. It was transmitted by the advance command post of Lueters and it says:

"East SARAJEVO Light Infantry Reserve Regiment 1 (JAEGER RESERVE REGT) drove the Cetniks back toward East. Houses fortified for defense and several hide-outs burned down. 7 enemy dead counted. 1st Company 6th Croatian Mountain Regiment dispersed during a weak night attack without any noteworthy resistance. With that almost the entire 6th Regiment dissolved now. East of SOKOLAC supposedly.

"fighting between Cetniks and Communists. Enemy concentrations near LASVA and KARANJ recognizable. There Cetniks and Communists are united. Northwest of SARAJEVO surprise attacks on truck column, railway stations, and railway.

27 Cetniks will be hanged in retaliation.

Command Post Gen. Lueters (?)" Your Honors, on page 78, page 55 and 56 respectively of the German document book, we find the end of this particular message which was attached to the one which I have just previously read into the record.

If you turn now to page 79 or page 57 of the German document book, we will find part of this message I just have referred to. Your Honors, the first two lines, which is marked on top of this page as page 4, do not appear in the German document book. I will now, with your Honors' permission, hand this to the interpreter who merely will read the translation into the record if this is agreeable to your Honors.

THE PRESIDENT: It is acceptable and you may have it presented to the interpreter. If the interpreters will please indicate the place in the German document book where the insertion should be made and then pause a moment so that they may find it before they commence reading, it will perhaps be helpful to counsel.

(The interpreter read the document in German).

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, I believe this appears in the German document book. It is the previous paragraph I have pointed out to your Honor what the interpreter was to translate. I was just following this in the German language, and I notice that they were putting into the record the wrong paragraph. It is on page 4 of the original and I believe in German it should start out "In Vergeltung." I believe so.

MR. RAPP: Thank you, that is all.

PRESIDING JUDGE MENNERSTRUM: Did the German Counsel get the insertion? They have indicated that they have.

MR. RAPP: Very well, your Honor.

PRESIDING JUDGE MENNERSTRUM: You may proceed.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor now we offer NOKW-944. You find it on page 80 of your Honors' document book and page 78 of German Defense counsel book. This the Prosecution offers as Exhibit 349. Your Honors, this is an order of the 369th Croatian Infantry Division issued on the 25th of October 1943 and it is a basic order as it refers to the treatment of captured bandits, disposal of their uniforms, arrest of hostages, hostage ratio to be used, etc. etc. We have before us, in the original, the 59th copy of this order. There were 60 copies issued altogether.

Department Ic No. 54/43 Top Secret.

Subject: Combatting bands, measures of reprisal and evacuation.

1. The increased activity of the bands demands severity and resolution in combatting them even with respect to every individual man.

11. Therefore, I order:

1.) All operations against organized groups of bands and single bandits are to be carried out with ruthless severity. The troop that is combatting the bands is not to stop at a mere dispersion of the bands, but must try to eradicate the bands, or at least part of them.

The plan of the operation must, of course, be made according to the above demand.

2.) The malicious combat manner of the bandits and their helpers in the Serbo-Croatian area often compels us to forbid the taking of prisoners in order to avoid unnecessary hazard to the troops. Such a providential instruction can be given out by the Commanders of regiments and Commanders equal in rank.

Without these orders the local leaders will act accordingly on their own responsibility.

3.) If, nevertheless, single bandits get into the hands of our troops alive, they are to be treated in the following way:

a.) Male members of bands capable of work who surrendered in combat in enemy uniform or in civilian dress can be treated as prisoners of war or kept back as hostages.

b.) All members of bands(irrespective of sex) found in German uniform or in the uniform of an Allied Army (malicious manner of combat, contrary to international law) are to be shot. They are to be carefully interrogated previously. A copy of the interrogation is to be sent to the Ic Department of the Division. The clothes are to be sent to the Clothing center of the Division (D.V.A.). Prisoners, however, who can make important statements are to be sent to the Ic Department of the Division.

4.)Members of bands, of whatever age or sex, who surrendered outside of combat actions, with or without arms, in whatever dress, to a German or Allied troop, are to be treated as enemy deserters. Bandits who desert during combat need not count on advantages. That means that they are to be treated as under Paragraph 3.). After a short interrogation by the troop for the purpose of our own information the members of bands counting as enemy deserters are to be sent to Ic Department of the Division.

5.) The propaganda of desertion is to be carried into the population by all means as up to now. Women and parents of members of bands who are still in liberty must be warned at every occasion, that they must count with the destruction of their houses or the arrest of hostages if their bandit does not surrender in time.

The same reprisals are to be threatened as are used towards those of the Division who are on leave. Corresponding leaflets will be sent separately to the troop units.

The propaganda of desertion, moreover, is to be encouraged by allowing to the deserters in every instance the good treatment and food that was assured them. The number of deserters is to be listed in the Daily Report.

6.) The taking of hostages is of special importance as a preventive measure of protection. It is to be carried out on orders of a Commander with the disciplinary authority of a regimental commander at least.

All classes of society are to be used. Selection is to be made in the first place from the following groups of persons:

Relatives of members of bands, Persons who are guilty of aiding and abetting the bands, Other suspicious persons.

The arrest of hostages is to be made known, to the population in the areas in question. Attention is to be drawn to the fact, that the hostages will be shot to death as soon as an attempt occurs. The publication has to be made in writing in accordance with the enclosed sample. For the posting of this publication the mayors and Croatian Gendarmerie posts are to be employed. A copy of the publication is to be sent to the department of the Division.

In further raids on members of the Wehrmacht or damages caused on installation necessary for the war will be answered by shooting to death or hanging of hostages as well as destroying of the surrounding villages. Before the villages are destroyed the population capable of bearing arms is to be arrested as far as possible. Only then will the population denounce concentrations of bands to the German authorities, so as to be safe against reprisal measures.

As measure of reprisal there can be shot to death, or hanged:

For 1 German killed - up to 50 Hostages For 1 German wounded - up to 25 hostages.

Your Honors will recall that this relates to the Rendulic order which was read previously into the record and the order was issued on the 15th of September 1943 and was offered as Prosecution Exhibit No. 340 and here we find that this order permeated all the way down to the Division DVA which was part of the 15th Corps at that time.

"The kidnapping of a German is equivalent to a killing, if the victim does not return within a given period.

"In carrying out the measures of reprisal the Croatian Police and the Gendarmerie are to be employed extensively.

"Measures of reprisal will be carried out on orders of at least a commander of a regiment or of a commander of equal rank.

"The arrest of hostages carried out as measures of reprisal is to be included in the Daily report.

Previous orders in regard to measures of reprisal and hostages are annulled and are to be destroyed."

"In order to purge infected areas the evacuation of all male inhabitants from 15 to 60 years of age may be necessary. The corresponding petitions are to be made through Ia and Ib Departments of the Division. The evacuation must be carried out with lightning speed so as to prevent a premature flight of the population. The arrested are to be conducted to the labor employment offices."

Then we find below a distribution according to draft and a suggestion on how the posters to notify the population of the pending killings of hostages should be made up.

JUDGE CARTER: Isn't it a fact, Mr. Rapp, that the Rendulic order was made on September 12 and not the 15th?

MR. RAPP: I believe that it was.

JUDGE CARTER: Isn't that the order issued three days before the Keitel order which was on the 15th?

MR. RAPP: No, your Honor, this particular order, this is Exhibit 340, dated 15 of September and pertains to the ratio of hostages which the defendant Rendulic felt was adequate for execution purposes in retaliation for losses suffered by the German Wehrmacht. It is on page 15 of the English Document Book. I believe, your Honor, there is another Rendulic order of the date quoted by your Honor but pertaining to the reprisals against Italians, also issued by the defendant Rendulic.

PRESIDING JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: You may proceed.

MR. RAPP: Thank you, your Honor. Your Honors please turn now to page 84 which is page 61 of German Defense Counsel's Book and we are offering NOKW 079, Prosecution Exhibit No. 350. This is a collection of daily reports of the 69th Reserve Corps and the XV and XXI Mountain Corps respectively to the 2nd Panzer Army. It states, in the middle of the page -- it first starts out:

11. Croatian Corps ---- As reprisal measures for the attack on the railroad base Southeast of Gracanica (20 kilometers Southeast of Doboj) (see Daily Report 13.10) 1 village was burned down and 100 bandits shot to death.

Then below daily report XV Mountain Army Corps dated 14.10.1943:

"11. Croatian Corps: Reprisal measures (see Daily report of yesterday) village of Petrovica burned down. 100 shot to death.

"Sender: 1st Lieutenant Ziegner, 1050 hours. Received: 1st Lieutenant Schulz/ Corporal Schmitz."

On the next page Your Honor there is a daily report dated the 14 of October by the 69th Reserve Corps, received from the 187th Reserve Division:

"187th Reserve Division:

"In Koritna (20 kilometers northwest of Vinkovici) a total of 74 hostages arrested."

Then the various identifications of the document when it was sent and when it arrived. At the bottom of this page, 85, we find again:

"187th Reserve Division : In Koritna (20 kilometers northwest of Vinkovci) 2 bandits arrested, 1 hanged on the spot. Levying of hostages."

The next page, your Honor, page 86 of the English Document Book and page 63 of the German Document Book:

"118th Jaeger Division: In the area 10 Northeast of Grahove, an enemy combat group was attacked and destroyed in a concentrate attack from the Northeast and West by Reconnaissance Section 118 and 1./738. Individual combat actions still under way. III./750 drove enemy from ridge 1177 (6 North of Podhan), then turned West--"

A little below that we find enemy losses:

"Order issued for shooting of officers. Presumably the figure will be considerably larger. Loss of enemy lives; not ascertainable."

Then, signed by 1st Lieutenant Schulz and Corporal Riemer.

Court No. V, Case No. VII.

Your Honors, turning now to page 87, please, pages 63 and 64 of the German Document book, respectively, we find again 187th Reserve Division, and it reports that:

"5.10 near Ivankovo 2 Communists wanted for a long time were arrested wearing German uniforms and carrying arms and written matter. 1 of them was a Volksdeutscher. Both Communists were hanged in Ivankovo. On 5.10. 43 the Wehrmacht telephone connection near Ivankovo was interrupted by Communists. Hanging of inhabitants of the village in case of recurrence was threatened."

And then under "d)":

"In Pivnica according to confidential report assembly of the XII Communist Brigade of about 2000 men said to have been ordered to attack Virovitica."

The next page, Your Honor, page 86, page 64 of the German Document Book, under "f)" we find:

"f) Taking of hostages in Andrijecci as reprisal measure for mines laid during the night from the 4th to the 5th of Oct."

And then a little bit below we find another reference saying:

"In reprisal for the attack reported in the morning report of 9.10 made on 9.10 at 0130 hours on the freight train on main railroad line 12 Southeast Vinkovci 20 bandit suspects from the locality of the incident executed at the place of the crime."

This, Your Honors concludes Prosecution Exhibit 350.

Your Honors, if you turn now, please to page 89 of your Document Book, and page 65 of the German Document Book, you will find NOKW-1010. This will be Exhibit 351.

If Your Honors, please, we believe that this particular order, which we are about to introduce into evidence and which was signed on the covering letter by the defendant Foertsch, will prove one of the most important basic orders we have to concern ourselves with here in our case in chief. This order highlights and points out for us the order of battle, the relationship of all units stationed in this area during that time, and we believe that this order proves the connection of the various defendants commanding their respective units, and how they are all interlocked and tied together to the top man at that time.

For all intents and purposes this order possibly involves the command of every one of the defendants in the docks, either by insinuation, by name, by mentioning the unit he commands, or in a way that order of battle will enter this case. The order is called:

"Commander-in-Chief Southeast -155 (High Command Army Group F) War Diary Ia/Id - No. 1067/43 Top Secret Headquarters 30.

10.43 I enclosure, stapled 8 Copies 3 Copy file H2 No. 26 "To Distribution:

Enclosed find draft of the basic order regarding the Command authority in the Southeast area.

Naval group Headquarters South and Luftwaffe Headquarters Southeast are requested to examine it, and to return it before 10.11.43.

Before 5.11.43 the following is to be submitted:"

I believe we can skip this very unimportant paragraph, and then it is signed:

"For the Commander-in-Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group F) The Chief of General Staff (signed) Foertsch "Distribution:

Naval Group Headquarters South Luftwaffe Headquarters Southeast Commander-in-Chief Southeast O.Qu.General of Transportation Southeast

Ic General of Engineers" And then it names on the right hand side of the sheet the copies they are to receive.

Then the next page we find:

"Army Group Senior Signals Officer 7th copy I d (E - Draft) 8th " (stamp) "Commander-in-Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group F) Received 31 Oct.

1943 No. 657 Section Q-1 Section Also read by:

(illeg. init.) J" And underneath it says:

"(handwritten) "Qu 2 with the request to add paragraph 2 and to contribute to enclosure 6. (illeg. signature)" And the date, "31. 10".

On page 91, and page 66 of the German Document Book, we find:

"Enclosure to Commander-in-Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group F) Ia/Id- No. 1067/43 Top Secret dated 30.

10.1943 "Command authority in the Southeast area.

Organization:

And then we have a, "Table of Enclosures" "Service instruction for the Military Commander Southeast.

Service instruction for the German General-Plenipotentiary in Croatia.

"Service instruction for the German General-Plenipotentiary in Albania, Simultaneously for the Administrative Sub-area headquarters in Montenegro.

"Fuehrer Directive No. 40 "Supply Transportation "Political Problems and Counter Intelligence.

"Engineering and Fortifications.

"Signal Enclosure To Commander-in-Chief Southeast" On your next page, Your Honor, page 92, which I believe is pages 66 and 67 of the German Document Book:

(High Command Army Group F)

Ia/Id - No. 1067/43 Top Secret dated 30.

10.1943" "Command authority in the Southeast area.

I.

"(Operational Channels of Command) "1.) The Commander-in-Chief Southeast (Commander-in-Chief of Army Group F) is charged with the conduct of the war in the entire German Area of operations in the Southeast."

At that time, Your Honors, the defendant Weich was Commander and Chief, Army Group F, and was Commander-in-Chief Southeast.

"The Commander-in-Chief Southeast is directly subordinate to the Fuhrrer.

"2.) The following are subordinate to the Commander-in-Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group F):

a) Army Group E

b) 2nd Panzer Army" (At that time commanded by defendant Rendulic).

"c) The German General-Plenipotentiary in Croatia with regard to his powers which go beyond his territorial duties and his duties as attache (service instruction enclosure 2) "d) The German Military Attache in Sofia with regard to his powers which go beyond his duties as attache (service instruction enclosure 4) "e) The Military Commander Southeast regarding all questions of the security of the country."

Your Honor will recall that the Military Commander Southeast was the former General Hans Felber, and his Chief of staff is present here in the dock in the person of defendant Geitner.

"3.) The main task of the Commander-in-Chief Southeast is the defense of the Southeast area against Anglo-American landing attempts from the sea or from the air.

The following assignments are made:

a) To the 2nd Panzer Army: - The defense of the area Croatia, Montenegro and Albania, in particular, the East Coast of the Adriatic.

"b) To Army Group E: - The defense of Greece including the Peloponnesus, the anterior Ionic Islands of Corfu, Cephalonia and Zante, of the Fortress of Crete, of the Island of Rhodes and of the following Aegean Islands: Skarpanto, Milos, Cos, Leros, Samos, Chios, Mytilene and Lemnos.

"4.) In addition the Commander-in-Chief Southeast is responsible for the security in the interior of the country as well as for the combatting of bands and for counter-intelligence measures against sabotage.

"In all questions regarding the security of the country:

"a) The Military Commander Southeast in his capacity as Military Commander Serbia is directly subordinate to the Commander-in-Chief Southeast.

"b) The Military Commander Greece is subordinate to the Commanding Officer of Army Group E.

"c) The German General-Plenipotentiary in Albania and Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters Montenegro as well, if the occasion arises, the German Commanding General-Plenipotentiary in Croatia are subordinate to the Commander-in-Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army. All security units are subordinate to the Commander-in-Chief of the territory in which they are stationed. The Commander-in-Chief makes decisions regarding their commitment and their conditions of subordination."

If you will permit Your Honors, the part we just read under para.b) "The Military Commander Greece is subordinate to the Commanding Officer of Army Group E," at that time the defendant Speidel was the Military Commander in Greece.

"The Commander-in-Chief is authorized to charge the Military Commanders with certain security duties and for this purpose to Court No. V, Case No. VII.

"subordinate the required security units to them.

"The conduct of the war at sea in the Southeast area is carried out by Navy Group Headquarters South. For this purpose the Commanding Admiral Aegean for the area of the Aegean and of the Ionic Sea, and for the area of the Adriatic Sea the Commanding Admiral Adriatic are subordinate to Navy Group Headquarters South.

"In questions of coastal defense the Commanding Admiral Aegean is subordinate to the Commander-in-Chief of Army Group E, the Commanding Admiral Adriatic Subordinate to the Commander-in-Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army by virtue of Fuehrer directive No. 40.

"The conduct of the war in the air in the Southeast and in the Eastern Mediterranean area, as well as preparation and leadership of aerial defense is the duty of the Luftwaffe Headquarters Southeast in accordance with detailed directives of the Commander-in-Chief of the Luftwaffe. By virtue of the Fuehrer directive No. 40 Luftwaffe Headquarters Southeast is subordinate to the Commander-in-Chief Southeast with regard to the preparation and carrying out of coastal defense.

"Subordinate to the Luftwaffe Headquarters Southeast are; the 10th Fliegerkorps for the area Greece; the 'Fliegerfuehrer Albania', for the area Albania-Montenegro and the 'Fliegerfuehrer Croatia' for the area Croatia and Serbia.

"(Territorial Channels of Command) "1.) The Military Commander Southeast exercises the territorial authority and the executive power in the Southeast area.

In this respect he is subordinate to the Chief of the Wehrmacht High Command.

"Subordinate to him are:

"The Military Commander Greece". That is the defendant, Speidel.

"The German General-Plenipotentiary in Croatia". His name you will find, your Honors, on the map, in Croatia, Glaise-Horstenau.

"The German General-Plenipotentiary in Albania and the Administrative Sub-area Headquarters Montenegro", Gullman and Keiper, "only by special order if the interior situation of Albania permits a transfer of the executive power.

"2.) The Commander-in-Chief Southeast issues directives to the Military Commander Southeast as far as affairs of troop leadership are concerned. He is authorized to intervene, as far as this is necessary, in essential questions in the interests of his tasks.

"The Commander-in-Chief Southeast has delegated these powers to the Commander-in-Chief of Army Group E as concerns the Military Commander Greece, to the Commander-in-Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army as concerns the Military Commander Serbia as concerns the Commanding General-Plenipotentiary in Albania (Military Commander Albania-Montenegro) and as concerns the Commanding General-Plenipotentiary in Croatia. "Orders issued by virtue of this directive are to be reported to the Commander-in-Chief Southeast as they occur.

3.) Service instruction of the German General-Plenipotentiary in Croatia, see enclosure 2."

Then if Your Honors will turn to the next page:

"4.) Service instruction of the German General-Plenipotentiary in Albania, simultaneously for Administrative Sub-area Headquarters Montenegro, see enclosure 3.

"5.) The uniform treatment of questions of foreign policy of the southeast area is the responsibility of the 'Special Plenipotentiary of the Foreign Office for the Southeast Area'. He receives his directives from the Reich Foreign Minister and is instructed to inform the military authorities (Commander-in-Chief Southeast, Military Commander Southeast) concerning these directives as far "as they concern military leadership or administration, as well as to inform them regarding foreign--political intentions and measures1 "III "(Execution stipulations regarding Coastal Defense) "1.) The responsibility in the sense of the Fuehrer Directive No. 40, III paragraph 1.) for the preparation of and carrying out of the defense of the coastal territories in the Southeast area against landing attacks of the enemy powers rests with the "Commander-in-Chief Southeast "It is the task of the Commander-in-Chief Southeast to secure the required close and complete co-operation of all branches of the Wehrmacht including the Allies.

"2.) Authoritative for this are in General:

a) Fuehrer Directive No. 40 (Enclosure 5)

b) "Orders for the defense of the Southeast area."

c) Supplement regarding experiences in coastal defense (OKW/WFST/Op. No. 02914/42 secret dated 23.9.1942)

d) "Individual orders for coastal defense" issued by the Commander-in-Chief Southeast.

e) Supplement regarding defense of parachutists and airborne troops dated 10.5.1943.

"3.) Within the framework of the preparation and the carrying out of the defense of the coasts, the Commander-in-Chief Southeast has command authority as concerns Headquarter authorities of the branches of the Wehrmacht, as concerns civilian offices installed there, as well as concerns units and organizations outside of the Wehrmacht which are present in its area.

"The Commander-in-Chief of Army Group E and the Commander-in-Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army have the same authority within their area.

"4.) Navy:

"According to the directives issued by the Commander-in-Chief Southeast for the preparation and for the conduct of the war, the following tasks devolve on the Commanding Admiral Aegean."

Then if your Honors will look at the middle, at the bottom of the page, we find:

"Agreement of the High Command of Army Group E or of the High Command of the 2nd Panzer Army is required with regard to the disposition of the Army Coast Artillery.

"The Commanding Admiral Aegean (Adriatic) is responsible for the fulfillment of tasks set to him by the Commander-in-Chief of Army Group E (Commander-in-Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army) to the latter. He is responsible to the Naval Group Command South for the technically correct execution of the measures taken.

"Accordingly in the preparation and the execution of the defense at and around the coasts naval leadership authorities subordinate to the Commanding Admirals (Naval Commanders, etc.) have the same rights and duties with respect to sector commanders, etc."

Turning now to paragraph 3 for the duties of the Luftwaffe, and this is on page 73 of defense counsel's book:

"Luftwaffe!

"For the duties of the Luftwaffe Command Southeast in regard to execution and preparation of aerial defense see "Orders for the defense of the Southeast Area".

"If the danger threatens -- for instance in case of a surprise enemy landing -- all Luftwaffe units (without the flying units) are subordinate directly to the Commander-in-Chief of Army Group E and of the 2nd Panzer Army in the areas concerned.

"6.) Exchange of information of all forces participating in the defense of the Southeast Area is of particular importance in the fulfillment of the mutual tasks.

"Commander-in-Chief Southeast will audit directly the reconnaissance circle of the Luftwaffe and the Navy.

"Naval Group Command South, independently of the above, will submit to the Commander-in-Chief Southeast all important information which has a direct connection with the affairs of the Commander-in-Chief Southeast. The Commander-in-Chief Southeast himself will apply the same procedure.

"Luftwaffe Command Southeast sends all news and enemy information from this area continuously to the Commander-in-Chief Southeast.

"Enemy information and reports are exchanged directly between "a) Luftwaffe Command Southeast after its transfer X Air Corps with the High Command Army Group E. The cooperation of the High Command Army Group E with the 10th Air Corps intended at present will not be interfered with thereby.

"b) The Commanding Admiral Aegean with High Command Army Group E.

"c) Fliegerfuehrer Croatia or Field Air District Command XXX respectively with 2nd Panzer Army.

"d) Commanding Admiral Adriatic with 2nd Panzer Army.

"Within their own areas the High Command Army Group E and 2nd Panzer Army will regulate exchange of news and information according to their own judgment.

"To secure a standard reception of all news broadcasts in the Mediterranean circle which are heard by the command authorities, summarized short announcements of the results of "Reconnaissance Mediterranean", edited by the Commander-in-Chief Southeast, will be broadcast additionally.

"News and information above and beyond the area of the High Command Army Group E or the 2nd Panzer Army will be transmitted to them from case to case by the Commander-in-Chief Southeast.

"Continuous personal contacts of the counter intelligence officers (Ic) is deemed advisable.

IV (Special areas and concluding stipulations) We can skip this sub-section 1. Sub section 2 says:

"This order is to be passed on to subordinate authorities only in excerpts and then only insofar as absolutely necessary.

The secrecy classification of the enclosures is indicated on them.

"3) The order "Commander-in-Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group E) Ia-No. 025/43 top secret Chefsache dated 15.2.1943" is hereby rescinded and is to be destroyed."

PRESIDENT:WENNERSTRUM: We will take our morning recess.

(Recess was taken).

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the Courtroom will please find their seats.

The Tribunal is again in session; there will be order in the Court.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed.

MR. RAPP: With your Honors' permission I would like to hand up to you, to the bench, the document I have just put into the record, for the purpose of identifying the signature of the Defendant Foertsch on the covering sheet. (Document viewed by the Tribunal.)

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, if you now turn please to Page 101 of your Document Book, and if defense counsel turns to Page 75 of their Document Book, you will find Document No. NOKW-807. The Prosecution is offering this document in Exhibit to be marked No. 353. This document, dated the 6th of November 1943, shows a Daily Report of the 373rd Croatian Division, to the 15th Mountain Corps, at that time, commanded by the Defendant Leyser. It says: "Transmitted: Day: 5 November, Time 2300, Sender, Daily Report for 6 November 1943, Handwritten: 182 4.) Area Bos. Krupa: During special operations towards Jvanjska-Otave 4 November (2 km North of Blatna) 1 man and 4 women arrested. 12 houses burned down as reprisal measure for blowing up railway 1 November. Population has fled." Signed "373rd (Croatian) Infantry Division, Section Ia, Handwritten: initials." The next document, Your Honors, you will find on Page 103 of your Document Book.

THE PRESIDENT: Pardon me, sir. My Document Book has Pages 103 and 104 missing, unless there's some... I find them over about four or five pages on, so....

MR. RAPP: You did find them, Your Honor?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, sir; they were out of order.

MR RAPP: Defense counsel will find this document on Page 76. This, Your Honors, is Document No. NOKW-786. It is offered as Prosecution's Exhibit No. 353. It is a report dated the 19th of November 1943, again sent by the 373rd Croatian Infantry Division to the Headquarters of the 15th Mountain Corps, and is again a Daily Report in the nature of a TWX message, and it states:

"In the area east of the supply road, north of Nebeljusi, the reconnaissance encountered an enemy patrol. 1 bandit was shot.

.....

II.) 2 men of the SS-Nordland unit escaped from captivity (II. Banja Brigade 7. Division) and deserted when Cazin was attacked. Hereby confirmation of 7. Division and its Brigade."

MR. RAPP: And then on page 104 we find the final signature:

"373 (Croatian) Infantry Division, Ia, (initial illegible)."

On Page 104, Your Honors, we are offering Document No. NOKW-808. This is German defense counsel's book, Page 77 and Page 79. This will be marked as Prosecution's Exhibit No. 354. Once again we have the 373rd Croatian Infantry Division, addressed to the Corps Headquarters of the 15th Mountain Corps, still, at that time, commanded by the Defendant Leyser, and it states under Roman II:

"II B) Details:

Area Banja Luka – Kotor Varos – Prnjavor:

Contradictory reports have come in from the area East of Banja Luka. After a temporary threat to the road Banja Luka–Bosn. Gradiska the enemy, V and XII Croatian Brigade withdrew to the South (Kotor Varos) and East (Cecave, 44 East Southeast Banja Luka). According to later reports, the enemy again thrust ahead toward the Northeast in the direction of Prnjavor which is said to have been taken by Cetniks on 14.11. Only unconfirmed individual reports are available regarding the IX Croatian Brigade (South Kotor Varos), which has been newly reported in the divisional area and the XIV Brigade. Obviously these Brigades limit themselves to compulsory recruitment in the territory occupied by them.

Area Prijedor – Bosn. Drupa:

New strong forces of bandits have re-assembled around Prijedor: in the South and Southwest: IV, VI, VIII, XI and XIII, Croatian Brigade. In the North: V. Kozara and an unconfirmed Brigade which are planning an attack on Prijedor, after the weakening of the German occupation and after the expected withdrawal of the Panzers.

The XI Croatian Brigade which withdrew to the North (Bosn. Dubica) and the Northwest in the beginning of November arrived again Southwest of Prijedor on the 10.11. The Brigade is said to have participated in the surprise attack on an empty train near Dragotinja (10 Northwest Prijedor) on the 11th November. The VIII Croatian Brigade, after their withdrawal by way of Prav. Jasenica (12 South Krupa), threatened the railroad stations North of Otoka and Krupa and the base of Gudovac (6 South Krupa) and parts of it were even confirmed on the other side of the Upa River near Vrelo (12.4. North Bihac).

The railroad line Bosn. Novi – Prijedor continues to be endangered to a great extent.

Area Bosn. Novi – Bihac – Cazin:

Before the attack of the bandits on Cazin the following band movements were reported:

The 8th Division moved Eastward from the area of Slunj with the II and III (Kordun) Brigade while the I branched off towards the South and is said to have withdrawn into the area Southeast of Bihac (Hrgar)."

MR. RAPP: This is Roman Numeral I.

"At the same time the Plaski-Battalion withdrew from Ljeskovac (21 West Northwest Bihac) to Mutnik (17 North Bihac) and the VIII Croatian Brigade with units via Stijena (18 Northeast Bihac) up to Vrelo (12.5 North Bihac).

The 7th Division came by forced marches from Banja via Dvor (4 North Northeast Bosn. Novi) and attacked Cazin with 3 Brigades on 14.11. Its III Brigade remained in the area Otoka as a protection toward the East.

The 13th Division which belongs to the same Corps (IV Corps) is also alleged to be marching on Cazin, according to reports of the Croatian Police. However, this could not be confirmed from there. According to latest reports the division is in the area West of Kostajnica. Cazin was temporarily occupied by the enemies but has been retaken. The enemy withdrew toward North as follows:

The II Banja Brigade to Skokovi (24 North Northeast Bihac) the other Brigades (I, III and IV Banija.) via Buzim (30. Northeast Bihac) in the direction of Glina (60 North Northeast Bihac).

The units of the VIII Brigade retired in an easterly direction, There are no reports of the garrison of the Plaski-Battalion and of the Brigades of the 8th Division available at present.

Your Honors, turn now to page 109, defense counsel's page 84. You will find Document NOKW-700. This document is being offered as Prosecution Exhibit 355. This document, your Honor, is a report of the 297th Infantry Division, dated the 25th of November, 1943, to the XXIst Mountain Corps, re the execution of Communists and communist leaders. The XXIst Mountain Corps was a part of the II Panzer Army which at that time was commanded by the defendant Rendulic.

THE PRESIDENT: This is Document 355, is it not? I mean Exhibit 355?

MR. RAPP: That is correct, Exhibit 355. It states?

If I be permitted to call your Honors' attention to the particulars in indictment under Count 2, especially sub-paragraph 9-I, the report of the 173rd Infantry Reserve Division as part of the LXIX Corps, is listed in the indictment as a particular. It reads: "I. On or about 27 November 1943, troops of the 173rd Reserve Division, under the command and jurisdiction of the LXIX Reserve Corps burned the Croatian village of Kroaci."

This, your Honor, will conclude NOKW-049 which has been marked as Prosecution Exhibit 356.

If Your Honors turn now to page 111, defense counsels' book page 86, we are submitting NOKW-048 and asking that it be marked as Prosecution Exhibit 357.

DR. ULLMER.- Ullmer for the defendant Dehner, deputizing for defense counsel Froese.

With regard to document No. 049. I want to object that in this case it is a daily report without signature and without confirmation.

MR. RAPP: This is the same type of document which we had talked about previously and we like to emphasize again that this document or this particular page of this document fell into our hands as is, and we submitted it to the Tribunal for whatever weight the Tribunal wishes to give to this document.

THE PRESIDENT: Overruled.

MR. RAPP: We were on page 11 of your document books, your Honors, and it was marked NOKW-048, Prosecution Exhibit 357. This is a report dated the 30th of November, 1943, a report of the LXIX Reserve Corps to the II Panzer Army pertaining to the revenge measures against suspects.

As reprisal measure 15 people suspected of being bandits shot.

.....

DR. ULLMER.- Ullmer for the defendant Dehner. I regret to have to make the same objection once more. But, in contrast to the previous document, I must point out this: the previous document was a daily report which after all is done informally. Here a secret order is in question. If here without authentication and without signature, a secret order is being submitted. We can at least expect it to bear a number indicating it; a secret document without a number must be looked upon as completely without any importance and for this reason I again object to the submission of this document.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal accepts this exhibit as being a document obtained at the close of the war and it will receive such probative value as the Tribunal deems that it merits. It is conscious of the comments made by the counsel and as disclosed by the document but my previous statement as to the character of the exhibit is such that no further comment is necessary.

The objection will be overruled.

MR. RAPP: If Your Honors now please turn to page 112 of your document book. Defense counsel will find this on page 87 of their document book. The Prosecution submits at this time NOKW-075 which we offer as Prosecution Exhibit to be marked No. 358. This document, your Honor, is a series of reports of subordinate units to the 2nd Panzer Army pertaining to the execution of hostages, bandits, suspects and the like. The first report is the copy of a teletype of November 3 at 2400 hours and November 4 at 0530 hours and a daily report of the 69th Reserve Corps of November 4, 1943.

..... In Jamina and Racinovci (18 and 11 East Brcko) hostages seized by the I/150. In Stresinci (20 Northwest Brcko) 3 persons shot to death while attempting to escape.

c) Night from 2 to the 3 of November 2400 hours band attack (400 men with 5 light machine guns) on Podgarica (22 Northwest Djajkovo). Invading bandits thrown out by counter-thrust.

.....

d) 2.11. in Novo Topolja (17 East Northeast Broad) band suspects taken along. Village burned down. While detachment was riding off it received machine gun fire.

At this time the 69th Reserve Corps was still under the Command of the defendant Dehner.

The next one is a copy of a teletype of the 2nd Brandenburg Regiment of 18.11.43 sent at 2.14 hours, Daily Report of 19.11.43.

"Enemy losses and losses of your own: None.

"3 prisoners (Italian officers) (See report of 16.11.43) shot to death. From Infantry ammunition found it has been established that enemy is using exploding and dum dum bullets."

On the next page, Your Honor, we have a report dated 31 of October 1943 from the 187th Reserve Division: It states:

..... 1500 hours, North of road Topolje (18 East Northeast Brod) 7 bandits in German uniform engaged in combat by patrol (Kuban-Cossack Mounted Regiment 3). No losses of our own, enemy losses 3 dead, 9 suspected of belonging to band shot to death.

b) Mopping up operations against Petrovic. Cossack signal battalion had contact with the enemy. Enemy losses; 2 dead, 5 prisoners, 10 hostages seized.

Then we have a report from the SS Division, Prinz Eugen, that is, the 7th SS Mountain Division, which fought as a part of the Vth SS Mountain Corps which was a part of the defendant Rendulic 2nd Panzer Army. It is dated November 3, 1943:

"Band activity in area northwest Regatin-Ploca. Our own patrols destroyed enemy occupied villages of Sipak, Perasko, Slato and shot to death 12 bandits and all inhabitants of the village. Ammunition exploded while houses were burned down."

On the next page, your Honor, page 88 of the German Document Book, it says, under "Intention":

"Mopping up of Kresove. Fighter detachments in area 10 South southeast Visoko and west and southwest Zenica. Losses: 4 wounded, 1 missing. Enemy losses: 11 dead, 3 counted wounded, 10 hostages."

Then we have a copy of a teletype message dated the 5 of November 1943, still submitted by the Vth SS Mountain Area Corps saying:

"In Sinj SS man shot to death secretly. In reprisal 24 hostages shot to death, 1 hanged."

Then at the bottom of page 114, top of German Defense Document Book 89, you find daily report LXIX Reserve Corps 6.11.43:

"Report of confidential agent: 500 to 800 bandits in area of Jamena.

"After railroad sabotage 3 East Nova Gradiska (see Daily report 5.11. paragraph 11d) the area north of the place of explosion was combed through. Bandits and people suspected of being bandits were hanged at the place of explosion."

Then another report from the XV Mountain Corps dated November 6, 1943, pertaining to the defendant Leyser:

"373rd Division: In reprisal for railroad explosion near Blatna 5 civilians arrested, 12 houses burned down."

Then "by order of the Mountain Jaeger Brigade of the Vth Mountain Jaeger Regiment 18 hostages arrested."

Then on the next page, page 116, still page 89 of the German Document Book, it says:

Details to Daily report.

Daily Report of 3.11.

Paragraph 2a)

c) Family of signal man Petric who left his post at 1800 hours will be seized as hostages if Petric does not return.

c) There is nothing incriminating here. Obviously common cause between signal man and plotters.

Paragraph 2 d).

c) 9th Company. . . . R 12 Units of occupation Bos. Novi dispersed enemy. Mopping up around Ravnice and Bos. Novi necessary, North of Blatna 12 houses burned down by 373 rd Infantry Division.

The next page, your Honor, page 90 of the German Document Book, a copy of teletype LXIX Reserve Corps of November 6, 1943, sent at 2400, arrived at 0255:

"Daily report of 7.11.43: 173rd Reserve Division: In reprisal for blasting of railroad Mitrovica-Lacarak on 1.11, 19 Communists hanged on place of blasting.

"187th Reserve Division: Area Brcko: Jamena after evacuation partly burned down because it was a pronounced nest of bandits."

If Your Honors turn now please to page 118 we have another teletype message which states:

XXI Mountain Corps297th Infantry Division:

1/524 near Isvor (12 west Kizevo) repelled several heavy attacks by Italian Communist bandits partly in English and partly in German uniforms. Subsequently they were taken back to Kizevo.

Then we have a report again from the XV Mountain Corps dated 18 of November 1943. And, at that time the 114 Jaeger Division was fighting as a part of the XV Mountain Corps. It states:

"Enemy concentrations in area 30 East Gracac, 4 Southeast Medak and 10 Northeast Gracac are threatening main supply roads. Railroad installations Southeast Sibenik repaired by employment of civilians by the First Railroad Engineer Training Battalion."

Your Honors our next page, that is 119 of your document book, page 91 of the German Document Book, is a report of the 187th Reserve Division stating:

"16.11. Patrol of Reserve Grenadier Regiment 130 attacked by about 300 to 400 bandits near railroad station of Velika (14 North Pozega).

"Enemy losses: Besides one prisoner not confirmed. 40 hostages seized in Velika."

Below that, your Honors, you find a daily report from the LXIX Reserve Corps dated the 15 of November 1943:

"187th Reserve Division reports: As reprisal measure for attack on passenger train 2 West Okucani, 187th Reserve Division.

PRESIDING JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: You will please.

MR. RAPP: May I cite for the benefit of defense counsel what particular sentence I have reference to. I have underlined in my book stating: not in the German Book. The sentence is:

"Reprisal measures ordered by the 173rd Reserve Division and will be executed by SD Ruma."

Does that appear in the German Document Book?

DR. LATERNER: Yes.

MR. RAPP: Thank you very much. That is page 92. Then your Honor, it states:

"10 November. A Croatian train loaded with supply goods, among them 23 tanks cars, hit a mine on the track onr north between Novska and Lipovliani an 10.11 1900 hours."

I. Shortly afterwards the place of attack was sealed off by dynamiting of tracks at 6.1 kilometer and 9.1 kilometer and the base point at 7.2 kilometer was kept under fire. The bandits looted the train, among other things they carried off flour from vehicles kept in readiness and then they set the train afire.....

The Railroad Security Sector east Vovska alerted Panzer train 65 which drove to the place of attack. The artillery of the Panzer train shot about 20 rounds on the enemy, which was withdrawing in a northwesterly direction. A personal inspection by the Inspector of the Railroad Security On 11.11 at 1100 hours did not reveal as yet that the responsible 1st Croatian Mountain Brigade in Kutina (187th Infantry Division) had undertaken anything in the way of reprisal measures.

Then a "Copu Teletype LXIX Reserve Corps of 12.11.43" II. Operation "Ferkel"

b) Subsidiary operation: During the night of 10,11 band attack by 1500 men with anti-tank guns, trench mortars and artillery against the entire front south of Brcko. Simultaneously band attack of 300 to 400 men against bridgehead east of Brcko. Enemy well led.

III. 173rd, Reserve Division.

In reprisal for railroad sabotage near Stara Pazova and for attack on patrol 40 southeast Vukovar 20 hostages hanged and 20 shot to death.

The 1st Cossack Division on the same document page reports:

During reconnaissance operation toward Puni Tovei (13 north Djakovo) 9 bandits shot to deaths.

This, Your Honor, completes Document 075, Prosecution Exhibit 358.

Your Honors, the next document which is offered in evidence is NOKW 1370. Your Honors will find this on page 123. of your Document Book, the Defense Counsels on Page 94. This document is offered in evidence as Prosecution Exhibit 359. This is an order dated 26 November 1943 by the XV Mountain Group, pertaining to the of able bodied male population, and the operation which was carried on under the cover name "Panther". This document is partially signed by the defendant Leyser.

It starts out:

TOP SECRET (Handwritten:) Top Secret, Qu 429/43 dated 2 December 1943 Headquarters XVth Mountain Corps Ia Section, No. 984/43 Top Secret Local Quarters, 1 December 1943 6th copy of 9 copies

OPERATION ORDER FOR "OPERATION PANTHER"

1.) Enemy Units of communist bands between UNA and KORANA (about 7 – 8,000 men, partly equipped with captured Italian arms) are attacking GLINA at the present time and are constantly disrupting the railroads ZAGREB – SUNJA and SUNJA – BIHAC.

Their support, with many supply depots and hide-outs, lies mainly in the SAMARICA and in the area of PETROVA GORA.

2.) XVth Mountain Corps will destroy these bands and their supply bases. The operation will be known by the code name of "Panther".

The next page, Your Honor, "enclosure 2 to 1st Cossack Division, Ib Section, Letter-Registry No. 2034/43; secret, dated 28 November 1943."

There is an endorsement to the 1st Cossack Division, and it states:

"1st Cossack Division, Section Ib... Medical companies are fully equipped with weapons and the equipment pertaining thereto. The second truck and the ambulance drawn by four horses is missing for each medical company."

And at the end of the page:

"Headquarters 2nd Panzer Army/O.Qu.

"3-Day Report as of 26 November: With 114th Division, 420 Military Internees at Knin Camp; with 373rd Division 16 members of bands and 9 hostages, 6 members of bands, etc."

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honors, I would like to ask for the correction of the translation in the English Document Book. On Page 123 the words used on page 94 of the German Document Book, and I quote now: "Vernichtung der Banden." These words are translated, I quote again "Destruction of the bands." This translation is not correct, for "Vernichtung" is a military term for which there should be an equivalent in the English language. I don't want to name it in order not to influence the interpreters as I have been asked not to do so.

THE PRESIDENT: If you will send it up to the interpreters they will follow the procedure heretofore taken. For the record if the interpreters will read it and give the section that they refer to in the translation it will be appreciated.

THE INTERPRETER: In the German Document Book it is on page 94, Section 3, sub-section A; in the English Document Book page 123, Section 5: "Condition of the War", sub-section A, and the translation reads:

"Destruction of the bands," which is in German "Vernichtung der Banden."

THE PRESIDENT: That is the translation that is given by the translators in this court?

THE TRANSLATOR: Yes, it is.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, may I say something to that? I haven't understood the words which are now to be used for this translation.

THE PRESIDENT: The interpreter will again repeat.

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, I don't think it is the right translation of this military term, and I ask for a definite decision from the Chief of the Translation Division. The military term for "Vernichtung" is to destroy.

THE PRESIDENT: The request will be granted, and it will be taken up through channels.

The Tribunal will be in recess until 1:30 this afternoon.

(Thereupon at 12:15 a recess was taken until 1:30 PM)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: You may proceed.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors will recall that prior to the recess, we had discussed NOKW 1370. With your Honors permission, I would like now to hand this document up to the bench for signature identification of the defendant, Leyser.

Your Honors, if you now turn, please, to page 126 of your document book, and defense counsel, I refer to pages 96 and 97 of the German document book, we now come to NOKW 830, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 360.

I would like to call to your Honor's attention the fact that this particular document NOKW 830 has already been offered by the Prosecution as Exhibit 326, Document Book 13. The purpose of introducing this particular instrument again at this time is for the purpose of only putting page 128 of this document into the record.

If your Honors will turn to page 128 of this document, - I refer defense counsel to page 100 and 101, - we have in this document an entry dated December 3, 1943. This particular document, and this paragraph has reference to the defendant Rendulic, the defendant Weichs and the defendant Foertsch:

"2nd Panzer Army's nations intention "Panther" and orders preparation of evacuation, which is to be kept completely secret from Croatian authorities, (and further orders) suggestions for its execution to be submitted. It is believed practical to transport the population capable of bearing arms, to Germany for labor employment."

And this is signed, "The Commanding General, V. Leyser, General of Infantry" initials "Pf".

For purpose of identification, with your Honors' permission, I would like to pass on to you this document to see the signature of the defendant Leyser.

Your Honors, turning now to page 129 of your document book, defense counsel book, pages 102 and 103, NOKW 1258 is offered, which will become Prosecution Exhibit 361.

This document in the form of a teletype message is dated the 6 December 1943, and pertains to a report of the 2nd Panzer Army and 15th Mountain Corps reoperation, "Panther". It also pertains to the deportation of able population for labor in Germany. It says: "Remarks: Top Secret." "December 7, 1943", and "15th Mountain Corps Headquarters", "Panther":

"Order received from Quartermaster.

1. Agree to proposal to carry out operation "Panther".
2. After contacting the German Plenipotentiary General in Croatia about evacuation it is ordered:
 - a. According to records available, operation "Panther" will concern about 6000 persons fit for military service. Camps for the population and prisoners concerned will be at SISAK and KARLOVAC.

Will be set up and looked after by 1036.

Administrative Subarea H.Q. Guards furnished by XVth Mountain Corps.

- b. The entire male population will not be evacuated but only:
 - (1) Suspects and strangers in villages they do not belong to.
 - (2) Those arrested outside villages.
 - c. German Plenipotentiary General in Croatia has five SD Groups ready for combing villages in the rear of military operations.
3. Headquarters XVth Mountain Corps will examine whether area concerned in "Panther" operation can be kept occupied after successful operation.

The Croatian Government could then be requested to provide administrative personnel.

4. The evacuation of the population fit for military service will be known by the code name of "SILBERSTREIFEN" (silver stripe) Panzer AOK 2 Ia No. 814/43 Top Secret Handwritten:

It is certified correct, and then a signature.

"After dispatch copy to: 1a, 1c and War Diary".

Your Honors, turning now to page 133, we have again before us a teletype message, defense counsel book 1 -- page 105. It is a message to the 15th Mountain Corps from the 2nd Panzer Army Commanded at that time by the defendant Rendulic, and the 15th Mountain Corps commanded by the defendant Leyser:

"Commencing about 6 December XVth Mountain Corps will conduct an operation to destroy the bands around GLINA and enemy supply bases in the PETROVA, GORA and SAMARIKA. This is to deny the bands the means to supply major forces and to ensure greater security for the railway.

"AGRAM – SISAK. The operation will be designated the code name "Panther". The main forces of the 371st Infantry Division will advance from the line OGULIN – KARLOVAC towards East and a blockade line formed by 1st Cossack Division and components of the 2nd "Croatian Light Infantry Brigade.

Duration of the operation until about 23 December 1943.

Since the area to be mopped up was always a bandit stronghold, it is intended to evacuate the entire male population fit for military service.

2). It is requested, with complete maintenance of secrecy underlined to Croatian Headquarters, to prepare the evacuation and to forward proposals for its execution to Panzer AOK2 as soon as possible.

Sending the evacuated population fit for military service to Germany for labor service is considered expedient."

Court No. V, Case No. VII

MR. RAPP: The next page, Your Honors, is an "Operational Order for Operation 'Panther'". Defense counsel will find this on Page 107 and Page 108 of their book.

"1.) ENEMY. Communist bands between UNA and KORONA (about 7-8000 men, partly with captured Italian arms) are at the present attacking GLINA and are interfering constantly with the railway lines AGRAM-SUNJA and SUNJA-BIHAC. Their main support with many supply depots and hide-outs is above all in the SMAARICA and in the area of the PETROVA.....

"2.) XVth Mountain Corps will destroy these bands and their supply bases. The operation will be designated 'Operation Panther'.

"3.) Forces:

371st Infantry Division with two reinforced Infantry Regiments and improvised motorized advance detachments.

"1st Cossack Division with 4 Cavalry Detachments for the attack and additional forces for the blockade line.

"373rd Infantry Division: With at least 2½ reinforced battalions and Croatian forces.

"5.) Conduct of Warfare:

.....

"6.) The entire male population fit for military service between 15 and 55 years of the area being mopped up is to be evacuated and removed to the camp at SISAK.

"7.) Securing Supplies:

Supplies found must be secured extensively for own requirements.

"Allocation of transportation for this must be arranged. Only those supplies are to be destroyed which cannot be transported inasmuch as they do not consist of absolute necessities for the local population.

Code Name: 'Panther'.

"4.) Corps Headquarters proposes to evacuated entire able bodied male population of the area to be mopped up, since this area was always a bandit stronghold."

On the next page you will find the various stamps and signatures authenticating this document, "Headquarters XVth Corps, Ia, dated 27 November 1943.

And then at the bottom, Paragraph 4, addressed to the 2nd Panzer Army, states:

"Corps Headquarters proposes to evacuate male population fit for military service, in the area to be mopped up, since it always was a bandit stronghold.

1 Enclosure" This concludes NOKW-1258, Your Honors, the first part of this document which I have just read, which was a telegram from the 2nd Panzer Army to the 15th Mountain Corps, a copy of which was found in the German document files in Washington, bears the initials of the Defendant Rendulic in the right-hand upper corner, and furthermore, in this document on one "age, the one referring to the operational order for the execution of the operation "Panther," is signed by the Defendant Leyser.

With Your Honors' permission I would like now to hand up this document to the bench for your inspection.

THE PRESIDENT: Where do you claim the initial of Rendulic is?

MR. RAPP: On the right-hand upper corner of the T*X. I believe it is the first page. There is an "R" and "E", or possibly an "E", starting with an "R".

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed.

DR. FRITSCH: (Fritsch for the Defendant Rendulic.) Your Honor, the Prosecutor referred to initials on the document submitted just now as originating from the Defendant Rendulic. I must object to that; these are not the initials of the Defendant Rendulic.

MR. RAPP: I beg your pardon, Your Honor, the defense counsel has not shown the Defendant the initials which we have referred to.

DR. FRITSCH: I beg your pardon. There has been a mistake. The initial referred to by the Prosecution is not the initial originating from the Defendant Rendulic. It is not.

THE PRESIDENT: The Prosecutor merely asserted that it was their claim, or the claim of the Prosecution, that this was the initial of the Defendant Rendulic. The defense will have ample opportunity to dispute that question on the presentation of their case.

DR. FRITSCH: Thank you.

MR. RAPP: If Your Honors now turn to Page 139 please, which is German Document Book Page 111, ...

THE PRESIDENT: Pardon me, Mr. Rapp. I think it also should be stated that there has been no proof that this is the initial of the Defendant Rendulic, and it is merely your statement to that effect.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, if you so desire, we will submit to the Tribunal a signature card of the Defendant Rendulic, and in addition to this, Your Honor, at the later time, if and when the Defendant Rendulic takes the stand and chooses to deny this to be his own initial, the Prosecution, at that time, may ask for a handwriting expert.

JUDGE CARTER: Mr. Rapp, doesn't the Prosecution have to offer some evidence that this is his signature or his initial? You have handed up here several signatures for us to look at. Now, we don't know who wrote those signatures. We look at them, but that doesn't establish anything.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, we have merely put into the record an allegation to this extent, and we will, at a later time in our case in chief, try to support this present allegation.

JUDGE CARTER: Well, I assume that that must follow.

MR. RAPP: Very well, Your Honor. If Your Honors will now turn to Page 139 we have before us Document No. NOKW-022, which becomes Prosecution's Exhibit No. 362. This, Your Honors, is a document dated the 2nd of December 1943. It is an order of the 2nd Panzer Army for the evacuation of the able bodied male population for labor in Germany during operation "Panther." Sender, 2nd Panzer Army, Ia, initial illegible, 2.12.43, teletype to German General Plenipotentiary in Croatia for information, Corps Headquarters 15th Mountain Corps:

"1.) On or about 6.12 Corps headquarters XVth Mountain Corps will execute an operation to break up the bands around Glina and to destroy enemy supply bases in the Petrova Gora and Samarika. Thereby the bands are to be deprived of supply possibilities for larger units and increased security of the railroad Zagreb/Sisak is to be achieved.

"The enterprise has the cover name "Panther". The operations to be executed by the 371 Jaeger Div. moving in an eastward direction, units of the 1st Thekla Cossack Division, parts of the 373 Otto Croatian Division, and parts of the 2nd Croatian Jaeger Brigade which are forming a blockade chain.

"Duration of the operation to approximately 23.12.43.

"Since the territory to be mooned up has always supported the bands, it is intended to evacuate the entire male population. "2.) It is requested to prepare the evacuation and to submit suggestions for its accomplishment as soon as possible to the 2nd Panzer Army, keeping it strictly secret as far as Croatian authorities are concerned. It is considered practical to transport the evacuated male population for labor employment.

If your Honors turn to page 141, we have now the last document in Document Book 14, NOKW-074. It is being offered as prosecution Exhibit 363. This document is dated the 4th of December, 1943. It is a teletype message to the 2nd Panzer Army from Croatia. It states:

Reference: Your teletype No. 1a 783/43 Top Secret. Defense counsel will find this document on page 112. According to the information at hand, about 6000 people capable of bearing arms, excluding all given possibilities, are to be counted on in the "Panther" operation. Camps for the population and prisoners concerned are to be Sisak and Karlovac. Erection and care possible through 1036th Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters. Security forces not at hand. The following is suggested and requested:

- 1) Not to evacuate all the male population at hand, but A) only suspicious people and strangers within the localities. B) Those seized outside the localities. 2) To hold ready for filtration within the localities 5 special purpose groups of the SD, following the military action. This is possible.
- 3) Hold Panther area as occupied as possible, after successful action. The Croatian government could be requested after the action to guarantee administrative forces for the area.

Deportation of all those capable of bearing arms to Germany might apparently come up against strong resistance from the Croatian government. Negotiations accordingly may take place only after the end of the action, through the embassy.

- 1). In supplement to Teletype 1a No. 955/43 Top Secret of 27 Nov 43, a sketch concerning the utilization of forces and planned execution of the operation "Panther" is presented.

The purpose of the operation is destruction of the bandit forces at Glina and destruction of the enemy supply bases in Petrova Gora and Samarica. Through cleaning-up of Samarica the possibility of provisioning larger forces is taken away from the bandits and the increased security of the Main Railway Zagreb-Sisak-Novska is assured.

On page 143, page 114 and 115 of the German document book, under "2", we find various tactical orders and in paragraph 4 it states:

- 4) The Corps Headquarters suggests that all the male population capable of bearing arms in the territory to be cleaned up, be evacuated, since this territory was always a bandit retreat.

Labor use in Germany?

Your Honors, this concludes Document Book 14. Your Honors, if I may be permitted to make a short reference to prosecution Exhibit NOKW-1258, which was offered as Exhibit 361, I believe that I called to your Honors' attention the fact that this document consisted of a teletype message of the 2nd Panzer Army and a march order for the operation "Panther" issued by the defendant Leyser.

For the purposes of the record, your Honor, I am trying to ascertain whether or not you have also taken notice of the signature of the defendant Leyser appearing in the middle of the document besides the initials which we allege to be that of defendant Rendulic.

JUDGE BURKE: To what page do you refer in the English document book?

MR. RAPP: I beg your pardon, your Honor?

JUDGE BURKE: To what page do you refer in the English document book?

MR. RAPP: In the document book? It is page 145. There are two signatures of the defendant Leyser in the middle of this document.

MR. RAPP: One page, your Honor, is page 138.

THE PRESIDENT: You claim the signatures on that page -

MR. RAPP: On page 138 of the document took, you will find in the original that I just have handed up to you, your Honor, a signature which is appearing here saying illegible. That is on page 12 of the original document you have before you, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: I think you should keep in mind the comments made by Judge Carter to the fact that it is incumbent upon the prosecution to prove that this is the signature of the defendant Leyser.

MR. RAPP: Yes, your Honor, we fully realize that.

JUDGE CARTER: It seems rather peculiar that we examine all these signatures when we have never seen one that anyone says is the signature of the defendant Leyser.

What do we compare it with? We can look at them and that is all.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors will recall that we have submitted to you previously affidavits of the defendants, signed in their own handwriting and the only purpose of showing these documents now at this time is to make your Honors familiar with the fact that these documents are signed by individuals who we believe to be the defendants.

JUDGE CARTER: Maybe I am getting a little technical but no one has ever said that he signed that instrument. Even the affidavit.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, the affidavit was read into the record as saying that he had read it, he had signed it, he had sworn to the truth of the contents and as such I believe your Honor was admitted into evidence.

JUDGE CARTER: We admitted it for what it was worth and until somebody establishes that it is the signature of the defendant, it isn't worth very much.

MR. RAPP: That is correct, your Honor. We will endeavor at the proper time to show proof to the court of the signatures. If I may be permitted to recall your Honors' attention to Document NOKW-509, which we discussed yesterday afternoon and there were various pages missing in the German document book, the pages I am referring to in your document book, your Honor, are pages 45, 46, 47, 48, 49 and the whole document of 509. Now the prosecution has meanwhile furnished Dr. Laternser sufficient copies of pages 45, 48, and 49 to distribute these pages to defense counsels and to insert these pages into their document books. If I may be permitted, for the purpose of the record, I would like now to read these pages into the record and have defense counsels properly identify them in their document books.

THE PRESIDENT: That will be agreeable. Will you kindly state, however, the Exhibit number and document number again?

MR. RAPP: Yes, your Honor. That was NOKW-509 and that was prosecution Exhibit 340. Now I shall only read that much of the document which was not read yesterday because it was missing in the German document book. Corps Headquarters, LXIX Reserve Corps, 1a. 3166/4406/43 Secret Corps Headquarters dated 30.1.43.

JUDGE CARTER: What page are you starting on?

MR. RAPP: I am starting on page 45, your Honor.

JUDGE BURKE: I think you are in error; it is on page 26 if you are referring to Exhibit 509.

MR. RAPP: I am referring to Exhibit 509, that is correct, your Honor.

JUDGE BURKE: That Exhibit starts on page -

MR. RAPP: It is document 509, Exhibit 340.

JUDGE BURKE: Yes, document 509, Exhibit 340.

MR. RAPP: That is correct.

JUDGE BURKE: Beginning on page 26.

MR. RAPP: On page 26? Thank you, your Honor, That is Corps Headquarters, LX IX Reserve Corps 1a. No. 3166/ 4406/43 Secret. Corps Headquarters -- have the interpreters the page?

INTERPRETER: Which page in the German document?

MR. RAPP: Dr. Latenser, have you a spare page, please?

The 173rd Reserve Division reports that after the close of the operation against the village of Lezimir, and after the divisional troops had marched off, the remainder of the population, which had been driven together in the town hall of Lezimir and which consisted of old men, women and children had been shot to death in the church by the SD by your order.

I myself was in Lezimir on the 27.11.43 and saw the old people and children, who seemed completely harmless to me. I should like you to tell me why you gave this order to shoot these people to death, in particular of what these people shot to death were suspected.

I further request information whether the SD actually shot these people to death inside the church.

Your Honors, Mr. Denney will now present document book XV.

MR. DENNEY: First, may it please your Honor we have some inserts to the exhibit for identification which is at the close of Document Book I. This is to be added to Exhibit 38a for identification. It lists the charges against the defendants offered with reference to Exhibit 4b in evidence. I have handed 24 copies to counsel for the defendants, copies to the Secretary-General, interpreters and the translators, and that goes to the end of Book I, and that is, as your Honors will recall, Exhibit 4b in evidence which was originally marked for identification.

PRESIDING JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: Which page number will that receive?

MR. DENNEY: Page 138 your Honor, of Book I. Then I have the similar chart for Book XI which will be pages 80 and 81 in Book XI and the exhibit number will be 284a for identification.

PRESIDING JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: Mr. Denney, may I take the liberty of asking again for the page number of the insert to Book I.

MR. DENNEY: Book I your Honor?

PRESIDING JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: Which you referred to first?

MR. DENNEY: Yes, Your Honor. Page 138, Document Book I; it is the fourth page of Prosecution Exhibit 38a for identification, 138 English Document Book I, being the fourth page of Prosecution Exhibit 58a for identification.

PRESIDING JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: Now, if you will also give us the information concerning this sheet that you have handed us concerning Document Book XI and with this suggestion may I say if you will circulate them first and then refer to the page number and identification mark so that we can put it down.

MR. DENNEY: Very well, if Your Honor please.

MR. DENNEY: Very well, if Your Honor, please.

THE PRESIDENT: If you will kindly refer to the Exhibit and page number again.

MR. DENNEY: 285-A, as in Able for identification; page 80 and 81 of the Document Book No. 11.

Continuing now with the same period in which Messrs. Fenstermacher and Rapp have been concerned for the past two books, we now start with Document Book 15. The first document which we offer is NOKW 1136, which is page 1 of the German and page 1 of the English of Book 15, and which is offered as Prosecution Document 164 in evidence. These are some reports from the 1st Cossack Division, which yesterday was concerned, if Your Honors will recall, under the 69th Corps. We have as yet seen no transfer of them to the 15th Corps. However, these reports are directed to the 15th Corps from the Division.

This first series of reports we have are all in teletype. The first one is dated 28 December 1943:

I. During the night a female bandit detachment / strength approx. 30 entirely destroyed bridge / southeast of Glina road bridge 4 Km West of Glina was blown during the night / still passable for pedestrians / reinforced raid from Sunja on Stremen without success / enemy retired over save / 71 male inhabitants eligible for service were arrested / a harvesting detachment was attacked by partisans in the Bijelnik district / 22 horses and 12 vehicles were lost / 1 bandit was shot / // 1/cossak division 1A Daily report// The second report is dated the 16th. These work backwards, Your Honor, please. It is again directed to the 15th Mountain Corps, and again the 1st Cossak Divsn.

Division / has combed out the areas Bacuga - Blinja Komogovina - Jabuvac - with units / all villages are evacuated / there are no more installations / villages and fortified shelters in forward areas were destroyed / paragraph /1/cossak/division/ IA The next report is for December 8, the same addresses, the 15th Mountain Corps, which at that time was commanded by defendant Leyser:

II. Telephone communication center for / quote / Banja / quote / blown up railroad near point / 101 repaired / during reprisal measures 36 civilian suspects were arrested as hostages / /1/ cossak/ division/

Then the report which was reported on the 7th December: at 0855:

12 Km northwest of Sisak empty train struck mine on water bridge / and it gives the map coordinance, bridge destroyed / restoration probably by noon on 8/ 12/ local safety ensured by units of regional defense company / company / of Croatian / railroad / guard / Battalion/VI // reprisal measures will be carried out on 8/12/. That is tomorrow, the 8th December, "By I/ R/ R /1 From Potrinja to Sela and Greda/ //

Own losses on 7/ 12/ amounted to 9 dead/// among them 1 German and 1 Cossak / officer/ /// 24 wounded among them 1 German and 1 Cossak / officer and 2 missing / 4 prisoners were taken/ //intentions for 8/ 12/ holding of the blockade line ///reenforced reconnaissance in Glika ---- Potrinja area /// reprisal action against Greda /

Then turning to page 6 in both the German and English Document Books, NOKW 1399, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 365 in evidence.

These are Daily Reports from the 15th Mountain Corps commanded by the defendant Leyser, to the 2nd Panzer Army, which is the unit at this time commanded by the defendant Rendulic, dated 17 December 1943 one of the subordinate units to the 15th Mountain Corps, also in Croatia:

Temporary blasting of railroad. "Then comes the location." Blocked until 17 December by the removal of 400 meters of railway lines. In both cases hostages were taken and the nearest houses burned down as reprisal.

And then one of the 16th of December for the 2nd Panzer Army again a supplementary report to the report of the 15th:

114th Jaeger Division: Again one of the subordinate units to the 15th Mountain Corps. Enemy in front of "Ziethen" continues to defend toughly the approaches to Kupres and Glemoc with the 1st Proletarian and 9th Division along line: 4 kilometers northeast, and more indication of their position. The destruction of Kupres confirmed by aerial reconnaissance; 49 counted enemy dead: 18 prisoners; 16 deserters.

I would like to call your attention to the use of that term "deserters" in passing, and we shall see it as we go further. And in reference to the term deserters;

"a part of them with pack animals and weapons. Parts of the 19th Division Grahove threw a Cetnik group 14 kilometers north northeast of Knin to the south (50 enemy dead according to statements of prisoners.) Area around Strmica and north of Plavno (14 kilometers north northwest of Knin) occupied by bands. These advances present a threat to Knin and to the supply road near Zrmanja Vrelo. During reconnaissance of the booty camp northeast of Ervenik (see Daily Report 12 December) a middle sized band was attacked (10 enemy dead, 15 prisoners). Rest in Velebit.

The entire ammunition of different kinds (9 tons) blownup on account of lack of transportation space; 3 places northeast of Ervenik, which were friendly towards the bands destroyed; at the same time numerous detonations in the houses.

And again this as the prior one and as all the rest of these just has typed "15th Mountain Corps". However, the signature over to the left of the gentleman named "Pfafferott" with whom we have had some familiarity before, appears on these documents, and it is his signature.

And again on the 11 December:

373rd (Croatian) Infantry Division West of Srb medium sized band thrown to the west by own operation.

Communist local committee near Udbina silenced by Cetniks. Strong band (II Brigade 8th Division) withdraws from east of Slunj across the Korana to the south. 5 kilometers northwest of Bos. Novi own reconnaissance shot at by machine gun and trench mortars; after reinforcement the terrain was mopped up. The railway line of Bos. Novi was blasted three times. Reprisal measures started.

South of Prijedo the enemy (600 with 4 machine guns, 4 trench mortars and 1 light gun) thrown back to the south by own operation.

And then another reference to the enemy believed thrown back.

Then if Your Honors will note a note to "Security Service (SD), and "Infantry Division", with an illegible initial thereafter, and again signed the 15th Mountain Corps, and there is an illegible signature to the left.

Then the report for the 9th. I should like to call Your Honors attention here to the fact that there is an information copy going to the V SS Mountain Corps, which was a collateral unit. The V SS Mountain Corps was at this time also subordinated to the commander of the II. Panzer Army Commander Rendulic. It is interesting to know that the report in addition to going to a higher division goes laterally.

Again the 1st Cossack Division:

1st Cossak Division Movement of medium sized bands from 10 kilometers southwest to 12 kilometers northwest of Glina (well known assembly area of bands). Enemy supply column had losses by own artillery fire 7 kilometers northwest of Glina.

Enemy garrison south and southeast of Glina unchanged. Weak band raided Cossack patrol 6 kilometers southwest of Petrinja. 22 dead, 3 prisoners, 12 deserters. (Again we have the use of the term deserters.) 36 hostages arrested for destruction of line northwest of Sisak.

Booty: South of Fojnic Italian ammunition dump." And again, "XV Mountain Corps".

Turning to Page 9 in the German and page 9 of the English copy, NOKW 728, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 366 in evidence. The first part of this is a teletype, completely in teletype, and the second half on a teletype blank, but is completely in handwriting, and I pass it up for Your Honors to inspect. This is dated December 17, 1943. It is from the 373rd Infantry Division, and it is the report for that day. This infantry division, of course, is the same as the 373rd Croatian Division to its superior headquarters, 15th Mountain Corps, which at that time was commanded by the defendant Leyser.

On page 9 of the German and page 10 of the English:

Reconnaissance from Bos. Novi to the southwest in area north of Una without enemy. Line blown up 6 kilometers south of Bos. Novi was repaired in a short time. (That is the one they spoke of in the other report) The line open again to traffic on 16 December. 2 hostages were taken 2 houses were burned down in reprisal.

And then for the Area Prijedor:

During the night from 15 to 16 December 400 meters of railway tracks removed by bandits near Dragotinja. The line will again be open to traffic on 17 December. Reinforcement of night patrols was ordered. Nearby houses were burned down in reprisal.

This concludes that part of the report, and then turning to the handwritten part which starts on 11 of the German and 11 of the English, this is for 18 December 1943, again to the 15th Mountain Corps, and again from the 373 Infantry Division:

"Intermediate report Panther, the areas ordered to be combed through were combed according to plans.

Ambush near D A H I C I (Leskovac):

1 Italian captured. 3 bandits shot, 3 wounded (Observed) Leskovac and Ravlovica are burning.

Operation against 40 bandits without success. A bandit who made a false report was shot to death.

Large transit traffic of bands Vrnograd toward the west.

Husko Contact with the enemy near Masvina. 5 prisoners captured. Some cattle and hay was seized.

Intention: For the next day - Reconnaissance, mopping up and placing of ambushes."

There is a certification and an illegible signature.

Then on page 13 of both texts, Document NOKW 1331, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 367 in evidence. These are reports from the 15th Corps to the 2nd Panzer Army, and the units are still commanded by the same individuals, the defendants Leyser and Rendulic.

These again are all typewritten except for the signatures of "Pfaffert" which again appears on the left on some of the reports, and there are one or two illegible signatures. The first one, 2nd Panzer Army, 2 November. The handwritten note up here, "1940" should be "0940". Perhaps Dr. Fritsch would like to come up and look at it. Would you like to come up here and look at it so that I can correct one of the copies?

It is a daily report for the 2 November, and on page 13 of the English, --- of the German, and 14 of the English:

"373rd Division:

Train Bihac - Bos. Novi near Blatna (5 kilometers northeast of Otoka) ran on a mine in spite of previous reconnaissance. 5 soldiers, 10 civilians dead, 4 soldiers and 4 civilians wounded, 3 cars completely destroyed. Houses from which the mine was detonated by means of a wire were burned down.

Reconnaissance in the rest of the area without special events."

It is from Corps Headquarters, XV Mountain Corps."

The signature which appears over at the left is that of, "Pfaffert", and in the copy which has been offered in evidence for your Honors' information, apparently it has been improperly placed on here, - at least it is not on the copy, and we withdraw the words, "very urgent" which appear out on the margin at the left.

Then for the 6th of November, -- and here the report goes to the 2nd Panzer Army, the Fliegerfuhrer Croatia, German General Plenipotentiary in Croatia, IIIrd SS Panzer Corps, --- this unit is down here just for a short time, but this is another SS corps in the area, -- and the V SS Mountain Corps, with which we have had some familiarity before.

Again from the 373rd Division:

"Brezovac was taken by parts of the 373rd Reconnaissance Detachment in spite of weak enemy resistance from Mazin.

26 civilians band suspects (Communist committee) were arrested.

As reprisal measure for the blasting of the railroad near Blatna 5 civilians were arrested and 12 houses were burned down."

For the 9th of November, to the 2nd Panzer Army, again copies to the Fliegerfuehrer Croatia, the German General-Plenipotentiary in Croatia, III SS Panzer Corps, V SS Mountain Corps:

"Supplement to the Daily Report of 9 November 1943", for the 114th Division, one of the divisions subordinate to the XV Mountain Corps, at this time commanded by the defendant Leyser:

The combat group Muenchhausen made a surprise thrust in to the area 25 kilometers east of Banga Luka. By means of strategm 2 band leaders taken care of, good effect of fire on bands fleeing en masse. Enemy losses estimated at a minimum of 100, own losses none."

It is typed, "XV Mountain Corps, Corps Headquarters" and to the left there is an illegible signature, and on the English it is: "Satisfactorily taken care of" in handwriting, and the signature which is illegible, I believe that is left off the German. However , perhaps Dr. Fritsch will see whether or not it is there.

The next communication is for the 5 December 1943 --

DR. FRITSCH: I also am unable to read the name, but there is a handwritten note here, which is indistinct.

MR. DENNEY: I cannot either, your Honors.

DR. FRITSCH: Neither can I; I do not know either what it is supposed to say.

MR. DENNEY: Then in the daily report, of 5 December, which appears at the bottom of page 15 of the German, it is where the addresses appear, and it is on 16 of the English. The addresses carry over to the 16th page in the German they are the same we have seen before, so far as the Corps Headquarters are concerned, less the III SS Panzer Corps, but here again are the units and the 3 divisions, the 1st Cossack, the 373rd Infantry and 371st.

Then for the 114th Infantry Division:

"114th Division:

The heights 5 kilometers south of Ervenik, northwest of Knin and Mokro Polje strongly occupied by the enemy. Enemy movements continue in the area 11 southeast of Gracac. In the area Osredci". Then it gives the location -- "band patrols dispersed. 6 enemy dead, 1 prisoner. Attempt by night on bridge Medak" -then it gives the location, "prevented by Ustascha. 6 bandits dead, 5 prisoners, 4 boxes of explosives, Own fighter Detachment and Cetniks 8 kilometers southeast of Velika threw medium band towards the east, 15 enemy dead, 15 prisoners, 1 deserter" ---- again employing the use of the term "deserter" --- "1 own wounded. In the area Muz rather weak resistance broken. 14 bandits shot to death according to martial law. Total enemy losses 44 dead, 23 prisoners, 1 deserter. Own losses, 1 wounded , 6 Cetniks wounded. Booty: 3 trucks, 2 motor buses, 4 automobiles, 1 boxed motor bike (all not drivable as parts have been withdrawn".

And this again has at the end. of it, typed, "XV Mountain Corps," and there is an illegible signature over at the left.

Then on page 17 of the English and German, again directed to the 2nd Panzer Army, again coming from XV Corps, -- and this, of course is to be noted in addition, because of the fact that here the XV Corps is reporting the first Cossack Division on up to the 2nd Panzer Army, --- so it is at least to be reasonably assumed that at some time prior to this, they were transferred from the 69th Corps to the XV Mountain Corps. As I said, we do not have the order, but we have seen earlier several instances of this Cossack Division reporting itself to the XV Mountain Corps, -

Unless there be some allegation that it was a mistake, while here we see for the purposes of these reports, the XV Mountain Corps reporting on up to the 2nd Panzer Army, with reference to the 1st Cossack Division:

"The obstacle line Kostajnica - Sunja - Save ordered for "Panther" occupied, up until now no contact with the enemy. At 0855 hours an empty train ran on to a mine on the bridge 12 kilometers northwest of Sisak, bridge destroyed. Probably repaired by 8 December at noon. Own losses on 7 December: 9 dead, 24 wounded, 2 missing. Enemy losses according to own determination -- 100; according to the report of confidential agent, 180 -- 200 men, 4 prisoners.

Then their intentions:

"To hold the obstacle line, to intensify reconnaissance in the area Glina -Petrinja. Reprisal operation for blasting of railroad."

Then, of course, if we turn back to the earlier report, the 1st Cossack Division, we have reporting this same information up to the XV Corps. It is on page 4 of the English, which is part of Exhibit No. 364.

Then for the 9 December, again to the 2nd Panzer Army, Fliegerfuehrer in Croatia and the German General Plenipotentiary in Croatia, Branch Office III, the SS Panzer Corps, and the V SS Mountain Corps, and then some further indications over on the right, to the various divisions, these of course, being the divisions which were subordinated to the XV Corps.

Daily report of the 1st Cossack Division:

"Patrol skirmish in area Glina – Gora. 36 hostages taken for blasting of lines".

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: We will take our afternoon recess.

...

THE MARSHAL: The persons in the Courtroom will be seated.

The Tribunal is again in session.

MR. DENNEY: And again page 19 of the German and 19 of the English, for the 11th of December in the Second Panzer Army commanded by the defendant Layser with reference to the 373rd Infantry Division, a report for 11 December, still in Document NOKW-1331, Prosecution Exhibit 367.

"Operation Panzer Jaeger Battalion 373 in the area west of D. Srb encountered a band which was repulsed. 13 enemy dead, (1 commissar).. " again referring to Commissars in the reports "....2 prisoners...." and again the mention of "(1 commissar)." "Booty, 10 rifles, 1 machine gun and documents. No losses of our arms. Operation of Reconnaissance Battalion 373 for reconnaissance of bridge near Vojnici, strong machine gun and trench mortar fire. Railway bridge south of Otoka rebuilt As reprisal measure houses burned down, taking of hostages ordered, Croatian Sector Commander taken to account! Operation South of Prijedor, with 2 reinforced Battalions and tanks repulsed strong enemy with heavy weapons (4 medium trench mortars, 1 light gun). 42 enemy dead, 3 own dead, 7 wounded, tank total loss (ran onto mine).

"In the night of the 9-10 December the Cetniks raided a Communist local committee in Seliste, 2 bandits shot, 2 escaped."

Again this is from the reports of the Cossack Division which are in Document 264, and the signature at the left is that of Pfaferott.

Then for the 15th, same addressee, and the same sender. For the 114th Division:

"During the capture of booty depot northeast of Ervenik on 12 December 10 enemy dead, 15 prisoners..." And again the reference to "nine tons of captured ammunitions of different kind" which were referred to in the earlier reports. "Villages friendly towards the bands in area 20 kilometers north-west of Knin burned down, occasioning numerous detonations caused by hidden ammunition. 300 head of cattle and 200 sheep and goats captured.

Own losses: 6 dead, 10 wounded, 49 enemy dead (the number is presumably higher). According to statements of prisoners 50 alone north of Knin, 18 prisoners, 16 deserters..." and again they cite deserters. However, this is the same report as was contained earlier to the XVth Corps, in the prior exhibit.

"Booty, 1 rifle, 1 pistol, 6 horses, 2 pack animals, enemy documents, 8 cows, 54 sheep."

For the 15th of December, again to the same addressee, the 2nd Panzer Army and others, and again from the XVth Mountain Corps, for the 373rd Division, one of the subordinate units to the defendant Leyser.

.....

General line reached 16 kilometers north of Bos. Novi behind enemy withdrawing toward the north. On the left wing strong enemy resistance. The group Ristow fought off several enemy attacks from the west. Hussar Detachment is attacking a band 400 men strong in the area 20 kilometers west northwest of Cazin. On 16 December 2 dead (Germans, 1 officer), 6 wounded (1 German officer). Enemy losses: since the beginning of operation "Panther": 15 dead, 25 wounded, 41 prisoners, 6 deserters, 34 rifles, 7 machine guns, 2 trench mortars, mortar ammunition.

There again the reference to deserters.

Intention: Combing of Samarica towards the north.

In the rest of the area of the Division, during powerful reconnaissance at 0 D. Srb Skirmish with medium sized band which retreated in the mist. 4 of own wounded. Blasting of the line south of Bos, Novi repaired in short time. 2 hostages taken, 2 houses burned down. In the area Prijedor 400 meters of railway rails torn up by bandits 18 kilometers east of Bos. Novi. The line ready for traffic again on 17 December. As reprisal measure houses burned down.

And again we have the XVth Mountain Corps passing up the report of its division which was seen in the earlier document in this book.

Then on the 21st, again to the defendant Rendulic's 2nd Panzer Army and the defendant Leyser's XVth Corps, 264th Division.

..... Medium seized band in English uniform transferred from Brac and Vis to area south of Primosten confirmed. Report about renewed assembly of band on island Uljan not confirmed.

.....

..... 371st Division:

In mopping up Samarica 2 bandits shot to death, 2 German field kitchens, 5 supply depots, 1 small field bakery, 60 tons of food supplies, alcohol, office supplies, light trench mortar ammunition captured, 1 own wounded."

And typed at the right, "XVth Mountain Corps." Then there is an enclosure to the War Diary No. K-3 which is dated 5 November 1943 and this is entitled "Subjects of Conversation Between the Commander-in-Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army and the Commanding General." And of course this is defendant Rendulic, the Commander-in-Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army and Leyser is the Commanding General of the XVth Corps, and then apparently they had a conversation at Banja Luka. There are several others listed here, but this is the only one it reviews. This is number six.

"The certain possession of Banja Luka must also be guaranteed after the Corps Staff has left. The Commander-in-Chief...." It is submitted the defendant Rendulic, ".... made a proposal to shoot immediately a rather large number (1000) of band suspects and to arrest a further 1000 hostages." And then there is a note that -- there is a reference to a conversation between the Fuehrer, who was Adolf Hitler, and the Commander-in-Chief of the 16th of September, 1943.

It is submitted there that the Commander-in-Chief again refers to the defendant Rendulic. Turning now to page 25 in the English, 25 in the German and 27 in the English, we have Document 1375 which becomes Prosecution's Exhibit 368.

This document is typewritten and bears at the end of it typed "XVth Mountain Corps Ic" and is an enclosure to communication of 2 December 1943. It is entitled "Enemy News Sheet". The area Kordun and Banija, preliminary remarks.

"Enemy News Sheet: Area: Kordun and Nanija.

"Preliminary Remarks: The entire area has the decided characteristics of a central chain of mountains. The Kordun is only partially covered with forests, and therefore often allows a very wide survey. The Banija is predominantly wooded. Numerous deep ravines make traffic very difficult away from the larger roads. The population is mainly pro-slavic and friendly toward the bands, and usually flees from the villages when soldiers approach, and, "II) Enemy Forces:

A band Brigade corresponds on the average in strength to a battalion," and it is submitted they are speaking of a German Battalion, "A Band Division to a Regiment." And, it is submitted, they are speaking of a German Regiment.

"The fighting power of the units has gone down considerably in the last months on account of the calling to the colors of draftees, Croatian deserters and prisoners of war, but is very high in individual units, and the next word is illegible ...

"is subordinated to the Main Staff Croatia (Commander Gosnjak, Political Commissar Bakaric," and I again direct the courts' attention to the use of that term.

"Bakaric, Chief of Staff Terzic, Chief of the Operations Department (Ia) Crescanin. Subordinated to him is the IV Corps, the Staff of which is located in Kordun, probably near Primislje."

And they give the name of the leader and again the name of the political Commissar who is attached to the staff of the IV Corps, the Enemy News Officer, and then they recite that the 7th, 8th and 13th Divisions are part of the IV Corps, and, "The 8th Division is as a rule designated as the Kordun Division, the 7th as the Banija Division.

In the same manner, the brigades of the divisions bear the designation 'Kordun' or 'Banija-Brigade', sometimes using the number within the division, sometimes using the previous number from the time before the division was established.

"8th Division: Part of the IV Corps. As headquarters of the staff, the following places were named in November: Budacki, Dunjac, and Leskovac, 16 kilometers northwest of Cazin."

And again they give the names of the Commander and the name of the political Commissar of this Division and there again we have them referring to the political Commissar in the staff, Chief of Staff, Operations officer and then the Composition. This 8th Division has 3 Brigades and 1 Mountain Artillery Detachment, as well as I convoy Battalion (which is a battalion armed with heavy trench mortars and heavy machine guns). And, the heavy arms of the division excluding those of the brigade, according to statements of prisoners: 2 canons, 4 mountain guns, 10 anti-tank guns, 4 heavy trench mortars, 1 big Italian tank armed with 2 guns, 2 small Italian tanks.

And, they give the name of the Commander of the Artillery Detachment, and the units: 1 Brigade (of the 8th Division - IVth Croatian Brigade) also designated as 1st Kordun or as IVth Lika-Brigade.

They give area of operations, the Commander, his deputy, again the political Commissar, and also the deputy political Commissar, and the 1c and then the strength report: According to statements of prisoners: 4 battalions total strength, about 950 to 1,200 men.

Heavy Arms: Each battalion has 3 heavy machine guns, 2 light machine guns; each company, 3 light machine guns. The heavy trench mortar and the two guns of this brigade are presumed to have been assigned to it temporarily from the division.

They give the Commander and the political Commissar of the battalion for the 1st, 2nd 3rd and 4th; and then, on the 25th, the strength of the 4th battalion was 337 men, 80 of whom were on leave at home. That refers of course to the 25th of August, and the 2nd Brigade, --- oh, before that -- the 1st battalion is said to have available a mounted platoon, and the 2nd brigade which is the Vth Croatian Kordun Brigade, and the area which they operate, their Commander, political commissar, and the composition, it has 3 battalions. The strength of the battalions on 1 November at one o'clock on the 17 November 1,200. Armament: (According to reports of confidential agents) - 4 heavy trench mortars, 7 heavy machine guns, many light machine guns. And they give the names of the three battalions which are included within the brigade, and then they give the commander and political commissar of the battalion for the 1st and 2nd Battalions; the 1st, they list some names without indicating what they are and the 2nd they list one as a political commissar. In the 3rd brigade, the XV Croatian Brigade, they give their area and Commander; again the political commissar, their strength, estimated at 1,100 men, their armament: 4 mountain guns, 1 antiaircraft machine gun, 2 anti-tank rifles, 12 to 14 heavy machine guns, 3 to 7 heavy trench mortars. The 2 to 4 howitzers of this brigade often mentioned probably belong to the Artillery Detachment of the 8th Division. Commander and political commissar of the 3rd battalion according to out-of-date reports, and it gives the 1st, 2nd and 3rd and then lists the convoy company and gives the names of the commander and political commissar there, the units above being of course the 1st, 2nd and 3rd companies in addition to the convoy company.

Then the Plaski Detachment, last at Leskovac, and they give its last location, the names of the commander, the political commissar, the estimated strength: 400 men (2 battalions); 1st battalion, then they give the name of the political Commissar, and their armament, allegedly, 2 heavy machine guns, 4 light machine guns, 1 trench mortar.

The 2nd battalion, which is called Terenski-battalion, gives the name of the commander, that is, 3 companies each of which have 85 men and allegedly one heavy trench mortar, 1 Italian mountain gun, 1 anti-tank gun, 1 light and 3 heavy machine guns.

The Kordun Detachment, formerly designated as 1st order of the Operations Group Una, presumably in the area southwest and south of Petrova Gora.

Commander: Karas?

Deputy: Kreca, Pero.

Strength: 3 battalions together 500 to 600 men, fighting value small, IIIrd battalion, according to list of 3 June 1943, 225 men.

In addition, confidential agents of the Branch Office mention in this area the so-called anti-5th column battalion which supposedly was used against Cetniks only. No confirmation, probably identical with the Kordun Detachment.

The total strength of the 8th Division is estimated (on 15 November) by the Croatian General Staff at 4200 men, this estimate is probably a little too high for the Division alone, counting in the mountain Detachments, too low.

Then they go into the 7th Division, a part of the IV Corps which we spoke of earlier. It speaks of their staff, being a commander who is a professor from Uzice, and they name the political commissar who is a teacher from Borojevici. They also list the deputy political commissar who was a student from Petrinja. They list the Chief of Staff who was a former Yugoslav Major and is now a General. Chief Administrative officer, who was a 2nd class captain in the Yugoslav Army.

"The Division consists of the VIIth and VIIIth Croatian Brigades of the old 7th Division returned from Montenegro and the 2 Brigades of the deactivated Operations Group Una, And, then they cite some places at which they had contacted this 2nd brigade of the deactivated Operations Group Una and, in addition Still a part of the 7th Division, 1 Artillery Detachment, 1 Engineer Detachment, 1 truck column and workshops.

The Engineer Detachment has available 1 ferry and 3 pontoons. The Artillery Detachment (without the heavy arms of the Brigade) has 4 Italian anti-tank guns, 1 Croatian anti-tank gun, 2 mountain guns, 3 heavy trench mortars and the 4 guns captured in Cazin. A convoy battalion of the staff is in possession of the heavy machine guns.

In addition, every brigade has at least 2 heavy trench mortars and 4 heavy machine guns.

The Brigade. is armed with 1 anti-tank gun, 4 heavy, Of the 1st brigade they list the commander, the deputy commander, and the political commissar with the note that he was replaced by someone else with a question mark after it; Chief of Staff, and then the political department, strength of 600 and 700 men and the commander of the various companies in the brigade, 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th, and they list the political commissars for the 2nd and 4th.

"The Brigade is armed with 1 anti-tank gun, 4 heavy and several light trench mortars, several heavy machine guns, 24 light machine guns, ---"

These figures all according to prisoners taken on 16 November.

Then the 2nd brigade which is the VIII Croatian Brigade also the VIII Kordun Brigade and lists commander and deputy and again we have reference to a political commissar, chief administrative officer, and then they have many listed as Joka, physician, veterinary, M.D. Babetko, who was a Czech and in the political department, 1st Battalion Commander, F Cavic, Simo, and the political commissar. Strength: 800.

They list their arms: 2 anti-tank guns, 6 heavy, 4 light trench mortars, 12 heavy, 50 light machine guns.

IIIrd Brigade, which was formerly IVth Banija Brigade, lists headquarters, commander, political commissar, strength of 900, 1st Battalion has a strength of 1,400 to 1,500 from statements of prisoners from this IVth Brigade and their armament: 2 anti-tank guns, 2 heavy trench mortars, 16 light trench mortars, 8 heavy, 60 light machine guns.

Then a little more information about this brigade:

Dispersed amongst this Brigade, there is an Einsatz Battalion of Jews from the Reich Autobahn concentration camp. This Battalion (consisting of 160 men) was formed in October under the leadership of the Yugoslav Captain of the Reserve, Aaron Kabiljo from Sarajevo. Banija Detachment composed of 3 Battalions, of which the 1st Battalion is usually situated around Zirovac, the IIInd Battalion in the district Dvor around Vrpolje, the IIIrd Battalion northwest of Kostajnica.

The Detachment which formerly was fairly strong has, by its employment in the 7th Division become fairly weak, according to statements of prisoners of 27th September, 800 men, according to the Croatian General Staff of 15th November, 500 men.

They list the Commander:

Again the Political Commissar: and 1c: and he seems to have been a non-commissioned officer who deserted the Luftwaffe and then they list the Commanders of the 3 Battalions:

The strength of the Division has been stated by prisoners to be 5000 (assumedly too high). Newly formed: Cezin Detachment, The 28th Division presumably identical with the former 10th Slavonic Division which was put at the disposal of the Main Staff Croatia as reserve for attacks, the XVII and XXI Slavonic Brigades having a maximum strength of 3000 men) are, according to reliable sources, in the area of Sisak.

The II zone has requested that this division be transferred to the area Turopolje. However, it must be taken into consideration that the division may also be ordered into the area of our own operation or that the 7th Division may try to join the former by withdrawing to the northwest.

Then several paragraphs on Communist Organization:

"The entire area is strictly communistically organized. In every village there is a communist committee, a kind of self administration above which there is, for purposes of appeal, a community-Odbor and a district-Odbor. This district-Odbor takes care of the tasks which are those of the Chief of District in the Croatia administration. (From captured documents from the districts Veljun and Vojnic containing detailed regulations concerning Signal service, securing the harvest, vet. Police statistics, agriculture, settlement and raw-materials, etc.)

In addition, there are the military authorities of the area behind the zone of operations (town headquarters together with partisan guards) and a kind of gendarmerie subordinated to the local headquarters of the area.

1) for Kordun in Gorni Budacki

2) for the Banija presumably in Klasnic Every person travelling in the area outside of his place of residence must have a pass issued by a military or civilian communist office.

The relay stations have been replaced by post offices and the main post offices are situated at the headquarters of the regional headquarters. Every post office has a code number and is a control office for the military bands which also have a code number.

List of post offices with their code number (B-Banija, K - Kordun):

Klasnic (26 km.south southwest of Petrinja, code no. B 1 Ravno Rasce (20 km southwest of P. " " B 2 Bacuga code no.

B 3 Rujavac(34 km south of P.) " " B 4 Kepcija (34 km south southeast of P.) " " B 5 Dobretin (48 km south of P.) " " B 6 For Bosnia:

G. Pastusa " " B 8 Mostanica (10km southeast of P.) " " B 9 Klobucak (9 km southeast of P.) " " B 10 Mecencani (20 km southeast of P.) " " B 11

V. Gradusa (7 Km southeast of P.) " " B 12 Krcevo (24 km southeast of P.) " " B 13

" " B 18 Strmen (34 km southeast of P.)for Moslavina" " B 19 Ivanjski Bek (38 km southeast of P.) for " " B 20 Slavonia And then they list these post offices with their code numbers, the B being Banija, and the K for Kordun, and they give a list starting on this page of 20 of them with the code number preceded by the letter "b" for Banija, and on the next page they list Main Post Offices, if which there are eleven more and again they give their location with their "code" numbers and the numbers 1 to 11, and each of these preceded by "K" for Kordun.

Paragraph IV, "Communist Tactics.":

Except for the attacks of protected villages which the Communists as a rule only risk on purely Croatian headquarters and in which, after careful preparation, they use forces as strong as possible, method of fighting is limited to surprise attacks from ambushes. In the area occupied in a finger like spreading way, an excellent signal service has been established by utilizing the apparently harmless civilian population (women and children). Every enemy march column is observed from certain points of survey (not only patrols, but also so-called village guards, as a rule three to four men) and reported to the next communist unit.

Most of the time, the ambushes are "multiple". An automatic weapon is placed ahead of the march column. On all sides, security and scouts are placed. An intensification of the "multiple" ambush by surprise attacks from several posts forms the so-called "combined" ambush. It is carried out by strong forces and aims at the extermination of the adversary. The posts occupied are chosen so that the march column may be fired on in its whole extent. A signal agreed upon beforehand is the signal to open fire; often for reasons of morale, accompanied by hurrah shouts.

Fire is usually opened by rather weak units from the flank or from the rear. The adversary who is being fired on then instinctively seeks to withdraw from the fire attack in the direction of the march and just then clashes with the most powerful units of the encirclement. A counter-attack toward the opening fire therefore can often free the troop from his grip.

During the combat, whistle signals ordered for the occasion are used, e.g. three long blasts ... to the right; one long blast, three short ones the commander of the 3rd Company.

During the attack, the adversary often sends women and children ahead, whom the kind German soldier does not shoot at. At a whistle signal, the women and children throw themselves down as soon as the band has deployed for the attack. In the frequent night attacks, the civilian population has been trained to simulate a stronger enemy by shouting and to take care of the wounded and dead.

At every attack and raid, the bands usually block the roads of approach by their reserves in order to be protected against surprises.

Fire raids from heights on troops held up in road bands by road blocks are frequent. Bands on the march are always well protected (often women or children are sent ahead as scouts). The band withdraw from encirclement at worst by dissolving into small groups. Everywhere one must count on a large amount of ammunition and with numerous automatic weapons originating from Italian booty. When the bandits are definitely inferior, they let themselves be overrun. In these cases also one must count on raids from the rear. Our own troops must assume an entirely different attitude; they do not have to deal with an adversary fighting openly, but with a master in evasion and in insidious and treacherous combat who knows how to utilize in a masterly fashion the terrain that is very difficult to survey almost everywhere."

And then a section with reference to Details, Depots and Dumps:

"Depots and hideouts of bands are to be expected in groups of houses situated near the border of forests, so that the bandits are able to disappear quickly. Food and ammunition depots are often in caches in the ground (4 x 4 x 5 meters, lined with boards and carefully camouflaged). Such depots are to be presumed in the vicinity of every communist Local Headquarters (usually therefore also near the post offices). The following Town Headquarters have become known in (and they list them).

A telephone line leads from Brojevici via Trnovac-Klasnic - Zirovac Slunj. presumably on to the IV Corps and to the Main Staff Croatia; in part it is laid underground.

"Area for the 373rd Infantry Division:

"The ordnance shop is in Poderove", and this of course is speaking about the German unit here, "8km south southwest of Vrnograc," and of course the recital about the communists, the details in whose division, and whose section it is. "Footholds of bands in Ljubina (Northwest of Novi), Majdan, Vrpolje (5 km. from the Banija to S. Dobretin (8 km. southwest of Novi) south of height 153. Ferries and boats are weighted down with stones under water during the daytime, the ferryman, Welko ... chauffeur in Dobretin, lives in the house between heights," and then gives the location of the hills from the map coordinates.

Peljska Kosa and the wood Tavenac, 27 km south southwest of Karlovac contain underground potatoes. The wood Kneja, 12 km west southwest of Slunj contains food supplies at the east border.

Zbieg, 8 km southwest of Slunj, (hospital in several houses).

V. Crkvina, 20 km south of Karlovac (arms and ammunition). Underground depot, hospital in the school, Grn. Skrad, 1 km. northeast of Crkvina.

Primislje, depot to be presumed.

At Gorni Budacki, 21 km. south southeast of Karlovac, depot to be presumed, regional headquarters, hospital.

In the forest Debelakosa, 1 km. east from there, barrack containing a hand grenade workshop, a bakery, a butchery, workshops, a carpenter's shop, and an ordnance workshop.

At Burci, Dunjak, Eristinja, depots to be presumed.

Depot weapons at Rijeak, 19 km. south southeast of Karlovac.

Road blocks on the road to Vukmanic, at the fork, 8 km southeast of Karlovac, also at the north border of the Babina Gora, footholds of bands are to be expected, the same Northwest of Vukmanic, at height 197, according to aerial reconnaissance, presumably enemy positions, also northwest of there at Miljusi.

Numerous road blocks on the road west of the Korana from Barilovic to Perjasice, 22 km south southwest of Karlovac (Doline country).

Area Topusko on the road 1 km southwest of (N.Vrh.) field positions (in the north the bandit villages Perna and Pecka).

West of Topusko field positions. Topusko Toplice, formerly named as headquarters of a staff.

Along the road, Slunj-Vrnograc, according to aerial reconnaissance, presumably positions at Gladno Brdo, 5 km. east of V.Kladusa.

In the Banija allegedly numerous ground caches in the Samarica and presumably in the Prolom forest, 12 km. south of Glina.

The essential area: forest and border of the forest villages in the area Drngotine, Bojna, Zirovac. Favored staff headquarters Brestik (radio station reported there, presumably the station of the 7th Division and Mrnovac.)

At Klasnic, 12 km south southeast of Glina, weapons depot, at Dodosi, 16 kilometers south of Petrinja, sawmill and electricity works.

At Tremusnjak, 16 km. east southeast of Glina, at the end of October, salvage depot for Italian guns.

Area Cossack Division: Band footholds in Levca (Printing shop Krst - 3 km. northwest of Lovca, ordnance shop Komogovina and Brojevici 13 km northwest of Kostajnica, weapons depot and transfer point Svinjica.

The weapons transports from the Main Staff Croatia to Slavonia go from Klasnic via Trmusnjak. The crossing point into Bosnia is near Slabinje, 10 km east of Kostajnica. Meminsko and Crkveni Bok are transfer points (according to the usual statements).

In the villages north of the road Petrinja - Kostajnica, there live scattered Croatians (Severovac), however even the Croatian population cannot be considered reliable. In the Sunja-Dubica-Kostajnica triangle there is a home-defense organization composed of Pravoslavs with an anti-communist attitude. However, the good postal net just in that district aids the communist infection. It must be considered that this home-defense organization is formed under toleration of the communists so that they may be able to sluice their weapons transport all the more undisturbed across the Save through the supposedly pacified country. At present, transports are probably not possible on account of high water."

Then we have a "Insignia rank" -- we have had some evidence about this before, but here is some more.

"At the 7th Division the officers' yellow insignia (1-3 stars with 1-3 stripes, generals 3, staff officers 2, other officers 1 stripe) have already been adopted.

Reports on the subject with regard to the 8th Division are not available."

Then we have a supplement about Ammunition depot, and other sorts of depots.

"Ammunition depot in Veljun 28 km south of Karlovac (headquarters of a district office).

There is a food supply depot in Lovca, 13 miles west of Kostajnica; Northeast of there on the Krst, northwest of Kostajnica, there is allegedly a radio station and printing shop; northwest of Kostajnica there is an ordinance work shop and mine workshop.

The population was forced by the communist party organization to hide away the crops (underground caches). Nearly the entire population is organized by the party: the AFZ takes care of the women, the Skoj of the youth and the "Prioneers" of the children. In 1942, in the region around Zirovac, according to captured documents, the women were grouped and formed garrison companies under the leadership of men. Every village has a committee of women under whom one group works as a so-called combat group (other groups are for cultural work, work, or spy service).

Typed at the end is, XV Mountain Corps Ic On page 45 of the German text and page 44 of the English, is Document NOKW-1425, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 369 in evidence.

This is a series of orders and reports concerning units which at this time are subordinate to the XV Mountain Corps, commanded by the defendant Leyser.

This is first a division order from the 373rd Croatian Division, dated 22 December 1943, concerns an operation south of the Save and between Prijedor and Bos. Novi:

The 383 Regiment mops up and combs the area South of the Save between Bos. Novi - Suhaca-Volar - Prijedor. The enemy encountered in this area is to be destroyed. The population capable of bearing arms is to be arrested. Supplies and cattle are to be taken away as far as they are not guarded or they are to be destroyed in order to deprive the bandits of the basis for their provisioning. (Evacuation of the male population capable of bearing arms and of cattle along the road South of the Save to Prijedor.)

Duration of operation, about three days.

It is signed "Aldrian" Major General and Division Commander, and in the distribution list where it says, "383rd Division", that should be "373rd Infantry Regiment". Obviously the division would not give and order to another division except under very unusual circumstances.

The 383rd is an Infantry Regiment which is one of the regiments of the Division.

Then there is a report to the Corps Headquarters, XV Mountain Corps, from a Colonel and Brigade Commander of the 373rd Croatian Infantry Division, and this is dated 25 January, 1944:

"Enclosed the Division submits a combat report of the fourth Croatian Jaeger Brigade concerning the defense of Banja Luka from 31 December 1943 to 2 January, 1944."

And that is for the Division Headquarters, the 1st General Staff Officer, and there is an illegible signature of a Lt. Colonel, General Staff Corps.

The Colonel and Brigade Commander's report, paragraph 4 - this is an enclosure to the earlier report:

"In a house across from the Brigade Headquarters, 4 civilians were shot to death, on suspicion that firing came from that house. It was established later that these people were innocent since the culprit was caught."

The signature is illegible. However, it bears the designation, "Colonel and Brigade Commander".

Then on page 51 of the German, and page 47 of the English, from the first Cossack Division to the 15th Mountain Corps -and this again has to do with the commitment of this Division from the 20 December to the 20 of January, over the year 1943-44:

Cossack Brigade (Caucasus) 2:

E n e m y S i t u a t i o n:

On the basis of confidential reports and of statements by deserters about 6000 to 8000 bandits are present in the area between the Bosni and the Vrbas.

The enemy forces are organized into the XII Slavic Brigade, the V Kosara Brigade and the XIV Krain Brigade. Two Battalion Headquarters in Prnjavar and Stanici are known. The Brigades are alleged to have an average armament consisting of 5 heavy machine guns and 30 to 50 light machine guns in addition to 2 to 5 heavy trench mortars and numerous machine pistols.

In the area West of the Vrbas there are supposed to be about 2,000 men whose task is to seize supplies from that area and bring them to the bandits who are in action.

Then on page 8 of the original, page 48 of the English, it is under "Own Tactical Situation" for the interpreter, the paragraph starts out:

The Brigade with the 5th and 6th Regiment and the subordinated 5th Jaeger Regiment will assemble ready for action in the area, of Bos. Dubovac - Derventa - Kladari by 1 January 1944 for operation "Napfkuchen." The Brigade has the task of combing the mountains South of the Save on an extended front. The main support points of the bandits and partisan villages are to be destroyed and supplies of cattle and food stuffs to be secured. The commitments during the time covered by this report showed consolidation of the Cossacks in combat and in particular in discipline.

Wherever the troops were committed and billeted for an extended period, excesses, looting and rapes have almost ceased and the population cooperate with the Cossacks successfully in combating the bandits. However, operation like operation "Brandfackel" during which entire sections of the country had to be devastated pursuant to orders must have an unfavorable effect on the discipline of the troops toward the civilian population.

During the fighting from 21 Dec. 1943 to 20 January 1944 the Cossack Division suffered the following losses:

killed in action, 31 3 officers, 28 men Wounded 46, 1 officer, 45 men Missing - 51 men Horses killed:

60 Enemy losses:

369 counted dead, 32 prisoners.

More than 600 deserters were "brought in."

We direct the court's attention to the use of the word "deserter".

"More than 150 suspects were arrested. According to prisoners' statements, the enemy has numerous wounded. 4 machine guns, many rifles and 18,000 rounds of ammunition were taken in booty."

It is signed, "v. Pannwitz" who was commander of the First Cossack Division.

Then there is a combat report for the 383rd Croatian Infantry Regiment for an operation called, "Ristov". On page 60 of the German, and 50 of the English - this is, incidentally, dated 5 January, 1944, paragraph numbered 2 starts out:

Mission:

To comb and to mop up the area South of the Save between Bosn. Nov. Suhaca-Velar-Prijedor; to arrest the population capable of bearing arms, to take away supplies and cattle as far as they are not guarded, in order to deprive the bandits of the basis for their provisioning. In addition, it is to enable the repair work on the railroad line of Novi-Prijedor to be continued.

If is signed "Ristow, Major".

Then one from the XV Mountain Corps, Corps Headquarters, to its various subordinate units with reference to periodic reports, with a reference to the earlier communications of Commander German Troops in Croatia, and it says:

The divisions will submit before (reciting time received by Corps Headquarters):

Details:

1.) Daily Report:

B) Form and Content:

?The daily report should give to the Commanding General a clear picture of the preceding day in a short and brief form.

The following is to noted:

- a) the daily report is to express the personal interpretation of the Commanding Officer.
- b) Do not give an arbitrary enumeration of dally events but an overall picture citing essential details (including enemy situation.)
- c) Differentiate between facts and sumptions.
- d) The estimate of the situation and the conclusions to be drawn therefrom must be opposed by own intentions and measures taken. A basic principle: no enemy reports without indications of source and without own tactical intention or countermeasures (reprisal operations).
- e) The daily report must be built up on the report of the preceding day. Changes must be emphasized, particularly if they brought about a change in the estimate of the situation.
- f) Situations as yet not clarified and unsolved problems are to be reported subsequently in order to avoid queries. The delay or the non-execution of your own intentions is to be reported and reasons are to be given.
- g) Reports of acts of sabotage are to include the extent of the damage, the probable duration of the disturbance as well as measures carried out and intended (including reprisal measures). In the event of an interruption of railroad traffic, the daily report or if required, a subsequent report must be included.

And it tells what they have to do.

Under cc): Statement of immediate measures taken, taking into consideration reprisal measures.

2.) Estimate of the situation:

3.) Situation and billet maps:

4.) Orders of battle:

5.) Evaluation Reports:

It has typed at the bottom, "The Commanding General" and it has, "the Chief of the General Staff", and it is signed by "Pfafferott", as Colonel, General Staff Corps, and of course, at this time, the Commanding General of the XV Mountain Corps, is the defendant Leyser.

Distribution is to all subordinate divisions, and the War Diary.

MR. DENNEY: Then, turning to Page 82 in the German, and Page 54 in the English, we have Document No. NOKW-1430, which is offered as Prosecution's Exhibit No. 370. This is a report from the 15th Mountain Corps, dated 21 January 1944, commanded then by the Defendant Leyser, to the 2nd Panzer Army, commanded by the Defendant Rendulic. The "final report concerning the operation Brandfackel":

"Several times contact with enemy with only weak groups of bands in rugged and mountainous terrain. Great differences of level were overcome. Difficulties in command because means of communication were not sufficient. Pronounced symptoms of fatigue and cases (44) (handwritten) of sickness on account of long straining of troops (Kugelblitz, Waldrausch, Napfkuchen)." And then, of course, they're referring there to other operations. "Own losses: 1 dead, 16 wounded, 2 horses dead. Enemy losses: 131 dead, 2 prisoners, 5 deserters." And again they refer to deserters. "Booty: 2 heavy 2 light machine guns, 19 rifles, 1 hunting rifle, 1 radio apparatus, 3 telephones and cable, 43 head of cattle, 4 pigs, 35 sheep, 4 horses." And I would specifically like to direct the Court's attention to this: "1 hospital with 100 beds and 2 small ammunition depots destroyed." It is from the 15th Mountain Corps, again typewritten, And then on the 13th of January, Headquarters the 2nd Panzer Army, copy to the German Plenipotentiary from the same unit, Daily Report for the 13th: "Brandfackel": "Extremely difficult terrain makes attack and liaison very hard. Reports of individual combat groups lacking. In the southern part of the Kozara contact with retreating enemy. 1 bandit hospital destroyed. Day's line of advance aimed at Kozarac - Demitrovac (10 kilometers east of Prijedor and 9 kilometers east of Dubica) reached. 2 enemy dead, 2 heavy machine guns captured. Reconnaissance and reports of inhabitants indicate allegedly strong enemy 13 kilometers south/ southeast of Dubica." And then, with reference to the Cossack Division: "Operation of own shock troops south of Gora and northwest Petrinja successful. Enemy advance guards approaching Gora pushed back. In the Area 18 kilometers south of Zagreb a village taken after short skirmish, 100 band suspects arrested." And then for the 27th, again addressed to the Headquarters of the 2nd Panzer Army, the Defendant Rendulic, and a copy here goes to the Headquarters of the 69th Corps, which, at that time, was commanded by the Defendant Dehner.

Again, the communication is from the Corps commanded by the Defendant Leyser. Daily Report of the 27th, "Cossack Division: In attack RR 2, from Jastrebarsko toward the north, medium sized band thrown toward..., retreated to fortified positions, 5 enemy dead. Line southeast of Turopolje again passable since 1100 hours after blasting, during night. 22 hostages hanged. Intentions: Continuation of attack north of Jastrobarsko, advance into area southeast of Lekenik." And the next one to the 2nd Panzer Army, again with the 69th Corps receiving a copy, and from the 15th Mountain Corps, Daily Report of the 28th, "Intentions: Relief in the area SFB and south of it by parts of the 1st Mountain Division, work on the railway line, arrest of hostages on both sides of the line southwest of Bos. Novi. Raid in Banja Luka." And on Page 85 of the German, Page 59 of the English, the last of this series of reports, again to the 2nd Panzer Army, and again a copy by letter to the 69th Reserve Corps, and again being sent by the 15th Mountain Corps. Daily Report of the 29th of January, for the 373rd Division, one of the subordinate units of the 15th Mountain Corps. "Movements of bands in the area Prijedor. The line Prijedor-Nevi was again blown up, the repairs were interrupted by trench mortars. In the area Rudice - Otoka 29 hostages were arrested on both sides of the railway line. In the area Ostrozac skirmish between Huska and Cetnik detachments. The line Sunja - Bihac free, 5 men deserted, probably to the Ustascha." And "gain, it is typed at the end, 15th Mountain Corps, an illegible signature, and what appears to be "Lieutenant Colonel." And then on Page 87 of the German and Page 61 of the English Document No. NOKW-1419. These are various reports from the 2nd Panzer Army to the 15th Mountain Corps. The first one is dated 30 January 1944, and to the 2nd Panzer Army; for information, the Military Commander Southeast, who, at that time, was the deceased Loehr, and his Chief of Staff at that time was Geitner; and the 2nd Panzer Army is still commanded by the Defendant Rendulic. This is from the 15th Mountain Corps Headquarters, commanded by the Defendant Leyser, and the signature is typed.

The message reads: "The search operation in the city area of Banja-Luka ordered for 28 January, without special results due to a premature spreading of information by Croatian authorities. Arrested and transferred to the SD: 32 persons. In addition 5 Domobrans without identification or leave papers." And this is certified as a true copy by Colonel Pfafferott of the General Staff Corps. And the next is a communication dated the 28th of January, from the Deputy for the Reich Fuehrer SS for Croatia, The Police Sector Commander, Banja Luka, and this is directed to the 15th Mountain Corps. And the 15th Mountain Corps was commanded by the Defendant Leyser, and here he is getting a report from an SS Standartenfuehrer. "The search operation in the city area of Banja Luka ordered for 28 January 1944--was concluded at 1300 hours without special incidents. Arrested and transferred to the SD: 20 persons without identification, 12 persons found in apartments not their own. 5 Domobrans without identification or leave papers." And, if your Honors will compare that with the communication dated 2 days later which we have just read here, you will have a Commanding General of a Corps passing on to the Commanding General of an Army a communication from a Standartenfuehrer in the SS, almost identical except for the fact that he chose to add the 20 and 12 together, getting 32 persons, instead of the figures 20 and 12. The next is dated 12 December 1943, and it is from the Corps Headquarters, 15th Mountain Corps, to the 264th Infantry Division and the 114th Jaeger Division, both units subordinate to this particular Corps. "Enclosed please find a report by Vladimir Jonic, the former representative of the Directorate of the civilian administration in Dalmatia and Commissar of Ustasha Headquarters for your information. For Corps Headquarters, Chief of General Staff (illegible initial)." And then is recited to the 15th Mountain Corps from the German General-Plenipotentiary in Croatia, "By request of the Croatian Minister of the Armed Power, we submit enclosed a report of the directorate of the civilian administration in Dalmatia for information." And that is the forwarding copy that brought this to the attention of the Corps from the German General-Plenipotentiary in Croatia, and on the next page is an excerpt from the report.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Denney, we will not be able to complete this portion that you have just referred to, nor the Document Book; and we have only a couple of minutes before adjournment time; so we shall adjourn at this time. This Tribunal will stand adjourned until Monday morning, August 4 at 0930 in the morning.

MR. DENNEY: If your Honor pleases.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal will be recessed until 0930 Monday morning.

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the court room will please find their seats.

The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal V.

Military Tribunal V is now in session. God save the United States of America and this honorable Tribunal.

There will be order in the court.

PRES. WENNERSTRUM: Marshal will you please ascertain if all the defendants are present in the courtroom.

MARSHAL: May it please your Honors, all defendants are present in the courtroom.

The persons in the court room will be seated.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Judge Edward F. Carter of this Tribunal will preside at today's session.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: You may proceed.

MR. DENNEY: May it please your Honors, first one or two matters which will be taken up: The Prosecution is sending to Greece for some witnesses and it is expected that they will arrive here late this week and in view of that the Prosecution would appreciate, and I trust the defense counsel will have no objection, if we could have an adjournment over Friday of this week.

DR. LATERNSEER: The defense agrees with this proposal.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: You expect, Mr. Denney, to have the documentary evidence in at that time?

MR. DENNEY: Not completely at that time; I think we should finish XV this morning; we ought to finish XVI, XVII, XVIII prior to that time and I believe we may have started on one witness before the end of this week.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: The Tribunal agrees that the adjournment will be permitted.

MR. DENNEY: Thank you, your Honor. Now, in connection with document NOKW 076, which is the third document appearing in Book XIV, which your Honors excluded. For the record the defense counsel need not worry about it; I am not going to talk about it; I am just going to request that it be marked for identification. This was offered on the afternoon session of Thursday, July 31st, and it is my understanding that it has not been marked for identification. We propose to prepare a motion in support of an application for the admission of this document and with that in mind I would request that the document be marked 338a for identification.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Will you give me the number of the document again.

MR. DENNEY: Yes, your Honor, document NOKN 076. It is the third document appearing in the English Document Book XIV and the German Document Book XIV. It appears at page 6 of the English text and page 5 of the German text and it is requested that this be marked 338a for identification. There seems to be some doubt in the Secretary-General's mind; Major Hatfield, the document is merely being offered for identification, and is not being received and hence it is the number 338a and not "b", because "b" documents are the ones that are received in evidence. If and when it is received it is submitted that the letter be changed, but for the present it is 338a, providing the court is agreeable.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: That's agreeable.

MR. DENNEY: There has been some delay in the motion because of the fact that I haven't been able to see the transcript for that day as yet and the motion papers should be prepared sometime later this week.

Turning now to another matter. We were served on Friday- I did not see the papers until after the afternoon session on Friday,- with a motion by the defense counsel with reference to a proposed trip to Washington. The Prosecution intends to file a memorandum in opposition to this request and it is requested that we be given until tomorrow noon to file our answer and papers, in view of the fact that Friday was a partial holiday here and on Saturday and Sunday there was no secretarial help available to those of us who were preparing the memorandum. Is that agreeable with your, Dr. Laternser?

DR. LATERNSEY: Mr. President, I don't know how long the Prosecution will take in order to present its case. The Defense believes, however, it is definitely necessary that a trip of one or two deputies be made possible to Washington, and it has been concluded that we, the defense, in order to continue the case, are convinced of this because important material can be gotten from our representatives in Washington.

MR. DENNEY: Your Honor, I am not arguing the merits or lack of them, of his application, but am only asking that I be given until tomorrow noon to file the papers.

DR. LATERNSEY: The defense counsel cannot make any objection to that.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: It will be granted.

MR. DENNEY: And I might say for the record with reference to Dr. Laternsey's application that the prior application with reference to the examination of one of his clients, that we have no objection, and we have filed this morning with the Secretary-General's office, that office having been closed on Saturday and Sunday when I attempted to file it at an earlier time, a statement to that effect.

Turning now to the remaining material in Document Book 15, the exhibit which we were considering as Prosecution Exhibit No. 371, which has been received in evidence and it is Document NOKW 1419. We had treated those portions of the exhibit which dealt with a communication of 30 January 1944 from the Corps Headquarters, 15th Mountain Corps, which was under the command of the defendant Leyser, to the Second Panzer Army, which was under the command of the defendant Rendulic, and the information copies going to the Military Commander Southeast, who was at that time General Loehr, and his Chief of Staff, at that time was the defendant Geitner. We also discussed the communication from SS Standartenfuhrer to General Leyser, as commander of the 15th Mountain Corps, and a communication from the German General Plenipotentiary in Croatia -Glaise-Horstrenau to the 15th Mountain Corps of the Defendant Leyser.

We now come to a report, page 91 of the German book and page 64 of the English book, starting with the section, for the interpreters, which has to do with our relationship to the German Wehrmacht.

At first, the German were met with mistrust due to enemy propaganda. There were cases where some Commanders and soldiers (surely by their own authority) have taken upon themselves certain rights which were not theirs, that is to say which are theirs in occupied enemy territory. In particular with regard to the spoils of war, there were frequently differences of opinion since the Germans, in addition to all war material, also consider as spoils of war all monies, Jewish and Italian fortunes, cigarettes, salt, matches, etc. After the Germans realized that they had extended their rights too far in regard to the spoils of war, the situation is now much clearer.

However, there is another fact which gives cause for concern.

The German Wehrmacht undertakes mopping up operations of the area without special co-operation of our troops. In a certain sense, this makes the Germans akin to liberators, but causes resistance within the population which expresses itself in particular in mistrust toward our State. In addition, German troops out of ignorance of our situation, sometimes carry out too severe measures or reprisals against the population which bears small guilt or no guilt at all. In most cases, the partisans on the arrival of German troops, fire from just those villages from which they wish to flee and/or to which they wish to cause damage.

The peaceful population remains while the Germans, convinced that they are dealing with accomplices, burn down these villages and thus destroy all the property of the population. In order to avoid such misunderstandings, a closer co-operation with our military and civil authorities by the German troops committed seems an urgent requirement, and prior to any mopping up operation by German detachments, the necessary data should be requested from our authorities."

And it is signed Vladimir Jonic, Commissar of Ustasha Headquarters, former representative to the Directorate Civilian Administration in liberated Dalmatia.

And then under date 11 August 1944, a communication from the Chief of Civil Administration of the Independent State of Croatia and to the Commander of German Troops in Croatia, Subject: Vicici Konji -- Its burning down by German troops."

I have received a report that the village of Donji Vecici was burned down and destroyed with weapons by German troops on Aug 7th this year and that the population was driven to Kotor Varos. The reason for this procedure was allegedly that a woman of this village had fired on a German Soldier from a house. It should be considered that this village was occupied by the partisans for several months, and a partisan woman had hidden there for certain and fired on the German Soldiers, something for which the population of this village cannot be held responsible.

As proof that the population did not feel friendly toward the partisans, the fact is cited that not a single person of this village had joined the partisans, notwithstanding an occupation of several months, their atrocities and promises.

The population was more than happy when the German troops arrived and liberated them from the atrocities and the looting. Now they experienced their greatest disappointment and their annihilation by just these German troops. Great excitement and open revolt ensued as a result of these happenings. Thus, a commission sent by the Headquarters of the German Troops in Banja Luka to establish the exact facts at the locality of the incident, in co-operation with the civilian authorities, in order to carry out the necessary measures which would prevent repetition of such, and similar cases would be in the interest not only of our authorities but also in the interest of the German troops.

To safeguard the harvest, it would be best to grant permission to the population of this village to return to their homes, where the population would erect some temporary housing.

I would appreciate your informing me whether permission will be granted the population to return to the village.

On this occasion, I again request the general to undertake such heavy punishment of the population only in cases where there is no doubt concerning the co-operation of the population with the partisans.

Because, if such cases happen repeatedly, consequences will ensue which are not in the interest of the pacification and of the suppression of the insurgents. It only would strengthen the revolt against the troops and against Governmental authorities and provide the enemy with material for propaganda against the German and Croatian Troops.

Ready for the Homeland!

Chief of the Civilian Administration.

Benak."

Then on 16 September 1943 from Corps Headquarters XV Mountain Corps, communication by this unit to the Chief of Civil Administration with Corps headquarters XV Mountain Corps, Minister Benak, and it refers here to the earlier letter, and at this time the unit in question, the XV Mountain Corps was commanded by one Lueters, it is believed. Yes, if your Honors, please, Lt. General Rudolf Lueters, was commander until November 1943:

The inquiry which was instituted concerning measures taken against the village of Vecici and which is now completed has established the following:

The rear guard of a German Company received fire from almost every house in the Northern part of Vecici. As has been established, almost the entire population participated in this treacherous fire attack which took place after the majority of the company had passed through. The company commander reports, for instance, that a woman offered him milk. After he had gone on for about 30 meters, the woman fired after him with a machine pistol. The woman was shot to death by a German soldier. Four soldiers who were captured during the attack were found, some shot in the head, some with broken skulls.

German woolen blankets, canteens and similar equipment of German origin were found in the houses of the village. Newly dug graves were found in the barns themselves.

It has been established beyond doubt that the German troops were fired on from the village by civilians and in particular also by women.

Thus, a reprisal operation was ordered against civilians. During the burning down of the houses, a large amount of ammunition exploded which is further proof of the participation of the population in the attack. Several inhabitants and Domobrans admitted that the detonations were audible during the burning down of the houses. During the carrying out of reprisal measures German soldiers were fired on even from the immediate neighborhood of the Mosque.

For some time, the village of Vecici has been known to be a hide-out for bands. That during the reprisal measures houses of innocent residents were also destroyed is possible and is based on the nature of such punitive operations.

If similar cases should occur the German Wehrmacht sees itself forced to order reprisal measures. According to reports of the Grossgespanschaft the inhabitants of Vecici have returned to their village.

(signed) Lueters And on the 22d August there is a communication from the Commander in Chief, Southeast, simultaneously charged with the command of Army Group-E, he was Loehr, which is directed to Commanding General and Commander in Serbia, he was Felber, whose Chief of Staff at that time was Geitner.

It is dated ss August 1943. The subject is "Levying of collective fines," and there is a reference to an inquiry from Felber to Loehr.

"I am unable to agree to your interpretation of the law. The Hague rules of land warfare clearly differentiate between collection government taxes (Article 48) levying of other taxes (Article 49) imposition of fines on the entire population (Article 50) and compulsory contributions which are not fines (Article 51). The limitation of Article 51 which states that contributions shall be collected only under a written order and on the responsibility of an independent Commanding General refers only to compulsory contributions in the sense of Articles 48 and 49 nor to the imposition of a fine in the sense of Article 50.

This legal interpretation also corresponds to the practical requirements. The revolts and unrest which are constantly flaring up in the Southeast area make it necessary for the local territorial office (Administrative Sub-area Headquarters or Town Headquarters) to be in a position, if necessary, to apply severest reprisal measures immediately. This also includes the imposition of fines on communities and associated communities.

Even if Article 51 should refer also to Articles 48 and 50 the requirement has been fulfilled by the Commanding General having transferred under a written order, the establishment of the penal contributions to the Commandant of Administrative Sub-area Headquarters. This does not affect the responsibility of the Commanding General toward his superior authority. Consequently, the prerequisites of Article 51 are fulfilled.

Anyway, if, in the course of combat actions, war contributions are imposed, Article 42 will be mostly applied, i.e., Article 51 will not be applied because the combat zone is not occupied territory in the sense of Article 42.

I have no objections whatsoever against the decrees of 17 July 1941 and of 1 March 1943 issued by the Commanding General and Commander Serbia nor against the proposal of the Administrative Sub-area Headquarters.

I propose at the close of the exhibit to read in some sections that have been referred to. However, I think it would be best, before commenting on it, that we pass on with one exception: I would like to direct the Court's attention to the use of the term "combat zone" here in the second last paragraph and it is submitted that evidence will be offered or elicited at a later time as to the meaning of the term, "Combat zone" as opposed to the "Communication zone" or the "zone of interior." This is a standard military term which is employed both in the German army and in ours.

Then, the balance of the exhibit is just the last page which has the various entries on it which follow -- there is typed: "The Commander in Chief Southeast, Simultaneously charged etc.," and there is handwritten the diary entry number and the date appears to the right and it is stamped "Secret": and then there is the distribution list, and this is in August of 1943 and it's to be noted that there is a copy sent to the Commanding General and Commander South Greece who, it is submitted, at that time was the defendant Speidel.

Then there is the certification and an additional stamp with reference to the Commander of German Troops in Croatia, which appears on page 71, and then the notation is handwriting at the bottom of 71:

"Pursuant to the report to Chief of Staff, no written order to the Divisions will be issued. Agreement of the administrative Sub-area Headquarters Zagreb and Brod is the affair of the German Plenipotentiary General."

With the Court's permission, I should like to read into the record now the sections of the Hague Convention, which is the convention relative to the laws and customs of war on land, together with it's annex; and I have here a German for the interpreters. These are all short sections. There are some 14 of them and there are numerous references in the communication to sections under this heading; specifically 42, 48, 49,50 and 51.

Article 42 of Section III, which is part of the annex to the convention respecting the laws and customs of war on land, that annex as to the laws and customs of war on land, Hague Convention No. 4 of 18 October 1907; and, for the convenience of the Court, it is: 36 statutes 2277; Treaty Series No. 539; Malloy Treaties, Volume II, page 2269; and the German copy which the interpreters are reading from is taken from the German Library and this copy which I have here is War Department Technical Manual No. 27-251, 7 January 1947 and it is published by order of the Secretary of War, by G.C. Marshall, Chief of Staff, and bears the official designation by J.A. Ulio, Major General; and then "The Adjutant General" of the United States Army.

Article 42: "Territory is considered occupied when it is actually placed under the authority of the hostile army. The occupation extends only to the territory where such authority has been established and can be exercised."

Article 43: "The authority of the legitimate power having in fact passed into the hands of the occupant, the latter shall take all measures in his power to restore, and ensure, as far as possible, public order and safety, while respecting, unless absolutely prevented, the laws in force in the country."

Article 44: "A belligerent is forbidden to force the inhabitants of territory occupied by it to furnish information about the army of the other belligerent, or about its means of defence."

Article 45: "It is forbidden to compel the inhabitants of occupied territory to swear allegiance to the hostile Power."

Article 46: "Family honour and rights, the lives of persons and private property, as well as religious convictions and practice, must be respected. Private property cannot be confiscated."

Article 47: "Pillage is formally forbidden."

Article 48: "If, in the territory occupied, the occupant collects the taxes, dues and tolls imposed for the benefit of the State, he shall do so, as far as is possible in accordance with the rules of assessment and incidence in force, and shall in consequence be bound to defray the expenses of the administration or the occupied territory to the same extent as the legitimate Government was so bound."

Article 49: "If, in addition to the taxes mentioned in the above Article, the occupant levies other money contributions in the occupied territory, this shall only be for the needs of the army or for the administration of the territory in question."

Article 50: "No general penalty, pecuniary or otherwise, shall be inflicted upon the population on account of the acts of individuals for which they cannot be regarded as jointly and severally responsible."

Article 51: "No contribution shall be collected except under a written order, and on the responsibility of a Commander in Chief. The collection of the said contribution shall only be effected as far as possible in accordance with the rules of assessment and incidence of the taxes in force. For every contribution a receipt shall be given to the contributors."

Article 52: "Requisitions in kind and services shall not be demanded from municipalities or inhabitants except for the needs of the army of occupation. They shall be in proportion to the resources of the country, and of such a nature as not to involve the inhabitants in the obligation of taking part in military operations against their own country. Such requisitions and services shall only be demanded on the authority of the commander in the locality occupied. Contributions in kind shall as far as possible be paid for in cash; if not, a receipt shall be given and the payment of the amount due shall be made as soon as possible."

Article 53: "An army of occupation can only take possession of cash, funds and realizable securities which are strictly the property of the State, depots of arms, means of transport, stores and supplies, and, generally, all movable property belonging to the State which may be used for military operations.

All appliances, whether on land, at sea, or in the air, adapted for the transmission of news, or for the transport of persons or things, exclusive of cases governed by naval law, depots of arms, and, generally, all kinds of ammunitions of war, may be seized, even if they belong to private individuals, but must be restored and compensation fixed when peace is made."

"54" has to do with submarine cables and I don't think we have to worry about that.

"55: The occupying State shall be regarded only as administrator and usufructuary of public buildings, real estates, forests, and agricultural estates belonging to the hostile State, and situated in the occupied country. It must safeguard the capital of these properties, and administer them in accordance with the rules of usufruct."

And the last article, 56, which is also the last article of the annex: "The property of municipalities, that of institutions dedicated to religion, charity and education, the arts and sciences, even when State property, shall be treated as private property. All seizure of, destruction or wilful damage done to institutions of this character, historic monuments, works of art and science, is forbidden, and should be made the subject of legal proceedings."

Turning now to page 100 in the German and 73 in the English, we offer Prosecution's document No. NOKW-931 as Exhibit 372 in evidence. These are reports of the 100th Jaeger Division to the 21st Mountain Corps, dated 14 and 16 December 1943; and this corps at that time was under the 2nd Panzer Army which was commanded by the defendant Rendulic.

First is a supplemental report to the report of 12 December which had been made at an earlier time.

During area operations

(About one sentence missing – film unintelligible.)

The next page, 74 in the English and 101 in the German, again from the 100 Jaeger Division to its parent unit the XXI Corps, the daily report 1c:

"Reprisal measures for attack on the road patrol in Elbasan; Execution shooting of 4 Communists and advancing the curfew for civilians to 1600 hours."

While there are some initials on this original, these are actual typings on telegraphic communication blanks other than the units. We have been unable to identify any of them as of this time.

Then turning to page 102 in the German, and 75 in the English, we have document NOKW-073, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 373.

These are daily reports of the various subordinate units to the 2nd Panzer Army with reference to the retaliation measures which were made in December, although one of them refers back to a November date. The 2nd Panzer Army was at this time commanded by the defendant Rendulic.

The first report is from the 69th Corps and at this time that corps was subordinate to the 2nd Panzer Army and was commanded by the defendant Dehner.

The report for 3 December 1943, which is a supplement to an earlier daily report of 29 November, states that:

"According to the report of the Croatian State Commissar for Security of Railroad Traffic, 10 persons from the bordering communities will be hanged at the locality of the incident in reprisal for this attack against a troop transport. The State Commission also intend from now on to levy fines on the Communities concerned since, according to his interpretation this will be felt considerably more."

Then the daily report of the 16 December, the 187th Reserve Division, which at that time was subordinate to the 69th Corps, which in turn was subordinate to the 2nd Panzer Army, speaking for the area, "Tuzla":

"According to statements of inhabitants a band group of 1500 men has retreated from the area of Crna Bjaka into the area of Krivaca and Dzinrize". In reprisal for a mine attack near Bajic, 6 hostages were hanged at the place of the attack;

Then there is a daily report of the 69th Corps for the 23rd, again citing the activity of the 187th Reserve Division, one of its subordinate units:

"Area Brcko: Attack of band group (400 men) on Stresinci near Jamena repelled partly in hand to hand combat."

"Area Virovitica-Bjelovar-Keprivnica: (December 21, 1943) Majuro occupied by band, approximately 1000 men. Armament in area southwest Bjelovar. In Bjelovar on 22 December, 25 hostages and people suspected of being bandits shot to death as reprisal measure for attacks by bands."

Then on page 103 of the German, 77 of the English, again from the same units, the 69th Corps and 187th Reserve division:

"During mopping up operations by the II Ustasha Brigade and by police units near Djakovo several villages were burned down as a reprisal measure, 2 bandits captured."

Then we have a report of 15 December, with reference to the action "Panther", concerning the 373rd Infantry Division, part of the 15th Mountain Corps, which at that time was commanded by the defendant Leyser:

"During the night propaganda vehicles were employed; 4 deserters."

Then over on page 103, for the 373rd Division again, still of the 15th Corps:

"Base of Kola taken by bandits during the night of 13 to 14.12.

9 Croats dead, 33 Domobrane and 2 officers missing. German relief forces occupied Kola without contact with the enemy but Croats again evacuated Kola. Enemy attack allegedly was carried out by 1500 bandits."

Then for the 69th Corps:

"Since 8 December 1943 stronger sabotage activity against main railroad line. 173rd Reserve Division seized 220 hostages for attack on railroad near Putinci."

This 173rd Division, we have not referred to it lately, however, that is one of the three divisions along with the 187th Reserve and originally the 1st Cossack, which was subordinate to the 69th Corps which was a corps of the 2nd Panzer Army, and your Honors will recall at the commencement of this book, the reports from the First Cossack Division were being made to the 15th Corps, and although we have never found the order transferring that Division from the 69th to the 15th Corps, the earlier reports which were contained in Book 14 for actions in the early part of 1943, were made from the 1st Cossack Division to the 69th Corps.

That, if Your Honors please concludes this book, and we are endeavoring to get the documents for the next book. It is just a matter of bringing them up here. I do not know where they are.

Dr. Laternser is here to speak.

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honors, after looking through the translations, on page 101 of the English document book -- I am sorry, on page 74 of the English document book, the German word, "uebergall" has been translated, "attack". That is the first case. A second case, on page 76 of the English Document Book, at the top of the page, the word "Ueberfall" has again been translated by the word "attack".

The third case is on page 76 of the English document book, and is the word "Bandenueberfall" translated in the text by "attacks by bands," On page 78 of the English document book, in the center of the page, the word "Fuer vahnanschlag bei Putinci" is translated by "attack on railroad". These four translations, I would be grateful if these translations could be submitted to the interpreters.

MR. DENNEY: We have no objection to submitting them, your Honors. There is one point I would like to make. I have spoken to Dr. Laternser about it before. I think it is only fair that when he comes up with a translation disagreement, if he will just call our attention to the German text with which he disagrees. Now here it is obvious that he finds four translations of the word, "attack" as improper. The interpreters hear it and their first reaction when they get the German is, "Well, what different can we find than 'attack' to use", whereas if he will come up, -- I have no objection at all to any trouble or fault he wants to find with our translations. We are certainly trying to make them as proper as we can, but if he will just come up and says, "I want the word "Bandenueberfall" on page 102 of the German translated; or I want the word "Eisenbahnueberfall" on page 76 of the German translated, so that the translators at least can go into it with an open mind, I do not think that request is unreasonable.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: You may send up the original. We will have it interpreted.

DR. LATERNSE: From what the Prosecutor has just said I want to say this; I want to add something. I believe I did not proceed in any other way, I pointed out the pages and the places to which I objected, and I did not choose any other way. I also have an interest that the translation is done in the proper way.

THE PRESIDENT: (JUDGE WENNERSTRUM): I think we will take our morning recess while you get the pages and lines.

MR. DENNEY: If Your Honor pleases.

(A RECESS WAS TAKEN FROM 1105 to 1115)

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the Courtroom will please find their seats.

The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: (JUDGE WENNERSTRUM): Judge Burke and I regret to announce that Judge Edward F. Carter has received a cablegram that his brother in America was recently killed in automobile accident. Naturally Judge Carter is deeply affected; and out of respect to him, and because of his and our wish in the matter, the Tribunal will stand adjourned at this time until 9:30 tomorrow morning.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal will be in recess until 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning (THE TRIBUNAL ADJOURNED AT 1117, TO RESUME SESSION TUESDAY, 5 August 1947, at 0930) Official Transcript of Military Tribunal V, Case VII, in the matter of the United States of America against Wilhelm List et al, defendants, sitting at Nurnberg, Germany, on 5 August 1947, 0930, Justice Wennerstrum presiding.

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the Courtroom will please find their seats.

The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal V. Military Tribunal V is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

There will be order in the Court.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Marshal, you will ascertain if all the defendants are in the Courtroom.

THE MARSHAL: May it please your Honors, all the defendants are present in the Courtroom.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed, Mr. Denney, with such matters as you may desire.

MR. DENNEY: May it please your Honors; Dr. Laternser I wonder if you step up and we can look at these translation notes and make sure that I have them all properly marked. Dr. Laternser?

If your Honors please, at this time I would like to hand to the interpreters Exhibits 372 and 373. The word which appears in Exhibit is on the third line from the last of the last page of the Exhibit in the German and is the word "Ueberfall."

And in 373 the first word appears on the third page, counting this title page as one, and is on the last line of that page, the word "Bahnanschlag."

The next word is on the sixth page and appears in the last line of Paragraph D, and it is "Ueberfallstelle."

And the last word appears in the last line of Paragraph B on the last page of Exhibit 373 and is the word "Bandenueberfalle." And I would ask the interpreters to translate those words.

THE PRESIDENT: If the interpreters will please state the line and page of the English documents, that will be helpful to the Tribunal.

MR. DENNEY: The first word, Your Honors, is on page 74 of the English, Document NOKW-931, Exhibit 372. It is the fourth word in the paragraph which appears at the bottom of that page "reprisal measure for attack." And the second is on page 76 of the English, Document NOKW-073, Exhibit 373 in evidence. And it is the third last word on that line which is underlined. "Attacks." The third word is the third and fourth words on page 78 of the last page of Document Book 15. The same document, the same exhibit. The first on the second last line under the entry of 273 Infantry Division. The second word in the last sentence, "attack", and the fourth word is the fifth word from the end of the entry under the 69th Reserve Corps, "attack."

MR. DENNEY: I am sorry, I misunderstood you.

INTERPRETER SCHAEFFER: And page 103 of the German, the word in question reads "Bahnanschlag," "surprise attack on railroad." The sentence should then read: "173 Reserve Division seized 220 Hostages for surprise attack on railroad near Putnic." And the last case in question is on page

102 of the German, and the word in question is "Ueberfallstelle". That is "the spot of the surprise attack."

The sentence is on page 76 of the English Document Book, on top of the page: "In reprisal for a mine attack near Rajac, 6 hostages hanged at the place of the surprise attack."

Those are the four cases that were being questioned.

MR. DENNEY: In reply to a request by counsel for the defendant Rendulic, I would like to hand his counsel a copy of "Recht der Landkriegsfuehrung", and in that the prosecution is signed out with this book from the library, I would appreciate it if counsel would make such use of it as he needs and return it within one week, lest we be fined.

Mr. Fenstermacher has made available to counsel for the defense, an additional list of 54 documents which are in the document room, under a memorandum of 4 August. I now hand to Dr. Laternser a large stack of material which I have not counted, and which comprises the balance of the documents which the prosecution has in Nuernberg. These documents have never been translated, and I am giving him the original photostatic copies. He may have them for as long as he wants; however, I would certainly appreciate it if he could have them returned to us ultimately.

In addition, here is one more, and Mr. Fenstermacher's memorandum covering the deliveries.

THE PRESIDENT: To what exhibit and what matter do these documents refer, Mr. Denney?

MR. DENNEY: They are documents, if Your Honors, please, which were sent to us from Washington in connection with our request throughout the case that any material having any bearing whatsoever on this matter be forwarded to Nurnberg. This material has been sent under that directive. We have felt that it is not such material as has sufficient bearing on the case to warrant its presentation to the Court; however, in line with our discussion with Your Honors, and defense counsel of last week, we are delivering all of the documents to Dr. Laternser for his examination.

These copies which have been physically handed to him today, together with the various lists which have been made available to him from the document room, comprise all of the documents which we have here except those which are being held for cross examination and except those which are in the document books.

I now hand Your Honors three copies of an addendum to Document Book 3, 24 copies for defense counsel, two copies for Major Hatfield, one for the interpreters and one for the reporters. This is an addition to 113-A, which appears at the close of document book 3 and concerns Exhibit 100-B in its various parts. It should be marked page 173 and inserted at the end of Document Book 3.

I now hand Your Honors three copies and 24 for defense counsel of another paper which I shall identify in a moment. Two copies for Major Hatfield, and one for the court reporters and interpreters. This should be marked Exhibit 319-A, and placed at the conclusion of Document Book 12. The pagination is 166 and 167. Two copies for Major Hatfield and one for the court reporters and interpreters. This should be marked Exhibit 336-A for identification and given pages 143 and 144, and placed at the conclusion of Document Book 13. This last copy which has been handed to Your Honors, defense counsel, the interpreters, the reporters, and Major Hatfield, should be marked 363-A, pages 144 and 145 of Document Book 14. And copies for the court, the defense counsel, the interpreters, reporters and Major Hatfield have been given as the last insert which is Exhibit 373-A page 79 of Document Book 15.

At this time I am advised by counsel for the defense that the defendant Dehner is no longer represented by counsel, and requests that an adjournment until 1:30 be granted in order that an effort maybe made by Dr. Laternser on behalf of the defendant Dehner to obtain counsel for him, and it is my understanding that if defense counsel are unable to obtain someone at that time a further adjournment until tomorrow morning may be requested. However, they hope to work something out between now and 1:30.

THE PRESIDENT: The request and application made by Mr. Denney will be granted. The Tribunal respectfully asks Dr. Laternser to make his contacts and to make every effort to have a representative of the defendant Dehner here at 1:30.

The Tribunal will now stand in recess until 1:30.

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the Courtroom will please find their seats.

The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: Are there any matters that you desire to present to the Court or to the Tribunal at this time?

MR. DENNEY: May it please Your Honors, Dr. Laternser, on behalf of the Defendant Dehner who is absent, has advised me that he has tentatively secured a counsel for the Defendant Dehner and that this afternoon they are conferring in an effort to determine whether the counsel is satisfactory to the defendant and whether the counsel can undertake the case. And I have been advised by a member of the Defense Information Center that the proposed counsel is satisfactory to them; and with that in mind, in view of the absence of the Defendant Dehner, defense counsel have asked me to request that we adjourn until 9:30 tomorrow morning. The Prosecution has no objection in order to enable the Defendant Dehner to secure counsel, and it is so requested by the Prosecution.

THE PRESIDENT: Does Dr. Laternser care to make any statement at this time in connection with this matter?

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, what Mr. Denney said just now is quite correct. I assume that the question of the defense counsel for General Dehner can be decided this afternoon. Since General Dehner himself is not present now, I, in his name, ask for an adjournment.

THE PRESIDENT: Will Mr. Denney or Dr. Laternser advise the Tribunal during the afternoon as to what they may learn as to the developments?

MR. DENNEY: I certainly will, if I hear anything, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Now, in connection with the motion which is made on behalf of the defendants for the sending of representatives of defense counsel to Washington and the resistance thereto, which was presented to the Tribunal during the morning, may I make an inquiry as to whether or not the documents that you turned over to Dr. Laternser this morning bear upon that question? I am directing my inquiry to Mr. Denney.

MR. DENNEY: Yes, Your Honor, they are the balance of the documents which we had here. We never had them translated, and there, as Your Honors saw this morning, quite a substantial pile of them.

THE PRESIDENT: And does the record show what they are---the number and the amount of them?

MR. DENNEY: The record, I believe, does not show the number, Your Honor. The communication which was handed to Dr. Laternser from Mr. Fenstermacher by me lists the documents, and other than a statement that there are a large number of documents, the record does not show what they are either by document, name or number or pagination.

THE PRESIDENT: And it's stated in the resistance, on behalf of the exception of some few that you may be withholding for purposes of the Prosecution for cross examination.

MR. DENNEY: Your Honor, they are all that are here in Nurnberg and all of which we have been advised from Washington; and of course they do not include the balance of the document books. We are on No. 16 now --say six document books plus a book for the Norwegian, which is seven; and there may be one more of the general documents that are being processed now.

THE PRESIDENT: I am making these inquiries for purposes of the record and also for the information of the Tribunal.

MR. DENNEY: I might say that the answering papers were served on the defendants--that is, given to defense counsel--eleven copies just before this afternoon's session. I left some in Your Honors' office during the luncheon period, and copies were served on the Secretary General's office during the noon hour.

THE PRESIDENT: I think that answers the inquiries that I have in mind unless other members of the Tribunal have some statement to make. The application and motion for adjournment until 9:30 tomorrow morning, will be granted. This Tribunal will stand in adjournment then until 9:30 tomorrow morning.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal will be in recess until 9:30 tomorrow morning.

(The Tribunal adjourned at 1340, to resume session Wednesday, 6 August 1947, at 0930.)

Official Transcript of the American Military of Tribunal in the matter of the United States of America, against Wilhelm List, et al, defendants, sitting at Nurnberg, Germany, on 6 August 1947, 0930-1630, Justice Burke presiding.

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the court room will please find their seats.

The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal V.

Military Tribunal V is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

There will be order in the court.

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: The Tribunal will ascertain whether all the defendants are present in the court room May it please your Honors, all defendants are present in the court room.

The persons in the court room will be seated.

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: Judge George Burke will preside at today's session of the Tribunal.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed, Mr. Denney.

MR. DENNEY: May it please your Honors, I have received a notice from Dr. Mueller-Torgow asking for the balance of Exhibit 336, which, if your Honors recall, is Document NOKW 293 and concerned the German occupation of Croatia. I now hand Dr. Torgow the balance of the exhibit and the court can see that it is about 250 pages. The matters which are covered are the Italian occupation, the occupation of Finland, the occupation of Rumania, the occupation of Hungary, and some other allied matters. I would like to get this document back from Dr. Mueller-Torgow when it has served its purpose

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Is counsel for defendant Dehner present today?

MR. DENNEY: May it please your Honors, Dr. Latenser yesterday was able to arrange for Dr. Gawlick to represent the defendant Dehner and it is my understanding that although, at least a formal notice to that effect has not been served on the Prosecution, and I don't know about the Tribunal, that Dr. Gawlick is agreeable to representing the defendant Dehner and the Defendant Dehner is agreeable to having Dr. Gawlick represent him.

Perhaps Dr. Gawlick would like to make a statement for the record to that effect in order that your Honors can be informed from him.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: If he cares to do so I'm sure the Tribunal will be glad to hear him.

DR. GAWLICK: (Attorney for the defendant Dehner) Your Honors, if the Tribunal agrees I have taken over the defense of the defendant Dehner. Of course it is extremely difficult for me to intervene in the process at this moment. I had refrained, so far, from asking for a postponement. However, I might have to ask for adjournment when the proper time arises. In the event that it is not possible for me to get the necessary evidence, when the turn for my case comes.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I think the Tribunal is mindful of the difficulties involved in your coming into the case at this time and we will try to suit the situation to the convenience of your client and yourself.

MR. DENNEY: It is believed that Dr, Gawlick will be able to obtain all of the document books which the former advocate for the defendant Dehner had and I might say for the record that yesterday afternoon Dr. Gawlick came to the prosecution office and we made available to him for a cursory examination all of the documents which will be submitted today concerning his client. The other documents, of course, are in the record and if we can be of any help to him by spending time out of court over these documents we will be very glad to do it.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I am sure the members of the Tribunal will appreciate any cooperation and assistance and help you may be able to furnish so as to prevent unnecessary delay.

MR. DENNEY: We proceed now to Document Book XVI. We still are in the period late '43 and early '44. The establishment of Army Group F has already been detailed At this time the defendant Weichs is still the Commanding General of Army Group F; his chief of staff is the defendant Foertsch. Army Group E was under the command of General Loehr; Military Commander in Serbia was General Felber and his chief of staff was the defendant Geitner; under Army Group E there is the 18th Corps commanded by the defendant Felmy, the 22nd corps commanded by the defendant Lanz, and on the other side, the 2nd Panzer Army under the defendant Rendulic, and under the XVth Mountain Corps and the 21st Mountain Corps, each of which were commanded at different times by the defendant Leyser, and the 69th Mountain Corps which was commanded by the defendant Dehner.

On the basis of the order of the Commander in Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army – No. 38/43 secret dated 15 September" – and it is submitted that is the order which is Exhibit No. 340 which is in Document Book XVI, at page 15 of that document book. That, if your Honors will recall, is the order of the defendant Rendulic which sets up the 50 to 1 ratio for a German killed and 25 to 1 for a German wounded and goes into some detail with reference to retaliatory measures.

–"the corps headquarters, pursuant to this order, issues an inclusive order pertaining to, 1) Propaganda to induce desertion, 2) Taking of hostages, 3) Evacuation and installation of work camps, 4) Reprisal measures. See enclosure."

And then under date of 4–10, 4 October, "A total of 40 hostages executed as reprisal for the attacks on railroads of the last few days.

..."

And below that on page 4 of the German, page 2 of the English, there appears the signature of Steinbeck, Colonel in the General Staff Corps, who was Chief of Staff for the 69th Corps, and Dehner, General der Infanterie, Commander of 69th Res. Corps.

Then on 17 October.

"Reprisal measures reported executed for attack on Novska by 187th Res. Div. That is one of the corps units. "After the arrests of 27 male hostages, 50 to 60 years of age (1/3 of these were railroad personnel in Novska) who were proved to have been members of bands, and after the evacuation of the population, the villages of Paklenica and Vocanica were burned down."

This has to do with the particulars of Count 2, Paragraph 9–G, in the indictment.

Then 19 October, Mopping up of the Fruska Gora by police in the area of Rakovac.

75 people suspected of belonging to bands were arrested. 5 enemy dead. Village burned down because nest of the band.

And then on the 11th:

At the same time, band attack by approximately 3 to 4 hundred men against the bridgehead of Broke. Both attacks miscarry. In many cases hand to hand combat occurs.

For the next entry, this is a time entry, 15.30. It is submitted, it is still under the date November 11:

173rd Res. Div. reports hanging of 20 hostages and shooting to death of 20 hostages, as reprisal for railroad sabotage near Stara Pazova, where an SS transport ran on to a mine and as reprisal measure for an attack on railroad patrol 40 Km. Southeast of Vukovar.

And then for December 2:

"In the sector of the 173rd Res. Div. ---" which is also one of the subordinate units of the 69th Corps.

"4 inhabitants of the bandit village Ugrinovei were hanged in the village, 2 dugouts which were destroyed and 5 fleeing bandits were shot dead as a reprisal measure for railroad sabotage."

And at the end appears the signature of Steinbeck, Chief of Staff, and where it is typed "General of Infantry, and Commanding General of LXIXth Res. Corps, there is no signature above that.

We will pass this up to Your Honors. Above that appears the signature of defendant Behner. Then if you will give it to Major Hatfield, after you have read it, please.

On page 5 of the English and page 11 of the German, NOKW 658, which becomes Exhibit 375. This entire exhibit is all typed. There is no signatures on it at all. There are various pencilled notations, and we see "War Diary", and there are various initials, and various interlineations, and reports from the 69th Corps to the 2nd Panzer Army, and the 2nd Panzer Army at this time was commanded by the defendant Rendulic, and the 69th Corps by the defendant Dehner. There are information copies that go through out to the Military Commander Southeast, Belgrade, and at this time that was the then General Felber; and also to Corps Headquarters IV Corps, Banja Luke, and Commanding General IV Corps, then at that time was General Leyser, and also copy to the German General - Plenipotentiary in Croatia, and I would like to call the court's attention to the statement "only for the personal information of the Chief of the General Staff."

The first report for the 20th September, and is one for the 173rd Reserve Division, and it recites the activities for the previous day:

Band base raided and destroyed during the partial operation SS-Gruppenfuehrer Kamerhofer. Own casualties: 3 wounded, 36 enemy dead, 21 members of band shot to death, about 60 prisoners brought in.

Then the report for the 21st but including the 20th of September, 187th Reserve Division:

"10 hostages hanged on the scene of the incident in further reprisal for the attack on truck of Croatian Panzer Regiment 202."

Then there is a reference to an earlier report.

Then the report for the 23rd, submitted the 24th, for the 173rd Division:

Search of the eastern part of Pruska Gora on 22.9 during operation SS Gruppenfuehrer Kammerhofer near G R G E T E G, search also of B U K O V A C and of K L O S T E R (Monastery) R E M E T A (northeast of Grgeteg). Grgeteg and Bukovac and villages burned down.

(Last 3 words struck out).

During these operations 2 wounded of our own. 13 enemy dead, 18 members of bands executed, 40 hostages taken.

For 187th Reserve Division:

Attack on G R A B O V O (9 southeast of Vukovar) during the night of 22.9 at 2130 o'clock. 1 German and 2 Hungarian farm managers shot to death. Grain was taken away. Leader of the band was a former manager of the farms, who had been dismissed. Continuation of operation Kammerhofer on 23.9.

All male inhabitants of K R U S E D O L - P R N J A V O R (16 northeast of R U M A) had fled. 84 persons arrested, among them 20 men and 6 women, unmasked as bandits.

187th Reserve Division:

a) During the night 22./23.9. attack on V I R O V I T I C A repelled. 100 hostages taken because shots were fired from private houses."

Then for the 25th, the 187th Division, still reporting through the 69th Corps, through the 2nd Panzer Army, with information copies to the same headquarters which were initially noted:

"While advancing in preparation for the operation, parts of the 5th Battery of the Artillery Reserve Regiment 96 with infantry cover were attacked by a strong band in the forest 1 km northeast Vranovci." and then they recite their casualties.

"Only minor contacts with the enemy during whole operation."

And then they refer to "The noted band case of Busnjevcı, was burned down in reprisal for the attack.

Under d) "100 men forcibly recruited in Prestovak."

Then for the 30th of September, 173rd Division:

"15 hostages executed by police on the scene of the incident for the mine attack on Wehrmacht transport train which caused the death of 1 man of the escort personnel - as reported in the daily report 28.9. paragraph IIa.

Then for the 3rd October, to the 173rd Division again, "At total of 40 hostages executed on the scene of the incident by the police (last words crossed out) as reprisal measure for the attacks on the railroad of the last few days."

And that which is submitted is the same one referred to under entry in this report. The operation by and SS Officer named Kammerhofer.

173rd Reserve Division:

Police Operation Kammerhofer:

"The forest terrain west of OBB R E Z was combed on 7.10. No contact with the enemy. The summer camp and the band were destroyed, as well as the village of V I T O J E V C I, which was burned down, No losses of our own, 25 prisoners and hostages.

And on the same day 187th Division:

"100 hostages taken in reprisal for the attack on the main railway line near Novska. The villages of Paklenica and Vocarica were evacuated and burned down."

"Residents of Koritna --"

This is a reference to the same section of the report which appeared earlier in the prior exhibit at page 2 of this book. The report in that instance went from Corps to Army, and here is another copy of the same report from the Corps to the Army:

"--were found to be infected with communism and to be looting the neighborhood. Reprisal measures are started. Communist courier detained, hanged after interrogation."

Then on the 9th October, 187th Division:

"20 people suspected of belonging to bands were executed from the neighborhood at the locality of the incident in reprisal for the attack of the 9.10., 01.30 o'clock, on the freight train on the main railroad 12 miles southeast Vinkovcias reported in the morning report 9.10."

This refers to Count I of the indictment, Paragraph 5-M, In the report for 12 October again 187th Division: "2 bandits arrested in Koritna. 1 of them hanged immediately. Hostages taken."

I would like to hand this to the interpreters. I will mark the sentence and ask that they translate it, if that is agreeable with Dr. Laternser. I can't seem to figure out what it is in the English here.

JUDGE BURKE: It may be handed to the interpreters.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: To what line, on what page are you making reference?

MR. DENNEY: It is the 1st line under 173rd Division, on page 15, your Honor, and it is page 36 of the German, the last paragraph on that page, the first line which begins with: "In the villages--"

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Thank you.

MR. DENNEY: Just the one sentence, the sentence I have marked.

THE INTERPRETER: The translation from the original German is as follows: "In the villages through which the calvalry passed, only old people and children."

MR. DENNEY: "In the villages through which the calvalry passed, only old people and children. 11 fleeing bandits shot to death. According to reports of confidential agents, parts of bands with women and children had fled in a southwesterly direction across the Save between the villages of Bosut and Jamena during the last days."

And then the report for the 15th of October under the 187th Reserve Division:

"Band group in strength of about 1,000 men reported near Bezje. Majority of population of the villages of Paklencia and Vocarica taken hostages. Villages burned down as reprisal measure for the band attack on Novska."

And again we have the same reference to which we earlier referred, both in this report and also from the War Diary of the 69th Corps.

"Outside of the security sector: Panzer train 23 hit a mine between Blinski Kut and Sunja. Railway line 15.10. Road reopened for traffic 15.30. As reprisal measure village of Kinjacka burned down."

And a report for the 17th of October, still from the 69th Corps and still going to the same headquarters, the Second Panzer Army, and the same information copy, 187th Reserve Division report:

"Arrest of a woman teacher as hostage in Kapela whose husband, a Croatian captain, deserted to the bandits and who wanted to persuade soldiers of his company to desert also."

Report for the 19th:

"The area of Rakovac was especially searched during the moppingup of Fruska Gora by police troops Kammerhofer 18.10. Enemy contact with small band groups. 5 enemy dead. Several dugouts and hideouts in Rakovac were destroyed. The village which was a pronounced nest of bandits was burned down. 75 people suspected of belonging to bands arrested."

"187th Division: 3 bandits lured into ambush by patrol of the VI. Ustasha Battalion near Ljeskovica shot to death during the night. Among them were communist village leaders. Important documents captured."

Then for the 20th for the 187th Division:

"Passenger train 12 northeast Bjelovar hit a mine. Bandits attacked train, looted and "burned it. After action by parts of the Res. Gren. Battalion, 2nd Battalion of the 482nd Regiment they withdrew in the direction of Sandrovac. 25 members of the band were executed and their execution made public as reprisal measure for this attack and the attack on Vukusavljevica on the 16th."

And for the 30th for the 187th Reserve Division:

"7 bandits in German uniforms were given battle by a patrol of Str: Topolje. No losses of our own. Enemy losses: 3 dead, 9 people suspected of being bandits, shot to death."

The 1st of November for the 187th Reserve Division:

"During reconnaissance in the area of Potocari 6 bandits shot. Captured material: 3 rifles. During reconnaissance by Ustasha troops stationed in Krizevic in the area northeast Krizevci, 7 bandits shot, 4 captured."

For the 2nd of November for the 187th Reserve Division:

"3 bandits hanged by the 1st Battalion of the 130th Regiment during reconnaissance in the forest area around Vrbanja and Drenovci."

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honors, unfortunately, at the moment I can not follow the proceedings. The fact that the numbers of the pages are not given in German -- I cannot find the page which is being read.

MR. DENNEY: I am sorry, your Honors, I will give the pages in German. Excuse me, Dr. Laternser. This is on page 53 of the German and page 22 of the English, report for the 2nd of November for the 187th Reserve Division. It appears on the bottom of page 53 of the German.

"3 bandits hanged by the 1st Battalion of the 130th Regiment during reconnaissance in the forest area around Vrbanja and Drenovci."

And then under the date of 1 November:

"2nd and 3rd Battalions of the 8th Mountain Regiment surrounded and searched C. Daruvar and Sibovac. 1 supply commissar and 1 bandit shot to death."

I again direct your Honors' attention to the use of the word, "commissar."

"34 bandits and people suspected of belonging to bands arrested. Captured material: 2 rifles, 2 vehicles horses drawn carrying bandages, food, tools, equipment and courier mail."

On page 23 of the English, page 55 of the German, report for the 4th of November, 1943:

"173rd Reserve Division: 100 bandits hanged for the attack on railroad Ratkovac-Ledinci, railroad attack Mitrovica, and attack on Police forces near Grgurevci."

"187th Reserve Division in the Brcko Area:

"Gradacac and Modrica occupied by 2 Communist brigades (approximately 1200 men).

And over on the top of page 56 of the German and still on page 23 of the English: and still for 187 Res. Div.:

"664 hostages taken by SS-police sector leader Osijek -- for 180 missing during attack on labor service camp Josipovac. These hostages were from Bundimci and BijeloBrda. Bandit leaders and the police are discussing exchange."

And then I would like to direct the Court's attention here to the part with reference to the exchange negotiations about these prisoners, the 664 taken by the SS in retaliation for the 180 people missing and that the police reports here to the army about it and the army makes a note that the SS are negotiating with the bandits with an eye to a possible exchange at some later date.

And then on page 57 of the German and 24 of the English, report for the 5th of November for the 187th Reserve Division:

"After railroad sabotage 3 kilometers east of Nova Gradiska the terrain north of the location of the detonation combed. Bandits and people suspected of being bandits hanged on the scene of detonation. 3 or 4 bandits shot to death during reconnaissance northwest of Koprivnica. No other contact with enemy."

Page 59 of the German and page 25 of the English, for the 6th of November, still from the same unit, the 69th Corps and directed to the 2nd Panzer Army with the same information copies:

"173rd Divisions: 19 Communists hanged at scene of detonation in reprisal for railroad explosion Mitrovica-Lacarak on 1.11," and that is the same one that is referred to in an earlier section of this same exhibit.

"187th Reserve Division: Jamena after evacuation as a pronounced bandit next partly burned down."

Page 61 of the German and page 26 of the English -- this should be the "8th of November" up here at the top, your Honors. There is nothing in the English. However, on the original it says: "Teletype dated 8 November 1943." It is a daily report for the 7th of November:

"173rd Reserve Division: 21 hostages shot to death as reprisal for the attack on the freight train between Lacarak-Martinoi as reported in the daily report of 7.11. paragraph II"; and that, of course, refers to the paragraph which appears in the prior page, page 25 of the English and page 59 of the German.

And then on page 65 of the German, page 27 of the English, report for the 11th of November:

"Operation 'Ferkel': Subsidiary operation. The night of 10.11. Band attack of 1500 men supported by anti-tank guns, trench mortars and artillery against the entire front south of Brcko. Simultaneous band attack of 3 to 4 hundred men against bridge head east of Brcko. Enemy had good leadership.

"173rd Reserve Division: 20 hostages hanged and 20 shot to death in reprisal for railroad sabotage near Stara Pazova" -- and then it refers to the daily report of the 4th under paragraph II with reference to the same division, the 173rd -- "and for attack on patrol 40 kilometers southeast of Vukevar," which refers to the daily report of the 9th, paragraph III, also the 173rd Reserve Division.

And then we have an entry for the 1st Cossack Division which was the 3rd division operating with the 69th Corps at that time:

"9 bandits shot during reconnaissance operation on Punitovci."

(Mr. Denney) Then on page 68 of the German, 28 of the English, there is a report for the 14th of November, and then if defense counsel will turn to page 69, your Honors, there, the 187th Reserve Division:

"13 hostages hunged in reprisal for attack on passenger train 2 west Okucani, see daily report of the 13th".

Then on page 70 of the German, 28 of the English, report for the 16th of November, and then turning over to page 71 of the German:

"187th Reserve Division: During reconnaissance on Soljani 14 Northeast Broke, skirmish with bandit group three to four hundred men. Escaped Volksdeutsches girl reports: about 500 bandits attacked Soljani in the afternoon hours. Volksdeutsche murdered, families of members of the Ustasha kidnapped."

"1st Cossack Division: During reconnaissance operation in area northwest Djakove 2 bandit leaders, 1 courier with records of the communist detachment Esseg and 12 bandits were captured. 24 bandits and 1 Cossack deserter shot to death."

I would like to call the court's attention to the fact that the First Cossack Division is appearing, operating again under the command of the 69th Corps.

If your Honors will recall, this latest division was under the 69th Corps, and later we had some reports where it was reporting to the 15th Corps, and the 15th Corps was sending their reports on, and now, starting with the entry of the two days before this, the 11th of November, again we see the first Cossack Division returning apparently to the 69th Corps.

It is submitted that if they are reporting to them, if they are not an organic part of the Corps, they are at least attached to the Corps, or assigned to the Corps for this period.

On page 72 of the German, page 30 of the English, report for the 26th of November-

DR. LATERNER: Your Honor, May I look for a short time at the English document book? Your Honor, after just a fleeting glance at this, may I say, the German document book is much more extensive.

In our German Document Book we are on page 71, and in the English Document Book, at the moment, 29 is being heard from; normally this should be the other way around. Since the translating notes take about one page, so that if the document books have always the same contents, the English Document Book, because of these certificates, must be more extensive. This was the usual situation which I found in the former document books.

Now it seems that things are quite different. The German document book is much more extensive. It seems to me that in the English document book something is only entered in order to be more exact; it seems to have been entered if there is something which the prosecution wishes to present as an incrimination, but if the reports are so picked out, and only, the last part is submitted, why, the Tribunal does not see the basis for this evidence, and then the court cannot judge what it is all about.

I think that I will ask the Tribunal, -- must ask the Tribunal, to have a break here so that I and my colleagues can examine the two document books a little more closely than I was able to do now.

It is really so that the German document book is two or three times larger than the English document book, and then I would have to protest against this. I would therefore ask your Honor that the Court have a recess for a short time so that we can compare the two document books.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Is your difficulty, Dr. Laternser, concerned particularly with the fact that you have so much more volume that it become difficult to follow the observations made by the prosecution?

DR. LATERNSEER: No, that is not the real reason. The real reason is that something which I have not been able to check yet, -- the way in which the English document book seems to have been compiled, can give a false impression. Thus, for instance, when the reports contained in the German document book say that the bandits have had great activity, then, of course, measures have to be taken by the occupation forces, but the Tribunal gets a quite wrong impression if the prosecution leaves out the activities of these bandits, which, for instance, are contained in the German document book, and only enters those measures which are taken against the bandits.

So, your Honor, it is not that we cannot follow, but in my opinion, from my first impressions, this English document book is not so compiled as it should be from the point of view of the defense, in order not to give an entirely wrong impression.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: It seems to me on that subject, Dr. Laternser, we are not assuming to take for granted any observations or conclusions stated by counsel for either side, but will require some formal and more definite type of proof, so I think that you need not be concerned with its effect upon the Tribunal.

And as has been pointed out to me by my colleague, Judge Carter, you can cause any other matter to be translated and offered on your behalf or on behalf of the defendant.

DR. LATERNSEER: I see that, but I also think that if the defense then at some other stage of the proceedings wants to get parts translated which seem to us important, then the translation department will have an awful lot to do, and then it will not be possible to that extent which in our opinion we think necessary.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: The translation department will have to bear the additional burden that may be placed upon them.

DR. FRITSCH for the defendant Rendulic: Your Honor, I would like to support this application of my colleague, Dr. Laternser. In my opinion the difficulty in this question is as follows: If it is as Dr. Laternser states, then the Tribunal will have completely different documents, that is, more or less than the defense, so that the defense is not in a position to assume that these documents which the defense has, also go to the Tribunal. From this, difficulties may arise.

JUSTICE CARTER: Mr. Denney, the fact is, that this whole exhibit if offered in evidence isn't it?

MR. DENNEY: Yes, your Honor.

JUSTICE CARTER: You are reading a part of what has been offered in evidence?

MR. DENNEY: Yes, your Honor, we submitted the whole thing, everything that is in their book. The only point is we do not translate every part, and I disagree with Dr. Laternser's statement that we just present our side of the case. There are certainly plenty of things being read in here to show activities by the people opposed to the German forces down there.

We just finished stating about attacks on railroad trains, and things like that. He has had the document book, -- this particular one, -- for three or four days. I have no objection to his reading anything in, in addition, that he wants to.

JUSTICE CARTER: It seems to me that the prosecution can read what they care to read from an exhibit and then anything that the defense wants to read in addition thereto, it is up to them to get it, and have it read into the record.

MR. DENNEY: That is the way it also seems to us, your Honor.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, I understand this regulation, but how should the defense be in a position -- that is, how is the defense to show to the Tribunal in a proper way -- the connections that exist between what the Prosecution reads and what the defense has to say to this. In my opinion, regarding the extent of the material submitted, this is an impossibility because if, as the Prosecution has just said, it submits the whole of the documents, of course they can do that, but the Tribunal can't really take in the whole of the documents, because I must assume that the Tribunal has not complete command of the German language, and it is simply impossible, and it doesn't help the Tribunal if the documents are submitted in German. And, therefore, if we are to point out the connection to the few lines which the Prosecution has read, we must be able to give the reason for this. May I please quote another small example from which the Tribunal can certainly see what I mean? For example, the Prosecution states that Village X was burned to the ground; and then in this they say, or they think they say that this is a war crime. But there is certainly no war crime when the troops were shot at from this village. Under these circumstances it constitutes no violation of International Law. The Prosecution ...

MR. DENNEY: It isn't proper to start arguing the law now. Your Honors have directed before that the document be submitted, and the law will be argued later. Dr. Laternser's view of the law and ours are substantially different.

JUDGE CARTER: Well, Dr. Laternser, it seems to me that if you have something in one of these documents that you want offered in evidence as part of your defense you can say that you want to offer additional parts of exhibit number so and so, found on page so and so, and put it in the record. But why can't you handle it that way and connect it up that way?

DR. LATERNSEER: I really don't see that this is possible, Your Honor because then the Tribunal would have about twenty document books which the Prosecution has submitted to them, and then come the German additions for about twenty or twenty-five document books.

How then should the Tribunal find out what belongs to what, and for this reason, I think that it is extremely dangerous if the Prosecution only reads the few lines from which something is to be assumed, while the reason for this, the basis for this, the basis for this, is in the German and remains completely ignored. I don't think this procedure is right.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: It is the feeling of the Tribunal, Dr. Laternser, that we have no desire to prevent you from offering such portion or portions of the various documents or exhibits as you may feel may be material or competent on behalf of the defendants. But at this time to attempt to segregate the views of the Prosecution and the defense in such a fashion that the cause for that might be given, I think will be difficult if not impossible, and we will not be unmindful of the fact, when you come to present your case, that you have the right to supplement such observations or proof or alleged evidence as may be offered to this by the Prosecution.

DR. LATERNSEER: Yes, Your Honor, but may I please point out something else which I have just been told by my colleague? Since the document books -- the German and the English Document Books -- are not the same, then the defense must be given the English Document Books first of all in order to find out which passages the Prosecution has included in the document books, and then there's a further difficulty -- not all of the defense counsels, or only a few of them, have a good command of the English language so that they could find out to which passages they would like to make additions. And there's a difficulty which arises from the discrepancies in the two document books. We wouldn't have to point out only small additions, but such important differences, as in this case, the defense thinks they ought to point out.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Let me inquire of Dr. Laternser, do you not also receive a daily record of the proceedings of the Tribunal?

And are there not available for your use competent interpreters from German to English, and English to German -- or have members of your staff?

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, it is true that we receive the protocol of the session, and we also receive them in German, it's true.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I think it is the view of the Tribunal, Dr. Laternser, that we will proceed as we have in the past, with the suggestion that was made by the presiding judge on the second day of the hearing of the Tribunal, and you will be given full opportunity to present such testimony or proof or such competent or material evidence as may bear upon the proper defense of any of the defendants in this case.

DR. GAWLIK: Your Honor, then I would ask that, first of all, a regulation should be made that if the English Document Book contains only part of the events, it should be made sure that this particular parts are contained in the German document book. Then, we can assume that what we have in the German document book is also contained in the English document book. For otherwise in our closing speech we could refer to the German Document Book – a certain sentence in the German Document Book – and then perhaps that sentence might not be in your Document Book, Your Honor. The two document books must be the same.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I thought the Tribunal had made it clear that you are privileged to use any part of the document book that you desire to make available for the information of the Tribunal?

DR. GAWLIK: Yes, Your Honor. Yes, we don't know which parts; we would have to compare the English and the German Document books to see that the same exhibits are there.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Have you not been presented by the Prosecution with all of the papers or documents making up the document books in German?

MR. DENNEY: Your Honor, in their document books sometimes when we have translated them ourselves and not sent them to the Translation Department, the complete German text does not appear. However, in cases like this, when they have been sent down to the Translation Department, it is merely a matter of mechanics. They translate everything. When they translate one it goes in completely. They have available in them, it is true, the complete text.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: That is the inquiry that I directed on behalf of the Tribunal as to whether all of this materials is available for counsel of the defense.

MR. DENNEY: Yes, Your Honor, it is all available. Part of it is in their book, and sometimes a complete exhibit will appear in our book and sometimes it won't be in the document room. They're certainly entitled to see any of these, and then, of course, any exhibits which Major Hatfield may have on the complete paper.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Has any difficulty been experienced by you in securing the material or the information to which Mr. Denney has just referred?

DR. GAWLIK: No, Your Honor. It's not a question of whether we have difficulties in obtaining any kind of material, but that a false impression arises with us. We assume by reason of the German Document Book, that the whole document book is submitted to the Tribunal, and, therefore, by reason of this mistake we will not submit the additions to the Tribunal, and then, in the final plea, differences will arise. I am working on the assumption that what is submitted to the Tribunal in the English Document books is only that which is contained in the German document books. Both document books must be exactly the same. If not, we get the Prosecution's reading only parts. But the German document book must be a literal translation of the English document book, or the other way around.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: In that event, aren't you dictating the method in which the Prosecution should present its case?

DR. GAWLIK: No, Your Honor, we only want to know. We wouldn't dream of telling the Prosecution how to present its case, but we only want to know what is submitted to the Tribunal. And this should be seen from the German Document Book because the one document book should be the translation of the other. One document book shouldn't contain more than the other. That's where the difficulty arises.

A proper translation must coincide. If the English document book is a translation into the English or the English is a translation into the German, then both must be alike.

What the prosecution submits -- that is, of course, their affair but I would ask your Honor to put yourself in our position. We assume from the German Document Book that the whole document book is the same as the one submitted to the Tribunal.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I trust that you will give the Tribunal sufficient credit for having intelligence enough to determine between what is and what is not contained and what omissions have been made in the English Document Book and supplied by you - that it is not an insurmountable obstacle to our understanding of it. I think the ruling that has been made by the Tribunal will stand unless and until some further reason is assigned why a change should be made at this time.

You may proceed.

MR. DENNEY: Then turning to page 72, 73 and 74 in the German, and page 30 in the English, the report for the 26th of November from the 173rd Division, this is on page 172. I am sure if defense counsel will mark as I go along what pages I give them, they can certainly see what is in and what isn't in the exhibit. I see some seven of them here in court, and I will be very glad to indicate exactly where they are on the pages.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I think it might be a matter of accommodation to the convenience of counsel for the defense if you would do that and since there appears to be a difference in the number of pages in the German Document Book and the American Document Book, I think as a matter of right they are entitled to that courtesy.

MR. DENNEY: Well, I was just suggesting, your Honor, to help them, This appears under paragraph II of the daily report for the 26th. It is the 173rd Division. This refers to paragraph 9-i under section II of the indictment.

"Village burned down in reprisal for attack on police in Grgurevci. Non-volksdeutsche residents also had participated."

The next entry is the area of Tuzla, which appears under the 187th Division. It is after the paragraph numbered "b". "Reconnaissance results: Zivinice occupied by 200 to 300 bandits."

Over on page 73 of the German, opposite the small letter "c" -Area Derventa -- "Bandit attack (200 to 300 men) between Lupljanica and Pocivalka repelled by units of the II Cossack brigade."

Turning to page 75 of the German and 31 in the English, this is a daily report for the 27th. It is II, out to the left, and the 173rd Reserve Division. Perhaps 76 was turned and I don't know why the page shifts. It is the daily report for the 27th of November on page 75 or 76 under II 173rd Reserve Division.

..... Despite 2 hours loss of time due to road blocks and to destroyed bridges near Susea, Battalion of the II/901 early in the morning made a surprise thrust from the north into the bandit village of Grabovo. The village was sealed off on the north and south and the mopping up operation accomplished. 35 fleeing bandits shot to death. Svilos cleared of the enemy. In accordance with the desire of Croatian authorities both villages burned down as pronounced bandit rests. Lezimir cleared of the enemy. Bandits fled. During reconnaissance against St. Divos a platoon of the 901 Regiment shot 5 bandits and captured 5 of fleeing bandits, Lezimir was burned down by the Police.

Then on page 78 of the German and on page 32 of the English, report for the 29th, 187th Reserve Division -- this is under IIc, "Area of Virovitica - Bjelovar - Koprivnica. Between Narta...."

It is on the bottom of page 78 in the German and the top of page 79.

"Between Narta (6 km south southwest Bjelovar) and Cazma enemy forces consist of 4 communist brigades at least Results of plane reconnaissance at 1015 o'clock:

about 500 - 1000 bandits in Cazma."

And then following right along after that under "Virovitica: Recruit transport going from Bjelovar-Nova-Gradiska attacked during the night 26.27.11. near station Vrbovec. Attack repelled and destruction of the station of Vrbovec prevented. Own casualties: 3 dead, 5 wounded. Enemy losses: 6 dead counted. 15 people suspected of belonging to bands were shot to death in reprisal."

..... As reprisal measure for railroad attack between Nova Pazova and Batajnica -- see morning report of 13.11. which is an earlier part of this document -- 4 inhabitants from Jarinovci to which the tracks led - hanged on 2.12.43. 5 of 9 fleeing bandits were shot to death. 2 shelters constructed into the well there were destroyed. This operation was executed by Panzer Platoon 64 and units of the Reserve Grenadier Battalion.

And then we turn over to the next page in German which is 82, the second paragraph on the page which refers to the II Cossack Brigade, follows II. It is the 7th line on page 82 in the German, still on page 33 in the English.

.....Enemy contact occurred during reconnaissance thrust of some squadrons in the area west of Doboj near Godakovac. Village taken and destroyed after hard fighting, Losses of our own: 5 wounded, 1 squadron leader wounded. While this report is being made the operation is still in progress.

.....

The turning to page 84 in the German, page 34 in the English, it starts right at the top of the report.

It is under II, the area of Tuzla, and then drops down there to the last paragraph under IIa which is eight lines up from the bottom of the page on the German 84.

"During fighting around Kladanj bandits in German uniform used combat methods as reported previously in the daily report 5.12. (they approach calling out: 'Do not shoot. Deserters' Then they open fire at short range.)" Then under D which is on the next page, it is the sixth line down in the German book on page 85, "The II Ustasha Brigade -- The villages of Pistana, Kokocak, Drenovac, and Rijenci from which resistance emanated during mopping up operation by Panzer Gren.

Training Regiment 901 were burned down by police as reprisal measure."

Thirty-five in the English, 86 in the German, paragraph I for the daily report of the 15th of December. It is the first paragraph in the German text too, under I. "The situation on the main railroad...."

15 December, page 86 of the German, first paragraph on the page.

.....The situation on the main railroad - in particular near Ivanicgrad and in Syrmien remains serious. Railroad sabotage (blasting) was executed in accordance with captured order (see daily report 15th) issued by bandit leadership. The weak security forces available were unable to prevent it.

Then under paragraph 187th Res. Div.: Area of Tuxla: - and it is in 'a' and it is the fourth line in that paragraph which starts out "Nacht Einwohnernaussagen"According to statements of residents a band group of 1500 men retreated from the area of Rijoka to the areas of Krivace and Dzimrlje.

.....

And under D which is over on page 87 of the German at the top of the page, and it is the last two lines of that paragraph, the 12th and 13th lines on page 6.

.....6 hostages hanged on the scene of the incident in reprisal for mine sabotage near Rajic (see morning report the 15th.)

.....

Then going down to the II Cossack Mounted Brigade it says, three lines before the typed part 'Corps headquarters'--

..... 50 looting bandits in Socanica Then turning to page 88 in the German, 36 in the English, and this is the last page of the document, if we might finish it before we recess, your Honor, this is the report for the 22nd of December, 1943.

This is a report of the 23 December 1943 and there it goes to the 2nd Panzer Army and the German General Plenipotentiary in Croatia, and to indicate that copies were sent to the other headquarters which have been mentioned before and I believe one or two earlier reports; the last 3 reports have gone only to the 2nd Panzer Army and the Commanding General in Croatia. Otherwise they went as originally stated. This, under Roman numeral III; which is on 88 in the German, paragraph A under the 187 Reserve Division:

"Area of Brcko, 20 December. Attack by hand group (400 men) on Strosinci and Jamena partially repelled in hand to hand combat."

Then under "b" which is the next paragraph, 21 December:

"Sjelovar: 25 people suspected of being bandits and hostages shot as reprisal measures for band attacks."

And here is the exhibit I hand to the Secretary-General.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: We will take a recess here until 1120.

(a recess was taken)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed, Mr. Denney.

MR. DENNEY: May it please Your Honors, I return now to page 90 in the German book and page 37 in the English. This is Document NOKW 657, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit No. 376. This is an order from the 69th Corps, which was commanded by the defendant Dehner, which in turn was subordinate to the 2nd Panzer Army commanded by the defendant Rendulic, which in turn was subordinate to the Army Corps-F commanded by defendant, former Field Marshal von Weichs.

Actually, there are two orders, both from the 69th Corps, and it bears at the end typed, "fuer das Generalkommando," which means for the Corps Headquarters, the Chief of General Staff, signed "Steinbeck," who was Chief of Staff of the 69th Corps.

Your honor will recall in Exhibit 375, where at page 4 of that exhibit there appeared a signature of Steinbeck as Chief of Staff, 69th Corps, and while all of this is typed it appears that these are true copies which is signed by an unknown lieutenant in the Headquarters.

This is dated 19 December 1943, and it refers to a 1-c communication of the Corps of an earlier date, 27 November, and the subject is "Treatment of prisoners and deserters," and it recites:

Supplementing the order cited above:

1.) The fight in the Croatian area is a fight against bandits. They are an enemy who has taken up arms for the most varied motives. In addition to purely political-communist bandits there is a great number which has been driven into the forests by the concern for a bare existence, by the destruction or the endangering of their bourgeois life, or by a sudden upsurge of national or religious differences, etc.

The bands in the Croatian area thus differ thoroughly from the bands appearing on the Russian front."

I call Your Honors' attention to the mention of the Russian Front here.

2.) Measures of the unit have repeatedly frustrated propaganda for the enemy as planned by the unit leadership. It must not happen that bandits who arrive at the unit with leaflets asking them to desert and which should be valid as passes, are shot out of hand. This makes any propaganda effort in this direction nonsensical. Even our own confidential agents bringing important news from band territory and notwithstanding their repeated assurances that they are in the service of the German Wehrmacht have been shot down "to simplify matters" i.e. without any investigation. Under such circumstances it is not surprising that

a) notwithstanding the discomforts which living in the forest no doubt entails, particularly during the winter months, the band nuisance increases steadily.

b) the fight itself increases in severity and stubbornness.

c) it becomes increasingly difficult to obtain information from the band territory.

d) in contrast to this enemy propaganda has no difficulty and enjoys great success.

3.) The momentary confusion of the situation makes it necessary for the unit to realize that the unit itself is not in a position to judge individual cases.

The competent authorities must be unable to investigate deserters and prisoners objectively. This must be left to their discretion.

4.) Arbitrary procedure of the unit where the treatment of deserters and prisoners is concerned, leads to failure and will destroy the advantages which can be achieved by objective treatment.

For the Corps Headquarters The Chief of the General Staff signed Steinbeck.

And this is all typed, and then over to the left "Certified to be a true copy," and then an illegible signature, "2nd Lieutenant."

And then there is an order of 24 December, 1943, which is a 1-C order, and the subject, "Directives pertaining to the Treatment of prisoners suspected of belonging to Bands."

And this starts on page 91 of the German text and it is page 39 of the English.

Second subject: "Treatment of Persons who may be possible hostages"; and the third subject: "Use of Hostages as Reprisal Measures for German Soldiers killed in the Fight against the Bands"; and the directive states:

"An inquiry causes the Corps Headquarters" -- this is the 69th Corps -- "to set forth as follows in order to unify methods in the Corps area:

"1 to 1) and 2): The Divisional Commander, or independent regimental commanders or the security sector in which the arrest has been made, is the sole and only authority competent to make decisions regarding civilians arrested during operations of the unit as suspected of belonging to bands and regarding the further treatment of them, In connection with the above, the following directives are laid down:

"to 1) a) Civilians whose activity as bandits or members of a band can be proved without doubt are to be considered as spies and as extremely dangerous. They are to be considered as hostages of the first category at the next occasion of reprisal measure, without it being necessary to take the security sector into consideration.

"to 2) b) Civilians who are proven bandit sympathizers are to be made available for reprisal measures as hostages of the second category.

c) Civilians who cannot be proved to have had any connection with bands, but who nevertheless give cause for suspicion, are to be transferred to Germany for labor employment. The Corps Headquarters has made inquiries with the 2nd Panzer Army" -- that is Rendulic's army to which Dehner's 69th Corps was subordinate -- "regarding the office which acts as the agent for labor employment in Germany. The divisions will be informed of the answer after it has been received."

And I call your Honor's attention to the term "divisions" here specifically because we have been able to get no distribution list for this order but it is submitted that the divisions to which he is referring are the 173rd, the 187th and the 1st Cossack Division, all in the 69th Corps.

"Prisoners innocent beyond doubt are to be dismissed from the hostage camp in the speediest way possible.

"There is no objection to calling for the assistance of the SD if in the course of an operation civilians suspected of being members of bands are captured and the units and their staffs do not have available necessary trained personnel to interrogate these suspects. The civilians, however, remain Wehrmacht prisoners and are to be treated like the civilians in 1)" -- that is the first paragraph up above --

"according to the result of the interrogation.

"The SD is requested to fulfill the requests of the Commanders of the security sections respectively of the divisions for interrogations, etc., and to pass on the results of the investigations to the commander of the security sector." -- and here, of course, he is making a request of the SD and the Security Police to comply with these requests from the division officers concerned and to pass on the reports.

"Prisoners suspected of being members of bands are not to be transferred to the SD.

"It must be absolutely avoided that innocent people are kept in hostage camps and that they possibly atone with their lives for an affair with which they had no connection. With the exception of case Ia" -- and that refers to "Ia" in the earlier part -- "hostages are to be made responsible for the misdeeds of bands only in the neighborhood nearest to their own villages. It is not permitted, for instance, that hostages from Karlovci be used for retaliation measures in case of a surprise attack by bands or a demolition occurrence near Ruma.

"It is impossible to make use of hostages for the execution of reprisal measures for the German soldiers killed in the fight against bands. It would be contradictory on the one hand to treat active members of bands, captured during battle, as prisoners of war, that is to let them live; and on the other hand, to hang hostages from the next hostage camp for our own losses in the fight against bands.

"Present inmates of hostage camps are also to be checked and treated according to the classification as given under I." -- and that refers back to Roman numeral I of this communication; and it is signed -- that is, it is typed:

"For the Corps Headquarters, the Chief of the General Staff (Signed) Steinbeck." All of that is typed and over to the left: "Certified to be a true copy" -- illegible signature, the same one that appears on the earlier part of this file -- "2nd Lieutenant."

Perhaps, your Honors would like to glance at the conclusion of that order, those two orders.

Turning now to page 93 in the German and 42 in the English text, we have Exhibit -- or Document No. NOKW-710, which becomes prosecution exhibit 377 in evidence. This is an extract from the War Diary of the 69th Corps Headquarters although the period covered by the Diary from its cover sheet can be seen to be "1 January to 30 June 1944." The only extracts which are here offered are three, for January 8th, 15th and 24th and the chain of command is still the same. This is early in June 1944, prior to the time that the defendant Dehner relinquished command of his Corps to proceed to another theater.

"8 January 1944" -- this, incidentally, is all typed -- "According to a report from an escaped worker who had been drafted by force, the bandits have available approximately 3000 men in the Potomaca district and are in possession of heavy weapons. The Commander of Virovitica expects an attack on the town very shortly.

"Corps Headquarters grants the request of the 187th Reserve Division to destroy the band's stronghold Sumetlica near Nova Fradiska. The destruction is to take place after consultation with the competent Croatian authorities.

And then the entry of 15 January:

"According to a report of the district "Vuka" Vukavar, to the Main Directorate for Public Order and Security Zagreb, hostages have allegedly been taken again in the latter district without consultation with the Croatian authorities.

Also those Pravoslave who worked with the Croatian authorities were allegedly taken and shot as hostages. The district "Vuka" is requested to give precise information as to when and by which army units hostages were taken within their districts."

And then for 24 January:

"The reprisal quota (shooting of 50 respectively 25 retaliation prisoners for every killed and wounded German) ordered by Army order dated 15 September 1943 will, by Army order, become annulled effective immediately. New instructions concerning reprisal measures are being prepared."

This is an entry for the end of January 1944. It refers, if your Honors please, to Exhibit 340 which is page 15 of Document Book XIV and which was the order of the Commanding General of the 2nd Panzer Army of the defendant Rendulic which bore the number, order number from his headquarters, 38/43, which has been referred to earlier in this book, and here the 69th Corps, more than four months later is now saying that this order is annulled effective at once; and your Honors will recall that the provisions of that order were that, in the event one German was killed or wounded fifty or twenty-five retaliation prisoners respectively would be shot."

Turning now to page 96 of the German and 44 of the English, these are two letters, one signed by the defendant Dehner and the other signed for the Commanding General, Chief of the General Staff.

I wonder, Major Hatfield, if I could see Exhibit 375 for a moment, please. This is NOKW-705 and we offer it as prosecution Exhibit 378. Excuse me, Major, I made a mistake. I meant 374.

And, although it appears on the translation -- and, of course, this is actually not a translation; this is question of identification -- that the Chief of the General Staff's signature here is illegible, your Honors' attention is respectfully directed to page 5 of the document book, or of document -- withdrawn -- Exhibit 374 to compare the signature of the Chief of the General Staff there and also the signature of the defendant Deyner which I shall hand up when I hand up this document.

This is from the 69th Corps Headquarters. It is signed by the defendant Dehner. It bears the order number 317/769 and has to do with taking of hostages. The communication is dated 4 January 1944.

The second communication is dated 4 January 1944, and the first one is dated 15 January 1944; and I will pass this up to your Honors later because it was omitted from the translation but it's apparent KH Qu. 15 January 1944" on the photostat.

Subject: "Taking of Hostages"; and it is directed to the "Vuka" Combine which is spoken of in the prior Exhibit 377, attention of Director Dr. Blicher, Vukovar.

"I am informed that, according to a report of the 'Vuka' Combine of 18 December 1943" -- and he gives the number of the report -- "To the Main Office for Public Order and Safety, German Military and Police detachments have seized hostages recently without agreement with the Croatian authorities. It is said that on this occasion those Provoslavs were also seized and executed who worked together with the Croatian authorities.

"It is known to the Combine that I have repeatedly ordered the units subordinated to me not to seize hostages any more without consulting with the Croatian authorities.

"I therefore request exact information as to when, by what units and in what localities hostages have been seized without consultation with the Croatian authorities, so that I can take the appropriate steps"; and that is signed "Dehner."

Then the next communication is dated the 4th of January, 1944, and this business at the bottom of page 44, in the English, all applies to the next letter, if your Honors please; apparently in translation they just carried on over, but starting with page 2 of the original, this all goes on the second letter, which is signed not be General Dehner, but by the then Chief of Staff, which appears in here as Kresebeck, but which should be Steinbeck.

This has to do with traffic sabotage and taking of hostages, and it is directed to the Commander-in-Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army, Intelligence Officer, and it refers again to 38/43 Secret, 15 September 1943, which, if your Honors please, is Exhibit No. 340, the basic order of the defendant Rendulic with reference to hostages, and it is a 50-to-1 ratio and 25-to-1 ration, and on information copy goes to the then General in Croatia, and it is to be noted that the enclosure to the Plenipotentiary General in Croatia, (the deceased Glaise-Herstenau,) went through the 2nd Panzer Army. It is not a direct communication with the 69th Corps to GlaiseHerstenau, but the copy goes to 2nd Panzer Army and then down:

"1) The 32 hostages arrested in Golubinci on 12 Dec. 43 were released again by the SD at Ruma on 15 Dec. 43 after a thorough interrogation, since no evidence for a friendly attitude towards the bandits was found.

"2) With respect to reprisal measures, Corps Headquarters wishes to call attention to the fact that the order of the Commander-in-Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army of 15 Sept. 1943, that is the one that is referred to above, is in force. According to the understanding of Corps Headquarters, the agreements between the State Commissioner for the Security of Railway transportation and the German Railway Security Staff of Croatia, made on 23 Dec., before the LXIX Reserve Corps assumed command, may be considered invalid. A copy of the order of the Commander-in-Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army, with which the area of Corps Headquarters has complied hitherto, is included in the enclosure."

Now, of course, this is dated 4, January, 1944, and the war diary entry which we have submitted before annulling this order is dated 24 January, 1944, so that is 20 days subsequent to this, and here we have the defendant Dehner advising the Commanding General of the 2nd Panzer Army which is next higher commander in the Echelon of Command, that this order has been complied with hitherto and it is not annulled until 20 days later.

Then, paragraph 3:

"According to a communication of Police Regional Leader Esseg, a new agreement between the Croatian Government and the German ambassador Kasche was alleged to have been settled on 18 Dec. 43. According to this agreement, recourse to hostages was to be permitted only after approval of the Croatian government (Croatian Ministry of the Interior).

"As yet, no information has come to Corps Headquarters concerning these treaties. Corps Headquarters could issue directives according to these treaties only after resission of the enclosed Army order."

Now it says that the Army order is enclosed, the recitation is that it was the order of 15 September 1943, but we do not have the copy that was enclosed, as well as at the end here there appears "For the information of: 2nd Panzer Army, German Railway and Security Staff of Croatia."

This is signed, "For Corps Headquarters, the Chief of the General Staff", and I will submit these two documents to your Honors. I just want to direct the court's attention to the fact that although they had a legal settlement and agreement with the Croatia Government and the German ambassador Kasche, on 18 December, here on 4 January they still do not have any concrete information about it. Apparently it is still in the rumor stage.

Now I am submitting 374, which is the earlier document, with the signatures of Steinbeck and Dehner in it, and this document, which is 378 which has not been marked by Major Hatfield yet, for comparison of the signatures.

After the second exhibit is marked, I think Dr. Gawlik would like to see it.

Turning now to page 98 in the English, and 47 in the German -

THE PRESIDENT: You mean just the reverse, do you not?

MR. DENNEY: Yes, 98 in the German and 47 in the English -- I certainly should know about that now. This is all typed except for the end where there again is a certification that it is a true copy, and it is signed with an illegible signature of a first lieutenant, Oberleutnant.

So there may be no confusion about this, although this bears the heading on it, "Commander Southeast", "Army Group F", who at this time was the defendant, Field Marshal von Weichs, we do not know if he was on leave maybe in Germany, anyway he was not there, and this order, -- we do not concede he was not there, but he did not issue the order -- the order was issued by his subordinate, General Loehr, who was the commander of Army Group E, and he was acting as Commander-in-Chief Southeast, and Commander-in-Chief, Army Group F.

This is dated 22 December, 1943, and this comes out approximately four months after the defendant Weichs entered the field as Commander-in-Chief of Army Group F, which post he took in August of 1943, and then, of course, he was also the Commander-in-Chief Southeast, that is, the Supreme Commander in the field.

The subject is "Reprisal Measures".

"The Fuehrer," that, of course is Hitler, "has commanded a unified counter action against the Communist danger in the Southeast, with the political leadership of which Minister Neubacher is charged. The reprisal penal, and revenge measures practiced up to now must in the future take into account the new political objectives. The first principle has to be, in cases of attacks, acts of sabotage, etc., to seize the perpetrator himself and to take reprisal measures only as a second course, if through reprisal measures the prevention of future attacks is to be expected.

The previous provisions for the conduct of the troops in combat hold good.

The following directives are given in accordance with the Military Commander Southeast and Minister Neubacher:

"A. In which cases do reprisal measures come into question?

"1. Protection of persons:

"Attacks against life and limb of a) Reich or Volksdeutschen (Wehrmacht, Wehrmacht employee, or German Civilians),

b) of a member of Allied Troops,

c) of a person who is in the service of the occupying powers, without consideration for his nationality if the authority of the person concerned and that of the occupying powers makes it necessary.

d) of the member of the National Government or of leading officials (Regional and District Presidents, Mayors) are to be avenged.

"Reprisal measures will in any case only be carried out if

a) the perpetrators cannot be taken within 48 hours,

b) and the attack on the protected persons took place on political grounds, and

c) the attack brought about death or injury. Murder will be assumed if a kidnapped person has not returned after expiration of a fixed time period.

Executions "Losses which are incurred in combat are in general not to be avenged.

"2.) Protection of installations:

"Furthermore every attack against war-vital installations, especially media of traffic and traffic lanes, communications, industrial, and supply installations are to be avenged, under the prerequisite that

a) damage has been incurred and

b) the perpetrators cannot be taken within 48 hours.

B. Reprisal quotas:

1.) Reprisal quotas are not fixed. The orders previously decreed concerning them are to be rescinded. The extent of the reprisal measures is to be established in advance in each individual case.

2.) Reprisal measures consist of:

"a) shootings and/or hangings,

b) destruction of dwellings,

c) fines, penal actions, and arrest.

C. Who may carry out reprisal measures?

The revenge for attacks, which are directed against the unit and its installations may be ordered only by a German commander with the disciplinary authority to punish of at least a division commander, in accord with the competent administrative sub area HQs.

"If an agreement is not reached, tho competent territorial commander is to decide. Reprisal measures for losses in the air corps, navy, police and the OT, - and the OT, if your Honors please, refers to tho Organization Todt are to be ordered principally by the territorial commanders.

"All other reprisal measures, for example for German civilians, persons in the service of the occupying powers, and in defense are to be ordered by the competent field commanders. The unit is to support tho administrative sub area HQs in carrying them out.

"In Croatia, commissioners of the National Government with the German HQs authorities are to be empowered to apply tho decisions concerning reprisal measures. The same principles as in Croatia are to be used for Albania where relevant.

"The participation of the National Governments and administrations in Greece, Serbia, Montenegro is to be governed by tho territorial commanders in the provisions for execution.

"The organs of tho SS and Hoeh. Pol. Fuehrer (SD) and counter intelligence detachments are likewise to participate in the selecting of the reprisal prisoners and hostages."

In view of the fact that this order is signed by Loehr I would just like to direct your Honors' attention to the breadth of its scope. It refers to Croatia, Albania, Greece, Serbia, Montenegro, and applies to the SS, the higher police leader and the SD.

"D. What persons are to be used for reprisal executions?

1.) The procedure, of carrying out reprisal measures after a surprise attack or an act of sabotage at random on persons and dwellings, in the vicinity, close to the scene of the deed, shakes the confidence in the justice of the occupying power and also drives the loyal part of the population into the woods.

"This form of execution of reprisal measures is accordingly forbidden. If, However, the investigation on the spot reveals open or concealed " ----collaboration or a conscientiously passive attitude of certain persons concerning the perpetrators, then these persons above all are to be shot as bandit helpers and their dwellings destroyed.

Their guilt is to be referred to expressly in the proclamation. In the supplement, an example from the combating of bandits in the East is attached. Now, there's a short supplement which is attached hereto, and the Court' attention is directed to the combating of bandits in the East. Now, that refers to the Russian Theater. And here they are using a communication with reference to the methods used in the Russian theater and sending it along to whoever got this order. "If such people as are guilty cannot be found, those persons must be resorted to who, without being connected with the actual deed nevertheless are to be regarded as co-responsible. Such persons are co-responsible first of all who recognize Communism. It has been proven of value to arrest hostages carefully, nevertheless only those on whom reprisal measures can be carried out according to the preceding directives. For the selection of the hostages, the provisions of section "C" are valid." And that refers to the earlier section in this order. "Not to be used for reprisal purposes are: a) persons who have nothing to do with the aims of the insurgents, or those, as for example officials, who belong themselves to the sheltered circle or persons, b) women and children. These may be shot only as perpetrators or bandit helpers, c) enemies of Communism, in case they themselves are not concerned with enemy treatment against those persons or objects mentioned in number, a, 1. and 2." And that refers to the earlier part. "Publication of reprisal measures: Each reprisal measure must be published (Posters, leaflets). The subversity of the deed and the guilt of those executed must be clear from the text of the proclamation. Since no uniform directives can be given in the diverse Southeast area for all cases, I empower the territorial commanders in agreement with the commanders in chief to decree definitions of command, especially concerning the participation of the National Administration in the executive authority, concerning the form of the execution of measures of punishment as well as their publication."

And , of course, the territorial commander to whom he refers there, in addition to the commanders in chief, are the people -- well, the only ones with whom we are concerned here is the Defendant Speidel down in Greece, Glaise-Horstenau in Croatia, Keiper in Montenegro, Gullmann in Albania, and , of course, Felmy with the overall command up in Serbia. "These orders are to be presented to me through channels. All orders contradicting these orders are to be rescinded, number 3, C in C Southeast I a/ teletype No. 604/43 Secret of 10 October 43 is to be struck out." And then it has the Commander in Chief (Acting), signed Loehr, General, and that is all typed, and over to the left a certification, which is illegible but written. And then there is the supplement, and an order to make sure that this is a supplement to this communication because it's just a little piece of paper. If Your Honors will refer to the order number for the Ia in the supplement, it is 296/43 Secret 22 December 1943. If you will check back to Page 1 - Page 98 of the German and Page 47 of the English, the basic communication also has "Ia Branch/ Teletype No. 296/43 Secret," and the date December 22, 1943 appears over to the right. This is the supplement:

"The following procedure frequently resulted in success." And this is submitted as the method which is spoken about that was used on the Eastern Front.

"Individual 'V Men' were sent into the territories or villages in question, and after some time of residence amongst their own countrymen, stated that they were bandit members, or even began to work apparently for the bandits. In this way, the doubtful elements and those who more or less openly work for the bandits reveal themselves. By a cleverly led special action, it was possible to arrest the residents of the village including the 'V Man' immediately in order to remove the guilty men after the reliable testimonies of the 'V Man'.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, I would like to have the following extracts translated. First of all, on Page 98 of the German Document Book and Page 47 of the English Document Book. That I would like to have taken, that's as the second point. The first point, to begin with, "die bisher ueblichen Suehne and Vergeltungs massnahmen." I withdraw this objection. Then, thirdly, we have on Page 99 of the German Document Book and Page 48 of the English Document Book the words "die Vergeltung von Anschlaegen."

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: On what page in the English Document Book?

MR. DENNEY: In the English, Your Honor, that is the second last line, the line next to the bottom , Page 48.

DR. LATERNSEER: On the same page the words "die Vergeltung von Anschlaegen."

MR. DENNEY: We had that.

DR. LATERNSEER: Yes; and fourthly, on Page 99 of the German.

MR. DENNEY: Page 49 of the English, Your Honor.

DR. LATERNSE: Then, the words "Ausfuehrungs Bestimmungen."

MR. DENNEY: Section c -- that's the second paragraph above "d" on Page 49, Your Honor.

DR. LATERNSE: And for the fifth point, I would like to have the last part of the order translated from the "Oberbefehls haber to the Generaloberst.

MR. DENNEY: Your Honor, that is on page 58 just before the certification.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Very well, hand them to the Interpreter.

The Interpreter will identify the disputed sections by line and page of the English Document Book. You may be able to save time during the noon recess by having the matter considered by the Interpreter and thus clarified and simplified by reference to page of translations in the German text and English text; and so we will, therefore, stand adjourned until 1:30 this afternoon.

(The Court adjourned at 1215, To Resume at 0130).

AFTERNOON SESSION (The Hearing Reconvened at 1330 hours)

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the Courtroom will be seated. The Tribunal is again in session.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Mr. Denney, has the translation been completed which we had under consideration at the close of the morning session.

MR. DENNEY: Yes, Your Honors.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Very well, we will receive it.

THE INTERPRETER: The first point presented by defense counsel is on page 47 of the English document book and page 98 of the German document book, line four, beginning "die bisher ueblichen Suehne Straf und Vergeltungsmassnahmen." We translate this as the expiatory, punitive and retaliatory measures usual up to now. " The second point is on the same page in the German document book but on page 48 of the English document book under Id, beginning "Suhnemassnahmen werden jedoch nur ausgeloeest wenn," which we translate as "Expiatory measures only become operative if."

Point three is at the bottom of page 48 of the English document book under "C", who may carry out reprisal measures. The words in question are the first few words of the following sentence. In the German document book it is on page 99 again under "C" beginning "die Vergeltung von Anschlaegen" which we translate as "reprisals for attacks."

The fourth point is still under "C" but on page 49 of the English document book. The last three words of the last paragraph but one and still on page 99 of the German document book. The word "

Ausfuehrungsbestimmungen" in the last paragraph but one under "C"; we translate this as " regulations regarding implementation."

The word " execution" is just as correct but it may in this context be ambiguous.

The fifth and last point occurs in the middle of page 51 of the English document book and at the bottom of page 100 of the German document book. The German reads: "der Oberbefehlhaber I.V. gez.

Loehr Generaloberst," which we translate as "signed Loehr, General for the Commanding Chief."

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Are there any objections to the interpretation by the interpreter? If not, you may proceed.

MR. DENNEY: May it please your Honors, page 102 of the German text and page 53 of the English, NOKW-833, which is offered as prosecution's exhibit 380. This is an extract from the War Diary of the XXI Mountain Corps for 4 February 1944, at which time the Corps was under the Second Panzer Army commanded by the defendant Rendulic.

"SS Brigadefuehrer Fitzthum informs the Commanding General concerning a raid carried out in Tirana, and in the course of which 15 Communists were shot to death.

The next Exhibit is at page 104 of the German, page 55 of the English, NOKW-674, which is offered as prosecution's Exhibit 381. This is an order of the 2nd Panzer Army commanded by the defendant Rendulic dated 13 February 1944. It has to do with the evacuation of the islands and of the coast in the event of an enemy landing, and the Court's attention is respectfully directed to the number of the order, 0975/44. Twenty copies of which this is the 20th, and on the distribution lists it will show that this is a copy which went for information to the Quartermaster --- the Quartiermeister. That is page 108 of the German, 59 of the English.

"In the event of an enemy landing on the Adriatic coast the numerous men capable of bearing arms among the population of the islands and the coast form a serious threat to the defenders. Furthermore the presence of the entire civilian population may lead to a serious encumbrance of the defensive measures in case of an enemy attack.

To forestall these dangers it is ordered:

1.) Evacuation of the islands.

The entire male population capable of bearing arms in the islands situated before the Adriatic coast is to be seized and to be transferred to the main land immediately.

There their further employment is to be carried out in cooperation with the German territorial authorities Plenipotentiary Generals in Albania and Croatia, Administrative Area and Local Headquarters) as well as with the competent indigenous authorities as follows:

- 1) They are to join the Croatian armed forces of the Croatian labor service pursuant to the pertinent laws and directives issued by the State of Croatia.
 - 2) Formation of all persons not falling under number 1) into closed construction labor companies with the participation of the contractors to the Navy and the Luftwaffe too, and employment in the construction of coastal defense works and of roads. Here a difference must be made between voluntary labor and persons refusing to cooperate voluntarily. The last names are to be organized into special labor columns which are to be under special guard.
- As far as the absorption capacity of the unit is concerned, employment for construction of coastal defenses and roads has priority over employment in the Croatian armed forces.
- 3) The remainder which is not as yet employable is to be evacuated to suitable areas further in the rear. The competent territorial authorities with the competent indigenous authorities are to be requested to regulate billets and employment there. The billeting areas are to be determined by the Corps in agreement with the territorial authorities.
 - 4) Sufficient guards must assure that the persons capable of bearing arms, once having been taken, will not escape evacuation and employment or even desert to the bands.

- 5) That part of the population not capable of bearing arms which wishes to leave the islands is to be supported in that intention as far as the possibilities permit. However, they must be prevented from settling directly on the coast. The competent territorial authorities with the indigenous authorities are to regulate the evacuation.
- 6) Military Commander Southeast is requested to call the possibility for labor recruitment to the attention of the labor employment authorities."

DR. LATERNER: Your Honor, I would ask if the prosecutor would read a little more slowly and a little more clearly.

MR. DENNEY: I will be glad to, Your Honor.

11. Evacuation of the coast.

- 1) In the event of the enemy landing the evacuation of the civilian territory population from the immediately adjacent to the coast is to be prepared with a time table.

The corps will determine the depth of the zone to be evacuated according to the local situation and also the billeting areas considered for the individual evacuation areas.

- 2) The territorial authorities (Plenipotentiary Generals in Albania and Croatia, Administrative Area and Local Headquarters) are to be requested especially to participate in this. They primarily are charged with the cooperation with the competent indigenous authorities. Where the cooperation of the territorial authorities or of the indigenous authorities is insufficient the local troop commanders who are competent for the coastal defense must work independently. Pertinent directives and policies to be issued territorial authorities are binding also for the Troop Commanders.

3) The following points are to be particularly observed in the preparations:

- a) Fixing of the zone of evacuation (prohibited areas)
- b) Fixing of the march routes for the population away from roads important for defense (putting up of signs)
- c) Exact fixing of the billeting areas
- d) Food supplies and welfare (is to be taken care of by indigenous authorities. This is to be supervised.)
- e) The population to be informed speedily (preparation of required posters)
- f) Traffic regulations" The distribution list which appears on the next page:

*XXI Mountain Corps, which was subordinate to 2nd Panzer Army; *XV Mountain Corps which at that time was commanded by the defendant Leyser, also subordinate to the 2nd Panzer Army;

V-SS Mountain Corps;

Military Commander Southeast, and The General Plenipotentiaries in Albania and Croatia, and Information copy to the Commander-in-Chief Southeast who at that time was the defendant Weichs and various other copies.

DR. LATERNER: Your Honor, this was an error. At that time, the Military Commander Southeast was Field Marshal Weichs according to the Prosecutor; he was never that.

MR. DENNEY: Excuse me, Your Honor.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You acknowledge the correction?

MR. DENNEY: Yes, Your Honor. On page 109 of the German, 61 of the English, NOKW 671. This is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 382. That is from the 2nd Panzer Army to various subordinate units and is dated 21 February 1944, and it refers to the earlier order of 13 February 1944, 0975, and has to do with evacuation of the islands.

Pursuant to the order of the Army Group the report of completion of mission in accordance with number III of the order mentioned in the reference, is to include the results of the measures ordered. Report of completion of mission must therefore include the following data:

- To 1.) a) Number of evacuees from the islands (listed according to men, women, and children).
- b) Billeting areas of persons evacuated according to a).
 - c) How many are employed in coast and road construction,

d) How many were contracted for work in the Reich.

Again, referring to the earlier order which was Exhibit 381: To II;a) Number of persons presumably to be evacuated,

b) Intended billeting areas.

c) March routes planned.

For the Panzer Army The Oberquartiermeister (initial illeg.)

And the distribution to the XX I Mountain Corps; XV Mountain Corps; and, V-SS Mountain Corps and the others which are to be noted, including the Military Commander Southeast which at that time was Felber and his Chief of Staff at that time who was the defendant Geitner.

Then on page 110 of the German and 63 of the English, is NOKW 673, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 383. This is from the Plenipotentiary General in Croatia to the Ministry of the Armed Power, and to the Ministry of the Interior, dated 26 February 1944. It is signed but the signature is illegible, by a Colonel, and there is a receipt stamp on the first page showing that the 2nd Panzer Army received a copy of this:

"The 2nd Panzer Army has the intention of recruiting urgently the male population of the islands off the Croatian coast for employment on the construction of fortifications on the coast.

"In reference to this matter, the following suggestions are submitted to you with the request for your early comment and any supplement you may care to make to the individual questions.

"a. All men of class 1904-1927 will be recruited and transferred to the mainland."

It is submitted that these are age classes, referring to the year which these people were born, first people 1904 who were then 40 and people 1927 who were at that time 17.

"b. Mixed commissions, consisting of one Croatian Army Officer and one officer of the Ustasha Militia, to which one German officer for liaison purposes with the German authorities will be attached, will effect the seizure and transfer of the men, in cooperation with the local Croatian authorities."

And, I should like to direct the court's attention to the word "seizures."

"c. Members of class 1924 and 1925 are to be sent to the Croatian Armed Forces as recruits, unless they are of the pravoslav religion, and will be turned over to the competent Croatian Military authorities.

d. The rest of the men are available to the Fortress Engineers Staffs for construction work on the coastal fortifications.

e. If politically unreliable persons are found during the seizing, they are to be employed in work battalions outside of the coastal area.

f. For the provisioning of men mentioned under d, the basic directive of the Croatian ministry of the Interior No. VT 11/44 of 22.1.1944, is applicable.

g. The transfer of the men must be completed by 15 March 1944.

For the German General -Plenipotentiary in Croatia The Chief of Staff (signature illegible) Colonel" Page 112 in the German, 65 in the English, NOKW 1339, and this is offered as Exhibit 384.

This is an activity report for the month of February 1944 of the Ninth Secret Field Police Detachment and the first entry under Total Statistics:

Total number of incidents handled, and screenings, 587, and 1, 561 respectively; and then it is to be noted that the next one cites:

"In addition during operation pursuant to directives of the 2nd Panzer Army," they have 7,500 arrests including previous month, 602. We have the police report showing the 2nd Panzer Army was giving them directives. Then they break these figures down:

Executed 5 Turned over to PW camps 3 Turned over the the SD 241 Turned over the courts martial 15
Turned over to Branch Ic 26 For labor allocation to Germany 118 Turned over to Croatian authorities 4
Turned over to other offices 67 To hostage camps 6 Concentration camps 1 Collecting camps 2

Wehrmacht Field Police; Chief, Auxiliary Field Police; 2nd Panzer Army; Files. There are only four copies and it is signed by Maurer, Field Police Commissioner and Deputy Unit Leader.

Next we have a report for 20 March 1944 made by Captain Dr. Cartallieri who also made an earlier report which we had in evidence here as Exhibit 336. That was the report the balance of which I furnished the defense counsel in court this morning. He appears as Captain under Wehrmacht operational staff and it is to be noted that it is written at Fuehrer Headquarters -- Hitler Headquarters stamp: Top Secret, 20 copies of which this is the ninth. I might say that the second page of the first letter is missing. We have endeavored to find it and we have not abandoned it as hopeless as yet, but if and when we get it we will certainly furnish it to defense counsel. The subject is: Official trip from 13 March to 18 March '44 and has to do with the Operation Zone, Adriatic Coastland, which has been discussed in earlier exhibits which we have considered.

1.) The conditions in the Operation Zone, Adriatic Coastland cannot be compared with those of the Operation Zone Alpenvorland.

In the Operation Zone Adriatic Coastland not only are there bands in the larger part of the area but there is also the possibility of an enemy-landing there for which the only weakly occupied, good ports of Trieste, Pola and Fiume offer themselves, with the possibility of a thrust in the direction of Vienna or Hungary, in between the 2 mountain chains.

2.) The Operation Zone, Adriatic Coastland is a bandit-combatting area under the jurisdiction of the Reichsfuehrer-SS-----And if Your Honor please, the Reichsfuehrer SS at that time was Heinrich Himmler ----. However, the competent higher-SS and police leaders lack the necessary forces. On the other hand the Wehrmacht, on account of lack of forces, is also not in a position to destroy the bands.

Coastal defense and the combating of bands in the Operation Zone can only be separated from each other if the competent office for the combating of bands has at its disposal the necessary manpower and material enabling it to carry out its task alone so that the Commander can limit himself calmly to the defense of the coast. Because of lack of Wehrmacht and police-forces, however, it is likely that this will never occur.

3.) The 3-channel system of competence existing up to now in the Operation Zone of Adriatic Coastland is not responsible, as the zone is already practically a combat zone."

And then the "Enclosure 2."

"The Commander In the Operation Zone "Corps Headquarters 24 Feb 1944.

Adriatic Coastland. Stamp Secret."

Subject: Conduct of the fight against the bandits Corps Order No. 9 I. By the withdrawal of the 71st Infantry Division from the coast and the commitment of the 162nd (Turkish) Infantry Division the bands are able to breathe freely.

They terrorize the population, steal cattle and food and recruit followers largely by compulsory drafting. They murder German soldiers from ambush, raid motorcars and columns, blow up railway lines and bridges, plunder food apply transports, destroy cables and wire connections, massacre prisoners and desecrate the corpses of German soldiers.

The one and a half months from 1 January until 15 February 1944 have cost us in dead and wounded 503 victims, amongst whom were 3 commanders.

181 surprise attacks on the Wehrmacht 125 attempts on the railway 22 bridge demolitions on roads and railways 25 Extensive sabotage acts on cables and telephone lines.

68 vehicles destroyed or seriously damaged.

This must be considered great combat by command of the enemy powers. Furthermore it has been determined from captured papers that the bandit leadership is preparing a general uprising of the people according to plans for "the day", that is the day on which the Anglo-Americans wanted to land on our coast.

Therefore serious danger threatens; for the defense of the coast is endangered in the rear, if the bands rage around the country, the leadership is paralyzed, if the communications are cut, reinforcements cannot be brought up; the supply of arms, ammunition and food stops, if the railways are interrupted.

In such a case there is only one solution:

Terror against terror, An eye for an eye A tooth for a tooth'. The most important commandments in our fight against the insurgents are:

1) What we lack in numerical strength, we must replace with severity in warfare, energy in action and courage of every single one of us.

2) No consideration can be given to our own comfort. No one has a right to "Winterquarters."

The enemy will be pursued wherever he is discovered, even up to the summit of the Monte Navosco or the Triglav. He must be chased to death.

3) The enemy causes the most trouble during the night. Therefore, we too must become like animals of the night and must learn to stop the nightly activities of the enemy by night. Here we have still a lot to learn. A quick change is necessary.

4) Only attack brings success.

Whoever takes up a defensive position when the enemy attacks is lost from the start. In any case he has a liability to the leadership, which has to utilize forces to dig him out."

DR. LATERNSE: This document cannot be submitted by the Prosecution because the Commander in the zone of operations in the Adriatic Coastland is not under the jurisdiction of the Commander-in-Chief of the Southeast. I would ask that the document be withdrawn.

MR. DENNEY: Your Honors, they are from the same territory down there. We make no contention that this man was under any one here, but it is just to show the general warfare down there and in the similar units. We have offered very few documents, as a matter of fact this is the first from this particular command of General Kuebler who was a general of mountain troops in the Adriatic Coastland. It is submitted that the Adriatic Coast is geographically a part of the territory of these operations. It is also attached to the report from the captain of the General Staff in Hitler's Headquarters.

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honors, these are again statements made by the Prosecution. I submit that this commander to the Adriatic Coastland was never subordinate to any of the defendants, and that this document cannot be submitted here in this connection. Otherwise it might be submitted.

JUDGE BURKE: For whatever it may be worth, and without limitations, with which the Tribunal is entirely familiar, it will be received and for that purpose only. I know of no case, where insurgents held out to the end, if they were seriously attacked even if by very small units. I know of many cases however, in which strongholds were conquered and detachments destroyed, because they had limited themselves to defense.

Everything depends on the energy and courage of the leaders. If more than a platoon is employed the Company Commander personally leads; if more than a company.....the Battalion Commander in person, In battle everything is right and necessary which leads to success. I shall cover personally any and every measure which is in accord with this principle.

With regard to the treatment of bandits and their voluntary helpers the greatest severity is to be applied. Captured bandits are to be hanged or shot. Whoever voluntarily supports the bandits either by heltering then or giving them food, by keeping their whereabouts secret or by any other measures, merits death and is to be taken care of.

Whoever can prove that he was forced by terror to passive helping of the bandits is to be treated in a milder way (e.g. deportation for compulsory labor.)

The guiltless are to be spared. It is important to win and preserve by just and correct treatment the confidence and cooperation of that part of the population which is favorably disposed towards us. That at times innocent people also get caught up in battle with their lives and property, is regrettable but cannot be altered. They may thank the bands for their mishaps. We did not start the war against the insurgents.

Collective measures against villages, etc. may be decreed only in direct local and chronological connection with combat actions and only by officers from the rank of captain upwards. They are indicated if the majority of the population has voluntarily supported the bandits. For the rest the carrying out of collective measures needs my permission. It is not necessary to list more completely here what is prescribed, allowed or forbidden. Moreover, in the third year of the war against the insurgents every leader knows what has to be done. The "instructions for Combating Bands in the East" is valid as far as principles are concerned for the Operation Zone, Adriatic coastland too.

And here again we have a reference to the instructions for combating bands in the East, which has been submitted were also applied in other areas, and here these bands in the East are applicable into Adriatic Zone Coastland.

"To sum up:

The bands are numerically many times superior to us.

They are out to murder us insidiously. By these means, and by sabotage of all kinds, they want to help the Soviets, the English and the Americans in their battle of extermination against our homeland and against the German people which is struggling hard in a fight for its existence."

It is our task to destroy the bands. Extreme severity against the bands and ourselves is prescribed.

Only attack brings success. The leader however is always the decisive person. Everything depends on his energy, his initiative, his ardour and his aggressiveness. This applies to everyone from the Corporal up to the General.

Act accordingly!

(Signed) Kuebler General of Mountain Troops.

and this order is to be distributed down to the Companies. Its principles are to be hammered into the heads of all officers, NCO's and men again and again.

And on page 117 German Text, page 73 English Text, NOKW 1112, which we offer as Exhibit 385 -

JUDGE BURKE: You have completed NOKW 1112.

MR. DENNEY: In my book it is NOKW 1352, which will be Exhibit 386, page 117, and page 73.

This is an order of the 2nd Panzer Army to the subordinate units with reference to cooperation with the SS in accomplishing security tasks. In this order it is submitted the photostat copy is a photostat of a copy which is signed by the defendant Rendulic. The copy that we have here has the stamp of the XV Mountain Corps on it, as being received March 21, 1944, and it refers to an earlier order 62744 of the 2nd Panzer Army, and the Subject: "Chain of Command in the North Coratian Area." 24 copies, of which this is the 4th copy.

In the first part we are concerned with page 117 of the German and page 74 of the English:

"The main task of the Command Authorities (as per No. 2) in these areas is to protect the railroad line Zagreb-Belgrade as well as the main line (only up to the area borders) during the course of operation "Cannae" and to keep open these vital supply lines. Due to the lack of forces it will be necessary for this purpose to organize mobile task troops including all possible aids and to commit these flexibly and continuously.

Beyond this, all military and economically important objects are to be secured as far as is at all possible and the command areas to be kept pacified in closest cooperation with the deputy of Reich Fuehrer SS for Croatia." And the Reichsfuehrer SS is, of course, Himmler, and it speaks of his deputy in Croatia.

"The Deputy of the Reich Fuehrer SS for Croatia will be requested to contact the command authorities and -- in close cooperation with them to employ all forces at his disposal for railroad security and other local security duties.

Headquarters, 1st Cossack Division and Commander Sirmia are instructed to co-operate with the Deputy Reich Fuehrer SS for Croatia and the Police Officials and Units subordinated to him in the command areas as per No. 3NOKW-1353, page 119 and 75, is offered as prosecution Exhibit 387.

This is from -- this is a teletype and it is from the 2nd Panzer Army to its subordinate unit, the 15th Corps and it is transmitted on 17 March 1944. It bears the number "17 III 1944 and "17 March 44" is on the original.

"Effective immediately the Representative Reich Fuehrer SS for Croatia and his subordinate offices and units are tactically subordinated directly to the 2nd Panzer Army pursuant to the order of the Commander in Chief Southeast (Commander in Chief Army Group F)."

Now here, if your Honors please, referring back to that earlier statement that Dr. Laternser made, Oberbefehlshaber Suedost Oberkommando Heeresgruppe F which, it is submitted, are the same and the reference I made in connection with the prior exhibit, the distribution to Weichs Exhibit 381, where the eight copy went to the Commander in Chief Southeast -- it is submitted that that means Weichs Army Group F; I submit that that was Weichs that they were referring to there, and this is certainly Weichs here. It can't be anybody else. It says, "Oberbefehlshaber Suedost (Oberkommando Heeresgruppe F)" and that is Weichs, is it not?

DR. LATERNSE: Yes, that is correct but when it was submitted formerly "Military Commander Southeast" was said and that is different, and that is why I objected. But previously it was said and then I protested that the Military Commander then was Fieldmarshal von Weichs and that was wrong.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Does that clear up any possible misunderstanding on the part of either or both of you?

MR. DENNEY: Yes, I just wanted to check on this Exhibit 381. A copy did go to Weichs. There is "OB Suedost" in the German which is Weichs.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Very well, Mr. Denney, You may proceed.

MR.DENNEY: "The police sector leaders subordinate to the Representative Reich Fuehrer SS for Croatia remain subordinate to him in every respect.

They will be instructed to cooperate directly with the Command Authorities of the Wehrmacht and they will be informed that these command authorities are authorized in emergency cases to issue tactical orders directly to the police sector leaders. The Representative Reich Fuehrer SS for Croatia is to be informed at the same time.

"The purpose of this subordination is to unite all available German forces in the Croatian area for the period of the operation "CANNAE" with the aim of making more secure the vital traffic lines and economic objectives for troop movements and supply.

"To this end the Representative Reich Fuehrer SS for Croatia is requested to contact and to instruct, or either of them the police sector loaders to contact the Command authorities in the Croatia Area (Corps Headquarters Infantry Corps and Headquarters, 1st Cossack Division, Commander Syrmia, V SS Mountain Corps and XV Mountain Corps. By agreement with the Commanding authorities, he is to employ all available forces in the first instance for the protection of vital railroads at the same time withdrawing them as far as possible from less vital objects.

The 69th Infantry Corps, Commander Syrmia, 5th SS Mountain Corps and 15th Mountain Corps on their part will immediately make contact with the competent Police Sector Leaders for the purpose of rapid and coordinated regulation of the Security measure. Completion of mission is to be reported.

"Representative Reich Fuehrer SS for Croatia is to report to the 2nd Panzer Army as soon as possible his forces of the available for security purposes as described under 2 and their planned commitment."

And this is from the 2nd Panzer Army. There is an illegible handwritten signature and there is a certification by one Schindler at the left as being a true copy.

All these units that are set up here, the 69th Corps, the 5th SS Mountain Corps and the 15th Corps were all under the 2nd Panzer Army at this time and, if your Honors will recall, the first contact -the most recent report we have had from it is one to the 69th Corps. However, this communication would indicate that perhaps this first Cossack Division at this time is operating separately because they speak of it in the same breath with which they speak of the Corps.

Page 120 in the German, 77 of the English, NOKW-948, which is offered as prosecution Exhibit 381 - PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: 388.

MR. DENNEY: Thank you, your Honor; that is 388. I looked at the wrong page.

These are notes on a conference in which there participated the Commanding General and the Chief of the General Staff, SS Chief of Brigade, Fitzthum, who was referred to in an earlier exhibit, Colonel Peter, SS.Hauptsturmfuehrer, Wirth and Major von Thuengen.

It is dated 12 April. It speaks of the evacuation of billets for placing the SS Division "Skanderbag." This Skanderbag Division which was the 21st SS Mountain Division at this time was in the 21st Mountain Corps and at this date the 21st Mountain Corps was not yet commanded by the defendant Leyser but it was at this time under the 2nd Panzer Army which was commanded by the defendant Rendulic. I just wanted to make it clear that the defendant Leyser is not involved in this.

"Evacuation of billets for placing the SS Division 'Skanderbag' in the Kosovo area. It was decided that only 4 battalions of the 1st and 4th Jaeger Regiment were to remain in the Kosovo area as frontier protection. The Battalions have to evacuate the large billets and are to be put up in smaller places along the frontier.

"The transfer of the other Jaeger Battalions from the Kosovo area is to be carried out in an accelerated manner as follows:

And then they list the battalions and where they go.

"Establishment of a concentration camp in Tetovo is to be carried out in an accelerated manner by the German General in Zagreb.

"SS Brigade Leader Fitzhum reported about his visit with Minister Neubacher.

"S.M. can be arrested outside of Tiranas and delivered to Semlin.

"The view of Corps Headquarters, that in the operational area no consideration need be taken of the Sovereignty of the neutral Albanian state, is confirmed.

"Appointment of Friqui Dino as 4th member of the government council is not tolerable.

"The evacuation of Serbs from the Albanian Kosovo area must be stopped immediately, as the capacity of the Serbian state is exhausted.

"Labor employment for these Serbs is provided for in the Reich.

"For the Special Commando Lange there is to be expected a new service direction of the OKW.

"The utilization of the SS Division "Skanderbag" outside of the Albanian area is mentioned briefly. The question is not acute at the moment and is to be set aside.

The Division will take the oath of the Fuehrer and the Albanian State."

And Your Honors' attention is just directed generally to the matters which were discussed. The Commanding General and Chief of Staff were here, and these SS people -- political questions, questions of forced labor, deportations, et cetera.

Now 1416, which is page 121 of the German, 179 of the English, is offered as 389. These are orders of the 15th Mountain Corps, which at this time commanded by the defendant Leyser. There are enclosures to the War Diary, various daily reports, et cetera. These are in most cases signed typed. However, there at the end there is one printed: "(Signed) von Leyser" which is certified to by a signature of Colonel Pfafferott whose signature we have seen before.

The first entry is for 7 April 1944. It has to do with "Conduct of War on the Island."

"It is a prerequisite of successful defense at the enemy should learn from the population neither anything regarding the situation nor details concerning our positions and strength. Consequently blockedoff zones several kilometers in depth are to be set up near the bases on the occupied islands which are to be completely evacuated by and kept free of the population without any exceptions. The limits of these blocked-off zones are to be marked with warning notices. Any civilian encountered there is to be shot dead immediately. Execution is to be reported by 17 April.

Then this is a teletype to 2nd Panzer Army, with copies at indicated for 16 April?

"7 kilometers southeast ROGOSNIA and area SINJ two bandits each shot dead while escaping."

Then one to the 2nd Panzer Army, 20 April, report of 373rd Division to the Croatian Unit under the 15th Corps:

"Due to interrupted radio communication no report operation Wiliam. Own convey attacked on supply road. Bandits repelled by concentrated fir. Pursuing Croatian combat group takes one machine gun and ammunition in booty. No losses of our own. Lines south of Nebljusi extended, one bandit shot dead, 3 band suspects arrested."

Then daily report to the 22nd again, the 2nd Panzer Army, and from the 15th corps. This is for the 382 Division, and this is the so-called Croatian Blue Division. We have it listed as being under the 21st Corps. However, the reports here are sandwiched between these of the 264th Division under the 15th Corps at that time, and the 373rd Division, which was also under the 15th Corps, and they were reporting because Colonel Pfafferett has signed the original:

"Keulenschlag": In the course of continued mopping up of the area west Dreznica at present inconsiderable resistance by minor bands. Five enemy dead, three prisoners, 2 deserts. Booty established up to now: 30 tons of infantry ammunition, 15 tons of artillery ammunition, machine gun and trench mortar material, five cubic meters Diesel, 60 tires, 100 bags of salt several cases of cigarettes and cigars, matches, 60 cart loads boards. I command hut and one medical hut were destroyed, also one printing plant. During the course of the thrust by Ustashi from Gospic towards the northwest - 10 enemy dead, 1 prisoner, 1 machine gun, 9 rifles, 1 cart with two horses. Reconnaissance patrol southwest of Ogulin brought in 8 prisoners, 3 enemy dead."

Then for the 373rd Division, they report the activities of a reconnaissance patrol, and again they use the term "deserters", even as they have in the prior sections of this report, and this bears the signature, "Pfafferett", and typed is "15th Mountain Corps, 1a". Then the next communication is for the 23rd of April, again to the 2nd Panzer Army, Section, 262th Division:

"In reprisal for attacks on our trucks two villages 4 kilometers northwest of Tregir were partly burned down; 2 kilometers east of Tregir 2 soldiers shot down by bandits. Up to now 2 suspects arrested."

In 126 of the German, 84 of the English, report to the 2nd Panzer Army for 24th of April, 264th Division:

"Reprisal for attack band billets 4½ kilometers northeast of Primostern burned down."

The 373rd division:

"Operation "Klettersteig": In the course of forward thrust by the Third Battalion Division, (that should be the 383 regiment, Your Honors,) in the area of Turevac-Jelovac, bandits repelled, five villages burned down."

Then here is a communication to the 264th Division, and an information copy goes to the first Brandenburg Regiment. This bears, at the end of it, the typed signature, of the defendant, "von Leyser," certified to by "Pfafferett", and "Colonel, General Staff Corps."

"The islands situated in front of the area of the 264th division serve the bands to a great extent as transfer points for supply. Of particular importance to the enemy are the islands."

and then they list them.

"Details concerning enemy situation will follow currently. Interference by enemy air-force and enemy naval forces must always be counted on.

"The 264th Division will mop up these islands. Supplies and installations of all kinds of benefit to the enemy are to be secured or destroyed. Enemy shipping is to be seized and the male civilian population capable of bearing arms is to be evacuated from the islands as far as possible; at least suspicious persons must be arrested."

Page 128 of the German, 88 of the English, NOKW 788, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 390.

--

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Did you say, "390"?

MR. DENNEY: 390 I believe, your Honors, is correct.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed, Mr. Denney.

MR. DENNEY: This is a teletype from the 15th Mountain Corps to the 69th Reserve Corps, one of its subordinate units. It is dated May. At this time the defendant Rendulic commanded the 2nd Panzer Army, which was the higher headquarters of both units.

The 15th Mountain Corps at this time was commanded by the defendant, Leyser:

"In the Kerdun mountains an anti-Communist movement is organizing. Consequently suggestion; troops to be directed to be moderate in taking loot and in destruction."

This is all typed except for the handwritten part.

NOKW 790, at 129 of the German, 89 of the English, is offered as 391. This is a combat report concerning the operation, "Schach" which was referred to before, which was being conducted by the troops of the 69th Corps, and this is from the 1st Jaeger Reserve Regiment.

The operation took place between the 26th and the 28th of May, 1944:

"The enemy occupied in strength the area Kestenjak from Sica to Bukovac with 1st Kordun Battalion: with elements on the other side of the Korana river the area north and south Veljun with one" and they list the units of the third Brigade.

"The area Primislje and the heights situated south and east of it with I. Brigade of the 8th Kordun Division.

In Rijeka 55th Reconnaissance Battalion had contact with the 1st Mountain Regiment. A document was captured by the 1st Cavalry Regiment which shows that the bandits had received written information concerning the commitment four days prior to the operation.

In the course of combing through the terrain 4 trucks were captured (2 were out of commission, 1 was blasted, 1 was given over to the police." One evacuated hospital and numerous telephone lines, 1 print shop and 1 motor vehicle repair shop were destroyed and rations and some heads of cattle were secured."

Then they give the results:

"Enemy dead: 17 wounded, 100 estimated Prisoners:

2 officers Own losses:

2 dead, 5 wounded Destroyed:

1 hospital with furnishings (secured 7 quilted blankets, 6 pillows, 33 mattresses)" Signed by, "Hammerschmidt, Colonel and Regimental Commander."

Then we have the next thing from an element of the 69th Corps. which is NOKW 789, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 392. This bears the stamp of the 69th Corps, and again this is in June, 1944, when the corps was still subordinate to 2nd Panzer Army. This bears at the end, the illegible signature of a Captain and Battalion of the 383rd Infantry Regiment:

"In Zirovac three well-furnished military hospitals with 200 beds are burned down."

"According to statements by prisoners the enemy is composed of the I, II, and III Banja Brigade about 3000 men in strength as well as of units of the Huske-Brigade."

Under the date of the 27th of May, which is at the top of page 136 of the German, 92 of the English:

"General: According to statements of prisoners the radio operators and the Artillery officers on the enemy side were Englishmen. Also an English-American Commission is alleged to have been with the VII Division. Tite himself was in Topuske on the 18th of May, and according to the unanimous statements of civilians and prisoners he was in the area of Raume Petrova Gera.

Also according to statements of prisoners 2 Elite Companies were engaged for the attack on the ridges." and note:

"English uniforms and arms".

Signature illegible, "Captain and Battalion Commander". illegible initials.

MR. DENNEY: Then, on Page 139 of the German and Page 93 of the English is Document No. NOKW-1428, which is offered as Prosecution's Exhibit No. 393. These are two reports to the 2nd

Panzer Army from the 15th Mountain Corps, both in June, at which time the Corps was under the command of the Defendant Leyser, and the Army was under the command of the Defendant Rendulic. The first one, for the 5th of June:

"Bands have occupied the heights surrounding our support point on the road SUCEVICE-GRACAC and are pressing from the VELEBIT into the area West of ZRMANJA VRELO. Croatian combat groups have destroyed bandit hospital, Southeast of UDBINA. Thereby, 20 enemy dead (including two physicians in addition 95 wounded and sick killed. Northeast of CAZEN medium sized band repelled by Ustasha under leadership. Three enemy dead, 3 prisoners, 4 rifles. Line NOVI- BIHAC quiet." And it had 15th Mountain Corps typed at the end, and over to the left is Colonel Pfafferott's signature.

DR. LATERNER: Your Honor, I would like to point out and object that these Croatian combat units were never subordinate to the German Wehrmacht, so that this incident is a pure inner Croatian affair and was, therefore, only reported because it took place in the sphere of the office which had to receive the reports.

MR. DENNEY: Well, of course, we don't agree with Dr. Laterner's contention. We have seen hundreds of reports here going in from well, not hundreds, but we have seen numerous reports here going in from lower units about Cossack divisions and Croatian divisions. I don't object to his comment. I would like, in view of his comment, to put our contention on the report.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Ultimately, of course, it may be a matter for the Tribunal to make final decision, and after all, it is pretty much a matter of argument when the controversy really comes before us. I would however, suggest that, if possible, you refrain from giving conclusions on the weight of evidentiary offerings.

MR. DENNEY: Well, if Your Honor please, I am certainly mindful of Your Honors' rulings, and I would just like, for instance, here, just to point out the term; that's all; I didn't say anything about it.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You intended to identify what you claim as the situation merely, and not as a statement of fact.

MR. DENNEY: Yes, Your Honor.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Very well.

MR. DENNEY: And then on the 9th of June, again from the 15th Mountain Corps, at this time under the heading of the 264th Infantry Division: "Mine sabotage East of PRIMOSTEN, West of DRNIS, 1 truck hit a mine. 2 suspects shot dead." And it is from the 15th Corps to the 2nd Panzer Army. And then on Page 141 of the German and Page 95 of the English is Document Mo.NOKW-1418, which we offer as Prosecution's Exhibit No. 394. This is a teletype to the Headquarters of the 15th Mountain Corps, and it covers the period 22 May to 2nd June: "Enemy Losses: 1525 counted 1347 estimated dead: 143 prisoners, 33 arrested 32 deserters. Booty: 1 Gun destroyed, 1 Antitank Gun, 2 Tanks, 4 Trench Mortars, 84 Machine Guns, 7 Machine Pistols, 2 Pistols, 2 Antitank Rifles, 242 Rifles, 624,600 Rounds of Machine Gun Ammunition, 117,400 Rounds of Machine Pistol Ammunition, 6300 Rounds for 2 cm A.A., 1106 Kilograms of Explosives and Dynamite, 130 mines, 175 Hand Grenades, 129 Parachutes, 1 Rubber Raft, 4 Motor vehicles, 116 cans of Gasoline, 4 clothing depots, 3 cwt of sheepwool, 65 tons of grain." And then various kinds of livestock--horses, cattle, heeep--and the "1medical depot, 32 Mosquito Tents, 2 Typewriters, 17 Radio sets, 1 Transmitter, 4 Electric Stoves, 22 Generators, 1 Motor, 1 Film Apparatus, 1 Microscope. Destroyed: 2 small Ammunition Depot, 1 Depot of Explosives, 1 Engineer School, and Airfield, 2 Airplane Hangars, 1 Hospital." And still on the same document this is again from the 15 Corps, and is signed by the Quartermaster. It's dated 20 June:

"Special Instruction for the Supplying of No.: 91.

4) Transfer of arrested indigenous personnel, Bandsuspects and Deserters to Employment in Reich.

The Croatian Government complains about the compulsory transfer, in opposition to treaty regulations, of male and female members of the population taken in band warfare, band suspects or deserters to employment in the Reich, Such measures are to be stopped immediately. In future the recruiting and collecting persons ready to work for the Reich may only be carried out through the offices set up for this purpose Plenipotentiary for the Four Year Plan (Plenipotentiary General for the Employment of Labor Croatian Office in Zagreb, Kulina-Banna 3. These offices are to cooperate with the competent Croatian offices and to observe the regulation of the German--Croatian treaty of 3 February to the camps provided for them as previously, where they will be treated according to the regulation in force.

This is a series of extracts from the war diary of the 15th Corps, and it covers the period 1 January 1944 to 30 June 1944. The first entry is for 19 January: "Banja Luka: Upon request by 393nd Division." That is a division, which at the time was in the 21st Mountain Corps, "authorization is sought from Headquarters 2nd Panzer Army fro 392nd Division to draft men fit for military service and decision about further employment." Although we had the 392nd Division listed as being in the 21st Corps, it is clear here that they made an application to the 15th Corps and that the 15th Corps had forwarded their request to the 2nd Panzer Army. The Corps, at this time was commanded by the Defendant Leyser, and that 2nd Panzer Army was commanded by the Defendant Rendulic.

"21 January: Final report to Headquarters and Army about the operation 'Brandfackel' (Incendiary torch). 131 enemy dead, Minor booty, 1 hospital and 2 ammunition depots destroyed." For the 17th of February: "in compliance with Army directive, the 264th and 392nd Division are ordered to evacuate the entire male population of the island fit for military service. The Germand Plenipotentiary General in Croatia is requested to prepare measures to evacuate the entire population of the island and coastal area in the Restricted Zone, 'Red.'" And here again we see this Corps giving orders to the 392nd Division; so certainly, at this time, it is to be fairly assumed that they are under the Corps. 24th February: "In the area of the 264th Division evacuation ordered for islands close to the coast is proceeding. In order to evacuate the island, the islands have first to be liberated by fighting." 1st March: "Headquarters 2nd Panzer Army orders the island of RAB to be occupied as soon as possible and the evacuation of the male population fit for military service." 6th March: "Journey by the Commanding General to Split, conference with Seeke, Points of the discussion: Shipping space for the occupation of RAB and then for the mopping up of the island further away. Removal of the male population there. Blasting of harbor installations. Where shall mines be laid, off the coast? Mine fields in the straits between islands. Conference at 264th Division. Points under discussion: Company at NIN to be transferred to the Battery there. 1 Platoon to Petricane for coastal observation. Anti-Aircraft Artillery for Anti-Aircraft defense, to be employed according to point of main effort." And then there is an order of evacuation, and the Cetina question, and raid in the coastal towns for saboteurs. And for the 10th of March: "With regard to the evacuation of Split ordered, it has been reported to 2nd Panzer Army that about 5000 men fit for military service have to be evacuated from there." For the 13th of March: "in a letter by the German Plenipotentiary General in Croatia it is suggested to Corps Headquarters, with regard to the order by 2nd Panzer Army to draw upon the male population in the Dalmatian islands for work purposes, to establish mixed committees to apprehend the men born 1904-27."

And again we have the same age groups referred to, from 17 to 40. "The current state of the evacuation (from islands 1128 men, 100 women, 150 children) will be reported to 2nd Panzer Army. Shall be evacuated from the coastal areas are about 150 to 200 thousand men."

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Mr. Denney, I think at this point we will take a recess until 3:15.

(THE COURT RECESSED AT 1500 to RESUME AT 1515)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

Presiding Judge Burke: You may proceed Mr. Denney, page 102 of the English Document Book.

MR. DENNEY: Thank you, your Honor. May it please your Honors, continuing with the entries from the war diary XV Mountain Corps for the first half of 1944, 15 March:

"Corps Headquarters reports that it intends to mop up and evacuate at a later time the islands situated off Sibonik.

"1 April 1944. On the basis of a directive by 2nd Panzer Army, 264th Infantry Division is ordered to carry out monthly raids at Split, since complete evacuation of all men fit for military service from Split cannot be carried out at the present.

5 April 1944 ...264th Division was given orders for evacuation measures concerning the men evacuated from the islands.

20 April 1944 ... To stop enemy supply traffic, especially across our own routes of supply, suggestion is forwarded to the Division and to 1st Brandenburg Regiment, to mine the roads used by bands, in addition to ambushes, local thrusts at transfer points, and evacuation of suspected villages.

30 April 1944 ... The evacuation of several coastal localities which is urgently necessary is requested.

6 May 1944 ... Army order: 2nd Panger Army – Evacuation of band-suspects from Split in large numbers now. Very soon 2,000 are to be sent away. Apprehension is the duty of the Corps, evacuation the duty of the Croatian Government. An order to that effect was given to 264th Division and Administration Sub-Area Headquarters at Split, and the German Plenipotentiary General in Croatia was asked for information since billeting within the Corps area or employment by the troops has to be refused.

20 May 1944 ... Army gives notice (2nd Panzer Army) of the intention, corresponding to the proposal by Corps Headquarters, to evacuate additional coastal areas, but it reserves to itself the order fro its execution.

... 264th Division receives the order to carry out the most severe measures with regard to plundering and lack of discipline shown by the troops at ZARA.

31 May 1944...Lately it has teen proposed to Army to evacuate the pro-British population of the islands of ULJAN and PASMÁN.

The evacuation of Split, ordered by Army, is proceeding only very slowly since the personnel available from SD and Secret Field Police is insufficient for a thorough apprehension of a large number of persons and since the Croatian police cannot be used for this purpose and has orders to wait for the arrival of a Government representative. Here again they refer to the secret police in connection with their work, that is SD and field. – the work of the troops.

30 June 1944... Corps Headquarters orders 264th Division to evacuate speedily the unreliable elements from Split, and sends the 3rd Company of the 591st Field Gendarmes Battalion to 264th Division for faster apprehension. The possibility of employing the evacuated persons as a Labor Battalion on the road LAPAC – KNIN is to be examined by the 373rd (Croatian) Infantry Division, and again your Honors attention is called to the use of the term "Croatian" and this is signed by the then commanding General of the XV Corps,....

Fohn, who succeeded the defendant Leyser, who about this time went over to the XXI Mountain Corps which was also in the 2nd Panzer Army.

Then NOKW 886 which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 396, 150 in the German, 106 in the English.

This is a report from the XXI Mountain Corps to the 2nd Panzer Army, 19 June. The 2nd Panzer Army, of course, was under the defendant Rendulic.

"SS-Division Skanderbeg: Up to now 3 dead have been confirmed of the group counter intelligence unit 202 which was attacked. 2 still missing." and then, handwritten, there appears, "In reprisal 3 communists from Djakovica were hanged."

And there is a signature Hansen.

NOKW 836 at 107 of the English and 151 of the German, is offered as Exhibit 397. These are reports from the XXI Mountain Corps for July and August to the 2nd Panzer Army, 7 July:

"181. Infantry Division: In the area of Bar 10 hostages were shot to death. Headquarters XXI Mountain Corps."

Then on the 8th for the same units:

"In the area of Risan 7 hostages were shot to death in reprisal for raids."

On 11th, reporting for the 10 July, the enemy lost, in the area of the corps, 20 dead counted, 50 estimated; 2 hostages were hanged.

And for the 181 Division: on of the Corps subordinate units:

"Assembly of bands (100) dispersed by trench mortar fire.

In unsuccessful raid on motor vehicle column, 1 enemy dead and 2 hostages hanged."

And again the 2nd Panzer Army. This has to do with the Operation "Falkenauge".

"Headquarters intends by rescinding the previous plan, to bring the enemy to battle again and to destroy him before he has been able to reorganize his forces. For this operation "Falkenauge" is being prepared."

And page 154 and page 110, NOKW 837, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 398. This is a report for 11 July, which is the enemy within the Corps Area lost 15 dead, 32 prisoners, 5 machine guns, 25 rifles;

1 ammunition depot set afire by shooting, 2 hostages shot.

"Area Budua: 2 hostages shot to death in reprisal for telephone line Sabotage."

NOKW 838, which is page 155 of the German and page 111 of the English, is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 399. This is a Situation Report from the 21st Corps, dated 13 July, and under paragraph 4:

"Arrests:

From 28 May - 5 July the SS Division -- " and that is, it is submitted, the 21st SS Mountain Skanderbeg Division, because that was the only one in the corps at the time, so far as we know.

"....arrested 510 Jews, Communists, persons aiding and abetting bands and political suspects. In the detention camp of the Division they were kept in security arrest and 249 of these inmates were evacuated to the Reich for labor."

And then a teletype of 11 August to the 2nd Panzer Army from the 21st Corps, commanded at this time by the defendant Leyser.

"The SS-Division Skanderberg: During attacks East of Kukes-minor own and civilian losses, 2 trucks burned out. 6 hostages hanged at the places of attack."

There is an illegible signature; and then NOKW 952 was offered, incidentally, Your Honors, this last exhibit was Exhibit 400, page 112, NOKW 952.

And the next exhibit is page 157 German and page 113 of the English NOKW 1008, and is offered as Exhibit 401. This is a report from the 21st Corps to the 2nd Panzer Army, and up at the top it says: "To Tank Army Supreme Command 2." Actually it is "Panzer Oberkommando 2", which is the 2nd Panzer Army. It is a poor translation, and I would be very glad to submit it to the translators to let them confirm that it is the same translation we have had for the 2nd Panzer Army before.

JUDGE BURKE: Very well.

THE TRANSLATOR: This is addressed to the "2nd Panzer Army."

MR. DENNEY: This again is the 21st Corps, and is dated 30 August 1944. The Corps at that time was commanded by the defendant Leyser. "Situation in Bitolj unchanged. The anti-aircraft battery, section Dossow which was surrounded near Prilep, has fought free. The enemy lost, in the corps area, on the 29th, 8.: 5 dead? shot? 1 Italian desertor, 14 prisoners, 20 bandits hanged."

And NOKW 672, 158 German and 114 English is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 402. This is a memo of 1 August, from the Plenipotentiary General in Croatian:

"The retired Minister and State Councillor Doctor Petric informed us today that some time ago he spoke with the General about conditions on the island Solta and on other evacuated Dalmatian islands and that he begged that measures be taken to protect the property of the population. He presented the enclosed excerpt of a letter addressed to him by Bezic Fabijan, Split," And it gives his address:

"former Head of Community (Gemeindehauptmann) of the island Solta, of 14 July 44. According to the statement of the State Councillor the island is occupied exclusively by the German Army. The entire civilian population was evacuated three months ago and left their entire property in the main on the island. The German soldiers stationed on the island are said to transport the property to the mainland at night time and to sell it there to the civilian population in Split and the surroundings. They are said to dispose of household articles, linen, crockery, oil, wine gin, Honey, sewing machines, shovels and essentially all objects representing any value. State Councillor Doctor Petric begs that those procedures be examined by the competent superior Headquarters and that measures be taken immediately to protect the property of the population. He begs specially to see to it that the population were not deprived of the wine casks necessary for procuring a living later on. He considers the return, if possible of the women and children as expedient so that they themselves may protect their own property.

On the islands Brac, Korzula and Hvar the conditions in the evacuated villages are said to be similar. State Councillor Doctor Petric was commissioned by the Prime Minister for the dispersal and care of the evacuated civilian population and begs in this capacity that the wishes which have been expressed be carried out on the other islands too.

German Plenipotentiary General in Croatia".

And of course this is in connection with the evacuations which we seen ordered by the 2nd Panzer Army to its lower units at an earlier time.

Then the German General Plenipotentiary in Croatia for 16th August and this is dated, - and to the High Command, 2nd Panzer Army.

"Property of the Civilian Population in the Dalmatian Islands. "Forwarded herewith is a note on the inquiry by the former Croatia Minister, State Councillor Dr. Petric. The Minister has already been informed by this office that the descriptions he received were obviously exaggerated, because there are not sufficient soldiers at all in the islands to be able to carry off the entire property of the civilian population."

"In addition, he was informed that the 1037th Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters had already carried out an investigation in the island of Solta and found that a large part of destruction of private property was caused by band warfare. Since in spite of this Minister Petric has requested that his complaint be investigated by a higher headquarters, this request is forwarded herewith.

For the German Plenipotentiary General in Croatia Wehrmacht Chief Administrative Officer As deputy.

And there is a signature, Senior Staff Administrative Officer.

And then page 160 German, and page 117 English, NOKW 154, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 403. This is a request from the Corps, the 21st of the 2nd Panzer Army, with reference to the SS Division of the 21st Mountain Corps, and this original request of 7 September bears the signature of the defendant Leyser.

"Subject: Attack on the evacuation transport consisting of the female employees of civilian offices from Tirana on 3 Sept. East of Kukes.

To 2nd Panzer Army.

Enclosed please find the intermediate report by the German General Zagreb concerning the evacuation of the femal employees of civilian office from Tirana on 3 September.

Command of the Corps Headquarters:

1.) The evacuation was prepared and executed on the responsibility of the German General Zagreb.

Corps Headquarters considered the measures taken by the German General Zagreb sufficient and agreed to them.

2.) In addition, Corps Headquarters have interceded extensively concerning the security of the transport.

And among other things has caused the following measures to be taken:

a) An armored reconnaissance car to go along.

b) Employment of the 2nd Battalion of the 522 Mountain Regiment for road security in the area Kukes for the transit of the column.

c) On the night in question, of all motor vehicles riding along that road to be grouped into one large scale convoy (total strength of this convoy 71 motor vehicles, 254 men, 4 Machines guns, 241 rifles and 2 machine pistols."

That, in the opinion of Corps Headquarters, was all that could be done under the given possibilities for the security of the convoy. However, absolute security with the available forces cannot be guaranteed because of the long distances involved and because of the terrain which is difficult to survey. In addition, it may be said that no attack on German soldiers or vehicles has taken place between "Kukes and Prizren since the arrival of German troops in Albania (in September 1943)" -- and the Court's attention is directed to the date of this letter which is a year later, September "The enclosed intermediate report shows the secrets of the attack.

A detailed final report will be submitted.

"By order of Corps Headquarters, the following measures were taken after the attack.

"Extension of the protective zones on both sides of the main road Kukes-Prizren.

"Seizure of communists in Prizren as hostages by the 21st "Waffen-Mountain Division of the SS "Skanderbeg".

"Employment of confidential agents with the mission to find out where the kidnapped women were and, if possible, to affect their release.

"In conclusion, it must be stated that measures of our own could not have avoided the regrettable attack which took place, contrary to all probability and notwithstanding extensive security measures."

Signed: "von Leyser" and "Distribution: 2nd Panzer Army" and "Information" copies to the "German General in Zagreb. And then the enclosure dated 5 September:

"Telephone call from Major Frank via exchange Kukes.

"Major Frank has previously reported by radio that he has freed the road by fighting with two companies. 13 dead recovered, among them two women. Three women not yet recovered, about 30 wounded cared for. He stated that it was not so bad about the wounded since a vehicle carrying wounded was involved in the attack; thus the figure comprises 30 old and newly wounded. Oberfuehrer Schmidhuber has ordered Major Frank to burn down some villages near the locality of the attack and to kill the population.

The approval of the Corps is still missing. Major Frank inquires whether the Corps agrees to the carrying out of these reprisal measures and asks for an immediate reply."

And it says: "Transmitted: Sergeant Bachold 181 Infantry Division" which is also part of the 21st Corps.

"Received then an illegible signature and "Captain " and then there is some illegible handwriting down below.

Page 162 of the German and 120 of the English, Document NOKW952, which is offered as Exhibit 404--- this is an extract from the WarDiary of the 21st Corps commanded by the defendant Leyser. It is a cover page showing that from 25 August 43 to 11 September 44 the Corps was under the 2nd Panzer Army and that from 11 September 44 to date it was under the High Command of Army Group E at Saloniki.

Then for 18 September 44:

"Corps Headquarters directs 21 Waffen Mountain Division SS 'Skanderbeg' not to carry out as yet the shooting to death of 50 hostages intended as reprisal measures for attacks which took place in the area of Kukes since negotiations for the release of the two German women kidnapped on 5 September may lead to a favorable conclusion and may be interrupted by such action."

And then is the matter which was referred to in the prior Exhibit 403; and then on the next page, NOKW -071, which is offered as prosecution Exhibit 405, 163 of the German, 122 of the English, and this is from the Oberbefehlshaber Suedost in command of Army Group E. This is a typed order on a blank and is from the defendant Weichs in reference --- it goes to Army Group E and the 2nd Panzer Army. The reference is an earlier communication of his, "3812/44 top secret of 21 August.

"As a supplement to the order referred to, OKW has issued the following order:

"Subject: Combatting of crimes committed by non-German civilians in occupied territories.

"By virtue of the Fuehrer Order dated 30.7.44 non-German civilians in the occupied territories who stab us in the back in the decisive stage of our struggle for existence do not deserve any consideration. This is to be considered as the directive for the interpretation and application of the Fuehrer Order itself and of the execution decree of the Chief of the OKW dated 18.1.44. If the war situation and the traffic situation made a transfer to SD impossible other effective measures are to be taken ruthlessly and independently. Under such circumstances there are, of course, no objections against the death sentence and the execution of such sentences by summary court martial procedure."

And typed at the end: "Commander in Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group F), Chief of General Staff, by order Selmayr, Colonel General Staff Corps"; and over to the left there is a signature of certification by a Colonel.

NOKW-1135 which is offered as prosecution's Exhibit 406; this is a report from the 21st SS 'Skanderbeg' Division and it bears the receipt stamp of "Army Group F." There is a signature which is that of the Divisional Commander Schmidhuber. There are 32 copies of which this is the 25th. It's dated "Received on 23 October 1944" and the date of dispatch appears to be the 2nd of October 1944. The Abridged Report concerns the initial organization and state of the 21st SS Mountain Division 'Skanderbeg.'

"Organization of the Division:

"All these conditions primarily refer to Koseve, where the SS Division 'Skanderbeg' is being organized. Above all the initial organization of the division has come up against the invisible resistance of the BEG and AGAS which has showed itself in the passivity of the prefects and mayors belonging to the BEG and a whispering propaganda hostile to the initial organization.

The greatest possible help was given to the division by the Deputy of the Reichsfuehrer-SS in Tirana, SS Gruppenfuehrer Fitzthum, who placed Police Officers and subordinate leaders at the disposal of the division as instructors and even a car able to traverse cross-country for the Division Commanders mobility, and gave his special support for supplying the Division with the requisite amounts of the country's currency.

"All possible support was given to the Division by the XXIst Mountain Corps, to which it was subordinated tactically, and also directly by the 2nd Panzer Army. The XXIst Mountain Corps also placed 1 officer and 12 NCO's at its disposal as instructors. Nothing could be expected from the 5th SS Mountain Corps, which has nothing itself."

The 5th SS Mountain Corps is a separate Corps and the 21st Mountain Division, the Skanderbeg Division was under the 21st Mountain Corps, which was commander at this time by the defendant Leyser.

"Employment" - under paragraph 3:

"In this connection it may be assumed that the commencement of the initial organization of the SS Mountain Division "Skanderbeg" was the cause of the increased furnishing of arms, medical equipment, and uniforms by the Anglo-Americans to the partisans in the Albania-Montenegro border area. This assumption is based on the experience gained during the first commitment where the enemy no longer consisted of bandits in the usual sense but of regular troops, disciplined, uniformly equipped with British uniforms, and excellently armed, under very good and flexible leadership of superior strength. There were about 30 British machine guns for every German machine gun, and the enemy fired as many sub-machine guns as we fired rifles. The Anglo-Americans and Bolsheviks also benefited from having Montenegro nationals and not Albanians.

"The Division Commander Scamidhuber, SS-Oberfuehrer."

And then there is 166 and 127, NOKW 1018 which are extracts from the War Diary of the Prinz Eugen Division with the reference to the execution of prisoners. This is offered as prosecution Exhibit 407. This division, if your Honors please, was under the 5th SS Mountain Corps and was --- which corps was first under the 2nd Panzer Army and, of course, at all times was under the Oberbefehlshaber Suedost Army Group F. These reports have to do with the period late in 1944 and in January 1945 and they are handwritten, and the unit here is the 7th SS Mountain Engineer Battalion which was again subordinate to the SS Prinz Eugen Division from August '44 to April '45.

"27 November 1944 the water tower was blown up by "E-Lange" at 1200.

"The bridge across the Ibar is being prepared for demolition. By order of the Commander the 7th SS Engineers, the town will be contaminated by 3rd Company and "E-Lange" on 28 November 1944. Demolitions at the railway station have commenced.

"16 January 1945. Enemy attacks. Supplies from Southeast. The bridge at Zvernik has been rebuilt by the Reds. Artillery and baggage columns are crossing it. By railway as far as Losnica. I German Armored train from Vinkovci till Tunia. 21 prisoners taken along to be shot, 2 escaped."

And then the last document in this book, which is NOKW 655, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 408, page 168 of the German, and 130 of the English, is a series of orders and reports for October and December 1944, from the Commander in Chief, Southeast, who was the defendant Weichs, and also from the Commander of the 2nd Panzer Army, which was under the Commander-in-Chief Southeast at this time.

The first one is 11 October 1944. This is directed to 2nd Panzer Army, and various other copies were forwarded to these indicated at the bottom of page 130, - about the middle of page 168 of the German, and this is sent by the Commander-in-Chief Southeast, Chief of the General Staff, "Winter", who at that time was Chief for the Defendant Weichs: "In the Croatian and Hungarian territory East of the line:

Drina Estuary - Erdevik - Ilok - Palanka - Kula the following measures are to be taken, depending on the development of the military situation:

Seizure of crops and cattle in areas abandoned by the inhabitants. Seizing cattle and harvest in return for a certificate of performance. Headquarters 2nd Panzer Army and Army Branch Serbian will provide the necessary labor and transportation with most extensive utilization of indigenous means.

The Executive officers of Headquarters 2nd Panzer Army and Army Branch Serbia in agreement with the Army Group Executive Officers will put aside those quantities of cattle and products of the country which are required for army supplies. It is to be endeavored to supply the forces completely from the country." Page 169 of the German, 132 of the English, this is from the 2nd Panzer Army, and the distribution list is contained on page 176 of the German and 138 of the English.

The 69th Corps get a copy, and the various other units listed there:

"The Commander-in-Chief Southeast has changed Headquarters 2nd Panzer Army with the seizure of cattle and harvest in areas abandoned by the inhabitants in Croatian and Hungarian territory East of the line Drina."

and so forth, which were just referred to in the prior communication, "depending on the development of the military situation."

And this, of course, it is submitted, is sent down in accordance with the earlier request from the Supreme Commander Southeast, or the Oberbefehlshaber Suedest, defendant Weichs.

"Likewise Commander-in-Chief Southeast has exclusively empowered Headquarters 2nd Panzer Army to establish priorities and direct traffic by rail and the Danube in the Croatian territories.

Added to this it is ordered:

1) To carry out all clearing, evacuation and dispersal measures in the area designated above, Headquarters 2nd Panzer Army will establish a special branch at Runa. This is given the task of seizing and also transporting the harvest from this territory. Instructions of Section C-1 of the corresponding order #1 and paragraph A III of Order #11 apply to this branch" Lt. Kieson was in command of this branch.

Then further down, the last sentence before paragraph 3:

"Employment of his Army Economies Staff, or parts of the same, will be decided by Lt. Colonel Kiesow according to his own judgment.

This headquarters will have under its command;" and then there is a list of what the headquarters will have under its command.

Paragraph (b) is to be noted in connection with the seizing of foods and cattle 786th Administration company.

Down under (c):

"Local headquarters at Semlin and Ruma have to comply with orders given by this branch in all questions concerning evaluation as well as in all matters pertaining to bringing in the harvest."

Then paragraph (d):

"Possible requests for officers by the commander of this branch to head additional outer branches, or to settle special matters, will have to be granted by the tactical officer, if possible. Requesting officers engaged in important tactical employment is to be avoided.

"5) The branch has to help primarily in the evaluation of racial Germans from above mentioned territory. The evacuation plan of the German Element in Croatia will serve as a guide for this. Basically women, children, sick, and frail persons are to be removed first, and as far as possible, by rail or truck transportation.

The male members will come last in marches; the order for their evacuation will be given by the Commissioner of the Reichsfuehrer SS in Croatia.

Those professional or agricultural trade groups of the German Element directly or indirectly working for the German Wehrmacht are to be treated according to instruction contained in letter Headquarters 2nd Panzer Army, Chief Quartermaster dated 8 October 1944. Members of the Home Guard can only be evacuated in agreement with tactical headquarters commands. All evacuated persons are to be directed to march to Esseg, from where their further removal will take place.

While helping the evacuation, contact is always to be maintained with the District Direction of the Racial Germans in Eastern Symria, and the Local Leader of the Racial Germans.

Indigenous inhabitants not of German origin, who do not want to submit to enemy rule and want to come along, especially families of members of the Ustascha Militia who are determined to fight on the German side until the end of the war, are to be taken along."

I should just like to direct the Court's attention to that direction, to the use of, "Ustascha Militia who are determined to fight on the German side until the end of the war."

Paragraph 6:

"If possible, simultaneously with the removal or departure of the the following is to be salvaged by the Branch inasmuch as it has not been taken along by it.

(a) All the cattle and poultry within the area of the Branch;

(b) All horses within the area of the Branch.

The following orders are in effect for the salvage of cattle and poultry."

It recites two orders for the salvage of cattle and poultry.

Down at the bottom:

"Beyond this, all horses and cattle are to be procured which are offered to the Wehrmacht, especially to the Ration Offices, by the population.

7) In the evaluation and salvage measures mentioned in paragraph 5 and 6," these are the two preceding paragraphs.

"racial Germans and their property will be given priority over inhabitants of the country not of German origin."

I think that we can omit paragraph 8.

Proceeding to the top of page 136 in the English, which is about the top of page 176 in the German, I believe:

"After complete procurement of salvaged goods the entire harvest supplies are to be salvaged within the area of inasfar as they are not required to cover the personal needs of the remaining population until the next harvest, applying rigid standards of need. Preference is to be given in this matter to the sunflower harvest.

Inasmuch as harvest supplies are not directly taken over by Wehrmacht Ration Offices in Syrmia, the sunflower harvest proceeds are to be transported to the Reich, the remaining harvest in compliance with orders given by Headquarters 2nd Panzer Army, Chief Quartermaster, to Zagreb.

After carrying out this measure, the remaining military and economic evacuation goods, including agricultural machinery of the evacuated population, according to evacuation surveys on hand at Evaluation Sub-area-Headquarters, are to be saved and removed to the salvage area allocated to the Army in the Reich. Evaluation goods which are the property of the Croatian State or Croatian nationals are to be procured only if this is specially ordered or if they have been abandoned by the fleeing population.

Indigenous help and material are to be utilized most extensively for all salvaging and evacuation, in order not to occupy Wehrmacht forces in every case.

The Branch will ensure all necessary measures being taken by the competent tactical headquarters to prevent ruthless plundering, wild looting, and excesses during the salvage operations. Plunderers and unauthorized looters are to be arrested immediately and submitted to court marshal punishment without consideration."

All Italian Military Internees and Prisoners of War located within the area of the Branch are to be brought to the Vinkovci branch for removal into the Reich, inasfar as they are not temporarily required by the troops for urgent military purposes. The area of the Branch is to be cleared ruthlessly of them. In the event of Italian Military Internees and Prisoners from Serbia moving through syrnia the Branch will assist the Commander in Syrnia most extensively.

All requests for transportation space of any kind are to be directed by the applicant within the area of the Branch to the latter."

Then dropping down to (15):

"The Branch will report the first time on 1 November 1944, and every ten days after that, to the Chief quartermaster, Headquarters 2nd Panzer Army:

- a) Number of racial Germans and indigenous personnel removed.
- b) Evacuation and salvage goods Procured, with breakdown according to type, number and quantity.
- c) Salvage goods of all types removed, with breakdown according to type, number and quantity.

The entire contents of this order are intended only for German headquarters, according to distribution list.

For Headquarters Panzer Army The Chief Quartermaster" Then there is a signature, and then the distribution list which follows.

MR. DENNEY: Then next is a teletype which starts on Page 177 of the German, Page 138 of the English, to the German Embassy, dated 18 October 1944: "Departed from Kroelic on 15 October for Zagreb; early return is necessary. Disposition concerning cattle, pigs, and grain urgently required from Food Directorate. So far only 40 empty freight cars for the sunflower shipment have arrived. Supposedly according to instruction from Ganzenmueller, flow of empty freight cars to the Southeastern area has been stopped. Request clarification since reloading has been interrupted by lack of freight cars. New list of reloading stations and quantities, will be forwarded upon completion. For the transportation of racial Germans so far neither complete outfits nor food or sleeping cars have arrived. Increase in cattle transports possible if Croats furnish empty freight cars, crews and escort for Ruma and Vinkovci, 150 men each. Signed Claus." And it is certified to by a signature which is illegible, by a first lieutenant -- rather an Oberfeldintendant, not a first lieutenant. And then there's a teletype which is to the 2nd Panzer Army Quartermaster, dated 1 November 1944 and Defers to an earlier teletype. "The railway shipment from Vrpolje to Vienna for grain contains; 63 tons sunflowers, 29 tons grain and corn," And it is from the Commander in Syrmia, and there is also listed a code number. And then there's a teletype of 31st October to the 2nd Panzer Army Chief Quartermaster, stating that, "until 30 October 1944 the following were removed." And then animals are listed. "Animals taken in marches from Vinkovci to Brod, 2200 head of cattle, 100 sheep; by rail: from ESSEGG to E.V.M. Vienna: 780 pigs; from Ivankovo and Ilaca to the Reich Office for Grain, Vienna: 510 pigs." And then it gives the various listings of cattle, sheep and pigs and "340 tons sunflower, 40 tons of grain; by tug on the Danube from Vukovar: 43 tons sunflower." And on Page 180 of the German and Page 142 of the English, from Brigadier General Braumueller to the 2nd Panzer Army.

This is for 2 November 1944; "By order of the OKW/Economics Office and instruction by Four-Years Plan, Agriculture Department, and Agricultural Section will be established with me for uniform orientation of all Agricultural Commanders employed or to be employed in the area to procure and remove agricultural goods. Therefore, request that it should be ascertained immediately, and that I should be notified of, all Agricultural Commanders already employed by Headquarters 2nd Panzer Army, with indication of name, rank, place of employment, and present subordination. Simultaneously request transfer that of Army Economics Office, since it cannot function in its present location and is without contact." That, again, is a teletype, and there is some illegible writing at the bottom. It is signed Braumueller, Brigadier General, which is typed. And then on Page 181 of the German and still on Page 143 of the English. This is a report on the "Official Journey by Oberfeldintendant Kaldrack and Captain Wagner to Brod, Vihkovci, from 4-7 November 1944". Question of transfer shipment for Sarajevo was discussed with the Commander of the 787th Administration Company". And later oh with Major Profit. "Group E was discussed by telephone with the Executive Officer of Army Group E." And then various other installations are discussed and inspections, and transportation of the SS "Handcar" Division. And turning to Page 181 in the German and Page 145 in the English: "To increase the Italian Military Internees employed in transferring by 100 men. To move the two Platoons of the 6th Company of the 118th Supply Battalion, still stationed at Vinkovci, to Brod. Major Profit reported that the available tonnage amounts to about 400 tons supply column space for Sarajevo and the retraining 200 tons for transfer shipments from Broad to Bosn. Broad of ammunition, gasoline, and rations."

MR. JACOBSON (German-English Interpreter): Where did you start?

MR. DENNEY: Starting with Stabsintendant Hopp. "Stabsintendant Hopp has so far received in treks the following evacuation goods: 322 head of cattle and 184 sheep; about 800 head of cattle; by rail once 7 and on 3 November 2 freight cars with pigs." And then, turning over to Page 182 of the German and Page 146 of the English, they refer to a conference with the Quartermaster of the 68th Corps, which at this time was withdrawn. And then on Page 184 of the German, Page 147 of the English, there is discussion about receiving flour supplies promised by the Croatian Government. And down in subparagraph "a": Gruppenfuehrer Kammerhofer will be given the Northwestern sector of LXVIII the Corps area with Esseg and Djakovn as his territory to evacuate according to instructions of the LXVIII th Corps. Gruppenfuehrer Kammerhofer will make his police "units available without restrictions in the remaining area of LXVIII the Corps and on his part will have "Wehrmacht units within the evacuation area assigned to him for evacuation measures."

As before, Lt Colonel Kiesow as deputy of the LXVIII th Corps will maintain supreme command over the removal of all salvaged evacuation goods.

Gruppenfuehrer, Kammerhofer, according to the desires of Major Heiden, agreed to give temporary leave to 60 members of the German Element called up for the Home Guard who are at the moment housed for evacuation measures of the LXVIIIth Corps. They are to be employed to salvage goods left by the evacuated racial Germans plundered by indigenous inhabitants of other origin. Gruppenfuehrer Kammerhofer was informed that evacuation was now extended also to the property of the non-Germans in agreement with General Gustovic.

He pointed out that he had been assigned a new mission by the Reichsfuehrer SS, the execution of which he would undertake soon." And over on the top of Page 149 of the English, Page 186 of the German: "Chief Paymaster Langhammer was instructed to place the 10,000 liters Sliwowitz at the disposal of the LXVIIIth Corps as Post Exchange merchandise." It is Page 186 of the German, Page 149 of the English; it is on Page 17 of the original document if that will help you any. And then: "Organization Todt-Oberstabsfuehrer Griessler, with when matters pertaining to the Italian Military Internee-treks were to be discussed, was not there, nor could he be reached by phone." And dropping down to the last paragraph on Page 149 -- that starts with "The Corps Executive Officer stated that, after the inclusion of the non-Germans in the evacuation, demands made by him at Kiesow's Branch were settled for cattle to be slaughtered. It was pointed out to him that the Brandenburg Division was to supply itself mainly from Hungarian stocks. He was informed of the allocation of 10,000 liters Sliwowitz as Post Exchange Merchandise."

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Mr. Denney, at this point we will resume tomorrow morning at half past nine.

THE MARSHAL: The Court will be in recess until 9:30 tomorrow morning.

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the Courtroom will please find their seats.

THE HONORABLE, the Judges of Military Tribunal V.

Military Tribunal V is now in session. God save the United states of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

There will be order in the Court.

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honors, because the Tribunal is to rule regarding the motion put by the defense that two of the defendants can go to Washington, I would like to ask the Tribunal to accept a reply to the ruling on the motion. I believe such a reply is necessary, and such a reply is in accordance with the principle that the person who had asked for something is in the position to answer the decision. Your Honors, may I do this now, or may I submit it later to the Court?

THE PRESIDENT: I believe it would be better, Dr. Laternser, if you would prepare it in writing.

DR. LATERNSEER: Certainly, I will submit it today.

THE PRESIDENT: Before we proceed further, will the Marshal ascertain and report to the Tribunal whether or not all the defendants are present.

THE MARSHAL: May it please Your Honors, all the defendants are present save the defendant Weichs, who is absent due to illness.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal has received a certificate from the prison physician as to the defendant Weichs, and I am handing it to the Deputy Secretary General. The proceedings will continue in the absence of the defendant Weichs without prejudice to his interest.

Are there any matters you wish to raise at this time before proceeding with the presentation of the documents, Mr. Denney?

Page Unlabeled

MR. DENNEY: With reference to Dr. Laternser's reply, I take it the Court does not expect us to reply to his reply, to our papers of op -1546 A position?

THE PRESIDENT: No, we don't expect it nor would we anticipate it, or want a reply.

DR. LATERNSEER: I object to what the Prosecution has just said that it is going to reply to our reply.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Denney did not say he was going to reply. He merely inquired of the Court and the Tribunal as to whether or not the Tribunal would expect a statement from the Prosecution, and I advised him we did not, nor would we wish it.

You may proceed with the presentation of the evidence, Mr. Denney.

MR. DENNEY: We were on Exhibit 408, in evidence, your Honors, which is NOKW 655, and we were in the middle of the report which was submitted by one Wagner and Kaldrack, with reference to the over-all plans for the evacuation of Croatia and Serbia. We were at page 187 of the German and page 150 of the English, and it starts with the sentence: "General Gustovic was requested to approve the following requests:" It is about 15 lines up from the bottom of page 150 in the English.

"General Gustovic was requested to approve the following requests:

- a) Furnishing of teams for removal of evacuation goods to the railway lines.
- b) Furnishing of labor for salvaging and reloading evacuation goods.
- c) Extension of evacuation measures to Croatian, Serbian, and Hungarian elements of the population in the evacuation area.

General Gustovic promised to fulfill these requests and stated that he was going to issue appropriate directives to his subordinate headquarters offices. Likewise he indicated his readiness to inform the Croatian Headquarters about the agreements reached concerning the taking over of evacuation goods by the German Wehrmacht. It was arranged with him that the owners, in place of cash, were to be compensated with certificates of performance in the form of receipts. He requested a sample containing the text in German and Croatian language be forwarded to him.

General Gustovic was requested to see that flour deliveries to the German Wehrmacht promised by the Croatian Government be made by the individual mills.

He agreed to give appropriate directives and showed thereby, as throughout the whole conference, full understanding for the necessity of drawing from the country to ease the supply situation.

It was decided that the civilian population, also outside of the 5 km Zone behind the Main Line of Resistance, should hand over all harvest proceeds which were not required for their own use, to feed the cattle, and as seed for the next crop.

General Gustovic shared the opinion that in taking the tribute the Croatian administration is to show itself in public as far as possible.

District Leader Dr. Flicker stated that the Croatian population would willingly submit to the evacuation measures, but that resistance was to be expected from the Serbian element.

An agreement was reached that, as an incentive to comply with the duty of turning in foodstuffs, rewards would be given during the evacuation in the form of salt and possibly other monopoly goods.

In conclusion it was agreed to compile a record of the conferences, which General Gustovic requested to have forwarded to him.

His activity, on the basis of the results of conferences so far, was once more discussed with Lt Colonel Kiesow. He explained the measures he intended for the immediate future and gave a survey of the results of his work so far. Furthermore he stated he would not call on "Demeter" trains any more until further notice and would expedite for the time being only Croatia trains to ensure first of all the Croatian share of the evacuation proceeds. He was informed that the Corps Executive Officer of the LXVIIIth Corps believed he could be able from his own evacuation measures to satisfy his announced needs for cattle to be slaughtered."

And I don't think we need to read the rest of it. It is mostly administrative detail. It is concluded at page 153.

Turning then to page 154 and 191 of the German, there is a list dated 14 November to the Army Executive Officer Headquarters 2nd Panzer Army. It bears the receipt stamp of the 2nd Panzer Army, "Certified Correct" signed by a "Lieutenant" and typewritten signature by Dr. Richter; and it lists various heads of cattle for periods in March 44 and one entry for November for cattle and sheep with totals given.

And then on page 192 of the German, 155 of the English, 6 November 1944, the operational setup as to the various districts of the evacuation staffs. I don't think we have to cover what is in paragraph 1. It is to be noted that in sub-paragraph "c" that Gruppenfuehrer Kammerhofer at Esseg had one of the evacuation staffs; and then, starting at II, at the bottom of 155 in the English and 192 in the German:

"To be procured are:

"1) In the Combat Zone: Goods not taken along by the evacuees (racial Germans and other components of the population).

In the Rear Area:

Goods not taken along by the evacuated racial Germans.

All products and raw materials (excess goods) which are not required by the population or the forces. Precise detailed instructions will be given for this. In return for property of racial Germans procured a certificate of performance will be given (sample enclosed). The issue of Certificates of Performance for goods procured from members of other components of the people is still being decided on."

And then down under "a" under "III", it speaks of "Procurement":

"In the combat zone teams will be furnished by the population. Empty vehicles will be furnished by the troops and labor will be provided by population and troops.

"b) In the Rear Area: Teams will be provided by the population. Supply column space (in exceptional cases) will be furnished by the troops. Railway transports and labor will be furnished by the population."

And then over on page 193 of the German, 157 of the English, the second paragraph on the page:

"The following authorizations are requested from General Gustovic, which upon receipt will be forwarded immediately to the Evacuation Staffs: for removal of Croatian goods, for employment of indigenous labor, to furnish teams."

And it is signed: "For the Corps Headquarters" by "The Chief of Staff." and then the distribution list on the following page.

And then there is an order starting on page 195 of the German, 158 of the English, 21 November, from the 2nd Panzer Army to the Corps Group Kuebler who was one of the evacuation groups:

"The order referred to does not contain the entire results of the conferences on 5 and 6 November, which decided on further salvage measures to between representatives of the Army on the one hand and the Quartermaster of the 68th Corps together with Lt. Colonel Kiesow, the Quartermaster of the Commander in Sarmia and General Gustovic on the other. In view of the importance of the salvage measures for the German Reich as well as for Croatia, there must be complete clarity at all headquarters employed in the measures about their duty to procure the salvage goods completely and about the manner of carrying out the salvage measures. Therefore, once more the instructions at present in force for salvaging are made known."

And then he repeats the instructions which were contained in the memorandum of Wagner and Kaldrack; and I don't think we need to reread them here; and that takes us over to the conclusion of this particular part of the exhibit: "For the Headquarters of the 2nd Panzer Army, The Chief Quartermaster" initialled, and the various copies which appear on page 163 of the English and 199 of the German.

And on page 200 of the German and 164 of the English starts the first of a long series of reports of the various material that was evacuated. I would just like to direct the Court's attention to the items and the amounts and the dates, page 164; Wheat, barley, oats, rye, corncocks, sunflower, beans, linseed, hemp, vetch, hops, poppies, pigs, cattle, paper, packsaddles, driving belts, artificial fertilizer, malt, accommodation equipment, empty barrels, copper ore, printing presses, oils, alcohol, used buna-rubber, soot, soap, stones, soap powder, and then over on the next page colts and horses, machinery, rations, textiles, weneers, stallions, bucks, tractors and ploughs.

And then there is a note down, handwritten, that: "This does not include 46 trains sent directly from our headquarters at 5 trains a day." and then another handwritten note: "In addition provisioning the troops from the country."

And then, turning to page 201 in the German and 166 in the English is a further communication from headquarters 2nd Panzer Army. Of course, at this time the defendant Rendulic was no longer there. He had left for other parts, but the 2nd Panzer Army was still under the defendant Weichs and this has to do with evacuation measures in Syrmia and again it talks about the changing of the Kiesow Group and the duties of the Kiesow Group being assumed by the Group Kuebler; and paragraph "3", page 202 in the German, 166 in the English, last paragraph in the page:

"Further salvaging measures are to be carried out in accordance with the 2nd order referred to. Group Kuebler will arrange further participation of SS Gruppenfuehrer in salvaging measures."

Next page:

"The branch will give a final report at once on the results of its last 10-day report. Additional 10-day reports, in compliance with the 3rd order referred to, are to be submitted by Group Kuebler to Commander-in-Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group "F" -- that is the defendant von Weichs -- and the various copies, one going to the "Commissioner of the Reichsfuehrer SS in Croatia."

And then, starting on the next page, we have several more pages of what they were evacuating.

I think the pages are self-explanatory and I don't need to read them into the record but the columns generally have: types of goods, quantity and weight, number of freight cars and the shipping ticket number, the date of the departure, place of origin, and who dispatched it; and then, on the first two pages, it is to be noted that everything was dispatched by the 2nd Panzer Army.

Over on page 172 of the English, 205 of the German, the 2nd Panzer Army seems to have done most of it but there is a few entries of dispatches by the Police and these lists continue on over to page 190. I would just like to direct the Court's attention to the items again, the dates and who sent them -- and the amounts.

And on page 226 of the German and 190 of the English, another short report to Headquarters 2nd Panzer Army, Quartermaster Section, and Corps Group this is for 14 December 1945, signed by Kiesow. I don't think there is any necessity to read it.

And then we have several more pages of listed material similar to that which we have seen before and that concludes the document.

Before Mr. Rapp starts -- excuse me a moment -- that concludes Document Book XVI, if your Honors please, and Mr. Rapp will take over the presentation of Document Books XVII and XVIII.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, we are turning now to Document Book XVII. The first document we submit, NOKW-861, which is submitted as prosecution Exhibit 410 -- I beg your pardon, your Honors -- it is 409; this exhibit is an affidavit from the defendant Wilhelm Speidel who swears, states and deposes:

"I should like to make the following statements regarding my personal history: on 8 July 1895 I was born in Metzingen (Wurttemberg). From 1895 to 1901 childhood in Metzingen ... education in parental home. 1901 to 1903 elementary school in Stuttgart. 1903 to 1913 Humanistic Gymnasium. 1913 in June, Abitur Secondary School (graduation). Chose to become a professional officer. On 25 June 1913 entered the Army as officer candidate (Grenadier Regiment, 123 in Ulm)."This should be 26th of June, your Honors.

I have read the above statement, consisting of 2 pages in the German language and declare that to the best of my knowledge and belief it is the full truth. I have had the opportunity to make changes and corrections in the above statement. I have made this statement voluntarily and without any promise of reward and I was neither threatened nor compelled to do so."

The next document being offered your Honor is NOKW-174. I believe that is erroneously marked in your document book, your Honors, as page 52. Is that correct? I believe it is marked page 52 though actually it is right after the document I just have read into the record No. 174.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Document 174 in my book is at page 52.

MR. RAPP: At page 52 then. Very well, your Honors. The next document you have in your book now is NOKW-1735? Is that correct?

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: It is in my book. I do not know whether that is true -

MR. RAPP: In some of the English books, the first two pages of NOKW-1735, you will find on page 48 of one English. I believe you will recognize it there, -- marked 1735.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: That seems to be correct. Your statement is correct so far as my book is concerned. I am advised that is also correct as to the other members of the Tribunal.

MR. RAPP: Yes.

Now this document, your Honors, we would merely like to have marked for identification as Document 409a. We will not read it into the record, or offer it as an exhibit; it is merely to be marked for identification as Document 409a. That is a rather voluminous document. I believe it goes all the way through to about page 53.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: And it is not offered as an exhibit?

MR. RAPP: It is not offered as an exhibit, your Honor, it is merely to be marked for identification.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honors, I do not know what the prosecution intends, if it just submits documents, or introduces them by way of document books, just for purposes of information. We are here in the stage of evidence, and the prosecution has to produce evidence. I do not understand this procedure, because there is no information for the court; rather one has to submit evidence to the court at this stage.

I request from now on just to accept documents, only for evidence and not for information.

MR. RAPP: If your Honor please I don't think Dr. Laternser had his ear phones on when I was addressing the Court, I did not offer this exhibit for information. I merely said that I would like to have this particular document marked for identification only, and I believe your Honors will believe that is all I have said. I did not call the court's attention for any information purposes, for evidence or for any other purposes.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Is there any further statement you wish to make?

DR. LATERNSEER: No.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: The record then is that this particular exhibit, No. NOKW-1735, is marked 409a, for identification purposes only, and is not offered as an exhibit, and under such conditions it will not be considered by the court as an exhibit.

MR. RAPP: That is correct, your Honors.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Very well. You may proceed.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, the next document to be offered is NOKW-174, which is being submitted as Prosecution's Exhibit 410 I believe your Honors will find this in the English Document Book on page 52.

Now in reading those documents, I would like to call the Tribunal's attention only to one fact. I would like to ask you to notice the dates of these documents, I am about to read into the record, because they extend into the fall of 1943 and into the winter of 1944.

This document we have before us is a letter to the Army Group F bycourier, enclosure 10, War Diary, for information of 2nd Panzer Army German General Plenipotentiary in Croatia. Daily report of 2 August '43, Serbia, 1st and 2nd SS Panzer Grenadier Regiments:

"21 suspects shot," partly in flight, 1 DM Officer arrested by SS Police Fighter Detachment.--

Do the interpreters have this document? Has it been distributed to you?

INTERPRETER: Could you kindly give us the German Document Book number?

MR. RAPP: He is bringing it right there to you.

INTERPRETER: Thank you.

MR. RAPP: I repeat for the record only:

"21 suspects shot, partly in flight, 1 D.M. Officer arrested by SS Police Fighter Detachment during search operation N.W. of Lajkovac.

.....

Greece.

.....

2.) Shooting of 50 workers threatened on account of arson in the streetcar depot at Collithea, in case the perpetrators do not surrender.

.....

Croatia.

Political situation in the main unchanged. Growing unrest in the Zagreb area. In the city area delivery of communist orders to report for active duty, under the threat that members will be killed in case of disobedience and their possessions destroyed. The population of the neighborhood of Zagreb is forbidden by the bandits to bring provisions into the city under penalty death."

It is certified, to "Wheade, 1st Lieutenant". Signed, "Military Commander Southeast, 1a, No. 17/43, and then it is typed in the signature of the defendant, "von Geitner".

The next order is dated the 2 September 1943, still the same document to the 610th Administrative Sub-area Headquarters, and refers to 50-to-1 execution of "400 Draja Mahailovich reprisal prisoners are to be shot as revenge for the surprise attack on the security detachment of the 21st Auxiliary Police Company in Stragari, in which 3 members of the company were killed and 5 missing who did not return after expiration of the established time period.

Reprisal prisoners lacking are to be furnished by the Commander of the Security Police.

The burning down of Stragari as a reprisal measure is to be reported in the proclamation.

Completion of the action is to be reported. Certified: 1st Lieutenant. After transmission to: Senior SS and Police Fuehrer, Military Commander Southeast Ia No. 33/43 Signed Felber.

MR. RAPP: On the next page, Page 54 of the English and Page 40 of the German, it states: "To: 809th Administrative Sub-area Headquarters, for the information of: 1st Royal Bulgarian Occupational Corps through the German liaison Staff, 2 September 1943, 2nd Pazer Army." Hear is an order pertaining to a ratio of better than 40 to 1. It states:

"A total of 450 communist suspects are to be shot and one bandit village is to be burned down, after safeguarding of the detachment at Crkvica (20 km. W. of Leskovac) on 1 Sept 43 in which 7 German police were killed and 4 wounded. The reprisal measured are to be carried out if possible by German police in the course of the operation at present underway in the area W. of Leskovac and is to be make public after completion. Completion of the action is to be reported.

Felber On the next page, Your Honors, is another 40 to 1 order "To: District Administrative Headquarters 1/823, Reference:

Your communication Ic No. 9185/43 of 2 September 1943." This communication is dated 4 September 1943.

"As revenge for the surprise attack on the village of Duplja west of Weisskirchen on 30 Aug. 43, in which 3 Voldsdeutsche members of the Banat State Guard and one community official were murdered and the community records were set on fire, 160 communist reprisal prisoners are to be shot. The utilization of bandit members confined in the Gross-Betschkerek hostage camp for execution and of women, so far as they ave convicted bandit helpers, is approved.

Felber And on the bottom it says "To: 610th Administrative Sub-area Headquarters."

On the next page, Your Honor, "Subject: Reprisal Measures." I believe the first paragraph figures out something like 37 to 1. It says: "As retaliation for the surprise attack on a truck of the German customs border guard at Bajina Basta on 13 September 1943 by a DM band, during which 4 German customs officials were shot and 4 wounded, 300 DM followers are to be shot." The next one, I think, is plain 50 to 1 it says. "As retaliation for the surprise attack on a German harvesting detachment at Banja (5 km. S.E. of Arandjelovac on 4 September 1943 during which 2 German police sergeants were killed, 100 communists are to be shot." The next one is 2 to 1.

"A retaliation for the surprise attack on the Serbian State Guard Detachment in Gojna Gora (20 km. N.NE. of Pozega) on 14 Aug. 43, in which 4 Serbian State Guard men, among them one officer, were kidnapped and murdered, 10 D.M. followers are to be shot; then is:

As retaliation for the surprise attack on an automobile of the SD of Uzice at Serozva (6.5 km. S.E. of Uzice) on 8 Sept 43, in which one SD man was wounded, 25 D.M. followers are to be shot.

The execution is to be effected by the Commander of Security Police central, as far as reprisal prisoners are not at the disposal of the Administrative Sub-area headquarters.

Completion of action is to be reported by 25 Sept 43.

The next document, your Honor, you will find on page 64.

It will be page 50 of the German document book. It is NOKW-1420, to be submitted as Prosecution Exhibit 415. This is a report from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast, High Command Army Group F. In other words, the defendant Weichs. To the OKH and OKW pertaining to the execution of 100 Draza Mihailovic and 150 Communist retaliation prisoners in Belgrade. The first page merely states that this particular TWX has been addressed to Army General Staff, Operations Branch, daily report from the Wehrmacht Commander Southeast, 4 October 1943.

On page 65 we find: "In Cacak, 1 November, 283 DM hostages and 42 Communists shot to death in reprisal for surprise attacks, in the course of which members of the German and Bulgarian Wehrmacht were killed." It is signed by the Wehrmacht Commander Southeast.

On Page 66 the Army General Staff, Operations Branch, received this TWX 18 October 1943, and it says under Serbia: "Diminishing band activity in reprisal for attacks on German border patrols in the area of 610 Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters, (SABAC) 100 DM and in Belgrade 150 Communist hostages were shot to death."

And then on the other page, your Honors, it is signed Wehrmacht Commander Southeast, High Command, Army Group F, I C/ AO No. 3120/43 Secret, dated 17 October 1943.

On page 63 we find the same type report in TWX form. We find this on page 68, page 52 in the German Document Book, and it pertains to the administrative area headquarters 395, and on page 69 it says:

"Enemy losses 2205 prisoners, 37 dead, 42 wounded, 13 depots. Ammunition rations and clothing were taken in booty and destroyed, 3 villages were razed to the ground. Own losses, 2 dead, 3 wounded. (Signed) Wehrmacht Commander Southeast (High Command Army Group F) 20 October 43."

The next page, your Honor, page 70, I believe this is page 53 of the German document book, the same type TWX report, this time dated 1 November 1943. "Daily report from Wehrmacht Commander Southeast. SERBIA: Final report concerning combat actions in the area of Lebanic.

.." That is on the other page, your Honor. "...more than 150 enemy dead. - Bulgarian losses: 30 dead, 8 missing. - On the lower Drina River, Communist bands entrenching. Intentions: Reconnaissance thrust on West Drina bank. 42 DM reprisal shootings. 'Hammelbraten', 25 South of Cacak encountered strong DM band....

"(Signed) Wehrmacht Commander Southeast (High Command Army Group F)" This, your Honor, concludes Document 1420.

JUDGE CARTER: To whom are these last reports directed?

MR. RAPP: They were reports from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast, and at the same time Commander-in-Chief Heeresgruppe F to the OKW--OKH in this case, the High Command of the German Army.

Your Honors, if you turn now please to page 72, you will find NOKW-165 which is submitted as Exhibit 416. This is a letter of the Military Commander Southeast to the German Plenipotentiary General in Croatia pertaining to the recruitment of labor. It states:

22 October 1943, to:

German General Plenipotentiary in Croatia:

For purposes of provisioning the Army and the Luftwaffe, and for the General of the Transportation Corps, labor forces are to be recruited and in Croatia 3,000 workers. The recruiting is to be carried out with dispatch. On account of the working conditions (salary, provisioning of the workers with food, provisioning of the families, etc.) liaison is to be set up with the Chief Administrative Officer of the Military Commander, Southeast.

It is signed: Military Commander, Southeast Ia, No. 1156/43 Secret And it bears the initial "G" and is dated 23 October '43. At the bottom of this document, it says:

After transmissions, Chief Administrative Officer and Chief of Military Administration and To: OKW/WFST Qu. Branch.

The procuring of labor forces from Serbia is meeting considerable difficulties at the moment. Forceful measures were declined up to now by Minister Neubacher, since the new political order should not be disturbed. Neubacher informs us from Berlin that the Reich Foreign Minister would agree to the commitment of 12,000 Italian prisoners as workers in the Serbian area. It is requested that the approval of the Reich Commissioner for Labor Employment, Gauleiter Sauckel, and Reichsminister Speer be obtained.

.....To the Senior SS and Police Fuehrer for the information of:

809th Administrative Sub-area Headquarters German Liaison Staff with the 1st Royal Bulgarian Occupational Corps

1) As revenge for the surprise attack on the cattle purchasing detachment at Sljivar, by a DM and a Communist band, through which 8 German and Bulgarian Wehrmacht are Police members were killed, 8 German and Bulgarian Wehrmacht members were wounded, and 2 German military Police were missing, 100 DM prisoners and 300 Communist reprisal prisoners are to be shot under consideration of the reprisal measures which have already taken place, consisting of burning of houses and the losses which the bandits suffered in this operation.

2) As revenge for the surprise attack on the collecting detachment of the 8th Auxiliary Police Battalion on 6 Oct. '43 at Jelasnica by a DM band, during the course of which 3 auxiliary police men were killed, 8 were heavily wounded and 9 were slightly wounded, 100 DM reprisal prisoners are to be shot.

The Senior SS and Police Fuehrer is charged with carrying out the execution. It is to take place in the Zajecar district.

In the publication of the reprisal measures relating to 1) reference is to be made to the horrible treatment of the wounded who fell into the hands of the bandits and the mutilation of the corpses; in the proclamation concerning 2), it is to be expressed that the reprisal quota would have been considerably higher if the wounded had not been decently treated."

Then below, on page 75, and I think on defense counsel page 57:

..... To 809th Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters As revenge for the surprise attack on the cattle purchasing detachment at Sljivar 100 DM followers and 200 Communists were shot on 29 Oct.

'43 in Belgrade.

As revenge for the surprise attack on the collecting detachment of the 8th Auxiliary Police Battalion at Lelasnica 100 DM followers were shot on 29 Oct.

'43.

The reprisal measures are to be published in the Zajecar District. In the publication reference is to be made expressly to the horrible treatment of the wounded who fell into the hands of the bandits and the mutilation of the dead in Case 1.

An enclosure copy is to be sent here. Military Commander Southeast and then on Ia No. "Secret".Your Honors, turn now to page 77.

Defense counsel will find this on page 58. We find document NOKW-044. It is being offered as Prosecution Exhibit 418. This is a series of teletype messages in the form of daily reports by the Military Commander Southeast, addressed to various echelons above him and sometimes at the same level. This one is dated 24 December 1943. It was sent on the 23rd of December, 1943.

..... Serbia:...

40 farmers, among them women also, suspected of being Communists killed by Chetniks in a village 10 km Southeast of Obrenovac..... German Plenipotentiary General in Croatia:

German patrol in Zagreb arrested 60 suspects. 16 leading Communists hanged by Croatian authorities on the outskirts of the city of Zagreb as a reprisal measure for the blasting of an ammunition dump on 18 December.

.....

Copy of Teletype dated 1.12.43 - Daily Report, Military Commander Southeast.

Serbia:.....

27 Communist hostages shot in retaliation for the attack on the train Negotin-Nis (see daily report 27.10.).

.....

Next page, your Honor, is a copy of teletype dated 24.11.43.

"Daily report, Military Commander Southeast dated 24.11.43.

"Serbia:

Our losses: 25 dead, 120 wounded. Enemy losses unknown. Of 30 captured Italians and Communists, 13 were shot to death immediately. Chetniks stopped North Cacak passenger train and robbed the money transport of the Serbian State Guard. (6.5 millions dinar), German Wehrmacht was not molested."

Then a copy of teletype dated 18.11.43.

"Serbia:.....

During mopping up operations of combined German Serbian forces south of Zajecar 6 Communists and 180 men capable of bearing arms were arrested. The latter were delivered to Bor for compulsory labor... Counter intelligence reports mention the disintegration of the DM movement due to differences with England. Simultaneously conditions set by the DM for discussions with Germany are made known, which demand taking over the DM men into Nedic units."

Now, let's turn to next page 59 and 60 of German Document Book. It's again these daily reports from Felber dated 17.10.43.

"Serbia:

Slackening band activity. According to information from Ministerpresident Nedic offers come to him daily from DM officers who say they are prepared to enter his service. Near Trstenik DM leaflets urge the people to protect themselves against Allied air bombing.

"In retaliation for attacks on German customs and police patrol, 100 DM in the district of the F.K. 610 (Admin. Sub-area H.Q.) and in Belgrade 150 Communists hostages were shot to death."

Below that, we find a copy of a teletype sent 14.10 and it is again, a daily report.

"Serbia:

DM band burning down farms in West Cacak belonging to farmers who do not obey mobilization orders.

"During the mopping up operations on both sides of the railroad and the road Uzice-Mokra Gora slight contact with small bandit group. 1 single-barreled machine gun and 4 rifles captured. Number of arrested up to date 114 suspects. Bodies of 7 German military police and customs officials disinterred. In reprisal farms belonging to members of the band were burned down."

The next page, your Honor, page 80 and page 60 of the German, these daily reports from Felber. On 4 October he reports:

"Serbia:

1.) Communist attack (100) on agricultural institutes in Leskovac. Buildings burned, grain stolen, Bulgarians did not intervene.

2.) During operation in cooperation with Bulgarians and Germany military police of Uzice 1 DM bandit was shot to death, 26 were captured houses were burned down.

3.) 283 DM hostages and 42 Communists shot to death in Cacak on 1.10. in reprisal for a number of attacks in the area of the FK 610 (Administrative Sub-area Headquarters) during which German and Bulgarian members of the Wehrmacht were killed."

At the bottom, the report from the 29th of September:

"10 DM hostages shot to death in Jagodina for the murder of the district supervisor."

Your Honors, turn to page 81, 61 of the German Document Book. These reports continue. This one is dated 27.2.43. It's called a supplementary report:

"During relief operations for the Serbian Volunteer Corps Combat Group encircled in Kosjerici, Northeast of Uzice, 40 DM bandits were killed, and 250 houses burned down by Bulgarians.

"During the operation of the Bulgarian and German auxiliary police in connection with the attack on the reinforcement Kommando for Group Buerger, near Duga Poljana, 21 bandits dead, and their village Stavalj burned down."

At the bottom of the page, it says:

"42 anti-German persons taken hostages by the SD in several villages in the Banat."

The next page:

"Serbia:

10 DM hostages shot in Sabac."

Below and paragraph 7. Under 19 August:

"25 and 22 DM hostages shot to death in Uzice and Valjevo respectively, in retaliation for attacks on German customs border guard and Serbian State Guard officers.

"Greece:

Part of the Italians welcome new Republican Fascist Party. Officers remaining indifferent. Greek police in Piraeus armed with pistols in order to be able to oppose Communist terror groups."

Next page, your Honor, on the top, Felber still continues his daily reports:

"10 Communist hostages shot in Zajecar."

"5th/SS Mountain Jaeger Regiment 18, and units of the Italian militia regiment Po, 200 men strong, encircled by band (1000) between Delphi and Abrachova. Relief brought by units SS Panzer Grenadier 2, from Lamia."

And below:

"19 suspects arrested and 10 houses burned down by the Bulgarian Jagdkommando 18 during searching operations in connection with the plot on the main road Belgrade. - Nis, West Aleksinac, reported in the daily report dated 3.9. 20 Communists and 24 DM people shot to death, the latter by the Serbian Volunteer Corps, for sabotage on the railroad Knjazevac - Zajecar and the murder of a Serbian district supervisor."

The next page, dated September 4, page 63 and 64 of the German:

"Near Boljevac (30 West Southwest Zajecar a band 100 men strong burned records of the community and incited the population to revolt in the Rumanian language.

"Search for weapons by SD kommando East of Arandjelovac still under way.

Operation probably unsuccessful due to delayed arrival of Bulgarian battalion."

Below, and at that time the defendant Speidel was Military Commander in Greece:

"Greece:

"A new strike broke out in the tobacco industry. Arrest of 39 hostages without effect. Lockouts of the entire tobacco industry ordered. Because of ammunition found in Ampfissa and in Gravia 10 hostages each arrested. From munition dump construction office Tatoi 90 kilograms explosives taken. Several culprits participating in sabotage Kallithea arrested. 50 hostages kept under arrest until conclusion of the investigation."

The next page, your Honor, page 64 and 85:

"West Leskovac grain confiscation kommando attacked by Communist band (3000. Our Losses: 7 dead, 4 wounded. Cooperating Serbian State Guard had 3 dead, 2 wounded. Band is being pursued by Bulgarian and German police reinforcements. Shooting to death of 450 Communist suspects in the course of the operation starting tomorrow in this area have been ordered.

"According to report of the Danube Security Staff Rumanian and Czech deserters are forming bands on the Rumanian bank of the Danube.

Three Serbian couriers have been arrested by the Rumanian Frontier Guards.

"Croatia:

"70,000 Dalmatians interned in Italy are to be transferred to Croatia in the near future, but are not to be permitted to enter Italian occupied territory."

The next page, your Honor:

"Serbia:

"Royal Bulgarian Occupation Corps:

"SS Police Panzer Grenadier Regiment 1 and 2: During searching operation Northwest of Lajkovac by SS police Jagdkommando 21 suspects killed part while trying to escape, 1 DM officer arrested.

"During searching operation by Russian Protective Corps with auxiliary police, 2 Communists killed, 7 suspects arrested.

"Croatia:

"Increasing disquiet in the area of Zagreb. Within the city area also Communists notifications to report for military duty were delivered with the threat that unless they are obeyed members of the family will be killed and their possessions destroyed. The bands are prohibiting the bringing of foodstuffs into the city by the population of the area around Zagreb under penalty of death."

Let's turn to the next page, this one is date 18 December. It's a daily report, Commander in Chief Southeast. LXVIII Infantry Corps. Reports:

"As reprisal for blasting of bridge and murder of a German soldier in the area of Tripoli, band village destroyed, 30 Communists shot."

This 68th (LXVIII) Infantry Corps, at that time as you will notice on the chart, was not commanded by the defendant Felmy. Yes, it was commanded by the defendant Felmy. He, at that time, already had taken over. He took over the 6th of June 1943 until 10-44. He was there at that time.

The XXII Mountain Corps reports: (That was the defendant Lanz.)

"In reprisal for attack on truck North of Agrinion, reported yesterday 3 band villages destroyed. Telephone sabotage in the area North Preveza and North Philippia."

That is Commander in Chief Southeast, High Command Army Group F.

The next one is again a report of the corps, at that time commanded by the defendant Felmy, and a daily report from the Commander in Chief Southeast and it states:

"During the course of reprisal action in the area of Kalavrietha, 1 village and 2 monasteries destroyed. During local operations in the area of Levadaia by Polish Regiment 18 after contact with the enemy in Evangelistra, village burned down."

This "Polish" is obviously a mis-spelling and should be "Police Regiment 18" not "Polish Regiment 18", but "Police Regiment 18".

THE PRESIDENT: We will take our morning recess at this time.

(A recess was taken.)

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the courtroom will please find their seats.

The Tribunal is again in session.

MR. RAPP: If the Tribunal pleases, there may be a possibility that the Prosecution today, before recess this afternoon at 4:30 will get through with Document Book XVIII which will be offered as soon as we get through with Document Book XVII.

Therefore, we would like to ask the Court's permission to ask that the witness, Hans Felber, the former General Felber who was the Military Commander Southeast, be called, possibly already late this afternoon if we get to it, as a court witness.

Now, the purpose for calling him as a court witness is simply that Felber, if I am correct, I believe since about the 26th of April 1946 has been promised by the United States authorities to be extradicted to Yugoslavia. Of course, at that time the first case was still in trial and there was a possibility that Felber, in connection with the General Staff at that time, was to be called either as a witness for the prosecution or the defense and the extradition, with the agreement of the Yugoslavian Government, was postponed month after month.

When the first case was over, your Honors, the American Historical Division of the United States Army asked that General Felber be held for a longer time in custody of the American authorities for the purpose of exploiting him in that direction.

Felber, at one time toward the end of the war, commanded an army and they wanted to get their records straight. They are writing the history both of the German and American Army and they needed him for that.

Then this case right now was started in the preparatory state by the prosecution and we found out that Felber was a very important man and that he had a lot of information which we would like to get and we asked again the Yugoslavia government at that time through channels to please leave this man here for a few more weeks or a month.

Now, Felber was about through in April or May of this year and we were practically ready to go on with the case within a month of that time. For various reasons this case was postponed. Meanwhile we had received, both from the American ambassador Murphy's office in Berlin and also from General Clay's office, practically direct orders that now the time had come that Felber must be extradited to Yugoslavia, come what may, and this, of course, we were in no position to refuse inasmuch as the United States Government already had promised General Felber by now more than a year and a half ago.

We have not talked --- that is, the prosecution have not talked --to General Felber nor have we seen him --- nor any members of the prosecution, I believe, since about the very early days of May. This is August now.

Felber is going to be indicted in Yugoslavia and we have seen some of the charges Jugoslavs propose to bring against him. It is for that reason, your Honors, that we suggest to you to approve that Felber be called as a court witness rather than as a prosecution witness because as a prosecution witness he may have to testify to matters which may incriminate himself later on at his trial before a Yugoslavian tribunal.

Now, before the military tribunals in Nurnberg we had a similar precedent case. In the medical case, Judge Beals presiding, there was a witness by the name of Walter Neff who was also called as a court witness in lieu of a prosecution witness because the prosecutor McHaney at that time felt that Neff possibly would be tried at a trial in Dachau and therefore, he may like to refuse to answer questions which may possibly incriminate him in relation to his trial later on. It is for these reasons, your Honors --- and we also don't know (I may mention this parenthetically now) -- what after so many months Felber may testify to at this time, knowing very well that he is going to be extradited to Yugoslavia --- that we would like to ask your permission to call Felber as a court witness, possibly late this afternoon if we get to it; that is, that the Court will call Felber as a court witness and so instruct him as to his rights on account of his possible trial before a Jugoslav tribunal.

DR. LATERNER: Your Honors, at the moment I would like to object to the following, and that is that the witness, Felber, should be called as early as this afternoon. In this particular case I have to refer to the following fact in particular, that the 24-hour notice before a witness is to be called will have to be maintained because the defense will have to prepare a possible cross-examination. For this reason alone it will not be possible to summon the witness this afternoon. That is to begin with.

I further object against, -- that the prosecution moves this witness is to be heard as a court witness for the following reasons: Alone for the motion of the prosecution -- the motion of the prosecution that this witness, -- that it wants to examine this witness, --- that shows that the prosecution needs the witness.

A further principle is, as to my knowledge of the Anglo-American proceedings, that the one who asserts something has to prove it. If, therefore, the prosecution is interested in this witness, --then it has to call him. After all, your Honor, that court witnesses are called in cases when the court is of the opinion that a certain item is still doubtful.

The prosecution at the moment is presenting its case in chief, and if there is anything doubtful here, then the defense will endeavor to clarify it. Only at a later stage of the proceedings will, therefore, be the possibility that the court itself calls a witness. The prerequisites, therefore, that a court witness at this stage of the proceedings is called, are not given here.

I rather assume that the prosecution believes that there is a certain risk connected with this witness; that risk will have to be borne by the prosecution, and that is by the prosecution themselves, if they think they need the testimony of this witness.

The danger which was indicated by the prosecution earlier, that the witness may incriminate himself, in view of his own pending trial is also there, when the court calls the witness and examines the witness, and when the prosecution and the defense subsequently have the right to cross examine the witness.

The witness in that case would have to have pointed out his rights by those parties who call him. You have to tell him that he can refuse to answer questions which incriminate himself.

I summarize. According to the rules of the Anglo American proceedings at this stage of the proceedings, there is no legal possibility to call a court witness, since only after the prosecution has ended its case in chief, and the defense has also endeavored to clarify certain points, -- if then doubtful points have remained, at that stage only, according to my knowledge of the rules of proceedings, the possibility exists that the court itself calls a witness.

Your Honor, alone from the motion of the prosecution, the Court should call a certain witness, you can see that the prosecution wants to prove something with this witness. Therefore, this witness is a prosecution witness, and the prosecution has to decide whether they want to call him as a witness or not.

I object, therefore, against the motion of the prosecution that this witness be called as a court witness.

MR. DENNEY: May it please your Honors, the notice was sent on 4 August, and I believe today is the 7th, so 72 hours have elapsed. It is out of our hands, and we delivered to the Secretary General to the effect that Felber would be called as a witness. With reference to Dr. Laternser's statement that there is no precedent for this, I appreciate his dissertation on Anglo-American law. However, I refer him to the case of the United States vs. Karl Brandt, et al, before Military Tribunal I of these Tribunals, transcript for the 16 of December 1946, pages 493 and 494, where Mr. McHaney made his application for the witness, and the transcript in the same court for the following day, December 17. Judge Sebring, speaking for the Tribunal pages 546-547, made his ruling.

At that time they were at approximately page 600 in the record, to be specific, 595, - in the government's case, when the witness Walter Neff, testified pursuant to the court's ruling. As Mr. Rapp has pointed out, we have not talked to Felber for several months. He is going to be extradited, and we feel that his testimony is informative. He was Military Commander Southeast, and Military Commander Serbia from August of 1943 to October of 1944. He was the immediate superior for whom the defendant, Geitner, was chief-of-staff during that period.

We frankly do not know what he is going to say, and we are asking the court to bring him in as their witness so that we can proceed to lead him, and if necessary, impeach him, and the same rights are available to defense counsel.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Mr. Denney, I take it that you are standing here as the prosecutor and it is dependent upon the prosecution to make its own case, and not for the court. The court stands here as an impartial Tribunal.

MR. DENNEY: We appreciate that, your Honor, and we are just making a suggestion in view of the precedent which we have, and perhaps your Honors would like to consider it. It does not have to be decided now.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: After Dr. Laternser, if he wants to, makes a brief statement, the Court will reserve the ruling until one-thirty. However, I do not wish to shut you off, Mr. Denney.

MR. DENNEY: I appreciate it, your Honor.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: If you have anything further to say, we will entertain it.

MR. DENNEY: The reason, in addition, that the witness is sought to be called at this time is the fact that as Mr. Rapp pointed out, it has been quite some time since that order of extradition has not been complied with, and in view of the fact that he is here, it is submitted that we now have him, and when he does leave there may be some difficulty in getting him back.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: It also ought to be kept in mind that when he comes into court he becomes under the jurisdiction of the court.

MR. DENNEY: Oh, yes, your Honor. We are not in any way questioning the Court's jurisdiction.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Regardless of what department the United States says they want him, if we have any authority at all, he is under the control and jurisdiction of the Tribunal.

MR. DENNEY: Yes, your Honor.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Subject to such orders as we may make, I think, and when he shall be released.

MR. DENNEY: Yes, Your Honor, we are quite in agreement with that.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Do you have anything further?

MR. DENNEY: No, your Honor.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Dr. Laternser, do you have anything further to say?

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, to begin with, to the point that the prosecution intends to hear the witness as early as this afternoon, the prosecution has just announced that already 72 hours ago, the Secretary General was notified that the witness was to be called as such. I state that the defense has not been informed of this fact as yet, and according to the rules for these proceedings, it is a prerequisite that the evidence is to be announced 24 hours in advance. In the case of this witness this has not been done, and for this reason alone the interrogation of the witness this afternoon cannot be had.

To the motion itself, I would like to say the following. The prosecution maintains that lately, during recent months, they have not talked to the witness I knew however that they at least during the course of the month of February, talked to him, and that at several times he was interrogated by the prosecution.

The witness is, as I may assume, because of the request by the prosecution here, and this fact cannot be cited as reason that he now should be called as a court witness; the prosecution has every possibility to call him any time; this fact cannot be cited that because he just happens to be here now, that now the court should call him.

Also the assertion of the prosecution that they do not know what the witness is going to testify to does not apply, for the prosecution from earlier interrogations knows clearly the attitude of the witness.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: The ruling will be reserved until onethirty this afternoon.

MR. RAPP: If Your Honors will recall, the last document we discussed was NOKW-044, Prosecution Exhibit 418, and I believe we stopped on page 88 which was read into the record. It was on pages 66 and 67 respectively, of the German document book.

Your Honors, this is a report of the area Commander-in-Chief Southeast, -- I believe it should be, "Army Commander Southeast", and the first report is about Army Group E.

This report is dated December, '43, and at first refers to the 67th Infantry Corps. I would just like to check in the original document, with your permission, your Honors, whether or not this is not a misspelling. I would like to take a look at the original document.

MR. RAPP: If Your Honors permit, we will refer to this document in just a few minutes after the defense counsel for the Defendant Felmy has convinced himself whether or not this should actually be the 67th Infantry Corps or not; and we will come back to this page in a minute and read it into the record. If Your Honors will turn now please to Page 90, there we have the 22nd Infantry Corps, under the 9th of December 1943. This particular Corps was commanded, at that time, by the Defendant Lanz, and it says: "As reprisal measure for cable sabotage Sarande-Korfu a few hostages were shot." And it was signed "Commander in Chief Southeast," the Defendant Weichs, "High Command Army Group F." The next page, Your Honor, Page 91, is a Daily Report, Army Commander in Chief Southeast, dated the 8th of December 1943. Pertaining to Army Group E, 68th Corps, and it states: "As reprisal for hand attack Southeast of Gythion 25 hostages shot." And if Your Honors turn to the next page, Page 92, we have again the 68th Corps, reporting under the 7 of December: "Reprisal measures for attack on railroad base Southeast of Tripole 50 hostages hanged." If Your Honors please, we can now go back to Page 89. Defense counsel just informed us that this actually should be the 68th Corps. So, if Your Honors and also the German Document Book, the Roman numeral LXVIIth Infantry Corps to read Roman numeral LXVIIIth Infantry Corps, which, at that time, was commanded by the Defendant Felmy.

THE PRESIDENT: May I inquire of the German counsel as to whether the change of this, from the 67th to the 68th corps, meets with his permission and whether he consents to it.

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW: Dr. Mueller-Torgow for the Defendant Felmy. Your Honor, this document contains obviously a typographical error. Instead of 67th Corps it should read 68th Corps. I, therefore, agree with an alteration to the effect.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

MR RAPP: On the same page, Page 92, Your Honor, we find again the 68th Infantry Corps, saying, "In Aighion 50 hostages shot to death.

O.F.K. 395 (Admin. Area HQ) klissura-Pass (20 West Ptolomaeis) operation against bands under way." and then a "Copy of Teletype Commander Chief Southeast dated 1.12.43." On the next page, Your Honor, Page 93, and Pages 68 and 69 of the German defense counsel's Document Book, we find "Area Commander in Chief Southeast." It should be "Army Commander in Chief Southeast."

"Area Army Group E:

Assault Division Rhodos:

Reconnaissance at Nisiro and Poskop without special developments. Reconnaissance Nisiro reports that on 23 November an English assault detachment on Nisiro blasted an H'glider carrying freight for Rhodos and that it forced another glider with some Italians to leave the port for Turkey.

XXII/ Mountain Corps.

During reprisal operation against bands in the area of Korea 1 village taken with some resistance. All men capable of bearing arms shot to death. Village destroyed."

That Corps, at that time was commanded by the Defendant Lanz. On the next page, Your Honors, we have the former Felmy Corps stating, "As reprisal for band attack Road Tripole-- Sparta 100 hostages shot at the place of the crime. During search of Corinth numerous hostages arrested. Arms and propaganda material secured." It was the 68th Infantry Corps. "Serbia: Railway bridge area Zajezar .. Knjazevac damaged by Communists and a number of residents of Nationalist views murdered. Commander in Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group F)." This dated 4.11.43. If Your Honors turn to your next page, we have Area Commander in Chief Southeast; the Assault Division Rhodes reports: Four armed Italians arrested and shot to death. Combat Group Simi returned without losses to Rhodes leaving small security forces behind. Commander in Chief Southeast." And this particular message does not mean to bear a date. Below, however, it states "Excerpt from Daily Report, Commander in Chief Southeast, dated 20.10.1943. Army Commander in Chief Southeast: Army Group E: F.K. 395."

And it says on the next page, "Final report Ossa operation. Enemy losses: 205 prisoners, 37 dead, 42 wounded, 13 dumps of varying sizes containing ammunition, rations and clothing captured or destroyed. 3 villages (among the Spelia) razed to the ground. Our losses: 2 dead, 3 wounded," Below, "Italian prisoners shot in the Ossa mountains. Operation continued. Near Trikkala Greek paymaster with voluminous records pertaining to band organization arrested. In reprisal for attack on Engineer Company several properties near Elassen were destroyed." The next page, Your Honors, Page 97; that's Pages 70 and 71 of defense counsel's book, Under the 15th of October we find "Army Commander in Chief Southeast: Ossa operation with local enemy resistance according to plan. Italian participation proved. More band camps destroyed at Spelia. The village of Pirgetes destroyed. 24 band suspect arrested at Trikkala." And below, the 68th Infantry Corps reports, "The Prefect of Kalamta murdered. State of emergency declared. 50 hostages arrested." On the next page, Administrative Area Headquarters 395: "Band center Spelia (Ossa Mountains) taken by combat lasting several hours. Village destroyed... In reprisal for attacks made lately in the area of Larissa, 2 villages burned down. 65 suspects shot while trying to escape." Under Roman paragraph 11, under the 25th of November 1947, it is reported, Army Group E, the 68th Infantry Corps, Felmy reports: "In reprisal for band attack on Aighion 20 Communists shot to death. Serbia: Lebane said to be threatened by 2,000 Communists." On the next page, Your Honors, Page 99, under the date of the 10th of October; the date is recorded at the bottom of Page 98. We find a report from Serbia, saying, "In Cacak on 1/10. 283 DM hostages and 43 Communists shot in reprisal for attacks which cost the lives of members of the German and Bulgarian Wehrmacht. Commander in Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group F)." Then, below, we find a teletype message dated the 5th of September, still on the same page, "Serbia: In reprisal 20 Communists and 24 DM people shot. In the area of Arandelovac attack on grain confiscation kommando." Next page, Your Honor, "Copy of teletype dated 3.9.43." That's Page 100. It days was at the bottom, "Reprisal measures area Northwest of Sarajevo: 124 arrested, secured 700 head of cattle."

The next page, Page 101, and in the German it is Page 73 I believe, there's a Daily Report, Commander in Chief Southeast, Army Group F, 2.9.1943., handwritten (it says on there), "To 2nd Panzer Army, Area Second Panzer Army", and then, under "b" it states: "Serbia Bands forming of Rumanian and Czech deserters on the Rumanian bank of the Danube. 450 Communist suspects ordered to be shot to death in the course of operation on the area of Leskovac starting on 3.9." Then, "Copy of Teletype, Commander Southeast, dated 22.11.43," Page 102, "Serbia: According to Serbian sources no signs of DM and circles close to him breaking with the allies are recognizable. The continuous attacks on German Wehrmacht automobiles on the main road Northwest of Kragujevac are carried out by Chetnik bands which wish to force the release of band members captured by the Serbian Volunteer Corps. These will be hanged on the spot in the course of reprisal measures." Below this, under the 31st of October, we find "Daily Report, Commander in Chief Southeast, dated 31.10.43, Serbia : In Belgrade circles a rumor is being spread according to which Stalin has demanded from officers that the Yugoslav Government in Cairo depose DM and deliver him over to Tito. DM is to be convicted as a war criminal. In Belgrade 3 arrest by the SD, 2 of them activity in the DM communications staff." And on the other page, Page 103 in the English, which is the last page of this particular document, it says, "42 DM hostages shot to death in reprisal for attack on Bulgarian patrol." This, Your Honors, concludes Document No. NOKW-044.

The next document will be NOKW-1438 to be submitted as prosecution Exhibit 419, Your Honors. You will find this document on page 104 and German defense counsel will find this on page 75. This is a directive from the OKW for the higher SS and Police Leader in Greece.

"Commander-in-Chief Southeast High Command Army Group F Group 1c/AO Counter Intelligence 111 (stamp DRAFT SECRET Local Headquarters 11 Oct 1943 (handwritten) Diary SUBJECT:

Standard order of procedure for the Senior SS and Police Leader in Greece.

To the Chief, Field Police Enclosed please find standard order of procedure for information and for your files.

For Commander-in-Chief Southeast High Command Army Group F Chief of General Staff per Lt. Colonel."

At that time the Chief of General Staff was, of course, the defendant Foertsch. And on page 105, we find now the procedure and it says:

"1. By agreement with the Chief of OKW, the Reich Fuehrer SS, and Chief of the German Police appoints a Senior SS and Police Leader for the Area of Military Commander Greece.

"2. The Senior SS and Police Leader is an office of the Reich Fuehrer SS and the Chief of the German Police, which is subordinate to Military Commander Greece for the period of its employment in Greece.

"3. In the area of the Military Commander Greece, the Senior SS and Police Leader embraces all duties which are incumbent on the Reich Fuehrer SS and Chief of German police in the Reich.

He has authority to direct and supervise the Greek authorities and police forces within the sphere of these duties.

4. The primary duty of the Senior SS and Police Leader is the command of the SS and Police units (excluding Waffen SS units subordinated to Army Group E) in their combat against bands of sabotage, pursuant to the general directives of the Reich Fuehrer SS. For this purpose, definite combat areas under their own responsibility are to be assigned to the by the Military Commander.

The Military Commander regulates command authority and assignment of forces in the event of combat missions outside of regularly assigned combat areas.

5. In all affairs concerning police matters and service matters, Senior SS and Police Leader is the superior authority of the SS and Police Forces employed in Greece.

The military commander is authorized to employ units of the Ordnungs Police only if the fulfillment of the tasks set to the Senior SS and Police Leader by Reich Fuehrer SS permits it."

"6 The Military Commander is authorized to issue directives to the Senior SS and Police Leader which are necessary to avoid interference with Wehrmacht operations and duties. They take precedence over any other directives.

7 The Senior SS and Police Leader will receive policies and directives for the execution to these duties from the Reich Fuehrer SS and Chief of German Police. He will carry then out/ concurrently and opportunely, informing the Military Commander Greece in as far as he does not receive any restricting directives from the letter.

The Military Commander is to be informed in good time concerning reports submitted by the Senior SS and Police Leader to Reich Fuehrer SS and Chief of the German Police.

This, your Honor, concludes Document 1438.

The next document to be offered is NOKW-171. You will find this on page 108. It is being submitted as prosecution Exhibit 420. This is a letter from the Military Commander Southeast to the Military Commander Greece, the defendant Speidel, pertaining to the immediate recruitment of 2200 workers for the Air Corps. It says: "To Military Commander Greece, secret, priority, and it is 22 October, 1943."

"For the purposes of provisioning of the army, the air corps, and for the General of Transport Affairs, manpower is to be recruited and to the amount of 2200 workers in Greece. The recruiting is to be carried out with dispatch. With regard to working conditions (salary, provisions of workers with groceries, provisioning of families and other means) liaison is to be assumed with the Chief Administrator, with the military commander Southeast."

This is signed Military Commander Southeast Ia, No.1157/43.

If your Honors turn to the next document on page 109, it is being offered as Exhibit No. 421. I am referring to NOKW-163. Defense counsel will find this on page 79. This is a report from the Military Commander Southeast to the Army Group F and it is for information to the High Command of the German Army, to the High of the German Armed Forces, to the 2nd Panzer Army and to the German General Plenipotentiary in Croatia. It is a daily report of December 3, 1943. It states:

"Military Commander Greece: Nineteen Communist reprisal prisoners shot as revenge for the murder and wounding of Greek police, by the Senior SS and Police Fuehrer in Athens."

Can the translator find this or not? This should be on page 79 of the German document book. Do you have it now? I will repeat this document for the record, if your Honors permit.

The next document, your Honor, is Document 692. You will find this on page 110 in your document book. Defense counsel page 80. It is being submitted as prosecution Exhibit No. 422. It is a situation report from the Military Commander in Greece to the Military Commander Southeast. Felber and pertains about the activities against Jews, labor recruitments, and other pertinent data.

Dated 19.11.43 and the report itself is dated March 18, 1944. At that time the defendant Speidel was still Military Commander Greece.

"1. Political Situation. As a consequence of a further worsening of the food and economic situation, an increase of the discontent of the population and consequently of Communist influence, particularly in the cities. The communists felt themselves strong enough at the beginning of March to evoke a strike movement on Piraeuw, Severe penal measures forced resumption of work but will not be able to stop renewed strikes which are to be expected, only economic betterment of the worker can be of real help.

Alliances of the Communist groups have make progress (acknowledgment of EAM of Communism) but also those of the anti-Communist front (swing to the National Socialist, EEE movement). While a large part of the population is against Communism, it keeps in the background because of fear of Communist punishment.

The tendency situation (The attitude of Bulgaria and Turkey). On the Peloponnesus the Communist influence is increasing despite all military measures.

II. Enemy situation:

a) Band activity and insurgent movement With the coming of the warmer weather band activity has increased.

Bandits released during the winter seen to return to their original units. Our own operations showed good successes. From the Peloponnesus: Report of the first "appearance of Russian bandit officers.

The union of EAM and EDNS seems to have been accomplished due to Angle American pressure. Allegedly the following agreements were made:

1. Closest cooperation the fight against common enemy.
2. Direct assistance in case of an Allied landing in Greece.
3. Release of all prisoners of war and hostages held by the contracting parties.

The unified troops are to call themselves "National Greek Army" (Formation of a General Staff).

In the main territories of the bands, particularly on the Peloponnesus, formations of "Council Organizations" with their own administration and jurisdiction."

The Air situation: is not too important to read into the record. Then we come under D.

"d. Labor employment:

Tendency to strikes and partial strikes at the railroad and several plants at the beginning of March were suppressed by energetic military measures: 50 Communists were shot immediately, while other who were arrested are awaiting their sentence. Unconditional resumption of work followed short strikes. Since the beginning of the year 4 worker transports went to the Reich from Athens and Saloniki. The first 3 comprised 1628 persons (of which 183 were returning from leave) the fourth, 645 persons (of which 61 were returning from leave).""IX.

Propaganda Situation:" You will find this under Roman 1C on page 12 your Honors. And then the document continues:

Enemy Propagando There was another attempt to undermine the morale of the Wehrmacht by the use of leaflets with an illustrated description of the terror damages at home.

A new publication was the camouflaged "Deutschen Nachrichten" from Desdon. Active enemy propaganda which was directed against the occupying powers and against the Greek Government. News from the radio broadcasting station Cairo was sold to the population in form of leaflets. A newly coined slogan "5 minutes to 12". Communist propagando unchanged, appeals primarily to youth.

Own Propagando Up to now the challenge to desert, by radio and press, by posters and leaflets as well as by whispering propagando has resulted in only minor successes due to fear of reprisal measures on the part of the Communists.

The turning over of classes 06 and younger fit for frontline duty has been accomplished. Scruting by Special Staff without objections. The replacement situation will be improved by the withdrawals of classes 05 and older from the combat troops.

For the Military Commander Greece Chief of the General Staff (signed) illegible signature

THE PRESIDENT: May I interrupt? Before our non adjournment. I think I should call your attention to the fact that at my request the Deputy Secretary General has made inquiry as to the notification to the defense of the intention to use the witness referred to earlier in these proceedings, and I am informed that this notice is not in the defense center. It is not in the Secretary General's office and is not on the Secretary General's message center.

I think that ought to be called to somebody attention so that it may be checked.

MR. DENNEY: I have made a check, your Honor, I inquired and was told that it was sent up on the 4th. We will try to find what happened to it. In any event, we are getting another one ready to serve and certainly defense counsel know now that we plan to call him.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will be in recess until one-thirty this afternoon.

(A recess was taken until 1330 hours.)

AFTERNOON SESSION The hearing reconvened at 1330 hours.

THE MARSHALL: The persons in the court room will be seated.

The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: Before we commence the presentation of evidence the Tribunal wishes to rule on some matters which have been heretofore presented and this Tribunal feels should receive its attention at this time. Earlier in these proceedings there was presented to the Tribunal an objection as to the placing of two of the defendants in one cell. A communication was addressed to proper officials in charge of the prison and also connected with the administration of the courts here and in the course of time the Tribunal has received an answer to this communication. I shall read only a portion of this communication and am doing so for the purposes of the record. It is signed by A.J. Regnier, Colonel, Infantry, Deputy Post Commander, who is named as one of the commissioners as I understand it, to make the investigation. His report is as follows:

Headquarters, Nurnberg Military Post APO 696, U.S. Army, August 4, 1947.

To: Secretary-General Office of Chief of Counsel War Crimes APO 696, U.S. Army, (Attention, Col. Ray) "1. Report on complaints made by defendants, Case No. VII, and I. G. Farben, relative to the restrictions as follows:

"A. It is not the intention of the prison officer, Nurnberg Prison, to put more than one prisoner in a cell unless the prisoner expresses a desire to do so. It has, however, become necessary, as a temporary measure, during the renovation of the Prison, to put two (2) prisoners in the same cell. However, as soon as the painting project is completed prisoners will occupy a single cell insofar as is possible. There is no basis of fact for the report made by prisoners that they are being put together in cells in order to avoid suicide attempt."

There are other subsections of this letter but subsection A is the only one that applies to the complaint and motion which was presented in the early days of the submission of this case.

I might further state that members of the Tribunal have made a personal inspection of the jail and we find that it is kept in a clean manner and that the cells are clean and that the lighting, of which complaint is made, is quite satisfactory. We are also informed that there is no intention of putting more than one prisoner, that is now a part of this case here, and who is on trial here, with another prisoner, and for that reason the complaint, as to there being two defendants in one cell, is, as far as we are informed, without merit. This report having been made and from our own personal inspection we find no basis for the complaint which was originally presented to the Tribunal. However, if, on any later occasion any matters in connection with the administration of the prison which defendants or their counsel feel should be presented to the Tribunal, this Tribunal will be receptive to hearing any objections or complaints which counsel or defendants feel should be brought to the attention of the Tribunal. That is all as to that matter.

In connection with the motion which was presented this morning asking that the Tribunal call the witness Felben as a court witness, the motion will be over-ruled. As was intimated in comments made by the Presiding Judge this morning, this Tribunal feels that it sits here as an arbiter; that it does not represent either the Prosecution or the Defense, and that for us to call a witness, as our witness, would put us in a position of being somewhat in the nature of a prosecutor. That is not our position; that is not our status and we feel that for us to do so would not be in keeping with the interests of justice. The duty of presenting the prosecution and presenting of evidence which it may, will or will not sustain in its accusations of the prosecution is upon the prosecution and not upon the court. For that reason the motion to call this witness as a court's witness will be over-ruled. If the prosecution is of the opinion that his testimony is of material value to their case it is naturally to be expected they will be produced in court.

There has been some comment made, if the court were to call this witness as a court's witness, then under those circumstances the Prosecution might cross-examine, if he was not a co-operative witness. That is a matter for the prosecution to meet when that situation is presented and under certain rules and procedure there is a manner in which that can be handled. That disposes of the application as presented this morning. Anything further, Mr. Denney?

MR. DENNEY: If your Honors please, in view of your Honors' decision, we will produce the witness Felber and have him take the stand and with reference to the statement I made this morning about the notice to the defense counsel, I should like to apologize for any inference that may have been drawn therefrom with reference to the office of Secretary General, or the Defense Information Center. I have been informed that the notice had been sent on 4 August and I believed the source of my information, unfortunately, it was an error. However, the fault is mine and any burden to be born is mine and mine alone and not shared with anyone else in the prosecution staff.

THE PRESIDENT: I don't feel that there is any necessity for any apology Mr. Denney. We all make mistakes and there are errors and omissions in every one's office and under the circumstances we will consider it as one of those things that happen and let it go at that.

MR. DENNEY: Thank you, your Honor. In view of the fact that this new notice with reference to the witness Felber may be going awry as the result of our fault, I should like to advise the defense counsel now that we expect to produce him as a witness. It is now 1:44. No, Dr. Latenser, we are not going to sit tomorrow. It will probably be Monday or later.

MR. RAPP: If your Honor, please, prior to the recess we concluded page 112 in the English Document Book and I believe page 83 and 84 in the German Document Book. At that time we were concerned with document NOKW 692, which was submitted as Prosecution Exhibit No. 422. Your Honor, this is still the Situation Report of the Military Commander in Greece, the defendant Speidel, to the Military Commander Southeast, this man Felber, and we have already read part of this into the record, and I shall continue now:

"Situation Report for the period from 1. to 31.

12.43 General Situation:

The situation is basically unchanged. Further development will be strongly influenced by the economic and food situation. Since this situation continually worsens it decreases the popular standard of living which is low per se. The majority of the population wants quiet. The attitude is wavering and divided due to fear of band terror and of German retaliation. The advance of the Communist movement promotes unification of the anti-Communist elements, which, however, is still in its inception. Excesses of the members of the Wehrmacht against the population (crime against property as a consequence of insufficient pay in Drachma) disturb the generally correct relationship of the population to the occupying power. Varied estimates of the war situation and of the costume of the way also influence the morale and attitude of the Greek people."

Then we have again the Air Situation, in which we are not much interested here, and in paragraph Roman Numeral II, b, it talks about Enemy Propaganda:

"Leaflets were dropped particularly in larger cities. As usual the propaganda aimed at soldiers, is trying to divide leadership and men. A new angle is to ascribe to us the guilt of the air war. The well known "Soldatennachrichten der R.A.F. und U.S.A.F. is trying to have a demoralizing effect. For the first time a booby detonator was found with the inscription:

'Protective powder against poison gas watch your eyes.'" Then the Tactical Situation is described, and it says:

"Guarding of supply installations of Army Group E was stopped, except for the 10th Company, the III/Police Mountain Regiment."

Then the Italian Militia Training Battalions is something we are not interested in. We will now try to read about the Evzones (Greek Guard):

"They have continued to prove themselves during raids against Communists in Athens. The organization of a Evzones Regiment in Athens with three Battalions and that of 1 Regiment in Patras with 2 Battalions is under way."

And here we have the Edes, Company Euboa:

"As a trial 100 Edes followers (Nationalist Band) were armed in return for the furnishing of hostages, and under the leadership of the perfect general Liakos were committed from Chalkis. As yet only minor successes against Communists."

And now, on the next page, 115, it describes the Missions for the ensuing period; and it says:

"Mopping up operation in the area of Bootia by police troops, raids in Athens against Communists by the Evzone Regiment."

Then it says:

"a. General:

Unrest in the ensuing period is hardly to be expected since there is a fear of sharp counter measures. Shootings at night in Athens Piraus result from the fights of the Evzones against the Communists. The reorganization of the Greek gendarmerie and police by the Senior SS and Police Leader has a favorable effect. Only the Peloponnesus is a constant focal point of unrest as far as it is not occupied by us.

b. Attacks, acts of sabotage and fires.

Numerous effective blastings of bridges and roads and attacks on the Peloponnese.

In the area of the remaining Administrative Subarea Headquarters less important attacks and sabotage.

c. Counter-measures In December on the Peloponnese 758 people were shot to death, including reprisal operation "Kalavrita."

In the remaining areas hostages were seized and a lesser number of executions has taken place.

d. Communist propaganda Primarily by carrying a whispering propaganda and by distribution of inciting pamphlets.

The bad economic situation is in its favor. Writing on houses in Athens Piraeus has lessened.

XIII. Summary: The further development of the political situation will necessarily be influenced by the economic situation to a great extent. The increasing economic misery will make the majority of the population, suffering from it, more receptive to the whispers of the Communists who make the occupying power responsible for it and will cause them to join the bands. Economic relief on the other hand would contribute to a political pacification and to a better relationship with Germany. The focal point of the development consequently, lies at this time less in the military than in the economic sectors. The damaging consequences of insufficient pay in Drachma, as regards discipline and attitude of the German Soldier have been referred to several times. Increased penalties will not remove these critical signs.

Larger scale operations of the bands are hardly to be expected during the winter months.

The fulfillment of the tasks with which the military Commander has been charged suffers from lack of subordinate units. The tasks cannot be fulfilled with the only available single security battalion. An assignment of three to four security battalions becomes of utmost urgency" And it has some illegible initials, and is signed:

"Speidel" And then another signature which is not quite legible.

"Distribution Military Commander Southeast For information:

High Command Army Group E On the premises:

Ia/War Diary Ia (draft)" On the next page, Your Honor, this same document continues, and the Military Commander Greece, the Chief of the Military Administration, writes another letter to the Military Commander Southeast, Belgrade, Subject:

"Situation Report of Military Administration for Nov. 1943." I believe this copy here is '45. If Your Honors permit I would like to show this document to the defense for defendant Speidel for his possible concurrence in any comment he may wish to make. On the original document I believe there is a mistake in translation.

THE PRESIDENT: You may show it to counsel.

DR. WEISGERBER: Weisgerber for Speidel. Your Honor, I have convinced myself that it is the year 1943 while looking at the original document.

THE PRESIDENT: The correction may be made upon the Tribunal's Document Book.

MR. RAPP: Very well, Your Honor. We would like this changed.

THE PRESIDENT: Counsel consents to the correction.

MR. RAPP: That is correct.

THE PRESIDENT: I mean the defense counsel.

DR. WEISGERBER: I do, Your Honor.

MR. RAPP: This document is dated 12/12/43, received 22.13.43, to Military Commander Southeast. Under the heading "Received 22.13.43," there is no month, I believe, or year, which has a 13th month. This as another typographical error. It obviously should be December 1943. Did Your Honors follow me on this comment?

THE PRESIDENT: Where is the last reference?

MR. RAPP: The last reference, Your Honor, is on page 117. It states in the left upper corner "received 22.13.43," and the "13" should obviously be "12," instead of "13."

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

MR RAPP:

"Subject: Situation report of Military Administration for Nov. 1943 Reference:

Military Commander Southeast of 19.11.43., Ia, No. 1723/43 Secret.

I. General Political Situation:

As before the morale of the Greek population is influenced primarily by the extremely difficult economic situation as expressed in the continuing deterioration of currency and in connection with that in a further aggravation of the social situation. The lifting of restrictions on the sale of food-stuffs, as effected by the Special Plenipotentiary of the Foreign Office for the Southeast has however caused food supplies held back by speculators to reappear in the market. However, this "Policy of a free market" has had as little effect on the prices of food-stuffs as has the Gold subsidiary measures started at great expense by the Special Plenipotentiary.

The constant increase of prices with which wages and salaries could not keep pace forms the best breeding ground for the activity and the propaganda of the Communist Party of Greece which consciously attempts to seize the power of the State. The Communist Bands, compared with which the National Band Movement loses more and more significance, rule large areas of the country, above all the Peloponnesus, and with their terror measures (kidnapping, blackmail and murder of pro-German antiBolshevic-Greeks) they exert pressure on the population.

In the Bourgeois circles, the recognition of the peril which Communism threatens, is beginning to penetrate at the same rate at which hope for early support by the Allies has receded. . . .

d. Other police sectors:

After the taking over of the territories formerly occupied by Italy the societies in this part of Greece also had to be put under supervision. An order was issued for seizure of the existing societies and organizations."

Then the hunting and fishing, I don't think we will read at this time and we go now to where it says:

"The Jewish Problem:

The higher SS & Police Leader has issued a directive dated 3-10-43 by virtue of which all Jews in Athens had to report to the Jewish Community and in other cities and rural communities to the town-halls or to the community offices. Since a large part of the Jews did not report - in Athens for instance only 1200 out of 8000 were listed the Military Commander, in agreement with the Special Plenipotentiary of the Foreign Office for the Southeast has confiscated their fortune by an order and has transferred it to the Greek State to be administered.

Schools:

At this time by far the larger part of the schools are closed since they are required as billets for the troops. However, attempts are made to release at least one school for use in each larger locality.

The Solonika University is fully in operation. The technical institute of Athens also has been reopened meanwhile..... Frequently the necessary labor can be put at the disposal of the Wehrmacht only by threat and by execution of compulsory measures. At various times Mayors who were charged with the procurement of labor forces had to promise the laborers considerable amounts, in addition to German wages and they sometimes had to pay them also. A certain relief in the difficulties arising from wage policies has been achieved by temporarily using Italian labor (unpaid).

For the Military Commander Greece, The Chief of the Military Administration:

Chief Military Administration Distribution:

"b. Attacks, Acts of Sabotage and Fires Athens:

On 6 and 19.11 attacks near Marathon, losses 1 dead.

Lamica: 3 confidential agents (Greeks) of the Secret Field Police kidnapped, 1 worker in Lianokladi kidnapped and released on 19.11 after having been held for 6 days.

Mining of the railroad track near Grawia with 5 points of detonation.

"Larissia: Several detonators were attached (?) to freight cars with minor damage.

"Peloponnes: Numerous attacks on German Soldiers with larger personnel and material losses.

"Nessolonghion: Minor telephone sabotage. A road blasted for 100 motors in Southeast Agrinion. Greek Police Official murdered by Communists.

"Counter Measures:

"The Greek population is being employed to a considerable extent in guarding railroad and telephone lines.

"Execution of hostage camps in various cities. Mainly Communists are received there.

"Arrests of about 2000 patients of the Greeks Military hospital in Athens which were forming Communist cells. They were transferred to the Island of Kea.

"Execution of Reprisal Measures (Shooting of hostages).

"Communist Propaganda "Primarily by use of whispering propaganda, painting of slogans on houses, distribution of leaflets, sometimes speeches in churches, teams of trained speakers for addressing public meetings.

The Greek General Zervas (Nationalist) is attached particularly. Otherwise the remaining attacks are against the occupation power.

"Summary:

"The troops at the disposal of the Military Commander in Greece are in no way sufficient for carrying out his tasks.

"Important plants are shut down, valuable supply installations are insufficiently guarded, necessary new installations like the erection of hostage camps, etc, are discontinued because the required security forces are lacking. Since the disarming of the Italians a Wehrmacht prison in Athens had to be guarded by its own inmates who had behaved themselves properly. 1604 "The development of the political situation will depend primarily on how successful we are in stopping the inflation and in securing food.

At this time there is no relation between living expenses and the income of the majority of the population. Labor employed by the Wehrmacht receives less wages than labor employed by the Greek authorities. Frequently, the transfer of important goods is not possible because of lack of labor due to poor pay.

"The moral conduct of the German soldier in the large cities of Athens and Piraeus has deteriorated considerably. Attacks on Greeks, threats and black mail are accumulating considerably. (see enclosure 3, report by the Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters Athens). This deterioration of discipline is primarily due to insufficient pay. For the pay of a 10 day period the soldier at present is in position to buy just two pounds of raisins or 5 to 6 oranges while he must watch how the markets have plenty of everything which is rationed at home, though at exorbitant prices. This external discipline has improved considerably due to severe control measures and penalties on part of the military Commander in his capacity of "Wehrmacht - Garrison - Commander" -- and then handwritten initial.

DR. WEISGERBER (Counsel for defendant Speidel): Your Honors, I cannot see which period of time is covered by the last situation report. On page 86 of the German document book, on page 115 of the English document book, the situation report for November 1943 closes with on the next page it says-- page 34 of the original" -- that is page 120 of the English Document book. This doesn't show for which period of time this situation report is supposed to be valid.

I would be grateful if the prosecution would indicate that point.

THE PRESIDENT: If the prosecution is in a position to advise counsel, the Tribunal would appreciate their doing so.

MR. RAPP: Very well, your Honor. If your Honors please, the page 34 of the original which refers to page 115 of your document book is not preceded in the original document by any other statement indicating for which period this report is responsible.

However, page 35 of this particular document -- that is page 116 and page 117 of your document book, Your Honors -- is signed by the defendant Speidel. Although there is no indication exactly which period this particular report covers, the signature itself shows that it was written sometime during the time that the defendant Speidel was Military Commander in Greece.

Your Honors, I believe you will find this on page 119, 120 and 121.

THE PRESIDENT: Does that give the counsel the information he desires?

DR. WEISGERBER: Your Honor, I still don't know which period of time is covered by this situation report. I can merely see from the second line of this last report that it partly concerns occurrences which took place in November. Which period of time is covered by the remaining parts of the report cannot be seen from this report.

MR. RAPP: We submit, your Honors, we are sorry but we cannot submit to defense counsel the desired information. It may be of help to defense counsel to call his attention to the fact that under "b" dates are mentioned like "19 of November", and subsequently in the contents of the report sometimes dates appear; but we cannot furnish defense counsel the exact information he desires because this particular information is not in our hands.

THE PRESIDENT: The document will have to be taken for what it shows and the deductions taken from the document itself, when neither the prosecution or the Tribunal can add anything to it.

MR. RAPP: That is correct, your Honor. Of course, your Honors, I would like to call your Honor's attention to the fact that the document as such is signed by the defendant Speidel so it must have been published sometime during the time he was Military Commander of Greece.

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW (Counsel for defendant Felmy): Your Honors, may I point out two mistakes in the translation of this document? First of all, it concerns the situation report of the 1st to the 31st of November, 1943, on page 83 of the German document book, page 112 of the English document book, under "Vb". That is "Attacks, sabotage and arson.

The word "Ueberfaelle" has been translated "by attack."

Secondly, under "Vc", the second sentence, it says: "In den uebrigen Gebieten Geiselfestnahmen und Erschiessungen in geringem Masse." "In geringem Masse" is translated by Lesser, L e s s e r.

I should like to ask that those two places be translated again.

THE PRESIDENT: It may be handed to the translators for their translation.

MR. RAPP: Very well, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: For the benefit of the Tribunal, it will be appreciated if the translators will refer to the English page and the line so that we may know and note just what the translation applies to.

DR. HUELLER TORGOW: In the English document book it is page 115 and the first instance occurs in the paragraph "Vb" entitled, "Attacks, acts of sabotage and fires."

THE INTERPRETER: The German word for that is "Ueberfaelle", which I translate as "raids"; and the second instance occurs in paragraph "c", still "V" -- that's just dropping a couple of lines down, and the last sentence of paragraph "c". The word objected to is "in geringem Masse". I should translate that as "into a small extent, a number of executions had taken place."

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Under (b), the translation of that, the line in question there, will you repeat your translation again?

INTERPRETER JACOBSON: Yes. For "Ueberfaelle", I translate raids instead of attacks.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: I believe the requirements of counsel will cover the situation you have in mind.

MR. RAPP: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Very well. You may proceed.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors on page 122, is the final page of this OKW 006912, and it states how many copies and to whom the various copies of the aforementioned document were sent.

This concludes Prosecution's Exhibit 422.

The next exhibit, your Honor, we submit, on page 124 of the English document book, and I believe this will be page 90 of the German Document book, -- it is NOKW 1471. It is being submitted as Prosecution's Exhibit 423. We had forgotten to include this document into the German document book, but I have given Dr. Laternser, during the recess, sufficient copies for distribution to all defense counsel, and I would merely for the record, ask Dr. Laternser whether or not he has distributed these copies to all of his colleagues.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Dr. Laternser has indicated that they have been distributed to his associates.

MR. RAPP: Very well, your Honor.

This document, Your Honors, is an OKW order, -- that is the High Command of the German Armed Forces, and it pertains to the jurisdiction and subordination of the military commander in Greece at that time, the defendant, Speidel.

This particular page is page 84 of the original. It is OKW No. 006912/43, Top Secret, Wehrmacht FST, Quartermaster, Administration I.

"First enclosure to General Quartermaster, handwritten, illegible.

Fuehrer Headquarters, 21 December 1943. Top Secret."

There were 55 copies, this being the 10th copy.

"Standard order of procedure for Military Commander Greece.

1) Military Commander Greece is subordinated to Military Commander Southeast.

He keeps Military Commander Southeast and also Army Group E continuously informed concerning all essential affairs and measures within his sphere of command."

If your Honors permit, I believe the interpreters do not have the German translation, although I personally have put three copies of it on your desk, prior to the recess. I repeat:

"He keeps Military Commander Southeast and also Army Group E continuously informed concerning all essential affairs and measures within his sphere of command.

2.) Military Commander Greece exercises by order of Military Commander Southeast executive Power in Greece including the part occupied by Bulgarian troops as far as he has been authorized to do so.

Superseded by the following as per OKW/No. 0013/44 top secret / WFST/ Qu (Administration 1) 1 January 44 Section 2, Para. 2. For the execution of the tasks with which he is charged, the Military Commander Southeast had subordinated to him:

for Greece - Military Commander Greece, for Croatia - German Plenipotentiary - General in Croatia" "for Albania - German Plenipotentiary - General in Albania and for Montenegro - Independent Administrative Sub-area Headquarters Montenegro.

b) As territorial commander he regulates all territorial problems (maintaining order, exploitation of the country for the purposes of the Wehrmacht etc.) and security tasks in so far as he has been charged with them by the Commander-in-Chief of Army Group E.

c) In addition, he takes over the duties of Wehrmacht Garrison Commander Athens-Piraeus and he is responsible for the maintenance of discipline in the garrison area of Athens-Piraeus.

4.) The Commander-in-Chief of Army Group E is authorized to charge Military Commander Greece temporarily with tasks concerning the leadership of troops as far as these are connected with the security duties with which he is charged.

5.) Political problems are treated by Military Commander Greece in close cooperation with the Athens-Office of the Special Plenipotentiary for the Southeast, pursuant to the powers given by the Fuehrer to the former Plenipotentiary of the Reich in Athens on 28 April 1941, as well as the tasks assigned to him as the former Special Commissioner of the Reich Government for economic and financial problems in Greece, pursuant to the decree of 16 Oct. 1942 remain unchanged."

"The Staff of Military Commander Greece consists of:

- a) The Headquarters Staff
- b) The Administrative Staff with Branch: Administration and Branch: General Economics.
- c) The Military Economics Staff
- d) The Wehrmacht Chief Administrative Officer
- e) The Senior SS and Police Leader

7.) For the execution of his tasks the Military Commander Greece has subordinated to him:

- a) Administrative Area Headquarters 395 (in Saloniki) Available to Army Group E simultaneously for combat duty
- b) The Commandant of Fortress Crete only in matters concerning the Military Administration where basic affairs are concerned requiring a co-ordinated ruling for the entire Greek area.
- c) The Administrative Sub-area Headquarters and Local Headquarters of his area of Command.

d) Troop units and supply and security troops and other units and offices subordinated to him by special orders.

Standard Order of Procedure for the German Plenipotentiary General in Albania.

1.) The German Plenipotentiary - General in Albania is subordinated to Military Commander Southeast. Concerning all combat and security duties, he is bound by the directives of the second Panzer Army.

He keeps Military Commander Southeast and the 2nd Panzer Army continuously informed concerning all essential affairs and measures within his area.

2.) Duties of the German General - Plenipotentiary in Albania.

a) He has the duties and the authority of a territorial Commander.

b) In the event of the disappearance of an Albanian Government which is capable of functioning and in case of larger combat actions, particularly in case of enemy landings, the German Plenipotentiary General or individual troop commanders who are committed there may be granted, by application, the exercise of executive power in the Albanian Sovereign Area or in parts of it. The German Plenipotentiary General will submit such an application to the Commander-in-Chief Southeast, also will decide by agreement with the Special Plenipotentiary of the Foreign Office for the Southeast making a report to OKW/WFST.

c) He will work in close cooperation with the Albanian Office of the Foreign Office for the Southeast. He will represent the requirements of the German Wehrmacht to the Albanian Minister of Defense and if necessary in technical matters to the Albanian expert Ministers.

Demands going beyond that will be submitted by him to the Office of the Special Plenipotentiary who will undertake all negotiations with the Albanian Government and in particular with the Prime Minister and the Foreign Minister.

3.) For the execution of his tasks, the German Plenipotentiary General in Albania has subordinated to him:"

Let us turn now to page 130. We come to page 88 of the original and this is OKH No. 116912.43. Top secret, WDST/Quartermaster, Administration 1.

Your Honor, I believe there is a mistranslation. This should be instead of "OKH", "OKW". If your Honors please, I will hand this part of the document to the official court interpreter so that we all may correct our records.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: You may follow that procedure.

MR. JACOBSON (Court German-English Interpreter): It says "Oberkommando der Wehrmacht"; the Germans usually abbreviate it to "OKW".

MR. RAPP: For the purpose of the record only, Your Honors, on the top of Page 130, instead of reading OKH it should read OKW, the High Command of the German Armed Forces.

MR. RAPP: This is the 10th copy.

"Standard Order of Procedure for the Independent Administrative Subarea Headquarters Montenegro.

The Command of the Independent Administrative Sub-area Headquarters Montenegro is subordinated to Military Commander Southeast. Concerning all combat and security duties, he is bound by the directives of the 2nd Panzer Army. He keeps Military Commander Southeast and - for information - 2nd Panzer Army continuously informed concerning all essential affairs and measures within his area.

Duties of the Independent Administrative Sub-area Headquarters Montenegro.

The Commandant of the Independent Administrative Sub-area Headquarters Montenegro has the duties and the authority of a territorial Commander.

The Command of the Independent Administrative Sub-area Headquarters Montenegro exercises executive power in Montenegro as far as he has been authorized to do so.

In the event of larger combat actions in connection with an enemy landing on the Adriatic Coast, the executive power in the Montenegrin Sovereign area or in parts of it can be transferred to the troop commanders committed there by the Commander-in-Chief, Southeast in agreement with the Special Plenipotentiary of the Foreign Office for the Southeast.

The Commandant of the Independent Administrative Sub-area Headquarters Montenegro is responsible for peace, order and security in as far as he is charged with it by 2nd Panzer Army.

At that time it was under the command of the Defendant Rendulic -the 2nd Panzer Army. "For the execution of his tasks he has subordinated to him: In the event of additional headquarters being sent into his area of command, said headquarters; Troop units supply and security troops, and other installations and offices subordinated to him by special orders; the area of Cattao belongs administratively to the area of the Administrative Sub-area Headquarters Montenegro. The Chief of OKW (Signed Keitel Certified true copy, illegible, Colonel G.S.G.)"

DR. LATERNSE: Please excuse me, your Honor. I just want to find out whether a paragraph has been translated. I don't know exactly; I want to find out. Your Honor, in the order which has just been read, of the OKW of the 21st of December 1943, the English Document Book Page 130, the translation of Paragraph 2c has been omitted. Can this kindly be done now and entered into the record?

THE PRESIDENT: The Document Book shows no sub-section 2 and sub-section under that. Am I correct in that statement?

DR. LATERNSE: It should, Your Honor, after 2b, Paragraph c should follow. It apparently has not been translated.

MR. RAPP: On page 130, under Paragraph 1, it commences with "Duties of the Independent Administrative Sub-area Headquarters Montenegro," That is what Dr. Laternser refers to. That is Paragraph 2, and then comes 2a and 2b, which extends to Page 131, and then we skipped to 2d. Dr. Laternser would like now to have part 2c read into the record from the original document; and we submit that we have no objection to that.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed then, handing it to the Translator.

MR. JACOBSON (Court German-English Interpreter): This paragraph c reads in English: "The Commander of the Independent Local Headquarters, Montenegro administers their administration and the economic matters of Montenegro according to the directives of the Military Commander South east. In this connection, agreement with the Department of the Plenipotentiary of the Foreign Office for the Southeast in Montenegro has not been established." That ends this particular paragraph.

THE PRESIDENT: Does that cover the situation, Dr. Laternser? Dr. Laternser has indicated that covers the situation; so you may proceed.

DR. WEISGERBER: Dr. Weisgerber for the Defendant Speidel. Your Honor, in the directive of the Military Commander Greece, which was in the framework of the Prosecution's Exhibit No. 423, as has been read, I must state that I have found something strange which I cannot explain to myself for the moment. This is an official directive, and its heading bears the date of 21st of December 1943; and then we find it is an official directive of the Military Commander Greece, then figure 1 and then figure 2. And the second paragraph of figure 2, it says "Aenderungen." This is on Page 124 of the English Document Book, the bottom paragraph. In this second paragraph of figure 2 it says "Aenderungen Laut OKH u.s.w. vom 1.1.44" It is that this directive bears the date of the 21st of December 1943, and the same time refers to an alteration taking place on the first of January 1944. I cannot reconcile these two dates.

MR. RAPP: If your Honor please, the comments made by defense counsel, as far as the difference in dates is concerned, is correct. I have the original document before me, and that is the way the document reads, and that is the only way that we can submit the document to be used for whatever Your Honors like to weight it in the evidence.

THE PRESIDENT: Does that satisfy counsel?

DR. WEISGERBER: Yes, your Honor. I still want to point out the following discrepancy in figure 2. There's a sub-section e at the top of Page 125 in the English Document Book, which should have preceded it, logically speaking; it is omitted. At any rate that is something unusual.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, the comments by defense counsel we submit are correct, and it seems that in the original document, as photostated by us, a strip of paper was inserted and pasted on the original document, which blocked out the particular paragraph defense counsel had reference to; but that is the way we found it. That is the way we respectively submit it into evidence.

THE PRESIDENT: The Exhibit will necessarily have to be received in the state in which it is found in the original; and neither the Tribunal nor the Prosecution or anyone connected with this Tribunal are in a position to change it. It will have to be accepted for what it's worth.

MR. RAPP: We are turning now to Document Book XVIII. The first exhibit to be submitted, your Honors, you will find on page 1, and it is NOKW 154, and will be Prosecution Exhibit 424. It is dated January 1, 1944, and is an order of the Military Commander Southeast, Felber, defining competence of the commanders in the execution of retaliation measures, approving of Military Commander Southeast, etc. At that time the defendant Geitner, who was still Chief of Staff, including the Military Commander Southeast Felber.

"Stamp: Secret Handwritten: War Diary "Military Commander Southeast "Section Ia No. 58/44 secret Headquarters, 1 January 1944 "Secret Handwritten Enclosure 1 "Subject:

Reprisal Measures Reference:

Commander-in-Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group F) Section Ia/F No. 296/43 secret, dated 22 December 1943.

"Supplementing letter Commander-in-Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group F) Ia/F 296 dated 22 December 1943, the following is ordered with regard to Serbia:

"1.) The Commanders of the Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters are competent to order reprisal and can assign their execution to the competent Commanders of the District Headquarters.

"For special cases the Military Commander reserves to himself the right to issue orders for reprisal measures.

"2.) Before a reprisal measure is order approval must be obtained through teletype from the Military Commander Southeast.

"The application must contain:

Brief description of facts Losses, as well as damage, which has occurred Political affiliation of the perpetrators Type and extent of reprisal measures intended.

"3.) Persons or homes suitable for the execution of reprisal measures are to be determined after prior contact with the competent SD and counter Intelligence detachments has been made.

The Serbian District Administrative are to be given a hearing.

"4.) Troops and Police have to comply with requests to carry out reprisal measures. Generally losses suffered by the troops will be revenged by them. The Police will provide an execution detachment to avenge its own losses and, in addition, all attacks on protected nonmilitary persons and objects.

"5.) The execution of reprisal measures is to be reported in the Daily Reports. Copy of the public notice, to signed "The Commander of the Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters" is to be forwarded subsequently.

"6.) The arrest of hostages to prevent expected outrages or attacks will be ordered by the Commander of the Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters with approval of the Military Commander Southeast.

"For further procedure paragraph 2 applies.

"7.) Participation by the Serbian Government and administration in the execution of reprisal measures and the employment of armed Serbian formations may take place upon their request.

"8.) The orders, Commanding General and Commander in Serbia Ia No. 652/43 secret, items 1, 2 and 3, dated 28 February 1943, 29 May and 31 July 1943 are rescinded.

"Current reprisal procedures not corresponding to this order are to be discontinued."

signed "Felber" Your Honors turn to page 3, Defense Counsel's Book page 3, NOKW 698, being offered as Prosecution Exhibit 425.

There are some pencil notes on a conference with Gruppenfuehrer Meyszner on 7 January 1944 at 1800 hours. It was entered in the War Diary and it was a conference between Meyszner and Felber.

"1. Reporting back from leave.

"2. Discussion of the saluting question among Wehrmacht and police in regard to Serbian Units.

Meyszner considers it appropriate not to order the duty of saluting yet, but merely to instruct subordinates, to reply correctly to the courtesies shown them on the part of the Serbian Units. There is to be no order at first!

"3. Reprisal measure for police captain Hofmann who was shot: Meyszner suggests shooting 25 DM and 25 Communists. Furthermore he will send an SD detachment to Cumitz, in order to determine the connections between perpetrators and inhabitants of the village. Conference 01.

"4. The complaint brought forth by Nedic that he did not receive any decision from Meyszner concerning the organization of the Serbian state guard, is irrelevant. Meyszner made the demand that the total strength of the Serbian state guard is not to exceed 15,000. Nedic, however, wishes to allocate 2,000 Serbian state guards for Belgrade in addition.

"5. Belgrade Camp: The concentration camp on the Messe terrain, which has room for 20,000 inmates, must be retained. Furthermore, there are only about 500 Serbs among the 3500 arrestees. These, too, must go into a Serbian camp later.

"The Messe terrain camp can be exploited at any time for refugees and prisoners of war."

DR. LATERNER: Your Honor, the Prosecutor, when introducing this document, he said that this conference with Gruppenfuehrer Meyszner took place with General Felber. This is not shown by this document. The statement of the Prosecutor is a mere assertion.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors this particular document was once again found as part of the official German Army files of that particular series dealing with the matters pertaining to the Southeast area under that particular date. Since it is an entry into a war diary, not each page of this entry is being signed. At a later time, your Honors, we submit that we will show proof that this particular document refers to the conversation between Meyszner and Felber.

THE PRESIDENT: Upon the statement of counsel that it will be connected up, it will be received. However, if not so connected the court will only give it such consideration as it feels it merits.

MR. RAPP: Very well, your Honor. The next document, your Honor, NOKW 164 will be found on page 4 of your document book pages 4 and 5 of the German Document Book. These are excerpts from the war diary of the Military Commander Southeast, Chief of Staff Ia. They are being submitted your Honors as Exhibit 426 and dated for the period from 1-31 March 1944:

"Lt. General Foertsch (Chief of Staff of Army Group F) has stated that he is disappearing from the Southeast area and that his successor will be Brigadier General Winter for newly Chief of Staff of Army Group E."

Then below:

"As revenge for the murder of two mayors on the 8th and /or 9th of Feb 44, the 610th Administrative sub area Headquarters, Cacak, is to receive the Order to shoot 10 DM followers altogether."

THE PRESIDENT: May I interrupt. We will take our recess at this time, but before we do take a recess I wish to make this statement. It has been called to my attention that possibly, in commenting concerning the witness on whom I ruled earlier and just after we reconvened this afternoon, I may have incorrectly made reference to his name. For the purpose of the record I wish to state that I referred to Hans Gustav Felber, F-e-l-b-e-r-, and if, through inadvertence I mispronounced his name, it will be corrected by this statement.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

MR. RAPP: If your Honors turn now to page 5 of your document book, please, page 6 of the German document book, we come to NOKW-207 which is being offered as prosecution Exhibit 427. This document is dated 24 March 1944 to the 610th Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters, subject: Reprisal measure for surprise attack on Krusevac Airdrome:

"I am in agreement with the shooting of 10 Communist reprisal prisoners at the Krusevac Airdrome."
Signed: "Felber, Military Commander Southeast, Ia, No. 192/44, Signed Felber."

If your Honors turn now to page 6, please, NOKW-662, is being offered as prosecution exhibit 428. Defense counsel will find this on page 7. This is another order of the military commander southeast to the "Senior SS and Police Leader for Information: Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters 809, Combat Commander 'Eisernes Tor' (Iron Gate):

"In reprisal for the German Soldiers kidnapped and later murdered by the DM-Cetniks on 10.31-44 near Petrovo Selo 50 convicted DM people from the SD Hostage Camp, Belgrade are to be shot to death, but not in Belgrade."

And there is an asterisk and it says underneath: "But if possible on the spot."

Signed: "Felber".

The next document, Your Honor, on page 7 -- defense counsel will find this, I believe, on page 8, 9 and 10 in their German document book -- is NOKW-665, being submitted as prosecution exhibit 429. These are various extracts from the War Diary of the Military Commander Southeast Chief/Ia and it pertains to execution of retaliation measures by subordinate military area so-called "Feldkommandantur. This particular period covers the period from 1 to 30 April 1944. The first entry:

"7.4.1944 The reprisal measures applied for by F.K. 816 (Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters) are approved. The execution will take place only after the Serbian Easter. The Serbian Frontier Guard is not to be employed in the execution."

On page 4 of the original:

"The hanging of the convicted bandit Jaksic in Losnica, applied for by the Feldkdtur.816 (Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters) is approved. The population is to be informed in a proper manner of the reasons for the execution.

The Feldkdtur.610 (Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters) is authorized to burn down the houses of the DM people who participated in the attack, if the time limit for producing M. Engineers elapses without results."

The next document, your Honors, you will find on page 8, on page 11 of the German document book, NOKW-667, to be submitted as prosecution exhibit 430. This again are orders of the 5th, 22nd and 30 of May, 1944 and they are orders by the Military Commander Southeast to subordinate units concerning retaliation executions. This one, handwritten War Diary Enclosure 14, Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters 809, subject: "Reprisal measures for the Russian Engineer Meschikow:"

"The shooting to death of DM bandits is to be carried out -- "3 DM bandits is to be carried out.

"Military Commander Southeast, Ia/No. 320.44 Secret (signed) Felber."

And another one: "Handwritten War Diary, Handwritten Enclosure 87:

"District Headquarters Grade Betschkerek. Reference: 1) Ic Az. 8 Diary No. 11053-44 of 7 May 44" and another reference of "16 May 44."

"Subject: Reprisal measures.

"Application for reprisal to 2) is approved with limitation that 5 convicted Communist bandits are to be shot to death for the wounding of Oberwachtmeister Polzer."

Signed: "Military Commander Southeast, Ia, 22 May 1944."

We submit, your Honors, that these documents bear the initial "G" the initial of the defendant Geitner.

On the next page:

"In reprisal for the murder of the BSW Corporals Gano and Retzler on 25 May 1944, 50 convicted Communists are to be shot to death in pursuance of your proposal dated 26.

5.44 – Section Ic Az 8 Diary No. 11216/44. The reason is to be made public. The execution is to be reported."

In this case: initial "b", "Military Commander Southeast, Ia No. 364/44 of 30 May 44 secret" and then an illegible initial.

The next document, your Honors, NOKW-734, you will find on page 10. German defense counsel will find this on page 13 and 14. This document becomes prosecution Exhibit 431. Again, excerpts from the Diary Military Commander Southeast re: execution of hostages, subordination of military Greece to Military Commander Southeast and so forth.

"9 January 1944. Chief of Staff:

At 0800 attack by the 2nd Red Division which had penetrated into Southwestern Serbia, on Ivanjica and Lissa. The Commander-in-Chief proposed to send two Bulgarian Battalions with tanks from Pozega via Arilje to Ivanjica for relief. The request has been approved.

"10 January 1944. Chief of Staff:

"In retaliation for the murder of Police Captain Hoffman on 13 December 1943 near Cumic, the Higher SS and Police Leader is authorized to shoot 50 reprisal prisoners, if possible those whom the Security Service (SD) ascertained to be band supporters in the area of Cumic."

The next page, your Honors, there are further entries in the same War Diary this one under the 5th of January, 1944.

"The German Liaison Staff with the 1st Royal Bulgarian Occupation Corps receives the order as soon as possible as to what security measures have been taken at the railway station Granada and what the effective strength and armament of the guard employed consisted of at the time of the attack on the railway station.

On the 8 January 1944 Chief of Staff:

Colonel Gartmayr, GSC, (OKH, Quartermaster General) informs that in spite of the objection by Group F the Military Commander Greece continue to be subordinated to the Military Commander Southeast.

The Battle Commander Iron Gate is informed that if the kidnapping of two Anti-Aircraft soldiers was not a case of desertion, the arrest of 20 hostages from the Topolmica area together with setting a time for the return of the kidnapped has been approved."

If your Honors will turn now to page 12, please, we offer NOKW 161, to be submitted as Prosecution's Exhibit 342. This document is a daily report of the Military Commander Southeast dated the 10 January, 1944, pertaining to the execution by the military commander Greece of 50 Communists in retaliation for the murder of two German policemen. And it says:

"Daily report of 10 January 1944 Serbia:

Special purpose unit of the railway security staff was employed with the Serbian state guard against communist bandits 3-400 men strong Southeast of Ralja.

Military Commander in Greece: 50 Communists shot as reprisal measure for murdering 2 German police."

Signed: "Military Commander Southeast, Ia, No. 163/44 secret" Signed "von Geitner".

The next document, your Honors, NOKW 708, you will find on page 14, defense counsel on page 17, this will be offered as Prosecution's Exhibit 433. This is a sweier of daily reports covering the period between the 9th and 24th of January, 1944, pertaining to the retaliation and executions in Greece and Serbia:

"Military Commander Greece: English propaganda material captured." Then below, "War Diary, Army Group F, on the 21st of June, 1944:

In this case the Military Commander Southeast is reporting the activities to the Army Group F, at that time commanded by the defendant, Weichs. It is addressed:

"To:

At that time the defendant, Speidel, was still the military commander in Greece.

Below we have another report, this time dated the 12th of February, 1944, again addressed to Army Group F, the defendant Weichs, with information copies to the OKH, OKW, 2nd Panzer Army, German General Plenipotentiary in Croatia, and German General Plenipotentiary in Albania.

On the top of page 18, pages 21-22 of defense counsels' books we find the contents of this report. It says:

"Serbia 16 Communists shot and 30 suspects arrested (by German and Serbia State Guard in cleaning up operation against Communist village South of Nis).As revenge for the surprise attack on the German customs border guard in the Banat reported on 9 February 44, 15 Communist reprisal prisoners shot.

Military Commander Greece.

As revenge for murder of Greek executives, 25 communist reprisal prisoners shot in Athens.

Military Commander Southeast Ia No.843/44 Secret sgd.

von Geitner" The same is repeated at the bottom of the page, your Honor, same address, same distribution.

The substance of the contents is on page No. 19, on the top. It states under:

"Serbia: entry of 23 Feb. 1944 5 communists shot, 33 suspects arrested, 11 farms of bandit helpers burned down in raid operation of German police and Serbian State Guard east of Prekuplje".

Signed:

Military Commander Southeast, Ia No. 1068/44 Secret signed von Geitner".The same again below, under the date of the 26th of February, 1944, -- for defense counsels information I am citing from pages 22, 23 and 24 of their document book.

We have:

"Serbia: 34 communists were arrested in the area of Cr. Kikinds in the Banat by the banat State Guard and SD: the communist leader of the North Banat was shot."

On the top of the following page (20): the defendant perdel reports to Mil. Com. South East.

"Military Commander Greece: 50 hostages shot for the murder of an interpreter in Tripelis".

Then at the bottom of this page, your Honors:

"Daily report of 28 February, '44 Serbia:

150 arrests in a search operation in the area of Sabac. 50 turned over in the SD."

Signed: "Military Commander Southeast, Ia, No.1193/44 Secret, sgd, von Geitner".

This and the previous entry were both signed by the Military Commander Southeast, and actually signed be the defendant, von Geitner.

This concludes, your Honor, NOKW 661.

If your Honors will turn now to page 23, please, you will find document 717, this document is submitted as Prosecution's Exhibit 435. It is defense counsels' pages 27, 28 and 29. This again is an excerpt, this time a courier letter to Army Group F:

"Daily report of 19 March 1944.

During mopping up operations by Police Volunteer Regiment 1 against band villages 17 Southeast Leskovac, 15 bandits shot to death, 16 people helping hands arrested, 40 houses burned down, cattle and corn taken as booty."

It is certified a true copy, signature illegible by a 1st Lieutenant.

Signed:

"Military Commander Southeast 1a No. 166/44 secret.

signed von Geitner".

On the top of the next page again, your Honors, or again for information to Army Group F, the usual distribution, OKH, OKW, 2nd Panzer Army.

etcetera. Daily report of the 21st of March, 1944.

"Serbia: South of Tekiha, 50 hostages arrested. In banat, 30 communists shot as reprisal measure."

Certified true copy, (signature illegible) 1st. Lieutenant. It is signed: "Military Commander Southeast, Ia No. 1722/44 secret, signed von Geitner."

I believe this to be in defense counsels' book, pages 34 and 35, also 32 and 33. There is some misup in the German pagination, I believe, but they should be all in there.

Then at the bottom of your document book, your, Honors, pages 24, we have another letter to Army Group F, by courier, the usual distribution and then on page 32 of defense counsels' books. It says:

Daily Report of 22.3.1944 Serbia:

Belgrade political circles are talking about a compromise solution allegedly found in London according to which Tito and DM would be personally represented in a newly formed emigrant government in Cairo.

German General in Albania:

Confidential agents again report parachute jump of 5 Russians and 15 Englishman, South of Korea.

Military Commander Greece:

On the Poloponnesus, 5 Greek hanged in reprisal for attack on railroad.

Certified true copy Military Commander Southeast (signature illegible) /44 secret 1st Lt. signed von Geitner It is signed:

"Military Commander Southeast, Ia, secret, signed von Geitner" The same is repeated again at this time, OKH, OKW, 2nd Panzer Army, still the same document, and they are under the entry of the 23rd of March.

We find:

"Serbia: By command of Combat Commandant Peloppenneuse, 45 hostages shot to death in Kerinth, 52 in Tripoli and 44 in Sparta,"

MR. RAPP: There is a possibility that this particular reference, as just read into the record, may be missing in the German Document Book. If so I suggest we have translated by the Court Interpreter. Is it missing Dr. Laternser?

DR. LATERNER: No, it is not.

MR. RAPP: Very well; thank you. Then, we have again the courier message to the Army Group F. The distribution is as usual; it is dated the 27th of March 1944: "Serbia: By Command of Combat Commandant - Iron Gate 17 hostages arrested Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters 1040 Montenegro: The efforts of the Montenegrin government commission toward a closer affiliation of the Sandzak area are coming up against strong rejection of the Moslems there. Intention: The Sandzak will be made subordinate directly to Military Commander Southeast, Ia, secret." And this time it is signed by Felber. At the bottom of this page, Your Honors, the entry of the 30th of March 1944. We are now on Page 27, the entry for Serbia: "During operations against Communists in Pozarevac, up to now 73 arrests, of which 14 persons were shot to death, and 17 released." And the Military Commander in Greece has reported: "Total result of concluded operations on Euboea: Band Losses: 77 dead, 42 prisoners, 81 wounded, 211 people suspected of belonging to bands arrested, of which 5 were shot to death." That concludes Document No. NOKW 717. If Your Honors turn now to Page 29 you will find NOKW-208, which is being submitted as Prosecution's Exhibit No. 436. This, Your Honors, is a report, or a series of reports, of the Military Commander Southeast, about the execution of Communists and hostages in Greece. It is dated the 10th of March 1944; It's going to Army Group F by messenger, and it's for the information of OKH, OKH, 2nd Panzer Army, who was the Defendant Rendulic, the German Plenipotentiary General in Croatia, and the German General in Albania. First it States about Serbia:

"Situation unchanged Attempt against cabinet chief of the Prime Minister not yet cleared up.

Impressive burial with participation of a greater part of the Belgrade and delegation of the Mil. Com. Southeast.

In the region Kragujevac, orders concerning procurement and distribution operations were given by DM to the Community Administrations. Lists of the age groups 1894 to 1925 were demanded from the community elders.

Mil. Com. Greece reports:

100 active communists shot as reprisal measure for attack on Serbian volunteer train in the Tempi-Valley North Northeast Larissa.

50 communist hostages shot in Athens as reprisal for the strike agitation pursued by the communists and the partial strikes caused by them.

Mil. Com. Southeast (sgd) v. Geitner secret" If Your Honors turn now to Page 30 please; I believe it's Pages 41 and 42 of the German Document Book, we have the same report from the Military Commander Southeast, signed by von Geitner, with the usual distribution, this time under the 13th of March 1944.

Under Serbia it says:

"Continuing terror and murders by both insurgent groups. In a peasant settlement, east of Zvornil, DM bandit leader explained that by order of London and Moscow, a treaty between Cetniks and Communists was drawn up."

MR. RAPP: And then the Military Commander of Greece reports:

"On the highway Sparta-Tripolis, truck convoy attacked. 18 Wehrmacht members dead, 25 heavily wounded, 19 slight wounded and 6 Greeks wounded. As reprisal, state of emergency for South Peloponnesus. Shooting of 200 communist hostages."

The next page Your Honors, Page 31, there is a similar report under the 17th of March, with the usual distribution, signed by the Military Commander Southeast, and signed for him by Geitner, Certified by a first lieutenant. The Military Commander Greece reports: "Bandit attack on coal mine North of Athens repulsed. In police raid in Athens reported yesterday, 17 arrested Communists shot." This concludes Document No. NOKW-208, Prosecution's Exhibit No. 436. If Your Honors turn now to Page 32 please, Prosecution is offering Document No. NOKW 670, to be marked as Prosecution's Exhibit No.437. This is a series of reports of the Military Commander Greece, to the Military Commander Southeast. The same subject-- Communist executions, reprisal measures, etc.

This one is dated the 25th of April 1944, to Military Commander Southeast, Ic, Belgrade, High Command Army Group E, Ic, and Evening Report of 26.4.1944:

"District Headquarters, Thebes Reports:

(signed) Military Commander Greece The illegible signature Colonel G.S.C. The next page, your Honor, page 41, pages 48 and 49 of the German Document book, We find again the distribution of this report I have just read into the record.

For information it went to the IXVIII Infantry Corps and Commander of the Ordnungs Police.

Then we have a report entered under the 22nd of March 1944 sent again by the Military Commander in Greece:

"Reprisal measures (see Daily Report 12.3.44 changed: Korinth -- 45 hostages, Tripoli 52, Sparta 44 shot, 59 men were reprieved.

"Signed Military Commander Greece, illegible signature."

Below, the distribution and then Ic, Evening Report, 22.3.1944:

"Administrative Sub Area Headquarters Korinth Report:

"52 Hostages in Tripoli and 44 hostages in Sparta were shot as reprisal measures on 21.3.

"Signed Military Commander Greece.

DR. WEISGERBER: (Attorney for defendant General Speidel) Your Honor, if I understand the transmission into the German correctly, the daily report of the 22nd of March 1944 as it reads on page 48 of the record, that is page 41 of the English Document Book was read:

"Korinth 45 hostages shot, and, Tripoli 52 will be shot."

In the original document the words "shot to death" under "Korinth 45 hostages and under "Tripoli 52 hostages" are crossed out. I request that this fact will also be contained in the record.

MR. RAPP: If your Honors permit, I cannot recall having read the various statements into the record which defense counsel submits I did. I believe I have merely read "45 hostages; Tripoli 52, Sparta 44, 59 men were reprieved." If your Honors please maybe we could have the record either read back at this time or I will read again for record purposes that what I have said already before.

THE PRESIDENT: Perhaps it will save time if you will read for record purposes what you claim for this particular document and page from which you are reading.

MR. RAPP: Very well, your Honor. This is the daily report of the 22nd of March 1944, paragraph 2:

"Reprisal measures (see Daily Report 12. 3. 44 changed:"

THE PRESIDENT: What page, please.

MR. RAPP: I am on page 41, your Honor, page 41.

THE PRESIDENT: Thank you.

MR. RAPP: Reprisal measure (see Daily Report 12.3.44 changed:" Korinth 45 hostages, Tripoli 52, Sparta 44 shot, 59 men reprieved.

Below your Honor, the entry of the 22nd of March, Evening Report:

"Administrative Sub area Headquarters Korinth Report; 52 hostages in Tripoli and 44 hostages in Sparta were shot as reprisal measures on 21 March."

Page 42 we have the distribution, your Honors, of this report and then again under the 22nd Ic Morning report entry:

"Reference 59 hostages reprieved by combat commandant Peloponnus. On 21.3 in Korinth 45 hostages were shot to death. Additional executions will be reported later.

"Signed Military Commander Greece, Ic No. 15409/44 secret."

On the same page, your Honor, another Ic Evening report dated 21 March 1944. On page 42 of your Document Book:

"Administrative Sub Area Headquarters Korinth Report: On 21.3.44 in Theodori 5 Greeks hanged as reprisal measure for railroad sabotage."

They refer to previous reports and it is signed by the Military Commander Greece Ic.

Your Honors, turn to page 43 please, page 50 of the German Document Book. We find the distribution of the previous document went for information, again to the IXVIII Infantry Corps and all the way to the Military Commander Southeast, and we have 17 of March 1944 and it says:

a) see Ic - morning and evening report

b) First Evzon Regiment Athens

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the courtroom will please find their seats.

The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal V. Military Tribunal V is now in session. God save the United States of America and this honorable Tribunal. There will be order in the court.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Marshal, will you ascertain if the defendants are all present in the Court?

THE MARSHAL: May it please your Honor, all defendants are present in the courtroom.

THE PRESIDENT: Judge Edward F. Carter will preside at this day's session.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: You may proceed, Mr. Rapp.

MR. RAPP: When we adjourned last Friday, your document book XVIII --

On Friday we concerned ourselves with Document Book XVIII and I believe we reached page 44 in your Honors' document book and page 51 in the German document book. This was prosecution's exhibit No. 437, NOKW-670.

We now turn to page 45 and here we have the "Ic" of the Military Commander Greece sending a report on the 10th of March 1944 to the Military Commander Southeast Belgrade and High Command Army Group E, Soloniki:

"After the plants working directly or indirectly for the Wehrmacht and their workers were taken under Military protection and refusal to work was threatened with strictest measures, the labor situation in Athens and Piraeus is normal. The measures taken by the Military Commander Greece since the beginning of the strike movement on 3 March 1944 were intended to break the Communist terror while taking into consideration the interests of the Occupying Power and of Greek economy.

The swift and severe proceedings broke the strike rehearsal, which the Communists had staged.

"Total of arrests: 257 officials, employees and workers of the Greek railroads (final decision in operation). During mopping up Operations in Nea Kokkinia on 7.3. reported: 132 prisoners (interrogation in progress) 80 wounded, 14 dead. As reprisal measure on 9.3.44 - 50 Communists shot to death."

Signed: "Military Commander Greece, Ic Register No. 15 160/44 secret."

The Defendant Speidel was at that time the Military Commander in Greece.

If your Honors turn to the next page, page 46, we have again a report from the Military Commander Greece Ic to the Military Commander Southeast and the High Command Army Group E, classified as "Urgent Secret", 9.3.44: "Ic Evening Report 9.3.1944."

DR. LATERNER (Counsel for defendants List and von Weichs): Your Honors, the prosecutor has stated that this report went from the Military Commander Greece to the Military Commander Southeast as well as to the Military Commander Army Group E. As to the 2nd headquarters mentioned, it must be added that this report was given for information reasons as can be seen from the translation. I think, that this is important.

MR. RAPP: We submit, your Honors, that we accept the defense counsel's suggestion and put it into the record "for information."

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: All right. You may proceed.

MR. RAPP: "Ic Evening Report of 9 March 1944. In Athens in reprisal for strike agitation by Communists and the partial strikes caused by them, 50 Communists shot to death on 9.3.44.

The executions were published in the the Press. (Signed) Military Commander Greece" --

I believe the transmission didn't come over -- "Ic Registration No. 15128/44 secret. By order Colonel Major."

If your Honors will turn please to page 47, we have a report to:

"Military Commander Southeast Ic, Belgrade "High Command Army Group E, Ic, Saloniki "(For Information) Military Commander Greece Ic" dated 25 February 1944, "Ic Evening report of 25 February 1944."

We now turn to the next document, Your Honors, on page 54 of your Document Book and page 57 of the German defense counsels' books. This is NOKW 654 and is being submitted as Prosecution's Exhibit 438.

This is a series of daily reports, again from the Military Commander Southeast, and it deals with Serbia and Greece in all of those areas under the command of the Military Commander Southeast. This particular document includes the period 29th April to 29th August, 1944, and it pertains again to the execution of communists and hostages in Greece including execution of 200 hostages in retaliation for the killing of General Krech.

I am sorry, Your Honors, no, that is right, that was General Krech. That is NOKW 647, which we will introduce right after this. Both documents as far as this murder is concerned, tie in together.

This is a report marked, "Secret", dated 2 April, 1944, "initials illegible". This is the 6th enclosure, to Army Group F, by courier:

"For information: OKH/Gen Qu. (Dept. Administration) OKW/WFSt (Gen.

On the next page, your Honors, we have the same report of the Military Commander Southeast, dated the 4th of April, 1944, with the same distribution for information and we have there:

"Military Commander Greece:

"In Trikkala, 4 Communists shot to death as reprisal measure".

"Certified a true copy:

Daily Report of 8.4.1944 S e r b i a The 5th communist Division about which only few reports are available is still located with stronger detachments between upper Studenica and upper Moravica.

It has brought forward lesser detachments toward the west in the direction of Stitkovo and north of it.

Intentions: Preparing formation for attack against the 2nd Division from a northwest and southeast direction. The attack will be executed only after the arrival of the 4th Brandenburg Regiment. Details will be reported separately.

Military Commander Greece reports:

On the next page, Your Honors, another entry under the 23rd of April Enclosure 107, secret, illegible initial, 23.4.44, to Army Group F (by courier). At that time the defendant von Weichs still headed the Army Group F. And then the usual distribution for formation, and then Daily Report of 25 April 1944, handwritten, and underneath it says, "without wounded", and two exclamation points, and then it says:

Felber, signed by the defendant Geitner, and addressed by courier, to the defendant von Weichs. And for information, again the OKH/Gen. Qu. (Dept. Administration); OKW/WFST (Gen. Qu.); 2nd Panzer Army, at that time still commanded by the Defendant Rendulic; German General - Plenipotentiary in Croatia; German General - Plenipotentiary in Albania; Fliegerfuehrer Croatia, Zagreb; 5th SS Mountain Corps; Commander Syrmien (Serbia only) -Daily Report of 26.4.1944. It went for information to the four mentioned individuals.

DR. LATERNER: Your Honor, I would like to object to the statements of the Prosecutor, insofar as he stated that this report went to the Defendant von Weichs. The report is directed to Army Group F, and only this can be asserted. And it could, at the moment, he added that at that time Field Marshal von Weichs led this Army Group, but the report didn't actually go directly to him.

MR. RAPP: Very well, Your Honor; we accept the correction from defense counsel, and the information actually went to Army Group F, but it was headed at that time by Defendant Von Weichs.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: All right, you may proceed.

MR. RAPP: "Serbia, III: "A well armed communist band (150), including 14 Englishmen and Americans, coming from New Bulgaria, has joined communist band situation 15 km. south of Leskovac. If Your Honors please turn to page 62, and this is also page 62 of the German Document Book, we find another entry in the War Diary of the 30th of April 1944, to Army Group F (by courier), Group F being commanded at that time by Defendant von Weichs:

Military Commander Greece reports - that was the Defendant Speidel at that time:

Red munition dump raided in Athens. 3 Communists shot to death. 100 Communists shot to death and a further 200 are to be shot to death on 1.5. as reprisal for attack on motorized vehicle column of the Ordnungs Police for the murder of General Krech and his escort detachment by Greek volunteers.

This Your Honors, concludes Document NOKW-654, which was Prosecution's Exhibit No. 438. The next document, Your Honors, you will find on page 63 of your Document Book; it is No. NOKW-647. It is being offered as Prosecution's Exhibit No. 439. This is a series of reports, Daily Reports - of the Military Commander Greece, to the 68th Corps, at that time commanded by the Defendant Felmy, and the Military Commander Southeast, Felber. "29 April - 29 Aug. 44 Daily reports of Military Commander Greece to LXVIII Corps and Military Commander Southeast re execution of 200 hostages in retaliation for killing of General Krech." We have just seen in the previous document about the murder of this German General Krech. Now, this is page 1 of the original, "No. 217, Secret, Distribution: Corps Headquarters LXVIII Infantry Corps for Information. On the premises: Quartermaster Ia/K.T.B. (War Diary) (Draft)."

Now, in my document book, Your Honors, the next two paragraphs are marked as not appearing in the German. With Your Honors' permission, I would like to ask defense counsel whether or not this information I have is correct.

The information that was to appear as an entry under the 29th of August 1944; but I'm merely speaking for the record. "Commander Greece Ia, 1) Military Commander Southeast Ia Belgrade; 2) High Command Army Group E, Saloniki for information." Does that appear in the German defense counsel's books? It's on page 63. Dr. Latenser, did you understand the question I was asking defense counsel? Your Honors, we have to read this part from the original document into the record so that German defense counsel can enter that part into their document book. It does, as a matter of fact, not appear in German defense counsel's book – if this is agreeable to Your Honors.

(The Court English-German interpreter reading into the record)

MR. RAPP: Thank you. That's all. I believe the rest of it is in the German Document Book. I continue now:

As far as it is possible to evaluate the effect of the invasion on the political situation the assumption if waiting soberly before passing judgment prevails that our own counteraction will have the greater effect.

If retreat and a withdrawal of troops from the southeast area is considered it is feared that communists terror activities will increase. Minister President Rhallis, in connection with the current propaganda operation, issued a declaration published in the press which clearly emphasizes a turning away from Bolshevism and from the communist plague. The population receives the leaflets - the distribution of which is under way - with recognizable satisfaction.

MR. RAPP: Witness, please talk slowly and distinctly into the microphone. If you talk too fast a light will appear in front of you. You must then stop and repeat your sentence slowly. Please state your full name.

A. My name is Hans Gustav Felber.

Q. When were you born?

A. On the 8th of July 1889.

Q. Where were you born?

A. In Wiesbaden.

Q. Are you married?

Page 1,681

A. Yes.

Q. Do you have children?

A. No.

Q. Were you ever a member of the NSDAP or any of its affiliated organizations?

A. No.

Q. What is your profession?

A. I am a professional soldier and officer.

Q. Since when?

A. Since 1907.

Q. Were you on active duty the whole time?

A. Yes.

Q. Please state quite briefly your military career, with dates and promotions, from first of September 1939, that is to say, the outbreak of the Second World War.

A. On the first of September 1939 I was Brigadier General and Chief of the General Staff of Army Group 3 in Dresden, Germany. In the Police campaigns I was employed as Chief of the General Staff of the 8th German Army. After the conquest of Warsaw, on the first of October 1939, I was promoted Major General. On the 15th of October 1939, the 8th Army was dissolved. I myself became Chief of the General Staff of the newly organized 2nd German Army in the West. In February, 1940, I became Chief of the General Staff of the Army Group C ("C" for Caesar) in Frankfurt on Main. After the end of the campaign in the West, on the first of August 1940 -- I was appointed General of the Infantry.

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: Judge Burke is having difficulty in getting the transmission of the Interpreter. Can we get a check on that of some sort?

(THE COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM WAS CHECKED FOR APPROXIMATELY FIVE MINUTES.)

Q Witness, will you kindly continue with your career.

A On 20 October 40, I became Commanding General of the XIII Army Corps in the West. In the Spring 1941, I was transferred to the East with the staff of my corps where on the 22nd of June we took part in the attack on Russia. At the beginning of January 1942 I was transferred to the Fuehrer Reserve. On the first of April 1942 I took over a high command in France and remained there until the invasion of Southern France in November 1942. On the 29th of August I took over the newly created office of Military Command Southeast in Belgrade and I remained there in that capacity until the 29 of September 1944 on which date I took over the newly founded Army Group Serbia which I led until its dissolution on the 26th of October 1944. Then I was transferred to the West. At first I took over a combat group in the battle of the Ardennes and then on the 20th of February 1945 I was appointed to lead the 7th German Army which I led until the 26th of March. Then I was transferred to the OKH Officers Reserve (Fuehrerreserve). On the 12 of May I surrendered to the American Army in the Prison Camp Eger in Czechoslovakia.

Q Witness, did you take part in the first World War?

A I took part in the whole of the first world war from the beginning to the end, in the ranks and the last year in the General Staff.

Q What German awards or medals did you receive during world wars I and II?

A In the first world war I received the Iron Cross, second and first class; the Hessian Medal for Bravery; and the Brunswick Medal for Bravery. In the second World War I received the clasp to the Iron Cross I and II class and the Knight's Cross.

Q In what internment camps have you been since you were taken prisoner?

A First of all in Eger, then in Pilsin, then in Freysing, in Wiesbaden, in Toucainville near Cherbourg, in Paris, in Neustadt near Marburg, in Hersfeld, in Zufeuhhausen near Stuttgart, in Dachau, in Allendorf near Marburg and now in Neustadt near Marburg.

Q Are you a prisoner of the United States?

A Yes.

Q Now long in the Nurnberg Jail?

A I am here since the 3rd of May.

Q Approximately how much was that altogether?

A The first two times each for six weeks; now I have been here for eight days.

Q Approximately how many times were you interrogated in Nurnberg by members of the Prosecution?

AAproximately ten times.

Q In the prison of Nurnberg were you treated exactly in the same way as the other inmates?

A Until now, yes; since three days I have been guarded with special severity.

Q Have any promises been made to you by the Prosecution?

A No.

Q In connection with the interrogation were you subjected to any physical or mental pressure from the part of the prosecution?

A Besides of the last three days, no.

Q In the last three days have you seen members of the prosecution?

A No.

Q When did you see members of the prosecution for the last time?

A I believe that must have been on the 15th of June; no, that is a mistake; it must have been in the first week of June.

Q From when to when exactly were you Military Commander Southeast and at the same time Military Commander Serbia?

A I was that from the 29 of August 1943 until the 29 of September 1944.

Q Which headquarters or person gave you the assignment?

A I got this assignment from the Army Personnel Office.

Q Before you took over your position as Military Commander Southeast and at the same time Military Commander Serbia, did you receive any instructions with regard to your position?

A Yes, I had to report to the Fuehrer's Headquarters, that was on the 20th of August 1943; there I was received by the General Quarter Master General Wagner, by the then Field Marshal Keitel, and subsequently by General Jodl.

Q Whom were you directly subordinated in your capacity as Military Commander Southeast and simultaneously Military Commander Serbia?

A I was officially subordinated to the High Command of the Army and the Quartermaster General who at the same time looked after things in the OKW.

Q Who were the people with whom you had to deal in the OKW and in the OKH respectively?

A I can only remember the then Lieutenant Colonel Gartmeyer who especially had to do with affairs regarding the Balkans.

Q And of which department was Gartmeyer?

A He was attached to the Quartermaster General, the number of his department I don't know.

Q In the OKH or OKW?

A That is the same department, the same officers worked there, under the designations of these departments, that is, OKW and (OKH).

Court No. V, Case No. VII.

Q. Witness, what were your tasks as Military Commander Southeast?

A. When I took over my position I received so-called directives for the activities of Military Commander Southeast. When I was introduced to my job I was, however, told by General Wagner right away that these directives had not been worked out definitely. I received the order already on the 5th of September, that is after a fortnight, to submit new proposals for such directives to the quartermaster general.

Q. Did you have orders as Military Commander of Serbia?

A. No, this directive concerned the Military Commander of Serbia. This is not clear from these directives whether I should have to carry out these orders as Military Commander of Serbia and Military Commander Southeast. But in practice the union of these two offices in one persons worked itself out and as such it was tacitly acknowledged.

Q. During your time as Military Commander Southeast simultaneously Military Commander Serbia, who was the highest responsible personality in the Southeastern Theatre as far as Military Tactical and security matters were concerned?

DR. LATERNSE: I object. Your Honor, I believe the question which had been put in the form is not admissible. The witness cannot tell here who had the highest responsibility in this matter. The Court can decide that.

THE PRESIDENT: Objection overruled.

A. The highest responsible personality was Field Marshall Freiherr von Weichs, Supreme Commander Southeast, in my opinion.

Q. Did you know the Field Marshall von Weichs personally?

A. Yes, I knew him for a number of years, as a subordinate as commanding general of the Nurnberg Corps previous to the beginning of the war subordinate to the Army Corps 3 in Dresden, whose Chief I was.

I knew the Field Marshall von Weichs in the Polish Campaign. I experienced from there the new organization of the 2nd Army, whose Commanding Chief I was. I became his Chief of Staff. Then in the East in the Russian Campaign, I was subordinate to him as Commander in Chief of the 2nd Army.

Q. Thank you, Witness. We will return to this later on. Can you recognize the defendant, former Field Marshall von Weichs, can you recognize him in this courtroom?

A. Yes.

Q. Where is he now?

A. He is just opposite from me under the window, counting from the left, he is seventh from the left, starting from Speidel.

Q. That is former Field Marshall von Weichs?

A. Yes, that is the fifth from the left.

Q. Who was the Chief of Staff to the Commander and Chief Southeast at that time, when you became Military Commander and Chief Southeast?

A. That would be General Foertsch.

Q. Did you know the Chief of Staff personally?

A. I only got to know him in Belgrade.

Q. Do you recognize the former Chief of Staff, the present defendant Foertsch, here in the courtroom?

A. Yes, he is the third from the left.

Q. Who was your Chief of Staff then, Witness?

A. That was the Col. Ritter von Geitner, who was later promoted to General.

Q. Do you recognize him here in the Court?

A. He is sitting between Foertsch and Field Marshall von Weichs.

Q. Who was, during your term of office as Military Commander Southeast, the Commander in Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army.

A. General Rendulic when the office was taken over.

Q. Did you know General Rendulic personally?

A. Yes, in the East as Commander of a Division he was subordinate to me for a short time, and then I saw him again in Serbia?

Q. Is he here present in the Court?

A. Yes, the sixth from the left.

Q. What were your personal connections with the defendant von Weichs, as far as you haven't told us that before?

A. My personal relationship with Field Marshall von Weichs was mostly of an admiring nature. In the long years of the war I saw him, especially as an upright, a clever and judicious superior, and he was an exemplary man. He was, in contrast to many others, in my view in no way devoted to the interests of the Nazi Party, and on the other hand his strong leanings toward the church prevented him from doing that, even under the eyes of the Party he did not hesitate to show himself as a true leader; In my superior Field Marshall von Weichs I want to say I had kind of a fatherly friend to whom I had access at any time, and I could tell him all my worries and my thoughts quite frankly and openly, and I often made use of that.

Q. Who was your predecessor in your capacity as Military Commander Southeast?

A. I did not have a predecessor and under this designation there was none. This staff had only been founded when I appeared.

Q. Was this position created especially for you?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there then a Military Commander of Serbia previous to your time?

A. On this staff --- the one of my staff which I took over in Belgrade emerged under the leadership of my new Chief, Col. Ritter von Geitner.

Q. Who was your predecessor in the position of Military Commander Serbia?

A. That was General of the Artillery Bader, who then took over the XXI Mountain Corps in Tirana.

Q. Who was Chief of Staff with Bader when you took over from Bader?

A. That was Col. Ritter von Geitner.

Q. Did you have a successor as Military Commander of Serbia or as Military Commander Southeast?

A. No.

Q. Why not?

A. Because the Military Commander Southeast was disbanded when Military Commander of Serbia was founded. That must have been on the 5 of October 1944.

Q. Please state briefly what your staff consisted of in your capacity as Military Commander Serbia; in your capacity as Military Commander of Serbia what kind of a staff did you have under you in order to deal with this job in Serbia?

A. I had the same staff as when I was Military Commander Southeast. It was composed of two large departments, first of all from a really directive staff, a technical staff, Col. Ritter von Geitner, and a purely administrative staff, which first of all when I arrived there was only occupied by people as deputies, because the people in their designation of the definite chiefs of the administration had met with great difficulties and this had to be overcome and set geographically.

Q. The territory in which you were responsible as Military Commander Southeast, was that identical with the then territory of the Army Group-F?

A. Yes.

Q. What were your tasks as Military Commander Southeast in Croatia?

A. In Croatia I didn't have any actual tasks as Military Commander, because the Croatian Government under Poglavnik carried out its administration.

Q. Under whose supreme command were the German Troops in Croatia, while you were there as Military Commander Southeast?

A. The German troops were subordinate to the Commander in Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army.

Q. Besides yourself in this position as Military Commander in Serbia were there any additional Military Commanders in the Southeast area?

A. Yes, there was a Military Commander in Greece, that was German Plenipotentiary General in Albania and Montenegro, whose offices were divided later on. The business of Montenegro was subordinate to local headquarters. Then the German Plenipotentiary General in Croatia. I was under my command.

Q. Could you give these Military commanders in the War required by you by name and also their successors, if there had been many, during your tenure of office?

A. I can in detail only remember the highest commanders, that was for the Southern area of the Balkans, the Commander in Chief of the Army Group E and the Commander in Chief of the 2nd Panzer Army.

Q. Witness, I believe you did not understand my question. I asked you whether you could tell us by name, give us the names of the Military commanders or their successors during your tenure of office as Military Commander Southeast?

A. The Military Commander in Greece was, first of all, General of the Air Force Speidel. As far as I know on the 1st of July 1944, he was replaced by General Scheuerlen, again of the Air Force. The Plenipotentiary General in Albania was in the beginning a General Bessel and he was being replaced by the General of the Artillery Geip who simultaneously with General Speidel was replaced by a Major General Gullmann. The local headquarters in Montenegro was under the command, from the Spring of 1944, of Brigadier General Keiper. The Plenipotentiary General in Croatia also was the Lieutenant General of Infantry von GlaiseHorstenau.

Q. Who was the superior of these military commanders.

A. The superior of these military commanders was the military Commander Southeast. That is I.

Q. How often did you visit these Military Commanders?

A. During all the time of my activities as Military Commander Southeast I never left Serbia. The Military Commanders occasionally went to see me and to report to me in Belgrade; that was either Greece or Tirana, and happened only a few times.

Q. Were the military commanders disciplinarily subordinated to you?

A. On paper, according to the directives, the military commanders and similar personalities were subordinate to me. In practice, however, this subordination could not be carried out in this form. It soon appeared, that the Military Commander Greece was dependent on Army Group E which had always fought for complete subordination. The Commander in Albania soon became dependent on the 21st Mountain Corps which was likewise stationed in Tirana. This is explained by the fact that the Plenipotentiary General did not have any troops of his own.

The Plenipotentiary General in Croatia had a special and rather peculiar position. He had no jurisdiction as regards territory and he was looked upon as political and military adviser of the Poglavnic.

Q. Witness, may I ask you to answer my questions briefly? We will come to all the other points; what did the independence of the Military Commander amount to in practice?

A. The Military Commanders Greece and Albania were more or less independent and, as far as they were not bound by the directives of the 21st Mountain Corps or Army Group E, they were also independent in the execution of their measures.

Q. Were these military commanders ordered by you at any time to collaborate closely with the individual troop commanders in their respective territories?

A. No, there never was such a directive.

Q. Which troops were subordinate disciplinarily to the Military Commander?

A. That is subordinate to Military Commander Serbia?

Q. No, this concerns every individual Military Commander as far as you got to know of that officially and had to know this.

A. I cannot say anything of the troops subordinate to the Military Commander in Greece and Albania. I cannot say anything exact and accurate about this. As far as I remember, there were very few troops. As far as Greece is concerned, I remember one police regiment which was, however, directly subordinate to the Higher Police and SS Leader, General von Glaise-Horstenau had no troops at his disposal at all.

Q. As far as you know, witness, in your position as Military Commander Southeast, was it possible that German troops and that native troops were at the disposal of the Military Commanders?

A. No, I have knowledge only of those troops which were subordinate to me as Military Commander but only as Military Commander for Serbia.

Q. Do you know which two tactical main units were subordinate to Army Group F during your tenure of office?

A. That is the Army Group E in Saloniki and the Chief Command of the 2nd Panzer Army.

Q. Can you explain in general the military geographical jurisdiction of Army Group E?

A. Without a map, I cannot remember this in detail. The demarcation line between Army Group E corresponds about with the SerbianGreek frontier. That was the jurisdiction area of the 2nd Panzer Army without the Serbian area.

Q. Was there any tension, to speak of, between the military commanders and the troop commanders of which you got to know?

A. Yes, shortly after my arrival General Speidel visited me, the Military Commander Greece, and complained to me about the fact that somebody interfered in his capacity, that the Army Group E constantly interfered with his jurisdiction and command. I remember that he resented this so much he was thinking of asking for his transfer. The General commanding Albania, General Geip, arrived in the Spring of 1944 and told me the same story, that there was especially the will to power of the higher SS and police leader; General Geip was at his request replaced by a younger officer.

Q. In your capacity as Military Commander Serbia was the SD under your jurisdiction?

A. The SD consisted, as far as I know, of a group attached to the higher SS and Police Leader. Whether it was a group or a command-whatever the official designations are, that I cannot tell.

Q. Approximately how many men did the SD have during your period of service in Serbia?

A. I cannot tell that.

HANS GUSTAV FELBER - Resumed DIRECT EXAMINATION - (Continued) BY MR. RAPP:

Q Witness, who was highest ranking person of the SD in Serbia during your term of office there?

A The highest ranking person in the SS was Oberfuehrer Schaefer-Oberfuehrer Doctor Schaefer.

Q Whom was he subordinate to?

A Dr. Schaefer was subordinate to the higher SS and police leader, Meissner.

Q Who was the successor of the higher SS and Police leader Meissner?

A That was a Brigadefuehrer Behrens.

Q Was Meissner subordinate to you?

A Meissner was subordinate to me only regarding his own person, not with regard to his position within the police.

Q Whom was Meissner subordinate to with regard to his directives, etc.?

AAs to his directives, Dr. Meissner was subordinate to the Reichsfuehrer SS Himmler.

Q Did this same subordination later apply to Behrens?

A Yes.

Q Did Meissner or Behrens ever accept any orders or instructions from you?

A They only received orders from me in respect to a military affair, for instance, an order to put police troops at my disposal for combatting of bands, and secondly, orders with regard to reprisal measures against hostages.

Q Can you name other higher SS and Police leaders, who during their term of office were active in the southeastern area?

A I can name for Albania, the higher SS and police leader Fitzthum; for Greece the higher SS and police leader Streck) and about from October 1943, the Brigadefuehrer Schimana. In Croatia, I know by name, Kammerhofer.

Q These higher police and SS leaders in Albania and Greece, who were just named by you -

A No.

Q Just a moment, witness, my question was not yet finished. These leaders were they subordinate to the military commanders in Albania or Greece at that time?

A Yes, indeed.

Q In what respect?

A In military matters Meissner was subordinate to me.

Q Would you say that a little more detailed?

A Meissner as well as the other higher SS and Police leaders in respect to military tasks, were subordinate to the military commanders in their respective areas, solely for these tasks.

Q Did the higher SS and police leaders Fitzthum and Schimana, did they have SD subordinates?

A I cannot answer this question. I do not know anything about it.

Q You as military commander Southeast -- did you hold the same rank as the Commander in Chief of an Army?

A Yes, my position was expressly designated as that of a Commander in Chief.

Q Where, in your opinion, lay the difference between your service instructions, and the instructions of Fieldmarshal Weichs, so far as you were notified of this officially?

A The Supreme Commander Southeast was responsible for the entire military area of the southeastern area; my responsibility was limited first of all to the security and to the maintenance of order – law and order – and further to the administrative action of the southeast area.

Q In what respect, witness, did you have executive power?

A The conception, executive power, was not very clear to me. I expressly received from the Army Group F, at the end of September, the executive power for Serbia, that was in September, 1944. Therefore, I assume that the idea "executive power" did not apply at all to the southeast theatre. That would also comply with the fact that my sphere of work geographically seen fell together with that of the Army group. There was not the usual distinction made between combat and rear areas. Everything was combat area.

Q Witness, if I understood you correctly, your testimony says that neither you nor the then military commander of Army Group F, up to September, 1944, had any executive powers?

A That is correct, inasmuch as, so far as I know, this was not expressly ordered by the Supreme Commander Wehrmacht.

Q Did this situation change before September, 1944, at all?

A No.

Q The situation in Croatia, with respect to executive power, was it any different?

A In Croatia the Croatian government had the executive power in the person of Poglavnik.

Q. What troops were directly under your command in Serbia?

A. The foreign troops.

Q. That is, inasmuch as it is important for these proceedings here?

A. When I started my term of office, the following were subordinate to me: Police Regiment 5, which was under the command of the Higher SS and Police Leader; further, a security regiment for the security of railway lines; a field gendarmerie unit; and a company of Panzers; a third of a division stationed in Croatia; further a replacement unit which was stationed in the area west of Belgrade. Apart from these there were a few Field Gendarmerie units which were mainly active in the security of railway lines. Further, a Serbian Free Corps, a Russian protection corps and a Bulgarian occupation corps with four divisions. That was everything of importance.

Q. Did you know for a fact, witness, whether your former chief, Geitner, and the chief of Weichs, that is, defendant Foertsch -- did you know whether they knew each other personally?

A. I had the impression that those two not only knew each other well but also got along well.

Q. Were you, witness, satisfied with the defendant Geitner as your Chief of Staff?

A. I can only say that General von Geitner – from a military view I was very happy with him. Although he was older than I, he always behaved very correctly and he carried out his duties in a very special manner. I hold him in high esteem as a man of rich experience of life, of extraordinary personal bravery, which his high awards from the First World War show. On his staff, to his subordinates he was known as the true father of the staff, especially when he was promoted to general, and on the occasion of his 60th birthday was this fact pronounced clearly. He was a man free of all personal ambition. He was only devoted to the cause. He had nothing to do with Party ideology and ideas. The proof of this are the daily, very frank discussions between the two of us.

General von Geitner -- I as his superior can only give him the highest recommendations.

Q. Between you and Geitner were there ever any differences of opinion of basic value?

A. I do not know of a single occurrence of this nature.

Q. Witness, did you, in your command as Military Commander Southeast -- did you receive Daily Reports or reports of activity?

A. One has to distinguish, I believe, between two things. First, the Daily Combat Reports and secondly the Monthly Reports which were issued by the Military Commanders and in the equivalent staffs and given to us, and by our echelon to the Army Groups and to the OKW.

Q. These reports or these two different kinds of reports of which you're talking – did they come to your office in regular intervals?

A. The Daily Reports, as far as I recollect, arrived twice daily – noon and night. The Monthly Reports arrived towards the end of the month – that's once a month.

Q. You've already said that Army Group F passed on these reports. Were those original reports or copies?

A. I believe they were copies. That is, at least the Monthly Reports were copies, which at the same time were sent to the Army Group and to the OKW.

Q. Who in your staff, witness, was the responsible officer or the responsible authority whose task it was to pass on these reports to the Army Group?

A. The responsibility was that of the Chief of the General Staff. The reports were submitted to me and they were signed by me.

Q. Witness, why were those reports sent to Army Group F?

A. I assume it as a matter of course that the Army Group wanted to be kept posted on everything which happened in its area. Whether an order from above was given to this effect I do not know.

Q. Witness, did your reports – those which you sent directly – did they go to the OKH or to the OKW?

A. They were sent to the very same department of the staff of the Quartermaster General, who, as far as I can suppose, passed them on to the Wehrmacht Leadership Staff, at least as to their contents.

Q. Can you tell the Tribunal whether it was the task of the defendant Geitner to study the incoming and outgoing reports of their districts?

A. Naturally. He was the expert and collector of these reports which then, after he had seen them and shown them to me, were given to me for signature.

Q. Do you know whether the 2nd Panzer Army received directly those reports from your headquarters?

A. I think it is correct that we were requested by the Second Panzer Army to let them have our reports too for their information, that is, as an act of friendship, so to speak.

Q. Was that done, witness?

A. At least in the summer of 1944 that was done. I assume it happened earlier too. That was a more or less personal agreement between two chiefs of staff.

Q. When, witness, did you, for the first time, in your capacity as Military Commander Southeast -- when did you hear for the first time of so-called collective reprisal measures?

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: Just a moment, please. I think probably the witness ought to be advised at this time that he is not obliged to answer questions that might incriminate him, that anything that he here says may be used against him in any subsequent prosecution or trial. I don't know whether the witness understands that in America that's the principle to be followed, and we deem it our duty to advise him of this at this time.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, do I understand that this statement, as just made, is the advisement to the witness or does Your Honor wish that I should tell him that again?

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: I think it's sufficient, but we have no objection, I'm sure, to your advising him yourself if you see fit to do so.

BY MR. RAPP:

Q. Witness, did you understand the words of the Judge completely?

A. Yes.

Q. Are you aware of the importance of these words of the Honorable Judge?

A. Yes.

Q. Therefore, could I ask you to answer my previous question, when for the first time you heard of collective reprisal measures in your capacity as Military Commander Southeast?

A. The first knowledge which I received of this collective order -- the first knowledge when I reported to the Fuehrer's headquarters.

Q. When was that, witness?

A. That was on approximately the 20th of August 1943.

Q. Witness, what were you told at that time?

A. I received an order through the then Field Marshal von Keitel who introduced me to my new office and my new responsibilities, and he pointed it out explicitly that I had to take ruthless measures to an extent. And he showed me an order of Hitler which said the same thing, and which went as far as to say that Hitler emphasized he would cover every superior who exceeded his responsibilities.

In this exaggerated sense the introduction of this order was carried out by Keitel. Subsequently I went to Jodl, whom I knew from earlier days, and in my new commission I can only say I was shocked by it. He calmed me down and emphasized that Keitel's conception was exaggerated. With this attitude in mind I arrived in Belgrade.

Q. Witness, do you know for a fact whether your predecessor, in his capacity as Military Commander of Serbia, that is General Bader, whether he ordered and carried out collective retaliation measures?

A. It was made known to me that during the years of 1942 and 1943 considerable retaliation measures were necessary.

Q. Who was Bader subordinate to?

A. As far as I know, he was subordinate to Army Group E, that is, General Loehr.

Q. Did you discuss the question of retaliation measures as far as it was connected with Bader, his chief, and your later chief Geitner?

A. I must assume that we did discuss these matters. I cannot remember details at this time.

Q. What impression did Geitner make on you with respect to the retaliation measures?

A. Geitner and I from the very beginning in this as in all other matters understood each other completely. I made my attitude clear to him and I explained to him that under no circumstances was I willing to carry out these collective retaliation measures, which in my opinion were senseless, without special pressure on me. In this connection I might mention that this conception of mine I also made clear to my supreme commander Field Marshal von Weichs and that I found his consent.

Q. What, in your opinion, was the purpose -- I am not talking about the cause -- of these collective retaliation measures?

DR. LATERNER: I object. The witness, Your Honor, is to be asked the facts only, not his opinion and judgment. For this reason I object to the question.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: I think the objection is good; it is sustained.

Q. Witness, what was known to you as fact and the purpose of these retaliation measures?

DR. LATERNER: I object. Your Honor, that is the same question as before.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Sustained.

A. The collective retaliation had--

DR. LATERNER: Your Honor, since the question was not admitted, the witness may not answer.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: That is correct. Proceed with another question, Mr. Rapp.

Q. Witness, did the retaliation measures prove effective? I mean, was their purpose fulfilled?

DR. LATERNER: I object again. The question refers again not to a fact but the question is asked to judge something.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, if you will pardon me please, we submit that the witness was the expert in the Southeast Theater. He was responsible for these measures and I am asking him as a matter of fact whether or not his success or failure in relation to the retaliation measures was obtained.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: I think, Mr. Rapp, if you have him testify as to what happened, testify as to the facts, the balance of it is a conclusion.

MR. RAPP: Very well, Your Honor.

Q. When we talk about so-called retaliation or reprisal measures, does this concern matters of security or of tactical nature?

DR. LATERNER: Your Honor, this question too is not admissible; this question again asks the witness to judge something; the prosecutor may ask the facts but he may not ask the witness to judge certain facts. I, therefore, object.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, if you permit, we believe in this particular instance, as far as this question is concerned, that the witness must have known himself whether these collective measures are of a tactical measure or of a security measure.

He was in charge of them and he is merely being asked which one of the two it was.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: We will permit him to answer that question.

MR. RAPP: Very well, Your Honor.

A. The collective measures were of a tactical nature as well as of a police nature. In the Balkan area, as matters stood at that time, in my opinion the police nature - aspect - of the matter is the more important one.

Q. Did you talk to the then Commander in Chief of Army Group F with respect to these retaliation measures?

A. Yes, indeed, on repeated occasions, and quite frankly Field Marshal von Weichs was from the very beginning of exactly the same opinion, that is, that the collective order, at least as of the autumn 1943, was completely nonsensical. He and Ambassador Neubacher, who was an important person with regard to these matters, were in my opinion a great support to us.

Q. Do you know whether the defendant Foertsch was present with this kind of discussion you had with Weichs?

A. These discussions took place in the inner circle, that is, at the office of the Supreme Commander, and as far as I recollect Foertsch was present every time.

Q. Your chief, Geitner, was he present too at these discussions?

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Pardon me, we are getting a little ahead. Could you slow down your questions?

A. I think I recollect that General von Geitner was only present a very few times, but I am certain that he was present at the beginning of my activities.

Q. Did you at any time discuss these things with your subordinate military commander, that is, did you discuss retaliation measures?

A. The very few times when the military commanders were presented to me personally we discussed all of these reprisal questions as a matter of course.

Q. What else was the attitude of the military commander subordinate to you to these retaliation matters?

A. I did not find a single person who was against my conception, with the exception of the Higher SS and Police Leader Meissner.

Q. Witness, who had the right to order retaliation or reprisal measures?

A. The military commander had the right to order retaliation measures.

Q. To whom was the Military Commander responsible as far as retaliation measures were concerned?

A. In the first place he was responsible to his superior office; that was as regards the Military Commander in Greece and Albania; my office and as far as I was concerned, in the first place, the OKW.

Q. Did the Military Commander in each single case request your permission for the orders of retaliation measures?

A. No. In this respect they were independent.

Q. When the troops under your command in Serbia were employed in the fight against the partisans, were the troops under your command or under that of Army Group F?

A. No, they fought under my tactical command.

Q. Who, in such cases, was your tactical superior, witness?

A. My tactical superior was the army group.

Q. Which army group?

A. Army Group F.

Q. Then the German Plenipotentiary General in Croatia, Glaise-Horstenau -- was he subordinate to you?

A. Glaise-Horstenau was subordinate to me.

Q. What was his official relation to Army Group F?

A. I have said previously that Glaise-Horstenau had a more political position, that is, he was a political advisor to Poglavnik, and in this capacity he was, in my opinion, also subordinate to Army Group F, which was expressed by the fact that he was often in Belgrade, and as the first thing always visited the army group.

Q. Did he have the right to order reprisal measures?

A. No.

Q. Who was responsible for the ordering and carrying out of retaliation measures in Croatia?

A. As far as I remember, Poglavnik with his Ustascha bands and the tactical commander in chief, the commander of the Second Panzer Army.

Q. Did Glaise-Horstenau ever report to you about the carrying-out of so-called retaliation measures in Croatia?

A. No, not in writing, only orally. He outlined the political situation in Croatia to me.

Q. Did your subordinate officers in connection with retaliation measures repeatedly or at all -- did they suggest to you ratios for retaliation?

A. It did occur repeatedly that local commanders requested me to order a reprisal measure and put suggested ratios to me.

Q. If I understand you correctly, witness, you are now talking of the local commander, who was subordinate to you only in Serbia, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. The Military Commanders subordinate to you -- did they ever suggest ratios to you?

A. No, there were no suggestions from these quarters.

Q. Did you have the right to order reprisal measures when there were attacks against your own troops, which were subordinate to you?

A. No, these reprisal measures were also requested for attacks, murder and such things carried out on the Serbian people who were under the protection of or employed in any way by the German Wehrmacht, as for instance, mayors and such people.

Q. Did you, as Military Commander Southeast, ever order reprisal measures outside of the Serbian area?

A. No, it was out of the question.

Q. Did the tactical troops or their commander in Serbia know that retaliation measures as a reprisal were ordered?

DR. LATERNSEER: I object. The witness cannot testify to what somebody else knows. He can only testify to his own knowledge.

JUDGE CARTER: I think you had better establish that by preliminary questions.

MR. RAPP: Very well, Your Honor.

Q. Witness, did you ever tell the tactical troop commanders that you ordered reprisal measures?

A. No.

Q. Who, I mean what authority or what person, informed you that the enemy had attacked German troops?

A. These reports generally came in from the local headquarters. If attacks were carried out on the troops themselves, as for instance on the professional police of the Higher SS or Police Leader, then the request for a retaliation measure came from the Higher SS and Police Leader.

Q. Witness, did you ever order retaliation measures as a reprisal for attacks, that is for attacks on material or members of the German troops which were tactically under the command of Army Group F?

DR. LATERNSEER: I object. The question is put in such a general way that the witness cannot personally answer it. It is kept in such a general manner that one can hardly say that the witness is being asked about effect.

JUDGE CARTER: He may answer it if he can.

Q. Witness, if you can, answer the question.

A. May I ask you to formulate this question again?

Q. Did you directly order retaliation measures as a reprisal for attacks, that is attacks on material or members of the German tactical troops which were subordinate to Army Group F?

DR. LATERNSEER: I object again.

MR. RAPP: I believe, Your Honor, Dr. Laternser did not hear you say that the witness could answer the question if he was in a position to answer it. I am merely repeating the question. The witness did not get the question.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, as far as I understood, it was now even more generally put. The witness could only be asked whether he knows certain troops he was subordinate to. Whether attacks were made against those troops and whether for that reason he ordered reprisal measures; it is impossible - it doesn't make sense - that the witness should have to answer this question.

JUDGE CARTER: The witness may answer it. Overruled.

A. Requests from the troops for retaliation measures generally did not come to me at all, for everything that happened to the troops happened generally speaking during combat, and in combat no reprisal measures were ever taken. It cannot merely here concern attacks on police units who perhaps were attacked while supervising the harvesting or carrying out of other similar tasks. In those cases the Higher SS and Police Leader did request retaliation measures, and in as high a ratio as possible in those instances.

Q. Witness, did you inform Army Group F when you wanted retaliation measures, and as to when it was carried out?

A. The information on retaliation measures which had been carried out was received by the Army Group through our daily reports. Generally speaking the Army Group was informed by me, not about details, for instance, when only three or four people were concerned.

Q. Witness, in which manner was an execution ordered by you carried out?

A. The carrying out took place on the basis of an order which was given to the higher SS and Police Leader. The troops, at least in the Serbian area, refrained from all reprisal measures and from the carrying out of all reprisal measures

Q. You, therefore, do not know, witness, how the execution was actually carried out?

A. No, Meissner was usually quite strange, he also treated these matters very secretly and discretely.

Q. Who gave the order for the arresting of hostages?

A. I believe one has to distinguish, that general arrests of hostages were carried out by the Police for purely political reasons; that is to say, out of certain classes of the population they collected persons who seemed suitable to them. Hostage arrests by the local headquarters, as far as I can recollect, did not take place during my time, because we were of the opinion that we would never get the right people and that, in the last instance, the Communists would feel a quiet satisfaction about the fact that we would take people as reprisal measures who were politically their opponents. Therefore, the arrest of hostages -- at least, that is, up to 1943 -- was in the main in the sector of the High SS and Police Leader. We had no possibility whatsoever of applying any methods to really find out whether the hostages taken were actually Communists. The Staff or the Higher Police Leader never showed his cards.

Q. You said, witness, that this situation only applied up to autumn 1943. How were hostages taken as of the Fall of 1944.

A. The arrest of hostages took place then, too through the activities of the Higher SS and Police Leader. I was in October -- that is, on the 12th of October 1943 -- I found out through a report which came to me by mistake, a report by the Deputy of the Higher SS and Police Leader, Dr. Schaeffer -- then I was informed that Meissner only had five hostages available at that time at his so-called "hostage camp." Therefore, I had to assume that the figures which he usually gave us and which went up to the hundreds, were probably never correct.

Q. Was the number and equipment of the troops subordinate to you in Serbia sufficient to maintain law and order?

A. No, from a purely numerical point of view, I had about 70 to 80 thousand men subordinate to me, in this difficult mountain terrain, the combat troops as well as equipment; also the number was completely insufficient; especially bad was the Bulgarian Occupation Corps.

Q. Witness, what was the highest ratio which you ordered as retaliation measure?

A. I may refuse to answer this question.

Q. Did the ratios go down?

A. Yes, they went down considerably in the daily reports. I received in the reports 50 cases of murder, kidnapping or wounding within my own Serbian area; when I had applied the ratio even to a small extent, I would have had to kill thousands of people.

Q. Why, witness, did you order that ratio to go down?

A. I did not have to give an order to this effect, because the decision rested solely with me, and from the very beginning I had been determined to diminish reprisal measures where at all possible and to raise them in cases where they were really necessary and to apply them according to the severity of the case.

Q. Witness, did you ever, as retaliation, order the burning down of houses?

A. Immediately after my arrival in Belgrade, I was confronted with a request for retaliation -- I think a request by the Higher Police Leader -- I cannot say that for sure, I was asked to order the shooting of about 800 hostages and the burning down of one locality. I, after a long struggle with the Police Leader, decided this order to the effect that this complete reprisal request was not fulfilled; whether at a later date the burning down of houses took place here and there, I cannot say. I think it is, especially in the sector of a Bulgarian unit, quite possible.

Q. Were, according to any of your orders in connection with the reprisal measures, cattle or grain stores of the population confiscated?

A. This question I cannot answer. If it did happen, it can only concern individual isolated cases.

Q. Witness, did you, in your capacity as Military Commander for Serbia and Military Commander Southeast, ever give orders which concerned the taking of hostages from members of families of so-called bandits or partisans?

A. I never did anything like that because I would have considered it nonsensical.

Q. Did you, in your capacity as Military Commander Southeast and Military Commander of Serbia -- did you transfer the population able to bear arms or to work to Germany for work?

A. I had no influence on these matters. I only heard that in earlier years transport of civilian population to Germany was said to have taken place.

At my time the lack of harvest workers was so great in the whole area, especially in Serbia, that we were glad of every single person whom we had received for this work. But it is possible that the Higher SS and Police Leader transferred prisoners of his units to Germany without our knowledge.

Q. Where there hostages camps in Serbia?

A. In my time I knew nothing of a hostage camp.

Q. I am not talking about one hostage camp. I am talking about several.

A. I only heard through a complaint by the Minister President, Nedic, that a collective camp of the Higher SS and Police Leader was the Croatian Area in Semlin; apart from this, I know nothing of any such police camps, in the Serbian area.

Q. Witness, were there concentration camps in Serbia?

A. Not in my time -- at least, not then.

Q. Did Gruppenfuehrer Meissner, in his capacity as Higher SS and Police Leader in Serbia, on the basis of any orders by you, carry out shootings or hangings?

A. When retaliation measures were ordered by me, they went to Meissner as an order.

Q Witness, did the former Fieldmarshal von Weichs ever protest to you about the carrying out of your business?

A No, I had the impression that my Supreme Commander and I agreed completely in this respect.

Q Did the military commanders subordinate to you – at least on paper subordinate to you – did they protest to you about the carrying out of so-called retaliation measures?

Q Do you know in your capacity as former military commander Serbia, whether the units subordinate to you, sent delegations to Serbia?

A I never heard anything about such a delegation, and I think it is quite impossible, since this was merely the territory of the SS and police leaders, which was made clear to me by the initial discussion which I had with Keitel.

Q Witness, did you in your headquarters, in your capacity as Military Commander Southeast, as well as in your capacity as military commander Serbia, – did you hold a court martial?

A No, at least not for these purposes.

Q When you are talking about these purposes, you are talking about retaliation measures?

A Yes, retaliation measures, because the legal business for retaliation measures, these were orders to the SS and police leaders. While under his jurisdiction the Higher Police Leader had his own SS court.

Q I would like to put my question a little clearer.

There ordered shot by you as reprisal, – shot to death, – were they sentenced by a court martial?

JUDGE BURKE: It is not any clearer to me, so far as the translation is concerned.

Q Those who were sentenced by you as reprisal, sentenced to death as reprisal, were they first of all judged by a court martial?

A The persons concerned did not come under my jurisdiction. They were under the jurisdiction of the High SS and Police Leaders. I merely ordered for a certain case, a certain number of hostages to be shot.

One of the Higher SS and police leaders had a court, – legal court proceedings, I do not know which persons he chose.

Q Your order was an order, not a directive?

DR. LATERNSE: I object to this question. This question is a leading question, and I definitely object to it.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CATER: He may answer.

A In my staff, these persons were not judged by a court martial.

Q Witness, I asked you whether your order was considered a strict order?

DR. LATERNSEER: I object. It is purely a legal question which the witness cannot answer. He is not a legal expert.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Whether it is a strict order or not, can only be answered by a court. I do not see how he would construe how it might be interpreted by someone.

MR. RAPP: I beg your pardon.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: I do not see how he could construe how it might have been received by the receiver of the order.

MR. RAPP: Very well.

Q Witness, was an execution actually carried out in accordance with your order by the Higher SS and Police Leader?

A I assume that.

Q Did the partisans or bands during your term of office, as military commander southeast, simultaneously military commander, supreme commander, Serbia, -- did the partisans wear uniforms during that time?

A They cannot be regarded as wearing a uniform. As partisans they were everything one could possibly imagine. Only in July or August, 1944, when they had Tite did they get it.

DR. LATERNSEER: I object, your Honor. The question as it was put is not admissible. The witness was asked whether the partisans wore uniforms.

The witness has said no, he cannot answer that. He has to be asked whether he saw the partisans wear uniforms.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: It might be well to inquire about his knowledge before you ask him a question.

MR. RAPP: Very well, your Honor.

Q Did the military commander subordinate to you, or in the area of Serbia, -- two commanders subordinate to you, ever report to you that the partisans wore uniforms?

A On the part of the troops, generally speaking, the partisans as I said before, did not wear any common uniform at all. In a few individual cases they wore insignia, the hammer and sickle, and others wore German uniforms, Italian uniforms, and every kind of civvies. When I was personally present at band quarters I personally convinced myself of the truth of these facts.

Q Witness, were you ever given reports, or did you at any time yourself, during the experiences at the front, see that the partisans' leaders were wearing uniforms?

DR. LATERNSEER: I object to the question, whether the partisans were led as a unit cannot be answered by the witness because it cannot be seen. It is therefore not a fact, but again a judgment, and therefore the question is not admissible. He cannot see whether the partisans were led. That is no fact.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: You should let the witness testify to the facts. The Court will draw its own conclusions.

MR. RAPP: Very well.

Q State whether you saw immediately at the front, the enemy which confronted you, and which fought you, were they led?

DR. LATERNSEER: I object. I object to the witness answering. He cannot know it; he cannot see it.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: Objection sustained.

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY MR. RAPP:

Q What impression did you gain of the troops that confronted you from the point of view of leadership?

AAAs I said before, up until the summer of 1944, one had the impression that the enemy were what we call in military language a "band". We knew partly also the names of these band leaders. The bands were even partly named after the person, after the name of the band leader.

In July 1944 this picture changed, and from that day on, there was really a kind of military organization recognizable. Even the conception, "division" which Tito gave to his unit, was a bit exaggerated.

Q Witness, did you receive through the so-called Ic channel, reports about the units of the enemy, or did you receive any such report?

AAAs it is militarily usual, we tried to estimate the enemy exactly, and for this purpose too the department mentioned just now, Ic, was mainly responsible. This department submitted exact figures on the material and equipment of the enemy, inasmuch as they could recognize it themselves.

THE MARSHAL: The persons in the court room will be seated.

The Tribunal is again in session.

Q Witness, did you ever see, yourself, how retaliation measures came out?

A No.

Q Did the representatives of the OKH or OKW ever come to your headquarters and order you to witness the executions in retaliation measures?

A No, I cannot remember such a measure during my presence in Belgrade. I remember Colonel Gartmeyer and General Warlimont of the Wehrmacht Fuehrungsstab but this visit was carried out for formal reasons, that is, on directives; that did not concern the reprisal measures.

Q Did any of the representatives of Army Group F come to your headquarters for specific reasons in order to witness the implimentation of an execution?

A No.

Q Did you, in your orders, give instructions that parts of the population concerned had to witness the execution?

A No.

Q Witness, do you know the Military Commander Greece personally?

A Yes, I do; I have seen him several times.

Q Do you recognize him here in the court room?

A Yes.

Q Will you kindly point him out?

A Yes, that is the person furtherest on the right.

Q Did the defendant Speidel, the former Military Commander in Greece, ever receive the permission from you to carry out a reprisal measure?

A I cannot remember; I don't believe it.

Q Did the defendant Speidel report to you about the carrying out of retaliation measures?

A I cannot remember retaliation measures on the part of Speidel apart from one case. That is as far as I know of any extensive strike, and that was in Athens in the Spring of 1944. Otherwise as far as I believe Speidel had nothing to do with retaliation measures because he had practically no troops in contrast to myself.

Q As an evaluation, witness, what of the fighting potential of the troops under your command in Serbia?

A I can only say that until the summer of 1944 this fighting potential was a very small one because as I emphasized before, which is clear from what the state and the training of these troops show, only in the summer when active troops appear in the Balkan Theatre, and in September active divisions were put under my command this picture changed.

Q Which field headquarters were subordinate to you in Serbia?

A Of the field headquarters in Sabac, then in Cacak, in Nish, and in Belgrade. Then a special sub-headquarters which was immediately subordinate to me in Great-Bekerek-Banat and then there was another administrative sub-headquarters in Belgrade. At the same time there were counter headquarters.

Q Did you ever visit these sub-headquarters?

A Yes, I often visited the sub-headquarters.

Q Did the defendant Geitner often visit the sub-headquarters?

A Geitner was often visiting these sub administrative headquarters.

Q Witness, at the beginning of your statement you said that you were against retaliation measures and reprisal measures on principle. Is that correct?

A Yes, it is.

Q For what reasons, witness?

A Because it is against my personal views as a human being; every retaliatory measure I could only understand and comprehend if the cause for it constituted such a danger for the troops and the lives of the troops, that I could not pass this aspect and must not pass it.

When I started in my position, when I asked the Serbian Government the second or third day about my headquarters, I made it quite clear that I was interested in maintaining peace and order, and that I was interested in not carrying out any reprisals. The Serbian Government promised that it would do its part in this task and it has done that as far as it had any connection with Mihalovic; it has undoubtedly done so.

Q Witness, apart from humane reasons did other reasons prompt you to be against retaliation measures?

A Well, I thought for tactical reasons too; an exaggeration might bring about the opposite of what I intended, that is, it might bring about unrest.

Q Did any unrest break out, witness?

A In my time in general it did not break out but I remember at the beginning of the year 1944 two very conspicuous occurrences called for my attention. There was, for instance, near Sabac a train crammed with people and soldiers, had been attacked by partisans; the people were dragged away; 40 or 50 were murdered; the rest were plundered, and sent home. Two days later 7 field police in Ivanica were attacked by the population, at least in collaboration of the population, and were killed. I myself helped to bury them in Belgrade. Apart from that I do not remember any major occurrences during that time.

Q Witness, did you have a legal advisor on your staff?

A On my staff I had several legal personalities since I supervised the jurisdiction over my soldiers and then I also had to intervene if the civilian population did not carry out our orders, - those were under the Judge Advocates, about five or six.

Q: Did you ever talk with the Judge advocates about the retaliation matters?

A: I have done that very often, because I was of the view that these retaliation measures were a very important factor for my task.

Q: What did the officials of the Judge Advocate Department tell you about the retaliation measures?

A: Their view was that retaliation measures as a reprisal was an admissible measure. From my training I learned that in other armies the question of hostages had played a part. I knew also that even innocent persons, if there was need, would be made responsible. For me the question of hostages was a question which had been founded on legal arguments.

Q: Witness, do I understand you correctly when I say that your legal advisors did say that the so-called ratio was legally admissible?

A: I never talked to anybody about the ratio, either my legal advisors, because I rejected it from the very beginning.

Q: Did you, witness, ever visit the War Academy?

A: In World War I, I took part in a short training course that was a substitute for War Academy during the war.

Q: Witness, in your capacity as an officer were you instructed about the land warfare regulations?

A: That happened occasionally that something was said about these matters in a larger circle. Essentially every single individual was responsible for reading up on these matters.

Q: Witness, do you know what a war diary is?

A: The war diary which each unit start from the company upwards was forced to keep in very brief outlines the happenings of the day and the most important decisions of the higher commands, if the War Diary is kept by the Chief of the General Staff of that unit.

Q: Is there someone who is responsible for the correctness of the war diary?

A: That is the Chief of the General Staff. In case of a higher command and in the case of troops the Regimental Commander, whoever it may be in that case.

Q: Did you ever order so-called sham executions?

A: Yes, indeed, I may say in this connection that they were carried out on my orders, which was caused by the information which I had received by mistake that the troops of the Higher SS and police leader had very few hostages.

Q: From what date onwards, witness, did you order sham executions, approximately?

A: This took place approximately on 12 October 1943, perhaps a week after that the first sham measures were ordered.

Q: Witness, from this date onwards were all executions or so-called executions sham executions?

A: No, these sham executions were interdispersed with the so-called reprisal measures so far as necessary at that time. I cannot say anything about the number of the sham executions ordered by me.

Q: Can you perhaps tell us the percentage with which they were, compared to the real executions?

A: No, I had no percentage in that case. I was only influenced from case to case as they happen. Retaliation measures were not carried out by me at all and were not decided on by me.

Q: Who apart from you knew about these so-called sham executions?

A: I believe that the circle was a very small one for very definite reasons. I can believe that it was merely my chief and perhaps the expert for retaliation measures, and the Adjutant of the Department 1-A.

Q: Did the Area headquarters know of this?

A: Yes, insofar as I told the administrative area commanders when visiting them that I thought this was a very good measure, and the collective order which was still in force then could thus be circumvented, which seemed suitable to us.

Q: Were you at all afraid that the circle of the people who know about these so-called sham executions would have to be kept small?

A: Yes, indeed. As I have just hinted here I had to consider the great distrust which was especially prevalent in the SS Sector. The higher SS and police leader had his through the channel of command to the highest SS authority, Himmler, after he had been told by Meissner that we did not succeed in carrying out severe measures and did not keep to the Fuehrer Collective Order. Then we had to reckon that Himmler would at once create a frightful row with Keitel, and we would have been held responsible through that channel, and for this reason we had, as far as the so-called sham executions were concerned, to be very careful.

Q: Did Army Group F know of these sham executions?

A: I myself cannot answer that. I must assume that the Chiefs, among each other, in their personal talks talked about this point.

Q: But, witness, you personally, in spite of your good connections to Weichs, did not talk to Weichs about these measures?

A: I cannot answer that with any certainty today, but it is quite possible.

Q: Now, how were these sham execution entered into the War Diary?

A: Whether they have been entered I do not know. I don't really see any reason for that, apart from the fact that for a long period of time a retaliation measure was not ordered by us, and that one considered it an expedient to enter some figure again.

Q: Apart from Serbia, that is from this, were sham executions carried out in other areas, which were under the command of the Military commanders?

A: I don't know anything about that.

Q: Witness, for what reasons was the life of a German soldier estimated at a higher value than that of the enemy?

A: For that I cannot give an explanation.

Q: Was it estimated at a higher value, witness?

A: No, not by me. The proof of that may be a charge of a higher police leader from October 1943, where he charged me that the Serbian civilians were judged by me at a higher value than his auxiliary police, that he wanted to find out himself.

MR. RAPP: If Your Honors permit, we would like now to refer to Document Book 18 again and, if Your Honors turn to it, to the last document in this particular book -- Your Honors, if Your Honors turn please to page 91 and page 102, German defense counsel page 88 and page 100, these two documents, Your Honors, were marked for identification 440 a and 440 a/1; these two documents, Your Honors, are two affidavits executed by the witness Felber and, with Your Honors' permission, I would like now to put these documents to the witness to refresh his memory, to have him identify these documents and then, in connection with the contents of these documents, ask him some further questions.

DR. LATERNER: Your Honors, I object to these intentions of the Prosecution because it does not conform with the regulations of Anglo-American Law. The witness is at this time a prosecution witness. He is stating here what he must know; that is to say, he must answer when questioned. It is not admissible that in the direct examination the memory of the witness is refreshed. If you do this, what the witness says is not what he knows and only this, his own knowledge, is at issue. For this reason, it is inadmissible and, if the prosecution now submits or leaves them to the witness and then subsequently puts questions to him, I emphasize and for this reason, because the witness has only got to state his knowledge in the direct examination, refreshing of his memory may not and must not take place.

DR. SAUTER (Counsel for defendants von Geitner and Lanz): I join this protest of my colleague and for another reason -- rather, for two other reasons.

First of all, our procedure is taking place under acceleration. We have always been told at all times, in every trial, the trial should be expedited as much as possible as far as can be reconciled with justice and fairness; but in my view a lot of time will be lost if, first of all, a witness is examined orally at great detail and then an affidavit of many pages being read, there is no purpose to hear this twice on the part of the prosecution.

There is another point of view which, in my view, is of a very serious nature. We have heard that the witness is in danger of being tried before this or another court because of his connections. For this reason, the prosecution was, too, careful not to examine this witness as a prosecution witness and propose to have him here as a court witness.

For the same reason, the Court told the witness that he cannot be asked to state, to testify, against himself under oath. I don't know whether the witness, during his several interrogations on the part of the prosecution, has been told about his right not to make any statements since he might incriminate himself by this. According to my experiences, this did not take place in general.

We now have the situation, the witness may only testify here about things about what he wants to testify. He can refuse to give any information regarding questions by which he might incriminate himself. This right, this privilege, is given to the American Law, and to the witness and the situation of General Felber, but this right would be taken from the witness if here as a witness he may refuse to testify regarding questions about which he does not want to give any evidence; but if, on the other hand, evidence would be submitted or read to him which, in the preceding procedure he had to give and, because he had not been told about his right to refuse to testify I don't know, Your Honors, whether the witness Felber is interested that his former testimony is not being read. I never talked to him about it. I am seeing him here for the first time but, however the situation may be, or whatever point of view the witness Felber himself takes, for fundamental reasons it should be prohibited that in such a case the previous evidence possibly given under oath should be read to his disadvantage and utilized. For these reasons I join the objection of my colleague.

DR. LATERNER: Your Honors, I want to submit a further legal reason which should equally make it impossible for the prosecution to read these affidavits. The reason is the following one:

Every person who wants to prove something must, in every individual case, submit the best evidence for every point of evidence. We have here the witness himself and, in the presence of the best evidence, secondary evidence like an affidavit can not be used on no account in order to refresh the memory of better evidence by means of worse evidence. For these reasons, the reading of these affidavits has become impossible.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Just what is the purpose of the offering of these affidavits, Mr. Denney?

MR. DENNEY: Well, if Your Honors pleases, first, this man is not what one would consider a normal witness. He has spent a lifetime in the German Army. He has been closely associated with some, if not all, of the defendants and we have not talked to him, as we indicated to Your Honors last week. We have several affidavits which he wrote in long hand and which he signed himself which were the basis for our calling him to testify here. In some respects he has made statements on the stand which are inconsistent with those affidavits.

First, with reference to Dr. Laternser's lecture on the right to refresh the witness' recollection, it is submitted that at any time a witness may be given anything for the purpose of recalling to him presently his impression at a prior time, if these affidavits do recall to him what he said at that time and he is willing to admit that he said them at that time, then we at least have shown that he has made a statement now which is inconsistent with what he said before.

If, on the other hand, he says he never made the statement and we point out to him in his affidavit what he has said, why, of course, we submit that the affidavits are admissible for the purpose of showing these prior inconsistent statements.

We have not talked to the witness since -- I believe Mr. Rapp said last June and we are only calling him an effort to cast further light on this situation down in the Southeast.

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honors, may I add something? In answer to what the prosecution has just said, it is my view that the prosecution wants to make, conduct a cross examination with it's own witness. I have to assume and must assume that a witness provided by the prosecution will testify something which is in accordance with what the witness has done.

It does not seem to be admissible that the prosecution now wants to influence the witness by submission of former evidence to change his statements here in court. In any case, it is not possible for the prosecution to cross examine its own witness and if it could now submit his own affidavit, that would amount to a cross examination.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: It is the opinion of the Tribunal that the affidavits themselves are not admissible in evidence. However, the prosecution may inquire of the witness regarding conflicting statements or anything, or even refreshing his memory, but the evidence given by the witness himself will be the controlling evidence. To that extent the prosecution may use the affidavits.

MR. RAPP: If your Honors will permit, at this time I would like to refer to the identification No. 440-a, NOKW 611. I would like now to pass to the witness this particular document so that he can familiarize himself, and then after we have given the witness some time to look this document over, I would like to ask him a few questions in connection with that document.

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, I do not know whether it has been rightly translated, or whether I understood the ruling of the court differently. I understand that the things which have been stated in this affidavit may be touched upon by questions to the witness, but that the affidavit may not be submitted to him.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: I think the proper method would be to ask him about the conflicting statements that are in the affidavit. Read the part to him that is in apparent conflict, and have him harmonize it, if he can. I doubt if it is proper to hand him the entire affidavit at this time.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, I was trying to avoid getting any part of the affidavit read into the record, - citing parts of the affidavit to him. I thought that it would be better to have the witness take a look at the affidavit, take the affidavit back, and then ask him some questions in relation to the answer he has given at that time. However, if your Honors feel that this is not satisfactory, I would be only too glad to follow your suggestion.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: I think if the defendants object, that we should sustain that objection.

DR. LATERNSEER: I object, your Honor.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: Objection sustained.

DR. LATERNSEER: Because it is my point of view, the witness at this moment -

DR. SAUTER: In addition to this objection, I want to point to something else. We have in this document, the two affidavits of the witness. The witness, as we have heard today, has been examined seven times by the Prosecution, and I take it that he gave seven affidavits, - not less than seven affidavits.

In my view it would be all right if we want to follow the procedure which has been suggested by the prosecution, that these seven or ten affidavits should be read, then we would not only see what is in two, but we shall see what is contained in all 7 affidavits, and then the Court can form a picture much easier regarding the value or absence of value of these affidavits. As long as only two records of interrogations are submitted, there only remains a fraction.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: The prosecution may interrogate the witness about any conflicting statements he made in these affidavits. When the defense cross-examine they can put in as many other parts of these affidavits as they see fit, but I think the prosecution can pursue its own methods. You may proceed.

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY MR. RAPP:

Q. Witness, you have at one time, written in your own handwriting, a report about your activities in the Southeast theatre. I believe I shall go back to the German language.

You once wrote a document in your own handwriting. So far as I know, this document was not written here in Nurnberg. Is that correct?

A. Yes, that is correct. I once made a statement about the southeastern area, and that was the summer of 1946 in the camp of Zuffenhausen.

Q. And later, during your internment in Nurnberg, you wrote two affidavits, that is two, to be exact, here in Nurnberg?

A. So far as I remember, I believe three.

Q. I am talking about Nurnberg. Two or three, in Nurnberg, witness?

A. I believe three. There was an addendum. One affidavit to which I wrote a short addendum, and then a second affidavit.

Q. Witness, you told us some time ago, in direct examination, that you were only competent for retaliation measures in Serbia. Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Witness, did the military commanders subordinate to you, -did they not in each and every single case, have to get permission to carry out the retaliation measures --- did they not?

DR. LATERNER: I object. This is a leading question. The question is, did the military not have to have permission. It is impossible to cross examine their own witness. I must energetically protest against this procedure by the prosecution.

MR. RAPP: That is what the witness had already testified to previously this afternoon.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: Proceed with the question.

BY MR. RAPP:

Q. Will you kindly answer this question.

A. The military commanders were independent as regards to provisions on retaliation measures. They were generals of the Infantry, the artillery and Airforce, under oath, and they were for that reason, in the same manner as I myself; it was not the case that a military commander in Greece would have to get permission from me in order to carry out a retaliation measure which he found suitable.

Q. Witness, you are telling us now that on the strength of the fact that the military commanders subordinate to you were also generals, it is proved that for this reason they did not have to have your consent for the implementation of these measures; is that correct?

A. Yes. There is a regulation that the ordering of retaliation measures may be ordered independently from the regional commanders upwards.

Q. Witness, did you ever during your preliminary interrogation, tell us in writing, and under oath, that before every execution, your personal consent would have to be obtained?

DR. LATERNER: I object to this question. It is not -- it is inadmissible because it is a leading question in direct examination.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: I think you should quote what he said and ask if he did not make that statement; quote from his affidavit; give him an opportunity to affirm or deny or explain, as he sees fit.

It seems to me, that is the way you should proceed.

MR. RAPP: Very well, your Honors.

I am going to read to you, witness, the paragraph to which I refer. I would like to put another question to you.

Did you at any time order that whole villages, whole communities were to be burned down?

A. In my recollection I have emphasized that frequently, that I did not burn down a single community which I had ordered to be burned down, but I believe it is possible that in a battle perhaps, by the police, by the Bulgarians, communities were, against my will, burned down, or at least houses were burned down, which I was told only later.

Q. Witness, did you in your capacity as military commander southeast, at any time, -- did you reserve to yourself the right or rather the vote right regarding the executions carried out in areas of other military commanders?

A. It never got to that.

Q. Why not?

A. Because I cannot remember that the military commanders in Greece or Albania, --- that is these two military commanders, -- reported any greater major retaliation measures to me.

Q. You said that you received daily reports from the military commanders; is that right?

A. Those were very brief reports which we received daily, comprising about three to four lines regarding the Albanian or the Croatian area, that is, not very detailed reports. The detailed daily reports went, as far as I remember, to the local tactical departments. That was in the case of the Military Commander Greece, the Army Group E, and in Albania. During my time I probably never got as far as retaliation measures by the Plenipotentiary General.

Q. Did Army Group Fever order any retaliation measures?

A. The Army Group F, in the summer of 1944 on the first of July--that was the date of the receipt of this order--gave a collective retaliation order for the entire Southeast area which was harmonized in relation to my staff and with our experiences regarding retaliation measures. These experiences were used by the Army Group.

Q. Witness, now I would like to quote from your document to which I directed your attention previously.

DR. LATERNSEER: This is an admissible. I object to this quotation. I object to this document's being quoted. The Witness may, at the most, be asked, in order to show the way to the Prosecution, "What did you say on the so and so of May, etc.?"

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: I think the Prosecution is entitled to ask the Witness if on such and such a date and if on such an occasion he didn't make the following statement in writing and then quote the statement, as long as the affidavit is not to be in conflict with his testimony. I think, to this extent, the Prosecution may use the affidavit.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, that's all we had in mind.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: All right; you may proceed on this basis.

MR. RAPP: We have a document before us which was written by you on the 15th of July 1946 in the Internment Camp No. 78. This document to which I refer bears on the top the words, "Felber, Hans, General of Infantry No. 365-D-/35, Statement About my Activity" I quote: "Military Commander Southeast." I quote and ask you whether on Page 22 and Page 24 respectively, you wrote the following lines: "Retaliation Measures: From the OKW: Whereas in other occupied countries special directives were decided on regarding retaliations measures, the collective retaliation order of Hitler is known. That in case of ambushes we should take the most severe measures. The burning down of villages, the shooting of hostages, that is, for every killed German soldier, 50; for every wounded native of Germany, graduated figures according to the importance of the person." These had been laid down as directive. Now, another question, Witness: Are these, so far, your own statements?

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, it is my duty to object to such a procedure in direct examination. And I shall object therefore on every question which is put in this way, and I shall repeat it. We are now in direct examination. The witness, can, at the most, be asked, Your Honor, "Were you interrogated on such and such a date, and what did you say on such and such a date?" And only in this manner can we ascertain what the witness knows today. In this proceeding it is only necessary to know what the witness knows today. And for this reason it is forbidden that a witness use any notes. The reason for this is that the Court may only want to find out what the witness knows now and not what he had written sometime.

I repeat, it is my duty to object to such a procedure.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: We'll let the witness answer the question.

MR. RAPP: Witness, would you answer my question?

A. Yes, this sentence was written by me at the time.

Q. "In the Fuehrer Headquarters when introduced to his duties before he took up his new duties, the Military Commander Southeast was expressly asked to keep to this order as emphasized already. The new Military Commander Southeast took up his duties with an attitude which contravened such retaliation measures, and a special case, during the first weeks, gave an opportunity to put these views to a test." Are these then your statements?

A. Yes.

DR. LATERNSE: Dr. Laternser, Your Honor, it is again my duty to object to this question.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Overruled.

MR. RAPP: I quote from Page 23 and want to ask you at the end of my quotation whether this is what you deposed. "The Supreme Directive of the Military Commander Southeast, who was aware of his enormous responsibility just in this field, it has always been to lead the struggle in a soldierly and humane manner and that was taking over responsibility in the Serbian area. Through the newly organized Military Commander Southeast a thorough change in the execution of retaliation measures would take place. The implementation of the Hitler quota, retaliation measures was, in spite of knowing that we would thus deviate from the Fuehrer order from the collectives. This was now taken over by a purely soldierly and German procedure. Many lives may thus have been saved." Witness, are these your depositions?

A. Yes.

Q. And you remember that you talked your position as Military Commander Southeast. Why, in your capacity as Military Commander Southeast, did you have influence on the way and manner of the retaliation measures when, is as you said this afternoon, the Military Commanders were not subordinate to you in this respect?

DR. LATERNSE: Dr. Laternser, Your Honor, I also object to this question. That is a suggestive question which is not admissible in his direct examination.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: You may answer the question.

MR. RAPP: You may answer the question.

A. I did write this formula at the time, clearly recognizing that it merely concerned the activity of the commanders in the Serbian area. And this formula, I did not want to have the conditions in Greece and Albania included. In order to put it quite clearly it only concerned what happened to Serbia in this formula.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: We will recess until 9:30 tomorrow morning.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal will be in recess until 9:30 tomorrow morning.

(THE COURT RECESSED AT 1630, to RESUME SESSION TUESDAY, 12 August 1947, at 0930)

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the Courtroom will please find their seats.

The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal V. Military Tribunal V is not in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

There will be order in the Court.

May it please your Honors, all defendants are present in the Courtroom.

The persons in the courtroom will be seated.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: You may proceed, Mr. Rapp.

MR. RAPP: Thank you, Your Honor.

HANS GUSTAV FELBER - Resumed DIRECT EXAMINATION (Continued) BY MR. RAPP:

Q. Witness, yesterday during the examination you were asked whether you had at any time ordered that the able-bodied population or a number of the able-bodied population in Serbia, had been transported to Germany on your orders, for forced labor. Witness, thereupon, if I remember rightly, you answered that it did not conform with the facts since you yourself wanted this kind of population as a cultural worker for harvest and for any other kind of agricultural or industrial work, -- that you wanted this part of the population. Is that right, witness?

A. Yes, indeed.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, if you permit, I would like to call your attention to Document Book No. 18, at this time, please. I am referring to NOKW 717, Exhibit 435, I believe it is on page 22 of the English, page 26 of the German document book. If your Honors permit, I would like now to ask the assistant secretary general to hand me the original of this exhibit.

I am referring to, so that I may show this exhibit to the witness. Is this agreeable, your Honors?

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: It may be handed to the prosecutor.

MR. RAPP: I have asked the assistant Secretary General very early this morning to be sure that we have the original exhibits here. I do now know whether or not they have arrived as yet.

SECRETARY GENERAL: The Courier is on his way, Sir.

MR. RAPP: Shall I go on, your Honor, to the next question, and we can come back as soon as the exhibit has arrived?

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: If you will, please.

MR. RAPP: In order to save time.

Q. Witness, yesterday you were asked whether there had been so-called "hostages camps" in Serbia, and I believe that you answered: "During my time I did not know anything of a hostage camp". Is that correct?

A. Yes, with the qualification that a collective camp of the higher SS and Police Leader in Croatia was supposed to have been in Semlin as I was told by people, but personally I did not know anything about it.

Q. If your Honors please, I refer you to document book 17, - this is NOKW 174, Exhibit 410, your Honors will find this on page 55, I believe, and German defense counsel on page 41. There again, with your Honors' permission, I would like to put the original exhibit to the witness as soon as it arrives.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: You may do so. Will you give the page again?

MR. RAPP: Page 55 of the English, your Honor, NOKW 174, Exhibit 410.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: You may proceed.

MR. RAPP: I believe the original exhibits have arrived. The first exhibit, Assistant Secretary General, I need, would be Exhibit 535.

Q. Witness, coming back in detail to your statement yesterday, I want to read that part of the document of which we are talking, and I am reading this in English and would ask the Court interpreter to translate this, because I have the English document book in front of me.

"During the operation in Belgrade", I am citing from page 22, your Honor, "against these who broke their work contract, 86 persons were arrested and transferred for labor employment to the Reich."

Witness, did you read this in the document yourself?

DR. LATERNER: I must object to this translation. I would like to ask that the original German text be translated which reads as follows:

"Bei Aktionen in Belgrad gegen Arbeitsvertragsbruechige wurden 86 Personen festgenommen, die dem Arbeitseinsatz im Reich zugefuehrt worden."

I would now ask for a new English translation.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: It may be handed to the translators. I do not see what way it particularly affects the witness here.

TRANSLATOR JACOBSON: The translation of this paragraph which is on page 22 of the English document book, and just below the center reads as follows:

"During the operation in Belgrade, against those who broke their work agreement, 86 persons were arrested and will be transferred for labor employment to the Reich."

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY MR. RAPP: (Continued) Witness, was this document which I have just show to you, signed by you?

A. No, this was not signed by me, and was not initialed by me either. I might be possible, therefore, that I never had any knowledge of it personally.

Q. Who has signed this document, witness?

A. The chief of the General Staff, Colonel von Geitner has signed it.

Q. This was your chief?

A. Yes.

BY MR. RAPP:

Q. Have you got any other explanations to this document?

A. May I say something to the concept of "people who break their work agreements?"

Q. Witness, I don't want to interrupt you, and I don't want to deprive you of the right to go on. Now, it is a question whether these people were transported to Germany for labor employment or not.

Yesterday you told us no. What is your answer today, witness?

A. I could only find an interpretation that here it was a case of people who in their work in Serbia were not of sufficient value, and it may be that as a kind of punishment, since they did not want to work in Serbia, they were sent to Germany. I believe that in this case here it is an exception to the procedure.

Q. Thank you. Your Honors, the next question and document to be put to the witness is Exhibit No. 410, Document Book 17, Page 55-page 41 in the German Document Book. Page 55, Document book 17, Exhibit 410. This is the question the witness already answered that he did not know of any hostage camp in Serbia, with the possible exception of the hostage camp in Croatia which he heard about from the Higher SS and Police leader, which was supposed to have been in Croatia.

(MR. RAPP HANDS DOCUMENT TO THE WITNESS) I read from the document:

"As revenge for the surprise attack on the village of Duplja west of Weisskirchen on 30 Aug 43, in which 3 Volksdeutsche members of the Banat State Guard and one community official were murdered and the community records were set on fire, 160 communist reprisal prisoners are to be shot. The utilization of the bandit members confined in the Gross-Betschkerek hostage camp for execution and of women, so far as they are convicted bandit helpers, is approved. Completion of the action is to be reported by enclosure of one copy of the publication. Military Commander Southeast, Ia No. *4/43, sgd. Felber." Witness, do you know about this exhibit?

A. It is a document which is not counter-signed by me personally, nor is it signed by me, it only bears my signed signature. It might be possible that I had no knowledge of this document personally. In any case it cannot serve as proof. Personally I don't know anything of this hostage camp Gross-Betschkerek.

Q. Where is Gross-Betschkerek?

A. Gross-Betschkerek is situated in the Banat.

Q. I mean is it in Croatia or in Serbia?

A. No, it is a camp. That is, if Gross-Betschkerek is in the Banat, it is in Serbia.

Q. Who was the Chief of the Airway Headquarters? That is, the Commander of the Airway Headquarters in Gross-Betschkerek?

A. I believe his name was Captain Ameluneu.

Q. Weren't you personally?

A. No, it was not me.

Q. Now, what does "signed Felber" mean?

A. From time to time orders were issued which had been reported orally which, however, I could not sign personally because I was, at the time the orders was issued, officially on duty somewhere else. It has also happened that such orders were issued by my deputy, of which I gained knowledge later on. Occasionally, in the course of business, he had forgotten to tell me about it. Generally speaking, however, the order with a signed signature equivalent was an order signed by me personally. The responsibility of the whole duties in my staff I also bear, as Commander in Chief.

Q. Witness, I asked you yesterday what kind of methods were used in order to actually test that the hostages taken were so-called Communists. Do you remember this question?

A. Yes.

Q. Your answer, as far as I recollect was this: "We had no possibility for doing this because the staff of the Higher SS and Police Leader never showed their cards."

Is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you told us in connection with this: that "This situation from the autumn of 1943 onwards changed, "and I asked you then how hostages were taken after the autumn of 1943. And you told me "The taking of hostages took place even then only through the Higher SS and Police Leader." And then you related a story which took place in October, 1943 where you got wind of the tricks of the deputy of the Higher SS and Police Leader. Is that correct, witness?

A. Yes.

Q. If Your Honors please, we will refer to Document Book 17, NOKW-162, Exhibit No. 412 and NOKW-174, Exhibit No. 410 of Document Book 17. The first exhibit, your Honors, will be found on Page 60 of your document book. The second reference will be found on Page 56 of your document book. German defense counsel, the first reference is on page 46 of your document book; the second reference, I believe, is on page 42 of your document book. I shall read from NOKW-162, Exhibit No. 412, on page 60: "Danube Security Staff, For Information: Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters 809. Arrests of suspects from Petrovo Selo as hostages approved up to 50. Only such persons may be arrested who, if necessary, may be shot to death also. Safekeeping must be guaranteed. The liability of the hostages is to be announced publicly. Military Commander Southeast, Ia, No. 228/43 secret of 18.10.43, (signed) Felber." Witness, did you sign this document?

A. Yes, it bears my signature.

Q. Would you like to give an explanation to this document?

A. I can remember looking at this document about the taking of hostages at this place even in October 1943, and they were carried out by departments subordinate to me. That is, not only by the Police Leader. It is not a case of Communists but of hostages generally. I did not remember this fact.

Q. Witness, I asked you further yesterday in what manner executions ordered by you were carried out. You said the execution took place by a directive given to the Higher Police and SS Leader, the troops, at least in the Serbian area, did not take part in any carrying out of retaliation measures. You do not know then, witness, how the execution was in fact carried out?

A. No.

Q. Meissner, who was otherwise very open, he knew how to hide this very discreetly?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you remember these questions and answers?

A. Yes.

Your Honors, please turn first to Document Book XVII. I have references which I would like to put to the witness. This first one is NOKW 174, on page 53; it is page 39 in German; Exhibit 410. That is Document Book XVII, your Honors. The next reference is NOKW-044, Document Book XVII; Exhibit 418; that is page 102; it is on pages 73 and 74 in German. Then NOKW 675; Exhibit 429; Document Book XVIII. Your Honors will find it on page 7 of the Document Book, Defense Counsel on page 8. The first document is Exhibit 429. I shall read the paragraph I have reference to:

"The hanging of the convicted bandit Jaksic in Losnica applied for by the Feldkommandantur 816 Administrative Sub Area Headquarters-----"

It is in the German Document Book No. XVIII, on page 8, 9 and 10. The part I am quoting is actually on page 10. Did the interpreter find that? Thank you. I will repeat this for the record, Your Honors.

"The hanging of the convicted bandit Jaksic in Losnica applied for by the Feldkommandantur 816 Administrative Sub Area Headquarters is approved. The population is to be informed in a proper manner of the reason for the execution."

Q. Witness, do you recognize this document?

A. This document is not known to me. It seems to be an excerpt from the war diary and in any case I cannot remember to have had knowledge of these two occurrences.

Q. Have you got anything to add to what you said about this document?

A. Yes, I would think that in this special case where a bandit was clearly proven to be guilty as an especial exception the Administrative Sub Area Headquarters had asked for his execution in order to cause a corresponding impression in the population. It appeared in any case that there could have been no question of retaliation measures in the collective sense and likewise I can explain the second case of the second Sub Area Headquarters as an exceptional case concerning Mihajlovic, people who by this burning of their houses or of those people who participated in the attack, one made use of these people if the sub-marine pistol loss was not too great.

Q. You were Military Commander Southeast at that time. Is that correct?

A. Until April I was in Belgrade.

Q. Witness, were you, during that time, Military Commander Southeast?

A. Yes.

The next document, your Honor, will be NOKW 174 on page 53 of your document book; on pages 38 and 39 of the German Document Book and this is Document Book XVII, your Honor. The Exhibit number is 410. I shall read this document I am having reference to.

"To: 610th Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters:

Reference: Your teletype of 31 August 1943.

"400 D.M. reprisal prisoners are to be shot as revenge for the surprise attack on the security detachment of the 21st Auxiliary Police Company in Stragari, in which 3 members of the company were killed and 5 missing who did not return after expiration of the established time period. Reprisal prisoners lacking are to be furnished by the Commander of the Security Police.

"The burning down of Stragari as a reprisal measure is to be reported in the proclamation.

"Completion of the action is to be reported.

Military Commander Southeast.

Signed Felber."

Q. Witness, do you recognize this exhibit?

A. Yes. It bears my initial.

Q. What have you got to say in connection with this exhibit?

A. The incident in itself I cannot recall. The case of an occurrence which took place on the third day of my presence in the Balkans. At that time I was not in a position to look through all these things during those first days there. In any case the contents of this order contradicts my views on these matters.

Q. Witness, you know that we are talking specifically about the manner in which retaliation measures were carried out and you told us yesterday that you did not know that, since this was a matter for the higher SS and police leader. I am talking here not specifically of the ratio which has been used here. Do you understand me, witness?

A. Yes.

Your Honors, turn now please to page 102, Exhibit 418, NOKW-044; it is on pages 73 and 74 of the German Document Book.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, this is a rather voluminous German document, and I am trying to find for the witness the part I have reference to, and I beg Your Honors' indulgence for one minute, possibly.

THE PRESIDENT: Take your time.

MR. RAPP: I am having reference to the daily report under the 22nd November 1943. Do the interpreters have the reference on pages 73 and 74 of the German? Thank you.

This is a copy of a teletype, Military Commander Southeast, dated 22.11.43, Daily report 22.11.43, Serbia.

"According to Serbian sources no signs of DM and circles close to him breaking with the allies are recognizable. The continuous attacks on German Wehrmacht automobiles on the main road northwest of Kragujevac are carried out by Cetnik band which wishes to force the release of band members captured by the Serbian Volunteer Corps. These will be hanged on the spot in the course of reprisal measures."

Q Witness, during this time which appears here in this document, the date, were you at this time Military Commander Southeast?

A Yes, in November I was Military Commander Southeast.

Q Just a minute, Witness, and how long had you been Military Commander Southeast at that date?

A Three months.

Q Now, what can you tell us in connection with this document?

A I recall, this incident, I believe, this section here was part of a road, a main road from Belgrade-Nish to Greece, where again and again at the same spot in certain periods surprise attacks on motor cars, and bandits of the Wehrmacht took place, and I believe it is possible that here in order to make an example, DM bandits were in fact hanged at this spot, but this can only have been an exception. Personally, details regarding this case are not known to me.

Q Witness, on the basis of the exhibits which you have now seen, the Military Commander Southeast was informed about the methods regarding the carrying out of the executions, is that correct?

A Yes. Yesterday I understood the question differently. I took it to mean whether we were informed especially in regard to the execution in detail of the liquidation by the SS and Police Leader, whether we had a detailed picture of this.

Q Thank you, witness. The next complex of questions refers to the burning down of houses or communities. I asked you yesterday, did you at any time order the burning down of houses as a retaliation measure, and you told us that as soon as you arrived in Belgrade a request for retaliation measures had been submitted to you by the Higher SS and police leader, 800 hostages were to be executed and a village was to be burned down, and you were successful, according to your statement in preventing this. You thought it possible, however, that within the area of the Bulgarian units occasionally houses could have been burned down; but you did not know whether in connection with other units houses were burned down or whether houses were burned down after the threatened burning down, but prevented by you. Witness, is that correct, what I am repeating here?

A Yes, only I don't quite understand the last sentence.

Q You said yesterday, didn't you, that you were in a position to prevent a mass execution and the burning down of villages, is that correct, Witness? You then said -- would you like to speak a bit louder, witness. What did you say? I asked you in my question, which the interpreter probably missed, whether it is correct you prevented these mass executions which comprised the burning down of a village?

A Yes.

Q And you then said whether later on, that is after this date, burning down of houses took place here and there I cannot say; is that correct, witness?

A Yes.

Q But especially within the sector of the Bulgarian units I believe it is possible, is that correct, witness?

Page 1,749

A Yes.

MR. RAPP: If Your Honors will turn please to Document Book 17, NOKW 170, Exhibit 414, Your Honors will find on page 63, and German Defense Counsel on page 48, -

JUDGE BURKE: Are you referring to NOKW Document 17 or 174?

MR. RAPP: 170, Your Honor, one seven zero.

I shall read the part I have reference to. Do the interpreters have the German pagination?

"Propaganda Section Southeast." I beg your pardon, that is on the other page, Your Honor.

This one is the 3rd Kommandantur 610, 24481.

"The murder of two customs border police near Selac has been compensated for by the operation of the 6th Auxiliary Police Battalion on the 19th and 20th, October 1943, in which 7 Serbian villages were burned down and a considerable number of persons shot to death. The result of the operation is to be published in a direct reprisal measure for the murder of two German customs border police.

Military Commander Southeast."

signed "Felber."

Q Witness, were you at that time Military Commander Southeast?

A Yes.

Q What do you have to say in connection with this document?

A I read from this document that this is a case of spontaneous action by the auxiliary battalion of the police, that is, units of Meissner's. It is not quite clear, perhaps in battle persons were shot during this action and even sever Serbian villages were burned down or were supposed to be burned down. I believe from this term "abgegolten", that I looked upon this case as concluded, and did not continence any other reprisal demands within the framework of the collective order, since the last paragraph especially points to a retaliation measure which had already taken place. May I add in explanation that at that time -- that is, the 27th of October, 1943 -- a considerable battle took place between the Police Leader and Himmler on the one hand and my person on the other hand.

Q Thank you, witness.

MR. RAPP: If your Honors please, I would like to refer you now again to Exhibit 410 in Document Book XVII which we had used previously for a different purpose. It is to be found on Page 54 of Book XVII, Exhibit 410, and Page 440 in the German Document Book XVII.

At this time, your Honors, I am reading again this document into the record for the purpose of establishing the burning down of the village mentioned in this particular connection. Previously, we concerned ourselves in connection with this order with the shooting of 450 Communist suspects. I shall only read that part which has direct bearing on the particular question:

"To 909th Administrative Sub-Area Headquarters, For information of the 1st Royal Bulgarian Occupational Corps, 2nd Panzer Army," also "For Information of 2nd Panzer Army:"

"A total of 450 Communist suspects are to be shot and one bandit village is to be burned down after safeguarding of the economic goods for the surprise attack on the German Harvesting Detachment, etc."
Signed: "Military Commander Felber."

BY MR. RAPP:

Q Witness, I believe we submitted this document to you previously in connection with the shooting of 450 Communists. Now, I shall refer to the burning down of this village. Do you understand me, witness?

A Yes.

Q Have you anything to say to this document as far as it concerns itself with the burning down of a village?

A Yes, I cannot recall this burning down of the village. It is apparently a measure which took place on the 2nd of September. That is three days after I took over the command.

Q Witness, the next complex question concerns itself with the so-called "executive authority", I asked you yesterday "In which territories did you have executive authority," and you answered: "Regarding the concept of executive authority, I had no clear view; from Army Group H at the end of September I got the executive authority for Serbia."

You stated that the concept of executive authority was not very suitable for the Southeastern area. My sphere of work coincided with that of Army Group F, speaking purely geographically. There was no organization as is usual in other cases into the battle area and the rear area -- everything was an operational area.

I then asked you whether I understood you correctly in this respect, that neither you nor the Supreme Commander of the Army Group F, the defendant Weichs, had executive authority until September 1944. You said this did apply insofar as you knew, that this was not expressly ordered by the OKW.

Thereupon I asked you, summarizing, whether the situation did at any time change concerning the executive authority before September 1944 and your answer was "No."

Was what I have said just now correct, witness, as far as it refers to our examination yesterday?

A Yes.

MR. RAPP: If Your Honors permit, I would like now to refer to a series of documents and the first one, your Honors, Document Book 17, is NOKW-1471, Exhibit 423, page 124. I would like to pause for one second, your Honors, and try to help defense counsel find this particular document. This is the document I gave Dr. Laternser one day and asked him to be so kind and distribute it to you gentlemen so I don't have any pagination of that particular document in German, but it should follow the very last page of the German document book No. XVII; that is, it should commence with page 89 in the German.

Is that correct, Dr. Laternser?

Thank you.

The next documents, your Honors, I have reference to is Exhibit 423 of Document Book XVII. You will find this, your Honors, on page 123 --in defense counsel's on page 89; and then, finally Exhibit 297, NOKW-1523 in Document Book XII. I do not believe your Honors probably have Book XII present but we will use the exhibit from the assistant secretary general. That was Exhibit 297, NOKW-1523, Page 75 in the English and Page 66 in the German.

The first document I have reference to, your Honors, is Document 1471, Exhibit 423, page 124. I do not know the German pagination. I am quoting from page 84 of the original. I believe you will find that in the German Document Book it says, "Page 84" of the original. Now I shall only quote one paragraph from this particular Fuehrer order. It is from the OKW, that is, the High Command of the Armed Forces, dated 21 December 1943, Top Secret, Standard Order of Procedure for Military Commander Greece, and it says, under paragraph 2, your Honors:

"Military Commander Greece exercises, by order of Military Commander Southeast, executive power in Greece, including the part occupied by Bulgarian troops so far as he has been authorized to do so."

Q.- Witness, were you at that date, when this executive order was issued Military Commander Southeast?

A.- Yes, I was.

Q.- Can you give us some explanation to this letter?

A.- I remember that these official directives which on our suggestion at the beginning of September, -- our suggestion was at the beginning of September, -- were issued by the High Command of the Armed Forces at the end of December. The contents regarding the figure 2 mentioned here, are not within my recollection. It is so rarely that executive power is ordered so clearly, that I cannot really understand, in my recollection, why only in September, 1944, were we expressly given the executive power by the Army Group for Serbia.

Q.- Witness, did you at any time during your tenure of office as Military Commander Southeast, --did you see this or a similar order at that time?

A.- I can only remember that these official directives were issued to all subordinate commanders, but I cannot recall the contents in detail today.

Q.- Thank you very much, witness.

The next document, your Honors, I have reference to is Exhibit 297. It is in Document Book 12, it is NOKW-1523, and it is called, "Fuehrer Order No. 48". It is dated 26 July 1943. It starts out on page 75 of the English and on page 66 in the German, in Document Book 12. I shall cite however, only that part appearing on page 80 in the English and page 71 in the German.

I would like to give the witness one moment to read this, if Your Honors permit.

I shall now read the part I am having particular reference to. It is a so-called, "Fuehrer Order," marked "Top Secret", OKW Wehrmachtsfuehrungsstab, Operation No. 66, 1637/43, Top Secret, by officer only:

"Fuehrer Headquarters 26 July '43. Directive No. 48". I cite from paragraph B-1, on page 80:

"In the zone of operation in Serbia and Croatia, Commander in Chief Southeast delegates the authority rested in him to exercise executive power to military commander southeast, the latter employing for this purpose in Croatia the Commander of German Troops in Croatia."

A.- For this particular question, only this part will be necessary to quote at this time.

BY MR. RAPP:

Q.- Witness, has this letter been known to you?

A.- I found it when I took over my duties.

Q.- It was only a few days prior to your assuming your duties?

A.- No, according to the date it must have been about a month prior to that.

Q.- What can you tell us in connection with this Fuehrer order, so far as it concerns executive power which, in your view, or according to your statement, after September, 1944, did not at all exist?

A.- In this Fuehrer order, executive power has clearly been ordered but to the Commander in Chief Southeast. If in July already mention is made of the Military Commander Southeast, who was to us in Croatia, the Commander of the German troops, that is an order which in practice, at least, was not carried out.

I recall also that the last sentence of this Fuehrer directive, that the regulations were cancelled which were in contrast to this Fuehrer directive. As we found out later, it did not apply to the area of the Higher Police and SS leader, who as heretofore - the directives concerning his area of command, in agreement with Himmler, which we expressly ascertained - he carried out these orders. How clearly this executive power was ordered, I cannot recall today.

Q.- Thank you, witness.

If I may suggest to your Honors to call the recess now, then we won't get the question and answers split between now and adjournment.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Very well, we will have our morning recess at this time.

(A recess was taken until 1115 hours.)

Q. Just a minute, witness. This is the "Commander-in-Chief Southeast.

(High Command Group F) War Diary Headquarters 30.10.43." (Signed by the defendant Foertsch).

"To distribution:

"Enclosed find draft of the basic order regarding the command authority in the South east area."

And, then a distribution, and I believe the witness may possibly be in a position to make some comments to the entire document having direct bearing on the question I have put to him. Witness, will you now please give us your comment.

A. I did not know of the existence of this. I may have known of the existence of this document from looking at extracts but the distribution does not show my office. The order itself contains clear definitions about the relationship, the subordination which I cannot recollect having so clear an order in existence.

Q. Is that all, witness?

A. Will, the individual items be discussed?

Q. No, witness, now. If you have to make any comments to this make them now.

A. In that case I would like to point out that in this order under Figure 2, under paragraph "e", the Military Commander Southeast regarding all questions of security of the country is subordinate to the Military Supreme Commander Southeast.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

MR. RAPP: The next document we concern ourselves with Exhibit 351, NOKW 1010, Document Book XIV, page 89; that is page 65 in the German Document Book.

Q. Witness, I asked you yesterday, what, in your opinion as a military commander Southeast, was the difference of your official instructions and the official instructions of the then Field Marshal Weichs, Supreme Commander of Army Group F, as much as you know of it, in your capacity as Military Commander Southeast, in your official capacity. You said the Supreme Commander Southeast was responsible for the the whole military area of the Southeastern theatre, and "my responsibility was limited primarily to especially the security and the maintenance of law and order; secondly to the administrative work in the Southeastern area." Is that correct, witness?

A. Yes.

Q. Please, read that for about a minute or so.

Q. Did you have enough time now to look through this document?

A. Please, your Honor, May I have another moment.

Q. Yes, go ahead.

THE PRESIDENT: I believe the witness is ready.

Q. Witness, in connection with your statement yesterday and what you now read, is there anything you have to say and I'd like to point out to you specifically the following paragraph which I am about to read to you so that if it is possible, and if you can do it, you can give us explanations on this.

Q. May I---

MR. RAPP: If your Honors will refer now please to Document Book 18 there was a document offered for identification only on page 91. It was marked as Exhibit 440-A. It is NOKW-611. This is an affidavit from the witness Felber, and in connection with the previous question I have asked the witness, I am now handing him this affidavit to ask him some further questions in regard to the statement he made at that time in this affidavit.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, I object to the intention of the Prosecution to give this affidavit to that witness. I remember that the Tribunal ruled yesterday, subsequent to my objection that it should not be shown to the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: I think, Dr. Laternser, you must be in error as to the Court holding it should not be handed to the witness. The Tribunal has not objected to it being handed to the witness or the witness examining it, and under the ruling of yesterday did restrict it to such questions as would come within the rulings as made yesterday, otherwise the witness would not know what was in the document.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, that is just what matters, what the witness knows and what he doesn't know, and I repeatedly pointed out yesterday that what matters about a witness is the knowledge which he possesses the moment he enters the Court, and that in the direct examination it is a legal basis not to invalidate the probative value of the testimony of the witness, and it should not be possible for him to refresh his memory. Up to now I have taken the rulings of the Anglo-Saxon law as to this, and I don't think I am in error.

THE PRESIDENT: I think the witness perhaps should be asked as to whether or not he did make such a statement and then he may be questioned. The Tribunal is following the thought that this is being presented to the witness for the purpose of refreshing his memory, and is being permitted to be interrogated solely upon that theory.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, may I point out something else. I have no objections as defense counsel that evidence which has already been introduced into these proceedings as exhibits, that those exhibits may be shown to the witness. However, these statements are not yet evidence, and they will never be evidence, because they are statements on a witness who is personally present here. An affidavit of a witness is merely in the shadow of the witness himself, and the value of such an affidavit is dependent on the value of the witness. If the witness does not possess the knowledge any longer at the moment when he is present in Court, and this is evident from questioning, then I cannot strengthen this knowledge in the direct examination, -- I mean if I submit to him explanations and statements which he made a lengthy period ago that does not apply to exhibits which are already received in evidence, but it does apply to evidence which has not yet been received as evidence, and in an observation of the rules of law can never be evidence.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal has indicated its attitude in this matter, and we will proceed along the lines as heretofore stated by myself and as in keeping with the rulings made by Judge Carter yesterday.

You may proceed Mr. Rapp.

MR. RAPP: Very well, Your Honor.

Q.- Witness, this document, is that an affidavit which you made?

A.- Yes, indeed.

Q.- Does it bear your own signature?

A.- Yes, indeed.

Q.- What is the date of the affidavit, witness?

A.- The 8th of January 1947.

Q.- Witness, I would like to ask you merely one question in connection with this affidavit, a question which again concerns your statement of yesterday, that the Commander in Chief Southeast is responsible for the total area of the Southeastern Theatre, and that your task within this as Southeastern area was limited to the security and maintenance of law and order, and furthermore on the administrative work in the Southeastern area.

In your affidavit in January you said "In order to end this unhappy situation a new order was issued in August 1941. The entire control in this area was transferred to the Commander in Chief Southeast, who at the same time is commander in Chief of Army Group F. His main task was of a tactical and strategical nature, that is he had to pacify the Southeast and guarantee for the security of the whole Southeastern area. At the same time a military Commander Southeast was appointed, whose task it was to look after all administration affairs in this area." Witness, your statement now and your testimony of yesterday does not coincide to my opinion; can you make any comments as to this fact?

A.- I am just reading from this affidavit, that it was expressed there whose task it was to deal with all administration affairs. One might assume from this that could be expressed that the Military Commander Southeast had only administrative tasks. However, that would not correspond with the facts. I have repeatedly emphasized that my main task was on the tactical and military sphere, and the security and maintenance of law, and in the Balkan area. My department was mainly concerned with the area of Serbia.

Q.- Witness, who was responsible for the territorial security of the Southeastern area?

A.- I cannot give a clear answer to this because down there in Belgrade we were unfortunately not aware of a clear definition of those authorities. Purely on the basis of orders the territorial measures are a part of the task of the military commander. However, as I previously emphasized the territorial area and operational area geographically coincided. It could be taken from that fact a mixture of the tasks and the responsibility was shared by the Commander in Chief Southeast and the Military Commander Southeast.

Q What is territorial security, witness?

A I understand territorial security is the task to secure the area which is under my jurisdiction and not only against the enemy from outside but also to be responsible for law and order within this particular area.

Q Witness, the last but one page of this affidavit which you have in front of you is an additional explanation to your affidavit. Is that correct, witness?

A If I understood you correctly, you mean the annex to the affidavit?

Q That is correct, the first page of that.

A Yes, indeed. That is an additional explanation.

Q Would you please take a minute and read this?

A I am through.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, I am referring to page 99 of your document book, page 98 in the German. The witness Felber, under the date of 9 January 1947, has given the following addition to his affidavit of the same date. In my opinion -

THE PRESIDENT: Do you propose to read this supplement?

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, I am not proposing to read this. I am merely trying to cite the paragraph, for the Court's information, that I am having reference to in order to avoid to get into long questions which in itself would have no meaning unless we get the background first. I am reading, in other words, for the record only, not for the purpose of getting it as such admitted into evidence.

THE PRESIDENT: It seems to me if you have a desire or if it is your purpose to refresh this witness' memory on something that he failed to comment upon that you might do that; but to read it into the record would violate the previous instructions of this Court and, in our opinion, the rules in connection with matters of this character. Now, with that I feel you should limit your questions and your examination of this witness in this particular document.

MR. RAPP: Very well, Your Honor.

Q Witness, at that time you said in your affidavit that the official instruction of the Commander in Chief of Army Group F, as far as it concerned tactical questions, they coincided with your own instructions. What is your comment to this today?

DR. LATERNSEER: I object to the question. This question is a leading question which is not admissible.

THE PRESIDENT: The objection is sustained.

Q Witness, did you on the 8th of January, 1947, make an additional explanation to your affidavit of the same date?

DR. LATERNSEER: I object. That again is a leading question - not admissible.

THE PRESIDENT: I think the prosecutor should be permitted to complete his question and then the Court will be able to rule more fittingly.

Q Did you make this statement and sign it in your own signature?

A Yes.

Q Is that this same affidavit which you now have in front of you, witness?

A Yes.

Q On the 8th of January, 1947, in connection with this statement, you stated under oath that, in your opinion, the official instructions of the Commander in Chief of Army Group F coincided with your official instructions, as far as they concerned tactical matters.

DR. LATERNSEER: I object to this question, Your Honors. That again quite obviously is a leading question. The prosecutor might possibly ask, "What did you testify to on the 8th of January?" but he cannot ask, "Did you state certain matters?" I, therefore, ask not to admit the question which has just been put.

THE PRESIDENT: The question undoubtedly is of a preliminary nature and the witness may answer it.

MR. RAPP: Very well, Your Honor.

Q Witness, will you answer?

A I have already answered the question as "Yes." I may clarify this by saying that the expression, "tactical matters", does not perhaps fully apply but I thought more of tactical military questions. That is not purely combat matters but tactical military matters.

Q Are matters, say for instance, levying of hostages or the ordering of retaliation measures, the security of supply columns on roads or railroads - are those tactical questions? Witness, did you understand my question?

A Yes. Maybe the levying of hostages cannot be counted into this sphere but merely the retaliation measure in the carrying out, if it concerns a large execution.

Q Witness, I don't quite understand that. Would you make it a little clearer?

A You asked -- it was asked whether most of the measures of levying of hostages were discussed. However, these were such details that they were merely outlined and were only in outline brought to the knowledge of the leadership of the Army.

Q Witness, I don't think you understood my question properly. I asked you merely whether matters which I have just named were matters of a tactical nature. There was no question of discussions with the Army Group. Other matters you were not asked about.

A I am sorry, I misunderstood that.

DR. LATERNER: I object to the question. This does not concern a question of the witness which concerns facts. That is an expert question.

THE PRESIDENT: You may answer it.

A I should like to answer the question with "Yes."

NOKW 1304 is being marked for identification only as 440-A2.

DR. LATERNER: Your Honor, apart from the fact that as I previously submitted, - I do not think it admissible to submit an affidavit of a witness who is personally present, I repeat that I do not think it is legal to submit affidavits of a witness who is present in person. In this particular case I have to point out the period of 24 hours which is supposed to expire before a document is introduced I would like to draw the attention of the court to the fact that the prosecution said before that they would make an exception with documents to be used for cross-examination.

This witness, however, is not under cross-examination. The 24-hour notice will have to be kept. I do not like to call your attention to this space of time, but in this case I have to do it because in any case I do not think the introduction of this affidavit is legal. I therefore ask that the document is at least not admissible concerning the notice period which has not lapsed.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, as a matter of fact, this document to be marked as an exhibit is to be used for purposes of cross-examination inasmuch as we are trying to impeach the witness. There are statements of inconsistency which the witness has made before the court, and which he has made previously.

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honors, I did not understand that correctly. Maybe I did not hear it correctly. I have never in my life experienced that one wanted to discredit one's own evidence. If the prosecution intends to do that, I do not understand it. Above all, I do not understand in that case why they called this witness as a prosecution witness.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: In the first place, this witness is called as a prosecution witness, and this Tribunal does not feel that you can impeach your own witness. We have endeavored repeatedly to advise the prosecution as to the manner in which these statements may be used for the purpose of recollecting, advising the witness, and causing him to recollect as to certain statements. The procedure has not been followed and unless it is, why we will have to proceed along some other line, - to something along some other line.

MR. RAPP: Very well, your Honor.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: The discrepancies, if any, will have to be pointed out first before we can even recognize the matters to which you have referred.

MR. RAPP: Very well, your Honor.

I would just like to ask the Court whether or not Document NOKW 1304 can be submitted for identification only, with the designated number as suggested.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: There is no objection to that for the record, but there is a ruling that it is not to be considered as admitted in evidence in any degree.

MR. RAPP: That is correct, your Honor. We fully understand that.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: The German counsels are not hearing this proceeding.

Are you hearing it now.

(German counsel signified that they were.)

BY MR. RAPP: Witness, did you on the 15th of May;

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor-

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, I believe Dr. Laternser can't read my mind about the question I would like to ask the witness.

Page 1,766

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: I think, Dr. Laternser, if you will kindly wait until he finishes his question. Remain right there and then we will save a little time perhaps.

BY MR. RAPP:

Q. Witness, did you on the 15th of May, 1947, in connection with an affidavit, - did you state that you took full responsibility of--recognition of the fullest responsibility for what you ordered?

A. Yes.

DR. LATERNSEER: I object to the question. It is a leading question which is not admissible.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: The witness may answer.

A. My answer to the question was, "yes".

Q. Witness, did you on the same day further state, under oath, that the then Commander-in-Chief of Army Group F, the defendant von Weichs, with whom you worked closely together, was completely informed about all orders which you issued?

A. I cannot recollect that clearly, whether I made that statement in this exact formulation.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, if ever there has been put a leading question that was it. I object.

JUSTICE CARTER: Mr. Rapp, evidently you are trying to show some statements in these affidavits that are in conflict with what he testified to orally

MR. RAPP: That is correct, your Honor.

JUSTICE CARTER: So far as I can see, none of those conflicts are important to the guilt or innocence of these defendants.

They do not bear upon anything the defendants have done, and those conflicts on immaterial matters are not important to us here. It seems to me that we are wasting a lot of time on something that is of no particular value. I may be mistaken about that, but that is my view of it up to the present.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, may I point out that we are trying to establish the responsibility, or co-responsibility of the defendant von Weichs for such things as ordered and carried out by the witness, Felber. I believe that has, possibly, a very important bearing on the case of the defendant Weichs.

JUSTICE CARTER: It might have some bearing, but his opinions on the matter are not binding.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, we are merely trying to ascertain whether or not, these orders, and the contents of these orders were called to the attention at that time of the defendant, Weichs, and only so far as this is concerned, do we want to have the witness testify.

JUSTICE CARTER: Why don't you just ask him that?

BY MR. RAPP:

Q. Witness, did you, in the most important cases, so far as they concerned retaliation and reprisal orders, did you discuss these matter personally with von Weichs?

A. I have informed him of the more important retaliation measures in my reports and apart from that the Army Group was informed through our daily reports concerning these matters.

Q. How did the commander-in-chief von Weichs react on the basis of your report?

A. Since I do not recollect any specific case, where I have been reprimanded, I have to state here that one was in agreement with my measures.

MR. RAPP: We have no more questions, your Honors.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Court adjourned until one-thirty.

.....Adjournment until 1330 hours.....

AFTERNOON SESSION

THE MARSHAL: All persons in the Courtroom will please find their seats. The Tribunal is again in session. May it please Your Honors, this afternoon the Defendant Weichs is absent from the Court because of illness.

THE PRESIDENT (JUDGE WENNERSTRUM): The Tribunal will proceed in his absence, without prejudice to his case.

MR. DENNEY: If Your Honors please, first I would like to distribute to defense counsel some additional photographs. If Your Honors please, I would like now to distribute some additional photos which come from the National Commission for the Investigation of War Crimes of Yugoslavia. These photos were not submitted at the time the first portions of this report were offered because of the fact that they deal with events occurring in the latter period which has just been concluded. We will give the copies to the defense counsel, and the Secretary General, and the Court, and we will not offer them at this time, in order that you may have at least twenty-four hours' notice. In view of the fact that Exhibit 100-d and its annexes is now approaching the size of the New York telephone directory, I suggest that we mark this 441-a for identification. And in view of the twentyfour-hour notice, I will say no more about it at this time. The Prosecution would appreciate it if the Tribunal would find it convenient to have a session on Saturday of this week. We have the witnesses from Greece here now, and we hope to start with their testimony sometime tomorrow. And there is some question of time with reference to their getting back to Greece and, in that they must be flown, there are difficulties involving plane clearances and weather conditions. And it would help us considerably if the Tribunal could find it convenient to sit.

THE PRESIDENT (JUDGE WENNERSTRUM): May I make inquiry of the counsel for the defendants as to whether or not they would have any objections to the Tribunal's being in session on Saturday?

DR. LATERNER: Your Honor, much as I understand the reasons of the Prosecution, I still have to object to the session on Saturday for the following reasons: The defense has to prepare its case. The defense counsel spends a whole day in the courtroom, and in the evening he is very tired, so that he can only work in a very strained state and only thus prepare his defense case. Now, we have a one day break which we need necessarily to check the proceedings of the previous week and to be well rested when we talk with our clients. As the time is very short and very limited for the preparation of the defense case, the defense can, therefore, not do without a sessionless day.

THE PRESIDENT (JUDGE WENNERSTRUM): May I suggest to Dr. Laternser that, as you go on with your defense, there may be occasions when you will need some time or need to have it speeded up, perhaps. The Prosecution is asking this as a favor. As far as the Tribunal is concerned, we're willing to sit. But with the transportation problem and the limited facilities for airplane travel, it seems to me that, under these circumstances, for this one day, it would be advisable.

DR. SAUTER: Dr. Sauter for Defendants Geitner and Lanz. Your Honor, may I make another suggestion. We quite see that there is an ulterior interest, and so that these witnesses who are away from their homes can return as soon as possible, I think it would be – may be suitable if instead, after the Greek witnesses are through, maybe you can then give us a day off – may be a Monday or a Friday. And in that way it would be worked out, and all defense counsel I think would agree to this, since the Prosecution is interested in sending the Greek witnesses back as soon as possible.

THE PRESIDENT (JUDGE WENNERSTRUM): If it should develop, Dr. Sauter, that after they are excused you are cramped for time, I am quite certain that the Tribunal will give you an extra day. But let us meet that situation when it arises. Now, what we would like to do is to have your consent to this sitting of the Tribunal on Saturday, but we don't want to be arbitrary about the matter. Under the circumstances.

DR. SAUTER: We quite certainly agree now, but maybe we can, later on, return to this request which I made just now.

THE PRESIDENT (JUDGE WENNERSTRUM): Very well. Under the circumstances then the Tribunal will mention Saturday, and we will then take up your request if it appears necessary or at a later time.

Court No. V, Case No. VII.

MR. DENNEY: Now, if your Honors please, that is all we have now. We have no further questions to the witness and I imaging there is some cross examination.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed with such cross examination as counsel for defense wishes to present.

CROSS EXAMINATION BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q. Witness, you have come from a camp near Marburg?

A. Yes.

Q. You said yesterday when you first started that since about three days you were under more severe supervision in jail. What did you mean by that? What does it consist of?

A. I mean that I was brought to a cell, in solitary confinement; I was alone there; it was specially locked and it was ordered that I would not fetch my food as usual. I cannot collect it as usual, together with the other inmates but it has to be brought to me; that I may only live alone under special supervision and that I am not allowed to write and receive letters.

Q. Did this sudden change in the manner of confinement, did that have any effect on your state of health?

A. I cannot say that it made my tasks any easier.

Q. Witness, did you yesterday, that is, after your examination in this court room started, and during the course of last evening or this morning before the session started, did you talk to any representatives of the prosecution?

A. No. May I correct myself in as much as outside in the corridor I talked very briefly to Mr. Rapp but that is immaterial.

Q. But nothing concerning your testimony?

A. No.

Q. Yesterday, you were read to, from a memorandum, I think the date is the 15 of July 1946, the Prosecutor submitted several items out of this document to you.

How did this memorandum, come into existence?

A. In my prison camp Tschuffenhausen, where I had nothing else to do, I wrote this down for myself and for my personal memoirs. I wrote down those matters as I could judge them subsequently, retroactively, and I compiled them there. That is, as a basis, I had merely a short note book where the events of the particular day were put down in brief style. Any orders or other documentary material of a more detailed nature I did not have.

Q. Witness, where were you when you completed the memorandum?

A. At that time I was in the internment camp 78, Tschuffenhausen near Stuttgart.

Q. How did the memorandum get into the hands of the Prosecution?

A. A Captain in Tschuffenhausen, Captain of C.I.C., his name was Captain Silver, one day talked to us, addressed us, that is, the Generals who were together in Tschuffenhausen, and he suggested there to put down any former experiences if we wished to do so and we could add these to our files. For this reason alone I decided at that time to put down these matters as long as I could remember them well, put them down in writing, and to incorporate them into my personal files.

Q. Is this memorandum which we discussed just now the document which I am now going to show you which bears No. NOK W 1735?

A. Yes, indeed, that is the document.

Q. Then you, on the 8th of January 1947, made an affidavit for the Prosecution which bears No. NOKW 611. Is that correct?

A. That is the affidavit which was under discussion this morning.

Q. I do not want to concern myself with the contents. All I want to establish now is: In what manner this partly used affidavit came into existence? How did that come about?

A. This affidavit is a compilation of interrogations which took place around about the end of last year and beginning of this year.

Q. Interrogations by whom?

A. Interrogations by Mr. Rapp.

Q. That is by the Prosecution?

A. Yes, by the Prosecution.

Q. Did you write this affidavit yourself?

A. No.

Q. Who drafted this affidavit in the way in which it is submitted now?

A. I assume the Prosecution.

Q. Not you then?

A. No.

Q. Does the affidavit from the 8 of January contain all that you said at that time?

A. It does not contain everything since the interrogation which preceded the affidavit contained more questions, More matter which however might have been immaterial.

Q. At that time you were in Nurmberg?

A. Yes.

Q. And in jail?

A. Yes.

Q. Before or after you had signed the affidavit, were you told that after you had signed it you could return to the camp near Marburg?

A. No, that was told to me later, one day before I actually departed.

Q. That is after you had already signed?

A. Yes.

Q. This affidavit, is thus an addition to an affidavit likewise of the 8th of January? Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. On whose initiative is this additional affidavit made –may I finish my question – did you make this additional affidavit on your own account or were you requested to make it?

A. After I had made my statement on the very same day this additional affidavit was submitted to me.

Q. And who drafted this additional affidavit?

A. I must assume that that likewise was the Prosecution.

Q. Not you yourself then?

A. No.

Q. Was this additional affidavit -- did it seem especially important to the Prosecution?

A. Yes, I should think so; apparently the statements which I had made on the morning of that day did not seem sufficient to the Prosecution.

Q. What were you told in order that you would sign this additional affidavit as well?

A. Whether I was given a more detailed explanation for this I cannot say today any more.

Q. Do you today remember quite well if the Prosecution was particularly interested in this additional explanation?

A. I cannot say that with certainty but I assume that since they came to me that very same day and asked me to sign.

Q I now submit to you this affidavit and I ask you to tell us whether that is the affidavit NOKW 611, with the annex. The Prosecution gave it the identification number 440-a?

A Yes.

Q Now, a further affidavit for the Prosecution, the contents of which I do not want to discuss here, that is the affidavit NOKW 1731, which is in document book 18, and it bears the date of 19 February 1947; how did this affidavit come about?

A The affidavit, may I just look at it for a moment?

DR. LATERNSE: For the information of the Court that is the affidavit 440-A-1.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Laternser, may I suggest or request in referring to these various papers you refer to them by exhibit numbers. It will be helpful to the Tribunal in making its record.

DR. LATERNSE: Yes, Your Honor, I can do that immediately. The first affidavit had identification number 409-A, that is the one which bears the number NOKW 1735. The second affidavit which I mentioned just now was NOKW 611. This document has the identification number 440-A. And the document which I am talking about now is NOKW 1731. It bears the number 440-A-1. Those are not exhibits.

A Yes, indeed. This affidavit came about through a representative of the Prosecution who came to my camp in Allendorf at that time, and he interrogated me there concerning the individual items of this affidavit, and then he compared the various items and then asked me to sign them. The affidavit was made in Allendorf.

Q In other words then this affidavit was not drafted by you?

A No.

Q You didn't write it yourself?

A No.

Q But you did sign it?

A Yes.

Q Looking at these affidavits now on the basis of the affidavit the Prosecution today asked you certain questions to point out discrepancies and to try to show up discrepancies between these affidavits and the testimony which you gave yesterday in this Courtroom.

Generally speaking, I wanted to ask you this, the contents of these affidavits is that correct, or is your testimony here correct in case there are discrepancies between those two?

A If there are discrepancies that which I have said here in this courtroom is valid.

Q Now, we will talk about something else. Before you took over the position as commander in chief Southeast you were as you said yesterday, received in Hitler's headquarters, is that correct?

A Yes.

Q At the occasion of this introduction were you told that up until now the dealings with the bands in the Balkans had not been strong enough, is that correct?

A Yes, that is correct.

Q And then towards the end of 1943 you were in the Balkans, is that correct?

A Yes.

Q How then was the general situation in the Balkans at that time when you took over your office; I ask you now to describe the situation to the Court?

A In doing this I have to rely on my memory alone, and as I remember the picture today, I had the impression then that out of all the territories in the Balkans the relatively most quiet was the Serbian area. To me as a man who up to then had never been in the Balkans, the situation there at least, as it was described to me, was rather shocking. The uncertainty and the excesses of bands of all kinds was so much a matter of course so that as I have mentioned here once before, I saw in the daily reports about 50 cases which had happened somewhere in this gigantic area. It was absolutely clear to me that with purely military gains, the usual method of combat and the usual administrative methods one could not succeed in the course of time.

I was certain therefore that my attitude which I mentioned yesterday, which was in opposition to all these reprisals and retaliation measures could not possibly be fully established. Especially difficult it was for us soldiers, the interference of all kinds of authorities which were not subordinated to the Wehrmacht, but who were very ambitious to play their own part; all other officers, and that from this side on the part of these, I might say, hostile observers, I, as well as all other officers who had anything to do with administrative matters, would have to overcome great difficulties. And in this attitude of mind, I found myself not mistaken, at least during the first few months.

Q Witness, what other individual political opinions or divisions were there in the Balkans?

A That is very hard to answer briefly. Each country had its own individual political trends, which in detail I think are quite known.

Q I ask you to mention these individual tendencies since I cannot assume that they are well-known to all.

A If I am to start with Serbia, there were the well-known tendencies Mihajlovic, Tito, and -- independent of the two of them -- independently operating, Communist and the so-called National Cetnik Bands. In Greece there was the EAM and how the other band leaders were called. I am not able to recollect today. There too were tendencies within the population, and against the German Wehrmacht.

Who fought against whom, then, of the indigenous units?

A. In the Serbian area the Mihailovic or the Chetnik bands as Enemy No. 1 fought the units of Tito; as Enemy No. 2 they fought us, the occupation force. This was told us quite openly by the Chetnik band leaders.

Q. The reports about the activities of the Chetnik bands -- did they come to you as Military Commander-in-Chief Southeast?

A. Yes, as far as they concerned the Serbian area.

Q. Did you not also receive reports from the other military commanders?

A. From the other military commanders I received the monthly reports which I already mentioned and probably - I cannot say that with certainty but that would only be natural - reports from especially extensive retaliation measures in case they became necessary.

Q. We are not talking about reprisal measures just yet. I am interested how high you estimate or can you tell us the number of attacks or attempts which happened daily by any one band in the Balkans.

A. If I could judge on the basis of the reports which I got from the Serbian area, it would have to be at least two to three times as much -- that is more than 100 per day.

Q. And what method did those bands observe or carry out when they made their raids or attacks?

A. Of course, this was different. There were more or less harmless band attacks, for instance, when a man was shot at during the night and nothing else happened, but very frequently these attacks were combined with considerable brutalities.

I myself, as late as September 1944, at the occasion of an attack in which I found myself involved, established that within 20 minutes three German trucks near Topola - that is on the main highway of Serbia were attacked in the bright daylight, robbed and the men on them were killed in a most inhuman manner. In the subsequent struggle with this band I established clearly with my own eyes--

JUDGE BURKE: There is a little conflict. If you would speak a little less rapidly, it would be easier for the interpreters to follow and there would be no overlapping.

A. I established with my own eyes that women who were not classed as soldiers took part in these surprise attacks.

Q. To what extent did they participate?

A. They had weapons in their hands and participated in the fight in which I and the man accompanying me also had to take to arms. Only by chance an armored car passed us and this band, about 350 men strong who were equipped with machine guns, could be made to flee and we could escape with our lives.

Also, in other instances the troop reported to me repeatedly that in their own fights similar occurrences happened.

Q. For any special atrocities which might have been committed by the bands, do you remember anything there?

A. I have heard a lot about them but I have no clear proof. I did not experience anything like that myself.

Q. What, for instance, were reported to you about the atrocities?

A. Well, there again the murdering of prisoners, wounded among them, and on the part of the Chetnik band leaders this concept that they would butcher every prisoner they took after a short interrogation was quite frankly admitted to me.

After all, these were older people who, when mentioning these cruelties, did not seem to have the slightest feeling about them.

Q. Was it, for instance, reported to you that German soldiers had been robbed of their eyesight?

A. These things had been reported to me among others, but personally, as I mentioned before, I did not experience anything like that and, therefore, feel a little skeptical towards such statements.

Q. Was it frequently reported to you -- that is, spectacular cruelties?

A. No, I do not think that spectacular cruelties were a matter of daily routine; at least, I did not know so.

I do not believe either, since I have to talk about the Balkan-Serbian area, that these things happened there because Serbia was right up to the end a relatively quiet, peaceful area. As proof of this, it may serve that I myself, right up to the last days, used to tour across the country completely alone without anybody accompanying me.

Q. From where did the bands get their weapons?

A. The Chetnik bands - that is, the National Chetniks - received their arms up to the winter and spring of 1944 doubtlessly through English support.

Q. And in what manner did they get these arms?

A. Through a nightly airplane transport which could be carried out quite undisturbed.

Q. How often did these English planes fly over - every night?

A. One might say almost every night. At any rate, we could hear the noise of the motors nearly every night. Since it could not concern any German planes, one had to assume that they were English planes, which was also confirmed by reports from the troops.

Q. The prosecution said again and again that these bands were a regular army. Did you know whether the bands wore uniforms?

A. This again I explained in the memorandum just mentioned, that up to July 1944, when the Americans started their extensive support, the Tito bands or units were clothed in a very unsoldierly manner and one therefore could not talk of a uniform.

Q. What, for instance, did they wear?

A. I might almost answer this by saying, "What did they not wear?" They wore costumes of all kinds. In these matters it was a rather strange sight for our rather spoiled eyes.

Q. The prosecution will mention a few other points in this connection later. The prosecution further puts special emphasis on the fact that in the course of these bandit fights German losses were always considerably smaller than the losses of the bands. How can you explain that?

How do you derive this fact and how can you explain the contents of the reports to this effect?

A. From my own area of command and from my personal impressions from the bandit fights, I cannot consider this conception correct. We supposed that we inflicted some losses to the bands in military actions but a certainty of the number was made very difficult from the fact that the bands generally took their dead along as well as their wounded.

Q Therefore the report of German units or departments which participated in this fight, could be derived generally from estimates?

A Yes.

Q Witness, is not the army inclined to estimate the enemy losses higher?

A That is a matter of course, especially as reports are coming in from various sides and it may so happen that enemy killed or wounded were even counted twice.

Q As far as losses are concerned, is it not possible that an important part is played by the fact that bands were less well-trained militarily than the German troops?

A That may well be the case. But to that, - I can't give any clear answer.

Q In what relation - according to your records - what was the relation of the German losses in the band war and the losses of the bands?

A If one can talk of any comparison by figures at all, I would like to say that it was more or less equal on both sides. I emphasize again that my knowledge is only derived from conditions in Serbia.

Q If now an attempt, or a surprise attack had been carried out, what difficulties occurred then in seizing the guilty persons?

A It could again and again be established that after a surprise attack, the entire neighborhood of the locality of the attack, including the villages around, were completely devoid of all inhabitants, a fact which was very understandable, because nobody wanted to appear as a helper, a guilty person; nobody wanted to be taken.

Q Now how was the terrain in the Balkans; were they suitable for disappearing and submerging?

A I believe that there was hardly a better terrain anywhere else for band war, as in the Balkans, so rich in cliffs. Added to this is the lack of all roads and what roads there are they, are terribly bad, so that the pursuing forces find it very difficult to keep up with the enemy.

Q Are the other conditions of the geographical nature that which the bands might appreciate?

A Yes. If I may add to the geographical conditions, perhaps the population, the population, which, of course, in this territory, was a great help to the bandits. We can only make a small difference here, whether these were a Chetnik or Tito bands.

Q Now witness, we want to talk about the question of subordination. What kind of subordination do we know, or rather did we know, in the German Wehrmacht?

A There is really only one subordination, that is the subordination to the next Superior command.

Q Didn't you at any time hear something about a tactical and troop subordination?

A That would be a definition which is really included into the concept of subordination, as such.

Q Yes. I may put it perhaps like that: a complete subordination exists when a unit is subordinated to a higher command tactically and militarily.

A That's undoubtedly clear.

Q There were no other kinds of subordination?

A That would then been a special exception, in an individual case.

Q Yes, but that would then be either tactically or militarily?

A Yes, if I am talking theoretically -

Q Will you please let the Prosecution talk first.

MR. RAPP: If your Honors will permit, it is far from me to even pass any criticism on the interpreters, but I think there may be some serious mistakes in the translation, when the word, "truppenmassig" is translated as "military subordination", or "tactical subordination".

If Dr. Laternser would possibly talk a little bit slower, the interpreters may have better time to choose from a larger vocabulary of words, more adequate with the word presented either by the witness or the defense counsel.

DR. LATERNSE: I thank Mr. Rapp for this remark.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: May I also suggest that the counsel ask the question of the witness, and let the witness then answer, and if the counsel will then wait for the interpreter there will not be overlapping.

DR. LATERNSEER: I shall observe this, your Honor. Thank you, very much.

Your Honor, may I ask how the interpreters translated the word "truppenmaessig"?

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Do the interpreters have any translation for this word?

INTERPRETER: We had a little difficulty with the word in German. It is rather an expert concept to say, "truppenmaessig unterstellt". A troop is a military unit. "Truppenmaessig unterstellt" would be subordinate in all military matters. I can only use my own logic in this case.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, don't the interpreters have glossary, I know of one having been compiled where all expert military terms are translated correctly. In case there would appear a difference in term then my examination of the witness would have little sense, because the differences which I want to establish could then not be established.

MR. RAPP: If I possibly could be of help, I suggest to Dr. Laternser that - so far as I know German the same result I believe Dr. Laternser is driving at, could be achieved by dropping this particular term in describing exactly what he is driving at. That way we may get around controversial terms in the translation.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Naturally the Tribunal must depend upon the interpreters, and in case there is some objection to the question of their interpretation, we will proceed the suggestion that Dr. Laternser could use some other term in covering the situation, why possibly that might help the situation.

BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q We had talked about the various kinds of subordination. You said, or rather you were in agreement with me, that there was a subordination of a tactical nature, and also a subordination, generally, in every respect, or, do you not agree with me?

A. No, I do not agree with you. The concept of the military subordination only applies to a limited circle, to a limited task of a troop unit. May I explain this with an example. For instance, the staff of the military commander of Greece, could have been subordinated to me in everything, since I was the Military Commander-in-Chief Southeast. However, doubtlessly, it was subordinate to me in tactical matters, at least for special tasks of the Army Group E. However, so far as I recollect, in the spring of 1944, or rather since the spring of 1944, it was subordinate to the Army Group E, generally speaking, in military matters.

Q You mean now, Mr. Witness, the military commander of Greece? Witness, I am asking you so that we can get on, and can clarify these rather involved situations, and I am trying to make this clear to the Tribunal too. We will start all over again.

You know of a tactical subordination. What does that mean?

A That means that I with my unit in tactical matters, that is, in tactical military matters are subordinate to one certain command of staff.

Q We then further know of a subordination of a general military nature. Do you agree with me in that, that subordination of a general military nature means that the unit in question is subordinate in personnel and disciplinary matters, to that unit to which it is subordinate in military matters "truppendienstlich"

A Yes.

Q One unit which is subordinate in matters of a general military nature to some other unit, then this other unit will issue punishments which may be necessary promotions and awards.

A That is correct.

Q We know, therefore, those two different kinds of subordination -the tactical one and the one that is of a general military nature. Is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Do we know any other kinds of subordination?

A I might find it necessary to mention a third kind, and that is the subordination in administrative matters. That has nothing to do with tactics, and likewise nothing to do with personnel or other directions.

Q Yes. But this administrative subordination will then have nothing to do with any military matters at all.

A That is correct.

Q There are, therefore, no other kinds of subordination from a military point of view than the two which we have mentioned just now?

A Yes.

Q Witness, I ask you now to take a look at the chart which is suspended behind you, and I am asking you, to begin with, to just look at the upper row. That is, up to and including OKO, OKM, and OKH. Does this sketch show the organization within the top leadership correctly?

THE PRESIDENT (JUDGE WENNERSTRUM): Would the guard please move the microphone over there? (Motioning to the Witness Stand)

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, may we object to this question for the simple reason that this witness has not been called by the Prosecution for the purpose of certifying to anything surrounding the OKW, the OKH or the OKL because he himself has never been a member of that office. Secondly we believe that we get somewhat off the beaten track of that which we have covered in the direct examination if the witness be permitted to talk about matters that he has no direct knowledge of.

THE PRESIDENT (JUDGE WENNERSTRUM): Over-ruled.

BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q Witness, I had put the question merely for the top row.

A This sketch, in my opinion, does not show clearly enough there on the spot where it says OKW that the Quartermaster General should be mentioned as well, as he belonged to the OKH as well as to the OKW.

Q May I ask you, was for instance the OKH subordinate to the OKW?

A No.

Q Then, to begin with, the line would be wrong which is drawn in black between OKH and OKW?

A That would only concern the Quartermaster General in the OKH, not the operational staff in the OKH.

Q That would then be the first mistake, that OK* could not issue any orders to the OKH?

A I am not informed whether there were not certain spheres where the operational staff of the OKW could issue directives to the OKH as well. At least, where the Quartermaster General was concerned.

Q Keitel, for instance, could he issue orders to the Commander in Chief of the Army, that is, to OKH on his own accord?

A Only as deputy of Hitler.

Q I did not ask like that. I said on his own account, could he give an order to the OKH?

Page 1,790

A I cannot testify to that; I do not know that exactly.

Q What was the OKH as a staff? Whose staff was it?

A The OKH was an operational staff under the Supreme Commander of the Armed Forces, Hitler.

Q It was then not a command agency?

A Not in the customarily accepted sense, no.

Q How would this sketch have to look if it were correct? How would it have to show the OKW?

A The OKW could remain as it is, only the black connection between OKH and OKW would have to be drawn differently, in my opinion.

Q The same would apply then for the two black connecting lines that run between OKW and OKM, and OKW and OKL?

A I assume that, but I cannot say for sure how that turned out in practice. I do not believe that the OKL would have agreed to be subordinate in any way to the OKW and Keitel.

Q Who was the OKH directly subordinate to?

A The OKH was directly subordinate to Hitler.

Q Who was the OKM directly subordinate to?

A I cannot say that with certainty.

Q Who was the OKL directly subordinate to?

A In my opinion, likewise to Hitler.

THE PRESIDENT (JUDGE WENNERSTRUM): Pardon me just a moment. May I inquire of the Prosecution if they have an extra one of these photographs of the Chart "D" to which reference has been made in the present examination?

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, the only Exhibit Chart "D" we have is in the basic information handbook which was submitted to the Court, and we have no extras here. At present we are not prepared on this particular subject; however, I have given Dr. Laternser my own copy and suggested to him that he should give this to the witness.

THE PRESIDENT (JUDGE WENNERSTRUM): That can be followed, or I will give my copy to the witness, Dr. Laternser, so that the witness may be seated. It may be a bit easier. May I inquire of the witness whether he knows the photograph which he has represents the chart shown on the wall, to which he previously testified?

THE WITNESS: Yes, Your Honor, that is right.

BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q Now, witness, if the OKW, and I think we agreed to that, did not have any power of command toward subordinate military units, what, then -- how then could OKW orders be regarded? Where did those orders originate?

A Maybe I can express it thus. We had so-called OKH combat areas. That is, for the main part, the Eastern Front, for instance, in the campaign against Russia. And we had other OKW theaters of war. Those were all other theaters of war -- France, Italy, the Balkans, etc. Those Supreme Commanders, the OK*, and operational staff could give them orders of a tactical operational nature.

Q But who alone in the OK* could give these orders?

A These orders were given for Hitler by the operational staff of the Wehrmacht, by Keitel, or by his Chief Jodl, or Warlimont.

Q Do you agree with me that OKW orders are Hitler orders?

A In the bulk, yes. Certainly. But I could imagine that there were orders signed by Keitel which perhaps had not been read by Hitler. Maybe they had not even been submitted to him, but since I've never worked on that staff myself, I cannot give definite testimony as to these matters.

THE PRESIDENT (JUDGE WENNERSTRUM): We'll take our afternoon recess at this time.

(THE COURT RECESSED AT 1500)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

Q I now want to talk about the conditions that always existed in the Balkans, before your activity in the Balkans, who had the highest amount of authority in the Balkans?

A It was the Army Group E.

Q Who was the Commander in Chief of Army Group E?

A That was General Loehr.

Q What other rank did General Loehr hold at first when he was Commander in Chief of Army Group E, and Commander of the Southeast?

A Commander in Chief South East.

THE PRESIDENT: The interpreter either is not speaking loud enough or it is not coming through.

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, shall I repeat the last questions?

Q Witness, we had determined before you took up your position in the Balkans the highest authority was Army Group E, at that time Commander in Chief of Army Group E, as you said was General Loehr? I now asked you what other title General Loehr also held?

A It was my opinion that other than that he held the title of Commander in Chief Southeast, and as far as I can remember it is clear to me he was the Armed Forces Commander.

Q Now, I want to deal with the time when you were working in the Balkans; you said yesterday and also today that the jurisdiction of the Commander Southeast and the Military Commander of the Armed Forces Southeast were the same geographically; now when two agencies were supposed to deal with the same subject then the tasks would have to be separated very clearly; what was the main task of the Commander in Chief Southeast?

A The main task of the Commander in Chief Southeast was the defense of the entire Balkan Region, particularly the defense of the Coast line

Q Would you consider it right if I say that his main task was a strategic task?

A Yes, that would be right.

Q And you, Witness, as Commander in Chief Southeast was in charge as you already said, you were in charge of the orders concerning the territory, is that right?

A Yes.

Q Who was in charge of Army Group F, or as the other title is, the Commander in Chief Southeast?

A Commander in Chief Southeast was subordinate immediately to the Army Staff, and therefore to the Supreme Commander, Hitler.

Q In other words, Army Group F was immediately under Hitler?

A No, in other words one should say the operational staff was an intermediate between the Commander in Chief and Hitler himself.

Q This operational staff of the Wehrmacht was not allowed to give any orders?

A I personally cannot decide that, but I assume that was the case.

Q Would you please look at Document NOKW 1010, it concerns Exhibit 351, and is in Document Book 14; on page 3 of this document book please note number One. Do you agree with me, after looking at this document, that Army Group F was immediately subordinate to Hitler?

A No, I want to keep up my former limitation. Otherwise, for example, the Commander in Chief of the South cast, Field Marshal von Weichs would have had immediate contact with Hitler, by phone for example, if he wanted to discuss anything concerning the conduct of the War.

In practice, however, these discussions if conducted by the Commander in Chief himself were carried out by the Chief himself, probably Jodl or probably with Keitel.

Q. Witness, in what capacity did Jodl or Keitel speak then?

A. I cannot say that because I was not in a position to do so.

Q. Then I would like to ask you again who was in charge of Army Group F.

A. In my opinion the Army Group F, in spite of this order, was subordinate to the operational staff of the Wehrmacht.

Q. And to whom were you subordinate as Military Commander Southeast?

A. As Military Commander I was subordinate to the Quartermaster General in his capacity OKH/OKW. However, mixups in this position occurred as proven by Jodl's and Keitel's interference, these two personalities of the operational staff of the Wehrmacht.

Q. In other words, you wish to say that was the result, witness, that you in your capacity as Military Commander Southeast and Field Marshal von Weichs as Military Commander of Army Group F had the same supreme commander?

A. I must agree to that.

Q. May I have the document book back, please? Witness, as Military Commander Southeast to whom were you responsible to report?

A. To the Quartermaster General of the OKH and OKW.

Q. You said yesterday that in Field Marshal von Weichs you saw a most responsible person concerning tactical matters in the Balkans and security.

A. Yes.

Q. Who in the Balkans was responsible for peace, quiet, and order?

A. I would like to say that we two were responsible, concerning the manner of combat, according to the document as submitted, it has been explained very clearly we took part in order and peace. Otherwise, combat would have been impossible.

Q. Were you not responsible for this as Military Commander Southeast?

A. According to the directives, I was told in the headquarters that it was not final at all.

I was responsible for peace and order and it was my task as commander. In practice, however, these directives could not be carried out because we had no strict limits of territories where Weichs' responsibility and my responsibility were separated.

Q. We will try to determine that, witness, whether that existed or not. In the Balkans who had the executive power?

A. Having seen the documents today, it is clear to me that the Military Commander Southeast was responsible.

Q. And you were the Military Commander Southeast. What does this executive power consist of?

A. Executive power generally is the same as the task to look after peace and order in the occupied territory. May I point out, however, that in the directive which I received there was a passage that orders could be given to me at the time through the commander of the Second Panzer Army, as well something which never was carried out in practice.

Q. Apparently this is contradictory in part of the explanations of Document NOKW-1010, Exhibit 351. Please look at page 5, No. I, where I marked it. Please look at it.

A. I was not informed of this order myself in my position as Military Commander Southeast. It must be a mistake. It is obvious anyway because there a very clear task is given to me. Subordination is emphasized here, under the OKW, that would be the operational staff of the Wehrmacht under another name.

May I add that this order was issued and is said to have been issued at the end of October and apparently it was sent to other offices for examination and later probably became a definite order. It was, therefore, the end of October and it became necessary to clear the matter up and these various matters which overlapped.

Q. You said before that you were responsible for order, peace, and quiet in the Balkans.

A. Yes, with the limitation that I was given directives on that subject by the Commander in Chief Southeast, Field Marshal von Weichs.

Orders were given to me.

Q. Witness, on what do you base this right of the Commander in Chief Southeast to give orders?

A. I base this on the intention to intervene by the Commander in Chief of the Wehrmacht to see that, if I should have taken wrong measures, the Commander in Chief would have been in a position to intervene.

Q. Who could give orders to another agency?

A. Actually, only the superior agency.

Q. Was the Commander in Chief Southeast your superior agency?

A. I have tried to answer this with yes and no before. According to the directives, as I was told at headquarters, I was an independent commander in chief in my capacity as Military Commander. The directives themselves later made objections possible not only for the army group but also for the commander of the Second Panzer Army in Serbia.

Q. Witness, what directives do you mean by that when you say that such a power of veto was given to the Commander in Chief Southeast?

A. The official description of these directives I believe is service regulations. The Commander in Chief Southeast and I as Military Commander received them separately.

Q. What was superior to these directives, or what was contained in these directives?

A. It is very difficult, after many years, to state this correctly. It would be very good if these directives were at hand.

Q. May I -- do you mean by that a passage already quoted once by the prosecution, which appears possibly in No. 2, page 3 of Document NOKW-1010? It is up to you to decide this.

A. No, these directives or orders are service regulations.

A No. These directives of service regulations already existed when I came there in August '43; while this directive is dated 30 October.

Q Now, witness, the next subordinate command was very clearly not subordinate to the military command.

A No official subordination of my command had not been ordered.

Q You said yesterday that about 70 to 80 thousand men were under your command, in your capacity as military commander southeast?

A That's right approximately.

Q Would you give orders to these troops independently without asking Army Group F first?

A I was entitled to this. It was part of my responsibility.

Q And when you did this, this was a tactical measure, was it not?

A Yes, after reporting this to the Army group.

Q Witness, you said before, you were responsible for order and peace, and that you were able to employ the troops under your command technically for your own purposes.

Would it not have been better then to say that von Weichs was Supreme Commander concerning strategical matters in the Balkans?

A That is correct.

Q You said yesterday that in the summer of '44 an order for retaliation measures was given. Do you mean by that, this directive which I would like you look at? It concerns your Honor OKW document # 172, Exhibit 379.

A No, this is not the order I quoted. The order I mean was issued on the 1st of July 1944, when the chief of the general staff was no longer Feertsch but General Winter.

But looking at this order is based on this order as well. This order of December, I cannot remember at all. It is possible that it might have been sent to my office when I was on leave in January. The only retaliation measure I know is that of July.

Q Would you look at this order again, particularly at the opening words, where it is explained that this order was issued with the approval of the Military Commander Southeast?

A Yes, I believe that is the explanation. It indicates that Neubacher was responsible for conducting the political fight in the Balkans against the communist danger, and that during discussions which we had together in Weissen Schloss with the Commander-in-chief we discussed the execution of such an order and agreed to it. But the formulation the Commander-in-chief Southeast used for these directives, I personally cannot remember and I cannot say that he is orientated about that purpose.

A At that time, on the 22nd of December, Loehr acted as deputy because I was on leave. That I discussed retaliation measures with Loehr when deputizing Weichs, that is not true.

Q When did the first discussion take place between Fieldmarshal von Weichs, Neubacher and you, about retaliation measures?

A It started immediately after I had arrived as stated in my diary. We had five discussions, the first days of September about these matters.

Q During this discussion, was it considered that a basic order should be issued concerning retaliation measures?

A No, in September, these matters were not considered it necessary by us, as we were both new there.

Q In other words, you wish to *y about issuing order, which I just submitted to you, you did not know anything?

A I do not remember.

Q Witness, you said that you remember an order of similar content, which you received in July?

A I know this so clearly because the officer who dealt with it, Lt. Col. Ratjen came to me and reported to me, because he wanted, to harmonize this order with that of the general staff, and we worked on it in detail because the difficulty insisted of the fact that they had to find an order which served all, and could be applied to everything that happened in the Balkans or anywhere else because of repeated retaliation measures by the Army Group.

I cannot state the cause however.

Q Could you tell us whether the No. of this order was 296/43, of the 22nd of December?

Witness, would you please look at Document NOKW 469, which bears the date 20 June '44, and where at the bottom there is a remark in which General Winters in his own handwriting, that this order 296/43, should be looked up?

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, we really submit that the Court please instruct defense counsel to give us the exhibit numbers of documents that defense counsel is referring to, if you please.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Dr. Laternser, if you will kindly follow that, it will be appreciated.

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, unfortunately I am not in a position to give the number of the exhibit yet because this document NOKW 469 has not been submitted to this Tribunal as yet. I am conscious of the fact, but I also know that I am entitled during cross-examination to submit to a witness any document which I have in my possession.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Very well.

Q May I ask you to look at this document, NOKW 496?

A I now see why in July, another order was issued, because the Army Group writes here to Neubacher, that the incidence in Greece, was the cause for the retaliation order of December, of which they wished to remind us. And the Army group, owing to this, ought that this old order of date and following that on the first of July, or the second or third of July a new directive was issued for the entire southeast by the army group.

I believe that is how it was connected actually on the first of July an improved order was issued.

Q What you said now, that a new order was issued, is something you presumed, is it not?

A No, I don't presume that. I knew that for sure, just because this general staff officer reported to me personally and discussed these matters with me in detail

Q. But this document, NOKW-496, shows according to General Winter's remark that this original order of the 22nd of December was to be pointed out again and used again.

A. That's right.

Q. I now have another last point. In what capacity were you in the East?

A. As Commander in Chief of XIII Corps.

Q. To whom were you subordinate at the time?

A. The Commander in Chief of the Second Army.

Q. And who was the Commander in Chief?

A That was General Field Marshal von Weichs.

Q How was the order from the Commissar treated?

A The Commissar's order -- you probably asked concerning me or concerning Weichs?

THE PRESIDENT (JUDGE WENNERSTRUM): Pardon me just a minute. We're interested in the examination and the questioning. You're overlapping a little bit. If you will both the witness and the examiner, will give the Interpreter time to make the interpretation, it will be helpful, and to the Tribunal.

A The Commissar's order arrived, as I recall, about two weeks before, and I was still subordinate to the 4th Army at the time.

Q Another question please. You received the Commissar's order from the 4th Army?

A Yes, from the 4th Army.

Q And who was the Commander in Chief of the 4th Army at the time?

A Field marshal von Kluge

Q How did you deal with the Commissar's order?

A I did not hand the Commissar order in writing, but my two division chiefs commanders were called to me. I informed them of the contents of this ordering that they should not carry out this order, That took place, and both division commanders agreed with me.

Q Concerning this Commisar's, did you discuss it with Field Marshal von Weichs?

A But I do not remember the discussion, but owing to my relations with Weichs, no doubt we discussed this subjects which touched us personally, and I can't think it could have been any different than that we fully agreed.

Q Do you know about anything further about this concerning Field Marshal von Weichs?

A I only remember that one of my division commanders at that time, General Loch, once told me, while in captivity, that he discussed this matter with Weichs once, and that Weichs informed him, he also believed it to have been an order which I didn't receive; however he based it again on the fact that Weichs took over the 4th Army. This took place about the 1st of June 1941.

Q And on what was this order to be based?

A That the Commissar's order should not be complied with.

Q I have no further questions.

BY DR. RAUSCHENBACH:

DR. RAUSCHENBACH: Dr. Rauschenbach for the Defendant Foertsch. Witness, on the 8th of January of this year you gave an affidavit to the Prosecution, the document which Dr. Laternser has submitted to you as NOKW-611, which the Prosecution identified as Exhibit No. 440-a. On page 6 of the German version of the affidavit you said that the Higher SS and Police Chiefs often were ordered to the Army. I now ask you to what time does this refer. Does it refer to the time when General Winter, as successor of General Foertsch, was Chief of the Army Group, or does it refer also to that time when General Foertsch himself was Chief?

A In my opinion, as far as I remember the matter at the time, Foertsch was Chief.

Q In such discussions was Meissner present?

A Yes, sometimes Meissner was present during such discussions which Neubacher and I had with the Field Marshal. However, I heard from Meissner himself that he repeatedly was called to the Commander in Chief of the Army Group, without my being informed previously. What was the subject of these discussions I can not say. I can't remember either whether and what Meissner told me anything about it.

Q What was your impression about these discussions? Was there actual cooperation between Meissner and the Chief of the Army Group, or were there differences?

A No. Concerning cooperation between Foertsch and Meissner, I wish to say the opposite.

Q. And how did they show it itself?

A. By very cool methods concerning these discussions whenever I took part.

Q. Did you have the impression, therefore, that with General Foertsch and the Police Chief Meissner there were differences - tensions?

A. Whether there were tensions I can't say now. In any case I had the impression that they were not very good friends, as the rest of us.

Q. In this affidavit you also said that General Winter, the successor of defendant General Foertsch, fully cooperated with the Reichsfuehrer SS and approved of it.

A. I came to this conclusion because I know that Winter had a very long discussion with Himmler, which must have been in the summer or early autumn of 1944, about which he was very deeply impressed after returning, and the result of which we found out very soon, because suddenly the thought arose that the military administration in the occupied territories was to be taken from my command and to be transferred to the Police Chiefs and SS chiefs.

Q. And to make it quite clear, that was at the time when General Foertsch was no longer in charge?

A. Yes.

Q. From your own observations can you add anything about General Foertsch's attitude toward the Reichsfuehrer SS?

A. No, I can't say anything about that. I can't remember now.

Q. Do you remember whether there were any direct connections?

A. I don't know.

Q. Another matter. You said yesterday during your cross examination by the prosecution that the Chief of the General Staff, General Winter, was responsible for keeping the War Diary, particularly about the correctness of the contents.

A. This statement is based on my experience of many years and practice as Commander in the High Command.

Q. You did this of your own initiative?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know how it was actually done in Army Group F?

A. I don't know anything about that.

DR. RAUSCHENBACH: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

BY DR. SAUTER:

Q.- I would like to ask you, before answering to wait a moment to give the interpreter a chance to translate. Witness, in the beginning of the cross-examination you were asked about conditions in the Balkans and the war there, about its peculiarities and other similar things, and you said approximately that cruelties were every day occurrences but were not reported to you. In any case such was the case in Serbia. You added that until the end Serbia was a comparatively peaceful area. I don't know, witness, whether I understood your statement correctly. For days now we have heard that many thousands of retaliations were made for possible violations, that thousands and thousands of Serbs and natives, partisans and similar people were shot and hanged. Do you really want to say that this territory down there was so peaceful? It seems to me that there have been contradictions. Please state your opinion about these contradictions.

A.- I repeatedly pointed out that conditions, after we took over the command in August 1943; were considerably improved. Many attempts for retaliation measures had to be made because there were very high numbers of violations I think mostly during the years 1941 and 1942. Among us too at the beginning at least there were a number of very bad violations, even in the Serbian territory, which I want to point out as I know a lot about that. But later, already in the fall, late fall, and in winter it was considerably improved and I believe that it is mostly owing to the fact that the Mihajlovic bands from their position which they first took towards us slowly came around and tried to come to an agreement with us. That is what they decided. In that way, about the turn of the year, a great number of occasions were given for such violations. There were also, of course, in 1943 and 1944 many violations which occurred. Only I believe that the extent in the years '42-'43, at least, as it appears to me when I went down there, was very much higher.

Q.- Witness, was the conduct of warfare in the Balkans, was it similar, did it follow the laws of humanity and the laws of international law? You know that violations happened in every Army but it is important to me whether the conduct of warfare in the Balkans was about what it used to be in front of the enemies at other times or whether the violations of international law and of human laws was particularly great. Perhaps you would say something on that subject.

A.- About the warfare of the enemy, the prosecution was informed by me in the memorandum which I have explained in detail.

Q.- We cannot use that because it has not been submitted as evidence or if it is important you can tell us the contents later.

A.- My general impression about the enemy's warfare in the Balkans is that the warfare and the methods, the gangs used, was not the warfare which I came across with any other enemy I have met in any theatre of war, not even in fighting against the partisans in the winter 1941-42 in Russia. In my opinion one cannot call it warfare at all but these insidious acts which took place in the night and these violations, with their unpleasant endings, in my opinion, prove that this method of fighting, according to human rights, does not conform with it at all. The drastic acts already quoted are again proof that as a soldier, one could not possibly agree to these methods and really when visiting my troops I always had to tell them again and again to encourage these brave men who only did their duty, to stop them from taking retaliation measures which were continuous and to stop them from doing so. We generally succeeded but that occurrences occurred occasionally when one knew one's comrades were being killed I believe one cannot consider proof that the German warfare in the Balkans was not in accordance with the laws of humanity. I also talked with the Commander in Chief Southeast and we were always worried about this. It was Commander Weichs, who had exactly the same opinion at the time. I would like to think that if it had been said before that many atrocities which took place that can be accepted as true.

Q.- Witness, for several weeks now, we have heard of numerous retaliation measures and reprisal measures in this Tribunal, which the German Army and the German Commanders ordered, or rather carried out. Is it your opinion that these retaliation measures generally would have been avoided if the warfare of your enemy at the time would have kept to international law and to the laws of humanity at the time?

A.- That is natural for me.

Q.- If I may go into detail about your reply. Please tell me, if I understood you correctly, you considered the situation thus as you say, if the enemy had not done these things, then the Germans would not have had any cause to take retaliation measures and reprisal measures and similar matters. Is that right?

A.- I agree.

Q.- Witness, General Ritter von Geitner was Chief of Staff. He had a number of associates on his staff. Which position on his staff did you hold?

A.- I had the tactical staff, the tactical operations staff. You can say Operations Staff; it sounds better. It was, therefore, a general staff with the chief, Ia, Quartermaster General, and departments which a tactical staff usually requires. Apart from that I had separate administration staff which consisted of officials, Military Officials, but also of civilians of all grades and of all professions.

Q.- Chief of the Tactical Staff was the defendant Ritter von Geitner?

A.- Yes.

Q.- Did you hear von Geitner had anything to do with the administrative staff as well as you said?

A.- Of course he was connected with it because he knew about the important matters in the administrative staff. Of course the chief of time administrative staff in no manner wanted to be subordinate to the Chief of Staff and it was difficult for him to achieve it.

The first deputy, occasionally came to us and this shows that Geitner had actually could not interfere in the administrative staff.

Q.- Was the Chief of the Administrative staff in Ordnance, that is the staff who had to do with administration matters, was he subordinate to the Chief of the Tactical Staff, Herr von Geitner?

A.- No, I tried but could not achieve it.

Q.- Is it right when I come to the conclusion that officially, according to orders, the defendant von Geitner had nothing to do with the matters of the administrative staff, as you said, he might have been interested in order to be informed, but on the other hand to see what went on but I want to know whether he officially or unofficially acted as superior, Had he anything to do with the matters of general administration staff?

A.- No, it was definitely denied by the Chief of the Administrative Staff.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Sauter, I take it you will not be able to complete your cross examination this afternoon?

DR. SAUTER: No, I don't think so.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will adjourn until 0930 tomorrow morning.

(The Tribunal will recess until 0930 o'clock tomorrow morning.)

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the courtroom will please find their seats.

The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal 5. Military Tribunal 5 is now in session. God save the United States of America and this honorable Tribunal. There will be order in the court.

THE PRESIDENT: The Marshal will ascertain as to whether all the defendants are present in the courtroom.

THE MARSHAL: May it please Your Honor, all defendants are present in the courtroom.

THE PRESIDENT: Judge George J. Burke will preside at this day's session.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed, Dr. Sauter.

HANS GUSTAV FELBER - Resumed CROSS EXAMINATION - Continued BY DR. SAUTER:

Q. Witness, at the end of yesterday's session we stopped around the description that you gave us about your co-workers you had in your staff, and you told us that you had two staffs, one administrative staff and one so-called tactical staff or command staff, and you further reported that the chief of the tactical staff was General Ritter von Geitner. Further, you explained to us that Ritter von Geitner did not really have anything to do with matters of the administrative staff but, as a matter of course, he was informed about the activities of the administrative staff. He had to keep himself posted on these matters in order to make sure that his department worked in a uniform manner. Now, we shall continue at this point. The defendant von Geitner, according to you, then was chief of your tactical staff. When you were not present, let us say, for instance, you were on leave or you were home, who was then your deputy?

A. That was decided from case to case and especially ordered.

Generally speaking, it would be the senior general of my command area. It might have been General Geip or at another time it was General von Geibel.

Q. This deputy then, who was appointed in cases where you were prevented, according to my knowledge, had jurisdiction too, is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. I beg your pardon?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. What function according to the conception of the General Staff did your chief of staff, General von Geitner, have as chief of the tactical staff? What I mean, witness - I'm asking you to answer to the effect of the executive powers, if any, the chief of your tactical staff had and which orders he had.

A. The position of the chief of the general staff of a higher command post, he was the first advisor of his military commander. He had no executive functions with respect to tactical orders. That is, he could not issue them on his own account. Furthermore, he had no authority over admonishments or other objections to anything in connection with the work of the troops. With legal matters he had nothing to do at all. His duty was clearly established in a special instruction which generally was called among army people as the "Red Scapegoat".

Q. That, of course, is a joking expression, isn't it? But the official title was Manual for the Service of the General Staff in Wartime, and that was the Army Service Manual G-92. In this Manual for the Service of the General Staff in Wartime the duties and authority of the chief of the general staff are clearly defined. Your Honors, in my case in chief for the defendant Geitner I shall submit as evidence this official instruction. Witness, now yesterday we were informed about a document No. NOKW-1731. That is Exhibit No. 440-a-1. I repeat, 440-a-1. That is your affidavit of the 9th of February 1947. And in this document you designated von Geitner as your deputy. Now, just previously you told us that your deputy was nominated for the time of your absence from case to case.

That is, always the senior officer of your sphere of command. Can you explain to us why, in spite of this fact which you mentioned just now, you designated Geitner as your deputy in your affidavit, or whether your former statement that he was your deputy -- are you going to correct this statement about it? Just a minute, I believe the prosecutor would like to say something.

MR. RAPP: If I may make this interruption, the document referred to by this defense counsel has not been offered as an exhibit, as stated by the defense counsel, but it was merely marked for identification only.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I believe the Tribunal understands that.

DR. SAUTER: That is correct. I only named the number which the prosecution gave this document in order that the Tribunal knows what document I'm referring to. Witness, did you get the question clearly and do you remember it?

A. Yes, indeed.

Q. Then I ask you to make your comments, whether there is a discrepancy, whether you would like to change your statement, or what attitude you have to these questions.

A. One must make a difference between a deputy in command for a lengthy period, let us say at least a few days, and a deputizing in current affairs when, for instance, the commander in chief and his chief are physically separated, which can happen, for instance, and did happen when I went for two or three days to visit the troops in a band area. In that case no special general was nominated as deputy, but in that case the chief of the general staff looked after my affairs as deputy for me -- that is, after the current affairs. But even then, in such a case he was not authorized, according to Manual, to issue orders of a tactical nature without my knowledge. I believe, therefore, that the expression deputy, as it is put down in the document mentioned, would apply to this case.

Q. As far as I know, witness, even in this very temporary prevention of the military commander the chief of staff was only allowed to deal with such matters which were very urgent and could not possibly be delayed, which had to be dealt with immediately. And then only under the condition that the military commander could not be got in touch with. Is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. That is shown from the Service Regulation for the General Staff, which I shall later submit as evidence. If now, you, as military commander, were absent for a short period so that a real deputy in the person of the next higher troop commander was not appointed -- in that case could your chief of staff deal with all matters, or even in this temporary case were there some exceptions as to certain functions of yours which the chief of staff could not deal with?

A In such a case he was, for instance, not allowed to deal with judicial and court matters nor with tactical orders. For instance, referring to the deployment of the troops, he was not allowed to deal with it. Only in a desperately urgent case was he, and then he had to carry the responsibility for his orders. But may I add that in practice of war it happened that other ways and means had to be employed. In those cases it was a question of military agreement between the two persons concerned so that the chief could judge whether his commander would be willing to subscribe to an order which he might have issued, maybe merely as a formal order. According to the regulations he might not have been allowed to issue it, but if he had to issue it he would have to make sure that his commander would agree with it.

Q Witness, you said before that even in such a very temporary prevention of the commander judicial matters were excluded, that is, everything concerning legal matters. I suppose that was because the chief of staff was not allowed to be in charge of the courts. Is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q Then, you talked about the tactical decisions and other matters which were excluded, which basically the chief of staff was not allowed to decide on, even if in temporary cases he had to deputize in a certain sense to the military commander.

A I could think of decisions about persons -- personnel decisions.

Q I am not thinking about personnel decisions. I am thinking about something else which is concerned more with the matters at hand here.

A May I please have a hint as to what you are referring to?

Q Yesterday you talked about executive authority, and I'm asking you now whether your chief of staff as such, on the basis of your general position as chief of the tactical staff, authorized to deputize for you in any matters concerning executive powers.

A I would like to qualify this with the following. Generally speaking, he was not allowed to do it.

Q Generally speaking he was not allowed to do it?

A But I could think of one case or another where things had to be hurried. In those cases the chief, just as I described matters in the tactical sphere before, had to deal independently on matters of a territorial character and could have occasionally made a decision.

Q Now, Witness, how did that -- I am talking about the relationship between General Felber and Chief of Staff von Geitner -- how did that appear in practice? What I mean is, if you were absent from Serbia for a longer period, there would be a deputy appointed for you in any case. That is, in the person of another commander. If you were absent for a very short period, for instance, if you had to go across country for a couple of days, wasn't, in those cases von Geitner completely independent, or did you yourself have a telephone connection with him daily -- say once or twice with your chief of staff, in order to get reports from him, in order to give him orders and things like that? How did that actually work in practice?

A It was handled in the way which you last mentioned. That is, a procedure which was usual with all troops in status of war. It happened thus that sometime during the day we had telephonic connections and discussed the very important matters at hand.

Q So that, if I may draw a conclusion from your statement, if ever was the case that Geitner was in any very important matters in a position to issue an order without having had a chance to talk to you and to ask for your consent.

Is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q That is correct then about the competency of the chief of staff -- what I'm interested in, Witness, is the following: Was the Higher SS and Police Leader subordinate to this Higher SS and Police Leader which has been discussed here several times? Was he subordinate to the chief of the tactical staff or who else was he subordinate to?

A The most rather difficult personality of this particular kind would never had been willing to be subordinate to a chief of staff. They found it very difficult already to find themselves subordinate to a commander in chief, that is, a subordination of Meisner under the chief of the General Staff was quite out of the question.

Q Who was Meisner subordinate to then?

A He was only subordinate to me and apart from me nobody. Nobody except to Himmler, that is, Reich Fuehrer SS Himmler.

Q Witness, I would now like to come to the chapter of retaliation measures. If today you look back on those things and make a picture for yourself of things that happened then, if you think of the numerous discussions which you had about these matters with your chief of staff Von Geitner, can you then, quite generally speaking, say that Herr von Geitner was a trouble maker? That he was a ruthless person? That he was insistent that things be handled ruthlessly? Or can you say just the opposite, that Geitner would reject such collective reprisal measures on his own, and that he tried to smooth them down? What could you say?

A General von Geitner did not have anything to do really with reprisal measures, for this order were given by me and were regarded by me as a more judicial measure and, of course, I discussed these matters with him currently and in more extensive and important cases I discussed them with him in a very detailed manner. On these occasions I could only find out that he had a completely sensible and very legal and judicial basis in these rather difficult questions. To talk about trouble-making, I could at no time notice anything of that kind, but according to my personal experiences of his personality and character this would be not too nice.

Q At these discussions which you had with Herr von Geitner, I believe daily, and where these chapters were discussed too, although really they did not belong under the authority and jurisdiction of Herr von Geitner, allegedly Geitner had repeatedly shown the following attitude to you. He had the principle that one should establish a winning administration -- an administration that wins the love of the population -- that is, an administration which helps to win the indigenous population and gives them a good impression of the occupation power. Is that correct?

A That is quite within the line of the relations which were established yesterday of the very happy military combination of the two of us.

Q Allegedly that is supposed to have been that he had jokingly told repeatedly, "You von Geitner, you are almost half a Serb." Can you remember these joking remarks?

A That is possible, but I cannot say that for sure today.

Q According to what you told us yesterday we assume that the SS and Higher Police Leader Meisner had a considerably more ruthless tendency. Is that correct?

A Yes, that can be definitely said.

Q Is it now correct that von Geitner, even in his very first report which he submitted to you after you arrived in Serbia, in order to inform you -- were you told already about Meisner and his ruthless attitude? Can you remember that?

A That's completely correct.

Q He allegedly said that Meissner should not be allowed to influence anybody and he behaved like a hooligan.

A This is quite possible. I cannot remember it for sure now.

Q Is it correct, according to your own experiences, that the defendant von Geitner expressed his attitude which rejected these matters, expressed his attitude personally too SS and Police Leader Meissner, and that you yourself found out that Meissner asked, subsequently, when he had to make any request or demand or wanted to give any order -- he would so over Geitner's head and dealt directly with you or with another staff commander? That is, according to your own experiences?

A It is correct that Meissner never visited the Chief of the General Staff prior to a discussion with me, and I remember quite well that the personal relations between the two, especially from Geitner to Meissner, were rather tense.

Q At this initial report which you received after your arrival in Belgrade and which was submitted to you by von Geitner and at the occasion of which he informed you of the way in which Bader had handled matters in the Balkans, on this occasion he is supposed -- von Geitner is supposed to have explained to you that he was happy that he, Geitner, was glad that he had basically nothing to do with retaliation measures. And the conception that your predecessor, General Bader, had also dealt with these measures personally and had always ordered them himself, and he had never had anything to do with them and he was glad that he was rid of this pressure because he for his part had always rejected these measures. Is that correct?

A Yes, that is correct. And the conception that also my predecessor made all the decisions independently and alone I have to take it that that is completely correct.

Q You said, witness, these retaliation measures were mainly according to your feeling. You regarded them and dealt with them in your capacity as a -- within your legal jurisdiction. Is that correct?

A That is completely correct.

Q Now you said also and you talked about the executive powers and it has crystallized from your statements yesterday that you had executive powers even earlier than you recollect now. Today, witness, are you aware of the fact that also your predecessor, General Bader, too had already executive powers and that he exercised those executive powers?

A No, I have to assume that.

Q So now you have to assume it, so it follows, your Honors, this is also seen from a service regulation which has already been submitted by the prosecution and which I shall submit again in my case in chief for Geitner, also in connection with the Serbian area.

Witness, we have during the last days talked repeatedly about executive powers and you have told us, I believe it was yesterday, you had executive powers in order to be able to maintain law, order and security in the occupied countries?

A Yes, that is the idea of executive powers.

Q Can you now tell us because maybe that is a conception which is not quite clear to the Honorable Judges here, what executive power really is? Or to put it a little more clearly what function does a man have who has executive powers?

AAAs far as I can remember the service regulations today, executive power includes first of all the maintenance of law, order and security and for this purpose executive powers are given to the Commander concerned and he should be allowed to exercise all means necessary in order to maintain law and order in the occupied countries.

For this purpose, he has at his disposal all troops subordinate to him.

Q Witness, this definition is a little too general. I would like to read to you a definition which is contained in a service regulation, and at the end of this I want you to tell me whether you can agree to this definition, either generally speaking, or whether you can say that it applies to conditions in Serbia as you knew them. It reads, then:

"Executive power is the right to issue orders and laws in an occupied territory by the commander of the occupying forces under exclusion of the up-to-then valid indigenous authorities. Executive power includes simultaneously the right of the commander to nominate officials and judges of the civil population or to dismiss them."

Witness, so far the definition which I found in a service regulation, I read it to you because it is quite difficult to formulate anything like that right off the bat. Would you in your personal opinion say that this definition applied to Serbian conditions and to your particular case inasmuch as you, as not a legal person, can understand these difficult questions? That is, the right to give orders, issue orders and laws in the occupied territory by the person who has the occupation power and exclusion of the indigenous authorities with the right to nominate and dismiss judges and officials of the indigenous government. Is that correct?

A Yes, in the main, that is correct. That is the same as what I said rather generally -- to issue law and order.

Q This definition which I read is consented to you, generally speaking?

A Yes indeed.

Q And new subsequent to this question with particular reference to von Geitner, did the Chief of Staff in his capacity as chief of staff -- did he have anything to do with executive powers or is it right that executive powers were purely a matter of the Commander-in-Chief? That is, the Commander-in-Chief who simultaneously was supreme judicial authority?

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, we object to this type of questioning. I believe the defense counsel has gone way beyond what could generally be called as leading the witness.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: This is cross-examination, however, and while counsel has taken the liberty of covering rather broad territory, I think he may proceed.

DR. SAUTER: Your Honors, I thought it was suitable and serves a purpose to clarify this question, because the concept of executive power will turn up again and again in the course of the further proceedings, and therefore it is difficult for everybody who has not in the course of his occupation to do with these things. It is very difficult to get a clear picture of first of all what is executive power, and -

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I think we have a fairly accurate idea of it at this time.

BY DR. SAUTER:

Q Witness, you said that von Geitner had nothing to do with executive powers. Who then dealt with reprisal measures within your staff?

Witness, I don't want to know the name, but I want to know his official designation, whether he was Ia, Ic.

A This was an ordnance officer, member of the Department Ia who apart from other things had the task to collect all these cases, to compile them, and to submit them to me, and he did that in the following manner. He did not previously go to his superior general staff officer -- that was the first general staff officer, neither to the chief, but as an exception, he came directly to me.

Court No. V, Case No. VII.

Q. That was not Geitner?

A. No.

Q. Witness, you told us that the daily reports--I am talking about daily reports--which were sent off daily, had to be prior to being sent off or submitted to you--these daily reports were initialed by von Geitner?

A. He either initialed them or he was present when these compiled reports were submitted to me.

Q. Who signed them?

A. Generally speaking, they went under the signature Chief of the General Staff. However, I found it sufficient to put my seal on the daily reports which had been approved by me.

Q. Is it correct that, I believe it was during your time, a special order arrived which for some unknown reason expressly ordered that such daily reports from a certain date had to be signed by the Chief of Staff or to at least be initialed by the Chief of Staff? That was supposedly a special instruction.

A. It was a general custom in the whole German Army that a Chief of Staff compiled, initialed or signed the daily reports, and according to how the Supreme Commander wished it, showed them to him previously, either previously or as it usually happened in practice afterwards. Therefore, there was really no need for this special instruction which I do not recollect either.

Q. Witness, what meaning in your opinion has the signing of initialing of daily reports by the Chief of Staff? I will put the question even more concretely. What responsibility of the Chief of Staff was expressed by the fact that he had to sign or initial these reports?

A. He took over all this, the complete responsibility for the contents of the reports.

Q. What do you mean by he took over complete responsibility for the contents?

A. I cannot think of any other purpose of his having to sign and initial reports.

Q. If in the daily reports, reprisal measures were mentioned which had been carried out on the previous day and the Chief of Staff signed this daily report, what responsibility could he then take over?

A. He carried the responsibility of the honest and clear report to a superior command.

Q. In other words, then, the responsibility he had was that the report which he initialed or signed was in compliance and agreement with the reports which he himself received, that he was responsible for the correctness of the report, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. He was not liable therefore for the reprisal measures but he was merely responsible for the correctness of the reports?

A. That is right, only for the correctness of the reports.

Q. There is no doubt about that, is there?

A. No.

Q. Witness, you did at one time talk about mock executions. Can you remember that? What did you understand by mock executions? What did you understand today under mock executions?

A. The day before yesterday I believe I mentioned and described these mock executions and tried to explain their purpose. These mock executions, if I may repeat that, had the purpose to give outsiders--that is to the Serbian population--the impression that for one case of a retaliation, reprisal which had been threatened to the population by a local headquarters - for instance, for a case that perpetrators of an attack did not report up to a certain fixed date--that in that case the measures which were well known to the population and I think were also feared by them, these reprisal measures would be carried out.

If nothing had happened, than probably quite soon it would have happened and it could have been expected that there would be excesses of surprise attacks, murders, etc. and they would have grown to an extent which in order to secure law and order would have caused us to more ruthless, considerably more ruthless measures.

Therefore, at least externally, the headquarters had to announce to the population that four or five or what other figure might have been a case, four or five hostages would be shot, on announcement which actually was not executed. I thought that these mock reprisal measures would further save human lives to an extent which otherwise would have been impossible for me, if I had approved and carried out the reprisal measures as it had been requested.

Q. If I understand you correctly, witness, mock executions were not carried out, not even just as a fake, out if I understand you correctly you are trying to say mock executions consisted in practice in the following: Posters or announcements in newspapers one day or the other, proclaiming to the population that certain reprisal measure had been carried out, in spite of the fact that actually these reprisal measures had not been carried out. Did I understand you correctly then?

A. Yes, indeed.

Q. Yes, And the purpose again, if I understood you correctly was that to frighten the population so as to prevent them from participating in sabotage, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Witness, if it known to you that due to the emergency situation in which you and your co-workers found yourselves, that such false reports were sent to higher headquarters with respect to reprisal measures--that is, false reports inasmuch as it was reported to higher headquarters that certain reprisal measures had been carried out, whereas actually they had not been carried out.

A. I myself cannot recollect such a case but I do think it is quite possible that such--well shall we say such a pacifying report to higher headquarters was made.

Q. And what would you say was the reason for that?

A. I already took the liberty yesterday to point out that we were very sharply controlled on the part of the SS political people and that the other side, I am sure, thought that we were exaggeratedly soft and that they would have immediately reported anything like that to Himmler.

Q. Further, is it correct, witness, that for similar reasons you or your staff repeatedly did not report surprise attacks and sabotage action although they had occurred and for that reason that not in a manner which was thought exaggerated by you, reprisal measures were ordered, talked about.

A. Today I cannot recall a specific case after such a long time, but I think it would be quite within the lines of our general conception and I think it is quite possible that it happened.

Q. Witness, in one of your affidavits at one time you talked about the executions of hostages at mopping up operations?

A. I could not understand the last word.

Mopping up operations?

Q. Yes, I am talking about mopping up operations of the troop. Therefore, I would like to ask, did the troop on the occasion of mopping up operation--did the troop carry out executions of hostages?

A. I cannot recollect a case of this nature but it may be possible and there again I have to point to the Bulgarian units that occasionally a spontaneous excess might have happened.

Q. A spontaneous excess? That would be on the part of the troop without any underlying order by you or by another responsible department, is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Witness, another question. In December 1943 you went on furlough to Germany. I think you went to Dresden?

A. Yes, I went to Dresden.

Q. All I am interested in is this: Is it correct that at that time also your Chief of Staff, von Geitner, went on furlough at the same time, that is, a furlough which had not been booked and that then you extended it, Geitner's leave, when you were in Dresden, for a few days. Is that right?

A. Yes, that is right. I had to force Geitner to go on furlough because he would not, on his own accord, have gone and I thought it was necessary that he get a good rest.

Q. Witness, did it occur that reprisal orders as far as you were informed were made and signed by Geitner?

A. Such a signature on a reprisal order I cannot think of.

Q. I have here in front of me a document which is in Document Book X, German page 11, Exhibit 246. This document has been submitted by the prosecution; it has the date of the 5th of November 1943 but obviously should mean the 5th of January 1943. I think that must have been a typographical error when the document was copied. "The Commanding General and Supreme Commander in Serbia" -- it says here -- "Subject: Reprisal Measures." Then it reads: "To Administrative Headquarters 809. The Deputy Commanding General, Major General Tuppe, approved the application of the district headquarters Leskovac of 29 September 1942 to shoot to death 35 hostages." Then the details of the order are mentioned and then comes the signature: "For the Commanding General and Commander in Serbia, Chief of General Staff," signature "von Geitner". Witness, I am submitting to you a copy of this document. Please look at this order and then tell the Court what conclusions you draw from this order -- as you have it before you -- in respect to the responsibility of the defendant von Geitner.

A. This concerns an order which is doubtless of January 1943. That is before my time. The form of the order seems to me a little unusual because on top it reads, "The Deputy Commanding General has approved."

That means he has ordered the reprisal measures and then details are mentioned which would have been really a matter of this reprisal order of the Commanding General. What the cause of this was, to put up an order in this particular form, I cannot explain.

Q. Witness, do you assume in agreement with me that this order which at a quick glance looks a little unusual to you, that the reason for this unusual form may well be that your deputy -- let's say the deputy of your predecessors -- was not present at the time when the order was given and could, therefore, not sign the order himself at the time when the order went out.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, we submit that this Court is not interested in the opinion of counsel to ask whether or not the defendant agrees with him. We respectfully submit, Your Honor, that the witness should be questioned about these things.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: The objection is sustained.

BY DR. SAUTER:

Q Witness, you should therefore not answer the question since it concerns my own opinion, but you are supposed to answer the question completely according to your own opinion. What explanation can you give for the fact that the Commanding General did not sign the reprisal order himself, but the Chief of Staff himself?

A. It might well have been that such a decision was given to the Chief over the telephone in the absence of the Commanding General and also that these individual instructions for the individual hostages were given because the Commanding General, who was absent, could not possibly know how these individual cases were to be treated in detail; that was a matter of the competent officer who worked on these reprisal measures, as I already mentioned. In any case, the form, the official form, as it is expressed in this particular order, is unusual.

Q. How would you, as Chief of Staff, have formulated this order if you consider this unusual?

A. I would have asked my commanding general to give clear instructions as to the individual cases and then I would have informed the troop of his order. This order does not show clearly whether it was meant this way.

Q. According to the customs which are usual in the German Army, can one arrive at the opinion that was expressed in this communication was an order of the Chief of Staff or the receiving department - would that department see clearly that it concerned an order of the Deputy Commanding General while the Chief of Staff, with his signature, merely approved it in the usual official channel, the order of his Deputy Commanding General.

A. I assume that it was meant this way, in this case; that it was merely literally an unhappy formulation which says: it is therefore ordered and signed von Geitner. It would have been clearer if it had said, "The Commanding General has ordered," if "it has been ordered," and according to this formulation it might have been Geitner as well as the Commanding General.

Q. By chance I have here a second order from the same time period again signed by the Commanding General and Commander in Serbia and Chief of the General Staff von Geitner. This is an order of the 6th of January 1943. This again is subject: "Reprisal Measures". Again: "To Administrative Sub Headquarters 809", and this reads:

"The Deputy Commanding General, Major General Tuppe, has ordered--" and then come the individual instructions. This is Document NOKW-973 which document has been submitted as an exhibit.

A. In my opinion this second order has the right official form because it shows quite clearly that the Deputy Commanding General had ordered. Now, it says, or it gives, his decision, which is merely passed on by the Chief of Staff to the local headquarters through official channels because I suppose the Commanding General was not present at the time.

Q. Now, witness, you look at the second order and now compare the first order with it.

Do you, in this, find a confirmation of the fact that the first order which I gave to you was meant in the same way as the second order which was dated one day later? That is merely passing on an order of the Commanding General through official channels.

A. That is quite my opinion. Anyway, the Chief of the General Staff would never volunteer to decide or to order a reprisal measure on his own account.

Q I have one last question to put to you, witness. In the course of these proceedings the question arose, what is the meaning of the formulation which occurs in several documents "signed in draft"? On the 34 of July we received an explanation for this which in my opinion was not quite clear. What can you, on the basis of your own knowledge of the condition, tell us; what should be expressed if under an official document of this nature we find the words, "signed in draft"?

A The explanation for this can be formulated thus. It happened frequently that a decision was submitted by the chief to his commanding general and was obtained and that the commanding general had full knowledge of the document, that is, not on the basis of an oral report but the Commanding General had full knowledge of this report but that for some reason he did, for some reasons of time, or other reasons, could not wait for the official completed version because he had other tasks outside of the headquarters. Therefore, if he signed it in draft, the contents are completely approved by the responsible superior officer.

Q Was it established then that the form of the document as submitted was in agreement with the wishes of the Commander that he approved it and that the person who added the words, "signed in draft" merely wished to express that the formulation and presentation would be exactly the same as it complied with the wishes of the Commander and the orders as issued, not the officer who then certified the document was liable for the contents of the order, but he did certify for the wishes of the Commanding General?

A Yes.

DR. SAUTER: I have no more questions.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Do you have any objection, Mr. Rapp.

MR. RAPP: We will withdraw any objection we were preparing to make.

DR. SAUTER: No further questions.

BY DR. WEISGERBER (Attorney for the defendant General Speidel):

Q General, in your memorandum which has been quoted here several times dated on the 15 of June 1948, that is, the document NOKW 1735 which was not submitted as an exhibit by the Prosecution, in this document we find the following sentence: "The Military Commander Greece was a torso" I would like to ask you for a short explanation of the reasons for this conception.

AAccording to my impressions which I gained quite soon after my arrival in Belgrade, and after a very impressive report of the Commander of Greece, who was General Speidel at that time, I had gained the impression that with a great name and nicely formulated written tasks one wanted to exaggerate something which in reality was hardly suitable to live. I completely understood at that time that General Speidel requested of me to affix my attitude to the facts that he quite soon or he would approach me with an application for resignation because he was not willing to take over the responsibility for matters for the achievement of which he did not have the means at his disposal. He even, as far as I remember, compiled these files in Belgrade maybe - I don't remember- I do remember in any case that he submitted to me a lengthy document which expressed these things very clearly. I, on my part, then tried to calm him down and told him that after such a short period I could not survey matters sufficiently in order to put myself out for him and according to his ideas and I achieved that he took back his resignation and let a certain period lapse in the hope that matters would change. He let a certain period lapse in the hope that matters would change. His most important point of objection as far as I remember today dealt with the feeling of complete dependence, in this field work, which he had, that is, the territory administration of the country, or, as we have quoted here now, executive powers. The most important prerequisite for this work, that is a sufficiently large troop, was not at his disposal. He further complained, even at that time, about a strong endeavor of the tactical departments; especially of army Group E, to interfere with his functions, and this complaint did not cease during the whole time of his presence in Greece.

I believe in Spring 1944 matters came to a head and at first, as far as I remember, he was subordinate to Army Group E, merely for administrative matters, for operational matters he was in any case thus subordinated, and finally his full subordination in everything that was ordered to Army Group E.

Q When did that happen?

A I cannot name here the exact date but I believe that that happened after Speidel left because the battle which the Army Group F waged for the complete subordination of all military commanders, that is my own department too, that battle was already waged since the end of 1943 and the OKW for some reasons which I cannot survey and did not know delayed matters until finally, for me, on the first of September 1944 the complete subordination was ordered but it is possible that the subordination of the Military Commander Greece under Army Group E is prior to that date.

Q It was thus that military tactical tasks for the Military Commander Greece could not be carried out because of the lack of troops which were necessary for these tasks and therefore such tasks were not even put to him. Is that correct?

A In general outlines this conception is correct.

Q The crucial point of the task is, therefore, purely in the administrative sphere?

A And possibly in the political sphere, that is to keep on good terms with the Greek government but the responsibility for administrative matters in that respect is again to be limited because it is important here that the German Ambassador, Neubacher, in the Southeast area, be an intermediary.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: At this point we will take a recess.

(a recess was taken)

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the Courtroom will please find their seats.

The Tribunal is again in session.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed, Dr. Weisgerber.

BY DR. WEISGERBER:

Q Witness, yesterday you said that the High SS and Police Leader Greece, to the Military Commander in Greece was subordinate in the same way as the Serbian Command in Serbia in the SS was with the SS Gruppenfuehrer Meissner.

A Yes, that is what I said.

Q You were on quite good terms with SS Gruppenfuehrer Meissner, you said?

A No, I must make a certain limitation to that. From a purely military sphere he was always ready to help me if I needed it from his troops and he always placed them at my disposal but on the other spheres we had considerable tensions.

Q Now, do you know something about the relation between General Speidel and his High SS and Police Leader, General Schimana?

A The relations between Speidel and Schimana I cannot remember exactly. I only know that his successor, General Scheuerlen expressed very clearly the great difficulties which Schimana made for him, but I can remember one incident which also happened in Speidel's time where one day the Chief of General Speidel came to us in Belgrade and protested that Schimana, in the absence of his Commander, when the Chief asked him to come to a conference in the Headquarters, Schimana refused. With a Chief of Staff he had nothing to do. From this I would like to see the proof that the relations were so between Speidel and Schimana, and his staff was full of considerable tension because -- nevertheless this attitude -- this conduct, after all, this was war -- was very remarkable.

Q The Tendency for.....

the greatest possible independence; wasn't this characteristically for the Higher SS and Police leader?

A. As I stated in my memorandum that was the same everywhere.

Q. The prosecution, in the course of their submissions submitted a number of daily reports from the Military Commander to your office, the Military Commander Southeast, from these daily reports one learns about shootings at Communists and DM followers or reports about reprisal measures, etc.

I now assume that the prosecution shows the responsibility of the Chief, or the Commander, of the office surely sends out these reports, the responsibility for the measures contained in these reports--and now I would like to clarify this complex. I think I could do this more simply by presenting you with a report which I just pick out at random.

This is Document NOKW-670, Prosecution Exhibit No. 437, document book 18, page 43 of the English, page 50 of the German. I would like you to take a look at the bottom of this page and the next page of this report. This is the daily report, the morning report, of the military Commander in Greece from the 15th of March 1944. I would like you also to look at the next page to this.

I would like to ask you three questions which I will ask you one after the other and then I would like you to give your answer to these three questions.

First of all, what was the purpose of these reports? Secondly, how did they originate; and, thirdly, what conclusions can be drawn from those reports what the responsibility of the Commander was with regard to that responsibility of the leader of the Office which sent them?

A The purpose of this report was to inform about the current events in the sphere of work in the offices concerned. It can be seen here that they are only directed to the superior office that is the military Commander Southeast and, at the same time, I would like to make this limitation to Department Ic and, at the same time, to Army Group E Salonika, again to Department Ic. The responsibility for the retaliation measure which had been carried out was borne by the Military Commander in Greece who carried out the executive powers there.

Q Might I ask for the third question.....

A That is my second question about?

Q How this report originated.

A The Military Commander in Greece also received his reports from his Feldkommandantur (District Headquarters). He compiled it together in his staff because he needed it at the end of the month for his monthly report and then he gave the most interesting reports, especially as they concerned the tactical sphere, to my office and also to the tactical offices associated with him, Army Group E.

Q There is another question -- it is not correct to say that the lowest offices from which the first reports came, events which were in that sphere or the neighborhood in which they were stationed, they recorded these reports without having had anything at all to do with these events themselves. Didn't they report these events to the next highest office?

A Yes, that's correct.

Q. Isn't it right that perhaps the second or the third office then could not ascertain at all who had ordered any kind of measures so that if such event was reported to higher quarters, nobody without having seen it could have known whose responsibility it was?

A. Yes, that could be right; that depends on the contents and the subject of the report concerned.

Q. Then could I ask you to look again at this morning report from the 15th of March, page 2, where retaliation measures are mentioned? I would ask you to explain whether this report allows the conclusion to be drawn that these retaliation measures in no case, come expressly from the military commander in Greece, but that these could also have been measures which any kind of office in the whole of the Greek area could have been ordered.

A. Yes, that is quite possible, especially because under one number here, a "corps" is mentioned, "Regiment EAKR". I don't know what it means. I do not know now whether it was subordinate to the Military Commander then.

Q. But at any rate one thing is correct, that the report, regarded in itself, it did not happen that the report which some office passed on above, and did only contain that which happened in its own sphere of command, and fell under the responsibility of its commander?

A. That is correct. Especially it is correct for the report I have already mentioned, the one which was sent on in the Ic channel.

Q. One more question , - the so-called hostage orders, the orders in which quotas were laid down, there came from the OKW, and then through the official channels, they went through you, to the subordinate commanders, etc?

A. I can only make one limitation here. In my time the orders were already then there when I arrived, but otherwise they went through the channels, through me to the subordinate units. The connective reprisal order which is mentioned here had already been present in the Balhaus when I was not there.

Q. According to my information this retaliation order came from the first 1 to 50 order, when the first time came with General Speidel when you were still there, could it have been possible that the order could have been passed on to General Speidel when you were then military commander in southeast?

A. Yes, I think one should understand the link there, that in an installation of an officer, as with the case with the military commander Greece, that there all the fundamental orders had already been issued previously but had not yet arrived in the staff, were not yet placed at the disposal of the staffs. This was not the issuance of a new order, but merely orders of all kinds being placed at the disposal, among them this collective order.

Q. About your personal attitude towards this collective reprisal order, did you also inform General Speidel about this?

A. Yes.

DR. WEISGERBER: I have no further questions.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Is there further cross-examination of this witness? --(Defense counsel indicated they did not)-

Have you further direct examination Mr. Rapp?

MR. RAPP: Yes, your Honor.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed.

RE-DIRECT EXAMINATION BY MR. RAPP:

Q. Witness, yesterday, in connection with the cross-examination by the defense you were asked about various authorities of the defendant, von Weichs, and one of the questions, at the end of the this certain period about which I am speaking concerned, this was the question which you were asked: "Would you think it correct if I said that his main task was a strategic task?", and thereupon witness, you answered , "Yes, that would be correct". Witness, in the introduction or or further statement to the question, and answer which you gave to this couple of questions, I would like to ask you first of all, did you have so-called territorial authorities in Serbia?

A. After it has been made clear to me, yes.

Q. Did you have territorial authority as Military Commander Southeast in the southeastern area?

A. On paper, and according to official directives, yes.

Q. Witness, did the defendant Weichs have so-called security authorities in the southeastern area, that is to say on matters regarding security?

A. Yes. Might I make a limitation to the question which was previously asked, about territorial authority in the southeastern area? In Croatia, I didn't have any such territorial authorities. There, the Croatian government had this.

Q. Witness, did you have security authorities in Serbia?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have these security authorities yourself, or did you have these security authorities by reason of the security authority which Weichs had for the whole southeastern area?

A. We both had the authority simultaneously.

Q. You are now speaking about Serbia?

A. Yes, only about Serbia.

Q. Witness, would you please explain to the Tribunal what you understand by "security authority"?

A. By "security authority", I personally understood that the task assigned to me, to maintain peace and order, and for the tactical foundations; I had to safeguard these, and if necessary, by making use of the troops at my disposal.

Q. Witness, would you please tell the Tribunal what you understand by, "territorial authority"?

A. The territorial authorities was covered by that of the Executive power, in that power in which the competent office expressly was ordered.

Q. Witness, the whole territory of reprisal and retaliation, can this be described as the expert field of "security authorities"?

A. I should like to answer this question with -- yes!

Q. Witness, the so-called tactical or police -- or necessary for police reasons -- reprisal or retaliation measures about which we spoke yesterday, as well as the day before yesterday, were these matters of security authority or matters of territorial authority?

A. I would like to answer this question by saying that they were the tasks of security authority.

Q. Witness, the next question which I would like to discuss with you quite briefly, - you said yesterday in reply to a question from the prosecution, that the warfare in the Balkans could be formulated by saying that the warfare carried on by the bands was in no way equal to the warfare which you had met with any other enemy in any other theater of war, and not even in the very bloody fighting with the partisans in Russia in 1941-1942?

A. That's right.

Q. Would you please explain to me further whether by this you mean that in other words, the bloody battle in Serbia or in the southeastern area were so to speak forced upon you? Do you mean that by that statement?

A. Yes.

Q. Witness, do you know who invaded the Balkans, which Army?

A. Which Wehrmacht you mean?

Q. Yes, which Wehrmacht, which Wehrmacht was that?

A. That was my own. The German.

Q. And then when were the Balkans invaded?

A. In 1941.

Q. Do you know the date witness?

A. In think in May 1941.

Q. May?

A. No, before then, in April, 1941.

Q. Before April 1941. Up to then witness was Yugoslavia and Greece in a state of war with Germany?

A. No.

Q. Now further, witness, did you say that the German Army, so to speak, came into this territory and hoped to meet an honest and brave enemy who fought in accordance with international conventions. Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were asked yesterday about the Commissioner order. Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you told us that as Corps Commander inside of the 4th Army you received this Commissar order?

A. Yes.

Q. I think Field Marschal Fuechler or Kluge commanded the 4th Army?

A. Kluge.

Q. Now witness, did you think that the Commissar order was an order which originated from Hitler?

A. Without doubt.

Q. Do you know who at that time was the Commander-in-Chief of the Army, and how they received the Commissar order?

A. Of course; Field Marshal von Brauchitsch.

Q. And who was the Supreme Commander of the German Wehrmacht at that time?

A. That was Hitler.

Q. Was the German Army a part of the German Wehrmacht?

A. Yes.

Q. Was the then Supreme commander Hitler at that time the superior of Field Marshal von Brauchitsch?

A. Yes.

Q. Now witness, were you as a professional officer under oath to the Supreme Commander of the German Wehrmacht at that time, and what did this oath mean?

A. This oath meant for the German soldier, that he should give themselves completely to their duty as he had sworn to do.

Q. Witness, does this also include unconditional fulfillment of the orders of the Supreme Commanders?

A. Yes.

Q. You told us yesterday, witness, that you did not pass on the Commissar order. Is that right, witness?

A. Yes.

Q. Why didn't you pass on the Commissar order?

A. Because for the first time in my life as a soldier, I was of the impression that there was an order which was given to me which I could not be responsible for to my inner conscience and the carrying out of this order would be such a burden for the officers and men under my command, and for this reason I refused it, and tried in another way to carry it out in a weaker form, to use other words for the word "sabotage".

Q. Is it correct , - do you mean by this, that it was possible that Fuehrer orders could not be carried out?

A. In reality, absolutely, but the consequences of such an action had to be clear to one.

Q. Then you did not carry out the fuehrer Commissar order?

A. No, I did not carry it out.

Q. Now witness, in order to come back to our original subject, that is the fighting methods in the Southeastern area, and you compared this to the fighting methods in the east by which the otherwise honorably fighting Wehrmacht was forced to fight in this way; I would, therefore, like to ask you to answer the following question: When did Germany invade Russia?

A. On the 22nd of June, 1941.

Q. Your Honor, I am now giving the witness NOKW 1076, Exhibit 14, Document Book 1, that is the famous so-called Commissar order. Witness you told us that the German Wehrmacht attacked Russian in June; do you know the exact date, witness?

A. 22nd of June.

Q. 22nd of June. The document which I have given you is the socalled Commissar order. In this case comments to the Commissar order. What is the date of this document, witness?

A. From the commander-in-chief oi the Army, the 8th of June.

Q. 8th of June?

A. June.

Q. According to your statement, Russia was attacked on the 22nd of June, so that two weeks before that, oh 14 days before the attack, and before it was even known how the Russians fought or what their fighting methods were, this order was issued; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Witness, in connection with this question, I would like to limit myself specifically to the southeastern area in which you maintained yesterday, that there the brutal methods of fighting and the inhuman methods of fighting, were forced upon the brave German soldiers. Somethings you have told the Tribunal, witness, that Yugoslavia or Greece, was attacked in April by Germany; is that correct, witness?

A. Yes.

Q. And yesterday in your statements witness, you were asked how you explained that in 1943 the so-called, I think you described it as massacres, were less numerous, as in 1942 or 1943. Were you asked this question, witness?

A. Yes. This question was put to me.

Q. You told the Tribunal that the reason for this was that perhaps under your predecessor, or even under those commanders who before your time had been active in the Balkans, the fighting methods of the enemy must have been of especial brutality; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. First of all, I would like to give you a document, NOKW1111, Exhibit 4, Book 1.--

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: What is the number of the exhibit please?

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, the number of the exhibit is 4; exhibit 4, book 1.

Q. Witness, what is the date of this document?

A. The date is the 27th of April, 1941.

Q. During this time you were in the southeastern area?

A. No.

Q. Witness, who signed this document?

A. A Commanding General --- von Kortzfleisch.

Q. Would you now please read the second paragraph, firstly for yourself (witness reading document)..

Would you now please read this paragraph to us again, witness?

A. The whole paragraph?

Q. Yes, the whole paragraph.

A. "I expect every instance of resistance to be broken with ruthless force. Every person encountered resisting or fleeing with weapon in hand, is to be shot dead immediately. Persons surrendering are to be handed over to courts martial or summary courts martial to be judged immediately. We draw attention to the decree, OKW -here follows the numbers of 2nd of April 41, sent with commander-in-chief of the 12th Army" and then - there are diary figures A "...In areas of unrest, furthermore, hostages are to be taken whose shooting to death is to be applied for in case further enemy resistance should occur.

Any consideration will be interpreted as weakness of the German troops and is a mistake."

Q Thank you very much, Witness.

DR. LATERNER: The Prosecution should not be allowed to ask this question because in re-direct examination he can only touch upon points which arose in the cross-examination; therefore, I object to this.

JUDGE BURKE: The objection is made rather belatedly. You may proceed.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, since the Court did not, at this time, rule on defense counsel's objection--however, defense counsel maintains that this particular phase has not been covered during the cross-examination, I would like to call the Court's respectful attention to the fact that I intend to go on this particular phase, provided the Court sees fit to sustain the defense counsel's objection. Inasmuch as we believe yesterday this point was brought up by defense counsel when the witness stated that measures taken by the German Army were taken under duress and as a direct outgrowth of measures taken first by the German Army.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: The objection of the defense counsel is over-ruled and you may proceed.

MR. RAPP: Very well, your Honor.

BY MR. RAPP:

Q Witness, this document which I have just shown to you was dated the 27th of April. That is in the same month in which the German Wehrmacht invaded the Balkans. Is that correct?

A Yes, but I would like to point out that under figure I of this order, the comment to the measures by the German Wehrmacht are set down.

Q Thank you. Witness, in connection with the same compiles I would like to show you a final document, NOKW-1198 Exhibit 5, Document Book 1. Witness, what is the date of this document?

A The document is dated 28th April 1941, from the Army.

Q And how do you recognize this document? Can you please describe it?

A It's an Army order of the Commander in Chief of the 2nd Army, signed: Freiherr von Weichs, and the order is passed on to the General Command, already mentioned -- 11 -- signed Kortzfleisch down to the companies.

Q Would you read through the order briefly, Witness, before I put a few questions to you about it. Have you looked at the order enough, Witness?

A Yes.

Q This order, is it the fundamental order by reason of which the regulation by Kortzfleisch was issued?

A Yes.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Just a answer please!

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, the Witness is now asked about something which happened in 1941. At that time he wasn't in the Balkans. Also, in addition the question which was just put not a question which refers to facts but one about something which asks for an opinion of the Witness. This can not be done in the direct-examination. I would like the question to be rejected.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: If the Witness has personal knowledge of the matter he may answer it; otherwise he would be stating a conclusion. It would be incompetent.

MR. RAPP: Very well, your Honor; we accept the Court's ruling in this respect. If the Court permits I would like to make, however, one comment which has no bearing on this particular decision. The defense counsel calls to the Court's attention the fact that this Witness was not in this area at that time. I would like to call to the Court's attention the fact that this Witness has never been a member of the OKW. Yet defense counsel proceeded to talk to him at great length. He has not been in the area in 1943 in January, he came to the Southeast sometime in August; yet he was talked to during the defense cross-examination.

We submit, your Honors, that if the defense chooses to cross-examine the Witness during that period for which the witness is not, in our opinion at least, qualified to testify, then the witness becomes the witness of the defense, or if your Honors wish, an expert witness. But in this particular instance we submit we should have the right to inquire from the Witness on the same basis that the defense has now.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Your relationship to the witness is somewhat different from that of the defense. You called him as your Witness. You may, within reasonable rules interrogate him upon such matters as you consider material. The bounds of the defense are somewhat broader. They may cross-examine him upon any matter of which he is presumed to have knowledge. If the Witness has personal knowledge of the question which you have asked he may answer; otherwise his answer would be a mere conclusion.

MR. RAPP: Very well, your Honor. Witness, can you, from your personal experiences tell us something about this order? If the Court pleases, I haven't completed my question at all. I'm quite sure that Dr. Laternser can walk back, and he will be very happy when I have finished with my question.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I think he anticipates that the Witness may answer the question before he has a chance to make an objection. That's how the matter appears to me.

MR. RAPP: That's what I think, your Honor, but I haven't finished it.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Mr. Rapp, ask him the question and before he answers Dr. Laternser will have a chance to make another objection.

MR. RAPP: Witness, don't answer my question, under the circumstances until Dr. Laternser makes his objection. Witness, at that time were you in the area, that is, geographically, of the Commander in Chief of the 2nd Army?

A No.

Q Where were you then?

AAAt this time I was in the Warthegau near Litzmannstadt (Lodz).

Q Witness, how long have you been a professional officer?

A For 40 years.

Q This document, which you have before you, is it an Army order?

A Yes.

Q Witness, what's on the second page of this order?

A It's a Corp order, if you mean that.

Q Correct. Witness, do you know whether this XI Corps was in the Second Army?

A I don't know it, but it is to be assumed.

Q Thank you. Witness, the last question which I want to put to you -- you said this morning that several subordinate officers to you, during your absence, deputized for you. Is that correct?

A Yes.

Q For instance, General Geip. During your absence, Witness, was your chief of staff, Geitner, also absent always?

A Only once, for a few days in December, 1943.

Q Geitner remained in his position as chief when the other men took over? Is that right?

A Yes.

Q Witness, who, in addition to you, was the best informed personality in your headquarters?

A My chief of staff.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: We'll discontinue at this time for our recess.

(The court recessed at 1215)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session REDIRECT EXAMINATION HANS GUSTAV FELBER - Continued

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, I would like to ask to check as to a translation which in my opinion is important. I request that at this stage of the proceedings, because I think it is right, that this be done while this witness is being examined. The translation in question occurs in Document 1010, which is Exhibit 351. This document is in Document Book 14. I request that the following part of the document be checked. It is on page 3 of the German version, and under Roman Numeral I, Figure 2. This Figure 2 reads as follows: "To Commander in Chief Southeast (Supreme Command Army Group F,) are subordinate: two letters "E", - the Military Commander Southeast in all questions regarding the securing of the country." The sentences which I have just read I am asking for a re-translation.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, the only thing I would like to submit to you is to have this particular paragraph not translated by the interpreters here in the Court, but have it translated if agreeable to Dr. Laternser, in the Translation Division downstairs for their rechecking, rather than bother about it here in Court at this time.

JUDGE BURKE: Is there any particular objection?

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, I would like to take advantage of all instances or possibilities of translation. I would like to have the interpreters here do it as usual, then if the Prosecution doesn't agree it can be given to the Chief of the Translation Section for a decision. I believe that would be the right way to go about it.

MR. RAPP: I regret that my suggestion was not accepted without veto by Mr. Laternser. The reason to have it not translated at this time is rather obvious. If the translation comes out at this time not agreeable to the defense who are raising the objection at this time, it would be in the nature of his suggestion and may then influence a later translation downstairs.

Therefore, I suggest outside of this courtroom it should be translated and then submitted to us, being the final authority of the Translation Division, what the translation really should be.

JUDGE BURKE: Just a moment please. We will follow the same procedure the Tribunal has followed in the past. If you will pass the document to the interpreters it may be translated.

DR. LATERNSEER: I have the sentence and the passages framed in pencil, that is in parenthesis, these particular passages I should like to ask for renewed translation.

THE INTERPRETER: I am sorry, your Honor, I cannot give an alternative to the translation in the document. If I had to translate it off the bat I would have said exactly the same. "In all questions regarding the security of the country," - no alternate suggestion.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, I do not want to influence the interpreters in any way, but as I am of a different opinion I would like to make suggestions to them because I believe that the interpreters will translate independently in view because of their oath and I am sure they will be glad to submit themselves to a better suggestion, if they realize that there is a better translation.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, I withdraw my objection.

JUDGE BURKE: In the event of any misunderstanding about it it may be translated to the Main Translation Department.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, may I add something to this. I do not want to take up the time of the Court unnecessarily but I know the translations are rushed through, but as this is a very important one to me, and there are reasons why the translation is not considered adequate. May I point out that the word "Sicherung" is translated as "security".

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, if defense counsel at this time is being permitted to give his explanation as to why in his opinion the translation is wrong.

Which the interpreter has already said in his opinion is correct. That would amount at this time to influencing the translation of any independent translation in the Translation Division, and I have not heard that the Court has inquired from defense counsel why in his opinion the translation is wrong. Dr. Laternseer has offered this statement gratuitously to the Court.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, I am not offering anything. I am just trying to bring something under consideration. I am quite sure that if I make this suggestion here the interpreters here will agree with me.

Your Honor, in German there are two words, the word "Sicherheit" and the word "Sicherung" - I can agree that the word "Sicherung" would have to be translated as "safeguarding". According to my opinion for this reason only does it seem important to me, because it is decisive, and this point will be decisive in the opinion of the defense.

JUDGE BURKE: There appears to be a very definite confusion in the system. I am not hearing clearly. It will be submitted to the main Translation Department for clarification.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, may I ask to add to this request an excerpt from the record about the proceedings of the last few minutes?

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, we respectfully object to this request from defense counsel, because if that would be done, first of all Dr. Latetnser would put himself into the position of an expert translator and secondly, it would, we believe, influence the supposedly impartial translation of the official translation Branch of this Court, and the entire institution, and if that were to be permitted, and any and all of us may send notes and suggestions to the translation department for any use that they may see fit.

JUDGE BURKE: It is the opinion of the Tribunal that the matter with which we are concerned is the truth of the interpretation, which certainly should be made available, assuming the interpreters are competent to do the work which they are performing.

It may be sent to the Translation Division, but merely with the request that it be translated.

You may proceed.

MR. RAPP: Witness, before the luncheon recess, I asked you whether during your absence, your chief Geitner was always absent too, or when you were represented by some other gentlemen whether he then mostly remained in your headquarters. And you answered my question in the affirmative. That is, you said that he remained there with the execution of one stay of yours in 1943 when he was not there.

A.- Yes, it is correct.

Q.- You further said that next to you the chief was the next well informed person in the staff, is that correct, witness?

A.- Yes.

Q.- How closely were you connected with the gentleman, professionally as well as personally -- with these gentlemen who deputized for you occasionally? How friendly were your relations, for instance, with Geip?

A.- I only knew Geip shortly before, during my career I had encountered him only occasionally. General von Glaise-Horstenau who came from the Austrian army, was likewise unknown to me before I came to the Balkans.

Q.- Geitner was much closer to you than those two gentlemen?

A.- Yes, indeed.

Q.- Those two gentlemen -- did they individually -- I mean at different times - did they comment to you about the manner in which Geitner looked after affairs during your absence?

A.- No, this question never came up. This question was never under discussion. I assume that there were no disharmonies anywhere. Otherwise, I would have been informed about it.

Q.- Well, all right. Witness, you were asked by the defense about so-called, I believe, mopping-up operations. Is that correct, witness?

A.- Yes.

Q.- And these spontaneous mopping-up operations took place in connection with reprisal measures. Is that so?

A.- No, I think that is an error. Yesterday I used the expression "spontaneous" in connection with the troops in order to make it clear that through some cruelty which had been committed against the troops in those cases, the troops on their own account, without interference from any higher command or without any order from any higher command, took it upon themselves to get revenge.

Q.- Yes, that is the answer which I have reference to, witness. Now, witness, who did have the right to order reprisal measures in Serbia? what I mean is either in connection with spontaneous mopping-up operations or on the basis of a direct order. Who had that right?

A.- Only the Commander-in-Chief had that right but it is quite possible that in the case of troops where the Military Commander was not present, during the course of band fights, excesses of the troops of this spontaneous nature might well have occurred.

Q.- Witness, before I put the next question to you, two points have to be clarified here, please. You are now talking about excesses. To you, are excesses and spontaneous mopping up operations the same?

A.- Yes.

Q.- Witness, your authority to order reprisal measures -- did you occasionally transfer or delegate it to other gentlemen in the Serbian area?

A.- No.

Q.- Witness, did you have front or combat units under your command?

A.- If I may take the units mentioned yesterday -- if I may include those units -

Q.- You any include those units you mentioned yesterday.

A.- If I am talking about that, then yes.

Q.- Then in other words, these units were subordinate to you for the purpose of combatting bands?

A.- Yes and for other purposes too.

Q.- Were there people under your command -- military commanders of these units which we are discussing now as well as field commanders who had the rank of a division commander?

A.- Such a field headquarters in the framework of a divisional commander did not exist in Serbia.

Q.- How about your units then?

A.- I had only parts of the Bulgarian occupation corps as division like units; only in the summer of 1944 when the Russian danger showed up on the horizon I received active divisions under my command.

Q.- All right, witness. We are now talking about the time or period before this time.

A.- At that time, with exception of the Bulgarian divisions, I had no divisions under my command.

Q.- Did you ever bear in your capacity as military commander southeast or in your capacity as military commander Serbia that a division commander or a commander with the rank of a division commander had the right to order reprisal measures?

A.- Not in the Serbian area, no.

Q.- In other words, my question is something completely new for you, witness? You have never heard anything about that?

A.- No.

Q.- Your Honors, I am now referring the witness to NOKW-172, Exhibit 379, Document Book 16.

(Handed to the witness)

Witness, I believe this order was already shown to you yesterday by the representative of the defense, is that correct?

A.- Yes.

Q.- And I believe you then testified that you had never seen that order previously.

A.- At least, I cannot remember that it passed through my hands.

Q.- All right, witness. Would you like to look at page 2 under (c) and read through these paragraphs?

It says in there: "The revengeful attacks which are directed against the units and its installations may be ordered only by a German commander, at least with the disciplinary authority of a division commander in agreement with the competent administrator subarea headquarters."

Does it read like this in the document, witness?

A.- Yes.

Q.- And then in the next paragraph, witness, it goes on. "If an agreement is not reached, the competent territorial commander is to decide when reprisal measures for losses in the air corps, navy, police, and the OT are to be ordered principally by the territorial commander. All other reprisal measures, for example, for German civilians, persons in the service of the occupying powers and in defense are to be ordered by the competent field commander. The units is to support the administration of area headquarters in carrying them out."

These two paragraphs -- were they contained in the document?

A.- Yes, they are in here.

Q.- What are your comments on this?

A.- I believe that the army group, through events some place in the gigantic southeastern area, had seen fit to issue this first summary of a reprisal order, but that the right to order reprisals was limited to someone of at least the rank of a division commander, that is, not to somebody of a lower rank or a lower echelon, that was an order which was valid for the whole German Wehrmacht.

Q.- But, witness, just now you have told us that this is the first time that you heard about this at all, that only a man of the rank of a division commander was authorized to carry out reprisal measures.

A.- No, I am sorry. That must be a misconception of my answer.

Q.- Would you like to answer it again for us then?

A.- In my area there was no department which had the rank of a division commander with the exception of the Bulgarians whom I have to except here because as a foreign unit they did not have the authority to order reprisals.

In my area, Serbia, therefore, a division commander could not order any reprisal measures because during the whole time of my presence in Belgrade there were no troops in the Serbian area up until summer 1944, which were not subordinate to me.

Q. All right, witness. Will you now explain that the reason is for this, because if it had been the way you describe it, what is the reason then for such an order?

A. I have already said previously that probably events had taken place somewhere in the Balkan area, that is not in Serbia, and these events had given the army group reason to want to see the reprisal measures increased, and the explanation for this can also be seen from the second paragraph of this instruction according to which the untilthen-customary procedure has given cause for a new order to the intermediary of envoy Neubacher.

Q. Witness, apart from the fact that you cannot remember having seen this order previously, were you during the preparation of this order-- were you called?

A. I cannot say that at that time the arm group called us in the preparation of any order by the army group.

Q. The contents of this communication -- is that a matter which concerned your sphere of work?

A. Yes, quite. Very much so.

Q. Witness, is this order which we are concerned with here a true order?

A. Without doubt. I assume that.

MR. RAPP: That is all, your Honor.

GENERAL FELBER: Now, now I see here – no, that is only a certification and that is an officer of my staff, Dr. Bode.

MR. RAPP: An officer of your staff, witness?

GENERAL FELBER: If I read the signature correctly then it was Bode.

MR. RAPP: Then in this case the staff did give the order.

GENERAL FELBER: Yes, in that case I cannot doubt it, that the staff did get the order, only I cannot recollect that I have received the order at that particular time, which did not exclude that it really did arrive and was submitted to me. I only remember a different reprisal order-- that one from June.

DR. RAPP: I then repeat, witness, because you personally cannot recollect that you had seen this order previously, not on the basis of the fact that it was signed by one of your officers who certified for the correctness of the copy, we can therefore conclude that your order was received in your headquarters.

GENERAL FELBER: That is doubtlessly so.

PRESIDENT JUDGE BURKE: Is there further cross examination?

DR. LATERNER: Your Honor, I don't know at the moment and I don't think I am authorized to put any further questions, but I would like to ask you to allow me to do it because now in the re-direct examination, new facts were disclosed. The prosecution did not limit himself to the contents of the cross-examination so that I should have the right to refer and examine the witness as to these newly discovered facts.

PRESIDENT JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed.

RE-CROSS EXAMINATION BY DR. LATERNER:

Q. Witness, you said just not that it is possible that you might have received this order NOKW-172, that is Exhibit 379. We will assume now that you or your staff did receive it. Would that for you as Military Commander Southeast -- would that have been an order for you?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you mean to say that through this, the Commander-in Chief Southeast gives you an order in this sphere of reprisal measures?

A. Yes. The last sentence of the order at which I looked just now reads to the effect, if I recollect it properly now, that all contrary orders are to be altered or rescinded, and furthermore there is a reference to another order by the army group in August.

That is an order.

Q. Witness, now I would like to draw your attention to the following in the preamble to this order. It reads: "In agreement with the Military Commander Southeast, the following instructions are issued."

A. As to this formulation I would like to specify that it is quite possible that these discussions which finally led to the agreement were not carried out with me personally but maybe with my chief or in the frame of a discussion with the envoy Neubacher and other military commanders. Anyhow, it strikes me that this rather important order was signed for Field Marshal von Weichs by his deputy. However, the reason for that may be purely formal. It maybe purely a delay in military channels.

Q. Witness, you said just now that this was a binding order for you. Was it ever possible that an authority could give orders to another commander and put the following in this order? "In agreement with the military commander Southeast."

A. In matters of chain of command, that was not usual, but in this rather difficult object, especially where the envoy Neubacher had to be included according to a new order, I think that is a kind of explanation and communication that this committee of the three people mentioned did agree to issue such an order, and that explains the words "in agreement." But they should not be understood to the effect that this order, in the details of its various paragraphs, was established within the framework of a discussion.

Q. You mean to say then, witness, that the army group could give you an order in these specific matters and although the army group could do so, in your opinion they put into the order and emphasized in the order that the order was arrived at and issued with your consent and agreement?

A. Yes.

Q. Witness, what do you understand by the military concept of "securing?"

A. Securing of a country to me means militarily the maintenance of law and order so that there won't be any resistance to any measures of the troops, so that there is no opposition in the country, so that, to put it in more details the Supreme Commander who was responsible for the whole of the area has a quiet and peaceful near area so that he is in a position to carry out his measures.

Q You mean by military securing of a country that includes the preparing of a platform for strategic actions?

A I'd like to say that in a difficult area as the Balkan area I would not like to limit myself to this definition because here the securing was also connected with political aspects.

Q Witness, wouldn't you like to agree with that according to military concepts, under military securing, one understands the establishment needed on order to counter larger enemy units?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honor, that question is objected to. We are not interested in the opinion of Dr. Laternser in this matter nor are we interested in any opinion of the witness in agreement with Dr. Laternser's opinion.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: We have allowed considerable latitude on both sides and I'm sure Dr. Laternser will content to confine himself to questions without advancing his own opinions or conclusions. You may proceed.

BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q Witness, do you not understand by military securing of an area the establishment of the state of preparedness of the troops against an enemy undertaking?

A On the whole in the main aspect that would define the concept of securing.

Q Yesterday, you said that the sphere of the Commander in Chief Southeast and of the Military Commander Southeast coincided geographically.

A Yes.

Q If, in this same area, one establishes two different authorities that makes only sense if there are different tasks and different spheres of work. Therefore, wasn't it thus not the Commander in Chief Southeast who was responsible for the military securing and the military Commander Southeast, and only that would make sense, was responsible for peace, law, security and order; for those two spheres of work which I named just now, are thus clearly separated, aren't they?

A Quite, purely formally I have to acknowledge that, but the conditions and the tasks were of a different nature. The Commander in Chief had the right of issuing directives which allowed him to interfere with matters in my sphere. That is what I called the right of issuing instructions.

Q Witness, you have just mentioned the right to issue instructions. In what respect did the Commander in Chief Southeast have the right to give instructions to you? Please formulate this very clearly so we can at last clarify this matter.

A He had the right to issue directives in all questions of securing law and order in the country, whether these directives or instructions, - they have another name yet, - the service regulations, not directives, - whether these service regulations contained expressions for those departments which probably deviated from the formulation which we talked about just now, without having to mean the opposite. In my opinion, the service regulations should be formulated, whether there under the word security and securing they mean the same or the contrast. I don't think so.

Q In this respect the documents will speak for themselves but what struck me just now was the following: You said just now that the Commander in Chief Southeast did have the right of directing you concerning the security and law and order in the country. Did you intend to put it that way, that you mentioned the word securing together with law and order, or didn't you rather mean to separate it, just like the instructions talk of securing of a military nature on the one hand and securing law and order on the other hand.

MR. RAPP: We object; we believe defense counsel is arguing with the witness.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Objection is sustained.

BY DR. LATERNER:

Q Witness, I will formulate this differently now. You said just now that the Commander in Chief Southeast had the right to direct you as Court V Case VII Military Commander Southeast which concerned the securing and the law and order in the country.

Is that correct?

A Yes, that is my opinion.

Q Witness, in the service regulations for the Military Commander, it was written explicitly that those are responsible for the security, law and order?

A I believe this is merely hair splitting which is possibly necessary but security and law and order to me, as a soldier, are the same thing.

Q For you, witness, is the security and securing the same?

A In this connection, as it is used here, yes. As a soldier at least I would not read a difference into these concepts and I have never done it.

Q Maybe that was an error. To me this difference is very important. I have no further questions.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Is there further cross examination? If not the Prosecution may proceed.

BY MR. RAPP:

Q Witness, as a last question, I would merely like to ask you whether the so-called reprisal or retaliation measures were a securing or if you like, a security measure?

A This question I answer in the affirmative.

Q We have no further questions.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Judge Carter, do you care to interrogate the witness?

BY JUDGE CARTER:

Q I'd like to ask the witness a few questions. As I understand it you became Military Commander in Serbia in August 1943?

A Yes.

Q At that time you were in command of the whole of Serbia?

A Yes.

Court V Case VII

Q Did you all that time consider the whole of Serbia as occupied territory?

A Yes, your Honor.

Q And it is your thought that as Commander you were Military Commander in the occupied territory of Serbia. Is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Was the whole of Serbia under your direct command at the time you went there in 1943?

A Yes, the whole of Serbia; that's right.

Q You mean by that the whole of Serbia had been conquered by the German Army at that time?

A Yes.

Q And you at that time required the inhabitants to act as inhabitants of occupied territory under the rules of international law. Is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Now, did you at that time have control of all of the Governmental offices of Serbia?

A Yes.

Q Now how many troops did you have under your control at that time?

A In the Serbian area approximately 70,000 but this figure is just a rough estimate.

Q Now, generally speaking, how were they deployed?

A They were employed generally speaking for the protection of important railroad lines, and highways, and their artificial constructions; the troops of the police were as a rule employed for the protection of the harvest, for the protection of the mines, and for special installations like for instance electric plants. The German troops which only existed in small units were kept by me generally for my own disposal. That is rough outline is the division of the various units.

Q. Now, were you familiar at that time with the concentrations of bandits, whether you referred to them as partisans, communists or Chetniks, or whatever they may be, - are you familiar with the location of those large groups, generally speaking?

A. We knew pretty well the general localities of the bands when formed. Generally speaking it was like this: Numerous hordes, without any connection, were split up in the main areas in Serbia, especially in the inaccessible mountain terrain. Besides, there was the question of going to and from the Croatian area and also from the Sautchak area, from the West into the Serbian area, and as I've said before, there was a constant coming and going.

Q. Did you deploy any considerable number of your troops to counter the activities of these band groups?

A. I have really always had my troops on the march and I have also put this down in the memorandum which was already mentioned. According to this memorandum there were about 20 enterprises, or operations, on a large or small scale, which became necessary in the course of one year.

Q. When you went to Serbia in 1943, did you consider the captured members of these bands as prisoners of war?

A. I have repeatedly, again and again, ordered, and in the presence of my troops on occasions when the troops were in bandit area, I again and again had to express my wish that with captured bandits we had to deal exactly in the same manner as with prisoners of war whom we took in other theaters of war and in other fronts.

Q. Were they in fact at that time treated as prisoners of war?

A. In any case during the whole time I received no report and no complaints, not even from the Serbian Government which observed these matters very carefully, saying that the troops did not comply with this order.

Q. Do I understand then that you treated captured bandits as prisoners of war because you considered the bands themselves as regular organized armed forces?

A. No, I did not have this conception; but in spite of the fact that I was of a different opinion, an opinion that these are not organized military soldierly troops, but in spite of this I insisted that the prisoners were to be treated as prisoners of war because I wanted to avoid that a mutual butchering would take place.

Q. Was there any time after you went to Serbia in August of 1943 that you arrived at the conclusion that the bands as you refer to them, were, in fact, an organized Army and entitled to be treated as such?

A. I have not gained that impression. Only as of July 1944 were the bands really more and more found to appear as organized units. We then also received reports saying that Tito's units now had grouped themselves, into divisions, and were dispersing over the whole country according to plan; this was only established in the summer of 1944. As of this date also the method of combat of the enemy changed. The resistance became much tougher, and the coming and going stopped. From that time on we found that quite a considerable opponent opposed us.

Q. It is your thought then that in July 1944 the bandits or partisans or Chetniks, or whatever you may call them, were entitled to be classified as an Army in the field against the German Army. Is that correct?

A. I would like to specify the period as beginning with August 1944.

Q. Was there any decision made to that effect?

A. As I understand the question, whether we changed our behavior as of that date? Is that correct?

Q. Substantially.

A. No, an alteration of our combat methods was not necessary because even prior to that we endeavored to wage the battle, according to purely military, soldierly points of view.

Q. Would you mind briefly stating the changes in conditions that came about at the beginning of August 1944, that caused to change your views about the nature of the opposition?

A. After the opponent was now spreading over the whole of the Serbian area according to plans, also turning up in territories and recruited people in territories, where up to then almost never bands had appeared, I myself was forced to keep my troops tightly together and not as it had been before that, split up all over the country in smaller units. I had consciously to take into account the fact that large parts of Serbia for a period were without any military security.

Q. It is your thought then that after August 1, 1944 that the territory of Serbia was not at that time fully occupied, militarily speaking, by the German Wehrmacht. Is that correct?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. No further questions.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Judge Wennerstrum, do you care to ask any questions of the witness?

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: No.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Dr. Laternser?

DR. LATERNSE: Yes, I would like to.

BY DR. LATERNSE:

Q. General, I believe that there were a few misunderstandings which crept up here. Were you ever during your activities in Serbia of the opinion that at any given period the Partisans, the Partisan activity, was a legal activity, that is, a legal force?

A. No.

Q. Never?

A. Not up to the 1st of August.

Page 1,872

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Dr. Laternser, do I take it from your question that you are seeking to cross-examine the witness on the examination given by Judge Carter?

DR. LATERNER: Yes, your Honor, only by this one point.

BY DR. LATERNER:

Q. You said that until the 1st of August 1944 you regarded the Partisan movement as an illegal movement. Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Why did you change this opinion?

A. I had to change my opinion because in July, according to what we could establish in July 1944 from the equipment of the Partisans, because they were being equipped suddenly with uniforms, guns, ammunition, machine guns, foreign equipment, foreign instructors to a large extent.

Q. General, you then mean to say that an illegal movement becomes legal when it is well organized?

A I did not say that, that I now regarded Tito's legions as legal. All I said, at least as far as I recollect, all I said was, all I wanted to say was, that as of the 1st of July the pure band character, the band characters of the combat methods of this unit stopped.

Q. But your opinion as Military Commander Southeast that this was an illegal force against the occupation power, this opinion you never did change at any time?

A No.

Q. But this impression did at first appear here?

A I regret that.

Q. You further answered a question of the Honorable Judge to the effect that through the fact that the bands occasionally kept vast parts of Serbia occupied the occupation by the German Armed Forces could not be regarded as a complete one.

A Yes.

Q. When is an occupation complete?

A When the territories of the occupied territory--when I can rule this territory with my force, with my unit, so that I am master of the situation.

Q. In a certain spot where you wanted to be stronger than the bands, couldn't you manage to make yourself so strong there that you were stronger than the bands?

A. We adhered to this procedure which was customary to us. We attempted to adhere to it in the Balkans, too, but because of the insufficient number of the units at my disposal and again because of the formation of the country it was not possible. I had to use my few units inasmuch as they were not employed with protection of railroad lines, protection of bridge, etc.

, and were not tied up I had to employ them very carefully and economically.

Q. The territories which you are talking about now, they changed currently, didn't they?

A. Generally speaking, that does apply. There were, of course the same territories again and again where the bandits' battle was mostly waged.

Q. It was so, wasn't it, that during a long period, almost the whole time you were down there, one part of Serbia was almost completely occupied by the partisans?

A. No.

Q. And if you had attached importance to one particular locality which was occupied by bandits for a lengthy period you were in a position to take it, weren't you?

A. I wouldn't answer that with an unqualified "yes" because that depended how far I was otherwise engaged with my units.

Q. General, I would like to put the question--I would like to see the question answered less in a tactical manner--I would like to know, if you wanted to could you take a certain locality.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I didn't hear the conclusion of the question.

THE INTERPRETER: "What I wanted to know was, if you endeavored to, could you take one specific locality, if you wanted to"--end of question.

MR. RAPP: We might say that defense counsel is arguing with the witness. The witness has already given previously an answer to his question.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I think that is probably true but we will proceed.

Q. I therefore ask you now to answer the question put to you.

A. May I ask to have the question put to me again?

Q. If you had the intention--if you wanted to carry out the intention to take one specific locality because it seemed important to you--maybe it was on a main highway--could you achieve that?

A. Not always.

DR. LATERNSE: No further questions.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Any further questions of this witness?

MR. RAPP: We have no questions, Your Honor.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: At this time I have no questions. I will reserve the right, however, to interrogate this witness at the conclusion of the defendants' testimony.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, I would only like to recall the Tribunal's attention the remarks I believe Mr. Denney and also myself, have made to the Tribunal regarding the further disposition of this witness. He is a prosecution witness and we were prior committed to the extradition of this witness, Your Honor. I am merely stating this in reference to your statement, Your Honor, just made.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I should view with grave concern any inability to produce him at the time I have indicated.

The witness may at this time be excused.

MR. RAPP: Your Honors, Mr. Fenstermacher is now putting in Document Book No. XIX.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honors, please--

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Pardon me, Mr. Fenstermacher, just a moment.

You may proceed, Mr. Fenstermacher.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If your Honors please, with the presentation of Document Books XVII and XVIII and the testimony of General Felber, we complete, with the exception of the document which I should like to introduce at this time, the prosecution evidence with respect to the situation in Croatia and Serbia during this final phase of the prosecution's case.

That is the period from August 1943 until the evacuation of the Balkans in October 1944.

As an additional document with Document Book XVIII, I should like to offer into evidence the document which Mr. Denney passed out to the Tribunal and to defense counsel yesterday. That is a series of photographs which were marked "Exhibit 441a" for identification, a series of photographs which form a part of the report.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Pardon me, Mr. Fenstermacher. Will you defer your remarks for just a moment?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: The next document was marked yesterday "Exhibit 441a" for identification, it being a series of photographs which form a part of the report of the National Commission for the Investigation of War Crimes of Yugoslavia.

Now, Your Honors, I wonder if Your Honors and defense counsel have this exhibit present in Court. This was offered yesterday in order that we come within the 24-hour limit. Do Your Honors have it?

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Offered at approximately three o'clock?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I think it was, Your Honor.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: We will take a recess at this time until three-fifteen.

(A recess was taken.)

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: You may proceed, Mr. Fenstermacher.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: May it please the Tribunal, we should now like to have Exhibit 441a for Identification introduced as Prosecution's Exhibit 441. This is a series of 28 photographs which form a part of a report of the National Yugoslav Commission for the investigation of War crimes. In assembling this set of photographs, several of the originals of these photographs were inserted by error. The original photograph looks like this, it is somewhat yellow in color, and has writing on the back of the photograph in the Yugoslavia language -

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: How many are there in the portfolio? How many separate photographs?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: There are 28, your Honor.

I wonder if your Honors and defense counsel would look through your sets of these photographs and see whether you have the originals from which we made the photostatic copies. The original is somewhat yellow in color and has Yugoslavian language written on the back, and one page of English translation.

We should like to call in all of the originals so that they might be returned to the Yugoslavian Government. If no originals are outstanding we may proceed with the submission of the photostatic copies.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: We find none in our sets.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Thank you, your Honor.

If your Honors please, the English pagination for each of these photographs should be numbered, page 107, and the following numbers to the end, which I believe is page 134 in the English, and in the German, the pagination begins with page 102 and continues with the 27 other numbers.

The first photograph is numbered 2004, and represents a scene from the village of Prisoje, Stupnido and Potkozara, district of Cajniki.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: Where are these numbers, Mr. Fenstermacher?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: They appear, if your Honor please, on the top right-hand corner of the English translation.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: I am referring now to the page numbers of the exhibit. Are those pages 107 to 134, volume 18?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: They are in Volume 18, your Honor.

The first photograph which will become page 107 in the English document book is page 103 in the German, and is numbered 2004, and represents a scene from the Village of Prisoje, Stupnido and Potkozara, district of Cajniki in which 31 persons, including 4 children, 14 women and 13 men were killed in reprisal by troops of the 3rd Battalion of the 750th Regiment, 118th Jaeger Division, under the leadership of Captain Karl Stenzel, Battalion C.O. and by order of Guenther Tribukeit, Regimental Commander. This crime was committed on the 8th of July, 1943.

The photograph is certified to by the President of the National Commission for the investigation of War crimes of Jugoslavia.

DR. LATERNER: Your Honor, I object to the introduction of this picture which has just been offered. What has just been said has not been proven by the picture.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: I think that is true, but the ruling we made on the matter of the admissibility of prior photographs was made upon the theory that they would be taken for what they are worth, if anything, and if a proper proof indicates some degree of formality to the truth and veracity of the alleged pictures.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: The next photograph, number 2006, represents the same scene as the previous photograph, and your Honors will note in the left hand portion of the photograph, a picture of a small child, which investigation established was killed during the incident.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: How do you designate it? Page what, page 100?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: This second photograph, your Honor, will become page 108 in the English, and 104, I believe, in the German.

The third photograph is No. 5213, and represents a scene from the mass annihilation of the civilian population of the village of Sokolac, in Bosnia, by the German Wehrmacht. The exact date of the incident could not be established, probably in the year 1944."

Your Honors will note the presence of German soldiers around a tree from which a man in civilian clothes is hanging.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: This is 109?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Yes, your Honor, 109.

The next photograph will become page 110 in the English, is photograph No 5206, and it relates to the same scene as the preceding photograph. Your Honors will note that this is a man in civilian clothes, hanging head downward with a sign above his feet.

The next photograph, page 111 in the English, relates to the very same incident, a scene from the mass annihilation of the civilian population.

JUSTICE CARTER: Let's have the number of the picture first.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: The number of the picture is 5212, your Honors, and becomes page 111 in the English. The photograph represents a scene from the mass annihilation of the civilian population in the Village of Sokolac, Rosnia, by the German Wehrmacht. The exact date of the incident could not be established, probably in the year 1944.

Again, your Honors will note two German soldiers standing around the body of the man in civilian clothes, hanging from a tree.

The next photograph is numbered 5208, and becomes page 112 in the English document book 18. Investigation established that the photograph represents a scene from the mass annihilation of the civilian population of the village of Sokolac in Rosnia by the German Wehrmacht, and again the exact date of the incident could not be established. It was probably in the year 1944.

The next photograph is number 2384, and becomes page 113 in the English. This photograph represents a scene during the mass shootings to death of civilians in Bosnia, in the course of the so-called penal expedition.

Your Honors will note the German soldier who is photographing the mass of bodies lying there.

The next photograph, No. 3074, which should be marked page 114 in the English, is a photograph representing the setting afire of a Serbian village near Kosovska Mitrovica by the German Wehrmacht at the time of the penal expedition.

Your Honors will note the type of village in Serbia, as revealed by the photograph, - small houses with thatched roofs, and the German soldiers in the foreground of the photograph.

The next photograph, No. 58, page 115 of the English, investigation established picture represents one of the numerous groups of the civilian population in Bosnia which were driven by the Germans through the Bosnian forests to death camps, concentration camps or to compulsory labor in Germany."

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: Mr. Fenstermacher, please proceed somewhat more slowly.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I would be glad to, your Honor.

The next photograph is No. 59, page 116 in the English. The photograph represents one of the numerous groups of the civilian population in Bosnia, driven by the Germans through the Bosnian forests to death camps, concentration camps or to compulsory labor in Germany.

Your Honors will note the large number of women in this photograph.

The next photograph is No. 61, page 117 in the English document book, again this photograph represents one of the numerous groups of the civilian population in Bosnia taken by the Germans to death camps, concentration camps or for slave labor in Germany.

Photograph No. 69, page 118 of the English, again the photograph represents the deportation of women and children in the village of Knezevo-Polje near Bosanske Dubice to German internment for slave labor.

Your Honors will note the presence of small children in the photograph.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honors, it is correct that on this photograph there are women and children; but there are only women and children in the picture. I do not see one single soldier or policeman in the picture, and everything else which has been said here is not proved, he is arguing.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: For the reasons previously stated, Dr. Laternser, they will be received.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: The next photograph is 4943, which will be page 119 in the English document book. Investigation established that the photograph represents one of the numerous groups of the civilian population in Bosnia which were taken by the Germans to death camps, concentration camps, or for slave labor in Germany.

Your Honors will note three German soldiers, armed, at the head of a column of native inhabitants.

The next six photographs -- withdrawn.

The next photograph, No. 1212, becomes page 120 in the English.

Investigation could not establish time or place of the incident of the picture. All that could be established was that the incident occurred in Bosnia, and that the corpse which is being stepped on by a German officer was of a Bosnian peasant.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: We may wait just a minute to catch up on our marking. You may proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: The next five photographs seem to relate to the same incident. Investigation established the picture represents a scene during the --

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: This is 1164?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I beg your pardon. I am glad to mention it. 1164 becomes page 121 in the English.

Investigation established that the picture represents a scene during the executions of captured fighters of the Yugoslav Peoples' Liberation Army. The photograph relates to an incident which occurred in the village of Razore in Slovenia on 9 June, 1944.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, even after the statement of the prosecution, the pictures mentioned cannot be admitted, because the territory does not belong to the so-called Southeastern, but to the territory of the commander for the Adriatic Coast area, and this command for the Adriatic Coast area was not subordinate to any of the defendants. Therefore there are pictures which have no connection at all with the defendants and the charges here.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If your Honors please, it is the prosecution's contention that Slovenia was within the jurisdiction of the defendants involved in this proceeding, and also that the pictures are representative of events which happened not only in Slovenia, but which happened in Croatia and Serbia as well.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, I am expressly concerned with the decision on this question. It is a pure assertion on the part of the prosecution that - Slovenia belonged to the territory which we are speaking about. I maintain that this is not so, and it proved before these photographs can be accepted. The photographs must be rejected.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: The Tribunal is aware of the fact that any statement made by the counsel for the prosecution as a statement of fact represents simply his own view and does not reach the dignity of evidence.

We assume that it will later be connected with it since the statement has been made.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: We intend to do that, your Honor.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: You may proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: The next photograph is Number 536, which become page 122 in the English. The text on the back of the photograph is the same as on the first preceding photograph, and we believe that the picture speaks for itself.

DR. LATERNSEER: I object against this picture in particular your Honor, and its introduction. I object particularly because from this photograph itself, from the decorations of rank it can be seen quite clearly that this is a member of the SS police who were never subordinate in any way at all to the defendants, and therefore, for this reason, this photograph particularly must be rejected.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: It seems to the Tribunal, Dr. Laternser, the fact is merely a matter for argument rather than a matter for the introduction of proof at this time. The pictures have been received with the clear statement that they would be received for what they are worth. What may follow later is open to the defense at any time.

You may proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Turning to the next photograph, No. 1165, it should be marked page 123 in the English. The accompanying text for this photograph is the same as with the two preceding photographs, and we believe is an additional photograph of the same event.

Continuing with photograph No. 1166, page 124 in the English, it is an additional photograph which relates to the three preceding photographs and needs no comment here.

Photograph No. 1168, page 126 in the English, investigation established that the picture represents Major Jozu Mirtica. He was captured by the Germans and mistreated.

The 5-pointed star was hacked into his face by them, and finally they killed him.

Photograph No. 213, page 127 in the English, represents a scene from the neighborhood of the Village of Jajince near Belgrade, where the Germans shot to death and killed some thousands of civilian internees from the death camp of Banjica and where they burned 80,000 bodies of their victims on the pyre, particularly during the last months before their retreat from Belgrade.

Photograph No. 212, page 128 of the English, the text is the same as for the preceding document and needs no further comment.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Page 128 is it not?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: That is right, your Honor.

The next is photograph, No. 650, page 129 of the English, investigation established that the picture represents atrocities committed by German troops on the civilian population in northern Istria in October, 1944.

With the final, five photographs, we are concerned with the actions of the German troops as they retreated from Belgrade, in October, 1944.

Photograph No. 720, page 130 in the English, shows a building, No. 6 to 8 Studentenplatz Belgrade which was undermined and destroyed by German troops before they retreated from Belgrade in October, 1944. This building, as well as numerous other destroyed buildings are destroyed buildings are civilian residences in the center of the city and without any military significance.

The next photograph seems to have no number. It should be marked page 131 in the English, which shows the demolished building of the philosophical faculty of the University of Belgrade which in addition to numerous other buildings was set afire and destroyed by the Germans without any military reason before their retreat from Belgrade in October, 1944. Valuable scientific collections and laboratories were destroyed with the building.

The next photograph, No. 12, page 132 in the English, shows the building and the installations of the Avala mill in Belgrade which was mined and destroyed by the Germans immediately before their retreat from Belgrade on 15 October 1944.

The next photograph, No. 2a, page 133 of the English, shows the building on the corner Gospodar Jevremova and the Koschuskova Street which was set on fire and destroyed by the Germans immediately before they retreated from Belgrade in October, 1944.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, this should really be checked on. I have just been informed that, for instance, the destruction on picture 112, was caused by an American air raid on Belgrade. There were several American fire attacks on Belgrade, and now this picture is submitted by the prosecution with the assertion that the destructions were carried out by the German troops in their retreat.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honors, if you please, Dr. Laternser's remarks are certainly gratuitously given and cannot be considered evidence. If there is a conflict in fact as to what the picture truly represents, the defense is free to present their version and their interpretation of the destruction at the proper time.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: The fault, if any, is shared equally. You are both doing quite a bit of testifying.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: The final photograph is number 730/23, page 134 of the English. The photograph "shows a destroyed house, 22 FASINA Street in Belgrade. It was mined and destroyed by the Germans immediately before their retreat on 18 October 1944. It has been established that many residents of the building, peaceful citizens of Belgrade were killed thereby. The picture represents the funeral of some of the victims."

DR. SAUTER: Dr. Sauter for the Defendants Lanz and Geitner. Your Honors, we have now been submitted a number of photographs, and you have already stated that you will only accept these photographs for the probative value which can be seen from the photographs themselves. In this direction - in that which concerns the court - we can be satisfied about this because everyone who looks at these photographs can see at once that they prove nothing at all against these defendants. If I nevertheless say something about these photographs very briefly, it is only for this reason that on behalf of my two clients Lanz and Geitner that I cannot leave this uncontradicted, that these photographs are presented against them.

During the past few days we have again experienced that these kinds of generalizations and unproved assertions which are presented here appear next day in German newspapers, perhaps even in foreign newspapers, and the newspaper do not say that the Prosecution authority has submitted a number of photographs regarding which we don't know from where they come, we do not know what they represent, and we also don't know how these executions, etc. came about; but in some newspaper or other, for instance, it was stated that against von Geitner photographs were submitted from which it is to be proved that no less than 68,000 people were burned up in one place on a Pile.

That is one single case. This goes into the newspapers and incriminates the defendants. And in the opinion of the German people sometimes it has a very drastic effect in the treatment of the members of the defendants.

JUDGE BURKE: To whom are you directing your objections?

DR. SAUTER: I am not making any objection against the photographs in themselves because the Tribunal has assured us that they will, of course, only accept the photographs with the probative value which can be seen from the photographs. But I would like to state publicly here so that the press does not give these erroneous reports and so that the two clients whom I represent have nothing to do with these things, just as in the same way probably as all the other defendants.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: The Tribunal is neither emotionally or temperamentally unstable. We are quite aware of the weight, if any, to be given by the Tribunal to the exhibits or to the testimony. So, this is not the appropriate time to which to argue the case. Then, the question of the influence upon the Tribunal, if any, of these photographs is one that I think you may safely leave to the judgment of the Tribunal. And what goes in the press, of course, is of no concern of this Tribunal. That is a field which is somewhat beyond the scope of our present activities.

DR. SAUTER: Of course, but the press is present, and the press here present brings the news submitted by the Prosecution here into the press, and it does not help my clients if perhaps three weeks or three months I can prove that my clients had nothing to do with these photographs. These press articles will appear tomorrow or the day after tomorrow, and they poison the whole morale of the people, and then they have an effect on the dependents of the defendants. I want to protest against this, and I want to state here that my two clients and probably also the others have nothing at all to do with these things, even if we cannot unfortunately prevent this kind of evidence of such a questionable value from being submitted here.

We defense counsel can show to you from the bulletin board a lot of pictures where some people are hanged or murdered from one band or the other band, but we don't do that because we know that nothing can be proved by this. But I think that it is my duty in the interest of the defendants to point out how little probative value there is, especially against the defendants, in photographic material of this kind.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Dr. Sauter I understand you and I agree with you that the final responsibility, grave though it may be, must rest upon the Tribunal, and we will not form our decisions from anything that may be printed in the papers or in magazines or in unidentified pictures presented to us.

DR. SAUTER: Thank you very much.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: With the introduction of documents in Document Book No. 19 we turn our attention to events in Greece during the period of August 1943 to October 1944. Your Honors will recall that during this period General Alexander Loehr was Commanding General of Army Group E, which in turn was subordinate to Army Group F, headed by the Commander in Chief, the Defendant Weichs, and his Chief of Staff, the Defendant Foertsch. Your Honors will also recall that subordinate to General Loehr's Army Group E were two corps, the 68th Army Corps, commanded by the Defendant Lanz. We shall be concerned with the activities of troops under the command of the Defendants Felmy and Lanz through out this and the next two succeeding document books. Turning now to page 1 of the English and page 1 of the German. Document No. NOKW-1140, which is offered as Prosecution's Exhibit No. 442. This is a biographical affidavit of the Defendant Felmy, executed here in Nurnberg on the 24th of April 1947.

"I, General Hellmuth Walter...."

PRESIDENT JUDGE BURKE: This becomes Exhibit what?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: No. 442, Your Honor.

I, General Hellmuth Walter Wolfgang Felmy, being duly sworn, say and depose:

I was born in Berlin on 28 May 1885. I entered the Instruction and Experimental Station for Military Aviation in Doeberitz on 1 June 1912. I was promoted to first Lieutenant on 27 January 1913. On 1 October 1913 I entered the Berlin Military Academy. I became a Captain on 20 December 1914. During the war up to 1918, I was attached to various Air Force Units.

Decorations: Iron Cross, II Class, Iron Cross, I Class, Knight's Cross of the House Order of the Hohenzollerns with Swords.

I was taken over into the Reichswehr in 1919. From 1924 to 1926, I was active in the Reichswehr Ministry, Berlin T1, (Operations Branch). I became a Major on 1 February 1927. On 1 Feb. 1929 I was in the Reichswehr Ministry, Berlin T2. (Organizations Branch). I became a Lt. Colonel on 1 February 1931. On 1 April 1933, I became Lt. Colonel in the Staff of the 15th Infantry Regiment Cassel. On 1 August 1933 I became the Commanding Officer of the 17th Infantry Regiment, Brunswick. I was promoted to Colonel on 1 October 1933. On 1 December 1933, I entered the Reich Air Ministry in Berlin as Chief of Staff with the School Command. I became Senior Air Corps Commander of Munich on 1 April 1935; was promoted to Brigadier General on 1 January 1936; became Commander of the 7th Air District, Brunswick, on 1 October 1936; was promoted to Major General on 1 April 1937, Luftwaffe Group 2, Brunswick; became Lt. General of Air Corps on 1 February 1938, Air Fleet 2, Brunswick and on 1 September 1939 I was Lt. General of the Air Corps, Commander of Air Fleet 2, Brunswick. I was retired on 12 January 1940.

I joined the party in the Fall of 1940; I had no office.

On 21 May 1941 I was reactivated and became Chief of the Military Mission to Iraq. I came to Aleppo on 1 June 1941. German Air Corps units evacuated Syria. In the middle of June I became Commander South Greece, Athens, simultaneously Commander Special Staff "F" Sunion. (Staff of the former Military Mission to Iraq).

In August 1942 Special Staff "F" was renamed Corps Headquarters LXVIII Army Corps and transferred to South Russia - Calmucks Steppes - and subordinated to the 1st Panzer Army. From October 1942 to January 1943 fighting in the Calmucks Steppes, protection of wing and flank of the 1st Panzer Army. Up to March 1943 withdrawal movement up to the Mius, Taganrog. In April 1943, the Staff of Corps Headquarters LXVIII was transferred to Peggio (Calabria) to be committed in Tunis. In May 1943 Corps Headquarters LXVIII Army Corps, was transferred to Greece. Then followed employment on the Peloponnesus; enemy landings were to be repelled. In October 1943 Corps Headquarters LXVIII Army Corps were transferred to Psychikon near Athens. Combatting of bands in South Greece. On 12 October 1944, Athens was evacuated. On 25 October 1944 the Staff of Corps Headquarters LXVIII Army Corps with its Operations Echelon was transferred by air to Vukovar (Yugoslavia). From 13 November 1944 until the middle of December 1944, the Staff of Corps Headquarters LXVIII Army Corps was in South Hungary in order to repel the Russian invasion across the Danube near Batina. From the middle of December 1944 to 13 April 1945 I took over Corps Headquarters XXXIV Army Corps in Syrmia. On 8 May 1945 occurred the surrender to the English in Villach (Carinthia).

Decorations: Clasps to Iron Cross, II Class and I Class, German Cross in Gold.

I married Helene, nee Boettcher on 3 July 1919.

I have three sons, 20, 18 and 16 years old. The oldest is a prisoner of war in Egypt.

I have read the above statement consisting of two pages in the German language and declare that according to my best knowledge and belief it is the full truth. I had occasion to make changes and corrections in the above statement. I have made this statement voluntarily without any promise of reward and I was subjected to no threat or force whatsoever.

I should like to hand the photostat copy of this document to your Honors to examine both the signature of the Defendant Felmy and the various initials which he has made on the margin, indicating that he has made changes in the affidavit.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I take it, Mr. Fenstermacher, that in the course of the Prosecution's proof there will be evidence introduced as to the fact that this is the Defendant Felmy's signature, or in case...

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honor, at this time.... I beg your pardon.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Or in case of other documents that may be applicable to other defendants, there will be proof in the Prosecution's case as to the signatures that they are alleged to be.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If Your Honors please, at this time and prior hereto, we have submitted signatures and initials only for Your Honors' purposes of comparison. I am not at liberty to say whether we shall introduce more positive proof of these signatures or not. I believe I may say, however, that we do not anticipate that the initials or signatures, to which we have called Your Honors' attention, will be denied by any of the defendants. Should that be the case, we will take the proper steps at that time.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I think it should be kept in mind that it's the Prosecution's duty to make out its case in chief.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: We will do that, Your Honor.

JUDGE CARTER: I'd like to inquire. You say you handed these up here for comparison. Now, what are we comparing them with?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Well, Your Honors have been signatures of voluntary, different affidavits.

JUDGE CARTER: Well, who says that, in this instance, the Defendant Felmy signed it. Maybe I signed it. How do we know?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Well, that may be true, Your Honor. I am not sure whether the Prosecution has to introduce positive proof of these signatures or whether we cannot wait until the defendants take the witness stand and then ask them whether these are not, in fact, their signatures.

JUDGE CARTER: In other words, you ask the defendants to testify against themselves in order to make a case against the defense.

That's my understanding.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If your Honors please, I believe we can make Our prima facie case without having these various signatures identified. We have shown that the defendants held certain positions during the period with which we are dealing, and certain events happened by troops under their command. We believe that makes for us a prima facie case.

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: This Tribunal feels that the evidence should be subjected to the rules as we have understood them to be in America. I believe, as representing this Tribunal, there is the question before this Tribunal that we should exact the same type proof here that we should expect in America for it--if we were sitting in America, both as to type of proof and manner of proof.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Very Well, Your Honor. We shall take prompt steps to introduce positive proof.

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM? I am not interfering with your case. These are merely suggestions.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Very well, Your Honor.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed, Mr. Fenstermacher.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Turning next to Page 4 of the English and Page 3 of the German Document Book, is Document No. NOKW875, which is offered as Prosecution's Exhibit No. 443. This is a biographical affidavit of the Defendant Lanz, executed by him in Nurnberg on the 7th of March 1947.

"I, Karl Hubert Lanz, swear, testify and declare:

I was born on 22 May 1896 in Entringen, Oberamt Herrenberg (Wuerttemberg) as the first son of the Commissioner of Forests, Otto Lanz and his wife Berta, born Probst. I am of the RomanCatholic faith.

On 1 April 1900 my father was called to the forest service of the King of Wuerttemberg and sent to Stuttgart.

From 1903 to 1905 I visited the elementary school, from 1905 to 1914 the Humanistic Gymnasium in Cannstadt, where I passed my "Abitur" examination in May 1914.

On 20 June 1914 I entered the service as an officer candidate in the 7th Co., Wuerttemberg 125th Infantry Regiment, in Stuttgart, with which I went into the field on 8th August 1914. Heavily wounded by a grenade on 9 September 1914 at Somaisne (Verdun) lay 4 months in the hospital, finally saw service with the replacement battalion of the regiment in Stuttgart. Promoted to 2nd Lieutenant 4 February 1915, again went into the field beginning in May 1915 with my troop unit, which at that time was on the Eastern front before presnysz (russ. Polen) in battle position. Up to the end of June 1918, I was at the front as platoon and company commander, as well as Battalion adjutant with the 2nd battalion of the 135th Infantry Regiment. On 1 July 1918, I was sent as regimental adjutant to the Wuerttemberg regiment, which at that time was fighting at the Chemin des Dames at Laon (France). With this regiment at first Lieutenant, I saw the end of the war at the beginning of November 1918 on the Western front. In the following 3 months, I had the task of deactivating the regiment in the upper Swabian towns of Isny and Leutkirch, which task was completed on 1 March 1919.

After short employment in setting-up tasks for the border patrol in the East I became adjutant of the 25th Wuerttemberg rifle regiment in the 300,000 man Army in Stuttgart and finally likewise adjutant of the 13th Wuerttemberg Infantry Regiment in Ludwigsburg in the 100,000 man Army. The following 3/4 of a year I was active as CO of a machine gun platoon in Cannstadt, and then for compassionate reasons (ill health as a result of my war wounds) served two years as staff Officer with Wehrkreis V in Stuttgart.

1924 to 125 I was ordered to tactical training with Wehrkreis V in Stuttgart and was assigned in November 1924 as platoon commander to Tuebingen (Wuerttemberg) in an Infantry Company of the 2nd Battalion of the 14th Infantry Regiment.

From February to October 1926 I was Infantry instructor with the officer candidate courses at the troop maneuver area of Ohrdruf in Thueringen.

On 16 October 1926 I was married in Dusseldorf to Gerty Beterams, daughter of the Economic Counsellor Emil Beterams and his wife Maria, near Ondtmann in Geldern-on-the-Niederrhein. My wife is likewise of the Roman-Catholic faith. There are two children of this marriage; In ebory Lanz, born 27 July 1927 in Stuttgart, and Annemarie Lanz born 9 November 1941 in Berlin.

From November 1926 to September 1927 I was Company Commander in the training battalion of the 13th Regiment Battalion in Schwaebisch-Gmuend. From here, I was assigned to a one year training course for assistant chief of staff in the Reich defense ministry at Berlin and in fall 1928 after promotion to Captain which took place in the meantime, (1 February 1928) taken over into the general staff. From 1928 to 1932, I was employed, in the Department No. 3 (Branch for Foreign Armies) of the Truppenamt in existence at that time. At the end of this, I went to Gumbinnen in East Prussia as company Commander of the 9th Company, 1st Infantry Regiment. On 1 August 1934, promoted to Major; at the beginning of October 1934, my recall to the General Staff of Wehrkreis No. IX in Kassel, newly set up at that time. I was there 2 years as Ib (2nd General Staff Officer); at the end of two years assigned as Ia (1st General Staff Officer), during which time I was promoted to Lieutenant Colonel (1 March 1937). At the beginning of November 1938, my assignment to troops as CO of the 100th Mountain Jaeger Regiment, at Bad Reichenhall in Upper Bavaria took place, my present residence.

At the outbreak of war, I was recalled into the General Staff, with promotion to colonel, and made Chief of Staff of the Wehrkreis V in Stuttgart, where I remained until the beginning of February 1940.

From here, my call to the front as Chief of the General Staff of the XVIIIth Mtn Corps took place, which at that time was with the Staff at Neuwied on the Rhine. In this capacity, I took part in the campaign against France.

For the assault on the Malmaison Forme at Chemin des Dames (a key point of the combat actions at that time), I received the Knight's Cross to the Iron Cross on 1 October 1940.

On 26 October 1940, I was discharged from the General Staff and put in charge of the 1st Mountain Division from Upper Bavaria, which at that time was in the area of Arras, with the temporary rank of Brigadier General, (1 November 1940). In this capacity, I took part in the campaign against Yugoslavia from Lower Drauburg through Oilli to Bihac, as well as the battles of 1941 and 1943 against the Soviet Union from Lomberg to Stalingrad and in the Caucasus. On 1 November 1943 I was promoted to Major General and decorated for the battles around Elbrus (Caucasus) with the Oak Leaf to the Knight's Cross.

From 27 January to 20 February 1943 in the meantime General of Mountain Troops, I was temporarily in charge of a battle unit consisting of 2 corps, at Charkov. Assigned to the Fuehrer Reserve again, I was at home in Bad Reichenhall till the middle of June 1943, and took over then as deputy for 4 weeks, the command of the Mountain Corps in the Kuban bridgehead at Temriju. At the end of July 1943, ordered back to the homeland, the command of the XXIIInd Mountain Corps was transferred to me in the middle of August in the Greek area, which was considered a Zone of Operations. After 14 days sojourn without troops and without being committed in Salonika and Athens, I took over on 9 September 1943 the security of Epirus with headquarters in Jeannine. Here the corps remained busy, without large combat action, in the main with security actions against Communist insurgents, until the evacuation of Greece in the middle of October 1944. After retreating battles in Macedonia lasting 4 weeks, the Corps was committed to Southwest Hungary in the area South of the Plattensee, where it remained until the end of March 1945. Then followed the retreat movements into lower Styria with the defensive front on the Mur. My last mission, after giving up my troops to the neighboring headquarter authorities, consisted of the security and traffic regulating of the roads leading to the west. After the capitulation on 8 May 1945, I took over the assembly and care of numerous foreign troops elements in the area of Radstadt, Wagrain, and Falchau. On the 4th of June these troops were stationed in the area Northeast of Murnau (upper Bavaria), where I had to carry out their discharge in the final weeks. I have never belonged to the N.S.D.A.P.

I have read the statement above, consisting of 4 pages in the German language, and I declare that to the best of my knowledge and belief it is the entire truth. I had the opportunity to make changes and correction in the above statements.

I have made this statement voluntarily without any promise of reward and I was neither threatened or compelled to do so.

And the affidavit is signed Herbert Lanz, It is dated Nurnberg, Germany, 7 March 1947. Turning next to Page 9 of the English, Page 6 of the German is Document NO. NOKW-1780, which is offered as Prosecution's Exhibit No. 444. This is the Service Record of the Defendant Lanz. I will call Your Honors' attention to the war-time Service Record of the Defendant from 1 September 1939.

Page 10 of the English and 6 of the German are the decorations received by the defendant Lanz. Turning next to page 11 of the English and page 6 of the German are various comments made with respect to the defendant by commanders under whom he served. The defendant Weichs, said to him: "21 Feb 43, Frhr. v. Weichs; Excellent work as a leader. Very good intellectual tendency. Very active physically and very capable physically (mountain climber). Exemplary in ruthless commitment of own person. Above average. Energetic, strong willed, very glad to accept responsibility. He has a clear, trained insight for pertinent needs. Above average. Pronounced leader personality of outstanding qualities. C-in-C of an Army. 1 Mar 44, Loehr, Deputy Cmdr Group E;" said of him: "Nationalist Socialist leader personality. The capture of the islands of Kephallonia and Corfu and the annihilation there of the Italian occupation forces, which were frequently superior, took place under his personal command. He has a personality which forces others to go along with him and he is glad to commit himself. Above average. Retention of assignment.

"10 July 44. in a letter from Frhr. v. Weichs, C-in-C Southeast to o office Chief"; it was said of Lanz: "The following is my comment in agreement with Cmdr. -in-chief Army group E concerning the suitability of Lt. Gen. of Mtn. Troops Lanz for Army Commander.

a) "Advantages: Courage, high personal willingness to commit himself. He frequently completed the missions given to him with great energy and with great care in the East where he was subordinate to me from time to time, as well as during larger scale band operations in the Balkans.

He knows how to make his troop cooperate.

b) "Disadvantages: He sometimes suffers from changes of his moods, so that his achievements are not always even. In estimating difficult situations he does not always show that severity which he has demonstrated in his personal actions and in his mastery of tactical combat actions. Thus, in the course of the disarmament of the Italian Army and the fighting connected with it, his activity did not come up to standard in two cases. It is only due to the intervention of Cmdr.-in-Chief of Army Group E that no important disadvantages resulted from that.

c) "Conclusion:.. He fulfills his position as Cmdg. Gen. well. However, I have serious objections to his assignment as Army Cmdr. because of his unstable temper."

Turning now to page 13 of the English, page 8 of the German, Document NOKW-1016 is offered as prosecution Exhibit 445. Your Honors will recall that when prosecution presented documents against the defendant Rendulic for the period early September and early October, 1943, we were concerned with the surrender of the Italian troops following the Armistice entered into by the Italian government and the Allied Forces. We now turn to the same period of September and October, 1943, to Greece where other Italian units were being captured by German forces in order to prevent their turning of weapons and supplies over to partisan units operating in Greece.

This is an order of the LXVIII Army Corps commanded as your Honors know by the defendant Felmy, dated 16 September 1943, to one of Felmy's subordinate units of the 1st Partisan Division.

"Subject: Treatment of Italian Troop units who turn over their arms to insurgents and/or negotiate with insurgents. By order of the Fuehrer, the following procedure is to be applied with respect to all Italian Troop units who have permitted their arms to fall into the hands of the insurgents and moreover have made common cause with the insurgents after said troops are captured.

1.) "The officers are to be shot to death by summary court martial.

2.) "Non-Commissioned Officers and men are to be deported to the East by railroad for labor employment. They are to be treated as prisoners of war and they are to be collected in special transports and to be reported to competent railroad transportation offices individually. Supplement Army Group: Decision according to 1 by Divisional Commander."

The order is signed: "LXVIII Army Corps 1c/No. 236/43 Top Secret of 16 Sept." Or Intelligence Officer.

Turning next to page 15 of the English, page 9 of the German, Document NOKW-1118, which is offered as prosecution Exhibit 446, this is an order from the XXII Mountain Corps. If your Honors will recall, it was commanded by the defendant Lanz. The order is dated 16 Sept 1943 and it is sent to the subordinate units of the XXII Mountain Corps, the 1st Mountain Division, and the 104th Jaeger Division.

"Cases of Italian soldiers changing into civilian clothing and staying with the population are increasing. This means a material increase of danger with bandit. Such Italians are to be arrested by patrols and are to shot."

This order is signed: "Headquarters XXII Mountain Corps Ic."

Turning now to page 17 of the English, page 10 of the German, Document NOKW-1354 which becomes prosecution Exhibit 447, this document consists of a series of daily reports of the Commander-in-Chief Southeast which during this period was the defendant Weichs. Your Honors will recall that his chief-of-staff was the defendant Foertsch. The first report is dated 19 September 1943. It is sent to the OKH Army General Staff, Operations Section in Berlin and is the daily report from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast for the 19th of Sept. 1943. Under the portion of the report dealing with Administration Area Headquarters Saloniki:

"Engagement between our own reconnaissance and bands North of Elasson.

The attitude of the disarmed Italians has stiffened. Several mutineers were shot."

Then under the section of the Commander-in-Chief Southeast dealing with Serbia, and your Honors will recall that during this period the defendant Geitner was Chief-of-Staff to the Military Commander in Serbia, the report states: "Local band activity, continuing desertions from Serbian State Guard. - Railroad line Prokuplje - Kursumlija blown up. On the whole 47 hostages were shot, 144 members of Serbian State Guard deserted."

This report, as are all others in this series, is signed by the Commander-in-Chief Southeast who was also simultaneously Commander of Army Group F.

Next on page 19 of the English, page 12 of the German, is a daily report from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast to the Army General Staff, Operations Section in Berlin for 23 September 1943. Your Honors will note the receipt stamp dated 24 September 1943, one day after the report of the Army

General Staff, Operations Section, and under the section of the report dealing with the XXII Mountain Corps, commanded by the defendant Lanz:

The final sentence, the words "special treatment in compliance with Fuehrer order" are stricken out in the original document and the words are clearly legible but there is a pencil line drawn through them. If your Honors will bear this particular incident in mind, the execution by troops subordinate to the XXII Mountain Corps under the command of the defendant Lanz and General Gandin and his staff, later on in this same document book we will have occasion to see a report on the same incident by the XXII Mountain Corps to the Commander -in-Chief Southeast, in which the reference to the execution of General Gandin and his staff are not crossed out.

Turning now to page 21 of the English , page 13 of the German daily report from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast for the 16th of September, 1943, under the section of the report dealing with the activities of the XXII Mountain Corps, Corfu is firmly in our hands except for the mopping up operation necessary in the Northern sector. Mopping up operation proceeding on the island of Ithaka (East of Cephalonia).

Enemy ammunition depot destroyed South of Korca, 50 bandits shot."

Page 23 of the English and 14 of the German, another report from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast to Army headquarters in Berlin, this time the report for the 27th of September, 1943, and again we are concerned with the activities of the XXII Mountain Corps as seen from the report, this particular corps being commanded at that time by the defendant Lanz.

"Cleaning up operations as well as transporting Italians away from Corfu is proceeding. The Commandant of the island was shot."

And again we will have more to say later on on this particular event involving the execution of the Commandant of the Island of Corfu when we introduce a document later on in this document book which consists of the report of the XXII Army Corps to the Army Group E Headquarters.

Page 25 of the English, 15 of the German, daily report to the Commander -in-Chief Southeast for the 28th of September, 1943, under the section dealing with the XV Mountain Corps, the SS Division Prinz Eugen, Survey on Split:

"At Split 300 Italian officers and 9000 men of the "Bergamo" Division were made prisoners. Treatment in compliance with Fuehrer Order has been initiated."

Serbia:

Draja Mihajlovic bands active Southeastern Serbia. During our own operations 34 Draja Mihajlovic bandits were arrested, 280 suspected followers of Draja Mihajlovic were arrested.

10 Draja Mihajlovic followers shot in retaliation.

And your Honors will recall that in presenting the documents against the defendant Rendulic, we had occasion to introduce the report of the XV Mountain Corps to the Second Panzer Army relating to this particular incident. Continuing with the report of the Commander-in-Chief Southeast for the 28th of September, 1943, the portion of the report dealing with events in Serbia:

And those words too, if your Honors please, are lightly crossed out in pencil on the original document. This report is like all others signed the Commander-in-Chief Southeast, High Command Army Group F.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: At this point, Mr. Fenstermacher, we will adjourn until tomorrow morning at half-past nine.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal will be in recess until nine-thirty o'clock tomorrow morning.

(The Tribunal adjourned until 0930 hours, 14 August 1947.)

Official Transcript of Military Tribunal V, Case VII in the matter of the United States of America, against Wilhelm List et al, defendants sitting at Nurnberg, Germany, on 14 August 1947, 0930, Justice Wennerstrum presiding.

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the Courtroom will please find their seats.

The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal V.

Military Tribunal V is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

There will be order in the Court.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Marshal, will you ascertain if all the defendants are present in the Courtroom?

THE MARSHAL: May it please your Honors, all the defendants are present in the Courtroom with the exception of defendant Weichs who is absent due to illness.

THE PRESIDENT: There has been presented to me a certificate from one of the prison physicians, which I am handing to the Deputy Secretary General concerning the defendant Weichs.

proceedings will continue in the absence of the defendant. You may proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: May it please the Tribunal, your Honors will recall in this document book 19 we are dealing with events in Greece during the period August 1943 to October 1944, and we are particularly concerned with the activities of the defendant Felmy as commander of the LXVIII Army Corps and the defendant Lanz as commander of the XXII Mountain Corps. Both of those corps were subordinate to Army Group E which was in turn subordinate to Army Group F, commanded at that time by defendant Weichs whose Chief of Staff was the defendant Foertsch.

Prior to the adjournment yesterday afternoon, we were considering document NOKW-1354, which is Exhibit 447 in evidence, being a series of daily reports from the Commander-in-chief Southeast to Higher Army Head quarters in Berlin.

We were on page 27 of the English, page 17 in the German on those reports. We were examining the daily report from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast for the 29th of September, 1943. Under that portion of the Commander-in-Chief Southeast's report dealing with Serbia, "During local operations 27 suspected followers of Draja Mihajlovic were arrested and 38 bandits captured with arms. 10 reprisal shootings."

This report, as are all others, is signed by the Commander-in-Chief Southeast, who was simultaneously Commander of Army Group F. That completes Exhibit No. 447.

We turn next to page 29 of the English and page 18 of the German, Document NOKW-811. This document, if your Honors please, has already been introduced into evidence as Exhibit No. 220, which is found in Document Book 9. At that time, we read certain portions of the document which related to an earlier period in time.

Now we should like to read in the record that portion of the Exhibit which begins on page 31 of the English and page 27 of the German. The document consists of various entries in the War diary of the Commander in-Chief Southeast. The particular entry we are concerned with now is the entry which relates to file notes and telephone conversation for the 19th of September, 1943.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, the prosecutor has just said that the document, comes from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast but the heading of the letter says "Wehrmacht Commander Southeast."

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I wonder if the Secretary General has the original document and can check that? Exhibit No. 220.

(The Secretary General did not have it.)

MR. FENSTERMACHER: It is true I think, as Dr. Laternser points out, that on page 29 of the English and page 18 of the German, the entries relate to excerpts from the War Diary of the Wehrmacht Commander South east.

That is for the period 17 August 1942 and your Honors will recall that on the 1st of January, 1943, the title of the Commander-in-Chief Southeast Area was changed from Wehrmacht, Commander Southeast, which translated means Armed Forces Commander Southeast, to Oberbefehlshaber Southeast, which means Commander-in-Chief Southeast, so that while on the 17th of August, 1942, the extracts were from the War Diary of the Wehrmacht Commander Southeast, I believe it is not true that on the 19th of September, 1943, which is the excerpt to which we are now directing our attention, the excerpts are from the War Diary of the Commander-in-Chief Southeast.

I wonder if my explanation satisfies Dr. Laternser?

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, at the moment I can't say anything about this. I think this is the task of the prosecutor to prove what period they are speaking about.

THE PRESIDENT: The Exhibit will be received as shown and given such consideration as the Exhibit discloses itself, and being already in evidence we will take it for such probative value as the Tribunal deems it merits.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Turning then to page 31 of the English, page 27 of the German, file notes and telephone conversation for the 19th of September, 1943. 0940 hours, the Ia, which is the Operations Officer, informs the Chief of Staff, which at this time was the defendant Foertsch: "During the night the order came from OKW through Commander in Chief, Southeast...." and your Honors will note there the reference to Commander in Chief Southeast.

"During the night the order came from OKW through Commander in Chief, Southeast...." which on the 19th of September, 1943, was the defendant Weichs"...to report the names of the Italian officers shot up to now, only blank reports have gone in; only the Commander of Saloniki-Aegea reported that some Italian officers were shot. Otherwise, only shootings of Italian officers in Cephalonia came in question.

"Lieutenant General Winter..." who at that time was Chief of Staff to Army Group E under General Loehr"... I have here the detailed remarks concerning the 'famous' top secret."

And the entry in the War Diary for 1000 hours, still the 19th of September, 1943, "Telephone conversation of Brigadier General Winter with Major General Foertsch..." If your Honors please, that relates to a conversation between Brigadier General Winter, Chief of Staff of Army Group E with Major General Foertsch, the defendant Foertsch, who at that time was Chief of Staff of Army Group F. ".....concerning possible enemy plans. Attack on the East or West considerations, evaluation of the enemy is now being worked out and will be presented to the Commander in Chief, Southeast."

Finally the entry in the War Diary of the Commander in Chief Southeast for the 5th of October, 1943, 0815 hours, "Brigadier General Winter gives report concerning the situation on Cos..." Your Honors will recall that is a Greek Island. "600 English taken prisoners, among them a Lieutenant Colonel, 2500 Italians captured. Commandant shot. 40 guns booty. 11 planes shot down, 11 taken as booty, further 1 private yacht. Our own losses; 15 dead and 70 wounded."

Turning now to page 33 in the English, page 32 in the German, Document NOKW-960 which becomes Prosecution Exhibit 448.

THE RESIDENT: Did you give an Exhibit number to this one you have already referred to?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Yes, that has already been given an Exhibit number 220, your Honor, in document book 9.

THE PRESIDENT: All right.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: The next document is now NOKW-960 which becomes Prosecution Exhibit No. 448. We shall be concerned from this point on largely with the activities of the XXII Mountain Corps under the command of the defendant Lanz, and the activities of the subordinate units of that corps, for the most part the activities of the 1st Mountain Division and the 104th Jaeger Division.

This document is a series of reports from the 1st Mountain Division to Higher Headquarters of the XXII Mountain Corps, commanded by the defendant Lanz during this period. The first report from the 1st Mountain Division to Corps Headquarters, XXII Mountain Corps, Ic, or intelligence officer, and it is dated Division Command Post, 9 October, 1943.

"The division transmits in the enclosure the lists of the Italian officers shot in Sarande.

"At the same time a rucksack will be handed over containing the effects of these officers. For the officers named in numbers 3, 4, 10, 18, 32, 33, 35, 36, 33, 40 and 47, no effects were included."

The report is signed for the Division Headquarters for the First General Staff Officer.

Enclosed also a part of the document is a report from Combat Unit von Hirschfeld to its Higher Headquarters, the 1st Mountain Division.

Your Honors will note on the right hand portion of the document the receipt stamp of the 1st Mountain Division dated the 7th of October, 1943. This particular report from the combat Unit is dated the 6th of October, 1943, and its subject is the Effects of the Shot Italian Officers. The report is sent to the Intelligence Officer of the 1st Mountain Division.

"Herewith, the combat units transmit the effects of the battalion officers shot as traitors on 3.4. and 5 October 1943 in Saranda."

It is signed Detachment Commander Gelony.

Then on page 34 of the English, page 33 of the German, is another report of this same combat unit von Hirschfeld to the 1st Mountain Division. The 1st Mountain Division is in turn subordinate to the XXII Mountain Corps. The report of the combat unit is dated 3 October, 1943.

"List by name of the Italian officers shot by the execution detachment of the 1st Company, 54th Mountain Jaeger Battalion on 3 October 1943 in Saranda."

Then the document has a chart of various sections of the tables broken down into "Current number, Rank, Name, Place of Birth, Date of Birth, Assignment, and former Residence."

They have listed the name of the first and last of the Italian officers in the table and I should like to pass up to your Honors the actual exhibit so that you might see the intervening names as they appear in the actual document, the name of the Italian officers who were shot by this particular combat unit.

Continuing with the exhibit on page 34 of the English and page 33 of the German is another report of the combat unit von Hirschfeld to the 1st Mountain Division dated 4 October 1943 and again is another list of the names of the Italian officers shot by the execution detachment of the 1st Company, 54th Mountain Jaeger Battalion on the 4th of October, 1943, in Saranda. Again the table follows with the rank Names, Place of Birth and Date of Birth, Assignment, Former Residence, and those Italian officers who were shot.

We have listed the name of the first officer and the the name of the last officer.

Continuing on page 35 of the English and page 34 of the German we find a third series of reports of von Hirschfeld to the 1st Mountain Division, this one dated the 5th of October; 1943, again containing a list of Italian officers shot by a particular execution detachment of the 1st Company; 54th Mountain Jaeger Division.

We have listed the names of the first officer and the last or 49th, officer shot by this combat unit.

Continuing on page 33 of the English and page 34 of the German is the report which the first Mountain division then sent to is Higher Headquarters, the XXII Mountain Corps, with respect to the execution of Italian officers. This particular report from the Division was dated 5 October 1943 and your Honors will recall that this Division was subordinate to the XXII Mountain Corps, commanded by the defendant Lanz.

Under the section of the report dealing with the activities of the Spindler Battalion, "The Fuehrer Order No. 1 was carried out on 58 officers."

The report is signed for the Division Headquarters for the 1st General Staff Officer.

Continuing on page 37 of the English, page 35 of the German, Document NOKW-755, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 449, this is a series of reports from the Commander in Chief Southeast to Higher Headquarters in Berlin, and also a series of reports from Army Group E to the Commander in Chief Southeast. The reports cover a period of time from May 1943 until December 1943. The report for the first portion of the document cover the period from May until August 1943, when General Loehr was Commander in Chief Southeast. Your Honors will recall that the defendant was then Chief of Staff to General Loehr.

The second portion of the reports cover the period from August 1943 until December 1943 and are from Army Group E which during that period was commanded by General Loehr to the Commander in Chief Southeast, which during that period was the defendant Weichs and of course his Chief of Staff, the defendant Foertsch.

We take up first those reports from General Loehr as Commander in Chief Southeast to OKW Headquarters in Berlin for the period from May until August when the reorganization of the Southeast Command occurred.

Page 37 of the English, 35 of the German, daily report of Commander in Chief Southeast to OKW Operational Staff of 2 May 1943, under the section of the report dealing with Greece: "Italian operation in Volos - Lamia - Pharsala area had little enemy contact.

"Rather large amount of weapons, ammunition, explosives and equipment captured. 13 villages destroyed."

And then the report, as are all others, in this series, is signed by the Commander in Chief Southeast, who at that time was simultaneously Commander of Army Group E.

Next the daily report of the Commander in Chief Southeast for the 5th of May, 1943, again we are concerned with the section of the report dealing with Greece:

"Operation Olymp area from 16th of April to the 4th of May had following results: 117 enemy killed, 885 arrested, transferred for labor assignment.

"10,500 head of cattle captured, 18 bandit camps, 200 field positions, 55 food depots, 16 villages destroyed.

"During Italian operation North-Eastwards of Lamia 16 bandits were shot. Evacuated villages were destroyed."

Next on page 38 of the English, 36 of the German, daily report for the 16th of May, 1943. Your Honors will note the various divisions of the report. We direct your attention to that section of the report dealing with events in Serbia. Your Honors will recall that at this time the defendant Geitner was Chief of Staff to the Commander in Serbia who at this time during the period from May until August 1943, was General Bader. The defendant Geitner was General Bader's Chief of Staff.

"Serbia: Several appearances of bands in whole area. Attacks on camps and telephone lines, 156 shot as reprisal."

Next the daily report of the Commander in Chief Southeast for the 27th of May, 1943. I direct your Honor's attention to that section of the report dealing with the activities of the 373rd Division and its reference to:

"Strong Communist forces (over 1000men) from area West of Travnik on way to the South, supposedly aiming towards Herzegovina. Fighter detachment which was committed made 35 prisoners, additional reconnaissance patrol has been dispatched."

Then the section of the report dealing with events in Serbia:

"125 Communists were shot as reprisal for railroad attacks and sabotage acts in Pozarevac."

Next the report for the 3rd of June, 1943, under the portion of the report dealing with Greece, "Band, allegedly 150 men strong with 3 English officers from Italian territory in Nestoria area. Vijose - bridge

West of Konitsa (45 km North of Joannina blasted. Supplementary report about railraod attack of Nezeros: 92 Italians and 60 Greek prisoners dead, large number of wounded and missing. 100 Communists from concentration camp shot as reprisal in Larissa."

Then I direct your Honor's attention to this reference:

"Band in Greek uniform has been reported in Soupre area (40 km Northeast of Lamia.)

I think we may turn now to the report on page 40 of the English page 41 of the German dated the 12th of June, 1943, particularly to that section of the report dealing with events in Serbia:

"North of Zajecar band attacks on cattle transports, cattle stolen. 10 reprisal executions.

"According to confidential agent's report, DM bands West of Casak, 400 men strong, North West of Raska, 600 men strong."

Next is the report of Commander in Chief Southeast of 14 June 1943:

"During Communists attack on German horse transport near Klenak station.

(north of Savac) 12 Germans were killed, 3 wounded, 2 missing, 40 horses, 4 Communists found dead, clad in part in German uniform.

"In Kraljevo - Cacak and Bajina Basta area a total of 21 band accomplices were arrested. In Vrnjci area in shooting between confidential agents and bandit group one confidential agent was killed. For various attacks in district a total of 100 reprisal prisoners have been shot."

Next the report dated 17 June 1943 under Serbia:

"Twenty DM band accomplices were shot in Uzice."

Continuing with the report of the 18th of June 1943:

"Serbia: 350 Communists and 50 Chetniks have been shot as reprisal measures for attacks and sabotage acts which have been committed recently."

Next on page 42 of the English, page 40 of the German:

"As reprisal for the murder of the mayor of Kucevo 20 Chetniks and 10 Communists were shot.

"Near Guca and Uzice German police and Serbian volunteer corps captured 10 Chetniks (among them one leader); 2 were shot, archives and weapons were captured."

Next, on page 43 of the English, page 45 of the German, Daily Report for the 26th of June 1943:

"Serbia: 30 Communist prisoners shot for railroad sabotage acts committed recently."

Continuing with the report for the 27th of June 1943, the portion dealing with Serbia:

"DM mobilizing in Topola area. Near Arandjlovac one DM leader caught, one Chetnik shot. In Krusevac and Belgrade area 150 band suspects arrested."

Then a portion of the report dealing with events in Montenegro Albania:

"As reprisal measures for shot Italian officer a total of 150 Communist prisoners were shot."

Your Honors will note the ratio there, 150 to 1.

DR. LATERNSEER: I object to the last comment of the prosecutor. Apart from the fact that it was not admissible, it is also false. The original German text runs as follows:

"As reprisal for shot Italian officers 150 Communists shot."

Since one cannot see how many Italian officers were shot by the bands, one also cannot draw a conclusion with regard to the ratio which the prosecutor has maintained. I would ask that this be stricken from the record.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal suggests that the original document be sent to the translators for their interpretation.

INTERPRETER: The translation of the original German is as follows: "As reprisal for shot Italian officers."

JUDGE BURKE: Did the interpreter say officer or officers?

INTERPRETER: Officers.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed. This is an example of voluntary statements which are not born out by the records.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Sorry, Your Honor, I will withdraw my remark.

On page 44 of the English, page 47 of the German, Daily Report of the Commander in Chief Southeast to OKW/Wehrmacht Operational Staff, 28 June 1943, the section of the report dealing with Greece:

"28.6. a.m.: One enemy submarine 50 north of Scarpanto. According to Italian report enemy submarine sighted near Corfu, probably supplying bands. Much dropping of war material and parachuting of enemy agents, among the latter an American first lieutenant in western Greece."

And the Daily Report of the Commander in Chief Southeast of 29 June 1943:

"Greece: Southwest of Ptolemais sabotage of telephone lines, inhabitants assigned as guards. For attack on German non-commissioned officer near Naussa 25 Greek Communist suspects have been shot.

"Serbia: Little local band activities.

"For recent sabotage acts and attacks 350 DM and Communist suspects have been shot in Krusevac area; in other localities 255 reprisal prisoners were shot."

Next the Daily Report of 2 July 1943:

"Greece: West of Paleo – Pharsalos a German plane which had to make a forced landing was attacked, radio operator murdered. Locality destroyed by Stuka.

"The destruction of surrounding villages in connection with reprisal executions has been ordered and is being carried out. So far four villages have been burned down. As reprisal measures for railroad blast near Litochoron and attack on German non-commissioned officer (Daily Report 29.6) 50 Communists shot.

"Albania – Montenegro: Strong band forces (1000 ?) in Koritsa area receive reinforcements from northwest."

Next on page 46 of the English, page 50 of the German:

"Daily Report of Commander in Chief Southeast, 4.7.43:

"Greece: Mopping-up operation southeast of Servia continued by combat group Salmingen. Further localities burned down; 87 suspects shot in flight."

Next the Daily Report of the 5th of July 1943:

"Allied preparations for attack:

"Active shipping through Suez Canal. Heavy east convoy plotted for the first time between Straits of Sicily and Alexandria confirms the assumption that sea traffic from western to eastern Mediterranean took place continuously. Plotted transport, freight, and tanker tonnage east of Mediterranean amounts to 1.5 million BRT. Main concentration point freight and tanker area Alexandria, transport area Port Said. Transport debarkation area: ports Port Said – Bengasi incl. sufficient for almost one landing division (308 landing boats, newly reconnoitred through aerial photography, in added transport area, not included in calculation.) Tripolis ports, Bizerte incl. for four English landing divisions (no small vessels). No precise information on transport landing area on Levant coast and Cypress.

"Band, situation in Greece: With small forces on Peloponnes strong concentration on Central Greece. Planned cooperation during the operations of Allies can be counted on with certainty. According to London radio reports, subordination of all bands of Greece under Allied high command in the Middle East is ordered.

"Greece: During night of 4/5 July systematic sabotage operation on Crete with concentration point on Iraklion area, probably carried out under English command. At airfield Kastelli three incendiary charges were released in aircraft blast bays, one Klemm A/c 35 was destroyed, one Flak soldier killed. Further charges were removed in time. In gasoline depot near Iraklion one gasoline blast bay with 10 cbm gasoline was destroyed. Further destructions were prevented by alert troops. In Malaxa (southeast of Chania) cable sabotage on important communication lines. Searching operation so far without result. Increased security measures ordered since 3.7. prevented greater damages.

"Reprisal measures: 50 Greeks shot. Further shootings threatened unless perpetrator has been discovered with the assistance of the population within seven days. Curfew for population on entire island has been fixed from 2100 hours to 0430 hours. The closing of theaters for the population and taverns as of 2000 hours. Furlough veto for Greek Wehrmacht laborers."

Page 48 of the English, 53 of the German, Daily Report Southeast of 13 of July 1943:

"Greece: To Daily Report of 12.7.: 13 people suspected of sabotaging railroad shot. During mopping-up operations on through fare southeast of Servia remaining houses were burned down; suspects shot. During mopping-up operations eastwards of Leskovik five more enemy dead."

Next, Daily Report for the 15th of July 1943:

"Greece: On Crete in locality near Retymnon male population has been pressed into forced labor as measure against Communist propaganda activity.

"Croatia: Area north of Save: North of Banova Jaruga large Communist band (700) has been reported.

Reprisal operation against locality northeast of Mitrovica (see yesterday's Daily Report) has been successfully carried out. Forty bandits were shot, 82 band suspects arrested."

Next Daily Report of the 14th of July 1943:

"Greece: Sudden revival of band activities on Crete. The support of bands by Allied submarine landings has been proved through discovery of American equipment and through English men killed during combat at the southern coast. (Daily Report 12.7.)

"Area southeast of Iraklion, German company commander was shot at four times in his quarters. Two Greeks were killed while fleeing. In same area arms and explosives were found, three suspects were arrested. In the eastern part of Crete two Greeks who had blasting material in their possession were shot by Italian patrol east of Sfakia was fired on during the night of 12/13.7. Action undertaken immediately remained without result. In locality southwest of Chania weapons were found, one Greek was killed while fleeing. Bands in area southeast and southwest of Retymnon suspected surprise action. According to report of confidential agent, strong band (2000) from Ano Wianos (40 southeast of Iraklion) changed over into Italian territory. One thousand rifles and other weapons allegedly have been landed by submarines."

I think we need not read the rest of the report since it is primarily information on operation of tactical situations.

Beginning next on page 50 of the English, page 54 of the German:

"As reprisal for attack on rural guard patrol northeast of Petrograd 25 Communists were shot."

Next, Daily Report of 18 July 1943, the section of the report dealing with Serbia:

"Local band activity. In southwestern Serbia increased tension between Serbs and Moslems.

"Near Lebane two Communist attacks on Serbia State Guard. Fifty Communists shot as reprisal for attacks on Bulgarian railroad security.

South of Krusevac battle is taking place between Serbian Volunteer Corps and Communists; so far ten enemy dead. Southwest Pozega Communist band has been arrested by Serbian Volunteer Corps 7 Communists dead, band leader hanged in public.

Next the report dealing with Italian occupied territory:

During operation in Diokovo mountains 463 band suspects were arrested and brought to a concentration Camp.

Next the report of 20 July, 1943:

Greece:

According to an Italian report a band of the Zervas amounting to 2500 men is allegedly located West of the Joannina - Arta road. Number is exaggerated.

Serbia:

As reprisal for railroad sabotage and murders in Arandjelovac area (Daily Report of 7.7.) 30 Communists and 10 DM - reprisal prisoners have been shot. As reprisal for band activity in Banat (Daily report 16.7.) 10 more Communists were shot.

Then the report of the 21 July 1943, 52 of the English, 61 of the German:

Preparation for attack by the Allies.

North East of Solium convoy with 25 units among them presumably 7 freighters 7 - 10 000 BRT, 9 freighters 5 - 6 000 BRT, Course West. Concentration of Commando and Sabotage troops committed on Cyprus on North Western coast demands special attention in connection with frequent counter-intelligence reports on imminent operation against Dodecanese and Crete.

On 21.7. no own aerial - reconnaissance of Cyprus. British forces in Southern Syria presumably reinforced by 8th Indian Infantry Division (until now Irak).

Greece: According to. Italian report band of 2500 men in Agrinion area, 1000 men in Arta area -, 2000 men in area 40 West of Joannina.

Numbers seem exaggerated.

Turning next to the report of the 25 of July 1943 which is at bottom of page 53 of the English, pages 63 and 64 of the German:

Greece:

1st Mountain Division: Mopping-up operation according to plan at Joannina - Arta with local enemy resistance. Band dispersed from height position, 20 enemy dead, 1 ammunition dump destroyed, 1 English parachute bomb discovered. Hostages were arrested in all localities. Non-inhabitants of locality are treated as bandits.

Next is report of the 26 - 17 of July, page 54 of the English, page 65 of the German:

"Effects of the situation in Italy:

"So far no effect of the change of government on the behavior of the population.

"Italian proclamation has been announced to Assault-division by governor Rhodes with special mention, that the war continues, that Italy will keep its promise and that adequate instructions have been made to Italian commanders of island including the Legions."

Your Honors will recall that at this time Mussolini was replaced as head of the Italian Government by General Badoglio.

By order of the higher military command Italian Command Post Triest has alerted the German and Italian headquarters to maintain public order. Italian 2nd Army has not as yet received any instructions from Rome. Service continues normally.

According to reliable sources DM has instructed his subordinated leaders in Bosnia and Dalmatia on 26.7. to carry out the following operations immediately in case expected insurrection in Italian Army takes place: The disarming of all Italian units, distribution of Italian weapons to DM units. Recruiting of Yugoslavian Luftwaffe personnel. Later destruction of all traffic roads, occupation of towns and mopping-up operations in coastal areas. Internment of captured Italians and treatment according to international martial law.

Greece:

Your Honors will note that this was two orders supposedly issued by DM units, of captured Italian soldiers.

2nd Regiment Brandenburg:

1 band locality destroyed, male population arrested, women and children evacuated. As reprisal for surprise fire attack on German truck in Rodiani (12 south of Kozeni) 2 bandits were hanged in public.

Next Dally Report for the 28 July 1943:

Effects of Italian situation:

Italian Officers Corps at Rhodes hopes, that under new government party-political influences will be eliminated in military decisions. The militia is suspicious towards new leadership, Militia-Consuls are ready to continue the fight on the German side in case of separate efforts for peace.

In Athens EAM propaganda among Italian soldiers for separate peace.

Your Honors will recall that later documents will show that the EAM is one of the 2 important Greek organizations:

Next the Daily Report of Commander-in-Chief Southeast to OKW/WFST of 31.7.43.

Greece:

Italian troops on Peloponnesus placed under command of LXVIII Corps Headquarters for special assignment as of 31.7., Your Honors will recall that at this time the defendant Felmy was Commander of the LXVIII Army Corps.

East of Amalias Group IV/Fortress Infantry Battalion 999 fired on by band. As reprisal 2 hostages were shot, 1 locality was burnt down.

Serbia:

Southeast of Kursumlija allegedly 250 Chotniks in English uniform.

I call Your Honors' attention to the date of this report, when it is reported that the Chetniks were in English uniform, 31 July 1943.

Next the Daily Report of the Commander-in-Chief Southeast for the 1st August 1943;

Effects of Italian situation:

According to report from German liaison officer with Italian VIII Infantry Corps unrest among Italian Officers Corps, a larger part of which urges towards Italy. According to statements of civilian Italians in Nauplion area try to obtain civilian garments from Greeks. In area of Tirana a new independent Albanian government is said to have been formed. Among the members also English officers. In Debar area an open revolt in favor of a new government is expected. An indication thereof is the large scale desertion amongst the Albanian troops.

Next a report of the 3rd of August 1943:

Effect of Italian situation:

Strong propaganda activity of the EAM to entice Italian soldiers in Athens to desert and surrender their arms.

Page 47 of the English, 71 of the German, Daily Report for the 5th of August, 1943, under Serbia:

Continual local attacks and collisions between insurgents and Serbian police, 10 Communist reprisal prisoners were shot. West of Krusevac DM-Commander shot.

Continuing with the report of the 6th of August, 1943:

Greece:

3 band localities destroyed. 3 dumps with weapons, ammunition, clothing and supplies were captured.

Serbia:

Reinforced. DM-movement under English command in area Southwest of Lebane.

Southwest of Cacak 4-500 peasants have been mobilized by DM.

Continuing now with the report for the 15 of August 1943, at the "bottom of page 58 of the English, page 73 of the German:

Greece:

2 Localities occupied by bands were bombed by Luftwaffe. Attack by small band on electricity plant Karditsa, enemy repulsed by GermanItalian combat group. During operation of 1st Mountain Division in coastal area of Amuzia (yesterday's daily report), 1 English confidential agent, 70 band suspects arrested, 2 localities destroyed.

As reprisal for attack on German gun reported yesterday 3 localities have been burnt down North West of Leskovic.

Serbia:

During operation Arilje further 10 enemy dead, 84 band accomplices arrested, 1 band locality destroyed.

Near Beljevac and Usice harvest sabotage and surprise attacks on communities, 20 members of Serbian State Guard deported or rather deserted. As reprisal 15 Communist prisoners shot.

Next the report for the 17 of August 1943:

Serbia:

10 Communist reprisal prisoners shot for the murder of the Volksdeutsche mayor.

Continuing the report for the 18 of August 1943:

Serbia:

As reprisal for surprise attack on coal-mine near Aleksinac and for the murder of 2 mayors, 30 Communists and 20 Chetniks were shot.

Next the report for the 19 of August 1943:

Greece:

On Crete in village Southwest of Rethymnon, 1 German non-commissioned officer was killed by unknown perpetrator. As reprisal 10 Greeks were shot, male inhabitants of village were taken to labor camps. Attack on Italian garrison of Almiros (25 Southwest of Volos), reported yesterday, was carried out by large (1,000?) well-armed band.

Next the report of the 21 of August 1943 Commander-in-Chief Southeast, this time General Loehr, whose Chief of Staff was General Foertsch. This report concerns Serbia, where the defendant von Geitner was Chief of Staff to General Bader.

Serbia:

East of Zagubica 2 compressors, 1 steam-roller and other machines heavily damaged through sabotage, 33 Communist reprisal prisoners shot.

Croatia:

Increased aggravation of the situation. Communists and Chetniks clearly recognize the symptoms of disintegration in the Croatian Army. Increase of enemy propaganda, increase of well-prepared attacks by superior forces on Croatian strongholds, whose troops for the most part do not offer resistance. Many desertions of Moslems because of forced induction into the SS. In Legion Division also increased desertion. Allegedly because of rumors concerning entrance of Turkey into the war.

Continuing now at bottom of page 61 of the English, page 78 of the German, Daily Report of the 23rd of August 1943:

Greece:

On Peloponnesus in area 35 Northwest of Tripolis surprise attacks by small bands on German soldiers, 1 missing, 2 suspect localities burnt down.

Explosives and ammunition were captured in villages, villages were destroyed. Near Amphilokia a monastery suspected of belonging to bands was bombed by plane. 2nd Regiment Brandenburg clashed with small band Southwest of Neapolis, 1 band locality was burnt down.

Next, the daily report for the 24th of August 1943, particularly under "Croatia:"

"Area 114th Light Infantry Division: According to Cetnik report 6 Communist brigades are in Drvar area."

Turning now to the bottom of 62 of the English, page 80 of the German, from here on to the rest of the exhibit, we shall be concerned with daily reports issued by Army Group E to the Commander in Chief Southeast and this covers the period after the reorganization of the Southeast Command, at the end of August 1943 until December 1943; and during this period Army Group E was commanded by General Loehr whose Chief of Staff was Brigadier General Winter, to whom the preceding reports made several references; and the report is to the Commander in Chief Southeast (High Command of Army Group F), the defendant Weichs and his Chief of Staff, the defendant Forestch; and during this period, from August 1943 to December 1943 Your Honors will recall that General Felmy was commander of the 68th Corps in Greece and General Lanz was in Greece as Commander of the 22nd Corps and General Speidel was in Greece as Military Commander in Greece.

First, the daily report of the High Command of Army Group E to the Commander in Chief Southeast for the 26th of August, 1943:

"German vehicle was fired at on Crete in area of Arkolochori (24 South of Iraklion). Perpetrator escaped in the darkness. 32 hostages were arrested and taken to a forced labor camp."

Next, in the middle of page 63 of the English, page 81 of the German, the daily report of the Army Group E to the Commander in Chief Southeast for the 26th of August 1943:

"After evacuation of population and transport of men to forced labor camps, band village Worisa (10 North of Tympakion) on Crete was destroyed by bombs from 7 July"; and the reference "Ju" is to a type of airplane the German Army employed.

Next, the daily report for September 9, 1943:

"Army Group Southern Greece" General Felmy took command. General Lanz (22nd Mountain Corps) took over command of 1st Mountain Division and 104th Light Infantry Division."

Continuing with the report of Army Group E to Army Group F for December 9, 1943.

"Army Group Southern Greece"--Your Honors will recall Army Group Southern Greece is now commanded by the defendant Felmy--"During mopping-up operations of Levadeia 20 band suspects were arrested. Ammunition was found. Locality was partly burned down. As reprisal measures for 1 murdered German soldier 10 Greeks were hanged."

Next, the report for the 13th of September, 1943, section of the report dealing with Crete:

"Increased enemy reconnaissance activity over island. 25% of Italian garrison is willing to fight with German Wehrmacht (Formation of Construction battalions, etc., is planned) 50% neutral (truck drivers and other specialists to be taken over into Wehrmacht) 25% declining (evacuation urgent). During reconnaissance in mountain area North of Tympakion own strong patrol caught in ambush, 12 dead, 5 wounded, 6 missing, dead mutilated. During the relief operation which was launched, bands escaped. 2 villages have been burned as a temporary reprisal measure. Further operations are planned with support of Luftwaffe."

And the section of the report dealing with the 22nd Division of the Mountain Army Corps the Corps commanded by the defendant Lanz:

"As reprisal measure for attack on German truck convoy (daily report 11.9 Belish was burned down."

Next in the daily report for the 15th of September 1943, the section of the report dealing with activities of the Commander of Saloniki-Aegean:

"Near Volos large number of Italians (approximately 1000 men) went over to bands."

Next, the daily report from Army Group E to Army Group F for the 17th of September 1943:

"Commander Saloniki-Aegean: After strong resistance Kalarmama was taken by units of SS Panzer Infantry Regiment 1, population fled, locality was burned down by own forces."

Next, the report for 21 September 1943:

"Amy Group Southern Greece" defendant Felmy's unit: "During own reconnaissance in coastal area of the Gulf of Maliakos contact with the enemy with well-armed bands (partly clad in Italian uniform).

"Commander of Saloniki-Aegean: During own reconnaissance little contact with the enemy South Southeast of Bilishte and South of Kastoria. As reprisal for sabotage on telephone lines, 4 hostages were hanged in Kocani."

Next the report from Army Group E to Army Group F of the 23rd of September, 1943, the report for the activities of the 32nd Mountain Corps, commanded by the defendant Bantz--Your Honors will recall that earlier in the report from the Commander in Chief Southeast to OkH and OKW in Berlin we quoted from a section of that report dealing with the execution of General Gandin and his staff, General Gandin being an Italian officer, and we remarked that the reference to General Gandin and his staff's execution was crossed out in pencil, and I remarked that later on in a document we would find the corresponding report coming from the Corps to the Army Group F referring to the same incident in which the reference was not crossed out and this is that reference."

"Remaining mopping-up operations on Cephalonia continue. General Gandin and staff have been taken prisoner. Special treatment according to Fuehrer decree."

Next, the daily report for the 24th of September 1943, page 67 of the English, page 88 of the German--this is a report for the day after the previous reference to General Gandin and his staff, having been given special treatment-- section of the report dealing with the activities of the 22nd Mountain Corps, commanded by the defendant, General Lanz:

"General Gandin and all his officers were shot."

This, Your Honors, completes the incident to which we refer in Count 3 of the indictment, paragraph 12-J.

Next, the daily report of the Army Group E to the Commander in Chief Southeast for the 27th of September, bottom of page 67 in The English, page 89 in the German--again we are concerned primarily with the events of the 22nd Mountain Corps:

"On Corfu island commander was taken prisoner and shot."

Section of the report dealing with events covered in the jurisdiction of the Commander of Saloniki-Aegean:

"During reconnaissance combat northeast of Larissa, 25 bandits were shot, 1 band locality destroyed, small amount of weapons captured. On the upper course of the Kliakmon well-armed band repulsed and pursued."

Next the report for the 4th of October, 1943:

"Crete: During mopping--up operations North of Paleochora. (see daily report of 1.10) well-armed medium sized band was dispersed, 40 enemy dead, 3 villages were burned down."

Next, the bottom of page 68 of the English, 91 of the German, daily report of the Army Group E to Commander in Chief Southeast for 5 October 1943:

"Operation 'Eisbaer': Italian island commander was shot."

And then the section of the report dealing with activities of the 68th Army Corps, commanded by the defendant Felmy:

"Command of the area up till now under Army Group Southern Greece taken over by Corps Headquarters 68th Infantry Corps."

And still continuing with the section of the report dealing with the activities of that Corps commanded by Felmy:

"As reprisal for murder of Regiment Commander and sabotage of telephone lines (see daily report of 2.10) locality of Akmotopok (northeast of Philippias) was entirely destroyed and all inhabitants shot. North of Paramythia renewed sabotage of telephone lines, local mopping up south of Joannina."

This, if Your Honors please, is a reference to Count 2 of the indictment, paragraph 9-F.

Continuing on page 69 of the English, page 91 of the German, daily report of the Army Group E to Commander-in-Chief Southeast for the 14th of October 1943:

"Commander Saloniki-Aegean:

During Ossa operation a further band supply dump destroyed. Italians captured from the bands were shot. Operation continued. As reprisal for attack on Engineer company (daily report 12.10) and for railroad sabotage in Tempi-valley (daily report 10.10) several estates near Elassen and locality of Pyrgetes were razed to the ground."

Continuing with the daily report for the 20th of October, 1943 from Army Group E to Army Group F:

"Concluding report on Ossa operation: Enemy losses: 205 prisoners, 37 dead, 42 wounded. 13 dumps of various amounts of ammunition and rations and clothing captured and destroyed. 3 localities (among them Spelia) were leveled to the ground.

Own losses: 2 dead, 3 wounded."

Skipping to the bottom of the page, 70 of the English, 94 of the German, daily report for the 7th of November, 1943, again the section of the report dealing with the activities of the 68th Corps commanded by the defendant Felmy:

"18 Communists were shot in Tripolis as reprisal for railroad sabotage committed lately."

Page 71 of the English, 95 of the German, report of the 13th of November, 1943, and again that section of the report dealing with the activity of the 68th Corps is pertinent:

"During local mopping-up Southeast of Tripolis several hostages were taken. In Erythrea 80 suspects were arrested and brought to a labor assignment camp."

Next the report of the 15th of November:

"Commander of Saloniki Aegean: During local mopping up operations North of Volos 53 bandits were taken prisoner, several were shot. 1 band locality was burned down. As reprisal for attacks committed lately in Kateri area 20 Communists were shot."

Page Unlabeled

"During reprisal operation against bands in Korea area, 1 locality was taken in spite of resistance. All men capable of bearing arms were shot, locality destroyed."

This reference relates to Count 2, paragraph 9-J, on the indictment.

Next, the daily report of the Army Group E to Army Group F for the 5th of December, 1943, 68th Corps, commanded by Felmy:

"50 hostages were shot in Aighion for attacks committed lately."

And that is our reference to Count 7, paragraph 5-P, of the indictment.

Next, the daily report from Army Group E to Army Group F for December 6, 1943, under "68th Corps":

"For attack on railroad stronghold East of Tripolis (daily report of 2.12) 50 hostages were hanged."

On page 75 of the English, page 100 of the German, we begin a series of three reports from Army Group E to Army Group F which relate to a reprisal measure carried out in the Kalavrita area in the Peloponnes Peninsula of Greece, and I ask your Honors to make a special note of these three reports and the events to which they refer because the prosecution will have occasion within the next several days to put on the witness stand a survivor of the Kalavrita operation.

First is the daily report from the Army Group E to the Army Group F for the 16th of December 1943. Your Honors will note that the events of this operation are all found in that portion of the report dealing with the activities of the 68th Corps commanded by the defendant Felmy:

"Operation Kalavrita continued without enemy contact. Reprisal measures near Kalavrita (yesterday's daily report) so far: 9 villages destroyed, 142 men shot."

Next, the daily report from Army Group E to Army Group F for the 14th of December, 1943:

"68th Corps: Near Kalavrita 70 corpses of the murdered members of the 5/799 were found. During further reprisal measures 3 localities were burned down. Kalavrita was entirely destroyed. 511 male inhabitants were shot." 1934 Skipping to the bottom of page 72 of the English, 97 of the German, daily report of the 28th of November, 1943, portion of the report dealing with Commander of Saloniki Aegean -- I beg your pardon -- portion of the report dealing with Aegean:

"During mopping up operation northeastern area of Sames enemy contact with armed Italians. 1 officer, 53 enlisted men captured. Several were shot. Prisoners were treated as-- and I believe those two words should be changed to read "franc-tireurs."

Is that correct, Dr. Laternser?

Dr. Laternser has indicated that the final two words in that sentence should be changed to read "franc-tireurs."

THE PRESIDENT: What would the spelling be?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Fr a n c - t i r e u r s.

THE PRESIDENT: A little slower again.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I beg your pardon?

THE PRESIDENT: Will you repeat a little slower?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Fr a n c - t i r e u r s.

Continuing the report from Army Group E to Army Group F for this period from August 1943 to December 1943, page 73 of the English, 98 of the German, daily report of Army Group E to Commander-in-Chief South East of November 29, 1943, Section of the report dealing with the 68th Corps, Commanded by Felmy:

"As reprisal for band attack on Tripolis Sparta road (daily report 26.11) 100 hostages shot at the place of attack. During search through Corinth many hostages were arrested, weapons and propaganda material were confiscated."

The report is signed: "High Command of Army Group E" and this, your Honors, please, relates to Count 1, paragraph 5-N, of our indictment.

Next, report from Army Group E to Army Group F of the 1st of December, 1943, the section of the report dealing with the Mountain Corps commanded by the defendant Lanz:

Next, the daily report of Army Group E to Army Group F for the 15th of December, 1943 -- again we are concerned with that portion of the report dealing with the 68th Corps:

"During continuation of reprisal measures in Kalavrita area 1 more village and 2 monasteries were destroyed. At local operation parts of the Polish Regiment 18 (Military Commander..)" -- I believe, your Honors, the word "Polish" should be changed to read "Police Regiment 18" and "(Military Commander of Greece)", who at that time was the defendant Speidel. "Southeast of Levadein had enemy contact in Evangelistra (15 Southeast of Levadeia). Locality was burned down."

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honors, I would just like to ask the prosecutor to read again the report of the 15th of December because at the moment I could not follow it and perhaps there is something about which I am not certain.

It is the daily report of the Army Group E to the Commander in Chief Southeast for the 14th of December.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: This is page 75 of the English, page 101 of the German.

"68th Corps: Near Kalavrita 70 corpses of the murdered members of the c/749 were found. During further reprisal measures 3 localities were burned down. Kalavrita was entirely destroyed. 511 male inhabitants were shot."

Continuing on page 76 of the English, 102 of the German, with the last report which refers to this Kalavrita reprisal operation, the report for the 16th of December 1943 from Army Group E to Army Group F, the portion of the report dealing with the 68th Corps:

"Mazeika (11 southeast of Kalavrita) was burned down; with that reprisal measures have been concluded."

The report is signed: "High Command of Army Group E."

Continuing with the reports from Army Group E to Army Group F, at the bottom of page 76 of the English, page 102 of the German, daily report for the 17th of December, 1943.

"68th Corps: As reprisal for bridge blasting and murder of 1 German soldier 1 band locality has been destroyed, 30 Communists shot in Tripolis area.

"22nd Mountain Corps," commanded by defendant Lanz: "With reference to attack on truck convoy northeast of Agrinion which was announced yesterday: 4 trucks burned down, 2 missing returned. As reprisal 3 band localities were destroyed."

Skipping to the bottom of page 77 of the English, page 104 of the German, daily report from Army Group E to Army Group F for the 21st of December, 1943:

"22nd Mountain Corps: In Agrinion increased Communist propaganda activity. 1 Band locality was burned down in reprisal for sabotage of long distance lines west of Joannina (daily report of 19 December)" Portion of report dealing with the activities of the Commander of Saloniki-Aegean (Administrative subarea Headquarters 395:

"The new success against the bands in the territory of administrative subarea Headquarters 395 can be attributed to the repeated personal interference of the commander of Saloniki Aegean, Major General Pflugradt."

Turning finally to page 79 of the English, page 106 of the German, the last of these reports from Amy Group E to the Commander in Chief Southeast, this one for the 31st of December, 1943, the 22nd Mountain Corps:

"During continuation of reconnaissance operation northwest of Metsovon 2 localities were taken during battle, 1 band locality was burned down."

Turning next to page 80 of the English, page 107 of the German, Document NOKW-970, which is offered as prosecution exhibit 450, these are several reports from the 1st Mountain Division to the 22nd Mountain Corps, commanded at this time by the defendant Lanz.

First -- Evening report of the units, 31 August 1943, 99th Mountain Infantry Regiment, 2015 hours: "During Canal operation, 5 armed bandits were captured. They were shot to death. Additional suspects were arrested."

Next -- Evening report of the units 3 September 1943, 98th Mountain Infantry Regiment: "Near Akmotopos, apparently there as observers, two armed civilians were shot to death by the 4th Battery. Two rifles and several rounds of ammunition were captured."

Page 81 of the English, 107 of the German, the report of the 1st Mountain Division dated 31 August 1943 to the German General Staff with the Italian 11th Army, same text to 22nd Mountain Army Corps:

"No band activity. During Canal operation 5 armed bandits shot to death. An additional 7 suspects arrested. Near Koronopulon (5 kilometers northwest of it) 17 prisoners including 5 carrying guns." Signed: "1st Mountain Division," the "Ic" or Intelligence Officer.

Finally, the report of the 1st Mountain Division dated 4 September 1943 to the 22nd Mountain Army Corps, same text, which was sent to German General Staff with the Italian 11th Army: "11 bandits shot to death."

THE PRESIDENT: We will take our morning recess at this time.

DR. SAUTER, for the defendant Lanz. While submitting the last document, document 970, Exhibit 450, the prosecution has noted that some units had gone to the 22nd Mountain Corps which was then under the command of General Lanz. I would like to add the following statement to this. This is an error of the prosecution, for a half an hour ago, the prosecution read a daily order of the 9 September. It is to be found on Page 82 of the German edition of this document book. I do not know at the moment which page of the English, but a report of the 9th of September, 1943, and the prosecutor himself read and I quote here literally:

"General Lanz, Commander of the 22nd Mountain Corps, took over the command of the first Mountain Division and the 4th Jaegerdivision".

Therefore, this determines the fact that at that period of time to which the document 970, Exhibit 450 refers, General Lanz was not yet commander of the 22nd Mountain Corps. He only took over the command of this corps on the 9th of September. I wanted to correct that matter.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honor, I should like to call the Tribunal's attention, and also Dr. Sauter's attention to Page 9 of the English document book at page 6 of the German document book. That is a service record of General Hubert Lanz, and we want to note that on the 25th of August, 1943, the service record indicates that General Lanz became Commander General of the 22nd Mountain Corps.

DR. SAUTER: Mr. President, what the prosecution has just claimed, is correct. General Lanz received an appointment on the 25th of August, 1943. At that time he worked at a Division Theater of war, but he did not take over the 22nd Mountain Corps until the 9th of September. That is shown from the document which was read by the prosecution itself, and that date can only be decisive on which General Lanz actually took over the command of the troops, and that was doubtless on the 9th of September.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: The Tribunal will give consideration to the various documents to which counsel for the prosecution and the defense have called to our attention, and also their comments.

It is a question of fact which will receive consideration by the Tribunal.

DR. SAUTER: Thank you, your Honor.

BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

We turn now to Page 83 of the English document, 109 of the German document, NOKW 1104, which is Prosecution's Exhibit No. 451. This is a series of orders from the 1st Mountain Division to various of its subordinate units, as well as reports from the subordinate units of the 1st Mountain Division, and the 1st Mountain Division itself, to the 22nd Mountain Corps.

The first is an order of the 1st Mountain Division dated 13 September 1943, and I believe there will be no issue of fact that at that time the defendant Lanz commanded the 22nd Mountain Corps, and that the 1st Mountain Division was subordinate to that corps:

"Special Instructions for the Ic area No. 6. Civil Administration. With the disarming of the Italian Army the government in the Epirus is transferred to the German occupation troops."

Your Honors, we will be hearing a good deal about the Epirus section of Greece, and your Honors will find in the informational pamphlet which the prosecution prepared and submitted to the Tribunal, a map of Greece and the Southeastern area, and the Epirus section is the western section of Greece below the Albanian border.

"The Greek civil administration is subordinated to them.

Organization of the Internal Administration:

The administrative area Epirus coincides more or less with the area of the Division. The total number of inhabitants is about 400,000 (census of 1940). Since then a migration of about 15% from Greek cities. At the head is the General Governor in Jannina. The establishing of liaison by Ic of the Division. 4 Prefectures are subordinated to the General Governor:

a) Prefecture Jannina, total number of inhabitants 180,000, of these 2,000 are Jews. Collaboration with Ic Division. 2 Sub-Prefectures are subordinated to the Prefecture:

aa) Konitsa, Sub-Prefect Costandos.

Establishing of liaison by Staff Lederer.

bb) Pogonion, Sub-Prefect Onufriu.

cc) The town Jannina, 23,000 inhabitants, the mayor (Dimarchos) Wlachlidis Dimitrius.

Collaboration with garrison headquarters Jannina.

To aa) and bb): All Mayors are subordinated to the Sub-Prefects.

b) Prefecture Arta, which is another area in Epirus, Jannina being the capital. Prefecture Avta, total number of inhabitants 70,000, of these 12,000 in Arta, Prefect Matios, establishing of liaison by the 98th Mountain Jaeger Regiment.

c) Prefecture Prevesa: total number of inhabitants 80,000, of these 11,000 in the town Prevesa, Prefect Papadaki, establishing of liaison by 98th Mountain Jaeger Regiment.

d) Prefecture Thesprothis: total number of inhabitants 70,000, of these 18,000 Mohammedan, in Paramythia 3,000. Headquarters of the Prefecture is Paramythia, Prefect Krudulis (is considered unreliable and is soon to be replaced). Establishing of liaison by 99th Mountain Jaeger Regiment".

Your Honors will note here that two references are made to subordinate units of the 1st Mountain Division, the 98th Mountain Regiment, and the 99th Mountain Jaeger Regiment, reference to which we have had occasion to refer to earlier in this document book:

"The General Governor, the Prefects and Sub-Prefects will be appointed by the Government. In case unreliability is determined, immediate protective custody, with a report to the Ic of the Division for the appointment of a successor. The Mayors are appointed by the Prefects for an indefinite period. In case of unreliability to be relieved by Regimental troops, etc. in agreement with the Prefectures. The Prefectures and Sub-Prefectures will receive the necessary instructions from the General Governor."

Now I direct your Honors attention particularly to this next paragraph, paragraph 10 of this order of the 1st Mountain Division and the date of the order is the 13 September 1943, at which time the defendant Lanz is commander of the 22nd Mountain Corps to which this particular division is subordinate:

"10) In order to oppose energetically the continued raids on convoys and members of the Wehrmacht, it is ordered, that from 20 Sept 43 onward, for every German soldier wounded or killed by insurgents or civilians, 10 Greeks from all classes of the population to be shot to death. This order must be carried out consistently in order to achieve a deterrent effect."

The order is signed by the First General Staff Officer. I ask Your Honors to please keep in mind the date of this order, 13 September 1943, because we shall have occasion in the last document in this document book to refer to a later order about a month later, in the middle of October, 1943, in which this division raises the reprisal quota from the 10-to-1 ratio outlined here, to a ratio of 50-to-1.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Turning next to Page 16 of the English, Page 112 of the German, the Evening Report of the unit, 15 September 1943. The section of the report dealing with the activities of the 98th Mountain Jaeger Regiment, which was, of course, subordinate to the 1st Mountain Division. "At 0930 hours attack with trench mortar fire on stronghold near observation point 446. During mopping up operation against Neochoraki no enemy encountered, the village also free of civilians, was completely destroyed." Next, the Evening Report of the Unit for the 16th of September 1943, again the 98th Mountain Jaeger Regiment. "2nd Battalion 0630 hours mopping up operation against Kompoti carried out. The village itself is free of enemy and civilians. It was destroyed and burned down. The area of the valley leading towards the east was put under artillery fire. As a result an ammunition dump blew up." It is on the bottom of Page 86 of the English, Page 113 of the German. "The area of the valley leading towards the east was put under artillery fire. As a result an ammunition dump blew up. 10 bandits were shot to death. 1 destroyed Italian machine gun was captured." Turning to Page 88 of the English, page 114 of the German, the report of the 1st Mountain Division, dated 17 September 1943, to Corps Headquarters of the 22nd Mountain Corps:

"Enemy surprise attack on our own truck convoy 17 kilometers south of Joannina. It was the first time a raid was made on this stretch since arrival of the Division. Otherwise, no bandit activity worth mentioning. Supplementary Report to the 16 Sept: North of Konica a telephone unit was fired upon by a band with 2 machine guns and several rifles. 2 Russian volunteer auxiliaries were wounded. As reprisal measure 1 village north of Konica was burned down. Ammunition exploded in the houses.

Mopping up operation in the area of the attack 17 kilometers south of Joannina without contact with the enemy. The surrounding villages were speedily evacuated by the population, and were burned down. Own losses during the raid:

1 officer and 4 men killed in combat, 1 man missing, 9 men wounded (2 of these remained with the unit), 2 trucks severely damaged."

I think we may skip the next report and turn to page 90 of the English and page 116 of the German -- another report of the 1st Mountain Division to the 22nd Mountain Corps, the Evening Report, and the textual matter of this is primarily more or less the same as it was in the report which I have just finished reading. I should like to read the last paragraph of the report on Page 91 of the English, Page 117 of the German.

"On 17 Sept between 0630 and 0700 hours a supply column was fired on near Theriakision (17 kilometers south of Jannina) by a band of unknown strength. Own losses 5 dead, among these 1 officer, 7 wounded, presumably 4 missing. 2 trucks seriously damaged. In the face of our counter measures the band retreated in an easterly direction, all villages east of the place of the attack, in a radius of 4 kilometers, were burned down. At various places ammunition exploded. The entire population had fled."

The next three reports tie in one with another. First, is the Evening Report of the unit for the 18th of September 1943, the 99th Mountain Jaeger Regiment, which, of course, is subordinate to the 1st Mountain Division. "In Sulopulon 3 civilians were arrested and turned over to the Field Police. They had Italian uniforms in their possession." Then, turning to the bottom of Page 92 of the English, Page 118 of the German, the report of the 54th Field Gendarmerie Unit, to the 1st Mountain Division Ia, or intelligence officer, dated Local Headquarters, 19 September 1943, one day after the Evening Report which I have just read. "The Greeks Spostulus Babadozulus from Reiko, Laplos Gamazas from Reiko, Spiridon Ganatos from Gallochori were shot to death at about 2030 hours on the 18th of September 1943." Next, on Page 93 of English, Page 118 of the German, a report from Group Remold, dated Group Battle Headquarters, 19 September 1943.

"Subject: Interrogation of the persons arrested by German Security Sentries on 18 June of whom 8 men and 1 woman were shot to death on 19 September 1943." The report is sent from Group Remold to the 1st Mountain Division.

"On Saturday the 18 Sept 43, 60 Greeks (18 men and 42 women) were arrested by our Security Sentries. They came from the villages Vlacheri, Pende Eklisies, Plaketi and Petrovica. They were on their way via the bandit village Seljani in order as they stated to reach Paramythia by the shortest way to visit the market there. These people were picked up by German soldiers on the road Seljani - Paramythia. Another group came from the bandit village of Elatarja and Aj Kiriaki. When these peasants were stopped by our own and the Albanese Security Sentries, about 10 of these people tried to flee; in order to stop or delay those fleeing the Albanese shot at them. At the same moment bandits who had been hiding west of Eleftherochori opened fire on our guards. As a result of the interrogations it was determined, that several of the arrested took care of the supply of the bandits, back and forth along the line Plaketi - Rachestiva - monastery Panajias Paramythia. The supplies were deposited in the monastery Panajia and were taken over there by the bandits. At times up to 300 bandits were supposed to have sojourned in the monastery Panajias. Of these prisoners 8 men and 1 woman were shot. The rest of the prisoners, 35 women and 10 men are employed for road building."

I call Your Honor's attention to the preceding sentence and the words, "As a result of the interrogations it has determined." On the bottom of the document the receipt stamp of the 1st Mountain Division shows that this report was received by them on the 21st of September 1943. Turning next to page 95 of the English, page 120 of the German is a report from the 1st Mountain Division to the 22nd Mountain Corps, dated the 23rd of September 1943. "During a mopping-up operation on 22nd September east of Kompoti (southeast of Arta) 8 civilians were surprised whilst they were making entrenchments and were shot to death."

And turning next to page 96 of the English, page 121 of the German, is a report from the 2nd Security Company, dated 24 September 1943 about armed reconnaissance against the place Bratovice on 23rd of September 1943.

I. Situation By means of interrogations of civilians it became known that in Bratovice, a mountain village situated about 12 kilometers south of Bilishte, an ammunition dump of the bandits was said to be located.

This ammunition was said to have been left behind by the withdrawing Italian troops and brought to Bratovice via Hocište by the bandits. No details were known about the strength of the bandits in the area of Bratovice.

II. Decision Based on this situation, I decided to carry out an armed reconnaissance against Bratovice.

III. Carrying out On 23 September 43 I loaded 4 NCO's and 80 men onto 2 trucks and drove with them along the road Bilishte - Bozhigrad as far as a point 6 kilometers south of Bilishte.

I fixed the departure from Bilishte at 0200 hours in the night, because I wanted to reach Bratovice whilst it was still dawn. As I had intended, I succeeded in this fashion in surprising the enemy. The first armed bandits appeared only when my advance unit had reached the end of the village lying opposite to the side of attack. In a short skirmish they were taken care of. During the searching of the houses which I immediately ordered, single civilians armed and also unarmed, tried again and again, to flee under the protection of ledges and garden walls. This, however, was prevented since I had assigned 2 groups west and east of the village as a security measure. In 5 houses, rifles, ammunition and smaller objects of equipment of Italian origin were found. These houses were burn down. At first I could not find the ammunition dump.

By means of energetic interrogations of civilians my attention was drawn to the school house in which there was a comparatively well equipped medical collecting station, consisting of 10 complete field beds and a medicine cabinet. The cellar was locked from the outside. In order to camouflage the entrance to the cellar the bandits kept a horse before it. When the cellar was entered, several shots were suddenly fired from the inside. In spite of repeated challenges the bandits did not leave the cellar not even when we shot at them with rifles; I also had hand grenades thrown in. In order to avoid losses, I ordered the whole school house to be set on fire, where upon I heard several pistol shots and the detonation of a hand grenade. When the fire had taken hold of the cellar also the detonations continued for more than an hour.

Here must have been, in addition to rifle ammunition and hand grenades, explosives or trench mortar ammunition, to, as a side wall of the cellar was completely torn out. In one house a German rifle explosive grenade was also found. The mopping up of the village had already taken up so much time that I had to assume that the bandits would assemble and cut off our retreat. Therefore I chose a different way from the road approach.

And the report is signed by Hiller. And I believe there is omitted from the German reference that Hiller is a lieutenant and an officer in charge of a company. Turning next to page 99 of the English page 124 of the German, is Document No. NOKW-865, which becomes Prosecution's Exhibit No. 451.

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: Is that not 452?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I beg your pardon, Your Honor; it is 452. This is an order from the 22nd Mountain Corps to its subordinate unit, the 1st Mountain Division. It is dated 24 September 1943. "To the Division Commander, The Corps informs." Of course, the Corps Commander, at that time, was the Defendant Lanz. "By order of higher authority, no prisoners are to be taken during operation 'Verrat' (treason)," signed 1st Mountain Division.

And the teletype to the Mountain Jaeger Regiment 99, a subordinate unit of the 1st Mountain Division, and then an informational copy to the Divisional Commander, Igumenica. "For operation 'Verrat' there will be brought up to Igumenica on 24.9 evening: 1 Company 2nd Regiment Brandenburg (South Tyrolians)." If your Honor, please, the 2nd Brandenburg Regiment is a German unit, but for this operation the 1st Company, 2nd Regiment Brandenburg (South Tyrolians) were "in Italian uniform and with Italian arms."

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Next, the order of the 1st Mountain Division, dated 18 September 1943, "Use care while telephoning; the enemy is listening," which appears at the top of the divisional order which again concerns this particular operation, given the code name "Verrat." It the pursuance of treason, the like of which history has never seen, which the Italian government has committed against Germany, the Italian Commander of Corfu decided to stop the occupation of the its land Corfu by German troops by force of arms. Since 13.9, German planes flying over the island, and on 15.9 that Combat Group Dodel, which had put to sea for the occupation of the island, had been fired upon.

Thereby the garrison of the Island of Corfu, which consists mainly of the 18th Italian Infantry Regiment, has joined hands with cowardly treason, and even beyond that, has gone over to the side of our enemy in open combat. Details of the garrison - see sketch. (Changes in the garrison are possible and probable). And the order is signed von Stettner, who at that time was the Commanding General in the 1st Mountain Division. Turning next to Page 102 of the English, Page 126 of the German, is Document No. NOKW-867, which becomes Prosecution's Exhibit No.453. These are orders from the 1st Mountain Division to subordinate units, and from the 22nd Mountain Corps to the 1st Mountain Division, which relate to reprisal measures for the death of a regimental commander, subordinate to the 1st Mountain Division. The first is dated, 1st Mountain Division, Division Headquarters, 27 September 1943.

Division Order for Mopping up of Coastal Sector to Saranda - Delvinon.

(Operation "Spaghetti")

Enemy:

In the coastal sector from Donispol to Saranda and near Delvinon, weaker Albanian bands, partly communists party nationalists. The southern most band center is Konispol. In the area of Delvinon, about 4,000 armed Italians were negotiating concerning the surrender of their arms to the bands on 20.9. In the area of Saranda about 2,000 Italians are said to have surrendered their arms to the bands. It may be assumed that the majority of the Italians has gone aboard meanwhile in Saranda and has been taken either to Corfu or southern Italy.

And then the units to be committed for this operation are listed. We turn to Page 103 of the English, Page 127 of the German, to Paragraph 6 of the division's order, which refers to Method of Warfare: The enlistment of the nationalist bands for cooperation with the Germans requires the extensive employment of Albanian middlemen and the preservation of Albanian possessions from destruction and pillaging.

Armed people bearing a hostile attitude are to be shot on the spot. Villages from which firing takes place or where armed enemies are found, are to be burned down. The male population of these villages is to be arrested. In the remaining villages, hostages are to be arrested (mayor, Teacher). They are responsible with their lives for the peacefulness of the local population. And the order is signed Stettner; he was the Commanding General of the 1st Mountain Division. Next, on Page 104 of the English, Page 127 of the German, is a Corps Order of the Day, issued by General Lanz, who was Commanding General of the 22nd Mountain Corps. The order is dated 1st of October 1943. I want to express my sincere and deep condolences to my old First Mountain Division for the gr, loss experienced tonight when the Commander of the 98th Mountain Jaeger Regiment, Lieutenant Colonel Salminger, was killed by bandits.

I expect that the First Mountain Division will avenge this nefarious bandit murder of one of our best leaders by a ruthless reprisal action within a circumference of 20 km. of the place where the murder occurred. The order is signed, "The Commanding General, Lanz." If Your Honors will bear in mind the date of this order, the 1st of October 1943, we shall have occasion, later on, in this document book, to introduce evidence relating to the reprisal actions which were, in fact, taken to avenge the murder of the regiment commander. Turning next to Page 106 in the English, Page 129 of the German, is Document No. NOKW-909, which becomes Prosecution's Exhibit No. 454. These are a series of reports from subordinate units of the 1st Mountain Division, and also reports of the 22nd Mountain Corps.

I think we need not read the first few of these reports, but turn to Page 109 of the English and Page 131 of the German. And on that page is found a report from the 1st Mountain Division, dated Divisional Headquarters, 29th September 1943, to the Corps Headquarters, 22nd Mountain Corps, Daily Report of 29th September:

2) Enemy:

Group Haken:

Bands destroyed the telephone poles Arta - Philippas and Mendid in night of 28 and 29 Sept. During counter measures which were carried out immediately the 2nd Company of the 54 A.A. arrested 30 male civilians who were found in the area without identification papers and were hiding in the cellars-- of Neovori and Kompoti. All these civilians were shot to death. The report is signed "For Division Headquarters, For the 1st General Staff Officer." The next page, Page 110 of the English, Page 132 of the German, Evening Report of the unit, 29th September 1943:

98th Mountain Jaeger Regiment

b) On the Line Afrtae - Menidi 16 ples were cut down with hatchets 3 kilometers south of Arta. Some of the wires were carried off. An immediate search by the 2nd Company of the 54th A.A. south of Arta brought the arrest, as already reported, of 15 male civilians without identification papers in the morning and 30 in the afternoon. The civilians were arrested in the abandoned villages of Neovori and Kompoti as well as in Brushwood of the vicinity and were turned over to the Local Administrative Headquarters. All Civilians were shot to death.

At 1230 hours a light motor boat entered the port.

Armament: Two 8.8 guns.

(page 12 of original And the report of the 3rd Battalion of the 99th Regiment:

In Paranythia 50 Greeks were shot to death as reprisal measure for the raid on 20 Sept on a reconnaissance troop west of reference point 124. 149 Italian prisoners set out toward Bisdumi.

Next, on page 111 of the English, Page 132 of the German, Noon Report of the unit of the 98th Mountain Jaeger Regiment. "As reprisal for the sabotage of the telephone line, 17 civilians were already shot to death." Next, the report on the same incident from the 1st Mountain Division to Corps Headquarters for the 30th of September 1943, under 98th Mountain Haeger Regiment, "As reprisal measure for sabotage of the telephone line 17 civilians were shot to death at dawn." Next, on Page 112 of the English, Page 133 of the German, a report of the 1st Mountain Division to General Lanz, who is Commander of the 22 Mountain Corps, dated the 2nd of October 1943. And I believe in the German Document Book the reference to the two groups listed are reversed. In the English Document Book: Group Haken: The attack of Group Haken was not successful against the enemy who was being reinforced. Of 10 pollboxes which were discovered, 3 were destroyed during had to hand combat. About 40 Bandits were killed. Losses: 1 killed in combat, 16 wounded.

Group Eisl: Has mopped up the area of Akmototpos. Peta is free of the enemy. During the mopping up operation in the area east of Arta the village, of Psychorrachi (7 kilometers southeast of Arta) was burned down and 5 civilians shot to death as reprisal measure.

Next, on Page 113 of the English, Page 134 of the German, Evening Report of the 98 Mountain Jaeger Regiment. "RECENTLY an exceptionally strong recruiting for bandits could be observed among the civilian population. During the mopping up operation in the area east of Arta the village Peychorrachi (7 kilometers southeast of Arta) was burned." Next, the report from the 1st Mountain Division to 22nd Mountain Corps Headquarters, dated 3 October 1943.

Captain Spindler together with couriers on motor bikes and single soldiers succeeded, in spite of rather strong enemy in the flanks, in breaking through to the height west of the defile near the Shepez ruins and through the defile to Tepelene, Tepelene was occupied and villages east of the road were burned down. The enemy continues to occupy with strong forces the height west of the Shepez Ruins.

And then going to that portion of the report dealing with activities of the Group Dodel, in the middle of Page 114 of the English, Page 135 of the German, "Fuehrer decree No. 1 was carried out on 16 officers." Next, Page 115 of the English, Page 135 of the German, is another report of the 1st Mountain Division to 22nd Division Headquarters again dated 3 October 1943:

At about 0900 hours a surprise attack by bandits on as escort motor bike acting as protection for the Commanding General on trip to Prewesa 13 kilometer south of Jannina and which and stopped. 1 NCO of the Field Gendarmeries / Corps Staff was found dead, undressed and robbed near the spot where the raid was committed. 4 Hostages were immediately shot as reprisal. Further reprisal measures are being carried out by the 79th Field Replacement Battalion. East of Jeannina lake, in the Struni-Lingiades pack animals of the bandits are at work Immediate counter measures are being carried out by parts of the 79 Field Replacement Battalion. Village being burned down.

And the Division's report to the Corps is signed "For the Division Headquarters, For the 1st General Staff Officer." Next, Page 116 of the English, Page 136 of the German, Evening Report of the unit: "von Hirechfeld: Pass north of Kuc taken. The 1st Battalion of the 99th Regiment withdraws to Kuc along the line 1443,1027,694. Booty taken in combat: Own losses: 2 wounded. No. report as yet from 41st Engineer Detachment. Plans for tomorrow: Push towards the north." And the report of the 54th Jaeger Battalion: "The shooting of 16 Italian officers was carried out." And then, if Your Honors please, is a reference which we have already seen on Page 114 of the English, Page 135 of the German, under the activities of the Group Dodel. Continuing on Page 116 of the English, Page 136 of the German: "Supplementary Report to the Evening Report of the unit: 3 October 1943, 79th Field Replacement Battalion. The 79th Field Replacement Battalion reports the termination be the operation against Lingiades and Strumi. Lingiades and the heights 1015 and 1277 were taken against weak enem resistance. %0 civilians, some of whom had been hiding in houses, were shot to death.

The village was burned down."

Turn next to page 117 of the English, 137 of the German, another report from the 1st Mountain Division to General Lanz, XXII Mountain Corps Headquarters:

3 kilometers north of Theriakision attack by bands on convoy of General Lanz. 1 Field Gardarne dead and robbed, counter measures in progress up to now 4 civilians shot to death.

In the morning heavy supply traffic between Struni (2 kilometers northeast of Jeannina) and Lingjades. As counter measure villages burned down. Final report not yet available.

Finally on page 118 of the English, 137, a report from General Lanz himself, the Commanding General of XXII Mountain Corps, dated Local Headquarters, 3 Oct. 1943.

Again beginning with the records of General Lanz, Commanding General of the XXII Mountain Corps to the subordinate units, the order dated 3 October, 1943:

On account of the repeated cable sabotage in the area of Arta:

30 distinguished citizens (Greeks) from Arta, 10 distinguished citizens (Greeks) from Filipias, are to be arrested and kept as hostages.

The population is to be notified that for every further cable sabotage 10 of these 40 hostages will be shot to death.

The arrest, guarding and shooting to death will be directed by the Commander of the Reconnaissance Detachment, 54, Major Seidl. The order to shoot to death will be given by the Headquarters of the Division.

The order is signed, in type script, "Lanz."

Your Honors will note the distribution list of the order: "Commander of the Reconnaissance Detachment 54, 98th Mountain Jaeger Regiment," and Division Ic, or Intelligence Officer.

Page 119 of the English and 138 of the German, is another report of the 1st Mountain Division, dated 4 October 1943:

"South Albania: In the Afternoon the group Spindler inspite of strong enemy resistance, broke through the defile near the Shepez ruins and broke through the Tepelene in spite of flanking fire. The villages east of the road were burned down. The enemy continues to hold with strong forces the heights west of the Shepez ruins. In Tepelene 40 bandits were shot to death.

.....

The mopping up operation Struni-Lingiades on the northeast bank of the Jannina lake terminated. Lingiades burned down. The heights 1015 and 1277 taken against weak enemy resistance. 50 persons suspected of being bandits shot to death. Ammunition stock of bands blown up. 20 pack donkeys captured."

Page 120 of the English, 138 of the German, another report of the 1st Mountain Division to the XXII Mountain Corps, dated 4 October 1943:

"By our own mopping up operation east of the road Jannina -Filippias the entire area up to the Arachtes valley cleaned of bandits. Those bandits who could not be brought to battle, retreated into the Arachtes valley. By the destruction of nearly all the villages, they were deprived of their livelihood in the area road Jeannina-Filippias-Arachtes valley. In spite of this through mopping up, one must reckon with further acts of sabotage and raids, since, according to creditable statements of civilians and captured bandits, the majority of the band groups existing in this area, is distributed along the Arachtes valley and east of it.

.....

3).....

1st Battalion of the 99th Mountain Jaeger Regiment mopped up Kue in the course of the afternoon. Reconnaissance to Kalarati. Large amount of booty the entire group von Hirschfeld (is still being sorted out, supplementary report will follow).Own losses:

2 dead, 12 wounded."

I think we may skip over the next report, an ordinary operation of a tactical nature.

Turning to page 132 of the English, 139 of the German, for the report of the 1st Mountain Division to the XXII Corps, dated 4 October, 1943:

Mopping up operation Eisl continue beyond Akmotopos. Villages destroyed as reprisal measure. All civilians shot to death.

.....

g) Along the supply road Jannina- Arta the male population of the neighboring villages employed. In case of further attacks or acts of sabotage the hostages will be shot."

At the bottom of the page 122 of the English, 140 of the German, an additional report from the 1st Mountain Division to General Lanz's XXII Mountain Corps Headquarters dated 4 October under paragraph 2 of the report, the section dealing with the activities of the combat group Dodel, "Group Eisl destroyed Akmotopos (9 kilometers northeast of Filippias) completely as reprisal measure.

All civilians were shot to death.

3)Owing to strong bandit activity on the supply road Arta, strengthened defenses on the road Joannina, Tani Awgo, were installed by the Administrative Headquarters Joannina, Tani Awgo, were installed by the Administrative Headquarters Joannina.

Furthermore the male civilian population of the surrounding villages was employed as protection for the supply road. In case of raids and –or acts of sabotage a corresponding number of hostages from the population will be called to account from time to time."

May I direct your Honors' attention to the phrase "a corresponding number of hostages from the population will be called to account from time to time."

Next the report from Administrative Headquarters Joannina, dated 4 October 1943, reference: operation Serwiana-Aetorrachi, the report sent to the 1st Mountain Division, the Ia, or Operations Officer.

"The operation was carried out today as ordered. Motor transport to Serwiana without special occurrences. At 0530 hours near Pt. Ilias, three and half kilometers southeast of Serwiana, Company Progl was shot at by 2 light machine guns and about 10 riflemen. The bands defended themselves from summit to summit in a delaying way, so that the Company reached Aetorrachi only at 1000 hours. The enemy resistance was especially strong on the height 1058, 1 kilometer west of Aetorrachi there were also entrenchments. The enemy resistance was broken by the use of an Infantry gun and trench mortar. Aetorrachi was largely evacuated by the population, whose retreat towards the east into the Arachthes valley could be observed, not however combatted as the distance was too large. Along the line of the height 1058 to 851 the bandits used 6 light, 1 heavy machine gun and an 8 centimeter trench mortar.

The villages Aetorrachi, Rawnes, Skala, Keyfowen were destroyed and burned down. Of about 30 persons some were killed in combat, some were shot to death. The same number was captured and delivered to the prisoner collection point."

Turning next to page 128 of the English, 143 of the German, I believe the intervening reports are similar to those which we have already read into the record. They contain a good deal of operational and tactical matters, which are of no particular importance in view of the other documents which have already been introduced.

This is on page 138 of the English and 143 of the German, as a report to the Corps Headquarters, XXII Mountain Corps, for the 5th of October, 1943.

"South Albania:.....

The area east of the road Jannina - Filippias up to Archtes valley in principle cleaned of bandits. All villages burned down in order to deprive, the bandits of a means of livelihood" Next the report of the 1st Mountain Division to General Lanz:

at XXII Mountain Corps Headquarters, dated 6 October 1943:

"In the area southeast of Arta the 2nd Company of the 54 Artillery Battalion burned down 2 villages as reprisal for the activities of bands during the last few days".

Next is the report of the 1st Mountain Division. I beg your pardon, special instructions of the 1st Mountain Division, dated the 5th of October, 1943, section of the order dealing with hostages:

"In so far as hostages are taken from the prisoner collection camp for truck trips, they are to be returned to the prisoner collection camp immediately the trip is terminated. The unit which collects them is responsible for their being guarded."

The order is signed for the Divisional Battalion Headquarters the 1st General Staff Officer. The distribution list of the order is indicated as having been in draft.

Next on page 129 of the English, 145 of the German, is a report from Secret Field Police Group 621:

"Command at the 1st Mountain Division," This report is dated 5 October 1943, and relates to the operation in connection with the murder of Lt. Colonel Salminger, the Regimental Commander subordinate to the 1st Mountain Division.

Your Honors will recall that on page 104 of the English, and page 127 of the German, in a corps order of the day, dated 1 October, 1943, General Lanz said that he expected that the 1st Mountain Division would avenge the nefarious bandit murder of the regimental commander Salminger. This is a report now dated 5 October 1943, four days after General Lanz's order with reference to the same affair.

"Subject: Surprise attack by bandits on Lieutenant Colonel Salminger and the ensuing operation with Captain Eisl into the eastern territory of bands around Klisura."

In the night of 30 Sept/ 1 Oct. the bandits had committed acts of sabotage on the telephone lines. For a distance of about 6 kilometers they had cut off, hacked off or blown to pieces the telephone poles. The bridge security across the Lures stream had been kept under fire by the bandits. About 4 kilometers away from this bridge security the bandits had fastened 4 telephone wires across the road and furthermore had used a telephone pole to block the road. The car of Lieutenant Colonel S. ran into this blockade at full speed and as a result of the rebound, skidded into the Luros stream. He was found in the water about 50 meters below the wire blockade since at this spot the stream was dammed up artificially by shrubbery and stones, the dam was cleared away and the water let out. The car had received a shot in the hood and on the right side of the windshield. The driver of Lieutenant Colonel S was found dead under the car, he had a shot in the abdomen and his left half of his face was smashed in by the accident. Both persons were recovered and brought to Pravesa by the unit."

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will be recessed at this time.

(A recess was taken until 1330 hours.)

Court No. V, Case No. VII.

AFTERNOON SESSION The hearing reconvened at 1330 hours.

THE MARSHALL: The persons in the Courtroom will be seated.

The Tribunal is again in session

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Fenstermacher, before you commence your presentation of further documents, the Tribunal has certain rulings to announce.

The first ruling is in connection with the application by defense counsel for approval of a trip to the document center, War Department, Washington, D.C., and the main portion of the ruling is as follows:

"The Tribunal has under consideration the application of the defendants for permission to send two commissioners to Washington, D.C., for the purpose of examining original documents stored there from which excerpts and parts of documents have been offered in evidence in support of the allegations of the indictment by the prosecution.

"We find that the statement of the defense is true to the effect that certain excerpts and parts of documents taken from the captured War Diaries of the German Army have been tendered and received in evidence by the prosecution. We find also that the War Diaries, or so much thereof as was captured by the American Army, have been transported to Washington, D.C., or its environs. We find also, as alleged by the prosecution, that a large number of documents in excess of those received in evidence, have been made available to the defense.

"It is the considered opinion of this Tribunal, however, that a right exists on the part of the defense to examine any or all of the portions of the War Diaries and documents from which excerpts and portions of documents bearing upon the "same subject matter have been taken, more particularly described as the War Diaries of the 12th Army and the Army Southeast, Army Group F, Army Group E, 2nd Panzer Army, and corps and divisions subordinate thereto; and that such right of examination is not adequately protected by the assertion of the prosecution that "it has been constantly emphasized to members of the prosecution's research staff in Washington that photostatic copies of all documents having a substantial bearing on the case, whether helpful or harmful to the defense, must be sent to Nurnberg.

The statement constitutes an insufficient answer to the application for two reasons: (a) the defense is not obliged to rely upon the judgment of the prosecution and its research staff as to whether any document or portion thereof has any substantial bearing on the case, and (b), that it would be impossible for the prosecution and its research staff to properly appraise the credibility and relevancy of such material without knowledge of the precise defense to be made to the charges of the indictment.

"It is the order of the Tribunal, therefore, that the War Diaries, documents and instruments from which documentary evidence has been taken and offered in evidence by the prosecution be made available to the defendants (a) by permitting an examination of such documents by designated representatives of the defendants in Washington, D.C., or (b) by transporting such documents to Nurnberg for examination by the Defense, or (c) for failure of the United States to so do, it will be presumed that the evidence withheld which could have been produced or made available to the defendants, would be unfavorable to the prosecution."

The following ruling is also presented for the Tribunal in connection with an application for the production of War Diary of the LXIX Reserve Army Corps from August 1943 to March 1944.

"Upon consideration of the above referred to application the tribunal finds as follows:

"That Article IV, subsection F, of ordinance 7 of the military government of Germany, relative to the organization and powers of certain military tribunals, is as follows:

"A defendant may apply in writing to the Tribunal for the production of witnesses or of documents. The application shall state where the witness or document is thought to be located and shall also state the facts to be proved by the witness or the document and the relevancy of such facts to the defense. If the tribunal grants the application, the defendant shall be given such aid in obtaining production of evidence as the tribunal may order."

"The tribunal further finds that in the application as presented there is no statement set forth as to what state of facts are sought to be proved by the document sought and as to their relevancy as bearing upon the defense of the defendant, Ernest Dehner.

"The tribunal therefore finds that the application of the defendant, Ernest Dehner as made by his counsel, Hans Marx, under date of June 24, 1947 should be denied."

Dated this 14th day of August, 1947, and signed by the members of the Tribunal.

I am handing the original of these two rulings to the Deputy Secretary General.

You may proceed, Mr. Fenstermacher, with presentation of further documentary evidence.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If it please the Tribunal, prior to luncheon recess, we were working at a report of the Secret Field Policy Group 621 which referred to the attack made by bandits on Lt. Colonel Salminger, the Regimental Commander subordinate to the 1st Mountain Division, which was in turn subordinate to the XXII Mountain Corps under the command of the defendant Lanz.

I think we were on page 131 of the English and page 145 of the German. Continuing on the bottom of page 131 of the English, page 146 of the German, with the report:

"The place from which the bandits had fired on the car, could also be determined. Several empty cartridges were found there, they were of Italian origin.

"On 1 Oct 43 the headquarters of the secret Field Police was notified by the Ic of the 1st Mountain Division that on the state road Jannina - Arta, Lieutenant Colonel Salminger had been attacked by Bandits and had been kidnapped. The attack was carried out on 1 Oct between 0200 and 0300 hours about 3 Kilometers north of the Village Klisura. At a conference with the Ic the latter ordered that confidential agents be sent into the bandit territory of Klisura to determine the whereabouts of the kidnapped Lieutenant Colonel S. The same day a spy was sent into that area. Up until today no trace of this person has been found and it must be assumed that he was captured by the bandits. Furthermore the Ic ordered, that a member of the Secret Field Police, able to speak the Greek language, was to be assigned to the battle H.Q.s of Captain Eisl in Klisura, in order to interrogate on the spot prisoners captured during the coming searching operation, and possibly to send out spies (A-Persons).

"On 1 Oct 43 the undersigned was assigned to the battle H.Q.s of Captain Eisl and arrived at 1330 hours at Klisura, Captain Eisl to whom I reported, notified me, that Lieutenant Colonel S. was not kidnapped, but had been found dead during the morning. The immediate examination of the place of the accident gave the following results:

Court No. V, Case No. VII.

"As Captain Eisl had to undertake a further operation into the eastern part of the bandit territory of Klisura and as my orders ordered me to interrogate the captured prisoners on the spot and to sent off spies, I participated in the operation. Already in the evening of the 1 Oct 43 we could determine from the battle H.Q.s Klisura, that in the mountains in the east there was a lively patrol action on the part of the bandits. Captain Eisl could not give an order to fire because the distance was too great.

"On 2 Oct 43, 0500 hours, the march into the eastern mountains commenced. The villages N Kura, Gorgomyles, Markates and Muliana which had already been burned down during a former operation has been abandoned by the population. In the mountain range situated east of these villages however, human beings in flight could be seen. However we could not determine whether they were bandits of civilians. Captain Eisl however ordered the mountain riflemen to shoot on the persons in flight: hits were observed. As a result of the combing out of the villages mentioned, Athanasies Stasis a Greek was captured and interrogated. He refused to make any statement; but drew attention to the fact that further east a great many bandits were grouped. In agreement with Captain Eisl, he was used as a guide. In the village of Akmotopos he tried to escape, and was therefore shot to death. When the Germans approached the village of Akmotopos, they received fire from both sides, when the fire was returned, the bandits fled. A heavy maching gun and a light machine gun entrenchment were discovered. From this village too, all inhabitants have gone into the mountains. The houses are being burned down, the "cattle which cannot be used by the troops, is being killed, in order to prevent the bandits from seizing it later on.

From this village a patrol unit was sent in a southerly direction. This unit encountered 15 civilians who did not stop when challenged and therefore were shot to death. When searched neither arms nor papers were found. On its way back, this patrol unit arrested the Greek woman Maria Sofu, she refused to make any statement and did not even give her native village. She was also shot to death.

"On 3 Oct 43 the operation was continued in a northerly direction. The high plan of N Kura was crossed. Shortly before Anogion newly constructed bandit positions were sighted, which however were not occupied. During the continued course of the operation the villages Agios Georgios and Rapsai, which had also been abandoned by the population, were burned down. In the last named village a prisoner, who had hid himself in a cellar of his house was captured, since he refused to make any statements, he was shot to death. This Greek was the miner, Stefan Vrissos.

"4 Oct 43: The operation was terminated on 3 Oct 43. At the oral report at the 98th Regiment Captain Eisl asked for the cooperation of the undersigned. On the same day I returned to Headquarters since my task was completed.

Olbricht" Next is the report from the Secret Field Police Group 621, Local Headquarters, 6 October 1943, to the Ic of the 1st Mountain Division, which in turn sends a report on to the XXII Mountain Corps.

Your Honors will note in the lower right hand corner of the document the receipt stamp of the XXII Mountain Corps Headquarters dated 10 October 1943, page 134 of the English and 141 of the German:

"Enclosed report of the Secret Field Police Jaannina for information and request to return after use."

And the XXII Mountain Corps returns the report on the 11th of October 1943;

"and with permission of the 1st Mountain Division sent back after acknowledgement for the General Headquarters Commander of the General Staff," And it is noted, "Received 12 October 1943."

We now turn to page 136 of the English, 149 of the German, document NOKW 864 which becomes Prosecution Exhibit 455. This document is a series of reports from the 1st Mountain Division to the XXII Mountain Corps. The first page of the document contains: File Notes for the Commanding General, and the date is 19 October 1943, written in hand:

"Arrests in the Divisional Area: 766 persons

Page 138 of the English and 149 of the German is the Unit Evening Report for 19 October 1943 of the 99 Jaeger Regiment, which was subordinate at this time to the 1st Mountain Division.

"8 bandits captured by reconnaissance patrol from Kanallakion to point 402/45. 4 shot to death. 1 priest, who was with the bandits, shot while trying to escape."

Turn next to page 139 of the English and 150 of the German; I direct your Honors' particular attention to this order. It is an order of the 1st mountain Division dated 25 October 1943:

"Special directives pertaining to Intelligence Work No. 9:"

Your Honors will recall at this time the 1st Mountain Division is subordinate to the XXII Mountain Corps commanded by the defendant Lanz. Earlier this morning I asked your Honors when we were considering page 83 of the English Document Book, page 109 of the German Document Book, Document 1104, which was offered as Prosecution Exhibit 451, to note the date of that particular order of the 1st Mountain Division which was 13 September 1943. It, too, contained special instructions for the Ic area and in that order there was a directive that ten Greeks be killed for each German soldier wounded and killed by insurgents or civilians. I now refer to this order on page 139 of the English and 150 of the German dated a little bit more than a month later than the first order, this one dated 25 October 1943, an order by the same 1st Mountain Division subordinate to the defendant Lanz.

"Orders issued up to now are changed as follows: (a) If a member of the German Wehrmacht is killed by either attack or murder in a territory considered pacified, 50 Greeks (male) are to be shot for 1 murdered German. Application for the order of execution is to be made through the Military Commander of Greece," Your Honors will recall at this time, 25 October 1943 the Military Commander of Greece was the defendant Speidel.

"who represents the executive power via the Divisional Ic. The unit will safeguard the corresponding number of hostages until the decision arrives.

"b. The decision regarding executions for losses in band combat is made by the competent troop commander. Here also the ratio is 1 to 50. The ore-requisite for the order of execution is indubitable proof that the population of a village has participated in hostile action against the German Wehrmacht. In addition, the villages are to be destroyed.

"c. It is expressly prohibited to ravage villages merely because members of the German Wehrmacht have been shot at from there. The bends frequently follow the tactics of making peaceful villages suspected of being accomplices of the bands so that they may gain recruits from the population which fears German reprisal measures.

"d. The indigenous copulation may be used for the protection of military installations or of these important for the war economy. They are to be made responsible for guarding these installations under the threat of corresponding compulsory measures if they refuse.

"e. The execution ratio of 1 to 10 is ordered in the case of a murder of a pro-German Greek or a Greed working for the Germans.

"2. The German Reich has recognized the independence and liberty of Albania. It is the task of the German Wehrmacht to establish good relations with all loyal Albanians in the interest of a beneficial cooperation. A national Albanian committee has taken over the political leadership of Albania. Together with German authorities, this committee is trying to restore order in the country. The German General Plenipotentiary in Albania, with his office in Tirana, has been appointed as a military authority, with a joint staff, the military commander in Montenegro. Political directives will be issued to him by the special Plenipotentiary of the Fuehrer for Balkan questions.

"3. Escaped and recaptured prisoners of war may be punished only by disciplinary measures. Shooting to death is in contradiction to international law. However, they are to be treated as franc-tireurs if they carry weapons or if they resist recapture.

"4. All prisoners of the enemy Air Force are to be transferred without interrogation to the Divisional Ic for transfer to the competent Luftwaffe authority. All captured documents are to be sent along under seal. All enemy airplanes making emergency landings in the Divisional area, which still contain exploitable instruments are to be guarded by the unit. Any dismantling is to be stopped by all means. The exact location is to be reported to the Divisional Ic.

"5. Subject: Burial of executed, people: It has happened repeatedly that people shot to death for reprisal measures have been uncovered by heavy rainfall. The burial of people shot to death has to take place in prescribed graves."

And the order is signed: "For the Division Hqs.

1st General Staff Officer" The time of this order is 25 October 1943.

1st Mountain Division was subordinate to the XXII Mountain Corps in command of the defendant Lanz. The XXII Mountain Corps in turn was subordinate to Army Group E which itself was subordinate to Army Group F commanded by the defendant Weichs and his chief of staff the defendant Foertsch.

Next on page 142 of the English and 152 of the German, a report of the 1st Mountain Division to the XXII Mountain Corps dated 27 October 1943:

"Preliminary Report on Successes and Captured Material:

Material Captured:

2 heavy machine guns 5 light machine guns numerous rifles (destroyed) approximately 100 rounds of infantry ammunition 40 enemy dead 3 prisoners (shot to death) About 40 villages burned down."

Next on page 143 of the English, 152 of the German, a report of the Combat Group von Hirschfeld to the 1st Mountain Division. The report is dated 28 October 1943 and the receipt stamp is 1st Mountain Division and indicates the report was received at the Divisional Headquarters a day later, on the 29th of October 1943.

"Report of Enemy Situation in the area of Combat Group v. Hirschfeld during operation 'Tiger'. The bands fought in this area in civilian clothing. Mostly they wore blue riding breeches and high boots. All villages along the Arachtes Valley were destroyed. Almost all houses contained supplies of ammunition."

Finally, the report of the 1st Mountain Division to XXII Mountain Corps Headquarters of the 28 of October 1943:

"Enemy - about 100 men strong withdrew from Krania (70 km. north northeast Metszon) in a general northern direction at the approach of our troops. The ammunition dump there was evacuated as much as possible. The village was burned down. 12 men arrested as hostages for cable sabotage in Vangalati (10 Km Northwest Konispol)."

The report is signed: "For Division Headquarters The First General Staff Officer" We turn next to page 145 of the English, 154 of the German, Document NOKW 1133 which becomes Prosecution Exhibit 456.

This is again various orders from the 1st Mountain Division to its subordinate units. The first is dated 20 October 1943.

"For the formation of the convoy the following are to be detached:

The remaining personnel is to be taken from the prisoner collecting camp Braja."

And the order for 1st Mountain Division for 23.10.43.:

"Subject: Formation of an auxiliary carrier-company for Mountain. Main Assembly site 'Tiger'.

1.) Company consists of 60 Italians. Leader: P.F.C. or corporal of the Medical Corps."

If your Honors please the report now relates to the first order directing that personnel for this convoy be taken from the prisoner collecting camp at Braja.

"2.) Collection of the 60 Italians with trucks. Divisional supply leader from the prisoner of war camp Braja. Detachment detailed to collect to report on 24.10 at 0600 hours to the advance message center von Eyb, Joannina.

"3.) Equipment of the Italians. Each man must at least have one field-pack.

"4.) IVc detail at least 6 pack animals for the transportation of the wounded. Collection by the Italian carrier company from the horse Assembly Point Joannina by 24 Oct. 08.00.

"5.) Weapons and equipment department provides the improvised pack and saddle equipment (local-type saddles.) Fitting of saddles on the pack animals, in the arsenal after the horses have been collected.

"6.) Provisioning: The carrier company is dependant on the Mountain. Main assembly site for food supplies. When assembling it is to take along food rations for 3 days."

The order is signed, "For Divisional Hqs.

The second General Staff officer."

Turn finally to page 147 of the English and 156 of the German, Document NOKW 959, which becomes Prosecution Exhibit 457. These are various reports from subordinate units, with General Lanz as Commander of the XXII Mountain Corps. The first is a report from the Mountain Jaeger Field Replacement Battalion 79, to 1st Mountain Division, received 1st Mountain Division on 6 November 1943.

"Report on the Band Situation in the Area of Korca

1.) Band Area I, Dibar, Labinoti, Qävemolle, Approximately 200 bandits coming from the direction of Dibar attacked the town major's office Xicevo and kidnapped the staff (45 kilometers North of Orid Ochridasee) on 1.11.

at 0530 hours.

2.) Band Area III. Voxkopje, Vithuqi.

According to reports by confidential agents about 200 to 300 bandits are said to have spent the night from 2nd to 3rd November 1943 in Goskova - Vlocan Melcan (10 kilometers West Northwest Korca). I, Battalion/Brandenburg thrust ahead toward Voskop (9 kilometers West of Korca) on 3.11. It met strong resistance. Voskop was burned down, 30 persons between the ages of 18 and 60 were shot to death.

4.) The Battalion requests information whether the 8 hostages, held for interpreter Walter Jennewin (report of 31.10.43) may be hanged.

Ic ko (handwritten initials)" Next the "Report on total Captured Material III.

/Mountain Infantry Regiment 98 "Puma" November '43/2000 hours.

8 villages destroyed among them main base point district Points 422, 530, 536.

1 tent camp near 530 destroyed."

The various losses are listed. I think we need not spend any time on those.

Continuing on page 148 of the English, 151 of the German, a report from the 1st Mountain Division dated 4 November 1943 to Corps Headquarters XXII Mountain Corps:

"The villages of Dragumi (6 kilometers southeast Paramithia) taken against strong enemy resistance. Bandits retired to the gorges, to the west and southwest; village was burned down."

The next is Evening Report of the Unit:

"Mountain Infantry Regiment 99: The village of Dragumi taken against strong enemy resistance at 1400 hours. Enemy forces about 200 men strong, 1 light machine gun, 1 heavy machine gun. Neither men nor animals found in the village. Bandits retired to the gorges west and southwest. When marching off the enemy again pressed after us. The village was burned down."

Next is the evening reports of 4 November 1943, I, II, III battalions of the 99 Regiment:

"Statement of the bandit leaders reported captured in last night's reports:

1.) Zervutochis Konstantino, 51 years old and born in Alexandria, (Egypt) Statement:

I am an insurgent but I did not carry any arms. I only advised Papos regarding the organization of the band. Papos frequently came to my house. I was an insurgent only as long as the Italians were here because I wish to remain a Greek always. If I knew that the Germans would remain here for a longer period I would again become an insurgent, but since I know that they will remain only a short time, I will not be a bandit.

2.) Mathisani Georgo, 46 years old and born in Templona on the Island of Korfu.

Statement: I was with the Papos Band but I was not the Deputy of the insurgent leader. I was in charge of the supply (rations, fodder, ammunition and arms). (Marginal note: With the word when?) I only know that Serenedis, the deputy of Papos, who was born in Potamos and another Rebel Leader Giovanni, as well as Koshinos, Kuranades, are said to be on the Island.

They continue to command the band and are recruiting new people. Everything else will be reported in writing tomorrow.

During the transfer from Korfu to Igumenica one priest of the Greek Catholic church and one civilian were shot while trying to escape."

Turning next to the report at the bottom of the page 150 of the English 160 of the German:

"Final Report Operation Mountain Infantry Regiment 99:

"Village and ridge southeast of Prodromi taken against weak enemy resistance about 1400 hours About 1530 hours the attack was advanced on Dragumi and Ridge 586. Houses still standing after the last battle were set on fire.

The villages of Karijot, Velianti, Prodromi and Dragumi, which were supply bases for the bandits during the winter, were eliminated thereby."

Next a report of the 1st Mountain Division dated 3 November 1943 to Field Gendarmerie Detachment 54 rather this in an order of the division to the detachment, rather than a report:

"1.) The Greek Niko Bakola is to be shot to death for aiding and abetting bands. The execution is to take place unobtrusively. Execution report to Division Ic. The carrying out of the death penalty is to be made public.

2.) The 3 Italians: Severi, Francesco Campanella, Calogero Pirino, Benetton are to be transported to Florina as prisoners of war with an Italian transport.

Proper papers are to be made out.

3.) The member of the Italian Wehrmacht, Furnerie, Francesco is to be shot to death because he is suspected of belonging to a band. Execution report to Division Ic.

4.) The Greek Johannis Itos is to be shot to death for prohibited possession of arms and for aiding and abetting the bands. Execution report to Division Ic."And, the order is indicated as having been received by the Field Gendarmerie Detachment a day after the order is dated, that is to say on the 4 November 1943.

Page 152 of the English, and 161 of the German is the order which the Field Gendarmerie Detachment, - a report which the Field Gendarmerie Detachment 54 sent to the 1st Mountain Division Ic, or Intelligence Officer, on the 8 November 1943, five days after it received the divisional order.

"Subject: Order 1. Mountain Division Ic of 3.11.1943.

The Greek Nikola Bakola The Greek Johannis Itos The Italian Francesco Furnerie were shot to death today at 1700 hours.

They were properly interred with proper regard of all cautionary measures."

Next, on page 152 of the English and 162 of the German is a proclamation. It refers to the same incident:

"Proclamation The population is informed that the following persons were shot to death:

1.) Niko Bakola, born 1915, trade: carpenter; residence: Jannina, Villar Street 50. He was convicted of:

- a) Asking Italian soldiers to fight against the German Wehrmacht.
- b) Recruiting Italian soldiers to serve with the bandits.
- c) Attempting to purchase arms and ammunition for the bandits.
- d) Anti-German propaganda."

"2.) Johannis Itos from Greveniti Reason:

Prohibited possession of arms."

Next the report of the "Mountain Jaeger Field Replacement Battalion 79 To 1st Mountain Division Ic., report dated 8 November 1943 Enclosed the Field Replacement Battalion submits a delivery slip concerning 20 kilogram of bread for the Revenge Battalion Hakmaye (Leader Petri Dume) which was found in the possession of Ismael Asim of Turan (West of Korca) who was a member of the Revenge Battalion Hakmaye.

Ismael Asim was shot to death according to martial law on 6.11.1943."

Next is the report of the "Mountain Jaeger Field Replacement Battalion 79."

dated 8 November 1943, to 1st Mountain Division:

"Subject: Reprisals for the Albanian Walter Jennewein."

Your Honors will recall that on page 147 of the English 146 of the German, and dated 4 November 1943 this same Mountain Jaeger Field Replacement Battalion 79 requested information whether the 8 hostages held for interpreter Walter Jennewein had been hanged. Now, on page 153 of the English, and 163 of the German, we see the answer, which was given apparently to the battalions enquiring. This is a report of the Battalion to the 1st Mountain Division Ic.

"The reprisals for the Albanian Walter Jennewein were carried out by the 1st Battalion/Brandenburg itself."

"18 persons were shot to death in the neighborhood of Voskop on 6 November 1943."

Next a report from Garrison Headquarters Corfu to the Division Ic, a report dated 5 November 1943.

"Subject: Bringing in of Prisoners." There is a handwritten note: "To the 1st and 2nd Death Penalty Commander."

"The following prisoners are being transferred to Division Ic: Mathiani, Georgio - 46 years old, from Debloni.

He states: I was with the Rebel Band of Pappas. I am not the deputy of the Rebel Leader. I was in charge of the supply (arms, ammunition, rations, fodder) I only know that the deputy of Pappas, Seremedis, (born in Potamos) and another Rebel Leader named Koskinas, Giovanni (born in Kuramades) are here on this Island. They continued to lead the bands and are recruiting people.

Randazzo, Ciro, 27 years old, born in Palermo, Italian soldier.

He states: I have not been with the rebels long and I am not informed regarding the details.

The two bandits, together with a third bandit, were found with loaded rifles in Debloni on 3. Nov. 43. One of the bandits were shot on the spot; the house in which the bandits were found was burned down. Appendix: The suspects named above include a very reputable farmer who has been seized as a hostage.

According to the enclosed report, the priest of the Greek Church, Colida, Spiridione and the Greek Nicokanra, Sebastian who were given over to the 2nd Regiment/99 for transfer to the Division Ic were shot to death while trying to escape."

Finally, a last report on page 155 of the English, 164 of the German, is an order from the 1st Mountain Division to Field Gendarmerie Detachment 54. The Gendarmerie Detachment's receipt stamp for the order appears on the document dated 10 November 1943, one day after the Divisional order is dated.

"Mathiano, Georgio and Randazzo, Ciro are to be shot to death for armed resistance."

And then the report of the Field Gendarmerie Detachment 54 to the 1st Mountain Division indicating it was carried out, the order that was received from the division. This report is dated 10 November 1943.

"Subject: Order 1st Mountain Division Ic of 9 November 1943.

"The Greek Mathiani, Georgio, The Italian Randazzo, Ciro were shot to death at 1700 hours today and properly interred."

And that, if your Honors please, completes the presentation of the documents in Document Book XIX.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, on the occasion of the conclusion of the evidence presented by the prosecution in Document Book XIX, I ask for clarification of the following questions important to the defense.

What is now to be done about the treatment of the subject of the entire contents of the document book or just the parts which have been read out?

THE PRESIDENT: Is your inquiry based upon the result of the ruling made earlier this afternoon?

DR. LATERNSEER: no, your Honor. There is no connection between the two. As defense counsel, I must know what has become subject of the case in order, for example, to be able to judge whether, in connection with any one point, the submission of evidence by the prosecution has, any conclusive value; for, if it is not conclusive, the defense need not go into the point.

Mr. President, my attention is called to the fact that possibly the contents of my statement has been distorted by the translation of the word "schluessig," "conclusive." I mean the following:

I must know what is subject of the case, for only then can I judge whether, for example, the submission by the prosecution of any one complex is sufficient or not and, according to that, the defense has to act. For this reason, I would be very much interested in whether the entire document book has been subject of the proceedings or only those parts of it which have been read out here.

THE PRESIDENT: It is the judgment of the Tribunal that the whole exhibit is and now if you wish to read any portions of it which have not been read by the prosecution, you may do that in your defense, but the entire document is offered, as I understand it, and the prosecution is calling particular attention to certain phases of it.

DR. LATERNSEER: And what is the essential part, Mr. President? Is it what is contained in the document book or the photostat of the exhibit which the prosecution has given to the secretary general?

THE PRESIDENT: If there is any portion of the document which you, as representative of the defense, wish to present to the Tribunal, that is your privilege, along with that which has been submitted to us in the English translation.

THE PRESIDENT: I would suggest that the whole thing that goes to the Secretary General is in evidence.

DR. LATERNSEER: I understand that, your Honor, but if this is so, then the whole exhibit cannot be brought in because it has only been partly translated. In other words, the Tribunal does not, cannot gain an entire impression of the whole exhibit.

THE PRESIDENT: If there are certain portions of it which the defense counsel feel are important to their defense, they have the privilege and it is their right and their duty to see that the matters are presented to the Tribunal.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honors, I shall discuss this matter with my colleagues.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

MR. DENNEY: Your Honors please, I have just handed your Honors a paper which was typed in my office in English which contains the usual all-time advice that is administered to witnesses who are Greek Nationals. If Dr. Laternser wishes, I will be very glad to have this translated into German and submitted to him. May we have a statement on the record to that effect, Doctor?

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honors, that will not be necessary.

MR. DENNEY: Thank you, Doctor.

Your Honors will recall that at the commencement of the trial the first step in the proceedings was the reading of an affidavit by Mr. Niebergall who is presently in the document room. However, I have noted, in going through the documents, that we have occasional documents which are what might be called "anti-Niebergall" and, with that in mind, I should like to read the Coogan affidavit which was used before the International Military Tribunal and will cover such documents as bear the earlier numbers and are taken from the International case and which were developed at that time.

I believe all the defense counsel are familiar with the Coogan affidavit. However, for their convenience I have 11 copies here in German. You may want it for your files -- 3 copies for the Tribunal. I must apologize, your Honors, for the condition of these photostats or mimeographs but the pages are getting rather worn. It has been used so much. Then one in English and German for the interpreters and stenographers, court reporters, and the original one which I have left which I can read is Major Hatfield's copy, so I will give that to him after I have finished.

"19 November 1945." This, if your Honors please, will be assigned perhaps the easiest way would be to call it Exhibit 1-B" and then it will be right next to the Niebergall affidavit which covers the period subsequent to the so-called "Chief of Counsel" which was prior to the present office of "Chief of Counsel for War Crimes."

"19 November 1945.

"I, MAJOR WILLIAM H. COOGAN, 0-455814, Quartermaster Corps, a commissioned officer of the Army of the United States of America, do hereby certify as follows:

"The United States Chief of Counsel in July 1945 charged the Field Branch of the Documentation Division with the responsibility of collecting evaluating and assembling documentary evidence in the European Theater for use in the prosecution of the major Axis war criminals before the International Military Tribunal. I was appointed Chief of the Field Branch on 20 July 1945. I am now the Chief of the Documentation Division, Office of United States Chief of Counsel.

"I have served in the United States Army for more than four years and am a practicing attorney by profession. Based upon my experience as an attorney and as a United States Army officer, I am familiar with the operation of the United States Army in connection with seizing and processing captured enemy documents. In my capacity as Chief of the Document Division Office of the United States Chief of Counsel, I am familiar with and have supervised the processing, filing translation and photostating of all documentary evidence for the United States Chief of Counsel.

"As the Army overran German occupied territory and then Germany itself, certain specialized personnel seized enemy documents, books and records for information of strategic and practical value. During the early stages such documents were handled in bulk and assembled at temporary centers. However, after the surrender of Germany, they were transported to the various document centers established by Army Headquarters in the United States Zone of Occupation. In addition to the documents actually assembled at such document centers, Army personnel maintained and secured considerable documents "insitu" at or near the places of discovery. When such documents were located and assembled they were catalogued by Army personnel into collections and records were maintained which disclosed the source and such other information available concerning the place and general circumstances surrounding the acquisition of the documents.

"The Field Branch of the Documentation Division was staffed by personnel thoroughly conversant with the German language. Their task was to search for and select captured enemy documents in the European Theater which disclosed information relating to the prosecution of the major Axis war criminals. Officers under my command were placed on duty at various document centers and also dispatched on individual missions to obtain original documents. When documents were located, my representatives made a record of the circumstances under which they were found and all information available concerning their authenticity was recorded. Such documents were further identified by Field Branch pre-trial serial numbers, assigned by my representatives who would then periodically dispatch the original documents by courier to the Office of the United States Chief of Counsel.

"Upon receipt of these documents they were duly recorded and indexed. After this operation, they were delivered to the Screening and Analysis Branch of the Documentation Division of the Office of United States Chief of Counsel, which Branch re-examined such documents in order to finally determine whether or not they should be retained as evidence for the prosecutors. This final screening was done by German-speaking analysts on the staff of the United States Chief of Counsel. When the document passed the screeners, it was then transmitted to the Document Room of the Office of United States Chief of Counsel, with a covering sheet prepared by the screeners showing the title or nature of the document, the personalities involved, and its importance. In the Document Room, a trial identification number was given to each document or to each group of documents, in cases where it was desirable for the sake of clarity to file several documents together.

"United States documents were given trial identification numbers in one of five series designated by the letters: "PS", "L", "R", "C", and "EC", indicating the means of acquisition of the documents.

Within each series documents were listed numerically.

"After a document was so numbered, it was then sent to a Germanspeaking analyst who prepared a summary of the document with appropriate references to personalities involved, index headings, information as to the source of the document as indicated by the Field Branch, and the importance of the document to a particular phase of the case. Next, the original document was returned to the Document Room and then checked out to the photostating department, where photostatic copies were made. Upon return from photostating, it was placed in an envelope in one of several fireproof safes in the rear of the Document Room. One of the photostatic copies of the document was sent to the translators, thereafter leaving the original itself in the safe. A commissioned officer has been, and is, responsible for the security of the documents in the safe. At all times when he is not present the safe is locked and a military guard is on duty outside the only door. If the officers preparing the certified translation, or one of the officers working on the briefs, found it necessary to examine the original document, this was done within the Document Room in the section set aside for that purpose. The only exception to this strict rule has been where it has been occasionally necessary to present the original document to the defendants for examination. In this case, the document was entrusted to a responsible officer of the prosecution staff.

"All original documents are now located in safes in the Document Room, where they will be secured until they are presented by the prosecution to the court during the progress of the trial.

"Some of the documents which will be offered in evidence by the United States Chief of Counsel were seized and processed by the British Army. Also, personnel from the Office of the United States Chief of Counsel and The British War Crimes Executive have acted jointly in locating, seizing and processing such documents.

"Substantially the same system of acquiring documentary evidence was utilized by the British Army and the British War Crimes Executive as that hereinabove set forth with respect to the United States Army and the Office of the United States Chief of Counsel.

"Therefore, I certify in my official capacity as hereinabove stated, to the best of my knowledge and belief, that the documents captured in the British Zone of Operations and Occupation, which will be offered in evidence by the United States Chief of Counsel, have been authenticated, translated, and processed in substantially the same manner as hereinabove set forth with respect to the operations of the United States Chief of Counsel.

"Finally, I certify, that all Documentary evidence offered by the United States Chief of Counsel, including those documents from British Army sources, are in the same condition as captured by the United States and British Armies; that they have been translated by competent and qualified translators; that all photostatic copies are true and correct copies of the originals and that they have been correctly filed, numbered and processed as above outlined."

"William H. Coogan, Major, Quartermasters Corps, 0-455814."

If the Court please, I should like to request that the marshal be directed to summon the witness, Nicolas Neris.

THE PRESIDENT: The Marshal will present the witness named to the Tribunal.

DR. SAUTER (Counsel for defendant Lanz); Mr. President, I ask first of all to determine whether the examination of this witness has been announced at all previously. We were given the names of seven witnesses who were supposed to be examined but, if I correctly understood the name of this witness, this witness does not seem to have been previously announced. It might be a good idea to clarify this point.

MR. DENNEY: Do you have the list up there, Major Hatfield, of the witnesses?

If your Honors please, this witness -- notice was sent down on 1 August. The first name of the witness was unknown at the time and I notice now that it is typed here as "Nezis" N e z i s. The address given is: "Police Headquarters, Athens, Greece"; and his occupation as, "Chief of Police", and the nature of his testimony, "Pertaining to the activities of the German occupation troops in Greece during 1941-1945." That was the best information which we had at that time.

DR. SAUTER: A witness Nezis, N e z i s, has been announced. That's true, but a witness, Nicolas Neris has not been announced. If this witness is identical with this police chief Nezis who has been announced to us, then, of course, we would have no objection to the examination of this witness.

MR. DENNEY: I can assure Dr. Sauter that this is the man that is over there, who is purportedly described on page 2 of the notice which was sent him which has: "(Blank) Nezis, Greek, Police Headquarters, Athens, Greece, Chief of Police, pertaining to the activities of the German occupation troops in Greece during 1941-1945."

DR. SAUTER: Thank you. The matter is all right now.

THE PRESIDENT: Are we ready to proceed with the examination of this witness?

MR. DENNEY: Yes, your Honor, please.

THE PRESIDENT: The interpreter, Dr. Dimitrios, will rise and be sworn.

I do solemnly swear that I will perform my duties as interpreter to the Tribunal according to the best of my ability and skill.

(The interpreter repeated the oath).

THE PRESIDENT: The witness will now be sworn.

I, Nicolas Neris, swear to speak the truth, and only the truth, in reply to whatever I am asked, without fear and without prejudice.

(The witness repeated the oath).

THE PRESIDENT: You may be seated.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: You may be seated.

DIRECT EXAMINATION OF NICOLAS JOHAN NERIS BY MR. DENNEY:

Q. What is your name?

A. Nicolas Johan Neris.

Q. Where were you born?

A. In the Island of Mykenes in Cyhlandes, in Greece.

Q. When?

A. On the 15th of February, 1900.

Q. Where did you go to school?

A. In the law school, of the University of Athens.

Q. Did you finish your studies?

A. Yes.

Q. Are you a lawyer?

A. Yes.

Q. Are you licensed to practice law in Greece?

A. Yes.

Q. What was your position in 1940?

A. I was Deputy Police of the Chief of Athens and Director of the Protection against the aircraft.

Q. You say Deputy of Protection against aircraft. Do you mean in charge of the air raid warning system?

A. Protection of the non-fighting population against the air raids.

Q. What is your present position?

A. I am the acting General of the National Institute of the Organization under Reconstruction.

Q. The organization in reconstruction of what?

A. Of the country.

Q. What country?

A. Greece.

Q. Thank you. Do you recall approximately when the German troops came to Greece?

A. On the 27th of April, 1941 the German troops entered Athens.

Q. And at that time what was your position?

A. I was Deputy Chief of the Police in Athens.

Q. How long did you remain in that position?

A. Approximately 6 months.

Q. Then what did you do?

A. I was transferred as Chief of Staff of the Police Court.

Q. How long did you retain that post?

A. Approximately for one and one-half years.

Q. And what did you do after that?

A. I was chief of the school for police officers.

Q. Where were you during all of this period?

A. In Athens.

Q. Was the school for the police officers in Athens?

A. Yes.

Q. And how long did you stay there?

A. Nine months.

Q. And then what did you do after that?

A. After the bombardment of Pyraeus I was again nominated as the director of the protection from the aircraft.

Q. That is, you returned to this job in connection with the air raid protection?

A. Yes, the protection of the civilian population.

Q. How long did you keep that position?

A. Until the day of the liberation.

Q. And when was that?

A. The 12th of October, 1944.

Q. And what did you do after that?

A. I was nominated as director of the police in the Ministry of the Interior.

Q. Directing your attention now to the period immediately following the German entry into Athens, which you have stated was some time late in April, 1941, will you tell the Court what you observed in your official capacity, about the conduct of the German troops?

A. As soon as the German Army entered Athens, and hoisted the German flag over the Acropolis, and captured all of the positions that were good for occupying, they began to requisition all of the stores and warehouses of food that were at that time in Athens. By the stores and warehouses, I do not mean only all public ones, and the Army storehouses, but the private ones and every store and shop that contained any foodstuff.

Apart from the foodstuffs, every hotel or restaurant was requisitioned for the need of the German Army. During our fighting against the Italians the Greek government had ordered the population to buy no more foodstuffs than they needed for a period of two or three days, to prevent the lack of food stuffs from the market without any good reason. According to this order of the Greek government, the population had not stored in their houses any big quantities of food stuff.

After the requisition and confiscation of all of these storehouses, the Germans notified the people of Athens that they should not have in their possession more foodstuff than was needed for some days, under a heavy penalty of imprisonment. As it was natural, after some days the lack of foodstuff was noticed in the markets. At the beginning the poorer classes, later on the middle class, and still later on the more wealthy classes, had no food.

During the months of May, June, July, and August, the situation was not so bad because the population could buy fruit and vegetables and could feed themselves by that way, but by the month of September the hunger and starvation begun to be shown on the population of Athens.

Many things happened, and since that period, that is to say from September, 1941, the hunger and mass starvations were mounting continuously.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: The Tribunal will take its recess at this time.

(A recess was taken until 1515 hours.)

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the Courtroom will please be seated.

The Tribunal is again in session.

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: You may proceed.

MR. DENNEY: May it please Your Honors, with reference to the list which has been furnished to the Tribunal and the defense counsel, we should like to apologize for my lack of familiarity with the Greek language and some of its characters. And at this time we advise, particularly the defense counsel, as to some minor changes in spelling which will be necessitated whenever the individuals in each case are those whom we have specified. And in order that the proceedings will go along when the other Greek witnesses are produced, I think it might be well to read the names. The first name should be "Karamertzanis," which is spelled K A R A M E R T Z A N I S, and the first name of that witness -- that is the last name -- is "Panayotis," which is spelled P A N A Y O T I S. The next name...

DR. LATERNSE: Dr. Laternser. We don't want to hear these names so exactly. They will be repeated. The way the names are presented will be repeated when the witnesses appear.

MR. DENNEY: Well, perhaps that may be taken on behalf of the defense counsel that Prosecution will not be held responsible for lack of interest with Greek or familiar names -- names which are submitted to us.

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: Do I take it, Dr. Laternser, that there will be no question raised as to the identity and the correctness of the names as sent in the notices presented to the Court and to the defense counsel? Dr. Laternser has indicated that there would be no objection, and the record may so show.

MR. DENNEY: If it please Your Honor.

DIRECT EXAMINATION CONTINUED BY MR. DENNEY:

Q: Now, may I ask if you will continue your narration please?

A: This situation got worse by the issuing of an order by which the import of foodstuff was forbidden in the area of Athens. At that time the population of Athens started to find ways of getting out of Athens to find food. But for every exit from Athens a special permit of the German Kommandantur was needed, but such permits were very difficultly issued. Only for causes of illness or death were such permits issued to those who demanded them. During the last of October, November, December, January, and February 1942, the situation was tragic.

Q: Let me -- may I interrupt for just a moment so that the record will be correct. You are speaking of October, November, and December, 1941, and January and February 1942. Is that right?

A: Yes, sir.

Q: Proceed.

A: In the streets of Athens women and children were found, and many of them were falling down out of starvation. All the edges of the streets were covered with garbage because they had not the means in Athens to carry them away, because the Germans had confiscated all the means of transportation. In this garbage, and especially the garbage near the German billets, men, women, and children searched in vain to find something to eat. Many people fell on the garbage dead. As for the means of communication, everything was requisitioned by the German Army except - with the exception of some useless means of transportation. All those useless means of transportation could not be moved because of the lack of petrol.

The dead were transported on small wheelbarrows, many time on the shoulders of their relatives. The families who had some one of the members dead did not notify the authorities, with the intention of keeping his ration book and having something more to eat. And at that time the cemeteries of the suburbs of Athens were ordered to accept dead from Athens because the numbers were so big that the cemeteries of Athens were not sufficient for their burial. They managed, at that time, to find a little bit of gasoline so as to use big motor vehicles in which they transported fifty to sixty corpses to the cemeteries.

Q: About what had been the death rate in Athens prior to the entry of the German troops?

A: Approximately 18 persons per day.

Q: And 18 persons per day is about 240 a month -- or 540 a month? Excuse me.

A: Yes.

DIRECT EXAMINATION CONTINUED BY MR. DENNEY:

Q And what was the death rate during the period of which you spoke--the year-end 1941 and the beginning of 1942--for that six-months' period?

A From the registry of Athens and from the authorities of the cemeteries, or those people to whom they are declared when they did, we know, at that time, the death rate was 5,000 a month; that is to say, ten times more than before the war.

Q Now, you spoke of the registry. (Withdraw) You spoke of the registry. Will you tell the Court what that was?

A The registry is the public office when you declare someone when he has died. His name is put on a list, and that public office gives you the permission for the burial of that person.

Q And the other source of your information you said was from the cemetery people. How did you get that information?

A The police asked the directors of the cemeteries to give the numbers of the persons who were buried without any permission from the registry because many people were thrown over the fence of the cemeteries and were left there by their relatives.

Q And, of course, there was no way of identifying these dead bodies which were thrown into the cemeteries?

A No, It was impossible. The relatives did not want his body to be identified because they wanted to keep his ration book.

Q Now, does that conclude what you have to say with reference to the food conditions and the resulting conditions of the population in Athens during this period?

A This period is so tragic that you could talk on for days and days; but I do not want to take the precious time of the Court.

Q Now, will you tell the Tribunal what happened with reference to the hospitals in Athens?

AAAs soon as the Germans entered Athens all the hospitals of Athens were requisitioned by the German Army for the needs of their men.

In most of these hospitals were the wounded soldiers of the Albanian War. But as the Army had capitulated and was dissolved the Army doctors of these hospitals remained in the hospitals as civilian doctors to take care of the wounded soldiers. One after the other, the hospitals were requisitioned by the Germans, and these wounded persons who were in them were put out in the streets. The wounded soldiers who were without legs, without arms, and without eyes were kept in a hospital situated on the Avenue of Queen Sophia. The Germans ordered the requisition of this hospital with a notice of three hours. The director of the hospital had not the means to transport his wounded men and no house where he could put them in. He applied to the police and I went personally myself in my uniform on the spot. The wounded men were lying on the pavement on the laps of the female nurses. When I got there a wounded soldier, without arms and legs, spat into my face. I understood that by doing that he intended to show his contempt for the Greek Government who could not protect and take care of him any more. I did my best to find a house, and at last I found a school called Marashion. But we had no means to transport them; so we transported them on our hands in blankets. This is the way we were obliged to take the heroes of the Albanian Front.

Q Did they allow (Withdraw). What did they allow the people who were evicted from the hospital to take with them?

A They were allowed to take only their blankets.

Q Did they leave the hospital equipment in the hospital?

A Yes.

Q And who took the hospital over?

A The Germans who had the intention to occupy that hospital at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Q How many hospitals in Athens did the Germans requisition?

A I can't say precisely. But I remember that they left over to the Greeks a small part of the hospital called Evzone and another small section of the Red Cross hospital.

Q How big a hospital was this one of which you have spoken?

A It had approximately three hundred beds.

Q Did there come a time when the SS moved into Greece?

A Yes.

Q And will you--when was that approximately?

A I don't know; I don't remember exactly the date.

Q Will you tell us what happened after the SS came?

A I would like to tell you what happened before the arrival of the SS.

Q All right.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, I object to this question. It refers to the activity of the SS in Greece. None of the defendants charged here had any discipline in a jurisdictional way in any activity of the SS. And the fact that it was illegal can never be charged against the defendants. This complex cannot interest us, and I ask you not to allow it to be discussed here.

MR. DENNEY: In connection with that, Your Honor, it may not interest Dr. Laternser, but it's certainly of interest to us and there is no condition, and I assume there won't be, that the defendants--some of them--were in that theater. That is, in Greece. It was all part of the Southeast. The Tribunal has seen documents with references to SS divisions--the 5th SS Corps, the Waffen SS, the SS Skanderbeg Division. And for Dr. Laternser to maintain that the SS is not in any way concerned with these people is, I submit, extending it a little far, and I submit the witness may testify as to what was done by Germans down there.

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: The matters to which Dr. Laternser refers, appear to this Tribunal to be defensive in nature and will receive such attention as the defense desires to present at the time they submit their testimony in evidence. The objection will be over-ruled.

BY MR. DENNEY:

Q Witness, I had asked you a question but you said there was something else you wanted to say first. Will you please continue with what you wanted to tell the Tribunal.

A I would like to tell you about the requisition of the houses and of the means of transportation.

Q Please do.

A The requisition of the means of transportation was done on such a big scale that only very few remained for the use of the population. All the communications of the civilians was made by walking and sometimes in big distances. And about this time many requisitions of central houses was made and the citizens had nowhere to live.

Q It is true--

DR. LATERNSEER: I object to this statement. The witness cannot state what he wants to state -- it is usual that a witness answers his questions. What he has just said now has nothing to do with the question put to him. When the question was put to him the witness said, "I want to talk about this now". He has to answer questions.

MR. DENNEY: I would suggest that Dr. Laternser keep his ear phones on and listen in German. He would understand that I had withdrawn the question in view of the witness's statements that he had something he wanted to tell the Tribunal, and I asked him to please tell the Tribunal what he wanted to tell them.

We have not questioned on the SS as yet.

PRESIDENT: WENNERSTRUM: The objection is overruled.

BY MR. DENNEY:

Q Please continue.

A It is true that later on the German authorities instituted the service in the German commandatur to take care of the people who were driven away from their homes, but at the beginning, it was hopeless for them. They had nowhere to go. At the same time, the electric current was cut from the houses of the civilians and only the German institutions had any electricity.

By that way the Greek people were in the dark. For the telephonic connections of the different German services and units, the Germans put on a special service of telephones. These wires were put on the pavements, on the ground, and if they were cut during the night, - any of these wires was cut - it was considered sabotage.

We asked the Germans to put these wires on high poles so that the population was not endangered by any reprisals, if any such wire was cut. They did not allow it to us. We ordered Greek civilians to keep an guard on these wires during the night, and one night one of these wires was cut off. Then the Mayor of Athens, Professor Meringis, thereupon was arrested, and was taken to the Ministry of the Interior of Greece.

Later on, the chief of the Police was ordered to be arrested; at that time I was deputizing for him being away and so I went to the Ministry of the Interior where I was detained. The Germans asked us to give them 20 names of 20 Greek citizens who would be considered as hostages, and we refused to give away these names. Two ministers of the Quissling government were called to come to the Ministry of the Interior. The ministers ordered us to give away these names. Both the mayor and myself refused again to give these names, and we said that we could only give our own names. The ministers left, and we were under arrest until 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

And later on the Germans asked us to pay a fine of one million drachmas. It was late in the evening, and the banks were closed, and the cashier of the police was also closed, so the Mayor under custody, went to his own house, brought back to the Ministry of the Interior the one million and handed it over to the Germans. The Germans kept our names and liberated us, set us free. The railway going to Larissa, Peloponnesus, - on these railways a wagon was put in front of the engine. This wagon was uncovered, but had wires, and in this wagon 20 or 30 or 40 Greek hostages were put. They were unprotected from the sun, the rain and the cold, and they were put into that wagon for the safety of the German troops against the attacks of the guerillas.

Q Did you see such cars on the trains?

A I used to see such cars every day, because I lived near the railway of Larissa and Peloponnesus. Very seldom there was a train without one or two such cars.

Q And those cars were placed where on the train?

A. These cars were placed before the engine. They were covered with wires only. Then followed the engine. After the engine came a car or wagon where the German guard was and then was the rest of the train.

Q. Well, all right, now were these cars placed there in winter and summer?

A. Yes, winter and summer.

Q. And did you see them winter and summer?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you saw them in front of most of the trains that left Athens during the occupation?

A. Yes, on the trains that left Athens and came into Athens.

Q. Now, was there a concentration camp in Athens?

A. Yes, a concentration camp of Chaidari.

Q. Where was it?

A. Northwest of Athens, on the road leading from Athens to Eleusis, a little bit farther out of the street, not exactly on the main road but a little bit inside.

Q. When was that camp opened?

A. I don't exactly remember but I think it was opened in 1943.

Q. What people were sent there?

A. People who were arrested in different blockings-off.

Q. I am sorry, I didn't understand you.

A. People who were arrested during the different blockings-off of different districts in Athens.

Q. Will you tell the Court how these district blockings-off took place?

A. At different districts of Athens and in different times of the day or of the night the Germans surrounded a district of the town or a street and they arrested a certain number of citizens who inhabited that surrounded area. Of those arrested, some were sent to the concentration camp of Chaidari and the most, the great bulk of them, were sent to Germany for forced labor and very often some of them were executed on the spot.

Q. Did you receive reports of these executions in these blockingoff actions?

A. I received a report from police headquarters of Piraeus of the execution of people during the blocking-off of Kokinia.

Q. Will you tell the Court what that report was?

A. The report said that on a certain date, which I cannot remember now, the Germans surrounded or made a blocking-off, as it was said at that time, in the district of Nea-Kokinia, and they arrested a great number of civilians. Out of this number, a number of ten to fifteen people, I cannot exactly tell you the exact number, were led near a wall which was near the place of the arrest and were executed on the spot without any trial or any formality.

Q. How were these people picked?

A. They used an informer who was hiding his dress by a black garb and a black mask on his face. He passed over the lines of the arrestees and he indicated some of them. By this manner the persons who were to be executed were picked.

Q. Did he say anything when he designated these people?

A. He only showed in his hand without speaking at all. This was the usual manner in every blocking-off and in Valuja (?) and in Chaidavi and in Kaphallenia (?) and in Verroia (?). Those are districts of Athens.

Q. How were the Jewish people treated in Athens?

A. At first, an order was issued by the Germans that every Jew had to report to the Rabbi. After a certain short time, those Jews who were ordered to report to their Rabbi were ordered to present themselves to the German Kommandantur where their names were taken down and then they were set free.

Later on, during a religious celebration they had at their synagogue, they were arrested in masse by the Germans. Later on, they were persecuted in their own private houses because in Greece they didn't live in a separate part of the town but they were living among other people and there was no distinction between Jews and non-Jews.

At the beginning the Spanish Jews were protected but later on the Spanish Jews also were persecuted and some of them managed to escape to the Middle East or went to the mountains.

Q. One or two questions about some of the matter you have gone over. Were the police armed? The Athens police, that is, were the Greek police armed?

A. The Greek police had nothing else but clubs but during the last months of the occupation they gave them very few arms.

Q. You spoke of the requisitioning of food by the German troops. Did they pay for that food?

A. No, they never paid. They paid later on when they were taking Greek banknotes of three billion drachmas.

Q. Now did there come a time when you received a report with reference to some deaths which occurred in Kalavrita?

A. In Kalavrita all the male population of the town was executed.

Q. Did you receive reports of this?

A. When I knew of this happening, I went to my superior--

Q. Now please answer my question. I asked you if you received reports of the deaths in Kalavrita?

A. I was not competent to receive such a report because my competence did not extend to Kalavrita.

Q. Did you have something to do with Greek pension system?

A. As the director of the air raid protection, I was the competent authority to give pensions for all those who were killed by the air raid bombardments and to those who were executed by the Germans without previous military decision.

Q. Did you receive in that capacity reports which requested pensions for people in Kalavrita?

A. Yes.

Q. Approximately how many reports did you receive and what did they state?

A. I cannot exactly remember the total number but the reports I received and the demands for pension mentioned the execution of the fathers and all the male children of every family in Kalavrita. I have in mind requests of the widow of a father who was killed with his five and another with his six male children.

Q. In your capacity on this pension committee did you receive other requests for pensions?

A. I received thousands of these requests but I cannot exactly remember all of them but I remember the most important of them and those were those of Kalavrita, Distomon, Rogon, Lamerno, Zachlorou.

Q. And what did these reports give as the cause of death on them?

A. Mass execution by the Germans.

Q. Do you recall when the Italians withdrew from Greece?

A. Late in the summer of 1943.

Q. Do you recall any events which happened after that?

A. Yes. Could you restate your question, Mr. Denney?

Q. Well, I am directing your attention to the time late in 1943 when the Italian forces withdrew from Greece and asking you whether or not you recall any events which took place thereafter in Athens about which you would like to tell the Tribunal.

A. Then the executions of the hostages were intensified.

Q. Dr. Dimitrios, will you please speak a little louder. Please speak into the microphone.

A. After the recapitulation of the Italians the executions by the Germans were intensified; they grew in numbers.

Q. Did you get reports in the police office in Athens with reference to executions?

A. We could not receive official reports because these would be considered as espionage.

Q. Well, did your police officers report to you nevertheless?

A. After every execution the police officer of the (district of Skopeftirion) rifle range - that is where most of the executions took place - was called by the Germans to take them away and see to the burial.

Q. Did he then advise you as to the numbers of people who were buried?

A. Yes.

Q. And how long did these killings take place, over what period of time?

A. I remember the execution of 7 officers and that was the first one in Athens, of 7 Navy officers among whom was the Lieutenant Kasagros; the execution of 120 people, and then the execution of 73 people near Defni, the last days before the withdrawal of the German forces from Athens. I remember also several executions of smaller numbers of persons, that is to say, 7 to 10, but I cannot certify their dates.

Q. During what period of time did these executions take place?

A. Especially after the arrival of the SS these executions and the blockings-off were intensified.

Q. And when did the SS come to Athens?

A. I am not very sure; I don't remember it well, but I believe it was in the late summer of 1943.

Q. You have told us about the attitude toward the Jewish people.

Do you know anything about transports of Jewish people from Athens?

A. In cattle cars many people were put in, in a way that they could hardly stand. There was no room for them to sit down and in that way, in those closed wagons, which only had small holes for breathing, they were transported out of Athens. I personally saw many trains loaded with such a burden.

BY JUDGE BURKE:

Q. Will you repeat the answer?

A. I personally saw many trains loaded with such human burden.

Q. Human burden?

A. Human burden, yes.

BY MR. DENNEY:

Q. Do you mean cargo, Dr.?

A. Yes.

MR. DENNEY: He means cargo, Your Honor.

Q. How big was the concentration camp of which you have spoken?

A. This concentration camp was used as a barracks before the war. When the Germans came, it was unused so they took it over and used it as a concentration camp. The area, the whole area of this camp, is about approximately as big as this court house.

Q. And when you say the court house, you mean the whole court house, you don't mean this little room?

A. Certainly.

Q. How many inmates could the camp accommodate?

A. It contained between 2,000 and 3,000 people but it could contain many more.

Q. What were the inmates used for?

A. Forced labor, and others were imprisoned there. From that concentration camp the hostages who were to be shot were taken, and from that concentration camp they used to take people and send them to Germany for forced labor and the contents of this concentration camp were usually renewed when it began to get empty.

MR. DENNEY: If Your Honors please, I have no further questions. Perhaps defense counsel might like to start cross examination tomorrow in view of the shortness of time remaining here.

THE PRESIDENT: Would you prefer that your cross examination commence tomorrow morning, Dr. Laternser?

DR. LATERNSEER: May I put a few questions.

CROSS EXAMINATION BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q. Witness, could you describe to me this court of law in which you are present: how many wings it has, etc.; how many floors?

MR. DENNEY: I submit, Your Honors, the question is immaterial. He said the concentration camp covers about the same area as this whole court building.

THE PRESIDENT: Overruled.

BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q. Witness, would you kindly describe this to me? We have to have this description by half past four. How many wings has this court house got?

A. The building or this room?

Q. You were comparing the concentration camp, the alleged concentration camp, with this court house, and you said that it had been at least as large as this building. For you to say that you must know the size of this building. How many wings has this building got?

A. I do not know the length or the width of the space that is covered by this court house. I never spoke about this building or the wings or whatever else of this court house. I only said that the concentration camp was about the dimension of the grounds of this court house.

Q. How long do you estimate this building in which you find yourself now; how long in distance?

A. I cannot tell you how many meters it is long or wide but particularly what I saw of it I can say it was approximately the same as that of the concentration camp.

Q. If you make comparisons, you should know this building in more detail. How many rooms approximately does this court house contain?

MR. DENNEY: If Your Honors please, I submit that the witness has made the comparison and I might know Dr. Laternser is as tall as Dr. Sauter or shorter, and I might not know how tall Dr. Sauter is or how tall Dr. Laternser is, and I don't think he should be allowed to argue with the witness.

DR. LATERNSE: I did not argue with the witness. I put very precise questions to him.

Q. I repeat my question. How many wings has this court house got?

A. I have never counted them.

Q. How many floors has this court house got?

A. I never counted them because it was of no interest to me.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will be adjourned at this time until 0930 tomorrow morning.

(The Tribunal adjourned until 0930 hours, 15 August 1947.)

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the court room will please find their seats.

The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal V.

Military Tribunal V is now in session. God save the United States of America and this honorable Tribunal.

There will be order in the court.

May it please your Honors, all defendants are present in the court room.

The persons in the court room will be seated.

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: Marshal, will you ascertain, if all the defendants are present in the courtroom?

MARSHAL: May it please Your Honor all the defendants are present in the courtroom.

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: Judge Edward F. Carter will preside at this day's session.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: You may proceed, Mr. Denney:

MR. DENNEY: I believe at the conclusion of yesterday's session Dr. Laternser was cross-examining the witness.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Dr. Laternser.

NICHOLAS NERIS - Resumed CROSS EXAMINATION (Continued) BY DR. LATERNSE:

Q. Witness, you said yesterday that from 1940 on you were Deputy Chief of Police in Athens. Until when were you in that office?

A. Approximately six months after the entry of the German troops to Athens.

Q. And when was that? When did the six months come to an end as far as the date is concerned?

A. I don't remember the exact date.

Q. If you don't know the exact date may I ask you to give me the approximate date?

A. When the Germans entered Athens, the Chief of the Police resigned and Mr. Vassilopoulos became Chief of the Police. With him I became Chief of Staff of Mr. Vassilopoulos.

Q. I asked you for the approximate date when you gave up this office?

A. I can't exactly remember the date.

Q. I did not ask for the exact date but for the approximate date?

A. I can't remember exactly those dates because I was serving in Athens as Deputy Director of the Police and as Chief of Staff of the Police. I was all the time there.

Q. If you say the whole time, what do you mean by that?

A. I mean that during all this period I was in Athens.

Q. When you left the office of Deputy Police what did you become then?

A. Chief of Staff of the Chief of Police.

Q. And from which time to which time did you hold this position?

A. As I said yesterday approximately one year and a half.

Q. Into which period of time do these 18 months fall as regards dates.

A. I cannot remember by heart these dates. If I knew it would have been so important to you I would have made a certificate and show it to you; if I would tell you now it wouldn't be the correct dates.

Q. Witness, I mean the time in which you were Deputy of the Chief of Police in Athens and Chief of Staff of the Police Corps. That must have been experiences in your life that this should cause you to remember the approximate dates. I, therefore, ask you for the approximate dates for the period of time in which you were Chief of Staff of a Police Corps?

A. He wants to help you as much as he can but he cannot remember even approximately these dates.

Q. You can't even approximately remember these dates in order to make this quite clear?

A. He cannot because if he tried to do it may not be the truth.

Q. You want to say then that you know neither the exact date nor the approximate date of the time during which you were Deputy Chief of Police in Athens, and of the time during which you were Chief of Staff of the Chief of Police. Do you really want to say that.

A. I don't remember the exact date.

Q. My question is whether you want to say that you don't even remember the approximate date?

A. During 6 months after the entry of the German troops in Athens he was Deputy Chief of the Police and after this 6 months he was one year and a half Chief of Staff of the Chief of the Police. It would be very easy to give you the precise dates if he knew you would have been so interested in them.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Might I suggest to the interpreter that he answer in the first person just as the witness does. Do you understand what I mean?

DR. DIMITRIOS: Yes, your Honor.

BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q. When did the German troops leave Greece?

A. The German troops left Athens on the 12th of October 1944.

Q. And what office did you occupy after the withdrawal of the German troops?

A. I was the Director of the Air Raid Protection.

Q. After the withdrawal of the German troops did you not occupy another office? I assume as Director of Air Raid Precaution, after the withdrawal of the German troops, you didn't have much to do.

A. Yes, after the withdrawal of the Germans I had another job.

Q. And what was this position?

A. I was Director of the Police section of the Ministry of the Interior.

Q. One thing, witness, is correct, that during the German occupation you were for a longer period of time Deputy Chief of Police and Chief of Staff of the Chief of Police.

DR. DIMITRIOS: I didn't get the question.

Q. One thing is true, witness, you were during the German occupation Deputy Chief of Police and Chief of Staff of the Chief of Police.

MR. DENNEY: If your Honors please, I object to the form of Dr. Laternser's question.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Objection sustained.

DR. LATERNSEER: I believe that the translation of my question sounded perhaps a bit different in English, as I put it in German.

BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q I asked, as far as I remember, that one thing is true, witness, that during the occupation you filled the office of the Deputy Chief of Police and the other one, the meaning of which as the Prosecutor sees it is not contained in the German feeling for language. It may be that this meaning came out in the translation. I cannot judge that.

MR. DENNEY: He has stated facts; I don't think he has to preface them with the remark he has again made.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: You might ask another question, Dr. Laternser.

BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q Witness, is it correct that during the time of the German occupation you were Deputy Chief of Police in Athens and later Chief of Staff of the Police Corps; the main meaning of this question lies in the fact that you occupied these offices during the time of occupation.

A Yes, it is quite true.

Q Witness, when did you arrive at Nuernberg?

A I left Athens last Sunday morning and got to Nuernberg last Monday afternoon.

Q Did you come by train?

A I came by plane.

Q Why didn't you come by train? Are there no trains in Greece?

A There are no trains coming direct from Greece here.

Q Is there no train service between Greece in the direction of Germany?

MR. DENNEY: The witness hasn't been qualified as a railroad expert.

DR. LATERNSE: You don't need to have an expert. One can know that without being an expert.

A There are no trains connecting Greece with Germany nowadays, but I received an order from the Greek Ministry of Foreign Affairs to travel on that plane.

Q Where are you living at present in Nuernberg?

A I live now at the Grand Hotel.

Q Is that a German hotel?

A Well, it is a German hotel but where only Americans are living.

Q Was that hotel confiscated from the Germans?

MR. DENNEY: Your Honors please, I don't think the witness is competent to testify as to whether the Americans confiscated something or not.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: I think the objection is good; sustained.

BY DR. LATERNSE:

Q When did the Germans enter Greece?

A They entered into Athens on the 27th of April 1941.

Q Was Greece not only occupied by German troops but also by Italian troops?

A I know that at that precise date only German troops came into Athens.

Q How was it in the time after that? Who occupied Greece?

AAAt that time we were like slaves and we didn't know what happened to the rest of Greece but at that precise date only German troops came into Athens.

Q I did not now ask you for the exact date but I am asking you who kept Greece occupied, during the time in which it was occupied at all.

A Not only German troops but Bulgarian troops and Italian troops used to occupy different territories of Greece.

Q Witness, which part of the country was occupied by German troops and which part of the country was occupied by Italian troops?

A I cannot tell you exactly which parts were occupied by each of the two enemy forces but the only thing I tell you is that the Italians were brought in by the Germans as their satellites.

Q Witness, apparently you don't know many things quite clearly and for that reason I don't ask you quite definitely. But I want to know some things approximately which as the then chief of Police you ought to know, and for that reason I want to know which part of the country was occupied by German troops and which part was occupied by Italian troops?

A I don't know.

Q Do you say witness, that you as deputy Chief of Police of Athens, do not know which parts of Greece were occupied by the Germans and which part of Greece was occupied by the Italian troops?

A If I don't know something extremely well I cannot give an answer to it.

Q And if you don't know something exactly I ask you in what area were the zones in Greece, the Italian zones and German zones?

A Well, that is what you asked me before and I told you I don't know it precisely.

Q Witness, who was in Southern Greece, German or Italian troops?

A I was always in Athens during that period and in the beginning only the Germans troops came, but later on they were followed by Italian troops.

Q You just mentioned Athens. Under whose military command was Athens, under the German Command or the Italian Command?

A The German

Q Witness, and I am telling you that it stood under Italian command?

MR. DENNEY: If your Honor, please, I think that the witness is testifying and not Dr. Laternser, and it is not shown that Dr. Laternser was in Athens in any capacity during this time.

JUDGE CARTER: Sustained.

Q Witness, that is you want to say that Athens was under German command?

A Yes, and the Italians were brought later on by the Germans in Athens.

Q When was that?

AAAt first they made the big parade in which the Italians took part and after that parade the Italians disappeared and came later on.

Q What do you mean by later, when did they come back?

A I can't tell you the exact date, but sometime later General Gelosa came to Athens under the protection of the Germans.

Q And at any time did Athens pass from German sovereignty to Italian sovereignty?

A Yes.

Q From that time onwards Athens was under Italian command?

A I don't know the exact date, but I can testify that the Germans always stayed in Athens.

Q Witness, I want to recall to you that you said that you were Deputy Chief of Police in Athens, you simply must know that from a certain period onwards Athens was under the military command of the Italians?

A I repeat that I don't remember the exact date, but I can tell you that the Italians were in the same position as us Greeks, that is to say that they were under the hands of the Germans and obeyed their orders.

Q I did not ask you of the position of the Italians, I asked you quite clearly whether Athens was at any time under the military command of the Italians?

A Yes, under Andreas Akropolis, a big German and a smaller Italian, and a Greek one.

Q Under a Greek one?

A Yes, I told you so.

Q That is to say, witness, it is correct that Athens was at a certain time under Italian command, you have just confirmed that?

A Yes, I know.

Q Now, we want to try, witness, and I am asking you to help me here to fix the period of time during which that applied; you said that from the time of the occupation onwards you were approximately for 6 months Deputy Chief of Police in Athens: During your activity there were there any changes in the command, that is to say that the Italians had the Military command of Athens during your period of office?

AAAt the beginning only the Germans were in the military command of Athens; later on they brought the Italians with them, but the Germans still stayed in Athens.

Q Witness, I grant you that there were some German Departments, but what is of interest to me in this case is, who carried out the Military sovereignty in Athens at that time, and I am asking you whether during your period of office as Deputy Chief of Police in Athens the command passed from the German Agencies to the Italian agencies?

A There was a difficult date of transfer of the command of Athens from the Germans to the Italians, but I do not remember it, but I say again although the Italians had taken over the command of Athens they still obeyed the orders of the Germans. That is not known only to me, but to every single person in Greece.

Q Witness, I only want to ask you things that you know; have I understood you correctly now, that you are confirming the fact that during your period of office as Deputy Chief of Police in Athens the command was transferred to the Italian offices at least as far as the City of Athens was concerned?

A It was transferred to the Italians, but I repeat again it was only technically transferred to them.

Q And all during your period of office as Deputy Chief of Police - this transfer took place during your period of office as Deputy Chief of Police?

A Yes.

Q Since you were Deputy Chief of Police from the occupation onwards for 6 months, you said then this command must have been transferred shortly after the occupation became certain, from the year 1941?

A The transfer was not made at the beginning of the entry of the Germans into Athens, but a little bit later on.

The Italians could not stay for a single day in Athens if the Germans had not stabilized their position there.

Q You are certain then that the Military command of Athens was transferred shortly after the invasion of the troops; I repeat, you said that the transfer of the Military command from the Germans to the Italians, as far as the area of Athens is concerned, took place a little time after Germans marched into Athens, but certainly during the year 1941, is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Do you remember that it was already in June 1941?

A I cannot remember exactly in what month that took place.

Q Is it possible it had already taken place in June 1941?

A I tell you I cannot decide the date, but I know that when the Germans came and fixed everything, they took everything for themselves, then they allowed the Italians to come into the country.

Q Witness, as Deputy Chief of Police in Athens you surely had to deal with the occupation authorities?

A On very rare occasions I had to deal with them.

Q Could you name a few of these occasions?

A I can tell you about the time when the German flag was pulled down from the Akropolis.

Q No, I am now referring to the time during which you were Deputy Chief of Police in Athens, that was the first six months after your occupation, as you said yourself I am now asking you with whom you dealt with during these first six months, with which Italian departments you had to cooperate?

A I had no relations whatever with the Italians.

Q The Italians showed no interest in your position as Deputy Chief of Police of Athens, is that right?

A Because they had the backing of the Germans and they were quite brutal on that.

Q Witness, I am asking you quite clearly, during your period of office as Deputy Chief of Police in Athens did you never negotiate with Italian agencies?

A No.

Q You never had any dealings with an Italian officer?

A What sort of dealings?

Q. Negotiations which concerned your sphere of work which were carried out by the police in Athens?

A. Those dealings were made by the chief of police, by the director of the police. I was the deputy of the chief.

Q. I am asking you, witness, quite clearly, whether you personally never in your capacity as deputy chief of police in Athens ever talked with the Italian officers.

A. I had no dealings whatever with the Italians; only the chief of police and director of police had to do these dealings. I had no competence.

Q. What field was within your competence?

A. I tried to perform my police duties, which was rather shadowy at that time.

Q. Witness, the starting point of my questions I asked by whom Athens was occupied and I am now asking you to answer this question.

A. At the beginning, at the first beginning Athens was occupied only by the Germans, and later on the Italians came in until the capitulation of Italy in 1943. At that time the Germans arrested all the Italians and they kept them as prisoners.

Q. By far the greatest time of the occupation, during the greatest time of the occupation, Athens was occupied by the Italians then?

A. Yes, in 1942 and the early part of 1943 until the Italian capitulation.

Q. Witness, this is not clear enough for me. You said previously that the command was transferred from the Germans to the Italians even during the time which you were deputy chief of police, and it must have been 1941 then.

A. I say that the Italians were there in 1942 and the early part of 1943 until the Italian capitulation.

Q. Wasn't it already in June 1941? Please reflect for a moment and then give me your answer.

A. I don't remember the exact date of the difficult transfer of the command of Athens.

Q. Is it out of the question, witness, that it was already in 1941?

A. I don't deny it may be possible that that happened in 1941.

Q. Thank you. That is sufficient for me at this juncture. Witness, you know that the Greek Army capitulated?

A. The Greek Government never capitulated.

Q. Who signed the conditions of capitulation?

A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know, although you occupied such a high office?

A. I know that some Greek generals signed an armistice which was never recognized by the official Greek Government, and later on some of these quisling generals became ministers and prime ministers.

Q. One of the generals who signed became a minister later on in which government?

A. I can testify that the first quisling prime minister was a General (name unintelligible), and he had as ministers some other generals called Marko Demestias.

Q. How was it after the capitulation? Were not all Greek soldiers at that time at once released from captivity?

A. I repeat that the Greek Government never capitulated, but the Greek Army was dissolved.

Q. Another question. Where was the Greek Government at that time, within or outside the country?

A. At that time of the capitulation the Greek Government was in Athens in the hotel of the Grand Britannia.

Q. The Greek Government was inside the country at the time of the capitulation, is that right?

A. The Greek Government was in Athens at that time.

Q. Do you really want to testify to that under oath?

A. One Friday evening the two last Greek ministers left Athens, and two days later, that is to say, on Sunday, the German troops came into Athens.

Q. Witness, you are evading me a bit. I must say that. I asked you whether during the time of the capitulation, as you said before, whether during that time the Greek Government was in Athens.

A. Well, I do not recognize this capitulation and I don't know when that happened. The Greek government was inside Athens two days before the Germans came into Athens.

Q. Now, you say two days before the Germans entered Athens. A short time ago you said that the Greek government was in Athens during the time of the capitulation. There is a bit of difference. How was it now?

A. I was in Athens and I could not know what happened in the front, so I cannot tell you the exact day of the capitulation.

Q. Witness, first you tell me that the Greek government was in Athens during the time of the capitulation, and then you tell me that the Greek Government was in Athens two days before the capitulation, and now you are telling me that you don't know when the capitulation took place. I want a clear answer now to a clear question.

During the time of the capitulation, was the Greek government inside the country or outside the country, or don't you know?

A. I don't know the date of the capitulation. I told you that the two last members of the Greek government left Athens two days before the entrance of the German troops -not the capitulation, the entrance of the German troops in Athens.

Q. The result, then, is that you say that two days before the capitulation a few members of the Greek government were still in Athens. Is that correct?

A. I repeat again that two days before the entry of the Germans, not the capitulation, as I said before; two days before the entrance of the Germans in Athens the members of the Greek government were there -- that is on Friday, and the Germans came in on Sunday.

Q. Where was the government later on?

A. (Switch not turned on)..... and later on, after Greece was taken by the Germans, it was transferred to a foreign country.

Q. And which country was that?

A. Egypt.

Q. Witness, after the capitulation were the Greek soldiers released at once from captivity by the German armed forces?

A. The Greek soldiers were returning to Athens.

Q. That is not an answer to my question. I asked you whether it is correct that the German armed forces released the Greek soldiers, all of them, immediately after the capitulation.

A. I don't know. The generals may know it better than me.

Q. Witness, you certainly have a number of acquaintances who had been soldiers. Is that correct?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. They soon came home?

A. Yes, they did come back.

Q. Among your acquaintances did you know any officers?

A. Yes, there were.

Q. Did they not tell you that they could still carry arms?

A. Yes, against the Italians, of course, we could.

Q. Shortly after the occupation was there not an order by Marshal List published in which the following was said:

"You may" -- and this means the German troops -- "You may be very proud of this decisive success, since you gained it in a hard fight against English troops and against the Greeks who so bravely defended their country."

"You may be very proud, indeed, regarding this decisive success since you gained it in a hard fight against British troops and against the Greeks who bravely defended their country."

And there is a further sentence: "You will treat the Greek prisoners in such a manner and thus deal with them as they deserve it, as brave soldiers."

Don't you remember that shortly after the occupation an order of this kind was published?

A. This order was addressed to the German troops.

Q. But it was also made public. Don't you remember that?

A. I know that the Germans particularly recognized the heroism of the Greeks and they believed that this recognition would be more satisfactory towards the Greeks; but, unfortunately, the opposite thing happened towards these heroic warriors. When the Germans came in Athens they threw them away.

Q. Just a minute. I didn't ask you regarding this question. We will deal with this later on in detail. I am only asking you, do you remember that an order of this kind was published and was made public in Greece? That is the only thing I want to know at this moment.

A. I don't know about this order. The only thing I know is that the Germans recognized the heroic resistance of the Greek army.

Q. Witness, yesterday you said something about the great difficulties regarding the food situation during the time of the occupation which cannot be denied in the whole extent. Now, you had at that time ration cards for food?

A. We had ration books for bread at the beginning and later on for other food also.

Q. At the beginning for bread. Now what were the quotas or quantities you got, monthly, weekly or daily, such as you had it? You said bread, first of all didn't you?

A. 75 grams daily.

Q. Do you really want to say that it was 75 grams daily?

A. Yes, nominally, because in reality nothing was given.

Q. Was there a lot of fruit and vegetables on the markets during the whole time of the occupation?

A. There were a lot but most of it was taken by the German Army and a small quantity was allowed for the Greek population. I told that yesterday.

Q. How do you know this, that a lot of stuff was removed from the markets for the German armed forces?

A. We could see it.

Q. Now, what did you see there?

A. We could see German trucks taking stuff out of every food shop in Athens, out of every fruit cellar; and the Germans had already requisitioned the greater part of the farms around Athens, and when you went to such a farm to buy something, vegetables or fruit, the plea was:

"This requisitioned by the Germans and you cannot buy anything from us."

Q. That may be true these farmers told you that but was it like this in reality?

A. Yes, it is true because of all these deaths out of starvation how can they be explained?

Q. You said just now that every one was dying of hunger. Is that also slightly exaggerated?

Q. Did you not say that everyone was dying of hunger?

A. Yes, I told you that they were dying of starvation.

Q. But, witness you said, "WE were dying of hunger." That doesn't seem to be quite correct. I would ask you, witness, to remember, even when you are asked by me, that you are under oath.

A. Well, you may be right because you are lucky enough not to be in Greece as a Greek slave.

Q. I am really upholding your evidence because you said: "WE were dying of starvation."

What fat rations did you get?

I was just being told that the last item has not been translated.

What fat rations did you get?

A. Nothing.

Q. Do you really want to say that, that you got no fat rations at all?

A. Absolutely nothing.

Q. And what did you get as far as meat was concerned?

A. Yes, with the rations, absolutely nothing. The few quantities of meat that were available on the black market were so expensive that only a few people could pay and buy them. Only once in three months the average people could have a meal of meat and that was coming from different animals who died from starvation.

Q. You said that you did not get any fat. Did you get oil?

A. With rations, no.

Q. And otherwise?

A. Well, on the black market one could find some oil but it was at such prices that you would have had to sell your house to obtain a tin of oil.

Q. Witness, during the time of the occupation -- that is, when it started -- were there any large Greek stores of food?

A. Yes, there were.

Q. Were these really large stores which existed at that time?

A. I can't tell you the exact quantities that there were at that time but I know that the food was enough or last for us for one year to one year and a half and that was foreseen by the Greek government which had issued an order for all the population not to buy more food and store it in their houses than they needed for a short period.

Q. That is, you want to say that when the German occupation began the Greek administration had great, large stocks of food for 18 months?

A. Yes.

Q. Who told you that?

A. I know that from the public storehouses which were requisitioned by the Germans.

Q. Don't you know what I mean regarding the size of the stocks? Weren't you told that by any official departments?

A. No.

Q. Witness, in the proceedings before the International Tribunal the Greek government submitted a memorandum. Do you know this memorandum?

A. No, I don't know it.

Q. Then you don't know which attitude is contained in this official memorandum regarding the stock piling of Greece with food?

A. I don't know anything about it.

Q. Your statement that the stocks would have lasted for 18 months at the time of the beginning of the German occupation -- do you want to maintain this statement in the official statement said that the stocks had been nearly completely exhausted through the previous battles?

A. When I see such a notice of my government, well, I won't maintain my statement but as long as I don't see it I will maintain it.

Q. You want to say, in contrast to the attitude taken up by the Greek government which says the stocks were nearly exhausted -- you want to testify under oath here in Court and apparently from your own knowledge that the stocks of food in Greece would last for 18 months?

A. If those quantities of food stuffs were not enough for all of this period as for the Greek was concerned I know it would be enough for the town of Athens for that period.

Q. And who told you that?

A. I know it from my personal knowledge because I visited those warehouses which contained butter, oil, sugar and other food stuffs -- flour.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: We will take our morning recess now.

(A recess was taken)

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: You may proceed, Dr. Laternser.

MR. DENNEY: If your Honors please, we have two new interpreters now, and at this time I have spoken to defense counsel about it and they are agreeable. Perhaps your Honor would like to administer the oath.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: The interpreters will stand and be sworn.

INTERPRETER SIMHA: I do solemnly swear that I will perform my duties as interpreter to the Tribunal to the best of my ability and skill. (Oath also repeated by Interpreter Ame Anagnostopoulos.)

CROSS EXAMINATION - (Continued) WITNESS NICHOLAS JOHAN NERIS BY DR. LATERNSE:

Q Witness, shortly before the recess we spoke of the stock piles in Greece, concerning food. You said that according to your judgment there were available stocks for one and one-half years. Now I ask you: how did you find that out?

A I know that from the warehouses which used to be filled before the arrival of the Germans and which were emptied by the Germans upon their entry into Greece.

Q That is to say, that is your own judgment that there were stocks for one and one-half years.

AA As a witness, of course I am testifying from my own knowledge.

Q Did you find out about all stocks, in order to arrive at this judgment?

A That is my opinion, as I stated before.

Q How was Greece, - that is through what connection, - how was Greece fed in normal times?

A Until the arrival of the Germans, Greece was absolutely independent with a very few exceptions. They lived from their own land, with a few exceptions, a few things were imported from the outside. The reason was that the English had also brought a large amount of foodstuffs.

Q In what kind of transportation or ships, - how was the food imported?

A The food was sent into Greece by all means of transportation, which the Germans later on took away, without worrying about the food situation of the country.

Q We will determine that yet.

Witness, - granting the difficult situation so far as food is concerned, - wasn't it contributed to by the fact that Greek and British troops, during the withdrawal, destroyed the railroads?

A The British did not destroy anything, and I shall repeat my testimony as given before; it was the fact that the Germans had stolen all of the food we had, that contributed to the situation of that country.

Q Witness, do you want to say, under oath, that the British troops during their withdrawal did not destroy anything in the matter of transportation facilities? Do you really want to testify to that?

A I couldn't actually say that, that they didn't destroy anything at all, but I shall again repeat my testimony, that everything, all we had in foodstuffs and everything else, was stolen by the Germans.

Q Witness, I want to get an answer to my question. You said first, that the British troops during their withdrawal did not destroy any transportation facilities. I ask you whether you want to testify to that, under oath.

A I told you before that I was stating everything under oath, and I shall stick to my testimony, but I would like to repeat, as I did so many times, the starvation which I described yesterday, and all of the other difficulties, which the Greek people were going through, was simply due to the fact that the Germans had stolen everything we had in Greece.

It is, of course, a known fact that if possible, sometimes trains were blown up, and the means of transportation were thus troubled, but that does not mean, necessarily, that the Germans were not responsible for that also.

Therefore, I stick to my testimony again, and say that they were the ones who had stolen everything we had.

Q We will discuss that matter yet.

CROSS EXAMINATION CONTINUED BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q In order to refresh your recollection, don't you know that the British, during their withdrawal, destroyed the Bralo bridge near Thermophlae that thus, the only connection between Saloniki and Athens, was thereby interrupted?

A That fact was not known to me. All I know is that trains were still coming in from Saloniki, going to Athens for the Germans, not for the Greeks. I don't know if the trains stopped right near that point -- bridge which you call Bralo -- but in any case I do know that the trains were coming from Saloniki in to Athens.

Q Do you know that was true for the whole time?

A All I can tell you is that the -- if you want to call it tactical communication -- between Saloniki, Athens, and the Peloponnes did exist; so all I can tell you is what I saw. I saw trains loaded coming in full of food for the Germans.

Q You also want to say this for the time when the Bralo bridge was destroyed by the British troops and then later was destroyed a second time by the Partisans?

A I do remember the incident when the Greek forces blew up the bridge of Bralo, but even from that period of time I do remember that trains were coming into Athens. Possibly a stop-over was carried out there where they would carry the food across or where the train would change on some of these bridges. In any case the communication was still good because the food was coming into Athens.

Q Witness, you were very much concerned with the food situation in Athens?

A Yes, the government thought it important.

Q Witness, then you would also have to know that the German army ran food ships for the Greek population from Saloniki to Athens which were unfortunately torpedoed.

A I don't know that. That is absolutely new to me; but, in any case, all I know is that the population of Athens was dying of starvation, and I know that for certain.

Q Witness, don't you know either that the British troops caused Greek ships in the harbor Alexandria to be retained so that the foodstuffs brought for the Greeks could not get to Athens?

A I couldn't know that, for the very simple reason that the Germans wouldn't let me listen to foreign broadcasts or to radio stations.

Q I didn't get the answer. Did you stick to this order?

A Yes indeed.

Q Did you find that out later?

A I didn't.

Q Witness, do you know, and you would have to know, if you were concerned with the food situation -- do you know that those Greeks who worked for the Germans were completely fed by the Germans?

A That was the business of the German Army and not my business.

Q I ask you whether you know that the Greeks who were employed by the German troops and by German authorities were fed by the Germans?

A I told you what the relationship was with the Greeks, but of course, if the Greeks were working for the Germans possibly they were fed. But only a very few worked for the Germans.

Q Witness, do you know that it was forbidden to the German soldiers to eat in Greek restaurants to of regard for the Greek population?

AAAt that time the restaurants didn't have anything anyway.

Q Do you want to say that the restaurants never had anything to offer during all the time of the occupation?

A I wish to say that during the time of the occupation the restaurants didn't have anything at all, and I mean that until the period of time when the Red Cross started sending food into Greece. And if the restaurants had anything to eat, it came from the blackmarket and was only for blackmarketeers.

Q You just mentioned the Red Cross deliveries. Do you know, Witness, that these Red Cross deliveries from Switzerland and Sweden were made possible only because German military authorities especially saw to it?

A I heard something entirely different. I heard that our allies wanted to send us foodstuffs but that the Germans wouldn't permit them to do so. They would make certain difficulties.

Q Witness, I will now show you some proof that it is just the contrary. I believe that I must now point out to you, and you must know it very well as a lawyer, that in these proceedings you have to testify without hate. Do you know that?

A I know that, and I can tell you that I do not have any hate against the Germans; I'm just sorry for them.

Q Witness, you just said that the food deliveries from foreign countries were brought in against the will of the Germans.

A I didn't exactly say that. I said that there were certain difficulties. Now, I don't know and I imagine there were certain objections on the part of the Germans, but there must have been some sort of negotiations which finally enabled the ships to come to the harbor and bring the foodstuffs. How else could they come if it hadn't been for the help of the Germans?

Q That is already something different from what you have said before, Witness. Witness, one question: Who was the Papal Nuntius at Athens at that time?

A I didn't know him.

Q You didn't know him?

A No, I tell you I didn't, but if you would give me his name maybe I would remember it.

Q He was the ambassador Roncati from the Roman Vatican to Greece.

A. No, I didn't know him, nor did I ever hear that name.

CROSS EXAMINATION CONTINUED BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q You just spoke of the Red Cross deliveries. When did they come through?

A I believe it was after the middle of 1942 and 1943.

Q From where did these deliveries come?

A They came from America, from Canada, from England, from Egypt, and also from the Middle East.

Q Were there any from Sweden?

A I believe so. I don't know for certain, but I believe so.

Q Do you know that just the German authorities were especially supporting these deliveries?

A I didn't know that, no.

Q Do you know that the German troops especially helped in bringing in the harvest for the Greek population?

A No, I knew the contrary.

Q What do you mean by the contrary? Was the help refused?

A I know of no such help.

Q Do you know, witness, that the Greek fisheries, with the help of the German troops, were made workable again?

A We Greeks didn't see any fish.

Q Are you married?

A Yes, indeed.

Q Do you have children?

A Yes.

Q How old are these children?

A I have a son 21.

Q Do you know that in Athens even though it was not German sovereign territory, children were fed by the army.

A I don't know of any such thing. All I know is that the children were receiving something from the Red Cross.

Q Do you really want to say under oath that you, as a man who was always active in Athens, that you never heard of the fact that German troops continually fed children?

A I know of no such thing. But I do know that Greek children would go near German messes and try to get some food, whereupon the food would be refused them. And, as a matter of fact, the big containers with the food would be emptied on the ground and gasoline poured on to that remaining food so that nobody could eat it.

Q Do you really want to testify to that under oath?

A Yes, I'm stating that under oath and I saw it with my own eyes.

Q You saw that with your own eyes?

A Yes, with my two eyes.

Q When and where?

AAAt the station called Peloponessum -- Peloponnes in Athens.

Q Witness, don't you know anything about the fact other than the stocks captured by the German troops were made available to the Greek troops and to the Greek population?

A This is the first time I have heard about that.

Q You said yesterday that heavy penalties of imprisonment were ordered for a Greek having more food than was necessary for two or three days. How would you explain these threats of penalties?

A I don't understand the question.

Q How would you explain -- what reason would you assume for the fact that the German administration ordered imprisonment for Greeks who had food in possession for more than two or three days?

A I'm just giving my opinion on that. I imagine that they didn't want to have all the people going to the shops and buying all the foodstuffs that they could get a hold of. I believe that was the only reason. In order to stop that they threatened them with heavy penalties.

Q Then there was food to be brought, after all.

A There were very few things -- a very few things -- most of it in the blackmarket.

Q Wasn't this threat of punishment made in order to secure a just distribution of the foodstuffs?

A The entire approach of the Germans toward the Greeks makes me believe exactly the contrary -- the entire attitude and the entire policy.

Q And why was it prohibited to the population to get food from the country?

A I couldn't understand that. All I knew was that the people was going to die of starvation and was being sentenced to death by starvation.

Q But you just said that they were sentenced to a death of starvation.

A Of course.

Q Do you know anything about the fact that the German authorities combatted the blackmarket very strongly?

A No, I didn't know that.

Q In order to put another question at this point, who was responsible for the supply of foodstuffs in Athens -- German authorities or Italian authorities?

A The occupational forces.

Q I just asked you which of the occupying powers -- the Germans or the Italians?

A I would like to repeat my statement which I made before, namely that whatever was going on in Greece was done by the Germans. The Italians did not have too much importance. They were even less important than we were.

Q We want to pass to another point. Which political movements existed, at the time of the occupation, against the German and Italian occupied powers?

Q. We want to pass to another point. Which political movement existed at the time of the occupation against the German and Italian power?

A. During the entire period of the occupation, the entire Greek nation and every Greek, individually, was fighting for the liberation of his country.

Q. And which movements arose in that time?

A. You have the movement of active resistance which could be found in the mountains and the movement of passive resistance which would be found in the towns and villages.

Q. In which one were you active?

A. I was in the movement of Greece.

Q. You just said that there was an active and a passive movement. To which did you belong?

A. I was the Chief of Police and I believe, Mr. Counsel can understand very well in which of the two I was. I was in the both the active and the passive resistance.

Q. Now, witness, which movement existed. We want to stress the active one. You certainly will now that, as a police chief.

A. Certain military groups had developed which military groups were led by officers and which were under the direct orders of the Commander of the Middle East. There were the men in command were men like Zervas, like Psaros, and Sarafis and others.

Q. What other active movements were existing who resisted the German occupation?

A. Those are the only ones I know.

Q. Witness, haven't you ever heard anything? We heard very much of the EAM and the ELAS.

A. The EAM is a political group. The ELAS was a military unit which was being led by one of those officers.

Q. Did the EAM and the ELAS--did they fight the Zervas groups?

MR. DENNEY: If your Honor pleases, I don't see that his has any place in the cross examination all the inner ramifications there at that time.

MR. LATERNSEER: May I say something to this? I would like to find out by asking these questions what the conditions at that time were in Greece, and it is absolutely necessary to find out what they were in order to be able to judge, in order to be able to understand the military measures which were taken by the occupying power. This is absolute, probative evidence matter. I ask that the question be admitted.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: I think that Dr. Laternser is going quite far afield in the matter of cross-examination. If you are trying to prove something affirmative for your own case, I don't think this is the proper time to do it.

DR. LATERNSEER: Yes, your Honor, but this is it. The witness has testified to several measures by the military authorities. For example, he has spoken of shootings. The basis for these shootings are the conditions at that time and the conditions at that time under which the occupying power undertook these measures. Therefore, it was special importance.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: We will let you proceed with that to a limited extent.

BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q. I asked you whether these groups fought each other?

A. I don't know what the relationship was between those two groups but I do know that these were organizations of resistance or resistance movements against the Germans for the liberation of their country.

Q. What was the relationship between these two groups to each other? I mean the national resistance movement--Zervas and the other resistance movement, designated either ELAS or EAM.

MR. DENNEY: I thought the witness was testifying and said there were two kind of resistance groups those in the mountains and those in the cities and now Dr. Laternser is giving us some more advice on national groups and other kinds of the groups about which the witness has not testified. I object to the question.

DR. LATERNSEER: I thought the question referred to what the witness has already said.

MR. DENNEY: He didn't characterize it that way. The witness said there were two kinds of groups. Now Dr. Laternser is trying to label the groups.

THE PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Will you restate the question, Dr. Laternser, in different form, please?

BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q. Witness, you just spoke of various resistance movements.

A. I didn't speak of two resistance movements. I spoke of two groups who were fighting against the Germans under the direction of officers because the resistance movement was one single movement of Greece.

Q. Witness, which resistance movements during the occupation fought the Germans and organized against the Germans?

A. It was a resistance movement as I told you before.

Q. But this resistance movement was not uniform was it?

A. Why, of course.

Q. Do you really want to say, witness, that this movement under Zervas was united with the movement of ELAS and EAM?

A. What I want to say is that these groups were all fighting against the German invader under the direction of officers who had been sent there by the Commanders in the Middle East.

Q. Witness, I had ask you whether these two movements which you have mentioned fought each other or were they united?

MR. DENNEY: If your Honor please, I submit he is arguing with the witness. He has answered the question. He has told them what kind of resistance there was and Dr. Laternser keeps trying to label two groups.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, it is very important what condition existed during the German occupation. I must be entitled to ask such questions.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: I think the objection should be sustained. Let me say, Dr. Laternser, that I think this cross-examination is getting very far afield from what he testified on direct examination.

I wish you would consider during the noon recess this fact that if you want develop facts concerning the situation in Greece that was not brought out on direct examination, you should make him your own witness and interrogate him. I think the Tribunal would permit you to do that but to allow you to continue to the extent you have on cross examination violates all the rules that I know anything about.

DR. LATERNSEER: I shall give the Tribunal my opinion after the recess.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: We will recess until one-thirty.

(A recess was taken until 1330 hours.)

AFTERNOON SESSION

THE MARSHAL: The persons in the courtroom will be seated.

The Tribunal is again in session.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: You may proceed, Dr. Laternser.

BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q Witness, shortly before the recess we were talking about the various resistance movements. In what way did these resistance movements act against the German Occupation force?

A The resistance movements were fighting the occupational German forces by doing all the things which any resistance movement would do in order to stop the enemy from its occupation.

Q You said in order to keep them for occupying the country? Greek was occupied.

A They were fighting for the liberation of Greece.

Q In doing this did they commit cruelties against the German troops?

A Not that I know of. All I know is that they were fighting against the German troops.

Q You don't know anything about cruelties or atrocities?

MR. DENNEY: Your Honor, I submit he is going pretty far in cross-examination here and he has testified, the witness on his question, he says he doesn't know anything about it and I submit he is bound by his answer.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Objection sustained.

BY DR. LATERNER:

Q Yesterday you mentioned the execution Kalavrita. What had been done previously to that against the German troops?

A All I know is that a result of the guerilla operations. Three German columns started marching towards Kalavrita, they segregated men, women and children. All the men were executed while the women, and children were locked into a school house.

Q Witness, did not the partisans prior to that murder and main 78 German soldiers?

A I personally don't know that, but there is another witness here who will testify about Kalavrita and he undoubtedly should know more about it.

Q You only know then that in Kalavrita Greeks were shot?

A Yes indeed, and I personally visited both Kalavrita and (Self) and the cemetery there and I saw first of all the ruins of Kalavrita and in the cemetery I saw the crosses for the people who had been killed.

Q On the occasion of your visit to Kalavrita, did you also talk to inhabitants or former inhabitants of Kalavrita?

A All those I used to know, because I had visited Kalavrita on forty occasions, had been killed.

Q And did you not later talk to an inhabitant of Kalavrita?

A I spoke with women from Kalavrita.

Q Surely, you asked these women who came from Kalavrita what the reason for these shootings was.

A That was not the only town where Greek men had been killed

Q But, witness, if you talked with inhabitants of Kalavrita, about the happenings which occurred there, you surely asked them why these things had happened?

A The reason for the execution of these Greek citizens, men namely, was stated to be by the women of Kalavrita that Kalavrita was sheltering Greek guerillas. That is, they had been accused by the Germans of sheltering Greek guerillas.

Q And nothing was said by those women about the fact that the troops had been shot at in Kalavrita so that 78 German soldiers had been killed.

MR. DENNEY: He asked him that before and he told him he didn't hear anything about it. Now I think he has exhausted the subject.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Objection sustained.

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, may I say something quite briefly to what the prosecution has just objected to? I am of course justified in cross-examination to change the statement of a witness and I have been successful in some cases, and if he said previously that the reasons which he has just given that they could not find out about these reasons, that the women told him that shootings took place because the inhabitants had supported the bands and now I am trying to ascertain whether the women did not tell him the troop marching through the village had been shot at by inhabitants. That is an important circumstance. I therefore ask if this question is admitted?

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: All right, we will let you ask that question.

BY DR. LATERNSE: Witness, did these women of Kalavrita tell you that the troops marching through the villages were shot at the villages so that 78 German soldiers were killed?

A You are asking me about shots as fired from the inside of Kalavrita?

Q I ask you about the German soldiers shot, which had been murdered by the population of Kalavrita.

A I don't know that; I have heard for the first time that German soldiers were fired at from Kalavrita, the reason being that if this had been the case the people that fired, at Kalavrita, on German soldiers, the German soldiers would have fired back, and there would have been no necessity to destroy the village.

Q You are a lawyer, aren't you?

A Yes.

Q And you know sufficiently about international law that if a troop is fired at from a village one may burn the village.

MR. DENNEY: If he is going to qualify the witness as an expert on international law I submit that he should take him over as his own and lay the proper foundation. I certainly object to this line of testimony.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Objection sustained.

BY DR. LATERNSE:

Q Witness, who, among the various resistance movements, fought most strongly against the German occupational force?

A I don't know.

Q Most attacks against the German occupational forces were they not caused by Communists in force?

MR. DENNEY: He is now going so far beyond the scope of direct examination that I submit that he should be limited. There has been absolutely no testimony at all about Communists.

DR. LATERNSEER: In every report that has been mentioned the Prosecution has assumed that the reason so many Communists have been shot is because of attacks against the German armed forces and for this reason I am justified in asking if he knew anything about that and knew anything about the Communists.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Sustained.

BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q Witness, you said yesterday that the German troops had confiscated most of the hospitals and limited the Greek population to a very small part only?

MR. DENNEY: Dr. Laternser continues to expand the scope of this witness' testimony through all of Greece. I think it was very clearly brought out on direct examination that the man was in Athens all of the time and was only testifying with reference to Athens and I respectfully request the court that they direct him to limit himself to that and not to try to enlarge this to the whole Greek picture.

PRESIDING: I think that is quite true. I also think this witness is capable of drawing those distinctions. He is evidently an intelligent individual and we will permit him to answer the question.

BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q I repeat. Witness, when you said yesterday German troops had confiscated most of the hospitals and that the Greek population was limited to a small part, is that correct?

A Yes, that is correct.

Q Do you know the head of the Greek Ministry of Health, that is, Ministerial Director, Dr. Kopamarris?

A Kopamarris is the name. Yes, I know him very well.

Q Did you ever talk to him about what the German troops did in the field of sanitation and health for Athens and Greece?

A No, I didn't.

Q But you said just now that you knew him very well and it would be quite natural one would talk about these matters.

MR. DENNEY: Now Dr. Laternser says he knew him well and then he asked if he talked to the man on the subject and he said no. Objection.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Objection sustained.

BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q Don't you know that the entire rural population suffered because the doctors had fled into the cities, and were kept without cost by the German doctors whom they consulted and they were operated on by them. Did you ever hear that?

A I don't know that because I was living in Athens.

Q Now regarding Athens, don't you know that in Athens the civilian hospitals received their food and supplies from German stocks?

A No, I don't know that.

Q And you also don't know that the German Army gave medicines and bandages to the civilian hospitals?

A All I know is that the Red Cross was doing those things. Unfortunately I know of no case where Germans had done such a thing because if they had I would have been very happy to tell the defense counsel about it.

Q Don't you know regarding the efforts of the German authorities to criticize malaria among the large populations?

A That is a question which is unknown to me. I was in Athens all the time and I didn't learn anything about it.

Q Have you heard anything about extensive drainage of swamps?

A No, I didn't hear anything about it.

Q You said yesterday also that the German authorities had cut off electric current at Athens. Why did that happen?

A The only reason was that they wanted to save electricity and simply use it for the purposes of the German occupational forces. They didn't care about the Greek people.

Q Witness, how long was Athens without electric current?

A The electricity would be on sometimes and then again it would be shut off, particularly during winter we didn't have any light at all.

Q And what was it like after the withdrawal of the German troops? Did you have light right away then?

A Yes, we did until shortly before they left but when they left they blew up all the electrical plants so of course we didn't have any light at all.

Q And for how long were you without light?

A I couldn't tell you exactly how long but it was for a long period of time.

Q You further said yesterday regarding this blocking off of various districts in Athens.

Whom were the authorities looking for in these actions?

A They weren't looking for anybody in particular when they carried out that blocking off of the roads and streets because if they were looking for somebody in particular they would either go and find him in his home or they would look for him where ever they thought he might be hiding; where they carried out this blocking off of the roads they would capture mostly civilians.

Q And in this connection you talked of a mysterious man wearing a black mask. Who was this man? What kind of man?

Page Unlabeled

A I personally believe that the man wearing that black mask was a German soldier who pointed out civilians at random, you know, to find an excuse.

Q Why should he wear a black mask; I am telling you that it was probably a Greek.

A I am certain that it was not a Greek. Why should he be a Greek?

Q You are quite sure that he wasn't a Greek. Were you at the time Deputy President of Police in Athens?

A Yes, of course. I was staying in Athens.

Q Were you at that time Deputy Chief of Police?

A No, at the time I was the Chief of the Air Raid Precaution Service.

Q You then talked about concentration camps yesterday.

A Yes.

Q What do you understand by concentration camp?

A By that I mean a large space which contains large buildings and which has barbed wire fence around it. The people would be taken into that barbed wire enclosure and kept there for as long a period of time as the Germans desired.

Q In what kind of building was this so-called concentration camp?

A It was in Chaldari.

Q You said yesterday that it was a barracks?

A Yes, that is correct; they were barracks and I am saying the same thing today.

Q Which units were stationed in these barracks before the outbreak of war?

A It was a new barracks that had not been used as barracks as yet until six months before the beginning of the war, at which time Greek soldiers were billeted there, the Greek soldiers that were fighting Albania. 2052

Q Did you inspect those barracks closely at that time?

A No, I did not inspect the barracks. I had no reason whatsoever to do so. I had no right to do so.

Q Did you in the mean time have a good look at the court house here in Nurnberg?

A No, I didn't. I could have done it but I didn't.

Q You still want to say that the barracks there, in Athens, are the same size as this building here?

A All I can say is, and I shall remain with my testimony, that the barracks, as I know the barracks, were almost as long according to their size and they could be compared to this court house building. In any case I didn't know Nurnberg before and those buildings could accommodate a whole brigade as barracks.

Q Witness, during the whole time of the occupation by the Germans you occupied office?

A Yes, I held those offices before the invasion and I remained at my post of course.

Q You must have collaborated quite well with the German Ministry Department?

MR. DENNEY: I submit that I object to Dr. Laternser suggesting to the witness that he collaborated with anybody. He certainly knows better than that.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER Sustained.

A I collaborated with those German officers so well to a certain extent that I don't know one single defendant and I would like to know if anyone of them knows me.

DR. LATERNSE: I have not further questions.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Any further questions by defense counsel.

BY DR. HINDEMITH (As deputy of Dr. Rauschenbach, attorney for the defendant Foertsch):

CROSS EXAMINATION

Q You said the German troops shortly after the entry confiscated all stocks and robbed warehouses. Is that correct?

A Yes, that is correct.

Q Would you explain that in detail? And how far the German Ministry Departments carried out this robbery as you call it?

MR. DENNEY: I certainly think this witness has covered that in his testimony all morning, and unless Dr. Hindemith has something new that he wants to bring out I object to his question on this line. I suggest he pass to something else.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: We permitted Dr. Laternser to go into detail on all these matters and unless there is something new there is no occasion for going into it again. We don't want to repeat this over and over. The objection is sustained.

BY DR. HINDEMITH:

Q Another question. You said that the situation as regards food for the Greek population was more and more difficult immediately after the entry of the German troops by reason of the confiscations. In the summer months it had been tolerable; from September 1941 onwards the situation had become tragic, and the situation had become especially difficult by the fact that an order had been issued according to which every kind of imports into Athens were forbidden. When was this order issued?

A The order was issued immediately after the Germans had entered Athens. The same applied to the order according to which not more food should be kept at home than was absolutely necessary.

DR. HINDEMITH: I have no further questions.

THE PRESIDENT: Any further questions by defense counsel?

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW for General Felmy:

Q Witness, may I recall to you that the subject matter about which you were to testify and for which you have been called here is the activities of the German Occupation Forces in Greece, not in Athens from 1941 to 1945.

A I offered to testify about anything I know. I shall also testify, if you want me to, about things I heard and which things I ascertained personally about.

Q Witness, is it known to you that in Athens after the withdrawal the German troops, an American Embassy was opened?

A You mean after the liberation?

Q After the withdrawal of the German troops?

AAfter the liberation all legations were reinstated. We had the American legation, the British Legation, the French Legation and others.

Q From your official position which you occupied did you have any official connections with the American Legation?

A None whatsoever.

Q Is Mr. William Hardy McNeil known to you?

A You are talking about this Englishman? Yes, I heard his name but I don't know him personally.

Q Mr. Hardy McNeil is not an Englishman but he is an American. From November 1944 until June 1946 he was the deputy Military attache of the United States in Athens. Do you know this gentlemen?

A No, I don't know him because I had no dealings whatsoever with the American Legation, nor with any of the other Legations.

Q This Mr. McNeil has recently published a book with the title "The Greek Dilemma". May I ask the interpreter to read part of the book?

MR. DENNY: May your Honors please, I don't what we have to do with a book written by McNeil with the title of "The Greek Dilemma". He has asked the witness if he knows him, the witness says he doesn't knew him.

I object to this kind of questioning.

THE PRESIDENT: That's improper cross examination. Objection sustained.

Q The fact that the witness does not know this Mr. McNeil cannot be reason for not allowing me to submit part of this book to him on which I ask his opinion. In this circumstance the whether he knows him or not is quite irrelevant.

THE PRESIDENT: I don't think his opinion is relevant on this subject. Objection sustained.

Q Witness, you said yesterday the members of the Greek Police were shortly deprived of their arms shortly after the entry of the Germans.

A I didn't speak about weapons at all yesterday. When I was asked, however, if the policemen had any weapons, I answered "At the beginning of the occupation they did not, but later on they did have weapons, at the end of the occupation."

Q Did you not say yesterday that the weapons had been taken from them and they only had wooden sticks and at the time of the occupation were issued some weapons.

A No, I didn't say that. I was asked if the police had any weapons whereupon I said at the beginning of the occupation they did not have, and towards the end they did.

Q The end? Then may I draw your attention to Document Book 17, document NOKW -044, Exhibit 418. It says on page 62 of the German Document Book in a teletype message of a daily report of Military commanders of the 19 September 1943, under Greece it says:

"Greek police Pyraeus was armed with pistols in order to be able to combat Communistic terror groups." Do you maintain your statement, witness?

AAbsolutely. I said it quite clearly - that toward the end of occupation they received a few weapons.

Q Witness, the date this was issued is 19 September 1943. As far as I know the end of the occupation took place about 2 years later, 1 year later.

A The occupation lasted for 3½ years.

Q You call that the end of the time of occupation?

Witness, I have some further questions regarding what you told us about the food situation. First of all, you frequently talked about the black market in Athens. Was this extensive, this black market?

A Yes.

Q As Deputy Chief of Police of Athens what did you do against the black market in order to provide Greek population with food stuffs?

A Whatever measure a slave himself can take, a slave who is hungry. In order to fight the black market activities, I had to have something to eat myself, and I didn't.

Q Would you not rather have resigned from your office as Deputy Chief of Police, witness? Or was that what you previously termed passive resistance?

A. No, but in any case an order had been issued according to which we had no right to resign from our positions in the Police.

Q Who issued this order?

A That was an order issued by the Government of Tsolakoglou. I will spell the name. T S O L G L O U.

Q That was the official Greek government at that time?

A For me that was not the official Greek government. The official Greek government as far as I was concerned was that of the king, the king himself.

Q But you said just now that you had received orders from this government and that you had to carry these orders out and for this reason you had to remain at your Post?

A Yes, that's correct.

Q Witness, from this same Government did you also receive this order? Not to supply the civilian population of Athens with food?

A What was I supposed to do about this food? Where was I to find the food? We didn't have any food. The Army of Occupation should have been the one to see to it that the Greek population should have food. If it pleases the Court, the International Law.

Q Witness, I didn't ask you for that. Something else. You said yesterday that the German so-called hostage cars were placed in front of trains, open cars with wires.

A Would you be more precise about the question please?

Q Witness, you said yesterday that the Germans put in front of railroad trains between Saloniki and Athens, that they put in front of these trains two hostage cars, after that came the engine, then the German cars, and then the remaining cars. Is that right?

A Yes, that's correct with one little mistake which I would like to correct. I didn't say two cars, but I said one or two.

Q Did you at that time and today do you now consider this measure to be right?

A No, I didn't consider it correct. I consider it inhumane.

Q Why did you think it was inhumane?

MR. DENNEY: May your Honor please, I don't think we have to probe the witness' mind about what he thinks about this, whether he was there and what he thinks about it.

THE PRESIDENT: Objection sustained. It is not cross examination.

Q Witness, don't you think perhaps also that with these hostage care, it was, in any case, prevented that these trains were attacked and I assume that, and I expect you will agree with me, that in the Greek population generally the existence of these hostage cars was known?

A I believe that an Army should fight an Army and not the innocent.

Q May I now ask the Interpreter to read something here? This is a New York Herald Tribune, Paris Edition, for August 13, 1947.

MR. DENNEY: I certainly don't think we are concerned with what the New York Herald Tribune, Paris Edition, for August 13, 1947, has to say about anything.

Q It belongs to the context.

THE PRESIDENT: Objection sustained. Improper cross examination.

Q Witness, you said yesterday that the German, after their entry into Athens, released the Greek soldiers wounded on the Albanian.

front. That is, threw them into the streets?

A Yes, that is correct.

Q That was in the year of 1941?

A Yes.

Q Is it now known to you, witness, that sufficient hospitals for the Greek wounded remained completely untouched?

A I know personally that wounded soldiers with missing arms and legs and thighs found themselves on the sidewalks of the Kifisia Avenue, spelled K-i-f-i-s-i-a.

Q Witness, you didn't answer my question. I will put it more concretely. Into the hospitals into Vofuliagminis/Evangelismnos and of these university hospitals in the center of Athens - do they mean anything to you?

A I don't know anything about Vofuliagminis. I don't even know it. I do know about Evangelismnos, and I know as I stated yesterday that they were left to Greece, a section of it.

Vofuliagminis is spelled V-o-f-u-l-i-a-g-m-i-n-i-s and Evangelismnos is spelled E-v-a-n-g-e-l-i-s-m-n-o-s.

Q You didn't know anything about Vofuliagminis.

A No, I didn't. I don't even believe such a hospital exists.

Q And do you think it possible, witness, that as you are talking about the fact that wounded soldiers had been lying on the streets or been sitting in the streets, Greek wounded, that this was merely a case of transfer from one military hospital to another hospital for organizational reasons?

A No, and I will tell you why because this is not the whole idea and if you want me to I will repeat it to you, Mr. Defense Counsel.

Q I am just being informed that Vofuliagminis is a suburb of Athens on the coast of Glifada.

Witness, you said yesterday that a German soldier spit into the face of the Greek wounded soldiers lying in the street. Did you see that yourself?

MR. DENNEY: Your Honors, he did not testify to any such thing yesterday. He testified that a Greek soldier spit into his face and I certainly object to Dr. Mueller-Torgow insinuating that the witness said that.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: I think the defense counsel misunderstood it, as I recall. Defense counsel, you might ask him what was said.

Q What did you say yesterday, witness? May I ask you to repeat it?

A That is not what I said. I said that a Greek soldier spat into my face, because the Germans had ordered the evacuation of that hospital. The civilian manager in charge of the hospital simply didn't know where to put those wounded soldiers. That was the reason he called up the office, my office, namely, in order to receive help from us. When I went to the hospital myself I saw how these wounded Greek soldiers were sitting on the laps of the male or female nurses of the hospital.

When I can closer to one of the wounded, in order to calm him down -- of course, I was wearing my uniform at the time -- he spit in my face while saying that the Greek did not, or was not in a position and did not support all those heroes who had fought at the Albanian front and lost their limbs.

After this I met the manager of the hospital, and immediately I hurried to find some space where to put those poor souls. I finally found the school of Marazlion.

Q Witness, that is sufficient.

A I carried these people or had them carried by hand with the help of wheelbarrows.

Q Witness, is it known to you that the German Military Commander in 1941, procured remedies for the benefit of the Greek wounded soldiers, in order to meet an emergency-

MR. DENNEY: Which military commander? There were a lot of them, your Honors -- which of the German Military Commanders?

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW: The military commander of Southeastern Greece.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Let him answer if he knows.

A I don't know that.

Q Witness, Is it known to you that in October 1941 in Athens a collection for German Greek victims who came under the protectorate of the Archbishop Damaskinos of Athens and Greece took place and that the result was given to the Greek Red Cross for the benefit of the Greek soldiers wounded during this war.

A No, I didn't know anything about it.

Q Witness, I am now returning to the question of the electric supply of Athens. How was Athens supplied with electricity?

A What period of time are you talking about, Mr. Defense Counsel?

Q I am talking about the time from 1941 onwards when the Germans had occupied Greece.

A I don't know.

Q Did the electricity supply of Athens -- was it based on coal or water power?

A You mean -- about the electrical plant of Piraeus?

Q Yes, the electricity plant in the Piraeus.

A In any case, it wasn't water.

Q Then I expect it must have been coal.

MR. DENNEY: I object to what Dr. Mueller-Torgow thinks it is and I don't think the witness had been qualified as an engineer. He has gone over the railway problem with him and now we are trying to go over electric power sources. I think there are other ways of testing it.

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW: Your Honors, this question is immediately connected with what the witness said yesterday about the electricity supply in Athens and especially regarding the treatment of the Greek population.

I just want to get to the bottom of things.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: You may answer the question. He may answer the question.

A I know that the electric plant of the Pyraeus did not work with water. It is possible that either coal or oil was used. In case, I am not an engineer nor am I a mechanic.

Q Witness, please describe to me the general situation in Athens in the summer of 1944, covering the month of July, August and September, from the Police point of view; that is, regarding law and order and security.

A That was a period of time during which the Germans were not in a position to keep order in Athens. Prior to that they permitted that certain discrepancies and troubles amongst the people be eliminated.

Q Would you kindly repeat that? I haven't understood it.

A Because after the Germans had been chased out of Greece every one of those groups wanted to get the honor of having thrown the Germans out.

Q Pardon me, if I interrupt you. I did not ask regarding that period of time. I asked concerning the summer months of 1944 when the Germans were still there. Was it quiet in Athens then or not and, if not, why not?

A I already answered about that. I have told you that immediately after the Germans left; the Germans, of course, were no longer interested in keeping order in Greece there and, as the departure was imminent, of course, they were glad to have trouble which trouble they permitted to happen with pleasure because that would help their withdrawal without too many losses.

Q First of all, you tell me there was unrest there. I didn't know that until now. Now tell me please what Athens looked like at that time.

What those unrests there and who was responsible for this unrest?

A The conditions during all those months were not anything in particular. I mean the situation was not normal in any case.

Q What do you mean by "not normal"? May I ask you to be a little bit more concrete?

A Due to the carelessness on the part of the German occupational forces, the passive resistance movements turned into active resistance and, as I stated before, they wanted to possibly throw the Germans out and received all the honor for doing that work, that job.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: We will take our afternoon recess at this time.

(A recess was taken)

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: You may proceed.

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW: Witness, as you told us yesterday, you were for some time director of the Civilian Air Defense for Athens?

A Yes, that is correct.

Q Would you please tell me once again when that was exactly.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: I think this witness has told us that at least three or four times.

BY DR. MUELLER-TORGOW:

Q Is Athens- was Athens ever bombed?

A The main name of the bombardment was the Pyraeus, but a few bombs did fall on Athens. Exactly what period of time are you talking about, Mr. Defense Counsel?

In general, in the latter part of '44. Athens was bombed toward the end of the occupation, and it was in the Platea, which is the square of Atikis.

Q Was it ever bombed after the German occupation?

A No. After the occupation by the German forces, it was not bombed after that.

MR. DENNEY: If your Honors please, I object to this line of questioning about the bombing of Athens after the German forces departed I cannot see it is relevant.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: I think the objection comes a little late. I think we are getting out of the scopes of this witness' examination.

BY DR. MUELLER-TORGOW:

Q Witness, how was Athens supplied with water?

MR. DENNEY: Your Honors, I do not think we have to go into the Athens water supply either. I object to that. It is irrelevant.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Objection sustained.

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW: Your Honor, this question belongs to the complexity of the relationship of the German Military authority to the Greek civilian population, which as been frequently the subject of the witness' testimony. The witness has testified several times that the military authorities did not take care of the civilian population of Athens.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: He was not asked in direct about the water system. If you want to show it in defense you can do that, but it is improper to ask this witness about it.

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW: Then I have no further questions.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: Are there any further questions by the defense?

... All counsel indicated they had no further questions ...

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: Are there any redirect questions?

REDIRECT EXAMINATION BY MR. DENNEY:

Q When did the Germans come to Athens?

A On the 27th of April 1941.

Q And when did they leave?

A On the 12th of October 1944.

Q During that entire time were there German troops in Athens? That is, between April, 1941 and 12th of October, 1944?

A Yes, there were.

Q Can you give the Tribunal -- withdrawn.

How many German troops, if you know, approximately were there during that period?

A It was absolutely impossible for me to know that, because a very strict secrecy was kept on that number.

Q Did you see Italian troops in Athens during that period?

A Yes, there were Italian troops in Athens during the occupation.

Q Can you tell the Tribunal which troops were there in greater numbers, - the Italians or the Germans.

DR. LATERNSEER: As the witness has just said that he does not know how many German troops there were, he also would not know whether there were more Germans or more Italians there. I object to the question.

MR. DENNEY: I have not asked him. He has said he did not know how many Germans, but he can certainly give whether, so far as he saw, there were more Germans, more Italians, or the same number. It is exactly the same question Dr. Laternser asked.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: We will permit him to answer the question.

A The number of the Italian soldiers there is absolutely unimportant. The important thing is that Greece was mostly occupied by the Germans, and ruled by Germans. As a matter of fact, three times as many Italians as a small German unit didn't mean very much in Greece. The Germans were even stronger and worse.

Q Dr. Laternser has asked you, at least the English translation came over that way, - whether or not you ever collaborated with the Germans, and in order that there may be no doubt in the record, the term "collaboration" as I understand it means one who works hand-in-glove, or works right along with someone.

Did you ever collaborate with the Germans?

PRESIDENT WENNERSTURM: May I interrupt just a minute. The Tribunal will be in recess at this time until reconvened, because of the fact that the recording is not functioning, and it will be necessary to repair it before we can proceed. With the consent of Judge Carter, who is presiding, the Tribunal will be in recess until reconvened.

... The Court recessed until 1540 hours ...

Page Unlabeled

MR. DENNEY: If it please your Honors, I withdraw the last question. Dr. Laternser has spoken with me during the recess and has said that the term that he used, which was translated to the English as "collaborator" merely was one which was meant to indicate that he kept on working and that he did not imply any collaboration in the question.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: Very well.

MR. DENNEY: I have no further questions, your Honor.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: Are there any further questions by the defense?

... Defense counsel indicated they had no further questions ...

MR. DENNEY: We request that the witness be excused, if your Honors please. I am sorry, I thought the Tribunal had no questions.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: The witness will be excused, subject however, to the possibility that he might be recalled. He will be excused for the time being.

... Witness excused ...

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If your Honors please, I ask that the Marshal be directed to call the witness Costas Triandaphylidis.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: The Marshal will produce the witness.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If your Honors please, this witness will testify to the regular military organization of one of the two major partisan organizations in Greece. I think it might be helpful if your Honors had this map of Greece before you, since there are many place names on it, and the witness will have occasion to refer to it.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: The witness will stand and be sworn. The interpreter will stand and interpret for him, please. -2069

COSTAS TRIANDAPHYLIDIS, a witness, took the stand and testified as follows:

BY THE PRESIDENT: Repeat after me: I swear to speak the truth and only the truth, in reply to whatever I am asked without fear and without prejudice.

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

Q. What is your name?

A. Constantinos Triandifilidis.

Q. How old are you?

A. I am 40.

Q. And where were you born?

A. In Constantinople.

Q. Are you married?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. Have you any children?

A. No, no children.

Q. What is your educational background?

A. I finished the French College and I stayed in the University of Athens for a period of three years.

Q. Have you travelled very much?

A. Not very much but officially anyway.

Q. What is your present profession?

A. I'm a newspaper man.

Q. For what newspaper?

A. I am the manager of Ethnikifloge, and I am also cooperating with other newspapers, namely, the Ellinikonema and Estia.

Q. Where is that newspaper published?

A. In Athens.

Q. What's its circulation today?

A. Approximately 20,000 for the Ethnikifloge.

Q. Do you live in Athens?

A. Yes.

Q. What was your occupation prior to the war between Greece and Italy?

A. I was a newspaperman at the time also. I was a newspaperman since 1933.

Q. Did you cover the Greek-Italian war in the course of your business as a newspaperman?

A. I was working on the Albanian Front from the very first day of the battle against the Italians until the 20th of April 1941.

Q. And what did you do on the 20th of April 1941?

A. I returned to Athens when it was quite apparent that the Greek armies would capitulate.

Q. Did you continue to work on your newspaper after the German occupation of Athens?

A. From the second day of the German occupation on, namely the 28th of April 1941, the Germans closed the newspaper where I used to work. Then that newspaper was Asyrmatos. And from that day on I didn't work with any other legal paper which was circulating regularly.

Q. Did you have any other job during the German occupation?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. And how were you able to live? What money did you get?

A. As the staff of newspapermen was out of a job from that time on, the building where those newspapers were published, the organization of the Greek journalists sold the building and it was from that money that we received certain allowances.

Q. Witness, will you tell the Tribunal very briefly what you did during the period April 1941 until May 1943?

A. It was the summer of 1941 that I was informed that a former Greek officer, Colonel Zervas, intended to organize a certain Greek organization which would fight the German invaders by sabotaging.

Q. Did you talk to Colonel Zervas? Did you talk to Colonel Zervas who was forming a different organization to fight the Germans?

A. I tried to speak to him, but it was rather difficult because he had been arrested by both the Germans and the Italians on several occasions. That is, they had nothing definite that they could prove. He was again released. It was towards August 1941 that I finally succeeded in seeing him.

Q. And did you, talk over the plans of Zervas' organization with him at that time?

A. They did have the intention of--- I finally succeeded in talking to him and he told me that the staff needed a staff of correspondents who could possibly convey messages and information to secret papers and other publications. That is, to publish that information. And what I was mainly interested in was to know whether they would form an organization which would fight against the invaders. I wanted to know if the organizations which were to be set up were going to be military and not fighting organizations.

Q. Did you join Colonel Zervas' organization at that time?

A. Colonel Zervas assured me that he intended to set up such military guerilla units and that he would proceed to establish them, and I joined him and his organization.

Q. What did you do for the organization during the period April 1941 until May 1943?

A. I saw to the printing and circulation of leaflets – flypapers and later on I also helped with publishing a secret paper.

Q. Was there great personal risk involved to you in doing that for the organization?

A. There was an order which had been issued by the German authorities according to which the circulation and printing of such leaflets would result in death. The Italians had issued a similar order.

Q. What did you do, witness, during the period May 1943 until March 1944?

A. That is, of course, I agreed to do the printing of those newspapers. I had to go up to the mountains to go with the other units. As a result of this I met several military commanders, and finally Zervas himself.

Q. Were you up in the mountains the whole time during this period May 1943 until March 1944?

A. No, I wasn't. I only stayed there for a short while, and then I would return to Athens in order to continue the publication of those leaflets.

Q. From what sources did you get the information which you used in your leaflets?

A I gathered my information from the general information which we were receiving in Athens. As far as the information was concerned with reference to the fighting which was going on in the mountains, I received that either from detachments which would come down towards Athens, or either on the spot examination from troops commanded in Athens, and those detachments which were receiving the information from messengers who were coming down from the mountains.

Q While you were in the mountains during this period May 1943 until March 1944, did you see any battles yourself between the Germans and the Zervas' units?

A Personally I only heard about it in October 1943. I was present also in the fighting during the first phase of the struggle which took place near Tsoumerka. And that was during the first phase of the struggle between the Germans and our guerrilla, forces, and the Zervas forces.

Q. Did you talk to Zervas?

A Yes, I did.

Q Did you see the report which came in to him from his units in the field?

A Yes. It was natural because I had to see that in order to go down to Athens and print it.

Q Did you talk to members of Zervas' organization?

A Yes, I did. I spoke to many of them.

Q Did you circulate among the villages and talk to the population in the areas, in the areas in which the Zervas units were operating?

A Yes, I did repeatedly and in many villages during the period May 1943 until March 1944.

Q Were the Zervas forces subordinated to any higher headquarters?

A Yes, they were under or subordinated to the Chief Command of the Middle East.

Q Did you see the reports which Zervas sent to these Middle East headquarters?

A Yes, repeatedly. Those messages were being sent by radio, by wireless, and I also watched the transmission of such a message.

Q Where were you, Witness, during the period March 1944 until October 1944?

A I was together with the forces of Colonel Zervas in the mountains.

Q During that whole period?

A No, only with the exception of one week during which time I had to return to Athens, but I returned to the mountains immediately after that.

Q Where were you during the period October 1944 until February 1945?

A I was following the operation of Colonel Zervas' troops as the chief of the printing department of his forces.

Q And where were you from the period February 1945 until the present time?

A I was in Athens, where I was carrying on my profession.

Q Is it correct, Witness, to say then that during the period April 1941 until May 1943 you were largely in Athens publishing underground leaflets and pamphlets?

A Yes, that's correct.

Q And that during the period May 1943 until March 1944 you were up in the mountains, and back in Athens at various periods?

A Yes, that's correct.

Q And from March 1944 until February 1945 you were in the mountains with Colonel Zervas' units publishing propaganda on behalf of his organization?

A Yes, that's correct.

Q And from February 1945 until the present time you have been publishing a newspaper in Athens?

A Yes, that's correct.

Q What was the name of Zervas's organization?

A The name of that organization - the political name was National Democratic Hero Organization, or EDES.

Q How long have you been associated with that EDES Organization?

A I was there since the establishment of the organization until the end of the conflict, from the day when I visited the Colonel until the end of the conflict.

Q That is to say, from the summer of 1941 until the Germans withdrew from Greece in October 1944?

A Yes, that's correct.

Q Were you a friend of the head of the organization, Colonel Zervas, himself?

A Yes, undoubtedly. I'm one of his closest collaborators.

Q Now, Witness, I want to ask you some questions about this EDES organization, of which you were a member from the summer of 1941 until the German withdrawal in October 1944. When would you say this organization first began?

A In the summer of 1941 the first preparations were made for the establishment of the organization and on the 9th of September the official establishment took place.

Q Where was Colonel Zervas at that time, on the 9th of September 1941?

A In Athens.

Q Did the occupying forces know that he was forming a resistance movement?

A They knew that he was one of the strongest and most active Greek elements; however, they did not know exactly what they were going to do.

Q Was he ever arrested by the occupying police authorities?

A In the month of July 1942 he was arrested four or five times.

Q Was he released on each occasion?

A Yes, he was released on every occasion, but after he was arrested four or five times he was compelled to go and report to the occupying authorities every day.

Q Did Colonel Zervas ever leave Athens?

A You mean during this period of time of the summer 1941 and July 1942?

Q Yes.

A No, during that period of time he didn't.

Q When did he leave Athens?

A He left Athens on the 23rd of July secretly while being chased by both the Germans and the Italians.

Q On the 23rd of July of what year?

A 1942.

Q And where did he go on the 23rd of July 1942 when he left Athens?

A He went to the region of Valto southeast of Epirus, at least at the northern borders of Epirus.

Q Where is the Epirus section of Greece?

A Epirus comprises the entire northwestern section of Greece.

Q Why did Colonel Zervas choose Epirus as the German territory to which he would go when he left Athens?

A The main occupying force at the time were the Italians and their line of communication to Italy ran along through the Epirus, then through Albania, then to Pavlon which was the port there and across to Bari.

Q What did Colonel Zervas intend to do in that territory?

A Col. Zervas wanted to organize a force which would be in a position during the critical period of the campaign, which he expected would come soon, to interrupt that line of communication.

Q Witness, have you ever seen all the records and reports and orders which were issued by the EDES organization?

A The records and whatever else might be of interest are in my hands. They were given me by the Colonel, Colonel Zervas, in March 1944 to enable me to write the story of the organization.

Q Are you writing this story of the organization now?

A Yes, the first part was already published in the paper which I am printing and it will also be printed in a book.

Q What period of time would you say constituted the first period of the EDES organization?

A You mean of the organization EDES as a military organization?

Q Yes.

A It comprised the period of time between the end of July 1942 and the 10th of November 1942.

Q You say it occupied the period beginning with July 1942 because that is the day when Zervas left Athens for the mountains?

A Yes, that is correct.

Q During that first period, July 1942 until November 1942, how many men were there in the EDES organization?

A You mean of the guerilla forces?

Q Yes.

A As of the 23rd of October, 1942, which was where the first fight took place between the Greeks and the Italians, that unit included together with Col. Zervas 98 persons.

Q And what was the military strength of the organization during that first period July 1942 to November 1942?

A The military structure consisted of the following. First of all there was one commander who was Zervas himself. Then there were several smaller units which were led either by officers who had come and joined the group up in the mountains or then farmers who had shown their ability to lead men in battle.

Q Did the officers wear a uniform.

A Yes, they had brought along with them secretly the uniforms which they still had from the war against the Italians.

Q You mean the regular Greek army uniform that they used in the war against the Italians?

A Yes, that is correct, the normal Greek officer's uniforms.

Q What did the men who were not officers wear?

A Some of them were wearing civilian clothes. Others again were wearing policemen's uniforms or they were policemen who had joined us, and others again were wearing the normal Greek soldier uniform which they had kept from the end of the war against the Italians.

Q Was there any particular insignia worn by those men?

A Yes, the officers were wearing the regular Greek insignia. The policemen were wearing their uniforms and the civilians weren't wearing anything at all of course, just their civilian clothes.

Q You are now talking about the first period July 1942 until November 1942?

A Yes.

Q Did Zervas ever change his rank from a colonel to another rank?

A We used to call him the commander of an army of a military group, a general anyway, but in 1944 the Greek government, in cooperation with the Middle East forces, finally promoted him to Brigadier General.

Q Did the occupying forces do anything when Zervas left Athens in July 1942?

A All the units were organized and all the police units were alarmed in order to catch him and roads were blocked off but they didn't succeed in catching him.

Q Did they offer a reward for information concerning his whereabouts?

A It was the end of November at which time -- after November 1942, at which time the bridge of Neopotamios had been blown up, namely on the 25th of November 1942, they offered 100 million drachmas in food or money for whoever would give information to lead to his arrest.

Q Did you see posters to that effect?

A Yes, thousands of those leaflets had been distributed all over Greece, Athens, and the streets of Athens.

Q Witness, when was the first battle fought by the Zervas organization?

A From the 23rd of October until the 10th of November, in the region of Skoulikarias, 1941.

Q And against whom was that battle fought?

A Against four Italian battalions.

Q How many men did the Zervas organization have during that battle?

A 98 men.

Q Witness, when would you say the next period in the history of the EDES organization comprised?

A That is approximately for the period of the 10th of November, at which time they left to blow up the bridge of Neopotamios until December 1942.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will recess until ninethirty to-morrow morning.

(The Tribunal adjourned until 16 August 1947 at 0930 hours.)

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the Courtroom will please find their seats.

The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal V. Military Tribunal V is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

There will be order in the Court.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Marshal, have you ascertained whether all the defendants are present in the Courtroom?

THE MARSHAL: May it please your Honors, all the defendants are present in the Court.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed on behalf of the prosecution.

CONSTANTINOS TRIANDAPHYLIDIS - Resumed DIRECT EXAMINATION (Continued)
BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

Q Witness -

THE PRESIDENT: Pardon me just a moment. I wonder if the lady could move back a little bit. I like to see the face of the witness.

GREEK INTERPRETER ANAGNOSTOPOULOS: Excuse me, sir.

THE PRESIDENT: That is all right. Maybe you can move over a little closer. That is better. Just move over a little bit. Personally, I like to see the witness. It's very agreeable to look at you but I also like to look at the witness.

Q Witness, yesterday afternoon you testified about your personal participation in the EDES movement in the summer of 1941 until the end of 1944. You testified that you were in effect the historian of the EDES movement. Is that correct?

A Yes, that is correct.

Q You also testified that in the beginning you published in Athens underground leaflets and pamphlets in favor of the EDES movement during the organization period.

A Yes, that is correct.

Q That you made trips back and forth between Athens and the mountains in order to gain information to put into the pamphlets and leaflets.

A Yes.

Q And that on those trips you talked with the leader of the movement, General Zervas, with his troops, and as a trained professional newspaper man, you also talked with the inhabitants on the villages in the Epiros area of Greece in which the EDES forces operated.

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. And am I correct that you also said that the reports which General Zervas issued to his men, the reports which he received from his subordinates and the bulletins or reports on EDES activities which he in turn sent on to British Middle East Headquarters in Cairo. Is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. At the close of yesterday's session we talked briefly about the history of the EDES organization and you testified that the first period of the movement covered the period from July 1942 when General Zervas first went into the mountains of the Epires until November 1942 when he and his men fought their first battles against the Italian occupations forces?

A Yes, that is correct.

THE PRESIDENT: Pardon me just a moment. I am making the inquiry for purposes of the record and wondering as to whether or not the Greek that is being spoken by the lady interpreter will be picked up by the sound recording system. She is not speaking very loud. Is it the desire or the purpose or is it necessary that the Greek be carried on the sound recording system?

GREEK INTERPRETER ANAGNOSTOPOLOS: If you wish I can speak louder. I have not because I thought it would disturb and I thought it was not necessary, but if you wish I can speak louder.

THE PRESIDENT: Just a minute. We will find out.

MONITOR: Your Honor, the English questions and the English answers are on the sound track.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honor, I think all we need on the sound track is the English question and the English answer and the Greek need not be put on the sound track.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

GREEK INTERPRETER ANAGNOSTOPOULOS: Do you want me to speak louder?

THE PRESIDENT: Not necessarily.

BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

Q Witness, who was this man, Zervas, the head of the EDES organization? What was his military background?

A During the war, between 1912 and 1913 Zervas went into the army and was wounded twice while fighting the Turks and later on he became a sergeant of the Evzones which is our elite troop in Greece, by graduating from the military school of Epision, and he left as a second lieutenant of the school. He entered the school as sergeant and he left as a second lieutenant.

During the first World War he joined a French company. With his company he joined the French Army and he received the Legion d'honneur and the Soldiers' Cross, the Military Cross. At the end of the war he became a Regiment Commander, a Major, and he fought as a Major in Asia Minor against the Turks whereupon later on he was promoted to Lieutenant Colonel, from Major to Lieutenant Colonel, and he was dismissed as a Colonel.

He was known for his democratic ideas in Greece and he was also known as being a friend of France and England.

Q Was he in the Greek Army at the time of the Italian war?

A No, he didn't serve in the Greek Army during the war, although he had desired to serve.

Q Now, witness, turning again to the first period in the movement which covered the period of time, July 1942 until November 1942, will you tell us again how many men Zervas had in the EDES organization?

A In the political organization in the Athens area alone, they had 15,000 men whereas on the 23rd of October -- and I am talking now about the Guerillas when they fought the Germans -- they were 98 men including Zervas.

Q Into what kind of units were these 98 men divided?

A Due to the small number of men in that group, it consisted of only one group which was separated into smaller units, due to the circumstances.

Q Were there officers among those 98 men?

A On the 23rd of October they had 7 officers with them.

Q. There were Zervas' headquarters in the mountains at this time?

A. Zervas' headquarters were in the village of Megalochari, which is also called Botsi.

Q. Is that near the Tannina, the Epiros section?

A. It is in the most southern area. If you want to, you may call it Canton Artd.

Q. Now, witness, what was the next period in the EDES organization?

A. That is the period of time in which they got in contact with the British officers, between the 10th of November 1942 and December 1942.

Q. How many men were in Zervas' organization during that period of time?

A. After the period of time of the 25th of November, at which they had blown up the Bridge of Gorgapotamos, they had receive more men from the villages and the whole number towards December numbered between 500 and 600 men.

Q. Into what kind of units were they divided?

A. At that time they started compiling the men and organizing them into commands, who commanded smaller groups.

Q. How many men were in a command?

A. Every command had from between 150 to 200 men.

Q. And how were these, between 500 and 600 men organized? Were there officers?

A. Most of the groups were led by officers but there were also smaller members who were also in charge of groups -- younger members, farmers who had distinguished themselves in leadership and who also became commanders of the groups.

Q. Did the officers wear uniforms?

A. All officers were wearing their old Greek uniforms.

Q. Did they wear insignia of rank?

A. Yes, at all times.

Q. Was the rank of a lieutenant, for example, different from that of a colonel? Was the insignia of rank of the lieutenant different from that of a colonel?

A. Yes, absolutely.

Q. Now, the rest of the men in the EDES organization at that time, did they wear uniforms?

A. In December the British started throwing supplies by parachute, amongst which you could also find uniforms; thus, a large number, or quite a few of those guerrilla forces, could wear British uniforms.

Q. Can you estimate what percentage of the men wore uniforms at that time?

A. Approximately 30 percent.

Q. Did these men wear insignia?

A. At that time, during that period, they were wearing the initials of the EDES, E D E S.

Q. Where did they wear those initials?

A. Either on their hat or on their arm -- on their cap or on their arm.

Q. What color were they?

A. Usually they were white letters on black background.

Q. From about what distance away could these letters be seen?

A. From between 20 to 25 yards.

Q. And the uniforms of the officers, from about what distance away could they be seen?

A. From quite some distance, I would say about 150 yards.

Q. Now, turning again to the ordinary soldiers in the EDES movement, did they make their own insignia or was it manufactured and produced and given to them by someone else?

A. During the first period of their activity, there was no way of having those insignias manufactured.

Therefore, they made them themselves.

Q. Now, during this second period in the EDES organization, witness, the period from 10 November 1942 until December 1942, what significant military events took place.

A. On the 10th of November, while battle against Italians was still going on, the British Major Christopher Woodhouse, arrived in Argiri, and he asked the commander of that army, Zervas, to help, together with his men, by going to Lemea to blow up the Bridge of Gorgapotamos. On the 25th of November the bridge was blown up. After That Zervas, together with those British officers, returned to the Epiros area where, during the entire period of December, the battle against the Italians was carried on.

Q. Were the British impressed by your blowing up the Gorgapptamos Bridge?

A. Immediately after the blowing up of the bridge, we were to receive both supplies --- we received supplies and arms -- and at the same time the order of the British Empire was to be given to General Zervas.

Q. Did the British also send you uniforms following the blowing up of the bridge?

A. Yes, immediately they sent us also uniforms.

Q. When was the next period in the EDES organization, witness?

A. It's approximately from the end of December or early in January until July or March, to be sure, July 1943.

Q. How many men did you have in your organization during that period?

A. In March we had approximately from 3,000 to 4,000 men and in July that number had increased to between 6,000 to 7,000 men.

Q. What was the military organization or structure during that period.

How were you organized?

A. Until March the same structure with commands was kept and later on, between the period between March and July, although the commands were kept, also regiments, battalions and companies were organized.

Q Were there also independent groups in your organizations?

A Yes, we had left a few smaller groups with the farmers because they had become tired; they had distinguished themselves in the battle with the enemy.

Q Did you officers wear uniforms during that period?

A Yes, all of the officers were wearing uniforms.

Q What color was the uniform?

A It was a regular khaki as used by the British army.

Q Did the officers wear their insignia of rank on their uniform?

A Yes, at all times.

Q The ordinary soldiers, during that period of time, did they wear a uniform?

A By July all of the soldiers were wearing British uniforms, with the exception of perhaps 15 to 20 per cent; they remained and were joining the group, and the new ones who were not wearing any uniforms.

Q What color was the uniform, that the ordinary soldier wore?

A They were also khaki British uniforms.

Q Did you wear the EDES insignia on those uniforms?

A Yes.

Q Was the EDES movement confined to the entire section of Greece during this period, witness?

A The main force and the headquarters were in Epiros. There were also smaller groups which were in West Thessalia, and also in Etoloakarnania.

Q Witness, tell us about those 15 to 20 percent of the men who you say were not in uniforms during that period. Did they wear insignia?

A Yes, at that period of time they were all wearing insignia.

Q What insignia did they wear?

Q Quite a few of them, as they did not have any uniforms at all, were wearing an arm band, a blue and white arm band with the letter EDES on it.

Q During the period from March, 1943, until July 1943, how many men did you have in the EDES organization?

A From 3 to 4 thousand at first, and they increased to between 6 and 7 thousand later on.

Q Where were General Zervas headquarters at this time?

A As Zervas and his groups were in repeated operations against the Italians, they moved their headquarters about in various villages of west Epiros, and also around the area of -- east of Epiros, and also in the area of Etoloakarnania, and West Thessalia.

Q Were you in the mountains yourself during this period of March to July 1943 at any time?

A Yes, on two occasions, in May and July.

Q Did you speak to Zervas on those occasions?

A No, I did not meet him.

Q Did you talk to the inhabitants of the villages through which you passed?

A Yes. I also spoke with the commanders of the small groups of Zervas army.

Q Did you see any battles?

A In May I saw an attack against the Italian column on the road between Jannina and Arta, and in July I saw another one in the area between Anfanifilothia and Arta.

Q Was there a time, witness, when the EDES insignia no longer continued to be used?

A On the 23rd of July, 1943, an order was issued, according to which the letters, or initials rather, of EDES, were changed in to EOEA.

Q What did those letters, EOEA stand for?

A They stood for, "Greek National Guerilla Band."

Q How many commands did you have during this period?

A In July we had approximately between 8 and 10 commands.

Q How many regiments?

A Between 20 and 22 regiments.

Q How many battalions?

A Between 40 and 45 battalions.

Q How many companies?

A Between 80 and 90 companies.

Q Did you also have platoons?

A Yes, there were also platoons.

Q Witness, what significant military event took place during this period from the end of December, 1942, until about July 1943?

A During all that period of time the struggle against Italian forces, which were still holding the Epiros, was increased. Between May and June there was no doubt any more left, that the Italians could not hold the Epiros. During the period of time of the 20th of June and the first of July, certain German units started moving from Albania through Lesgoviki, and entered Green territory, or were on Greek territory in Komitsa. On the 10th of July, those German units attacked our command in West Epiros -- of Western Epiros.

That is how at the same time, the battle against the Germans started. In the meantime, the Italian divisions were trying to withdraw their troops on the roads between Arta and into Albania. They were trying to leave Greece by going into Albania.

Between the 10th and the 20th of July, Zervas' command of Valtos, finally smashed up the Italian division called, "Brenner" and pushed them back into the region of Makrinoros. The 23rd of July is a historical date. It was on that date that an agreement was signed between all Guerilla bands.

The common headquarters for all Guerilla bands was established, and that was in Pertouli in Thessalia.

Q What was the next period in the history of the EDES organization witness?

A From the end of July until early in October.

Q Were you yourself in the mountains of Epiros during that period?

A Yes, I went to the mountains between the middle of September until the 20th of October.

Q Did you see Zervas at that time?

A Yes, I did.

Q Did you see any of the reports which came to him from his units in the field?

A Yes, he showed me all the reports, and he also showed me the telegrams which had been passed on between his headquarters, - him and the headquarters in the Middle East.

Q Did you see any battles during that period?

A I followed the first phase of the battle of Teowmieka.

Q How many men were in your organization during that period from July 1943 until October 1943?

AAccording to the reports, and on the 7th of October, 1943, the total of Zervas forces in Greece amounted to between 15 and 16 thousand men.

Q How were those men organized? What was the military structure of the organization?

A According to the agreement of the 23rd of July, under the tutorship of British officers, they had decided that all of the Guerilla forces were to be combined into a Military Organization, according to which agreement this Guerilla band was to be organized according to Greek army principles, namely, it should consist of army corps, divisions, regiments, battalions, companies and platoons.

Q What were the various ranks of officers during that period?

A The ranks varied from between Brigadier General to 2nd Lieut. namely, Brigadier General, Colonel, Lt. Colonel, Major, Captain, 1st Lt. and 2nd Lt.

Q Did the officers wear uniforms?

A Yes, all officers were wearing uniforms.

Q What kind of uniforms?

A Most of the officers were wearing British uniforms. Other officers, again, out of sentimental reasons, were offered on the old Green uniform.

Q The non-officers, ordinary soldiers did they wear uniforms?

A All of them were now wearing the British battle dress.

Q Who was your enemy during the period, July 1943 until October 1943?

A Mainly, first, the Italians. Later on the Germans were added, and from the end of July on we only had the Germans to take care of.

Q Do you know which particular German units you fought against during that period?

A Mainly and fundamentally we were fighting against the 1st German Mountain Division.

Q Did you know which corps that first Mountain Division belonged to?

A I didn't know at the beginning when those first mountain divisions entered the Greek area, which army corps it belonged to, but in August and onward it belonged to the 22nd German Army Corps.

Q Do you know who commanded that corps?

A General Hubert Lanz.

Q Witness, you said that in July, 1943, there was an agreement between the Guerilla organization?

A Yes. Yes, that's correct.

Q Did the Allied forces recognize the Guerilla forces operating in Greece at that time?

A Only EDES units as of December, 1942 were considered and recognized by the Headquarters and the Command of the Middle East to be regular units of the Middle East Forces.

As of 23 July 1943, all the Guerilla bands were recognized as part of the Middle East forces. At least those that had signed the agreement.

Q Do you know whether that recognition was broadcast over the London radio?

A Yes, as this incident was of great importance for Greece, the message, or the broadcast took place by radio Cairo which is closer to Greece and the Balkans and can be heard better, and also through the broadcasting station of BBC London.

Q From July 1943 on you were recognized as a regular army. Did your organization have supply services?

A Yes, there was a supply service already as far back as September, 1942. As of July, 1943, it became a regular army supply line.

Q Did you have communication services?

A Yes, we had installed telephone connections at all of the villages of our area.

Q Were there engineering units attached to the regular army?

A Yes indeed, we had our own engineering office.

Q Did you have intelligence services and medical services?

A Yes indeed, we did. Not only did we have those two services for ourselves, for the Guerilla bands, but also for the villages and their inhabitants.

Q Did you set up certain schools in the villages in whose areas you were operating?

A From 1941 and onwards all the schools had been closed, I mean the mountain schools in the mountain villages, because the teachers were not getting paid. We opened up all our schools compulsorily, and in these certain areas where we were, in the villages which we were occupying.

Q Did you have artillery units in your organization?

A In July 1943 we did have artillery. We had artillery even prior to that time. But in July 1943 we had those Italian guns which we had captured in the Battle of Makrinoros. But prior to that we didn't have any guns and finally when we had exhausted our supplied of guns which we had captured there and our shells, we received American guns in May 1944.

Q Did you have any airplanes?

A No, we didn't.

Q Witness, what was the next period in the EDES organization?

A October 1943 to March 1944 was the following period.

Q How many men did you have during that period?

A Several battles were taking place in all those areas which we were occupying, and the result was heavy losses for us. After the long battle which lasted between October and March was exhausted, the Epiros forces in that area amounted to between three and four thousand men.

Q Did you have the same military structure as you had in the earlier period?

A Yes, we did. We kept the same military structure during the period of time during which this battle lasted.

Q Did you have officers?

A Yes, of course. We had the same officers.

Q Were they in uniform?

A Yes, at all times.

Q Were your men in uniform?

A Yes, at all times also.

Q What was the next period in the EDES organization's history, Witness?

A The next period was between early March and the 25th of May.

Q Did your military structure change during that period?

A No, the same structure was kept up. But an effort was made to possibly fill the ranks or fill the gaps which had been caused by the long and tedious battles with new forces and also it was expected that we would receive more arms and better arms for those new forces.

Q How many men did you have during that period from March until May 1944?

A On the 25th of May we had approximately 7,000 men.

Q And from May 1944 until October 1944? Witness, how many men did you have?

A In July our forces amounted to 11,000 men. Towards the end of August we had approximately 15,000 in the Epiros area only.

Q How many men did you have at the end of October 1944?

A On the 15th of October we finally captured Jannina and thus towards the end of October and early in November 1944 our forces amounted to approximately 8 or 9 thousand men, and the Germans had already left the area by that time, and we had started to demobilize our forces.

Q Was your military structure during that period the same as it had been during July 1943?

A Yes.

Q Were both your men and your officers in uniform?

A Yes, that's correct. And the proof of that is the moment that demobilization was ordered by the Greek Government - the Middle East of course - those units formed themselves into military units out of the guerrilla bands, or rather they were incorporated into the regular Greek Army bringing their uniforms and their weapons.

Q Witness, I believe you testified that you yourself were in the mountains during the period May to October 1944. Is that correct?

A Yes, that's correct.

Q What was your job there?

A I was the chief of the press office of the national units. Three newspapers were published under my direction. At the same time I was the advisor of General Zervas.

Q Did you travel about among the Zervas units in the area?

A Yes, I was traveling constantly in that area without interruption.

Q Did you see the orders which Zervas issued to his units and the reports which came to him from the units?

A All the secret reports, or the top-secret reports, were given me and I could read them.

Q Did you see the reports which Zervas sent to allied Middle East Headquarters in Cairo?

A Yes, at all times.

Q Did you yourself wear a uniform during that period?

A Absolutely.

Q Witness, I now want to ask you some questions about the training and the methods of warfare of your EDES organization. When a recruit joined your organization how much training was he given before he was assigned to a unit?

A Of course they were to receive military training according to the Greek Military Code. Of course, the way in which this training was carried out depended entirely on the circumstances and the incidents and the happenings. Whenever a man was already in a position to carry a weapon and to handle a gun and it was necessary to quickly set up military units, his training was discontinued and he went into the battle.

Q About how many days' training did a man receive before he was assigned to a unit?

A If he was a man who had already had previous Army experience, who had possibly already fought in the Army, he was given a training which lasted between four and five days. If he was an absolute layman in military matters, his training possibly lasted, and depending on the circumstances, between 15 days, 30 days, or 45 days. They had also smaller units which were being trained by British officers according to their own rules and principles so that they could use them themselves in their own situations, and, of course, the training periods lasted for a much longer period of time.

Q Were your men instructed regarding the rules of International Warfare?

A Undoubtedly, yes.

Q When did they receive that instruction?

AAAt the same time, along with the military training.

Q Did your EDES organization have a field manual?

A Yes, that was the field manual of the Greek Army, which is mostly and fundamentally based on the French field manual.

Q.- Well, how were prisoners of war who were captured by the EDES organization treated?

A.- According to International Law and regulations.

Q.- Is the mentality of the Greek people significant in this regard?

A.- According to International Law and according to Greek Law, also, the prisoners must be treated correctly. According to the mentality of the Greek people. Apart from the laws which existed, let us not forget and let us consider the Greek attitude -- the Greek mentality -- for the Greek, a prisoner is no longer a fighting enemy, and he, therefore, must not be killed. On the contrary he is a human being that has to be taken care of in a good manner. That is the unwritten law of the Greek nation.

A.- Yes, we did and those camps were receiving exactly the same food as our men were receiving, and their officers were receiving exactly the same food as our officers. The officers were also receiving their pay.

Q.- Were there prisoner of war camps for captured prisoners?

Q.- Were representatives of the International Red Cross permitted to inspect your prisoner of war camps?

A.- Yes, repeatedly.

Q.- Did they, in fact, inspect your camps?

A.- Yes.

Q.- Did General Zervas issue any orders to his men regarding the treatment of captured prisoners?

A.- Yes, undoubtedly. Every maltreatment from the part of any of the guerilla men toward a PW was punished severely according to orders issued by General Zervas.

Q.- Do you know of any examples of members of EDES organization being punished for mistreatment of captured prisoners?

A.- Yes. Personally I know very well of two death sentences and executions, for the maltreatment of PW's.Q.- Was plundering and looting by members of EDES organization punished?

A.- Yes. As a matter of fact I recall one occasion where a man was severely punished for stealing a sheep and he was one of the better men of the organization, and he was executed for that.

Q.- Were officers of the EDES organization held responsible for the actions of the men subordinate to their commands?

A.- The officers were absolutely responsible for every action on their part.

Q.- Can you give an example of that?

A.- Yes. It was one of the customs, for instance, in Greece, to celebrate while firing shots into the air and even when such a thing happened officers were held responsible for that and punished.

Q.- Did General Zervas issue any orders regarding the treatment of the civilian population in those areas in which EDES troops were operating?

A.- Yes, he issued orders repeatedly, but in any case in the entire area the normal Code of the Greek State prevailed. The Greek law, therefore, protected the population.

Q.- Did the EDES Troops pay for any food which they got from the village population?

A.- All foodstuffs had to be paid for, even the fodder for the animals was taken without payment.

Q.- Witness, did your EDES troops ever defend villages in the Epiros area of Greece?

A.- The unit commanders had strict orders to avoid fighting in the villages. And the villages usually are not located in such places as would be well fitted for guerilla warfare. As a result of this, of course there was plenty of open space where the battles could be waged without destroying the villages. And thus it could also be avoided to have retaliations on the part of the Germans.

Q.- Why were orders issued that EDES troops should not fight within a village?

A.- Will you please repeat the question?

Q.- Why were orders issued to the EDES organization not to fight within a village?

A.- Both the Italians and the Germans, but mainly the Germans, always looked for the slightest reason or justification to destroy a village and burn a village and kill all the inhabitants thereof. That is the reason why the order had come out that no battles should take place in the village in order not to provide the Germans with a justification for destruction. And also we didn't want to give them the opportunity to say -- the Germans -- that the villages were destroyed while a battle was going on, and it happened as a result of attacks.

Q.- Were certain members of your organization former inhabitants of the villages near which you fought?

A.- Yes, undoubtedly.

Q.- Was that of any significance with respect to the orders not to fight within a village?

A.- Of course, undoubtedly it had some sort of a connection because it is difficult for a man or a soldier to fight on his won native soil or in his own native village.

Q.- Did it have anything to do with anticipated reprisal measures?

A.- Undoubtedly.

Q.- In what way?

A.- As the battle was carried out in some field we did not give them a justification or a reason to destroy the village.

Q.- Did your EDES organization set up any services for refugees from destroyed villages?

A.- Of course, we did, including August 1944, we had approximately 9,000 farmer refugees and also 190,000 persons who had been bombed out, or their houses had been burned down.

THE PRESIDENT (Judge WENNERSTRUM): The Tribunal will take its morning recess at this time.

(The Tribunal recessed at 1100.)

THE MARSHAL: The persons in the Courtroom will be seated.

The Tribunal is again in session.

BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

Q. Witness, prior to the recess, we were talking about the methods of warfare of the EDES organization. Did the EDES troops ever take hostages?

A. No, at no time.

Q. Did they ever burn villages?

A. No, at no time.

Q. Witness, did the EDES troops carry their arms openly at all times?

A. Of course, openly of course.

Q. Did you ever throw your arms away when you were surrounded?

A. To answer this question, you have to differentiate between the various phases of the struggle.

Q. Will you do that differentiating for us?

A. During the first period of the struggle, it was only natural for the guerillas to hide their weapons in case they should be surrounded. However, as from March, 1943, most of the guerillas, and later on all of them were wearing uniforms it was natural that in case they should be surrounded they would act accordingly. They did not have the right to throw away their weapons because this would be considered desertion.

Q. In other words, you carried your arms openly from the period March 1943 until the end?

A. Yes, undoubtedly. Of course, we carried them openly prior to March, 1943, but as of March, 1943, if anybody did not carry his weapon, it was considered punishable.

Q. When did you first begin to fight the German troops?

A. As of the 10th of July, 1943.

Q. During the period prior to March, 1943, you say you threw your arms away on occasion when you were surrounded?

A. Some of us did not just throw them away but they tried to hide them in order to find them again later on.

Q. Did you also throw your insignia away during that period prior to March, 1943, in case you were surrounded?

A. Yes, we hid them, that is.

Q. Did you hide your insignia or throw away your arms after March, 1943?

A. No, as of March, 1943, at which time we had been comprising military units, and were wearing regular uniforms and regular insignias, nobody did that because they were wearing the uniforms. It wasn't necessary. It wouldn't have been of any use to do so anyway.

Q. During the period prior to March, 1943, what kind of military operations did the EDES organization carry out?

A. Apart from the fact that we fought the Germans and the Italians, for instance the blowing up of a bridge which also served as fortification for the Germans, we were mainly fighting the Italians who intended to clean up the area where General Zervas had his headquarters.

Q. Did you try to disrupt supply and communication lines? Did you try to interrupt supply and communication lines of the occupying forces?

A. Undoubtedly yes, but during that period of time we were trained to damage the road between Amphiloikia and Jannina. During the period of time, however, it was more of a defensive struggle on the part of the small units because the Italians employed larger units trying to annihilate them.

Q. What was the nature of your military action during from March, 1943, until October, 1944? The period when you were opposed to the German forces for the most part?

A. First of all, our principal aim was to disrupt and destroy German motor vehicle columns, blow up bridges, and certain signs at roads at important junctions. But of course the main part of our struggle was carried out against the Germans who were much stronger than we were and who were definitely better fighters than the Italians and their purpose was to annihilate or at least disperse our guerilla units.

Q. Would you say that the military operations after March, 1943, were guerilla operations or regular war operations?

A. I would call it a tactical battle or struggle because there is not much difference between what we were doing and what the British were doing in the Middle East and in the Cyrenaika. Of course we saw that, for instance, in Africa, also, the struggle was being carried out with raids and ambushes and also with larger clashes.

Q. You would describe these military operations then as regular war?

A. Yes, indeed.

Q. May I ask you a few questions about recognition accorded the EDES organization by the Allies. Was there a British Mission attached to your organization at any time?

A. As of December 1942 an officially attached British Mission existed which in 1944 joined us as an allied mission.

Q. How many men were in the British Mission when attached in December 1942?

A. It consisted of approximately 12 officers.

Q. Did Zervas send reports to the British Middle East authorities at any time?

A. Yes, at all times as it was a detachment of the Middle East forces, it had the duty to report the daily occurrences of the Middle East forces.

Q. From what period of time did you send daily reports to the British Middle East Headquarters?

A. Between December and April 1943, our wireless communications were not very good as yet and we could not possible send daily messages to our headquarters. Therefore, we limited ourselves to between two and three messages a week. Approximately from April 1943 onwards the reports were made daily with a few exceptions until the end.

Q. Did you say that the EDES organization was recognized as a unit of the Allied Middle East Army?

A. Yes, indeed.

Q. What was the earliest period of time?

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Fenstermacher, it seems to me that in some of your questions you are very definitely asking for conclusions and my suggestion is that you ask for statements of facts so that the court may pass upon the facts, and not ask for conclusions of the witness. It has been very much abused during all the morning.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I will keep that in mind your Honor.

Q. When was a mission of any other Government or Army ever attached to the EDES organization?

A. An American Mission also joined us.

Q. At what time?

A. In the spring of 1944.

Q. Were any negotiations ever conducted between German forces and the EDES forces?

A. First of all let's distinguish between two phases here. In October 1943 certain effects on the part of the Germans could be noticed in order to reach an agreement. In July 1944 other efforts on the part of the Germans could be noticed in order to reach an agreement, and then apart from that there was a third phase where the surrender of the Germans was negotiated between the two parties of Zervas and the British on the one hand, and the Germans on the other hand. That was in September 1944. Those were negotiations. The first two points mentioned were attempts on the part of the Germans to reach an agreement.

Q. When was the first approach of the Germans to your organization?

A. On October 5th, 1943, Greeks, who had been delegated by the Germans, arrived at Zervas' headquarters.

Q. What was the German proposal to your organization?

A. It was not a proposal but more a blackmail.

Q. Would you tell the Tribunal about that?

A. The Greek delegates sent by the Germans told Zervas, as the Germans' message, that should those attacks on the part of the Gorillas not stop, the whole area of Epirus would be burned down.

Q. What did Zervas do when this proposal reached him?

A. As Zervas was speaking to Greeks, who were the German delegates he told them that he personally could not reach a decision, as he said he was a unit of the Middle East forces and he would contact the Middle East forces through the British Mission.

Q. Did the British Mission respond to Zervas' enquiry?

A. The British Mission immediately sent a telegram on behalf of Zervas to the Middle East Headquarters.

Q. What was the reply, if any, that was received from the Middle East Headquarters?

A. The answer from the Middle East Headquarters was that no agreement, nor contact should be reached with the Germans or effected with the Germans respectively.

Q. Witness, how do you know these things about which you testify?

A. The only reason why I know that is because at that time I met Zervas for the first time and the second reason is that I have all the telegrams which were communicated between Zervas through the British Mission and the Headquarters in the Middle East, and vice versa.

Q. You said at that time you met Zervas for the first time. Hadn't you met Zervas before this?

A. I meant by that the first time in the mountains.

Q. Were there any other approaches by the Germans to your organization?

A. On the 9th or 10th of October, 1943, Dr. Komborosos and the Metropolit, Arch Bishop of Arta, went up to General Zervas's headquarters in Skiadades and they gave him the same sort of message on the part of the Germans who were in the Area of Arta. Zervas answered them that his answer had already been given.

Q. Were there any other approaches by the Germans to the EDES organization?

A. Two days later another delegate arrived. I don't know what his name is; I don't know who he was but anyway he came to Zervas' Headquarters with another proposal on the part of the Germans which, however, contained more complete statements. According to that delegate the message was that Zervas was to meet the following two people, namely: Colonel Biel, if I remember correctly, and Captain Rundstock, if I remember that name correctly, at a given point which was on the road between Arta and Janninano. Zervas was the one to indicate the place where they were to meet and they wanted to discuss the cease fire order and to stop hostilities. There were certain indications at the time which pointed to three different possibilities. Either that the Germans wanted to withdraw entirely or reach an agreement with Zervas or with the Middle East Forces or the Allies. Whereupon, Zervas was again obliged to inform the Middle East Headquarters of that incident and offer. The reply which came from the Middle East Headquarters was the following:

It was their opinion that this was another usual German trick in order to annihilate Zervas and, according to the orders, the answer which was given by the British Mission and by Zervas to the Germans, was that they were to be informed of two things, namely: First of all no agreement would be reached with the Germans unless the Germans were ready to sign unconditional surrender and the second point, which is a more important point, was that these people should be informed that the Commanders of all the German forces in that area were to be held personally responsible for whatever crimes their soldiers had committed or would commit against the civilian population and that they would be held responsible by the Middle East Headquarters.

Q Were prisoners exchanged between the EDES troops and the German troops, witness? Do you know that?

A No, at no time.

Q Do you know how the Germans treated captured members of the EDES organization?

A The policy as carried out by the Germans was characteristic of the way they treated the population in any occupied country

DR. LATERNER: I object. Your Honor, I have to say that it is difficult for me to keep calm because of the manner in which the witness is testifying. I request that the last sentence that the witness testified be stricken from the record, as a mere conclusion and not pertaining to facts.

THE PRESIDENT: Sustained. I think the witness should be cautioned that he should testify only to such facts as he has personal knowledge of.

A Those are facts which I know very, very well because I witnessed those things for four years.

There are not only certain incidents and conclusions on my part; they are facts.

BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

Q Did you ever see any burned villages in the Epirus section of Greece.

A Did you say a burned village?

Q A burned or destroyed village.

A There were very, very few villages in Epirus that were not destroyed or burned, if any at all.

Q How many destroyed villages did you yourself see?

A Of all those villages of which I can remember the names I can state between 20 and 25 but I do know of 100 or more which I saw myself.

Q Would you describe what you saw when you walked through a destroyed village?

A All I saw was either burned out buildings or buildings that had been blown up.

Q Did you see any people?

A The villages which had only been burned down recently were of course empty because we had taken care of the people but in the villages that had already been burned quite a while back certain reconstructions were carried out by our own services.

Q Did you gain recruits from the destroyed villages?

A Yes indeed, we did recruit quite a few. Firstly, because they didn't have any place to go, and secondly because they wanted to get revenge for what had been done to them and for the unjust thing that had happened to them.

Q Did you take any photographs while you were in the mountains, witness?

A Yes, quite often.

Q Do you have those photographs with you?

A I have a few photographs here.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honor, I just learned yesterday about the photographs in the witness' possession; I believe we can have extra sets of those made by Monday or Tuesday if I may be allowed to reserve my rights to put them to the witness and have him identify them on direct after I have turned him over for cross-examination in a very few minutes. Would that be agreeable to your Honors?

DR. LATERNSEER: The witness also happens to have some incriminating material with him. I want to point out that the Prosecution has to bring the incriminating material and not the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: As far as the photographs are concerned, that right will be given to the Prosecution. I am not certain as to what Dr. Laternser has in mind as to other documentary evidence that he has referred to.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, evidently I have been misunderstood. I wanted to say the following: The witness who evidently has incriminating material with him cannot, of course, submit it himself. In the proceedings the material will be submitted either by the defense or by the Prosecution. If the Prosecution has the intention of exploiting this material nobody will object to that but we have to see it 24 hours before it is submitted.

THE PRESIDENT: That rule will necessarily have to be followed and of course if you wish to cross examine him on any matters which you wish to have access to, why that will be your privilege under the rules of the Tribunal BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

Q Witness, was there another resistance organization in Greece during the occupation besides the organization of EDES to which you belonged?

A Yes, there were quite a few others.

Q What was the largest of the other resistance organizations in Greece?

A The EAM which was called the National Liberation Front which had its military organization called ELAS.

Q Witness, when you were a member of the EDES organization, did you consider yourself a bandit?

Q Were you ever a member of either EAM or ELAS?

A No, never.

DR. LATERNER: I object to that question.

THE PRESIDENT: Sustained.

BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

Q Do you know the name of the German Commander that commanded the troops against whom the EDES organization was fighting during the period of July 1943 until October 1944?

AAAt the beginning we thought it was the 1st Mountain Division; the commander of which was General Stettner. It was the end of August 1943 when we learned that it was the XXII Army Corps that was to occupy that area and it was lead by General Hubert Lanz.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Except for the right to examine the witness with respect to the photographs which he himself took during his stay in the Epirus section of Greece, I have no further questions at this time.

CROSS EXAMINATION BY DR. SAUTER (Counsel for the defendant Lanz):

Q. Witness, one of your last remarks said approximately that after the withdrawal of the Germans from Epirus there were practically no undestroyed villages left.

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. Witness, a few days ago there appeared an item in the papers saying that communist bandits in Epirus had burned 36 villages.

A. The subject at the present moment is not how many villages were burned down by the communist bands but, rather, how many villages were burned down by the Germans. That is what I am going to describe if you want me to, and I will also give you the names.

Q. Witness, I please ask you to answer the questions which I ask you. I don't need to hear any legal instruction from you. I ask you, therefore, is it known to you that only recently again many villages in Epirus had been burned down by communist bands.

A. I am here in order to testify about the crimes which were committed by the Germans while they were occupying Greece and if I am asked anything else I refuse to answer it.

Q. You refuse to answer this question?

THE PRESIDENT: The witness is directed to answer the question as given by the cross examiner.

A. If those things are going on today in Greece, that villages are burned down, then it is only a result of the German occupation of Greece.

Q. Witness, is it your impression that from the years 1943 and 1944 on the fight of the German troops against the Greek Zervas troops was conducted with too great a severity?

A. Yes, undoubtedly.

Q. You're a journalist?

A. Yes.

Q. You, therefore, are probably very well informed about this matter. Is it known to you that the Greek government, a few days ago, handed the American ambassador in Athens a note—

DR. SAUTER: One moment. I must first ask the question and then you can object.

Q. Is it known to you, witness, that the Greek government in this memorandum says the following: "Forcible measures are the best methods of becoming master over the guerillas."

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honors, please, I object to this. I don't see what a note delivered to the American government a few days ago has to do with this proceeding.

THE PRESIDENT: The objection is sustained as not being proper cross examination.

DR. SAUTER: Your Honors, but I must immediately request that the witness, after the completion of the cross examination, may not return to Greece but that he has to remain here as a witness until he is examined as a direct witness by the defense.

Mr. President, I would like to say the following, too. The witness has been examined here in direct examination about the type of warfare in Greece during the German occupation. If the Tribunal wants to hear about this matter, it must be permitted to tell the Tribunal and to prove by means of witnesses how at other times warfare was conducted in the Balkans and, especially, in Greece; and I claim, and I want to prove by means of this witness, that the present Greek government, a few days ago, sent an official note to the American ambassador in Athens in which it describes the use of political methods in this case now in Greece is just as important, is the same thing, as the loss of valuable time. Therefore, the government says it is dangerous for Greece to use political methods at all against these communist troops. The Greek government of today, therefore, demands immediate deliveries of war material, increase of the Greek army, etc.

, etc., evidently in order to fight the same bands who already fought the Germans a few years ago.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honors, if I recall Dr. Sauter correctly, he has asked this witness to remain in Nuernberg to make him his own witness. The prosecution strenuously objects that Dr. Sauter may ask him any questions if he wishes to cross examine him. This witness is here to testify only regarding the EDES organization, one of the Greek resistance movements during the occupation, and it is within the scope of that direct examination that Dr. Sauter may cross-examine him.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal still adheres to its prior ruling that the question asked of the witness should be sustained in that it is not cross examination.

As to the request that the witness be held here so that the defense may make use of this witness as its own witness, that is a privilege which it has. However, it seems to the Tribunal that the witness can be called out of order and the Tribunal will accept such a procedure during these proceedings and, while it is convenient for the witness to be here and to be accepted as a defense witness, and if the counsel for the defense wishes to follow that procedure the Tribunal will entertain such a motion and such an application.

The Tribunal will be in recess at this time until one-thirty this afternoon.

(A recess was taken until 1330 hours.)

AFTERNOON SESSION (The hearing reconvened at 1330 hours, 16 August 1947)

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the Courtroom will please find their seats. The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed, Dr. Sauter.

CONSTANTIONS TRIANDAPHYLIDIS-Resumed CROSS EXAMINATION (Continued) BY DR. SAUTER:

Q. I want to put some further questions to you and I would like to ask you this afternoon still under oath. Witness, you have told us that your soldiers had the order to keep strictly to the provisions of International Law.

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. Do you know the name of the Swiss delegate of the International Red Cross in Epiros at the time that General Lanz was commander there?

A. Yes.

Q. What is the name?

A. Hanz Bickel was his name.

Q. Bickel, the Swiss Bickle. Witness, is it known to you that in February 1944 a column of the International Red Cross under the leadership of Mr. Bickle, a Swiss citizen, was attacked by troops of the partisans and that his column was completely plundered?

A. No.

Q. Is it known to you from what General Zervas has told you -- or did it become known to you in any other way that this Swiss Citizen Bickel, as well as General Lanz, reported this matter to General Zervas?

A. No.

Q. Witness, you said this morning the officers of the Zervas army had been held responsible to a very large extent for every action of their subordinates.

A. Absolutely.

Q. In this connection you told us about two soldiers who were sentenced to death for the maltreatment of prisoners of war and who were executed.

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. I would like you to tell me now what happened to the superior officers of these soldiers who were sentenced to death in order to make them responsible for the actions of their subordinates.

A. In spite the fact that these officers had given orders to their soldiers and instructions as how to conduct themselves, these soldiers had committed those mistakes and it was due to them that these officers were severely punished for not fulfilling their duty with respect to instructing their soldiers correctly.

Q. How many officers were punished for this case of the two soldiers who mistreated these prisoners of war?

A. I am pointing out that this applies to the officers; those officers, namely two officers, were punished, and these two officers were in charge of these men, and they were responsible for their actions directly responsible for their actions.

Q. What punishment did these officers receive?

A. They were tried; they were put in jail and the rank was taken away from them. They lost their rank and command.

Q. And what was the actual reason why these officers were sentenced? Did these officers participate in the mistreatment of the prisoners of war, or did they look on while these prisoners of war were being mistreated? Or in what constituted the mismanagement on the part of the officers?

A. If they had seen the incident, and if they had participated in the incident, both officers would have been placed before a firing squad. As a result of the fact, however, that they did not see this incident happen, and that they were not present in order to stop these men from doing so, -- due to the fact that they were not present and they could not enforce that order, -- these men received the punishment which I mentioned before, and not the death sentence, because the men were not in a position to see to it that their orders were followed.

Q. Witness, do you know when General Hubert Lanz came to Epiros?

A. According to the information we had at the time, he came in August 1943.

Q. How large were your national forces at that time, -- the armed forces of that organization?

A. At that time there were approximately 10,000 men in Epiros.

Q. Approximately 10,000 men in Epiros. Could you tell us approximately the size of the area of the Epiros? Just approximately.

A. I would say approximately 10,000; 10,000 or 12,000 square kilometers. It depends; the borders of Italy are not well drawn.

Q. Can you give us an estimate how large in your view were the forces which were at that time available to General Lanz?

A. During the first period when the German army first showed up, we estimated their strength to be between 4 to 5 thousand men. Later on, we figured that their total strength was approximately 10,000 men. That was a little bit later.

Q. What is your opinion today if I am telling you that at that time, namely in August and September, when General Lanz arrived in Epiros, his troops had an average strength of between 30,000 and 40,000 men?

A. Where was that?

Q. In Epiros, because we are not talking of America; we are talking of Epiros.

A. That is quite correct, but do you want to know the figures of what we estimated was being used against us in our sector? That period of time was a time when the struggle was going on for the occupation of the Ionian Islands by the Germans, and our operations were also going on near the border of Albania where we did not have any troops.

Q. Witness, I am not quite clear what you mean by your answer. I asked you whether, on the basis of the reliable and accurate information which you received from your sources of information, in your opinion at present, you think it probable that General Lanz had 30 to 40 thousand troops at his disposal in the Epiros at that time? That is my question, and this is the question I would like you to answer.

A. What we were interested in mainly was the number of troops used, or were to be used against us directly. Our spies wanted to find out those facts and that is the information they gave us.

Q. Witness, I don't want to deal any further, as apparently one cannot get a clear answer from you on this point. I want to ask you another question.

A. I gave you a very clear answer. I told you that we figured that approximately 10,000 men were moving against us. We, of course, undoubtedly knew that more troops were being used by the Germans at our two occupied Jannina Islands, and they were General Lanz' troops.

Q. I am not interested in the Jannina Islands here. We are still talking of the Epiros.

May I put another question to you? Witness, you told us today that General Lanz had repeated negotiations with General Zervas.

A. I didn't say exactly "repeated conferences or discussions". I gave you the exact date. I stated my point, namely that the first few times they had conferences, it was not from his part, but rather they were trying to reach an agreement, the Germans I mean; and it is only in the month of September 1944, at which time the Germans were leaving Greece that conferences took place, which conferences we can really call conferences where agreements were reached.

Court No. V, Case No. VII

Q. Witness, I am telling you now that this information you have just given us is untrue, and I would like to ask you to tell us whether it is not known to you that General Lanz from September 1943 onwards, until the fall of 1944, was engaged in constant conferences and negotiations with General Zervas through his officers. Please answer this question under oath.

A. I repeat under oath that they are lied.

Q. Do you know by whom these negotiations were initiated?

A. All I can repeat is that in October, 1943, General Lanz sent a delegation to Skiadales; and that in October 1943 the Germans sent a delegation to Skiadales which consisted of the Arch Bishop of the deputy of the Arch Bishop of Jannina, and of some representatives of the Red Cross, and also of the Mayor of Jannina. On the second occasion, the Germans sent the Arch Bishop of Arta, and the physician Konvorossos.

Q. Witness, according to your knowledge was the task, - according to your knowledge of these delegates of General Lanz, what did these delegates say about their orders?

A. They said that in case the attacks on the part of General Zervas' troops should not cease against the Germans, they would resort to drastic measures against the population, - civilian population.

Q. Witness, is it correct that these delegates proffered something quite different to General Zervas, namely, mutual trust. That is an agreement that both parties were to cease fighting, and I may mention it here, in order to spare the civilian population?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I object to the question. He is bound by the answer of the witness.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Overruled.

A. That is the way Mr. Defense counsel puts it. In reality, however, it is exactly so as I said, namely that if the attacks on the part of General Zervas' forces would not stop, then the civilian population would have to suffer under it. But I shall give you additional information, now Mr. Defense counsel, which you possibly did not think about.

Q. First of all, I would like you to answer this question more clearly. I maintain that General Lanz proposed to General Zervas that the troops of both parties should not fight against each other, because only the civilian population would suffer from this, and I am asking the witness whether that was the proposal of General Lanz?

A. Yes, he did, and that was followed by the operations against Ligiar where everybody was killed, on the 3rd of October, 1943.

Q. Witness, I am still concerned with the negotiations, and I am asking you is it correct that General Zervas declared to be in agreement in principle with what General Lanz proposed? I would like to add something else. Is it also correct that General Zervas also declared that he demanded as a counter-service from General Lanz, supplies of German arms and ammunition, because he, General Zervas, needed it for the national Greek resistance movement or insurgent movement against the Communists?

A. No.

Q. This condition was not advanced by General Zervas then?

A. No, that's not correct, because when this proposal was made, British mission officers were also present. Colonel Barnes was one of them, and Thomas Marinos. In any case, this was not the way it was put and they immediately sent the report to headquarters in the Middle East.

Q. Witness, I am putting it to you that these negotiations to which I am talking to you, - that British officers were not present at these conferences. Do you maintain your assertion, that the British officers also attended these negotiations?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honors, I object to the question. I think Dr. Sauter is arguing with the witness.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Overruled.

A. We have the numbers of the telegrams at our headquarters files in the Middle East.

Q. Witness, we are not talking about figures now, and telegrams. Rather you maintained that at that time, British officers attended those negotiations, and I asked you--

A. The British officers who were present were the ones who had sent and signed those telegrams I am talking about.

Q. Witness is it known to you that at the beginning of October 1943, at the request of General Zervas, a discussion took place at ten o'clock in the morning about 15 kilometers to the southwest of Jannina, in a village called Hellenikon? What do you know about these conferences?

A Who was present there?

Q General Zervas was supposed to come, who had promised his personal attendance.

A Well, let's make a difference now between the two, was he supposed to come or what? Was the General supposed to come? I didn't quite understand your question. I don't know whether you meant the person was to come or had come or what.

Q I said that General Zervas had promised to come to this conference in person. Instead he sent an officer, a captain and sent apologies through this Captain, and he conveyed through this captain that this captain was empowered to conduct the negotiations. Just a moment. And in lieu of General Lanz, Colonel Dietl appeared as the Chief of Staff of General Lanz.

A I believe when I gave you that testimony before, I was referring to the third attempt which was made by the Germans and which took place around the 13th of October 1943, at which time they had made a proposal that General Zervas should designate a place where they were to meet.

Q Yes, and General Zervas designated a place.

A The General communicated that information to General Headquarters of the Middle East, and we have as evidence the telegram which was sent there by Tom Barnes, and the Headquarters of the Middle East stated that this was probably an old German trick. And that is probably what the defense counsel is referring to, namely, that this officer went and told them that there would be no such thing.

Q Do you know anything about this, Witness--that this officer drove to Jannina and received a letter from Colonel Dietl in Jannina, and that this officer personally handed this letter from Dietl to Zervas?

A You're referring to a letter by General Lanz, aren't you?

A Yes, I mean a letter from General Lanz to General Zervas.

A I know of no such thing.

Q Witness, do you know anything of this--that vice versa General Zervas also wrote personally to General Lanz regarding these discussions?

Page Unlabeled

A No, I know nothing about that either.

Q And how many attempts according to your assertions did General Lanz make in order to arrive at a truce with the National Partisans?

A Apart from those three that I mentioned before, I also know of a fourth approach that General Lanz made in July 1944, at which time an agreement was reached according to which the Germans were going to surrender. And then there was another occasion, namely, in August or September, at which time negotiations were carried out for the surrender of the Germans.

Q Witness, is it known to you that Captain Sarantis and a Captain Michanaki, during the whole year between the autumn of 1943 till the autumn of 1944, were discussing quite a number of matters with the staff of General Lanz?

A Both of these people were spies. Both of them were wellknown spies, and they had orders to act in a deteriorating manner in order to harm the Germans.

Q If I have understood you correctly, you're saying that these delegates sent by General Zervas in order to negotiate with General Lanz were in reality merely spies who had been sent for this purpose by General Zervas. Have I understood you rightly?

A General Zervas did not send them.

Q Well, who sent them then if they were spies?

A General Zervas did not tell them to go to see General Lanz. These people were just doing their duty. They were going down there in order to possibly disturb the Germans and to communicate information obtained from them, to us.

Q Witness, you want to state on oath that General Zervas did not know of this? Do you want to tell us that under oath?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If Your Honor pleases, I object to the insinuations that Dr. Sauter has continually made about the witness's testifying under oath. 2128

THE PRESIDENT (JUDGE WENNERSTRUM): I think that possibly the counsel might deter from making that statement. I think the witness is conscious of the fact that he is under oath, and if you will deter from that phase of your examination, Doctor, it will be appreciated.

BY DR. SAUTER:

Q Witness, please answer my last question. You really want to maintain that General Zervas had no knowledge of the activity of these two officers mentioned, and that he did not order them to foim this action?

.A As I have stated clearly, these two people were doing a special job. And it was left to them to decide and make up their minds how to take care of their job. If I would turn around, Mr. Defense Counsel, and tell you how much information we received from your own soldiers you would hardly believe it.

Q Witness, please answer the questions which I have put to you. I asked you whether you really want to maintain that General Zervas did not give this order to these officers to negotiate as spies with the staff of General Lanz, that General Zervas did not know nothing of this. This is my clear question which I ask you to answer clearly.

A Well, naturally General Zervas knew that these people were spies and that they were giving us information from the headquarters of the enemy.

Q.- Did General Zervas also know that these two officers has entered into negotiations with the staff of General Lanz about a truce in order to be able to spy while doing this?

A.- They couldn't carry out any negotiations. First, let me point out the following: As I was personally up in the mountains together with Zervas' forces, I couldn't tell you what these people exactly were doing. You, Mr. Defense counsel, are telling me all about it. If they had carried out some sort of negotiations with the Germans, we would have caught them, and they would have been dealt with as if they had been traitors.

Q.- Did these two officers belong to the Staff of General Zervas?

A.- Which two officers are you referring to? Michalai was not an officer, he was simply a civilian, and as far as Sarantis is concerned he was an officer of the Army who had been assigned even prior to the beginning of the war to tasks of espionage and counter-espionage.

Q.- He was an expert in this sphere? Did Machalaki wear an uniform?

A.- No, he didn't. I told you he wasn't an officer.

Q.- Witness, A.- Excuse me for interrupting you, Mr. Defense Counsel, but I would like to stress the following point.

During the last negotiation for the surrender of the Germans, General Lanz' forces to the Allies -that was in September 1944 -- and if Michalaki hadn't performed his duties correctly, we would have found out about it, and he would have been in jail. And as a matter of fact he was in jail; he got out of jail in the meantime.

JUDGE BURKE: Is he in jail now?

WITNESS: No, Your Honor, he got out.

BY DR. SAUTER:

Q.- Why was he put in jail? He was an officer of your band.

A.- He was charged with having fallen for the foul play as given by the Germans, without his wanting it perhaps.

Q.- What do you want to say about this?

A.- We believe that he played along with the Germans without actually wanting it.

Q.- Witness, you said today that we are only dealing with efforts of General Lanz to arrive at an understanding with Zervas.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If Your Honor please, I don't believe the witness testified about such a thing.

THE PRESIDENT (JUDGE WENNERSTRUM): The witness can protect himself in any situation in connection with any of his quotations, I am quite certain. The objection will be over-ruled.

BY DR. SAUTER:

A.- Will you repeat your question, Mr. Defense Counsel?

Q.- Were agreements really arrived at between General Zervas and General Lanz, or between the two staffs of these generals?

A.- I told you before that the three or four attempts as made by General Lanz were made in order to get together and to discuss this matter because you couldn't reach an agreement without having a discussion in advance. As I stated before the attempts were made by General Lanz because two parties had to be present before any negotiations could be carried out. If an agreement should be reached it necessitates the presence of both parties in order to reach an agreement, which agreement did not exist on the part of Zervas.

Q.- Did not exist? Witness, don't you know anything about the fact that a staff of Lanz's came to a repeated agreement with the delegates of General Zervas that the troops of General Zervas were to be supported by the German troops in their fight against Communist Partisans?

A.- The Germans at all times tried to get some of the groups against the Communists and sometimes again they supported the Communists in the fight against our groups. Those were the wishes on the part of the Germans.

Those were their wishes at least and what turned out to be was entirely different.

Q.- Witness, if you, as a Greek Nationalist, know all so accurately what the Germans wanted than you will be even much better able to tell us what your friend, Zervas, wanted, and for this reason, I am asking you, don't you know that General Zervas repeatedly asked General Lanz for armed assistance against the Communists and that he had so received this armed assistance from General Lanz?

Court V Case VII Anagnostopoulos)

A That is an absolute lie because whoever at any time accepted weapons from the Germans was a traitor, an absolute traitor.

Q And you maintain that General Zervas and his officers did not receive German arms?

A No, General Zervas did not receive any weapons and every Greek citizen with a sound heart at no time accepted anything from the Germans - with sound heart and mind.

Q And I am asking you about the following incident: In the beginning of 1944, the units of General Zervas found themselves in an unfavorable position at the Arachtos front. Does the witness know anything about whether General Zervas at that time wrote a letter in his own handwriting to General Lanz, a sealed letter asking General Lanz for armed assistance?

A No, I don't know of any such thing.

Q May I continue? On the basis of the consent of General Lanz, Capt. Serrantis whom you talked of recently, an operational plan was worked out with the officers of General Lanz, on the basis of this mutual operational plan at the Arachtos front, the troops of General Zervas and the German troops attacked simultaneously. General Zervas from the West, Lanz with his troops from North and South, and through this General Zervas gained a big victory over the Communists with the help of General Lanz. Does the witness know anything of all this?

A I believe, Mr. Defense Counsel is repeating a well known piece of German propaganda here which the Germans were using both in Greece and Yugoslavia. In any case, as things are, if this incident really would have been correct and it would have come to the knowledge Court V Case VII Anagnostopoulos) of General Zervas that this Serrantis participated in this, he would have been caught and shot, and I would like to add the following.

It is very funny, Mr. Defense Counsel. You see, it so happened that at that time, namely in March, I happened to be in the mountains and in order to reach General Zervas's forces, I had to make a great detour through an area where the Germans were attacking our groups. It would be a good thing, Mr. Defense Counsel, if you could take a trip to Greece and go up to the mountains and see the graves along the road of both German soldiers and guerilla forces on the distance between Artis, Jannina, and Tzoumerka, and Lakka-Souli.

Q Witness, I am not going to Greece. I am asking you repeatedly, is it right what I just said about the incident in the spring of 1944 at the Arachtos front?

A That is a lie.

Q Witness, I believe I said before, beginning of 1944, that seems to be a mistake. It should not be beginning of 1944; it should be August of 1944.

AAugust 1944?

Q August 1944 at the Arachtos front.

AAre you correcting yourself, Mr. Defense Counsel?

Q I have corrected myself. That is a mistake in writing. Perhaps you will correct yourself also.

A I shall refer you, Mr. Defense Counsel, and again come back to the telegrams which went to our headquarters and the Middle East headquarters. First of all, let me tell you the following. Between the 5th of August and the 14th of August, I would like to tell you, that the 10th Regiment of Zervas National Forces, in cooperation with U.S. Rangers, were fighting the Germans in the area of Kalama; and now secondly, between the 5th and the 10th of August 1944, the Zervas Regiment called Xyrovouni was advancing towards Prestan and they stopped the German forces which were advancing towards Pesta, which is near Arachi and smashed up their columns.

On the 17th of August, which is the third occasion, the 10th Division of Zervas and his 40th Regiment led by Major Rogers of the U.S. Army, advanced towards Menina which is on the roads Igoumenitza and Jannina. During that time, those groups captured the German position of Menina, captured 120 prisoners, killed 100 Germans and captured along with the 100 prisoners 50 wounded and also all the equipment which belonged to the Germans; that is, vehicles, guns, horses, and all the other equipment that is both foodstuff and ammunition. Those, Mr. Defense Counsel, are only three incidents which occurred during the period of time which you mentioned in connection with Arachto.

THE PRESIDENT: We will take our afternoon recess at this time.

(A recess was taken).

DR. SAUTER: Mr. President, I have only a few more questions.

Q Witness, I'd like to get a few answers from you about certain incidents in the last weeks of the occupation. Witness, do you know anything about the fact that General Zervas in the fall of 1944 requested General Lanz, through his spies, to tell him when the troops of General Lanz would evacuate the various parts of Epiros?

AAll I know personally, because I personally participated in this, is that General Lanz ordered to me either General Zervas in July or Tom Barnes. All I know is that at least as far as we knew, General Lanz believed that something serious was going to happen in Germany and therefore it was Lanz's idea, as we heard, to contact either General Zervas or the Chief of the Allied Mission in Greece. General Zervas refused to participate in this, and this approach and the whole thing was carried out by Tom Barnes. Tom Barnes reported to his headquarters, mainly to Marshal Wilson, and the result was that in case the Germans should make serious efforts to surrender unconditionally he should contact and carry on negotiations with General Lanz. Later the agent returned to Jannina and when he finally arrived he reported that General Lanz had personally told him that it was not possible for General Lanz personally to go and see Tom Barnes because, as he said, of the serious incident which he was expecting to happen in Germany had happened, namely: the attempt on Hitler's life.

Q Witness, as far as I can understand your testimony I take it that you did not answer my question. So, in order that we might get ahead a little more quickly I would suggest to you that you confine yourself to my questions. I repeat, do you know that in the fall of 1944. General Zervas requested General Lanz to tell him when he would evacuate the various parts in order that the troops of General Zervas would move before the Communists would come. Perhaps you can give a brief answer to this.

A That is not correct. The only thing I know is that General Zervas sent to General Lanz the terms according to which he was to surrender unconditionally and I personally wrote those terms.

Q Therefore, you don't know anything about this. This will have to be proven by means of other witnesses. One further question: Is it known to you, witness, that General Lanz actually had General Zervas informed of the fact, informed him about what regions of Epiros would be evacuated within the next few days so that Zervas might be able to march into these regions before the Communists would come.

A The whole thing seems very funny to me because I was present when all those things were happening and between the 1st of September and 15th of October 1944 the guns and the rifles were blazing away night and day and I personally entered the area of Jannina together with the Regiment which was called Xyrovouni and they were fighting at Verina and we had nine killed in our unit the last hour.

Q Witness, I didn't ask you how many dead you had in the last hour but I asked you, do you actually know anything about the fact that General Zervas informed General Lanz as to what regions would be evacuated by the German troops within the next few days. The witness can answer the question with either a yes or no.

A No, of course.

Q Do you know that during those negotiations General Zervas proposed to General Lanz that Lanz, together with his troops, should desert to Zervas, that he, Lanz, and his troops would be decently treated and that they would then be committed as police troops?

A The things as quoted by Mr. Defense Counsel are exactly a distortion of the terms as written by me on the 9th of September in the evening in the office of General Zervas and presented to them.

Q Therefore, you know nothing about such a proposal. Answer this question yes or no?

A There was no such proposal.

Q Another question, do you know that General Lanz, before his withdrawal from Jannina gave considerable amount of food and other stocks to the population and International Red Cross?

A Yes, that is known to me.

Q Do you also know that during the withdrawal of the German troops from Jannina the Mayor of that town, a Bishop, expressed the gratitude of the population to General Lanz for the good will with which General Lanz treated the population of the town?

A Both the Mayor and the Bishop were trembling with fear thinking that the Germans might actually put their threats into effect whereby they would blow up all the city and they may have thanked them for not blowing it up.

Q How does the witness know that?

A The way I know about it was that when I asked them how they dared to thank their invaders they told us they had witnesses to prove what had happened. The witnesses were, at least the name of one, was Konstantopoulos.

Q Witness, don't you know that the Mayor of Jannina in front of a large crowd of people told General Lanz when he left if General Lanz would ever return to the Balkans he would at any time be able to enjoy the hospitality of Jannina, and at this very same occasion the Mayor told General Lanz that the town of Jannina was very grateful to General Lanz for his solicitude?

A I don't know if he used those words but I know he spoke and I know why he spoke.

Q Well, what did he say?

A I don't know exactly what he said but when we entered the city we heard that the mayor had spoken to Lanz and we wanted to know what he had said and the reason for doing so.

A Witness, is it correct that in leaflets and in newspapers frequent approaches were made to General Zervas that he had collaborated with the Germans and is it correct that because of this charge General Zervas even at that time was very severely attacked from various leaflets?

Q The fact as is shown by those attacks and it seems from the sources those attacks came from, it is definite proof that General Zervas was the only and real opponent of the Germans in Greece.

BY JUDGE BURKE:

Q I think the question was somewhat differently framed. The question in the first instance: Were such attacks in truth and in fact made on General Zervas by the leftist organizations?

A Yes, I said they did happen, yes.

BY DR. SAUTER: I have no further questions, your Honor.

Thank you.

BY DR. LATERNSE:

Q Your Honor I just have a very few questions. Witness, at the beginning of the war between Germany and Greece, were you a soldier at that time?

A I was a war correspondent at the Front.

Q And were you in May, June and July 1941, in Athens?

A What year?

Q 1941.

A Yes, I was.

Q Who executed the occupation of Athens, the Germans or the Italians?

A During the entire first period of May it was the Germans; later on came the Italians, with the only difference that the Germans had seen to it that they were able to keep whatever was tangible and essential.

Court No. V, Case No. VII.

Q. I didn't ask you about that, witness. I just wanted to know approximately when the Italians took over the supreme military command administration in Athens.

A. It was the end of May or early in June, if I am not mistaken.

Q. You mean the year 1941?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know whether, in the conditions of capitulation there was a provision according to which the Greeks obligated themselves officially not to fight the German any more?

A. No, I know of no such thing.

Q. You told us yesterday about the development of the Zervas movement and you said that in the first period, July 1942 to November 1942, there were 98 members.

A. I said that most of the gorilla forces, the number on the 23rd of October amounted to 98 men, including Zervas.

Q. And in the next period, from November 1942 to December, you mentioned the number 500 to 600.

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. Now, we are speaking of the 98. Did they all remain with that movement?

A. All those that were left and hadn't gotten killed.

Q. Killed by whom?

A. By the Italians and the Germans in the battles fought against the two.

Q. Witness, how strong is a batallion?

A. The battalions in the gorilla forces did not have the personnel strength that normal military organizations have. In any case, the personnel strength was anything from between 120 men to 250 and that was at the time when the total number of gorillas was approximately 10,000 men.

Q. Now, I would like to know, because you have already testified about military matters, how strong a normal battalion is?

A. According to the structure of the French army, which applied to our army also, a battalion had a personnel strength of 800 to 1000 men. However, today, as our army is based on British principles, the personnel strength in a Greek battalion in a Greek army today ranges between 50 and 300: therefore, practically the same as that of the gorilla forces in the mountains.

Q. Now, you said yesterday that the battles were fought against four Italian battalions.

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. How strong approximately was one of these Italian battalions?

A. According to the information which we had at the time of the battle of Skoulikaria, they must have had from between 350 to 500 men in one battalion plus their transportation, whatever it was -- vehicles, mules or horses.

Q. Did I understand you correctly, that you said that the Italian battalions had about 350 to 500 men?

A. Yes, that is correct -- 350 to 500 men.

Q. Then these 98 men would have opposed 1500 to 1800 Italians?

A. Absolutely.

Q. And how did these battles turn out?

A. I believe that Mr. Defense Counsel doesn't know very well what gorilla warfare means. I would like to tell you that within 17 days, which was between the 23rd of October and the 10th of November and during the battle of Gorgopotamus, after the battle of Gorgopotamus, after exactly one month after this battle, we carried out, for one month after that battle, we carried out continuous harassing of the enemy, attacking them from mountain to mountain, from ridge to ridge, and from valley to valley.

We killed a lot of them. We captured lots of them and we even captured their means of transportation.

Q. But, witness, did I understand you correctly to say that you with your 98 men even attacked these Italians?

A. Absolutely. Why is it so funny to you, Mr. Defense Counsel? After all, Greece did win the war over Italy, although Greece only had 7 million in it's population number and the Italians had 14 millions.

Q. I summarized that these 98 men attacked 1500 to 1800 Italians and even chased them away.

A. These 98 men for a period of two months and a half bothered the Italians to such an extent that they forced them to leave. Yes, even more than that, the Italian colonel in charge of those Italians gave the order, made the proposal to General Zervas to give him permission to leave, promising him he would never return and he issued such orders, but his proposals were not accepted.

Q. Witness, were those hard fights?

A. Absolutely, yes.

Q. How many losses did you have?

A. One lieutenant colonel was killed. His name was Avgerinos, and we also had fourteen dead during the first phase of the struggle. Later on our losses became more severe, forcefully, because we used more men.

Q. But you had only 98 men at that time?

A. Mr. Defense Counsel is not following very much the proceedings here. In any case, the prosecution asked me about those things and I said that on the 23rd of October, during the first phase of the struggle, we had 98 men whereupon the Bridge of Gorgopotamus was blown up; and in December and after that many more things happened.

The British started throwing supplies down by parachutes, and uniforms and arms.

Q. Witness, I believe you have answered my question. We can leave this point.

A. And the battle continued.

Q. Witness, have you ever participated yourself in battle?

A. Personally, I watched the battle between the two parties by being in between the two. It was not my task to fight. It was my task to watch and I was right in the front line together with the other gorillas who were fighting. This does not necessarily mean that I did not make use of the weapon I had.

Q. Witness, would you please be more brief in answering my questions? Did you personally have a weapon?

A. Absolutely.

Q. But you just said that you were an observer and didn't shoot.

A. I said that the one does not stop the other. In the first place I was a gorilla and in the secondary station came my job as a war correspondent but the first did not stop the second.

Q. I asked you, did you personally participate in any battle?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. When and where?

A. (N.I.)

Q. If you answer my questions very briefly, I will be very happy. I just want to know when and where you fought.

Page 2,145

A. I participated, for instance, in the battle in the Prebissiva on the 5th and 6th of July 1944. I also participated in the attack against the German column near the Bridge of Zita. I also participated in the battle of Menina.

Q. Did you shoot personally in those battles?

A. Yes and yes and yes.

Q. You said yesterday something about the conduct of the Zervas troops when they were surrounded. Were you ever surrounded?

A. No, not personally, no.

Q. How do you know, then, how the Zervas troops conducted themselves when they were surrounded?

A. The same way I knew about it in the same manner in which the defense counsel knows about quite a few facts in which possibly he was not involved. For instance, we know that the French were encircled in the Sedan.

Q. What is the difference, witness, between you and me? That means you don't know how the troops conducted themselves as you were not there personally. Witness please answer my question briefly. Do you know?

A. Personally, of course, I don't know anything because I wasn't there.

Q. Why didn't you say that yesterday?

A. I wasn't asked anything in that connection.

Q. You mean that you can tell the Tribunal anything you have ever heard you can tell the Tribunal as a fact?

A. I did not Commit anything in particular to the Tribunal. I was asked what I knew. I want asked what I had seen. Whenever I was asked if I had seen it, I said I had seen it or hadn't seen it; and if they asked me how I know about it I explained how I did.

Q. But were you used differently that way from other witnesses, I would have to ask you every time whether you had seen it or whether you had heard about it.

A. That's up to you.

Q. Well, can I assume that everything you have said here you either heard or saw or were told by somebody and perhaps saw something of it yourself?

A. The moment I receive an official report from a unit, according to which they are encircled and the report contains exactly where and how they were encircled that, of course, is according to the logic which prevails all over the world, with the exception of here, I believe it would mean that it is an official report and I can state it.

Q. Therefore, you are or a journalist than a witness? Give me a brief answer.

Q. In Greece the term "correspondent," "journalist" is an honorary term. It is not as it used to be in Goebbels's time that this was propagandistic, and a man who would tell lies. In any case, in Greece whoever is a correspondent or a newspaper man would always tell the truth and they consider that an honor.

Q. But I didn't mean this in a derogatory sense. I just mean that whatever you have described here you didn't see personally, did you?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honors, the witness has testified here on many occasions that he has gone back and forth to the mountains and he has seen battle and on March 1944, until the end, he has actually been in the mountains with Zervas' troops. I think if Dr. Laternser wants to quote the witness's testimony, he ought to quote it correctly.

THE PRESIDENT: I have this thought in connection with this examination, that possibly Dr. Laternser is endeavoring to attack the credibility of the witness and his questions are directed along that line. However, although I do not want to limit the cross examination, I suggest that we spend considerable time along this line, Dr. Laternser, and perhaps you made your point along that phase of the questioning and we might proceed to something else.

DR. LATERNSE: Yes your Honor, but I just have a few questions.

Q. Witness, were you one of those 98 people who fought against the the Italians?

Page 2,147

A. No.

DR. LATERNSE: I have no further questions.

DR. WEISGERBER (Counsel for the defendant Speidel)

Q. Witness, you are well informed about all the undertakings of the Zervas organization?

A Yes.

Q. You said yesterday that the Zervas organization in the first month of the year 1944 had about 3,000 to 4,000 men.

A. That is in the Epiros area.

Q. Were there any further EDES units an Euboea?

A. Now unit which had any connection with Zervas' forces ever existed on Euboea.

Q. Witness, can you briefly tell us what the Evzones were in that organization?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I object to the question. It is not within the scope of the direct examination.

DR WEISGERBER: I would like to make the following statement in this connection, Your Honor. I will quote part of a document in which Evzones are mentioned in this connection, and therefore I consider this question not only as admissible, but as necessary.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I do not believe the witness testified on direct of any knowledge of any Evzones Organization, Your Honor.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Sustained.

BY DR. WEISGERBER:

Q. Witness, did members of the EDES organization, together with Communists, pardon me, together with EVzones, ever fight communists?

A. No, at no time, and whoever was a member of the Evzones organization and said that he fought, - who in any case said he was a member of the EDES organization, and said he fought together with the Evzones is a traitor.

Q. Then I want the witness to see the document NOKW 717, Prosecution's Exhibit 435, in the Document Book 18, page 27 of the German Text, and if I have noted this correctly, page 24 of the English text, there it says its NOKW 717-- and this is a daily report of the military Commander Southeast, to Army Group F, of the 4th of March 1944. There it reads:

"16 kilometers southeast from Chalkis, Evzones Regiment No. 1, together with EDES civilian guards repulsed band attacks."

Is this report correct?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I object to the question. I do not believe the witness is competent to testify about that.

PRESIDENT: Sustained.

MR. SIMHA: Your Honor, I believe the witness wants to answer that question.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If your Honors please, I do not believe the witness is competent, and therefore should not be permitted to answer.

DR. WEISBERGER: I cannot permit-

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: The Court will reverse its ruling, and permit him to answer.

A. I do not want to have any such dirty statements made against the greatest fighting organization in Greece. Those statements are statements of propaganda and nothing else.

DR. WEISGERBER: This is a matter of a document which the prosecution has submitted in order to prove its claim. If I understand the witness correctly, he wishes to say that this document is wrong at the place.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I object to Dr. Weisgerber's remarks. This document, especially the part which he quotes, "was submitted to sustain the prosecution's claim," and therefore I ask it be stricken from the record.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Objection overruled.

BY DR. WEISGERBER:

Q. Witness, is the name General Liakos known to you?

A. I have heard the name.

Q. Was he a follower to EDES?

A. No, he was not, and it was in the interests of the Germans to put several dirty subjects into the EDES; at least to say that they were in the EDES; that is what I mean.

Q. Did General Liakos ever lead or command an EDES unit?

A. No, at no time did he do such a thing.

Q. I want to submit to the witness, the Prosecution Document NOKW 692, Prosecution's Exhibit 422, it is contained in Document Book 8, page 114 and page 115 of the English text, there it says:

"EDES Company Euboea, 100 FDES members under command of General Liakos together with German armed units were committed from Chalkis; only small successes against communists so far."

Will you still maintain that no EDES members fought together with Germans or with the agreement of the Germans against communists?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honor, the witness may be confused. I ask that he be instructed that this document submitted by the prosecution is a captured German document.

DR. WEISGERBER: Your Honor, I ask you to permit me the following statement. This is a document which doubtless comes from German origin, but the prosecution has submitted this document, as well as a hundred others, in order to support their own claims; whatever it wants to prove, among other things, it wants to support by means of these very documents. There I see no reason.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: I think the objection which the prosecution has made, and which is not really in the nature of an objection but a request for an admonition to the witness, needs no comment on the part of the examiner. I might say to the witness that this, the document to which he refers, is a captured German War document, and in connection with the question, the witness will keep that fact in mind in answering the question.

You may answer the question.

A. Now whoever said that he was a member of the Evzones and that he fought together with the Germans, is a traitor. All those people were traitors, those who were fighting with units which possibly had German weapons, and General *ervas, by sending reports and telegrams to the Middle East headquarters, was reporting those incidents and he disclosed the German tricks.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: The Tribunal will adjourn at this time until Monday morning at nine-thirty.

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the Courtroom will please find their seats.

The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal V.

Military Tribunal V is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

There will be order in the Court.

May it please Your Honors, all defendants are present in the Courtroom.

The Courtroom will be seated.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: You may proceed.

CROSS EXAMINATION (continued) WITNESS COSTAS TRIANDAPHYLIDIS

BY DR. MUELER TORGOW:

Q Witness, for what reason before the coalitions which you talked about of all resistance on 23 July 1943, was, if that there were different movements founded in Greece, especially the EAM and the EDES?

MR. FENSTIRMACHER: I object to the question. I do not think it is within the scope of the direct examination.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: If the witness knows he may answer.

A Yes, I do have an answer to your question, Mr. Defense Counsel. The reason was that various persons formed various groups. These various people amongst each other might have had different political idea. However, one point has to be stressed. That is all of the Greeks who took to the mountains, and all of the Greeks who joined the resistance movements only had one thought, to fight the invader.

Q Witness, why did these various movements hold various political views? You know something about it, I am sure.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: We are getting pretty far afield from the 2152 direct examination.

As I understand the direct examination, the witness only testified to the EDES organization, its military structure, the uniforms they wore, and the manner of warfare.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: The objection will be sustained.

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW: The subject is the activity of the German Occupation Forces in Greece in 1941 to 1943. Apart from this, the witness on Friday and Saturday made general explanations not only pertaining to the question of military organization of the EDES, but also of the AEM generally, and the relation of AEM to EDES. Within the frame work I put this, my question.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: Your question seems to indicate that you call for his conclusion as to what they thought, and as to his ideas. I think that it is incompetent.

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW: You want to know facts, your Honor.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: Then I suggest that you ask them.

BY DR. MUELLER-TORGOW:

Q Witness, what political parties had the attention of the EDES party and those of the AEM?

A The EDES organization of the groups had contact relationships with those political groups that wanted to fight the invader, with all of them without exception. I was not a member of the AEM and therefore I could not testify as to that, and I was not interested in it.

Q Witness, if you didn't know that, then I put it to you, that in a Greek newspaper, 5 April, 1947, that the constituents of these two groups was the following. I should like this to refresh your memory to this effect:

"The EDES have liberal, monarchistic and socialistic ideas* the AEM is the left, -- has the leftist tendencies," and this was written by a Greek journalist.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honor, I object to the question. I do not think it is proper cross-examination.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: The objection is sustained.

Q Witness, you said on the 23rd of August, 1943, the old organization in Greece had come to agreement and had been unified. Was that in writing or orally, and who were the members, -- who were the participants of the EDES and the AEM?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honor, I object to the question. The defendant has testified that he was not a member of the AEM or ALES and he can therefore not know who any representative of AIM or ELAs were.

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW: Your Honor, the witness expressly told us about this agreement, and its uniformity. My question is in connection with that he has stated here. If he does not know it, he should say he doesn't know it. The question must be admissible, however.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: If the witness has personal knowledge of the question he may answer.

A Yes, I do know something about it, and I shall give you a detailed answer. The National units of the theatre were recognized, they were recognized groups from the headquarters of the Middle East. They were regular units of the army commanded by the Middle East, and therefore the agreement which took place on the 23rd of July, 1943, was under the auspices of representatives of headquarters of the Middle East. This agreement was made in writing.

The main terms contained in this agreement provided that the national units of General Zervas, the units of the ELAS, and the units of Colonel Psaros would receive military orders from the Middle East, and act according to those orders while performing military operations. It was drawn up by the United headquarters and all of those units.

This common headquarters which had been set up was competent for these organizations, and also it consisted of the mission of the British. If you are interested in names of the people who were in that common headquarters, I can give you names, and in any case I could tell you they were all Greek officers of the regular army.

For instance for the unit of the ELAS, Colonel Petjopoulakas and -

Q That is sufficient witness. Who was Psaros?

A Colonel Psaros was a regular colonel of the Greek Army, as the man in charge of the Guerilla forces of the organization EKKA.

Q What kind of any organization was this EKKA?

A It was an organization of national resistance.

Q Exactly like the others in Greece?

A Yes, that is correct.

Q Witness, this unification of the 23rd of April, 1943; how long did that remain in 1943?

A Until the month of October, 1943.

Q Why only until October, 1943? What happened then?

A This is an internal Greek matter and that has nothing to do with the crimes committed by the Germans before that incident, during and after that incident.

Q I didn't ask you that, witness. I asked you why the unification of the 23rd of August 1943, was only observed until October 1943.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If your Honors please, I object to the question. I think it is without the scope of the direct examination.

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW: Your Honor, this is in connection with the statement of the witness on Friday.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: The witness is assumed to be able to answer the question. I suggest that he answer it.

A In order to stop the idea on the part of the German Defense Counsel, according to which you are trying to say that Greece during those years were fighting Communists, I would like to correct that, and say that the reason why this thing stopped in October 1943, was that the Germans were throwing one against another, and it is with this policy that they succeeded in throwing one group against the other. If you want some more, I could even give you dates and details of all of those things.

Q I would like to ask you witness, the Germans according to the old Roman principle did divide the resistance groups "divide et impera" in October, 1943. Is that correct?

A What I wanted to say is this, that the Germans were not fighting the communist organization because they were communists; they were fighting every Greek, they were fighting every patriot, also the national organizations.

In any case, whatever they found in those organizations, certain people in those communist organizations, certain people who would help them, they would not step; they would not hesitate in employing their aid and use it against the other organizations and groups. Just to give you an example, I can state this; that they did not stop on that occasion to take communists and employ their aid, and have the communists show them where ELAS organization was, namely in Zagoria, and that was on the 15th of October, 1943. They encircled the unit of Zagoria, in Arachovitsa and they destroyed it. The delegation that went to Zervas on the 5th of October, also had the task, the order, to go to the 8th ELAS division also, and they told these people there that in case they should be ready to sign an agreement with the Germans, they would use them also in order to fight the others, and would help them, rather, in order to even go back behind or before that period of time, and there are certain photographs to prove that, that is, official photographs, in Athens, and ---

Q Were you in Zagoria and Arachovirsa when this happened? Were you present when this happened?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I wonder if we can have the witness' answer before the defense counsel interrupts.

A We have documents--

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: May I suggest for the convenience of the interpreter, and for the intelligent reception on the part of the Tribunal, that the answer to broken down in segments rather than given as a long discourse. It makes it very difficult for the interpreters and sometimes somewhat difficult for the Tribunal to keep the continuity of the answer, to may I suggest that in the future, a brief statement be given and interpreted, so far as competent, and in that fashion we will be able to understand a little better the context of the testimony.

MR. DENNEY: I cannot hear anything on the second channel over her, your Honor. I never can hear the question in English, and I cannot hear anything your Honor is saying.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: It may be well to have the system checked.

(A short recess was taken at 2156 hours.)

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed.

BY DR. MUELLER-Torgaw:

A.- We have documents in Greece to prove that the Germans were releasing Communist leaders from their prisons in order to employ them against us. For instance, there was a man by the name of Tzimas, one of the Communist leaders. And I also know of another case where 35 Communist leaders were released from the Concentration Camp of Chaidari. The Germans would kill every Greek citizen, without differentiating between them, the moment they fought against them. Regardless if they were Royalists, Communists, or Democrats. The Germans would tend and would be ready to use every Greek citizen who did not have enough brains to know-better. They would use every criminal means and every criminal element, regardless whether he acted like a Communist, like a Royalist, or like a Democrat.

Q.- Was this the rule, Witness, that the Germans collaborated with the Communists, that is the EAM? And was it....

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Will you speak a little louder, Interpreter, please?

INTERPRETER (Dr. Hildesheimer): Was it usual, witness, that the Germans collaborated with the Communists, that is the EAH?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If Your Honor please, I submit that we're getting very very far afield.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: That objection is sustained.

BY DR. MUELLER-TORGOW:

Q.- Witness, you haven't answered my question whether the Germans in October 1943 divided the two organization EDES and EAM. Will you please explain this very shortly.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If Your Honors please, I object to the question for the same reason that I objected to the previous question.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: If the witness knows he may answer it.

BY DR. MUELLER-TORGOW:

A.- I answered. I said that the German policy was to start the EAM to fight against the EDES; and they succeeded in doing so. Therefore, the patriots who were in the EDES and in the ELAS are not guilty because they were ready to fight against the Germans. What I meant to say was that for the attack of the EAM against the EDES the patriots are not responsible. It's not their fault. These people wanted to fight against the Germans. I would, like to stress the following point; that tho attack of the EAM against the ZERVAS group coincided with the attack of the German Edelweiss Division against Dzoumerka.

Q.- That'll do, witness.

A.- I would like to continue, Your Honor. The proof for all of this is contained in the telegrams between the British Mission in Greece and tho Middle East Headquarters, and also by the testimony and report given by Brigadier General Eddy, and by the radio broadcast by Field Marshal Wilson.

Q.- Now, witness; do you admit, therefore, that between ELAS and EAM there were differences?

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: For him to admit it is a question of admission. He presumably has stated the fact. Shouldn't that conclude it?

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW: I only wanted to clarify it; Your Honor; because the witness on Friday and Saturday said the contrary.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Very well; proceed.

BY DR. MUELLER-TORGOW:

Q.- Witness, you were personal adviser of General Zervas, and you wore a uniform. What military rank did you holt?

A.- I was a simple guerilla.

Q.- What rank? There must have been rank in the military organization of Zervas?

A.- I told the Prosecution during the examination that in the organization of Zervas I was the man in charge of the press department.

Q.- Witness, you said on Saturday -- you answered a question by the defense counsel that you wore a uniform. You must, therefore, have held a military rank. Which was it?

A.- I was a soldier.

Q.- That was the lowest rank then?

A.- Yes, quite so; absolutely.

Q.- Witness, in what matters did you advise General Zervas generally?

A.- I advised General Zervas on whatever matters had any relation with national politics and also with regard to the press part.

Q.- Then you can probably inform me of the following: What was the strength of the EDES in autumn 1943 on the Peloponnes?

A.- We had a personnel strength of between 300 and 400 men.

Q.- Who was the leader?

A.- That I don't remember, but they were subordinated to the British Missions orders.

Q.- Do you know, witness, that the EDES units on the Peloponnes, under Major Bretakos during fall 1943, were eliminated by the EAM?

A. What the defense counsel said could not be correct because Rittmeister Bretakos never did belong to the organization of the EDES.

Q. Do you know anything, apart from the personality of Bretakos that the units were eliminated on the Peloponnes?

A. The EDES group had received an order from the British Mission to go into the mainland in order to avoid having clashes on the Peloponnes with the EAM. The order was executed and most of these men succeeded in getting into the Epiros area.

Q. You haven't answered my question, Witness.

A. You asked me if they had been destroyed, and I told you they were not destroyed because they received the order to withdraw.

Q. That doesn't exclude each of these two things, but I shall now come to something else. Witness, on Friday you said that General Zervas had in February 1945 returned from the Mountains to Athens.

Why only in February 1945? When the only enemy, that is the Germans, had already left Greece in October.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I object to the question. The Witness testified that in February 1945 he, the witness, returned from the mountains to Athens, and he said nothing about General Zervas' returning to Athens.

DR. MUELLER - TORGOW: Your Honor, he said he together with General Zervas had returned from the mountains to Athens on that date, as far as I remember PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: The Witness will recall himself when that was his answer. The answer, in all probability, may be brief.

BY DR. MUELLER-TORGOW:

A. In February 1945 I returned to Athens together with General Zervas because the national guerrilla groups had been demobilized according to a general order of the Greek Government. Those Guerrillas who were of age to serve in the Army remained, and they formed the Epiros Division.

That's all I have to say, and whatever else Mr. Defense Counsel is trying to implicate has nothing to do with my being here.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: The question of his implication has no bearing upon the duties of the Tribunal. We will determine that matter. The Witness will answer if he has knowledge of the facts; otherwise without comment. Proceed.

BY DR. MUELLER-TORGOW:

Q. Witness, the EAM units did not prevent the General to return from the mountains to Athens did they?

A. MR. FENSTERMACHER: If Your Honors please, I don't see how this is at all relevant to either the direct examination or to any attempts to impeach the credibility of the Witness.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE : The Objection is sustained.

BY DR. MUELLER-TORGOW:

Q. Witness, is it true that General Zervas is now Minister for Public Security in the present Greek Government of Maximos?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. Witness, why was a Minister for Public Security erected in Greece?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I object to the question, Your Honor. I don't think it is within the scope of direct examination.

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW: Your Honor , this question is in immediate connection with the scope of the EDES and the EAM.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Very well, We'll take the answer briefly.

BY DR. MUELLER TORGOW:

A. This was not the first time it was established. It has existed since 1936.

Q. Could it not have been dissolved after the Germans had left, or was this situation insecure? If it was insecure, why?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If Your Honors please, I object to the question.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: The objection is sustained.

BY DR. MUELLER TORGOW:

Q. Witness, the EAM simultaneously with the departure of the Germans---were they eliminated?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If Your Honors please, I don't see the relevance of questions of this nature.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: We'll take the answer for what it may be worth.

BY DR. MUELLER TORGOW:

A. No, it was not dissolved.

Q. Why not?

A. The EAM had certain political aims which it wanted to attain.

Q. And ELAS?

A. The same thing.

Q. Witness, the ELAS is a military organization. It had certain political aims, as it was said before, and it was extremely left.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I think the conclusion of counsel is perhaps not appropriate at this place. If you have a direct question, or cross-examination question, please frame it accordingly.

BY DR. MUELLER TORGOW:

Q. Witness, why, after the Germans left Greece, was the EAM not dissolved? That was the question which I put and which has not been answered yet.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If Your Honors please, we are now beginning to get into the matters after the Germans left Greece, and the defense counsel is obviously trying to inject into this trial matters which are now going on in Greece. And I submit that they are not at all relevant, and they have nothing to do with the cross examination and the credibility of the Witness.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: The objection is sustained.

DR. MUELLER TORGOW: In that case I have no further questions.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Is there further cross-examination? You may proceed, Mr. Fenstermacher .

RE-DIRECT EXAMINATION BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

Q. Witness, you testified on Saturday that you knew that General Lanz's groups furnished food to the Red Cross for the relief of the Greek people. Is that true?

A. Yes, there were such incidents.

Q. When?

A. That was around that period of time when the Germans were about ready to withdraw.

Q. And what date was that ?

A. That was around September 1944.)

Q. When did General Lanz ' troops come to the Epiros section of Greece?

A. Towards the end of June 1943 and General Lanz himself came in August 1943.

Q. Between August 1943 and September or October 1944, do you know of any other cases in which General Lanz' troops furnished food to the Red Cross for the relief of the Greek people?

A. No, I don't; but I can also explain why they did give food in September 1944.

4. Do you know why, Witness?

A. That was the time during which the Germans were about ready to withdraw, and at that time they tried to most anything to oblige the Greeks kindly and to stop them from making more attacks against them.

Q. Witness, I believe you also testified on Saturday that you knew that when General Lanz left Jannina, the capital of Epiros, that the mayor of Jannina. thanked General Lanz . Did you testify to that?

A Yes, that is correct.

Q The man who was mayor of Jannina at that time, where is he now?

A He is in Greece.

Q Is he a free citizen of Greece?

A Yes, he is.

Q. Is he mayor of Jannina today?

A That I don't know. I don't think so. But I could explain it to you why he thanked the Germans.

Q If you know, you may explain.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I think he explained it in some detail on Friday or Saturday.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Very well, your Honor, we may omit it.

BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

Q Witness, during what period of time from the information which you had at your disposal were most of the villages in the Epiros section of Greece burned?

A All the villages of the Epiros were burned during the period of time during which the Germans were in that area.

Q What period of time was that?

A From the 20th of June 1933 until the month of October 1944.

Q Did you ever see any villages while they were actually burning, witness?

A Yes, I did, on three occasions.

Q They were villages which had been defended by EDES units?

A No, at no time.

Q Did the EDES troops ever execute retaliation measures?

A No.

Q Witness, did the burning of villages by German troops discontinue at any time as a result of differences which existed between EDES and ELAS units?

A I don't quite understand what you mean.

Q You testified that there were certain differences between EDES and ELAS units. My question is, were those differences at all relevant with respect to the methods of warfare, namely the burning of villages which the German troops employed?

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Wouldn't that be pretty much of a conclusion? He may state the facts. The conclusions will be drawn from the facts. I think it is the responsibility of the Tribunal.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Very well, your Honor, I will withdraw the question.

BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

Q Witness, when you returned to Athens in April 1941 from covering the Italian-German war, did you see German troops there?

A Yes, I did.

Q Did you also see Italian troops?

A Yes, I did.

Q From your observation, were there more German troops than Italian troops in Athens?

DR. LATERNSEER: I object. But in the this case, no facts are requested, but a judgment.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I believe I have asked the witness to state whatever he observed, your Honor.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I am sorry. I received only a part of the objection of the defense counsel to this.

DR. LATERNSEER: I would also like the defense counsel in this case to ask for facts. The prosecution counsel should ask for facts even in this case.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I assume the question is predicated on the fact that the answer will be an answer of facts.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: That is right, your Honor, based on whatever the witness observed.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed.

BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

AAAt that time in April 1941, Germans prevailing in number, and that continued until the time when they invaded Crete, rather when they had completed with the invasion and the operations in Crete and they started withdrawing towards the North and they were progressing towards the Russian front where they were supposed to strike quite soon.

Q Were German troops in Athens continually from April 1941 until October 1944?

A Yes, regardless of the period of time, there were Germans in there at all times. Sometimes there were more and sometimes there were less.

Q When did the Italians troops leave Athens?

A The Italians did not leave Greece. They were disarmed by the Germans in September, 1943.

Q Witness, were you a guerilla fighter and soldier as well as a journalist during the period of time to which you have testified? That is to say, from April 1941 until October 1944?

A Yes, that was the duty of every person that went up to the mountains.

Q Now, will you state again the sources of information for the testimony which you have given?

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Mr. Fenstermacher, pardon me for interrupting. My impression and that of my colleagues is that this matter has been quite fully covered.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If your Honor pleases, Dr. Laternser, it seems to me, has some doubt upon the sources of information which the witness had at his disposal in order to testify.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Very well, you may proceed.

BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

A First of all, it is my own experience, what I saw myself. Secondly, in my capacity as Zervas's adviser, personal adviser; and thirdly by the fact that all the documents of the guerilla forces were in my hands and still are in my hands.

Then there was another fact, the fact that as the man in charge of the press the official information came both to me and to the headquarters, not only the official information but also the top secret information.

Q Did you also travel around in the combat areas and speak to troops of the EDES organization?

A Yes, I did at all times.

Q Did you speak to the inhabitants of the villages in the combat area as well?

A Yes, indeed. Absolutely.

Q Witness, you testified that in November 1942, 98 EDES men attacked from 18 to 2,000 Italian troops. Was it customary for the EDES organization to attack the enemy, even though greatly outnumbered?

A Absolutely. If the order was to carry out the operation, they did so. And there are certain other incidents where the difference of strength is even more drastic.

Q Did you also attack German forces even though outnumbered from 3 to 4 to 1? Or even more outnumbered than that?

A Yes, quite often, with the only exception that our losses then were much heavier.

Q Witness, you were also asked a few questions about the Evzones organization and their relationship with the EDES organization as it appeared from a document which was submitted, excerpts of which were read to you. What was the Evzones organization, witness?

DR. WEISGERBER: Objection. I object to this question. On Saturday I asked the same question and Dr. Fenstermacher objected then and he gave the reason that this was not in connection with the matter to be dealt with, and I think that this situation is still the same and therefore now I object.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honor, I recall that Dr. Weisgerber later qualified the witness to speak on the matter and we then had quite a discussion on the relation between the EDES and the EVzones organization.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Well, with that understanding, if defense counsel wishes to question him further, he may have the opportunity to do so. This is my personal opinion. I haven't conferred with my associates but that is my personal feeling about it. You may proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: With your Honor's permission then, I will refer directly to the document which was read from by defense counsel on Saturday.

BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

Q Witness, I am reading now from Document NOKW-692, which is prosecution Exhibit, in evidence, 422. This is on page 114 of the English document book, and I believe on page 83 of the German document book. I should like to have your explanation, witness, about the excerpts from this document after I have read it to you. This is a report from the Military commander in Greece dated 19 November 1943, and one section of the document is as follows:

"Evzones, Greek War. They had continued to prove themselves during raids against Communists in Athens. The organization of an Evzones regiment in Athens with three battalions and that of one regiment in Patras with two battalions on the way. Cadres emanate between the two fine battalions which were already in existence.

"EDES company, Evia. As a trial, 100 EDES followers, nationalist band, were armed in return for the furnishing of hostages and under the leadership of the Prefect General Liakos they were committed from Chalkis. As yet, only minor successes against Communists."

Witness, do you know who General Liakos was?

DR. LATERNSEER: Objection. This part of this document was not a matter of the cross-examination and it cannot be used now.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may take the answer.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: You may answer the question, witness.

Page Unlabeled

Anagnostopoulos BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

A General Liakos had been appointed by the Quissling government in Chalkis as Prefect. This man couldn't possibly have anything to do with the guerilla bands observers. If Mr. Fenstermacher would be kind enough to tell me the date, I would appreciate it.

Q The document from which I am reading is a report from the Military Commander in Greece dated 19 November 1943.

A That way at a period of time, that is the 19th of November, 1943, at which Zervas's forces were fighting in the Tzoumerka and at which time the battle had reached its peak. Therefore, it is absolutely impossible to believe that while Zervas personally was facing a crisis and the battle was raging, he delegated certain troops to fight with the Germans.

Q Witness, did EDES troops from Zervas organization ever fight in conjunction with Evzones units?

A General Zervas had made an announcement to the Evzone groups telling them that in case they shouldn't dissolve -- I mean demobilize their groups, they would be considered traitors and as they did not dissolve their groups they were considered traitors, at least certain units.

Q Did EDES troops ever fight with Evzone units?

A No, never.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Now, if your Honors please, in the direct examination on Friday and Saturday, I completely neglected to ask the witness two or three questions which were not touched upon in cross-examination, and I should like your Honors' permission to go into that now. The questions and answers, together, should not take more than five minutes.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed.

BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

Q Witness, bearing in mind the sources of information to which you had access, do you know how EDES troops were treated when captured by the Germans? 2171

A From the moment when the Germans arrived in Epiros until May 1944, all the EDES members who were captured were executed, or most of them. Later on the Germans avoided to shoot them but there were still incidents where EDES members were shot. During the first period, the crimes which were committed against EDES member who were wounded and prisoners are horrible.

Q Witness, from the reports which you had access to during the period prior to May 1944, what percentage of EDES troops captured by the Germans were executed, if you know?

AAAt least 70 per cent.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honor, I have no further questions at this time but the photographs about which I spoke on Saturday that I should like to put to the witness, are in the process of being reproduced, and I should like -- I believe they will be ready tomorrow-- and I should like to put the witness on again simply for that purpose.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Very well.

MR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, I should like to cross-examine the witness about some points which I have not been able to clarify yet.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Very well, you may proceed.

DR. LATERNSEER: And which only come to me now.

RECROSS EXAMINATION BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q Witness, you said just now that members of the EDES who became German prisoners were executed.

A Yes, that is correct, and I could even give you names.

Q Did you see such executions yourself--members of the EDES executed by Germans?

A Absolutely. I saw their bodies,

Q I asked you whether you witnessed EDES members being shot by Germans?

A If I had been there, they would have shot me too.

Anagnostopoulos)

Q Well, who told you then?

A When we knew, for instance, that a wounded man, a man who had been wounded had been left in some home in a village and our armies withdrew from that village after the battle and the Germans moved in and we returned after a while and we went back to the house to find the wounded and we found him dead, killed in a horrible manner, then of course we knew that the Germans had done it.

Q I asked you, witness, who told you that he saw, himself, shootings of prisoners?

A Many of them did, many for instance who were present when the shooting occurred and for some strange reason or other, they escaped. Do you want any names, Mr. Defense Counsel? And dates also? All those things were reported detail by detail to the Middle East Headquarters.

Q But from your own knowledge, you don't know anything about that? I mean from your own experience?

A Personally, I have seen the body of my friend, Lt. Galiatsos who had been killed by the Germans in a most horrible manner which not even the New Guinea inhabitants would have used. That was at Tetrakommon. One of the greatest heroes of this war was First Lieutenant Ballas, he was executed in the same manner together with 18 other prisoners, also wounded on the road between Boulgarelli and Neraidos and the monastery of Agyia Kyriaki which is also near Joannina which we had transformed into a hospital and all our heavily wounded men and the nurses were burned alive by the Germans inside the monastery, and even about that there is a personal information in the headquarters in the Middle East. I saw the monastery myself with the burned bodies in it.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: At this point, we will recess until 11:30.

(A recess was taken.)

Court V Case VII Anagnostopoulos)

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the court room, will be seated.

THE PRESIDENT: Tribunal is again in session. You may proceed Dr. Laternser.

BY DR. LATERNER: - RECROSS EXAMINATION

Q Witness, I would like you to answer this question with yes or no. Did you, yourself, see at any time that members of the EDES who were captured by the Germans were shot by the Germans. Did you ever see that yourself. Yes or no.

A No, I said I didn't see that myself. I gave that answer before.

DR. LATERNER: I have no further questions.

INTERPRETER SIMHA: The witness informed me that he has a brief statement to make.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Mr. Fenstermacher?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I have no idea what the witness has in mind, your Honor.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I think you should confer with the witness to find out if it has anything to do with the proceeding.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honor, I think we have covered the material already about which the witness wants to talk about.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: As an American Tribunal we seek to limit the witness' answers to interrogations either by the Prosecution or defense counsel. Are there any further questions?

Judge Wennersturm or Judge Carter, do you have any further questions?

Mr. Fenstermacher, I understand you wish to recall the witness for the purpose of identifying certain Court V Case VII Anagnostopoulos) documents or photographs.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: For certain photographs and that's all.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: With that exception the witness may stand excused.

MR. DENNEY: Your Honors, please, may the Marshall be directed to summons the witness STEPHANOS PAPPAS.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: The Marshall is directed to summons the witness STEPHANOS PAPPAS.

Stephanos Pappas, you may arise and be sworn.

Stephanos Pappas, I swear to speak the truth and only the truth in reply to whatever I am asked, without fear and without prejudice. (The witness repeated the oath.)

You may be seated. You may proceed Mr. Denney.

BY MR. DENNEY: - DIRECT EXAMINATION

Q What is your name?

A Stephanos Pappas.

Q Are there two or three Ps in your last name.

A Double P.

Q Then there are three Ps in your last name.

A Yes, that's correct.

Q Where were you born?

A In Kommeno of Arta.

Q In what region of Greece is that?

A In the Epiros area.

Q And is Kommeno spelled K-O-M-E-N-O?

A It is spelled K-O-M-M-E-N-O.

Q When were you born?

A I was born on the 14th of February 1903.

Q How much education did you have?

A I finished at the University of Athens. I studied Ancient Greek, Modern Greek and History.

Q And you received a degree from the University of Athens?

A Yes.

Q What is your occupation?

A I am the second manager or deputy manager of the college of Arta.

Q Do you have other duties other than the assistant director of the school?

A I have tasks in connection with teaching at the college.

Q What subjects do you teach?

A I said before Ancient History, Modern and ancient Greek.

Q How many pupils are there in this school?

A Last year we had 768 pupils.

Q And general what is the age range of these pupils?

A The college consists of six classes, therefore the ages range from 13 to 20.

Q Are you married?

A Yes, I am.

Q Do you have any children?

A I have three children, one boy and two girls.

Q Where were you when the invasion of Greece started?

A I was in Arta.

Q Is that spelled. A-r-t-a?

A Yes, that is correct, A-r-t-a.

9 When did you leave Arta?

A I left at the end of 1942.

Q And where did you go?

A I went to Kommeno, K-o-m-m-e-n-o in Arta which is my home town.

Q What were you doing there at that time?

A I dealt with agricultural matters in order to be able to live, to earn my living.

Q Directing your attention now to the date 16 August 1943, where were you on that date?

A On the 16 August 1943 I was in Kommeno, because my home and my family and whatever else I had were in Kommeno. I said I was there as of 1942 continually.

Q Will you tell the court what happened on 16 August 1943?

A Yes, I will. The day before, on the 15th of August was the date on which the village is celebrating the religious feast of the Virgin. On the 12th of August, that is four days before the 16th of August, a car appeared containing three Germans and a driver, and the driver was also German. And in the small square of the village there were five guerilla soldiers. They were unknown to us and we didn't know why they were there. The moment the Germans saw the Guerillas and the moment the Guerillas saw the Germans the Guerillas left, and so did part of the population, and the Germans got back to their car and drove away in an unknown direction, -that is, they returned to the place where they had come from -- correction, that is rather than "unknown direction." Nothing else happened to the village.

Q Coming back to the 16 August 1943, will you tell me what happened, or tell the Tribunal?

A Very well. I said on the 15 August was the date when the feast was going on in the village.

According to the usage in the village the people celebrate all day long on the 15th, and also part of the following day, namely all day long, the whole night and the following day also. On the 16th of August when the stars were fading away I heard a great noise coming from the direction towards the village. I said a large noise, which was, I believed, occasioned by vehicles. I was sleeping outside of my home about 30 or 40 meters from the house in a small shack I had. At the beginning I thought it was a noise made by planes. However, later on as the noise approached the place where I was, and by the time those vehicles reached a distance of 100 to 150 meters from my home, I realized they were vehicles, because naturally it is logical the noise increases the moment the engine is shut off. Immediately I ran up to the house. I knocked at the door and I told my wife that we should meet, in case anything should happen, in a designated spot outside the village. I left the shack just as I was, with my pajamas on and with my shoes.

Q Where did you go?

A I went to the spot where the small river of Arachtos ends in the Amvritikos Bay. Arachtos is spelled A-r-a-c-h-t-o-s, and Amvritikos is spelled A-m-v-r-i-t-i-k-o-s.

Q In which direction is that from the town of Kommeno?

A It is southwest of Kommeno.

Q What time was this?

A It was approximately 5:30. It was a time when you could just about begin to see human beings walking around.

Q After you left your house in which direction did you go?

A I told you before that I went into a southwest direction namely towards the spot toward the River Arachtos ends up in the Amvritikos Bay.

A And what did you see as you went?

A I was the distance of between 50 and 100 meters from my home when I heard two shots. I heard one shot that came from the direction of the sea, the bay, and the second shot came from the direction of the river.

Q. Did you see anything?

A. At the same time I saw a rocket explode in the sky, which was colored green.

Q. Did you see anything else?

A. And I also heard several shots being fired. Shots came from all around the village, from all directions around the village and also machine gun shots, the quite dry hoise of machine guns. On my right hand side at approximately 150 feet from where I was standing, in the direction of the river, on a small hill, I saw the German soldier firing away with this machine gun without interruption.

INTERPRETER ANAGNOSTOPOULOS: May I ask one of the Greek men here if machine gun is the word for Polivolo ? I may be a heavier weapon. Do I have the right to ask?

MR. DENNEY: Certainly. If they know.

INTERPRETER ANAGNOSTOPOULOS: That is right. It is correct, so it was machine gun.

Q. Was there anything between you and the German soldier firing this machine gun?

A. Yes, indeed there was. Of course, I purposely chose a road which would make me somewhat invisible from the others. There were small woods in between and also high underbrush. I will correct that, -- the woods contained small trees.

Q. Will you continue with your account?

A. Until I reached the river the shots became more and more numerous. One could gain the impression that a severe battle was going on. You could hear the noises of hand grenades being thrown. I know the noise, and you could hear automatic weapons, and you could also hear the small Bren gun like weapons, tommy-guns. I arrived at the mouth of the river. And it was naturally chance that I found a small fisherman's boat there.

Q. And then what did you do?

A. I also met a fellow citizen of mine also a teacher whose name was Oliokotsis. With the help of this small boat we crossed, the river and gained the other side of the river, and from the bank of the river we could observe the drama of Kommeno. The distance between the point where we were standing on the other side of the river bank, to Kommeno, was approximately five hundred meters. From there we could observe the flames shoot up into the sky. First there were a few flames and then they kept increasing and engulfed the entire village. I could even see my house go up in flames, because my house was situated a little bit higher than the rest of the village. At that spot where we were standing more and more people came, those who had been lucky enough to get to the other side of the bank.

Q. How many people in all finally arrived at the other side of the river?

A. There were 208 men or people on the other side of the river, men, women and children.

Q. How many people lived in Kommeno?

A. There were 620 people in Kommeno?

Q. All right. Please continue.

A. These 208 people managed to cross the river by coming across the river 15 people in a boat or 20 people in the boat, slowly and slowly.

Q. Did the time come when you re-crossed the river to the east?

A. I didn't quite finish my testimony as yet, Mr. Denney.

Q. Just answer the questions.

A. I said that the people were crossing the river and it must have been around noon at the time they crossed. I don't remember the exact hour, because I left my watch in the house when I left.

Q. Did a time come when you returned to Kommeno, when you recrossed the river?

A. Yes, there was such a time

Q. When was that?

A. It was the morning of 17 August 1943, the following day.

Q. What time in the morning?

A. It was a little while after the sun went down.

Q. Just a moment, what time in the morning did you return to Kommeno on the 17th? Approximately.

A. It was between 6:00 and 6:30, -- to 6:45, in the morning.

Q. I assume that the sun is rising then instead of setting?

A. I believe it was a mistake on my part, Mr. Denney. The sun was rising.

Q. What did you see?

A. When we were about ready to return to the village we heard two more vehicles coming, and out of fear we returned to the bank where we were at first.

Q. Did you recross the river?

A. Yes, we returned in the afternoon. It was between 3:00 and 3:30.

Q. Back to the side of the river opposite from the side on which Kommeno is situated?

A. Yes, indeed. We returned towards Kommeno.

Court V, Case VII. Anagnostopoulos)

Q: Now, let's clear this up. You recrossed the river for the first time on the morning of the 17th, sometime around sunrise. Is that right?

A: Yes, that is correct. The first time we crossed the moment the sun was rising or a little bit before or after.

Q: And you went up to the village?

A: Yes, that is correct.

Q: And you heard the noise of trucks?

A: Yes, that is correct.

Q: Witness, if you will please listen to the question and not start to talk until the questions have been put to you, I am sure that we will get along much faster.

A: Very well, Mr. Denney. I will try to.

Q: Now, you went back to the edge of the river?

A: Yes, that is correct.

Q: And at that time did you recross the river to the west bank?

A: Yes, that is correct.

Q: All right, now. When did you again cross the river from the west bank to the East bank?

A : At 3:30 in the afternoon, the same day.

Q: At 5:30 in the afternoon you went back to the side of the river on which Kommeno is situated?

A: Yes, indeed.

Q: And then what did you do?

A: We were going to the village to see what the destruction was and who were the victims.

Q: Who was with you?

A: I was together with my wife, with my teacher friend whose name was Voliokotsos. I was also together with one of the priests of the village because we had to have them, whose Court V, Case VII.

Anagnostopoulos) name was Serafin Stassinis.

Present were also my uncle who was also a priest -- a cousin of mine. My uncle was not a priest -- his name was Dionisis Pappas -- and Manthos Pappas was also present.

Q: And where did you go?

A: Of course, first of all I went to my house which is logical.

Q: What did you see?

A: My house was nothing but ruins, all burned ruins. Approximately 20 meters from my home I saw 26 bodies of the Malio family and their guests who had been invited there for a wedding.

Q: Did you walk around the rest of the village?

A: Yes, indeed. We went down the road and we arrived in front of the house of Koliokotsos.

Q: What did you see there?

A: When we got there we saw the house had been entirely burned down and in front of the house, in front of the ruins, we saw 8 bodies and also two children from between 7 to 8 months of age.

This is characteristic, what I have to say now. One of the children was laying on the ground just like all the others and his mouth was stuffed with cotton. There were no other wounds showing and there were only burning wounds around his mouth.

The other 7 had been wounded by bullets and killed.

Q: Had the whole village been burned?

A: Yes, 300 houses had been burned. Only 7 did not catch fire because I believe they kept doors and windows closed.

Q: What else did you see as you went around the village?

A: He went down the road and we finally arrived at the small square of the village in front of the community president's Court V, Case VII.

Anagnostopoulos) house.

The man's name was Lambro Zorvos; and in his home's courtyard we saw the dead bodies of his family and on the table we saw opened cans and disorder, which cans were absolutely unknown to us and which could not be seen around the area where we were.

Q: What did the cans contain?

A: They were all empty. In this case there were also a few bottles -- wine bottles, I should think.

Q: Was there any evidence as to what the cans had contained?

A: I believe there was meat and cheese in those cans.

Q: Was there anything on the outside of the cans?

A: Yes. There was some sort of a writing on top. It wasn't Greek. I couldn't tell you what because I don't know any other language.

Q: What else did you see?

A: On the lefthand side, between 50 and 60 meters from where I was standing, I saw Leonidas Tsimboukis' wife. This woman was pregnant and I saw her lying on the ground with her stomach torn open and the unborn child looking half way out.

Q: Please continue.

A: The entire village had burned down and every house did not only have one drama but several dramas occurred in every home. There is not one single house where they didn't report the loss of between 2 and 10 dead.

Q: How many people were killed in Kommeno?

A: I would like to add something before I answer your last question. Would it be all right, your Honors?

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Proceed.

A: The priest, Lambros Stamatis, was going in the direction towards the church rather early. He left the Court V, Case VII.

Anagnostopoulos) wedding ceremony which was going on in Mallos' home rather early.

When we arrived at the village we found him lying at the steps of his church in front of the door. His body had been torn to pieces by 4 to 5 bullets and the cross he was holding in his hands also had 2 bullets -- and the Book of the Gospels. The Book of the Gospels is still in the church and it is being kept there as a historical souvenir, if you want to put it that way -- as a religious shrine also.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Mr. Denny, at this point we will adjourn until one-thirty.

(A recess was taken until 1350 hours).

AFTERNOON SESSION (The hearing reconvened at 1330 hours, 18 August 1947)

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the courtroom will please find their seats.

The Tribunal is again in session.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed, Mr. Denney.

STEPHANOS PAPPAS - Resumed DIRECT EXAMINATION (Continued) BY MR. DENNEY:
Thank you Your Honor.

Q So we can have the geographical situation of Kommeno, how far is it from Arta?

A It is 10 kilometers south of Arta.

Q And Kommeno and Arta are north of what body of water?

A It is north of the Ambakitos Gulf or Bay.

Q And the river lies generally to the west of Kommeno?

A The river is west of Kommeno.

Q And how many people were there -- how many inhabitants did the town of Kommeno have?

A It had 620 inhabitants.

Q And how many of these were killed?

A 317 of them were killed.

Q Can you break those figures down into some rough approximation of sexes and ages?

A Yes, I could. We had 145 men and 172 women, and included in those figures there were 97 children. The ages ranged from 6 months to 15 years of age.

Q So there were 317 people killed on the 16th of August of both sexes and of these 317, 97 were children between the ages of 6 months and 15 years?

A Yes. Those figures are absolutely correct. We made detailed statistics which we sent to the May or Arta; at approximately one month after the incident we sent the testimonies down to General Zervas' headquarters who then transmitted it to the headquarters of the middle east.

Q Is there anything that you haven't told the Tribunal with reference to what you saw in Kommeno in the days following the 16th of August which you would like to tell?

A Yes, indeed. I saw it with my own eyes. I saw the house of Dimitro Komtogeni. I saw him; he was dead. So was his wife, his four daughters and his son-in-law. Near there I also saw the house of the teacher Antonios Komtogeni. His whole family had been exterminated. He had been killed, his wife had been killed and his two children and their female servant.

I went to my sister's house and I found her lying near the entrance together with her husband, both of them burned to death. I saw those things myself with my own eyes.

Q How many of your relatives were lost on the 16 of August, 1943 in Kommeno?

A My mother-in-law was killed; her name was Maria Apostolou; furthermore, my sister-in-law, Athoula Panakoulia; furthermore, my brother-in-law, Jerassimos Panakoulia; furthermore, my mother's sister, Helene Paraskevi; also my first cousins were killed.

A I received information from Evangelia Kontogiani who was wounded, -- that Vasilios Skouravelis, -- that she escaped to this man's house, Skouravelis house, and she stated that German soldiers had come into her home and exterminated her whole family, and besides, one more woman who was in the house, who was also killed by the Germans with a bullet. They fired a bullet into her head because they were in a hurry to leave the house, and that was before they raped her.

MR. DENNEY: I have no further questions.

CROSS EXAMINATION BY DR. SAUTER (For the defendant Lanz):

Q Witness, may I again ask you on what day Kommeno was destroyed? What day was it?

A That was on the 16th of August, 1943.

Q 16th of August 1943; Witness, is it known to you who was in charge of the Military Command in Epiros?

A I received information; I was informed by Judge Mexi, who was the Judge from Arta, and who spoke German quite well, - very well as a matter of fact, - and who also worked at the German Headquarters there, that the detachment which had destroyed Kommemo was led by a man whose name was Koviak.

Q I asked you a different question, Mr. Witness. I asked you whether it is known to you on that day - which is the 16th of August, 1943 - who was in charge of the military command in Epiros? What general, whether it was an Italian or a German who was the Military Commander of the Epiros. I would like to ask you to answer this question.

A The same person, namely Judge Mexi, informed me, that the man in charge of the 1st Division in Jannina was Von Stettner.

And that all of those units were part of the 22nd Army Corps. I do not know anything else outside of this.

Q Witness, when did this Judge tell you that, that in Epiros this First Mountain Division existed at all?

Was it on the 16th or 17th of August, or was it later -- and if later, when?

A It was much later when I was informed about it.

Q Witness, did you find out who, on the 16th or 17th of August, was in charge of the high command in Jannina? Just a moment, I would like to add the following; whether the witness knows that the commanding officer of the whole of Epiros was in Jannina, that is a commanding general -- whether that is known to him; that was at the time of the 16th or 17th of August?

MR. DENNEY: If your Honors please -

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: Just a moment. Have the question transmitted and then probably if it is competent, have it repeated in installments.

Just a moment please. Your objection, Mr. Denney.

MR. DENNEY: If Your Honors please, I think he put two questions together. I have no objection to asking him, but I do not think it fair to ask the witness two or three questions at once. We do not know what he is applying to then.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: Is the witness able to answer the question as framed?

A All I know is what I have stated so far.

BY DR. SAUTER:

Q Witness, if you were in charge of the high school, then I take it for granted that you must have been informed whether at that time the ruler of Epiros was a German or an Italian. I should like to ask you to give us some information on this subject.

A I said that as the man in charge of that College, I had left Arta toward the end of 1942, and I lived in a small shack near Kommeno where I had no contact whatsoever with Arta.

Q Did you not find out later that in Jannina there was a German General called Lanz took over the higher command?

A I heard that much later, but I do not know when he took over the command.

Q Do you know from your own experience what troops on the 16th or 17th of August, 1943, were in Jannina at that time? Were they mainly German troops, or were they Italian Troops in Arta? Mainly Germans or Italians?

Q In Arta we had a small guard unit of Italians, within Arta - that is, inside of Arta we didn't have any Germans.

DR. SAUTER: No Germans, your Honor. I have no further questions to the witness for the mere reason that it becomes evident from the documents of the prosecution that General Lanz only arrived on the 9th of September, 1943, at Jannina.

PRESIDING JUSTICE BURKE: Very well.

Is there any further cross-examination.

CROSS EXAMINATION BY DR. WEISGERBER (For the Defendant Speidel):Q Witness, you told us that on the 12th of August, 1943, 5 partisans were in Kommeno?

A Yes, that is correct.

Q That is correct, is it?

A Yes.

Q Did you know these peoples?

A I didn't know them. I did not approach them, nor did I know what their mission was.

Q Where does your knowledge come from that these people were partisans at all?

A They were wearing uniforms and they had weapons.

Q What kind of uniforms were they?

A They wore those uniforms which the British would parachute down to the fighting forces in the mountains.

Q How do you know that the British flew parachuted uniforms for them into the mountains?

A That became known all over Greece.

Q Now such groups of partisans -- did they come to Kommeno often?

A They were the first and the last ones that ever came there.

Q On the 12th of August, did you actually know that these were people who wore the uniforms which were flown by British airplanes into the mountains?

A May I ask you to say that again?

Q You knew on the 12th of August, when you saw these five people with uniforms -- in uniforms -- that these uniforms were delivered by the British in the mountains, by British airplanes?

A I did not know for certain, but I imagine that those uniforms originated from there.

Q Do you know anything about the fact that in the neighborhood of Kommeno, and Arta, there were partisans quite frequently.

MR. DENNEY: May we have the question in English?

Q Is it known to you that in the neighborhood of Kommeno and Arta, there were partisans quite frequently, who appeared in groups?

A No, no guerillas ever came there because that was out in the fields and you would hardly find any guerillas in the field.

Q These five people whom you saw, on the 5th of August, in Kommeno, were they all, or partly, members of the actual community of Kommeno?

A No, they were strangers to all of us. They were just transients.

I would like to correct my last answer. Kommeno was in a plain rather than in a field.

Q Did you see, or did you hear from other inhabitants of Kommeno for what purpose these five partisans had come to Kommeno?

A No, I could not tell the reason, and I did not hear about the reason.

Q On the 16th of 17th of August, in the immediate vicinity of Kommeno were there other villages destroyed as well?

A Not that I know of.

Q What was the distance between you and the soldiers who, according to you, shot at Kommeno?

A All I said was that I saw one German soldier standing at the mouth of the river that I was walking toward, and he was blazing away with his machine gun. He was the approximate distance of 200 meters from where I was.

Q At this distance, could you readily distinguish it; could you really see whether he was a German soldier, or whether he was an Italian, or whether perhaps he was of some other troops?

A Yes, I could very easily see. The steel helmets as worn by the Italians and their uniforms, were entirely different from that of the Germans.

Q Was there only one soldier which you have seen?

A I only saw one German soldier, but according to absolutely reliable information, all of them were Germans.

Q What is this reliable information? Where does it come from?

A There were approximately 60 villagers who were in the village while this massacre was going on. They watched them kill the people. They were also seen by the inhabitants of four villages which lie on the road between Arta and Kommeno. They saw them with their vehicles; they were Germans.

Yes, and even more than that, they stooped at the village of Loutrotopo, which is only one kilometer apart from Kommeno, and they ate oranges, and they had some water in that village, and no doubt was left that they were Germans.

Q Can you describe to us the German uniform and the Italian uniform?

A I couldn't exactly give you a very detailed description of their uniforms, but in any case I could tell you their steel helmets are different, and the entire way they carry themselves is so different that you can tell right away between the two; and also the color of their uniforms.

Q In that time that you spent in Kommeno from 1942, that is to the 16th of August, 1943. were there ever any German soldiers in Kommeno?

A On one or two occasions in Kommeno they asked for meat, or they wanted to have water for their horses, but in any case I did not go close to the vehicles because I was afraid.

Q When was that?

A I don't remember the exact date.

Q Witness, you told us that you sent a report to General Zervas.

A I said that I sent an affidavit of what I had seen of the destruction.

Q Did you bring General Zervas this description and the statistics of which you spoke yourself?

A No, somebody else – an officer who lived in Kommeno whose name was Karas took it to him.

He was from Kommeno but he lived in Xenochori.

Q: This officer then was in contact with General Zervas?

A: No, he wasn't in contact with him. He only went in order to report this crime which had been committed in Kommeno.

Q: But if he was to submit a report to a certain authority to a certain person he must have known where this person was.

A: He probably received information or solicited information on his way out and he finally got that information I imagine.

Q: It is, therefore, your opinion that this officer submitted information to General Zervas?

A: Yes, of course. Impersonally wrote that affidavit.

Q: When you wrote this affidavit did you know then where General Zervas was?

A: No, as I said before I didn't know.

Q: How many times did you talk to this officer?

A: Perhaps once or twice.

Q: Witness, I must come back to this one soldier whom you saw at a distance of approximately 200 meters at the river. What was it exactly that made you recognize beyond doubt that he was a German soldier?

A: I said before that the entire appearance pointed to the fact that it was a German soldier. I had seen a German soldier before. And it was also his uniform and the style in which he kept himself.

Q: In that case tell the Tribunal what this uniform looked like.

A: Do you really think that I stopped and looked at the German soldier carefully in order to remember all the details. I fled as fast as I could. In any case I did see his uniform and it left a living picture in my eyes which I shall never forget again, but still I couldn't go on describing it.

Had I stopped I wouldn't have had the pleasure of being here today.

Q: Was this soldier standing or was he lying on the ground?

A: He was a little bit bent, that is all. And I stress the "just a little bit."

Q: And you said that he was shooting with a machine gun.

A: Yes, with a machine gun. That is correct. He wasn't aiming at anything in particular -- not at any persons -- he was just firing away and aiming more or less at the exits of the village so that nobody could leave the village. With all of the machine guns, all of them did the same thing.

Q: Would you show the Tribunal how he was holding this machine gun?

A: At the time I felt so bad about it that I couldn't show you anything right now. I couldn't show you how he was holding it.

Q: But you told us that you got quite a good picture of this soldier -- that you remembered it very well.

A: Well, not exactly. I said that the first sight I gained of this soldier left the living impression on me that it was a German soldier.

Q: Can you remember exactly whether this soldier was wearing a steel helmet or just a cap?

A: He was just wearing a cap -- rather a cap.

Q: Where did he have his steel helmet then?

A: I don't remember. All I saw was what he wore on his head. I don't know where he had his steel helmet.

Q: But you told us that you recognized the man as a German on his steel helmet because it was a German's because the Italian steel helmets were different from the Germans'; therefore, you must have seen this steel helmet somewhere.

A: What I meant to say was -- I meant to say a cap with a small visor in front.

Q: Did not the Italian soldiers have such caps as well?

A: The first impression I gained was that the soldier was a German. I didn't stop and look at him exactly.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: I understood the Witness to say that one method of distinguishing was the fact that he knew the difference between the German and the Italian helmet.

Am I in error about that?

WITNESS: I did not mean steel helmet. I meant cap at the time.

BY DR. WEISGERSER:

Q: You said, Witness, that you saw the soldier shoot.

A: Yes, of course, I saw it. The whole thing was very fast. I saw how he was firing away with his machine guns.

Of course, that I saw.

Q: Then, certainly you can tell us whether he was holding the machine gun like this (Demonstrating as a bundle in the arms) of whether the machine gun was resting on the ground.

A: I was so scared that I didn't stop and look exactly how he was holding that machine gun. The only thing I remember was that he had a machine gun and that he was blasting away with it.

Q: And when you had seen the soldier you immediately turned around and ran. Is that so?

A: Yes, that's correct. Of course, the soldier did not see me because he was on a small hill and I was right below.

But in any case when I saw him I ran away as fast as I could.

Q: And the nearest distance to him to which you came was about 200 meters? Is that it?

A: Approximately 200 meters. I didn't sit down and measure the distance because it made no difference.

DR. WEISGERBER: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Any further cross-examination? Mr. Denney, have you further questions?

MR. DENNEY: No further question, if Your Honor pleases.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Judge Winnerstrum? Judge Carter? The Witness will be excused.

MR. DENNEY: May we inquire from Major Hatfield what the next exhibit number is please? The last exhibit was in Book 19. I believe, Major, it is four hundred and something, but that's about the best I can do.

MAJOR HATFIELD (SECRETARY GENERAL): 457.

MR. DENNEY: The last one was 457?

MAJOR HATFIELD: The last book.

MR. DENNEY: The last one in Book No. 19 was 457. If Your Honors please, we will now continue with the presentation of document book 20 by Mr. Fenstermacher.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: If you will just defer the proceedings until we receive our document books.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed, Mr. Fenstermacher.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: May it please the Tribunal, With the documents in Document Book No. 20 we continue with the documentation of events in Greece during the final period of August 1943 until October 1944. We shall be concerned for the most part with the activities of troops under the command of the Defendant Felmy who was Commander in Chief of the 68th Corps, and the activities of the troops under the command of the Defendant Lanz, as Commander in Chief of the 22nd Mountain Corps. Your Honors will recall that both of these corps were subordinate to Army Group E, which in turn was subordinate to Army Group F and Supreme Command Southeast, under the command and jurisdiction of the Defendant Weichs and his Chief of Staff, the Defendant Foertsch. The first document is on Page 1 of the English and Page 1 of the German, NOKW-1551, which becomes Prosecution's Exhibit No. 458. This is a series of Daily Reports of Army Headquarters in Berlin. The first is Daily Report West 12th March 1944. We are concerned with those sections of the reports which deal with events in the Balkans. And "Army Group E, Mainland, 68th Army Corps," which is under the defendant Felmy at this time. "In reprisal for a surprise attack by bands on a strongly protected convoy column Southeast of Tripoli, a state of emergency for the civilian population was ordered and 200 Communist hostages were shot to death." Next, page 2 of the English, Page 1 of the German, Daily OKH Report for the 15th of March 1944. That section of the report dealing with activities of the 2nd Panzer Army, at this time, is under the command of the Defendant Rendulich. The 69th Infantry Corps which, at this time, is under the command of the Defendant Dehner. According to the service record of the Defendant Dehner, which is Exhibit No. 315, he remained in command on the 69th Infantry Corps until 1 April 1944.

"LXIX Infantry Corps: 42nd Jaeger Division: 22 own dead due to mine explosion, near Garcon. During an enemy attack at the same time radio codes fell into hands of bands.

Investigation under way. 26 bandits hanged in reprisal. During the night of 15 March a transport train hit a mine west of Mitrovica." Next, Page 3 of the English, Page 2 of the German, the OKH report for the 22nd of March 1944, the section of the report dealing with events in the area of the "LXVIIIth Army Corps: During mopping up of Gythio, minor enemy losses. 22 prisoners. 50 Communist hostages were shot to death for renewed sabotage attempt on the railroad tract West of Mogara." Next, the OKH Report for the 3rd of April 1944, the report itself is dated the 4th of April 1944.

..... Balkans:

1.) Army Group E:

Mainland

LXVIII Infantry Corps: Between Levadia and Delphi purpose attacks on our own trucks were repelled 10 Communists shot as reprisal measure.

2.) 2nd Panzer Army:

.....

b) Serbia:

Situation Southwest Serbia: Own reconnaissance remained without important contact with the enemy up to now. 25 Kilometers South of Prokuplje during a raid of a Communist Headquarters, a Bulgarian Battalion withdrew before superior well-equipped bands.

Enemy losses in Serbia during the past week: D.M.: 128 Dead, 64 prisoners, 17 deserters. Communists: 622 Dead, 61 prisoners, 30 shot to death in reprisal, 537 arrests. Booty: 39 rifles, 4 machine guns, ammunition and equipment.

.....

This report, of course, is signed by the Ia, or Operations Officer, as are all the reports in this series. Next, on Page 5 of the English, Page 4 of the German, the OKH report of the 15th of April 1944: "Ballans, Army Group E: Corps Group Joannina," Your Honors will recall that during this period in the Joannina area in the Epiros section of Greece, the troops under the command of the Defendant Lanz were operating.

"Bands are very active of late in the area of Florina. In reprisal for a railroad attack on the line Agrinion -- Lessolongion, 120 Communists were shot or hanged. 50 suspects arrested during a raid in Agrinion."

DR. SAUTER: Dr. Sauter for the Defendant Lanz. It has just been read, under the command of the defendant Lanz. I would like the Prosecution Counsel to show me where it says that. Or at least the translation came through to the effect that it just says it is under the High Command of the defendant Lanz, but it does not say, at least my translation, that at all.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Okay. That was just an explanatory comment of mine in order that the document will have more meaning for Your Honors.

DR. SAUTER: Your Honors, I should like to say the following to the commentary. First of all, in such a case, on the part of the Prosecution it should at least be stated that this is only a commentary and that it does not say so in the document book; and secondly I should like to make the following report as to this commentary. At this time, from which this daily report comes, which is the 15th of April 1944, the Defendant Lanz was not in the Balkans at all. But he was on a duty trip in Hungary. This becomes evident from other former documents which were submitted by the Prosecution authorities themselves and were read by them. I should like to come back to that later. But I should like to say now as to these documents which have just been read, that at the heading of this report, it says "Corps Group Joannina," this was the expression which was used when General Lanz was no longer the commander of the 22nd Corps in the Balkans.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If Your Honors please, it seems to be an issue of fact here, which I believe Dr. Sauter can raise at the proper time.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: It so appears to the Tribunal that there is some merit to Dr. Sauter's objection in the fact that when a statement is made and that Lanz or any of the other individual concerned is involved it should be stated what is your conclusion at that time, and then only in connection with the factual recital which follows later. It will save confusion and it will save the necessity of here arguing the case at this time, when either of the counsel attempt to supply their personal views in lieu of the testimony. You may proceed.

DR. SAUTER: Thank you.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Next, on Page 6 of the English, Page 4 of the German, the Daily OKH Report for the 23rd of April 1944. Under that section of the report dealing with activities in the Balkans: "2nd Panzer Army, Croatia, XV Mountain Corps: 264th Division: In reprisal for an attack on our trucks, two villages were burned down Northeast of Tregir. 392nd Division: Stronger enemy forces in the area of Otocac were repelled after heavy battles." Next, the OKH Report for the 25th of April 1944.

..... 1.) Army Group E:

Attacks on railroad line are increasing on the mainland of late.

LXVIII Infantry Corps: A British Commando Operation took place against the Island of Santorin on 24 April. The Navy transmitter did not function.

During larger scale raids in Athens, a total of 126 persons was arrested, weapons and ammunition were captured, 15 Communists were shot to death.

On the line Athens-Thebes, a train hit a mine and was derailed. The mainline was interrupted for about 8 hours.

.....

Turning next to Page 8 of the English, Page 7 of the German, the OKH Report for the 27th of April 1944. "Balkans, Army Group E, Mainland":

.....Corps Group Joannina: During the continuation of the mopping up of the heights Northwest of Korea, three band villages were taken during the fighting and destroyed.

A concentrated attack of well-armed bands against own combat group in the Devoli-Valley was repelled. A simultaneous attack by bands on the road bases and Nationalist villages Southwest of Korea was repelled after reinforcements had been brought up.

.....

Turning next to Page 10 of the English and Page 6 of the German Document Book, Document No. NOKW-885, which is offered as Prosecution's Exhibit No. 459, starts with a series of extracts from the War Diary of Army Group E. Under the entry for the 12th of May 1944; Your Honors will note that the diary itself covers a period of time from the 1st of May to the 30th of June 1944.

..... Deportation of Jews The Commander of the Regular Police (Schupe) in Athens reports that, by order of the Reichsfuehrer SS, Jews are to be removed from the islands of Corfu and Crete at an increased speed.

He requests additional shipping space and the required escort personnel.

Approximately 1600 Jews are to be shipped from Corfu to Patras, approximately 350 from Crete to Piraeus.

This instruction "was teletyped at 1910 hours to the Commander of the Regular Police (Schupo) in Athens, Commandant of the Fortress Crete, Corps Headquarters, XXII Mountain Corps, naval, and Air Transport Athens, and for information to Admiral Agais:

The Commander of the Regular Police in Athens has requested shipping space for the speedy deportation of 350 Jews from Crete and 1600 Jews from Corfu.

The High Command of Army Group E agrees to the supply of shipping space if the supplying of shipping space does not interfere with Wehrmacht supplies and intended tactical operations.

Details are to be agreed upon directly by the Commander of the Regular Police (Schupo) and the Naval and Air Transport Athens.

The Command of Fortress Crete and Corps Headquarters XXIIInd Mountain corps are ordered to supply Escort personnel.

.....

Next, entry in the War Diary for the 17th of May 1944:

.....LXVIII Infantry Corps:

On the road Arges-Tripoli, meter convoys III 670th Artillery Regiment - 1 Officer and 95 men -- attacked by bands. Our losses; 25 dead, 25 wounded, 6 missing. Pursuit of the bands by detachments of 737th Regiment under way.

The measures taken as a result of the Peloponesus being declared a combat zone are being retorted currently.

Turning next the bottom of page 12 of the English, page 9 of the German Document book, the entry in the War Diary -for the 26th of May. 1944, the time of the entry 1945 hours.

"Deportation of Jews from Corfu:

At 19.50 hours a teletype sent to Admiral Agais, XXIIInd mountain Corps, Hohore SS und Polizeifuehrer, Greece.

A representative of the Reichsfuehrer SS will apply to Admiral Agai s for the Transfer of 2,000 Jews from Corfu to the Mainland. The Commanderin Chief of Army Group E is agreeable to this, provided troop transports and the supplying of the islands in not deterred and provided deportation can take place rapidly and without interruption.

The Army at this time is unable to supply guard personnel. Information on your arrangements is requested."

Next, the entry in the War Diary of Army Group E for the 1st of June 1944, the time of the entry 1135 hours.

XXIIInd Mountain Corps: Hopping up operation in the area North of Kalabaka carried out against strong enemy resistance. Several band losses. Numerous ammunition depots wiped out, three band villages destroyed. Attack by medium strength well armed band group on rood base near Leskovic repelled after heavy fighting with enemy losses. Bands are under English command."

In this connection, your Honor will recall the testimony of the witness Triandaphylidis.

Turning next to page 14 of the English, page 11 of the German Document book, NOKW-942, which becomes prosecution Exhibit 460, this again is a series of daily reports from Army Group E to Army Group F. First:

"Daily Report High Command Army Group E Southeast (High Command Army Group F) of 24 July 1944.

Area 1XV111 Army:

For attack on medical convoy Northwerst Tripoli (Daily Report 22.10) 100 Hostages shot to death."

"Area LXVIII Army:

Next, on page 15 of the English, page 12 of the German;

Evening Report High Command Army Group E

B) Commandant East Aegean and Fortress Crete: No special events. 1XV111 Army Corps:

During search of Parness Fountains 17 bandits shot to death.

Next the daily report of the 31st of July, 1944, section of the report dealing with events in the:

This is on urge 16 of the English page 12 of the German.

" Renewed sabotage plot against subsidiary lines near Kessolongion thwarted. West of Agrinion bank attack line repair detachment, 8 dead of own, 14 wounded. As reprisal measure, 71 Communists shot to death."

The report is signed as were the others, by High Command Army Group E..

Turning now to page 17 of the English; page 13 of the German; document NOKW-962 becomes prosecution Exhibit 461. This is a report of the 104th Jaeger Division, dated 22 August 1944. Your Honors will notice the receipt stamp of the XXII Mountain Corps and the date 25 August 1944 in the top right hand portion of the report. The subject of the report is:

"Final Report on the Operation "Kreuzotter"

A) Task:

The headquarters of the 22nd Mountain Artillery Corps gave me the orders to clean up the area Agrinion - Thermon -Karpenission.

B) Situation of the Enemy:

For the planning of the operation there was at my disposal the situation of the enemy to be seen from the enclosed copy (see enclosure 1), which was ascertained essentially by reports from confidential agents, statements of inhabitants and, furthermore, by findings made during former operations.

According to this there were in the area north and northeast of Agrinion in the main, parts of the 13th Division with the 5/42 Evzone Regiment in the Area Ajos - Wlassios - Thermon - Agrinion, the 34th Infantry Regiment consisting of 2 Battalions in the sector Karpenission - Triklinos and the 1/38 Evzone Regiment in the area east and northeast of Karpenission. In addition, there were in the region north of the Agrinion Lake, as far as Meglichora (10 kilometers south southeast of Larpenission), the 1st Reserve Regiment subordinated to the 13th Division, in the area south of the Agrinion Lake, the 3rd Reserve Regiment which also belongs to the 13th Division, and in the area southeast of Thermon the 4th Elas Reserve Regiment. West of the Acheloos River, the 7th Brigade joined with the front towards the west."

"All units were under the centralized communist leadership which was situated together with the 13th Division and the political EAM leadership in Karpenission. There was also an allied military mission in the area south of Karpenission.

H) Tactical Result:

Though a lasting destruction of bands, as was foreseen, was not achieved, serious losses of men and material were inflicted upon the adversary, which at least limits his readiness with strong units.

By the surprise assault, which, however, was successful only in part, signs of rapid flight were established, thus justifies the assumption that the organization was not only disturbed, but may be considered seriously damaged. Through persistent destruction of all villages of the area traversed, especially by burning down the Communist Headquarters Karpenission.

The bands have lost numerous billeting possibilities a factor which must have affected the organization also. But the main success lies in the demonstration of power, which after a long period of time was once again put before the bandits in the area."

The report is signed von Ludwiger.

Turning next to page 19 of the English, page 15 of the German, document NOKW-940, which becomes prosecution Exhibit 462, it is again a series of daily reports of Army Group E to the Commander in-Chief Southeast, first is a daily report for the 20th of August 1944:

"Area of the LXXXI Corps for special employment:

Fortress Crete: During mopping up operations Northeast and Southwest of the Ida mountains and East Mossara a total of 19k people suspected of being insurgents were shot, 1 insurgent locality was destroyed, 1500 civilians are being resettled.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: We will discontinue at this point until three fifteen.

(A recess was taken.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You may proceed, Mr. Fenstermacher.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Prior to the recess we were examining Document NQKW-940, which is Prosecution Exhibit 462, and we were concerning ourselves with orders of Army Group E to Army Group F, to the 23rd of August 1944 which is on page 25 of the English, page 18 of the German document book. It is the section of the report dealing with activities of the XXII Mountain Corps:

"XXII Mountain Corps: During mopping up operations south of Amfilochia numerous arrests were made. North of Amfilochia a mine field has again been laid by insurgents. Along the road JoanninaIgumonitsa, north of Vrusina, insurgent concentrations, not known whether Zervas or Elas members. Successful attack by weak insurgent group on village west of Dolvine. During local engagement north-northwest of Erseke twelve insurgents were captured. One insurgent village destroyed.

"LXXXXXI Corps (for special duty): As reprisal for mines laid southeast of Larissa three insurgent villages were destroyed. Nine attacks by ELAS members on our trucks. During mopping up in the Kozani area several suspected insurgents were arrested. Insurgent attack on a village east of Kozani was driven off by National Guards."

Next is the Army Group E report to High Command Army Group F for 24 August 1944. The section we are interested in is on page 26 of the English and page 19 of the German:

"Area of the Fortress of Crete: Operations in the area northeast of the Ida Mountains completed. In addition to insurgent losses reported one balloon transmitter has been secured. In retaliation against villages southwest of the Ida Mountains four insurgent villages have been destroyed; about 200 persons were selected for labor employment."

Continuing:

"Ic Evening Report High Command Army Group E dated 24 Aug 1944.

"Fortress Crete: Mopping up operations Ida Mountains have been concluded. Besides enemy losses reported yesterday radio equipment has been captured. About 200 men and women have been selected from resettled civilians for labor details; four more insurgent localities have been destroyed."

Next, Army Group E report for 26 August 1944. It appears on page 27 of the English, page 20 of the German:

"Area XXII Mountain Corps: In the course of local mopping up operations in the area northeast Joannina ten enemy dead, one insurgent locality destroyed.

"Area LXXXXXI Corps for special employment: At Lake Xynia low level attack by two enemy planes on hospital train and railway station Anghie. A few losses and damages. On the road Larissa-Trikkala own convoy was attacked by insurgents; we had losses. Main railway line north of Platamon interrupted because of sabotage. Between Veria and Naussa a train was derailed as a result of railway sabotage. South of Gevgeli an attack by insurgents directed against the main railway line and against a train to the front has been frustrated. As reprisal the locality of Skiathos has been destroyed."

Next, Daily Report 25 August 1944:

"Result of the reprisal action for the kidnapping of port commander of Glossa: Town of Skiathos destroyed, almost uninhabitable; five sailing vessels destroyed."

Turning to page 29 of the English, page 21 of the German:

"Ic Evening Report High Command Army Group E of 26 Aug 44:

"b) Commandant East Aegean and Fortress Crete: No special occurrences.

"XXII Mountain Corps: During mopping up operations west-northwest Metsovon two insurgent localities have been burhed down, ten enemy dead."

Next, on page 30 of the English, pages 21 and 22 of the German, Army Group E report of 22 August 1944:

"Area XXII Mountain Corps: During local mopping up southwest of Amphilochia, Katuna was taken in the face of insurgent resistance and burned down.

"Ic Evening Report High Command Army Group E of 29 Aug 44:

"68th Corps: During mopping up near Korinth fifteen enemy dead, During raid in Athens-Kallithea twenty communists shot."

Turning next to page 32 of the English, page 23 of the German document book:

"Ic Evening Report High Command Army Group E dated 30 Aug 44:

"XXII Mountain Corps: During reconnaissance operation southeast Minina Tsuka (see yesterday's Ic Evening Report) six enemy dead. During local mopping up east of Elea two insurgent localities destroyed, counter-attacks driven off.

"e) According to reliable report of a confidential agent there were landings near Amutia on 21, 24, 26, and 27 August. On 26 August 1500 Greeks, 700 Americans, 200 British, two 75 mm batteries, six anti-tank guns, twelve mortars of 105mm caliber were brought ashore by six ships. Gold has again been supplied to the Zervas. Headquarters American Subsidiary Mission for Thessaly and Macedonia moved to its quarters in Elefterchori (29 west-northwest Larissa).

"f) According to reliable report by confidential agent a British colonel for Polish" -- I believe that should be "police", Your Honor -- "questions landed on 27 August to take the place of Captain Wallace, who was killed in the attack on Milinina Tsuka. Exchange value of the British gold pound rose to 6000 million Drachmas."

Continuing with Army Group E report to Army Group F, page 33 of the English, page 23 of the German, Army Group E for 31 August 1944:

"Commandant East Aegian: No special occurrences.

"Fortress Crete: During mopping up in the area Kissame (west Crete) results so far: 223 insurgents and those helping insurgents shot, 175 arrests.

"XXII Mountain Corps: Insurgent locality 5 north Minina Tsuka taken against weak enemy resistance and destroyed."

I think that is all we need to read at this time of Exhibit 462. If Your Honors please, during the recess I was informed there was a translation error made by the translator in translating a statement by the previous witness. I have talked to Dr. Weisgerber about it and he suggests that the witness be recalled to the stand in order that the point may be clarified. I wonder if that is agreeable to Your Honors.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: That may be done.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I ask that the Marshal recall to the stand the witness Pappas.

DR. WEISGERBER (Attorney for the defendant Speidel): During the interval I was told by the interpreter that a mistake had occurred in the translation. The witness is said to have used the word "Stahlhelm" which allegedly the witness did not use. Now the word "Stahlhelm" has occurred repeatedly during the cross examination, both as said by me as well as by the witness. I believe it is very difficult to determine now at which occasion this mistake in translation occurred and I don't know how we can get any further until the transcript of the record is submitted. I am really of the view that a mistake in translation can only be ascertained when the transcript is submitted, so that we can precisely determine the questions and answers, in order to fix the mistake. Perhaps it would be appropriate if the translator told us now at what point this mistake occurred.

Court V Case VII Anagnostopoulos)

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Suppose we take the interpreter's interpretation as now offered and then make such application as you desire later to the record itself. Is that satisfactory with you Dr. Weisgerber?

DR. WEISGERBER: Yes, I am in complete agreement with this proposal.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: In order to keep the record straight I wonder if we might have a statement from the Translator stating exactly what error he made and the places if he can remember where he made then.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: The procedure is a little unusual. I have rather definite notions about the type of testimony being submitted. I might also have been in error about it. I would be glad to have any suggestion in the nature of a correction or an explanation.

INTERPRETER SIMHA: The mistake occurred I believe, I am quite sure, as a matter of fact, when the witness testified of seeing the German soldier standing on top of that hill and firing away with that machine gun. At that time he said when he was asked by counsel for Felmy, I believe, if he recognized the man by his uniform, maybe that he was a German, the witness said, yes, his uniform and his style - and style, in Greek, is pronounced "steel", whereupon, unfortunately I was concentrating on this uniform testimony and I misunderstood that to mean "steel helmet" and unfortunately I was rather persistent on my mistake and I made the mistake over and over again and I can actually say, with certainty, that the word "steel helmet" was not used on one single occasion in this testimony and whenever I spoke of a "Stool helmet" in part I referred to "style" which I added later on, but in part, Court V Case VII Anagnostopoi I referred to the regular German visor cap, and the sound trick, which has been taken of this testimony, will prove a hundred per cent that the witness did not say "steel helmet."

DR. WEISGERBER: If I may say something quits briefly in this connection. In the cross examination the word "steel helmet" has been mentioned repeatedly and the witness has pointed out the difference between the shape of the German and Italian steel helmets. That confirms my view that it would be quite practicable to wait with any correction until we have got the record and in fixing the definite version of the record we can always come back to the sound track.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I wonder if it would be feasible for Dr. Weisgerber at this time to take the witness over the testimony again in that regard.

DR. WEISGERBER: I would object to that your Honors.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Is Mr. Denney available?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: We can get him in a very few minutes, your Honor.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Mr. Denney, it has been suggested in your absence that there was a possibility of a misinterpretation with respect to some of the testimony given by the witness Pappas. I assume there are other people in the vicinity who have some familiarity with the Creek language and the thing that is amazing to me somewhere there was not some indication that there was an error being made in the translation and called to the attention of the Tribunal, before the conclusion of the statement. However, it is the judgment of the Tribunal that if you desire to re-question Court V Case VII Anagnostopoulos) the witness Pappas, to clarify the matter, you have the privilege of doing so.

MR. DENNEY: If your Honor pleases, I was advised after the witness left the stand that one word had been mistranslated and I instructed the interpreter or translator to go up and see the court and advise the court about it. It was a matter that was brought out on cross examination and I should be very glad to question him.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: You are familiar with the method of correcting a mistake in the testimony. It is a rather cumbersome procedure but there is a form of doing so. However, if you have any suggestion for simplification in the interest of justice that will serve the same purpose I'm sure the Tribunal will be glad to entertain it.

MR. DENNEY: The only thing I had in mind, your Honor, was the interpreter, or the translator, informed me that when the witness was speaking about the hat which the German soldier was wearing whom he saw when he was fleeing from Kommeno, that he used the word in Greek which was misinterpreted by the interpreter to "steel helmet" when it should have been a hat. If I have a misconception of it I would be glad for Mr. Simha to tell me.

INTERPRETER SIMHA: There is a slight difference, your Honor. The first mistake crept in when the witness spoke of "style" which as I said before is pronounced "steel-os" in Greek. At that moment I made the mistake of saying "steel helmet" whereas the witness was referring to "style". Unfortunately it persisted in my mind and when it came up for the second time and the witness spoke of the hat I again said "steel helmet" which mistake I realized, however, and I corrected it by saying, "I don't Court V Case VII Anagnostopoulos) mean steel helmet; I mean cap."

But the way I corrected it it sounded as if the witness had said it, whereas it was my own statement.

DR. WEISGERBER: Your Honor, may I point out that in the course of the cross-examination at three different occasions I asked the witness regarding the headgear the soldier concerned was wearing and it appears somewhat unusual to me that at three different places which were not subsequent to each other that at these three occasions mistakes in translation should have occurred. For this reason I think it is right that the record now taken that we shall wait for this record, and that we clear the matter by referring to the sound track and then perhaps the time has come when we can talk perhaps about a correction of the record. But, at the present time I think it is impracticable if we are now just correcting the record out of the blue, so to speak.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: The subject of the further action of the Tribunal, when the record is completed, may we consider the method of operation. I think as a gratuitous suggestion, possibly since this witness will be on, it will be of use to everyone, if the witness will restrain himself from attempting to answer the question before he hears half of it and continue to talk after the translator seeks to give his answer, we would all save time. You may proceed Hr. Fenstermacher.

"Area Kommandant Fortress Crete: During mopping up in the Ida Mountains, clothing, rations and 1 radio set secured. Bandit shelters destroyed. In the Eastern part of the Messara plain, one bandit village destroyed, 20 bandits shot to death."

I think that is all the excerpts we need read into the record at this time from NOKW 935.

Turn next to page 46 of the English, page 33 of the German, NOKW 1119 becomes Prosecution Exhibit 464. This is an Activity Report of the Jaeger Division covering 1 September to 30 September, 1943. The enclosures are listed. We are interested in that section of the report at the bottom of page 46 of the English and at the bottom of page 33 of the German:

"1 September Enclosures:

An attempt of the shopkeepers of Megalopolis to demonstrate, - by closing their shops, - against the announced shooting to death of 50 hostages as reprisal for an act of sabotage in Athens, was suppressed the same day by energetic measures of the local Commander."

We turn now to page 47 of the English, page 34 of the German, NOKW 1097, which becomes Prosecution Exhibit 465. This is Activity reports 2 Brandenburg Regiment, dated 11 Sept. 1943.

Your Honor, you will note the receipt stamp of the Brandenburg Division for 14 September 1943 on the upper lefthand portion of the document. The Regimental Activity Report for 10 August 1943 to 10 September 1943:

"Activity Report for the period from 10 Aug 1943 to 10 Sept. 1943In the course of subsequent reconnaissance activity by the Battalion which covered all villages in the area West of Florina up to the Fresba Lake and the terrain between, no enemy contact could be established though numerous reports concerning bands in the above area had been received.

The only thing that could be done was to carry out reprisal measures in some villages in the course of which houses and other property of bandits who had fled, were liquidated. As it could be established later on, it was a question of smaller details of bandits, about 30 to 40 men strong, which however were not under a unified command and which had at their disposal only defective armament and equipment and which were not organized according to any plan at all."

"On the basis of pertinent reports to Saloniki, the Battalion was released in order to be ready for the attack on Grevena which had been planned for some time.

.....

A unified, energetic English leadership was apparent on account of the increased enemy resistance and the well constructed organization of the individual band units. In contrast to bandit units which appeared up to now, and with which the regiment has had contact, the bandits appearing in the area around Grevena wear uniforms (old Greek and English Khaki Uniforms.)" Burning to page 50 of the English and page 36 of the German, the same document, this is the report of the 2 Brandenburg Regiment, dated September 1, 1943:

"The Regiment took steps to correct the situation by putting up guards supplied by the civilian population along the supply road of the regiment. It was made public that a part of the road guard would be shot to death ruthlessly if mines were found to have been installed. Since then, nothing has happened on the guarded roads.

During the destruction and the burning down of the bandit villages, blasts and explosions were observed in each case. It may be deduced from this, that the bandits had a large supply of ammunition of their disposal

Reconnaissance activity in the territory mentioned above took place with minor contact with the enemy in the Vermion Mountains. Here too it is probably a matter of small bandit squads, not yet organized, which probably intend moving over gradually into the bandit territory proper West of the Aliak Mountain. However, there is no doubt that in that very territory there is a liaison from the band area to Saloniki, therefore the mopping up is still purely a Ic mission and consequently is not to be carried out by the troops."

"A national band is being organizing, which fights the Communist bands but has Anglophile tendencies

8.9.43 On 8 Sept.

1943 the Battalions advanced further South and Southwest in order to reach the line Grevena -- Kizonjes as ordered. The II and III Battalion had minor contact with the enemy.

Enemy losses:

7 Counted dead 8 Villages leveled.

During the advance of the first Battalion on Rodia, it met stubborn enemy resistance near Ssidendron. After a skirmish which lasted some time and with the commitment of heavy weapons on both sides, the town was taken and leveled.

.....

In conclusion it can be confirmed that the Regiment:

1. Occasionally had to guard an area 90 kilometers long and 50 kilometers wide, 2. Has caused the following losses to the bands:

90 counted dead (on the basis of experience two and three time more) 13 prisoners captured 5 Ammunition Depots secured 3 large sized ration depots and 1 clothing depot.

leveled 14 villages.

Own losses of 1 dead 1 badly wounded 8 slightly wounded and 2 missing are very negligible as compared with the losses of the enemy."

The regiment's report is signed "Ritter".

We now turn to page 53 of the English, page 38 of the German, NOKW becomes Prosecution Exhibit 466. This is a series of extracts from the War Diary of the 1st Panzer Division for the period June 1, 1943 to October 13, 1943:

"Neon Report 23 August 1943 1300 hours:

2.) In Argos change in attitude of population since the Divisional Staff has been transferred.

On 22 August, evening, a Corporal of the Army Anti-Aircraft Battalion 299 was disarmed and beaten up. The Mayor has been charged with finding the culprits by 23 August, 1300 hours. 10 hostages were arrested.

With the approval of the Corps Headquarters."

If Your Honor, please, the Prosecution believes the reference here is to the 58th Group.

" -- the hostages will be shot to death unless the culprits are named."

Next the entry for 25 September:

"On 25 September 1943 at 0600 hours, 26 leading communists were arrested by sudden action in Patras by the Secret Field Police and Field Gendarmerie, the broadcasting seat was secured.

"According to V.N. (confidential Reports?) the Communist Intelligencia (mainly physicians and attorneys) is entirely skimmed off.

The Mayor of Patras, happy about our measure, continues to supply additional names.

New seizure in 10 to 14 days is in preparation.

The arrested persons are in the camp of Alt-Xorinth at the disposal of the Secret Field Police.

(signed) 1 Panzer Division Ic" Next the entry for October 2, "2.10.

1 Of two groups committed by Commander Dinatru 81 against Dimena (5 kilometers northwest near Nea -- Epidaures) in strength of one to seven, one of them had been missing since 1 October 43 at 1900 hours.

According to statements of a village inhabitant of Dimena the group is alleged to have been attacked by a group of about 100 band members. Two soldiers are said to have been shot to death and the rest captured.

On 2 October 43, the Division has issued the following condition to the bands via the population of Dimena by a shock troops of the territorial commander of Kapulia; If the missing German soldiers are not turned over to a German authority by Monday, 4 October 1800 hours, the hostages seized in Dimena will be publicly hanged on 5 October 43 in the morning."

Next the entry in the 1st Panzer Division Far Diary for October 3, 1943, bottom of page 54 English, bottom of page 40 of the German:

"The group reported as missing yesterday had been captured after a short skirmish with about 100 partisans at the edge of the village of Dimena. Two German soldiers killed in action.

The group leader had to sign a paper in which he assures, that Dimena will not be attacked in the next few days and that it had been the German soldiers who had opened fire. First, the partisans detained them in the school house of Dimena but after they, i.e. the partisans, had left Dimena they were released by the village inhabitants. In the morning hours of 3 October, the survivors 1/3 arrived at the Army AntiArtillery Battalion 299 in Argos.

Partisans well organized led by officers, uniformed. They designate themselves as member of the ELAS."

Next on page 56 of the English, page 43 of the German NOKW 092, becomes Prosecution Exhibit 467. These are Daily Reports from various subordinate units to the Commander in Chief Southeast:

"Commander in Chief (High Command Army Group F) to the OKW/Wehrmacht Operations Staff of 31 August 44.

II. Area Commander in Chief Result of the mopping up operation Kissamu in all 223 bandits or bandit helpers shot to death."

"Signed:

Commander in Chief Southeast (High Command of Army Group F)" Next is page 57 of the English , page 43 of the German, Daily Report:

"Daily Report Commander in Chief Southeast of 9 October 43.

II. Area of Commander in Chief Southeast:

Administrative Area headquarters 395: Band headquarters around the upper course of the Aliakmon river mopped up. A strong wellarmed band was thrown back; the enemy suffered losses. 5 villages, and several ammunition and supply depots were destroyed. The Italians employed in the operation have held out well."

On page 58 of the English, page 43 of the German, continuing with the Report dealing with Infantry Report of 91st Army Corps, Infantry, for Special Duty:

"LXXXXI Infantry Corps for Special Duty:

Railway line Volos-Larissa effectively blown up at numerous places. On the road Volos-Larissa there were raids on our own convoy resulting in losses of men and material.

Near Servia band attacks against strong point and Aliakmon bridge pushed back.

With regard to sabotage in the Tempi valley reported yesterday: Supply train ran onto a mine south of Platamon and was fired on by bands. Simultaneous attacks on strong-points were repelled. 24 freight cars (some loaded with ammunition) burned down. Traffic on the main line was interrupted for 28 hours. During cleaning of the area Ardea by units of Combat Group Eberlein, 1 band village and a hospital were destroyed.

The report is signed, Commander in Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group F) The Chief of the General Staff Signed Winter."

This Your Honors, please, is a report for a period of time when the defendant Poertch had been replaced as Chief of Staff, to Army Group F by Winter.

Now, we turn to page 60 of the English and page 44 of the German, NOKW 1245, which becomes Prosecution Exhibit 468. "Headquarters LXVIIIth Corps, dated 5 October 1943," "Order for the Transfer of the 1st Panzer Division.

5) On 6 October 1943, 1200 hrs 117th Light Inf. Division will assume command of all forces employed in the Peloponnes."

The order is signed, "Felmy" Your Honors will note this date, and the unit, 117th Light Infantry Division, being assigned for Felmy.

We shall have occasion in many of the documents which will follow to be concerned with the activities of this Division of Felmy.

At the bottom of page 60 of the English there is an order of the 117th Division dated October 30, 1943. Beg your pardon, a report from the Division to the 68th Corps. The receipt stamp of the 98th Corps appears on the lower righthand portion of the document.

Turning to page 61 of the English and page 44 of the German, this portion of the report deals with the political situation.

" I. Political Situation:

. The Communist movement might have received its first set-back through the operations by the Commander in the Peloponnes on 22nd and 23rd October, Tripolis, Sparta, Kalamata, and Megalopolis. The arrest of hostages and about 3.000 persons, who will be sent to the Reich for Forced Labor, has taught the population that pacification does not mean weakness.

It is the opinion of the Division that the combatting of Communist bands can be undertaken basically only with the aid of anti-Communist bands. . .

II. Enemy Situation:

Except for the coastal areas occupied by German Forces, the northwestern Peloponnes is entirely dominated by Communist bands. The Supreme Command of the Insurgents in this area, consisting of one Greek General, several Greek Staff Officers, 5 British Officers and 31 Communist Italian Officers, according to reliable report by a confidential agent is currently located at Demasticha (19 km Southeast of Patras)."

The report is signed "Colonel and Deputy Division Commander of 117th Light Infantry Division."

Turning now to page 63 of the English, page 46 of the German, NOKW 1122, which is Prosecution Exhibit 69. This is a translation of a pamphlet which was planned by German Occupying Forces in Greece, and distributed among the population;

Translation of a German pamphlet:

"To the population of the district Phyvon and Levadia.

The localities which were once known as Kostia, Xakosi and Dombrenia exist no longer. The inhabitants are gone--the villages forsaken. far has brought on sorrow and misery.

Why?

Because the inhabitants of the aforementioned localities collaborated and sympathized with the Andartes.

The German gun is speaking. If the bandits hear the rattle of our machine guns they will surrender. Think over carefully once more. Discontinue all associations with the Andartes. Close your doors to all these people. If you have knowledge as to the whereabouts of bandits run quickly to the Germans and inform them. You should say to the bandits: "Give up your guns!".

Do this and we will be able to go on living peacefully together.

If you do not do this, then you will have to leave your houses and localities and we will destroy them. England is making fools of you. England is not thinking of you! England is thinking only her own interests. Before you lies a new Europe in which a new Greece will find its place. Face us with sincerity and (*) with lies. Victory is ours; you shall have victory too if you stand on our side."

Then there is a translators note:

"From the context it would appear that a negative is needed here. There is none in the original text."

Then continuing:

"Victory is ours; you shall have victory too if you stand on our side."

Then on page 64 of the English:

"To the inhabitants of There are men from your village who are being held by the Germans as hostages.

In the event that within a reasonable space of time no bands appear, and peace and order is maintained in your area, these hostages will be released. However, should it be established that you are supporting and promoting the bands and are leaving your villages at their disposal, the hostages will be shot and your villages leveled to the ground.

Hence it is in your own interest and in the interest of peace and order that you support the German occupation forces in the fight against bands and instigators of unrest. Therefore inform the nearest German office immediately when bands appear, in order that the German forces will be able to come to your protection.

Signed: "The German Occupation forces."

DR. SAUTER; Dr. Sauter for the defendant Lanz. I should like to have a look at the original of this document. An expression appears in this document which is not usual in German, and which I do not know myself.

JUDGE BURKE: I am making reference to the English Document Book on page 62. Here an expression occurs "Andartes". That is not a German expression.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Page 63 of the English, your Honor, second paragraph on that page.

DR. SAUTER: It is the third paragraph from the top, starting "Because the inhabitants of the aforementioned localities collaborated and sympathized, with the Andartes."

What "Andartes" is supposed to be, I, as a German don't know, May I also point out that this alleged document bears no signature apart from an initial "T.H." or "T.A.", an abbreviation, otherwise I cannot see anything from this document.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If your Honors please, the document is written in the German language. At the top of it are the words, "Translation of the German pamphlet," and I believe, if I may make an explanatory statement here, the word, "Andarten" refers to Andartes which is what the Greek people themselves called their guerilla forces.

DR. SAUTER: I don't know that. At least a German, if he had written this pamphlet, would probably have expressed himself differently and I also doubt whether a German would have published pamphlets of this kind in which he designates his own statements as lies.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: For whatever it may be worth it may be received in the same fashion as other documents, subject to the same objections they have received.

Just a moment, however, Dr. Sauter, is there a question of the interpretation of the third paragraph? Is there a question of interpretation involved in the third paragraph on page 63 of the English document book?

DR. SAUTER: No.

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: Very well. You may proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Next, on page 65 of the English, page 48 of the German document book, Document NOKW-1355, which becomes prosecution Exhibit 470, again are a series of daily reports from the Commander in Chief Southeast, which at this time was the defendant Reichs, to OKH headquarters in Berlin. The first report is for the 7th of November, 1943. That section of the report dealing with the 68th Corps:

"Some losses suffered in band attack (70) on German goods train in the vicinity of Aighion. At Tripolis 18 Communists were shot as reprisal for railway sabotage carried out." Signed: "Commander-in-Chief (High Command Army Group F) Ia," Operations Officer.

Next, on page 67 of the English, 49 of the German, Commander-in-Chief Southeast, report to Higher Headquarters for the 17th of November, 1943.

"68th Corps: Communism activities continuing in Athens. 395th Administrative Area Headquarters. During local mopping up north of Volos 53 bandits were captured as reprisal for attacks made recently in the area of Katerini. 20 Communists were shot."

Next, the Commander-in-Chief Southeast report for the 20th of November, 1943. It is on page 69 of the English, page 50 of the German:

"68th Corps: During local engagements in the areas of Tripolis and Patras in addition to several enemy losses, ammunition and propaganda materials captured. A village 30 kilometers west of Lamia was burned down, reprisal for a band attack."

Next, the Commander-in-Chief Southeast report for the 29th of November, 1943, page 71 of the English, 51 of the German:

"68th Corps: A reprisal for a band attack on the road TripolisSparta (see Daily Report for 26 November) 100 hostages were shot at the scene of the occurrence. During search in Corinth numerous hostages were arrested, arms and propaganda material secured."

This report, as were the others, is signed: "Commander-in-Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group F)" Page 73 of the English, 52 of the German, Document NOKW-1363 becomes prosecution Exhibit 471.

These are various activity reports of the 68th Army Corps, commanded at this time by the defendant Felmy. The first report was transmitted on the 19th of September, 1943 and your Honors will note to whom the report is sent: "1) Army Group Southern Greece, 2) Military Commander in Greece," who at this time was the defendant Speidel, "3) Counter Intelligence Office, Athens."

Next, the 68th Corps daily report for the 28th of December, 1943:

"As reprisal measure for band attack on 3 December near Jithion (Ic Daily Report for 6 December) 25 hostages were shot at Jithion."

"Ic Daily Report for 9 December 1943:"

PRESIDING JUDGE BURKE: At this point, Mr. Fenstermacher, we will defer further hearing by the Tribunal until tomorrow morning at 9:30.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal will be in recess until 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Official Transcript of Military Tribunal V, Case VII, in the matter of the United States of America, against Wilhelm List, et al, defendants sitting at Nurnberg, Germany, on 19 August 1947, 0930, Justice Wennerstrum Presiding.

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the Courtroom will please find their seats.

The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal V.

Military Tribunal V is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

There will be order in the Court.

THE PRESIDENT: The Marshal will ascertain if all the defendants are present in time Courtroom.

THE MARSHAL: May it please Your Honor, all the defendants are present in the Courtroom.

THE PRESIDENT: The Prosecution may proceed with the presentation of evidence on behalf of the Prosecution.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: May it please the Tribunal. Prior to yesterday afternoon's adjournment we were considering Document No. NOKW-1363, which is Prosecution's Exhibit No. 471 in evidence. This document is a series of activity reports of the 68th Corps for the period 16 September to 31 December 1943. Your Honors will recall on other documents that have already been introduced by the Prosecution that during this period of time the Defendant Felmy was Commander of the 68th Army Corps, and that Corps in turn was subordinate to Army Group E, which itself was subordinate to Army Group F and Supreme Command Southeast, under the command of the defendant Weichs and his Chief of Staff the defendant Foertsch. And we are particularly concerned with that section of the document which begins on page 77 of the English, Page 55 of the German, Daily Report for the 9th of December 1943:

"During mopping up operations in the Northern Peloponnesus a pocket 10 km around Kalavrita was found without further contact with the enemy.

Enemy withdrew from the area N of Kalavrita possibly towards Southeast, since 78 men of one of our companies which was annihilated in the mountains on 7 December were murdered about 10 km Southeast of Kalavrita. As reprisal measure for the murder of German soldiers the burning of villages and execution of the male population has been ordered."

DR. LATERNSEER: Dr. Laternser, Your Honor. I would like a retranslation of the document which has just been read.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Major Hatfield, please, will you pass the original to the Court Interpreter. The part in question is on Page 8 of the original document.

THE PRESIDENT: May I make inquiry as to what particular portion of the document you are referring to, Dr. Laternser?

DR. LATERNSE: Yes, Your Honor. On page 77 of the English Document Book, the sentence under "F". It is the sentence that was read last, Paragraph "F", on page 77.

MR. HILDESHEIMER (Court German-English Interpreter): It says here: "As a reprisal measure," it could be translated "as a retaliation measure", "for the murder of German soldiers the burning of villages and execution of the male population has been ordered."

DR. LATERNSE: As I have heard it just now in the English, it is the word "the" -- "The male population" -- this "the" should have been stricken.

THE PRESIDENT: Will the Interpreter please read it again and give his interpretation?

DR. LATERNSE: In the German text it says "Erschiessung Maennlicher Bevoelkerung," which means "the shooting of male population." The article the definite article "the" should be stricken, which is found in the line next to the last in the English Document Book on Page 77.

MR. HILDESHEIMER (Court German-English Interpreter): That is correct, Your Honor.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Will the Court Interpreter read again from that sub-paragraph "F" of the original document exactly as it should be translated?

MR. HILDESHEIMER (Court German-English Interpreter): "As a reprisal measure for the murder of German soldiers, the burning of villages and execution of members of the male population has been ordered." That is how it should read. That would be the literal translation, Sir.

DR. LATERNSE: Thank you.

JUDGE CARTER: May I ask, before the original is taken away, if the English shows this was signed by the 67th Corps? Is that correct?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I believe that is again a typographical error, but again we might ascertain the answer to that from the original document.

MR. HILDESHEIMER (Court German-English Interpreter): It says 67th Corps in the English text.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: What does it say in the original?

MR. HILDESHEIMER (Court German-English Interpreter): In the original German text it says 68th AK.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Might I ask again ---I believe in translating sub-paragraph "F" you gave an alternative translation -- something to the effect of "members of the male population." Will you read it again --sub-paragraph "F"?

MR. HILDESHEIMER (Court German-English Interpreter): As it is or as it should read?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: As it should read from your translation of the original text.

MR. HILDESHEIMER (Court German-English Interpreter): "As reprisal measure for the murder of German soldiers the burning of villages and the execution of members of the male population has been ordered."

THE PRESIDENT: Does that cover the situation, Dr. Laternser?

DR. LATERNSEER: Yes, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: We turn next to Page 68 of the English, page 56 of the German, continuing with the activity reports of the 68th Corps, the Daily Report for the 14th of October 1943: "The Prefect of Kalamata was murdered in the train at Asprochoma (3km West Northwest of Kalamata). Martial law proclaimed at Kalamata, 50 hostages arrested." Continuing with the Daily Report for the 25th of October 1943: "Enemy losses for the period 18 October - 24 October: Dead, 24; Captured: 1 machine gun, 47 rifles..." It is at the bottom of Page 78 of the English, Page 56 of the German, Daily Report for the 25th of October 1943: "Enemy losses for the period 18 October - 24 October: Dead: 24; Captured: 1 machine gun, 47 rifles, 13 pistols, 3000 rounds Infantry ammunition, 100 Italian handgrenades. Taken prisoner: 31 Greeks, 10 Italians."

MR. HILDESHEIMER: I'm afraid there's a mistake, Sir, in the English Document Book -- a mistake in the translation.

THE PRESIDENT: The translator will make such corrections as he deems advisable.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Dr. Laternser has informed me that the sentences I have been reading are not in the German Document Book. Perhaps we could hand again the original document to the Court Interpreters and have them read it into the record. This, I believe, is on page 12 of the original document -- the Daily Report for the 25th of October 1943.

MR. HILDESHEIMER: Are you reading from sub-paragraph "D", please? Could you please read the English text again?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Ic Daily Report for 25 October 1943, II), d), Enemy Losses for the period 18 October - 24 October: Dead: 24, Captured: 1 machine gun, 47 rifles, 13 pistols, 3000 rounds Infantry ammunition, 100 Italian handgrenades. Taken prisoner: 31 Greeks, 10 Italians. During mopping up operations at Kalamata, Sparta, Patras, and Megalopolis a total of 3880 band suspects and hostages arrested."

Daily Report for the 26th of October 1943.....

THE PRESIDENT: Pardon me. I understood the Translator wished to make some correction. Is that correct?

MR. HILDESHEIMER: I only wanted to say, Your Honor, that this is not contained in our German Document Book.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well; you may proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Daily Report for the 26th of October 1943: "During mopping up operation in Githion and Tripolis several suspects and hostages arrested." And then, dropping down to the Daily Report for 6 November 1943, at the bottom of Page 79 in the English, Page 57 in the German, "During retaliation measures(see attach 8 km Northwest of Argos, Ic-Daily Report for 5 November 1943) No contact with the enemy. Villages were evacuated by bandits and the bulk of the population. Hostages taken." Continuing with the Daily Report for the 24th of November 1943, Page 80 of the English, Page 57 of the German, "On 23 November at 1445 hours a band attacked a single truck on the road Corinth-Patras, 8 km Southeast of Aegion. 1st Lt. Roewer was killed, Lt. von Bothmer was wounded, the driver is missing. The Division Commander had ordered the public execution of 20 Communist leaders in Patras on 24 November as reprisal measure." Daily Report for the 12th of December 1943: "As reprisal measure for shooting German soldiers (Ic Daily Report for 10 December) 9 villages Northeast of Kalavrita were destroyed, and 142 men shot." This report, as are all others in the series, is signed by the Ic or Intelligence Officer of the 68th Corps, commanded, at this time, by the Defendant Felmy. Continuing with the Daily Report for the 31st of December 1943: "Enemy Losses during December: Prisoners: 5 American Flyers, 159 bandits, Dead: 918 (of this 839 from reprisal measures), Wounded: 11 (in addition an estimated 100)." Turning now to the bottom of Page 82 of the English, Page 59 of the German, the Ic Daily Report for 13th of December 1943: "Operation Kalavrita concluded without further contact with the enemy. A few of the corpses of the German soldiers shot were found." Next, the daily Report for the 14th of December 1943: "70 corpses of the German soldiers murdered were brought in. As further reprisal measure 3 villages were burned down, Kalavrita completely destroyed, 511 male inhabitants shot." Daily Report for the 15th of December 1943: "During the night 13/14th the telephone not work at the road Tripolis-Sparta, 18 km South of Tripolis, as well as three bridges, was destroyed.

On 14 December 1 reinforced Engineer Platoon and 50 hostages were employed on repair work. In the area of Kalavrita as further reprisal measure 1 village and 2 monasteries were destroyed." Continuing with the Daily Report for the 16th of December 1943: "Operation Kalavrita: 14 December Mazeika (11 km Southeast of Kalavrita) and Dara (12 km Southeast of Mazeika) 18 houses destroyed, 35 Communists arrested." Daily Report for 17th of December 1943: "During the night 15/16 December bridge 1 km North of Nanthirea (10 km South of Tripolis) was blasted. As reprisal measure Mant*irea was burned down. As reprisal measure for 1 German soldier shot 30 Communist were shot in Tripolis." This report, as are all others, is signed "LXVIIIth Corps, Ic." I think we need not read the remainder of the document into the record at this time. Turning next to Page 86 of the English, Page 62 of the German Document Book, is Document No. NOKW-1246, which becomes Prosecution's Exhibit No.

472. This document is a series of extracts from the War Diary of the 68th Corps, covering the period 1 July to 31st December 1943, during which period the Defendant Felmy was in command of the 68th Army Corps. The first page of the War Diary is signed by the Defendant Felmy, as "General of Air Force."

WAR DIARY NO. 3 Corps Headquarters LXVIII Army Corps Started 1 July 1943 Concluded 31 Dec.

1943.

LXVIII Army Corps was subordinate from 1 July 1943 to 27 July 1943 to the High Command Army Group E from 28 July 1943 to 9 Sept 1943 to the 11th Italian Army from 9 Sept.

1943 to 4 Oct. 1943 to Army Group Southern Greece from 5 Oct.

1943 to 31 Dec. 1943 to the High Command Army Group E The War Diary was kept from 1 July 1943 to 31 Dec.

1943 by Captain Sinapius Turning to Page 87 of the English, Page 62 of the German, the entry in the 68th Army Corps War Diary for the 23rd of August 1943:

"As reprisal measure of band attacks on 22 Aug. The village of Tropaa and Chora are burned down. . . .

24 Aug 43 The reprisal measures of the German Town Commandant in Argos for the excesses of civilians on 22 Aug. are being systematically sabotaged by the commander of the Italian Sector Argolide. He is attempting to have the hostages released and to cancel the curfew ordered by the German Garrison Command. In order that the reputation of the German Wehrmacht may no longer be in danger, the Commander of the 1st Panzer Division requests the subordination of the Italian Sector Argolide to the 1st Panzer Division. After conference with the chief of the German General Staff with the Italian 11th Army, this subordination is ordered effective 25 August 00:00 Hours.

There of the assumed culprits are shot to death. . . . 25 Aug 43

Fighting between Nationalists and Communist Bands in the areas of Pigadia (18 kilometers East Southeast Kalamata) and Diraklion (18 kilometers Northeast of Kalamata).

30 Aug 43 In the vicinity of Skupi 15 Km east of Liwki one of our own patrols encountered bandits in a skirmish. The Locality was burned down. Operation Chionistra: Group A reaches area, 10 kilometers West of Kalawrita. A village whose inhabitants seem suspect is being burned down.

JUDGE CARTER: Might I inquire against what defendant these orders in August are offered?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: They're offered against the Defendant Felmy, Your Honor, as he was in command in August, at that time.

JUDGE CARTER: Does a previous statement show that he was not?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Which statement is that, Your Honor?

JUDGE CARTER: At the beginning of this exhibit.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: You mean from 1 July 1943 to the 27th of July 1943, to the High Command, Army Group E, or perhaps you refer to the statement from 28 July 1943 to 9 September 1943, the 11th Italian Army. Is that the statement you refer to, Your Honor?

JUDGE CARTER: Yes, it is.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: That simply means that the Corps itself was subordinate to the 11th Italian Army, but the Corps was commanded during that period by the Defendant Felmy, even though the Corps itself was subordinate to the High Headquarters.

JUDGE CARTER: We had a statement here yesterday or the day before to the effect that the Defendant Felmy didn't arrive until September 9th, and this would seem not to correspond with that.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I believe Your Honor is referring to a statement of Dr. Sauter, which he made, as a matter of fact, to the effect that the defendant Lanz arrived as Commander of the 22nd Army Corps on the 9th of September 1943 in the Epiros section of Greece; and we are now concerned with the Defendant Felmy, who was Commander of the 68th Army Corps, and I believe there is no issue of fact as to when he took over, in that statement.

JUDGE CARTER: I believe you're correct in that statement, that I did have the Defendant Lanz confused with the Defendant Felmy.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: We are turning next to the bottom of Page 89 of the English, Page 64 of the German, the entry in the War Diary of the 68th Army Corps for the 26th of November 1943: "Peloponnesus: As reprisal measure for the band attack (32 kilometers South of Tripolis) 100 Communist are shot to death at the locality of the incident." Next, on page 90 of the English, page 64 of the German, the entry from the War Diary for the 4th of December 1943: "Peloponnesus: In Aighion, 50 Hostages shot to death as reprisal measure for attack on truck on 2 December." Continuing with the entry in the War Diary of the 68th Army Corps, the entry for the 5th of December 1943:

Peloponnesus: 50 hostages hanged at the railroad station of Andritsa as reprisal measure for attack on 1 December." For 7 December 1943: "Peloponnesus: 25 hostages shot to death in Gythion as reprisal measure for attack by bandits on 3 December West of Gythion." The entry for the 8th of December 1943. If Your Honors will bear in mind this particular date, 8 December 1943, and the events with which it is concerned:

Peloponnesus:

Operation "Kalawrita": The Combat groups advanced concentrically on Kalawrita (targets of the day about 10 kilometers around Kalawrita. According to statements of 2 men who escaped from Fifth Company of the 749th Jaeger Regiment which had been destroyed near Kalawrita on 19 Oct, the captured company commander Captain Schober and 78 men are alleged to have been shot on 7 Dec. in the mountains East of Kalawrita. To prevent the bands from escaping toward the East, the 3rd Battalion of the 22nd Luftwaffe Jaeger Regiment of Corinth is committed for the area, 25 kilometers Southeast of Kalawrita.

"9 Dec 43 Peloponnesus:

Combat group, Lt. Colonel Wolffinger reaches Kalawrita without contact with the enemy. Combat group Captain (Cav.) thrusting ahead to the West up to Tripotamia."

We call your Honors' attention to the statement that Lt. Colonel Wolffinger reached Kalavrita without contact with the enemy. Now reading:

"10 Dec 43 Peloponnesus:

Operating "Kalawrita" a patrol of platoon strength of the reinforced company of the 965th Fortress Regiment makes contact with the enemy (10 kilometers South of Liwia. Own losses: 10 dead, 11 wounded. Continued march of combat group Lt. Colonel Wolffinger to Tripotamia without contact with the enemy.

11 Dec 43 Peloponnesus:

Operation "Kalawrita" In reprisal for the 78 murdered soldiers of the 5th Company of the 749th Jaeger Regiment, 9 villages in the area of "Kalawrita" destroyed up to now, 142 members of the male village population shot to death."

Continuing with the entries in the War Dairy of the LXVIII Army Corps, the entry for the:

"13 Dec 43 Peloponnesus:

Operation "Kalawrita" concluded without any notable success except for the continuation of reprisal measures. It again has been demonstrated that an insufficiently mobile Jaeger Regiment in the mountains is insufficient for the execution of a large scale operation (encirclement of bands)."

Another entry for the:

"13 Dec 43 Peloponnesus:

During the course of additional reprisal measures Kalawrita entirely destroyed three more villages burned down and 511 male inhabitants shot to death.

70 corpses of the murdered soldiers of the 5th Company of the 749th Regiment were found in Masi (10 kilometers Southeast of Kalawrita. . .

"14, Dec 43 Peloponnesus:

During the continuation of the reprisal measures in the area of Kalawrita, Mazeika and 2 Monasteries are destroyed. The combat groups are marching back to their garrisons. During the course of the reprisal measures a total of 24 villages and 3 monasteries were destroyed, 696 Greeks shot to death.

22 Dec 43 Peloponnesus:

Bandits are continuously making sabotage attempts on the telephone line Tripolis - Sparta. 13 Greeks are shot to death during a mopping up operation carried out against this."

The final page of the War Diary of the LXVIII Army Corps, this particular War Diary concludes on the 31st of December, 1943, is signed by the defendant Felmy, the Commander of the Corps.

THE PRESIDENT: Pardon me, does that have his signature or is it a typed signature?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: As I recall, it is his signature written out in hand, Your Honor. Perhaps if we had the original exhibit, I could refresh my recollection. (Showed document to the Tribunal.)

The next document is NOKW -1029; it is a map which is too large for inclusion in the document book. We might hand your Honors three copies at this time. Yesterday afternoon at four thirty I distributed several copies to the defense counsel. I wonder if all of them have copies?

JUDGE BURKE: What is the document number, and what is the Exhibit number, if you please?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: The document number is NOKW-1029: which I becomes prosecution Exhibit No. 473. It is a map which is taken from the files of the LXVIII Army Corps. I would like to ask the court interpreters to read into the record the legend which appears at the bottom of the map.

MR. HILDESHEIMER: "Enterprise, Kalavrita, of the 5th December 1943 to 13 December 1943. X marks destroyed villages." Correction: instead of "enterprise," "operation" and the last is "X marks destroyed villages."

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Will the court interpreter look at the top half? There is a plus sign and a word "Fundort." I wonder if he would translate that legend.

MR. HILDESHEIMER: "Place of finding of the murdered German soldiers."

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Will you read the date also, please?

MR. HILDESHEIMER: "8 December."

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honors will note the number of "X's" as they appear on the map, according to the map "X" equals destroyed villages. Your Honors may count them for yourselves. I counted 35 separate crosses. Your Honors will also note in the top half portion of the map about in the middle around a group of about ten crosses, the name of the town Kalavrita and above the town of Kalavrita the name Krunini. I hesitate to pronounce the names of the other villages but I think your Honors might note them. The witness which we shall put on from Lalavrita will, I believe, have occasion to refer to several of these names.

Turn next to page 94 of the English, page 66 of the German document book, NOKW-1257, which becomes prosecution Exhibit 474, this document consists of activities reports of the 117 Jaeger Division for the period 1 November to 30 November 1943. I beg your pardon, the whole exhibit concerns activities reports of the 117 Jaeger Division covering the period 5 November 1943 to 16 January 1944, during which period of time the division was subordinate to the LXVIII Corps, commanded during the entire period by the defendant Felmy.

The first activity report is:

"117th Jaeger Division from 1 November to 30 November 1943. 5.11. 4.) Reprisal action for bandit attack on the 2nd Battery of the 1st Battalion of anti-aircraft Regiment No. 6 near Nawrojianneika on 4.11:

"Village of Bermbati burned down. 120 hostages arrested in Limanaes.

"5.) Up to now the execution of effective reprisal measures for the partisan attacks, which have increased lately, has come to naught because the 1042 Administrative Sub-area Headquarters claimed, on the basis of a decree of Military Commander Greece."

If I may insert a comment there, the Military Commander Greece at that time was the defendant Speidel.

"The authority for the execution of such measures but it does not have any forces available to carry them out. After long drawn out negotiations 1042 Administrative Sub-area Headquarters today was persuaded to transfer to the division their obligations and duties regarding the reprisal measures.

2.) On 5.11 about 20:00 hours bandit attack (about 70 men) on German freight train, 17 kilometer West of Ajion. Own losses: 2 dead, 1 seriously wounded, 2 missing. Reinforced company left immediately but could not establish (location of) enemy. Negotiator transmits ultimatum to bands to return the missing men by 15 November. They were informed that otherwise severest measures would be taken.

4.) In reprisal for bandit attack near Isari on 27 Oct., 18 Communists shot dead in Tripoli."

Continuing with the entry in the activity report for the 24th of November, 1943:

"As preliminary reprisal measures for bandit attack near Nikoleika, 20 Communist Leaders in Patras shot dead.

3.12 The 2nd Battalion of the 737th Jaeger Regiment started operation "Andritsa to mop up the area around Andritsa and to seize hostages.

.....

For the attack on 2 Dec. 43, 10 kilometers East of Ajion in Ajion 50 hostages were shot dead.

.....

7.12 As reprisal measure for the bandit attack on the road Jithion Areopolis, 25 hostages shot dead in Jithion.

.....

8 Dec. 43 cont'd.:

Combat Group Gnass occupies Masi (7 kilometers Northeast of Mazeika) by surprise attack with elements of combat strength (reinforced group Kockert) from Mazeika, in order to liberate the 78 German prisoners. Excepting some men who escaped, the prisoners were murdered in the mountains northeast of Nasi on 7 Dec. The immediate reprisal measure ordered was the shooting of the male population and burning down of the villages. Reprisal measures in the Roji and Kerpini were carried out by combat group Ebersberg.

13.12 Operation "Kalawrita": The valley echelon of combat Group Woelfinger reaches Vissoka without contacting the enemy.

Villages which were combed through were evacuated by the civilian population.

Kalawrita was destroyed entirely as bandit shelter and collecting point for German prisoners. 511 male inhabitants shot dead.

.....

Target of the day Dara (12 kilometers Southeast Mazeika). In the course of reprisal measures, 3 villages burned down.

Page 2,251

16.12 Operation "Steiglitz": As reprisal measure for the shooting of one German Soldier 30 Communists shot dead in Tripoli". This is the situation of the LXVII Corps Headquarters:

"Estimates of the situation to LXVIII Corps Headquarters. Divisional Staff Hq., 23 January 1944, (signed) von Le Suire, Major General and Divisional Cdr."

Continuing on page 97 of the English, 68 of the German, another activity report of the 117th Jaeger Division, dated:

"Divisional Staff Hq, 19 January 1944.

"Concluding and Experience Report "Operation 'Kalawrita' "The assembly of Combat Group Gnass for operation 'Kalawrita' proceeded according to plan.

Jumping off point for Jaeger Regiment 749 was the billet in Patras and Ajion. The 5th of December 1943" -- and Your Honors will recall that date on the map which was submitted in the preceding exhibit -- "was the X day of the operation. Apart from a skirmish lasting some time of the 116th

Artillery Battalion near Pankrati, no fighting worth mentioning took place during the entire operation. Since the enemy withdrew towards the east and northeast from the first day of the operation, the 22nd Luftwaffe Jaeger Regiment was ordered on 7 December 43 to prevent the bands from breaking through by setting up blocks along the plains of Feneos (Operation Steiglitz). The 965th Fortress Infantry Regiment was ordered on 8 December 43 to block the line Demuta-Lala-Duka with a reinforced company in order to prevent withdrawal to the southwest. (Operation Bueffel).

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, I would like the translation to be examined and tested. On page 97 of the English document book, page 68 of the German document book, I would ask for a retranslation of the sentence - I quote from the German document book: "Bis auf ein laengeres Feuergefecht der Aufklaerungsabteilung 116 bei Paukvati fanden waehrend des ganzen Unternehmens keine groesseren Kampfhandlungen statt." That is the end of my quotation. I would like this sentence retranslated.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Would Major Hatfield pass Exhibit 474 to the court interpreters, please? I believe the portion of the document to which Dr. Laternser refers is on page 11 of the original document.

MR. HILDESHEIMER: "Apart from--

THE PRESIDENT: Pardon me, will you give the line that you are reading?

MR. HILDESHEIMER: It is on page 97 of the English document book and it is under the caption "Concluding and Experience Report Operation Kalavrita, Scale 1:100,000." It is line four; it is line five in the original.

"Apart from a skirmish lasting some time of the 116th Artillery Battalion near Pankrati, no major operations took -- major fighting took place during the entire operation." It is suggested that "116th Artillery Battalion" should be translated "116th Reconnaissance Battalion" and it would read then:

"Apart from a skirmish lasting some time of the 116th Reconnaissance Battalion near Pankrati, no larger fighting took place during the entire operation."

THE PRESIDENT: Does that cover the situation, Dr. Laternser?

DR. LATERNSE: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Continuing on page 97 of the English, page 68 of the German, would be the report of the 117th Jaeger Division regarding Operation Kalavrita:

"In reprisal for the murder of 75 prisoners of Company Schober, the shooting of the male population and the burning down of all villages in the area of the operation was ordered.

"On 14 December 1943 the operation was concluded and the units returned to their billets.

"1) Enemy losses: 17 dead, several wounded.

"2) Own Losses: 13 dead, 12 wounded.

"3) Reprisal Measures: The following villages were destroyed: Roji, Kerpini, Railway Station Kerpini, Ano Sachlaru, Kato Sachlart, Ssuwardo, Wrachni, Kalawrita, Monastery of Meg-Spilaron, Monastery of Lawras, Aj. Kiria, Awles, Wissoka, Fteri, Klapatsuna, Pargaki, Wallitsa, Mellissia, Monastery of Omblu, Laponangos, Masi, Mazeika, Pangrati, Worochowa, Derweni, Waltos, Planeru, settlement (four kilometers west Mazeika). 696 Greeks were shot dead.

"5) Attitude of the Civilian Population: A large part of the civilian population had fled apparently out of fear of seizure as hostages. Those remaining in the villages were mostly old men. The remaining population tried to prove that they had nothing to do with the bands by exaggerated and submissive politeness and by proclaiming their sympathy."

Turning next to page 99 of the English, page 70 of the German, Document OKW-1555 becomes Prosecution Exhibit 475. This document is a series of daily reports of OKH Army Headquarters in Berlin. First "Daily Report West 17 November 1943" under the section of the reports with which we are concerned:

"III) Balkans "1) Army Group E:"a) Islands:

The enemy garrison of Lero surrendered with 200 English officers and 3000 men and 350 Italian officers and 5000 men (elements of the 'Regina' Division).

"b) Mainland:

"LXVIII Infantry Corps: Continued communist intrigues in Athens.

"Administrative Area Headquarters 395: In the course of local mopping up north of Volos, 53 bandits were captured. Twenty communists have been shot to death in reprisal for attacks carried out lately in the area of Katerini."

The report is signed, as are all others in the series, "Heusinger". I beg your pardon: "Per (signed) Heusinger. (signature) Frh. v. Tiesenhausen."

Page 100 of the English, Daily Report for the 29th of November 1943:

"Daily Report West 29 November 1943.

"III) Balkans "1) Army Group E:"b) Mainland:

"LXVIII Army Corps: In reprisal for a band attack on the road Tripolis-Sparta, 100 hostages were shot to death at the locality of the incident. In the course of a search of Corinth numerous hostages were seized and weapons and propaganda material were secured."

The OKH report for the 1st of December 1943, that section of the report dealing with activities of the XXII Mountain Corps, which at this time was under the command of the defendant Lanz:

"During reprisal operation against bands in the area of Korca a village was taken in the face of resistance, all men capable of bearing arms were shot to death and the village destroyed."

Continuing with the OKH daily report for the 5th of December 1943:

"Balkans "Army Group E:"Mainland:

"LXVIII Army Corps: 50 hostages were shot to death in Aighion."

OKH report for the 12th of December 1943, under the section of the report dealing with the LXVIII Army Corps:

"No enemy contact during continuation of operation Kalavrita. As a reprisal measure nine villages were destroyed and 142 male inhabitants shot to death."

OKH report for the 15th of December 1943, at the bottom of page 103 of the English, 73 of the German:

"In the course of the continuation of the reprisal action in the area of Kalavrita one additional village and two monasteries were destroyed, among them Kalavrita. Altogether more than 500 men were shot to death. The bodies of 100 German soldiers were found who had been shot to death."

Continuing with the OKH report for the 17th of December 1943:

"Balkans "Army Group E:"Mainland:

"LXVIII Army Corps: In reprisal for blasting of bridge and murder of a German soldier in the area of Tripoli, one band village was destroyed and 30 communists shot to death.

"XXII Mountain Corps: In reprisal for the attack on trucks as reported yesterday three band villages were destroyed, north of Agrinion."

Case V Case VII

XXII Mountain Corps:

"Seepferd" will be continued. Band losses up to now: 107 dead, 34 prisoners, 265 suspects arrested. In addition to weapons, 15 English parachutes and two printing presses with voluminous propaganda material was taken in booty. Own losses: 5 dead.

In the area of Volos 25 bandits were shot to death in reprisal.

DR. SCHMIDT: Your Honor, I have to state that Volos was not within the field of activity of this Regiment of the XXII Mountain Corps.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Will you repeat the remark please.

INTERPRETOR HILDESHIEMER: I have to state that this area which is concerned here is not within the field of activities of the XXII Mountain Corps.

THE PRESIDENT: It appears that this would be a defensive matter which could be shown when opportunity is given to the defense to present their evidence.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I think it was indicated already, however from the documents themselves that the area of operation "Kalarribha" was within the jurisdiction and command area of the 68th Army Corps and not the XXII Mountain Corps.

Dr. SCHMIDT: On page 75 of the German Document Book under Bomar III, XXII Mountain Corps, this is on page 105 of the English Document Book, the last sentence:

"In the area of Volos 25 bandits were shot to death in reprisal."

This gives the impression that Volos was within the command area of the XXII Mountain Corps.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I beg your pardon for my remark. It only added to the confusion but I think your Honor's statement is correct that this is a matter for the defense to bring up at the proper time. I think I had finished with the document on page 105 of the English, 75 of the German, the OKH report of 21 December 1943.

Under that section of the report headed XXII Mountain Corps the final line:

"In the rear of Volos 25 bandits were shot to death in reprisal."

Next on page 107 of the English, page 76 of the German, Document NOKW 1402, which becomes Prosecution Exhibit 476. These are a series of daily reports from the Commander in Chief Southeast to OKH and OKW headquarters in Berlin covering the period 1 December 1943 to 23 December 1943. In this period your Honors will recall that the Commander in Chief Southeast was the defendat Weichs and his chief of staff was the defendant Foertsch.

First is the daily report from the Commander in Chief Southeast High Command Army Group F, to OKW/Wehrmacht Operations Staff for December 1, 1943:

Your Honors will note receipt stamp: Army General Staff Operations Section for a day after the report was sent, that is to say, the 2nd of December 1943. We concern ourselves with that section of the Commander in Chief Southeast report dealing with activities of the XXII Mountain Corps. At this time it was under the command of the defendat Lanz.

During reprisal operation against bands in Korca area a village was taken in spite of resistance. All men fit for military service were shot and the village destroyed."

The report is signed, as are all the others, Commander in Chief Southeast High Command Army Group F, Ia, or operations officer.

Next is the Commander in Chief Southeast report for the 5 of December 1943 under the 68th Corps:

"At Aighion 50 hostages were shot."

Continuing the report for the 6th of December 1943, Commander in Chief Southeast OKH Berlin:

"LXVIII Corps: Southwest of Cythion band attack on our own truck column. Losses on both sides. Retaliation measure in return for attack on a railway base Southeast of Tripolis, (See Daily Report of 2 December) 50 hostages hanged. Continuance of "Kalavrit" Operation (See daily report for 4 December) while bands are withdrawing."

Next on page 112 of the English, 79 of the German, Commander in Chief Southeast report transmitter on 8 December 1943, received at Army General Staff Headquarters on 9 December 1943.

LXVIIIth Corps:

In retaliation for band attack Southwest of Gythion (see Daily Report for 6 December) 25 hostages were shot Operation "Kalavrita" continues with little contact with the enemy.

At Athens Communist attack on Greek police officials Continuing with the report, the section dealing with activities of the 69th Reserve Corps.

Your Honors will recall at this time on the 8 December 1943 the 69th Reserve Corps was commanded by the defendant Deynor and subordinate to the II Panzer Army under the Command of the defendant Rendulic.

LXIXth Reserve Corps:

During mopping up operations by IInd Ustascha Brigade and Police units in the area of Djakovo several villages were burned as reprisal measure and 2 bandits captured.

Next the Commander in Chief Southeast report for 12 December 1943; LXVIIIth Corps:

In the area North of Gythion renewed clashes between our reconnaissance and a band. 6 enemy dead, 2 losses on our side.-Continuation of the "Kalavrita" operation without contacting the enemy. As reprisal measure see Daily Report for 11 December.

Next the report for the 16 of December, Received Army General Staff Headquarters on 17 December 1943.

"LXVIIth Corps: Mazeika (11 km. Southeast of Kalbrita) burned down, reprisal measure concluded therewith. Considerable bandit traffic in the area Southeast of Lamia."

These is a notation that those are crossed out in the original report.

THE PRESIDENT: In this particular document where reference is made to page 29 in the original, reference is stated it is the 68th Corps. Is that correct?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I think that is a typographical error but perhaps we could pass it to the court interpreter for determination.

INTERPRETOR HILDESHIEMER: Give us the original page number.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Page 116 of the English, and 81 of the German. It is the heading of the report of the C-in-C Southeast of the 16 Nov.43. Is it 68th Corps or 67th Corps?

INTERPRETOR HILDESHIEMER: It says 68th Army Corps.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Continuing on page 117 of the English, page 82 of the German Document Book, daily report from the Commander in Chief Southeast for the 17 December 1943:

LXVIIIth Corps:

As reprisal for blowing up of a bridge and murdering of a German soldier in the area of Tripolis a bandit village was destroyed and Communists shot.

XXII Mountain Corps:

As reprisal for the attack on a truck North of Agrinion reported yesterday 3 villages of the bandits were destroyed.

Next page is 119 of the English, page 83 of the German, Commander in Chief Southeast report for 23 December 1943, in handwritten words:

"According to enemy communiques the 'Jugoslav Liberation Army let by Tito' is regarded as part of the Allied Forces in the Southeast."

I ask your Honors to note the date of that, 23 December 1943. The particular report of 23 December 1943 continues, page 120 of the English, 83 of the German----

INTERPRETOR HILDESHIEMER: The word "regared" is not correct. I should read, therefore: "According to enemy communiques, or reports, the Yugoslav Liberation Army led by Tito is described as part of the Allied Forces in the Southeast."

There was one word which was originally crossed out and "bezeichnet" which it "described" is added later on, on the original document that is.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, the actual difference becomes evidence, if you look at the original document. The word "regard" (betrachtet) has been put down first. Then it was crossed out and it was substituted with "bezeichnet" which is "described"; that gives a different content, and I would like to ask the Interpreters to decide on this, whether the word "describe" is not too strong a translation of the original word.

INTERPRETOR HILDESHEIMER: It could be translated by "called," "described," or "called" if that is more fitting translation. That is the only word I'm afraid I can think of. I think the best word is probably "described." There is also "named," "called," or "described." Those are the three possibilities.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Continuing on page 120 of the English and 83 of the German with this same report from the Commander in Chief to OKW in Berlin, for 23 December 1943.

Radio Beromuenster announces:

Marshal Tito was appointed in Cairo as an Allied Commander. The Allied Military Command has prepared plans to intensify operations of Yugoslav partisans and to give increased support to Allied units operating in Yugoslavia. The Yugoslav Liberation Army is referred to as an integral Part of the Allied Forces fighting in Southeastern Europe.

The report is signed Commander in Chief Southeast High Command Army Group F, Ia.

We turn next to page 121 of the English, page 85 of the German, Document NOKW 1556. It becomes Prosecution Exhibit 477. This is a series of daily reports of OKH, reporting the activities of various Germany Army units operating in the field. This report is OKH report for 8 February 1944:

"Balkans. Army Group E: Minor local band activity. Mainland: LXVIII Infantry Corps."

Your Honors please LXVIII Infantry Corps is still commanded by the defendant Felmy.

"100 Communists shot to death and 3 villages destroyed as a reprisal measure for an attack by bands on our truck column North of Kalamata. A road bridge East of Megalopolis was blasted by bands."

Next, the report of OKH for 10 February 1944, the portion of the report dealing with the LXVIII Infantry Corps:

"159 Communists were shot to death and 3 villages were burned down as a reprisal measure for the attack on the truck column on the road Kalamata - Pylos."

Next, on page 123 of the English, 87 of the German, OKH report for 23 February 1944:

"Army Group E:

Mainland:

XXII Mountain Corps:

In Southern Pindus, increased Communists activity. 16 Communists arrested during a raid in Agrinion.

During a local mopping up of the Island of Leukas, 7 Communists were shot to death."

The OKH report for 25 February 1944:

"b) Mainland:

LXVIII Army Corps:

The mopping up of Andros has up to now not resulted in any contact with the enemy.

In reprisal for the attack on trucks near Megalopolis reported yesterday, 200 hostages were shot to death."

Continuing on OKH report 27 February 1944, the section of report dealing with activities in the Balkans, the section of the report dealing with activities of the II Panzer Army which at this time, February 1944, was under the command of the defendant Rendulic:

"Croatia, Montenegro: V-SS Mountain Corps:

118th Jaeger Division: Mopping up of north of Metkovic concluded. 332 band suspects arrested, 10 shot to death. On the islands of Brac and Miljet band attacks repelled, enemy losses, minor amount of weapon taken in booty."

The report, as with all the others, is signed Heusinger.

We turn now to page 126 of the English, page 91 of the German, Document NOKW 1417, which becomes Prosecution Exhibit 478. These again are a series of daily reports from Commander in Chief Southeast to higher headquarters of OKH and OKW in Berlin. They cover the period 12 February to 22 March 1944 during which time the defendant Weichs was Commander in Chief Southeast and his Chief of Staff is the defendant Foertsch. Defendant Foertsch left as Chief of Staff and Commander in Chief in Army Group F sometime in March. The Prosecution is not certain as to the exact date. We begin first with the daily report of the Commander in Chief Southeast for the 12 February 1944. And, there is a notation that these words are crossed out.

"In reprisal for the murder of Greek members of the executive 25 Communists reprisal prisoners shot to death in Athens."

Your Honors will remember the defendant Geitner is at this time Chief of Staff to General Felber, the military Commander Southeast and Military Commander Serbia.

"Serbia -- slight local activity of bands - during cleaning up operation against communists village south of Nis by German police and Serbian State Guards 60 Communists shot to death. 13 suspect persons arrested (crossed out). As reprisal for raid on German Customs Frontier Guards in the Banate 15 Communists reprisal prisoners shot to death."

Next Commander in Chief Southeast report for 25' February 1944. Your Honors will note the receipt stamp of the OKH Operations Section for the 26 of February 1944, one day later, with this section of the report dealing with events in the era of the LXVIII.

"LXVIII Corps: Mopping up Andros so far without contact with the enemy.

Southeast of Meligala 20 communists arrested (notation crossed out). As reprisal for raid on truck reported yesterday near Megalopis 200 hostages were shot dead."

Next on page 130 of the English, page 93 of the German, the Commander in Chief Southeast report for 12 March 1944:

"LXVIII Corps: - As reprisal for the raid by bands on a well protected convoy column southeast of Tripolis the state of emergency was ordered for the civilian population and 200 communists hostages were shot dead."

The report is signed Commander in Chief Southeast High Command Army Group F, Ia, No. 1100/44.

Continuing on page 132 of the English, page 94 of the German, Document NOKW 1356, which becomes Prosecution Exhibit 479. These are again a series of daily reports from Commander in Chief Southeast which were OKH and OKW headquarters in Berlin, covering the period of 3 to 30 April 1944. During this period of time the defendant Weichs is Commander in Chief Southeast and the defendant Foertsch is no longer his Chief of Staff.

Your Honors will note the date of transmission of the first report which is 3 April 1944, sent to OKH, Army General Staff, Operations Section. In the upper right hand portion of the document is the receipt stamp. Army General Staff, Operations Section for 4 April 1944:

"Enemy losses during the part week in Serbia: D.M. Followers: 123 dead, 64 prisoners, 17 deserters. Communists: 622 dead, 61 prisoners, 30 shot as reprisal measure. 537 arrests. Booty: 39 rifles, 4 machine guns, ammunition, and equipment."

Your Honors will recall that at this time, 3 April 1944, the defendant Geitner is in Serbia as Chief of Staff to the Military Commander in Serbia.

Continuing with the report from the Commander in Chief Southeast for the 15 April 1944, page 133 of the English, page 95 of the German:

"Corps Group Joannina:

"In the Florina area lively band movements lately. - As reprisal for an attack on the railroad line Agrinion -- Mossolongi 120 Communists were shot, or hanged. During a raid in Agrinion 50 suspects were arrested."

(A recess was taken.)

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the courtroom will please find their seats.

The court is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Prior to the recess, your Honors, we were considering Document NOKW-1356, which is Exhibit 479 in evidence, being a series of daily reports from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast to OKH and OKW in Berlin. We were on page 134 of the English, page 96 of the German, the daily report for the Commander-in-Chief Southeast for the 25th of April, 1944.

"During large-scale raids in Athens, a total of 126 persons were arrested and arms and ammunition seized. 15 Communists were shot."

Finally, the daily report from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast for the 26th of April, 1944:

"West of Lewadeia a motorized column was attacked by a well-armed band. The terrain is being mopped up. As reprisal measure 50 Communists were shot."

The report, as were all others, is signed "Commander-in-Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group F)."

As the final document in Document Book XX, page 136 of the English, page 99 of the German, is prosecution document NOKW-1065 which becomes Prosecution Exhibit 480. These are various extracts from the War Diary of the 68th Army Corps covering the period 1 January to 30 June 1944.

Your Honors will recall that during this period the defendant Felmy was in command of the 68th Corps, that it was subordinate to Army Group #, which was in turn subordinate to Army Group F commanded by the defendant Weichs.

The signature of the defendant Felmy appears on the first page of the War Diary. It is: "War Diary No. 4, Corps Headquarters 68th Infantry Corps (Headquarters Authorities Troop Unit), Started 1 January 1944, Concluded 30 June 1944.

"Corps Headquarters 68th Infantry Corps was subordinate from 1 January 44 to 30 June 44 to the High Command Army Group E" -- and there follows the list of persons and the dates, who kept the War Diary of the 68th Corps.

Turning to page 137 of the English, page 99 of the German, the entry in the War Diary of the 68th Corps for the 17th of January, 1944:

"Peloponnesus: As reprisal for an attack on 1 officer (2nd Battalion, 670th Artillery Regiment) near Rhizacs (12 Southeast Tripoli) 20 Communists executed."

Continuing with the entry in the War Diary for the 68th Corps for the 7th of February, 1944:

"Peloponnesus: As reprisal measures for the attack near Skala the villages of Skala, Christophiluka and Taukaleika are being destroyed. In addition, 100 Communists will be shot to death. During the reported reconnaissance operation on Skala, bandit losses are confirmed as 10 dead. Own losses amount to 10 dead and 1 wounded.

"23 February 1944 Peloponnesus: Band attack on truck convoys of the 3rd Battalion 737th light Infantry Regiment (men on leave). Own losses: 15 dead, 7 wounded. Reconnaissance in combat strength committed. Because of increased band attacks, the 117th Light Infantry Division is making use of severe measures" -- and your Honors will recall from an earlier document that the 117th Light Infantry Division was subordinate to the 68th Corps under the command of the defendant Felmy.

"On all roads not easily surveyed and on all important passes, field guards in platoon strength are being set up. Mission: patrolling the terrain by day and night. Shooting of everything which moves in the terrain outside the main road (in addition of order enclosed). As reprisal measures for the last band attack on 23 February the following is being carried out: shooting to death of 200 hostages from hostage camp Tripoli at the locality of the attack."

"11 March 44 Peloponnesus: Own losses amount to 18 dead and 44 wounded. The Commander of the 177th" -- and I believe, if your Honors please, that should be changed to read "117th Light Infantry Division.

If defense counsel have any doubts about that we can submit the original document to the interpreters.

In order that there might not be any doubt, your Honors, perhaps we ought to submit the original document to the interpreters, Exhibit 4 473.

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW (Counsel for the defendant Felmy): Mr. President, this is evidently a matter of the 117th Infantry Division.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: "The Commander of the 117th Light Infantry Division, Major General von LeSuire requests approval of the following reprisal measures:"

Your Honors will recall at this time the 117th Light Infantry Division is subordinate to the 68th Corps under the command of the defendant Felmy.

"Prohibiting leaving of houses by the civilian population excepting from 9:00 hours to 12:00 hours in cities and villages South of the line Zakaro (South) - Tripoli (North) - Sevglatio (North) Astroa (North) duration 8 days.

"Prohibiting civilian vehicles and persons on the roads of the Peloponnesus South of the line stated under 1.) Exception - vehicles of the International Red Cross. Violators will be shot to death on the spot. Duration 8 days.

"Everything South of the line stated under 1.) in the terrain up no 2 kilometers away from the main roads will be shot down. Duration 8 days after preceding announcement.

"Shooting to death of 200 hostages (Communists) from the entire hostage camps. The executions are to be carried out by members of the Greek Volunteer Units under German supervision. Approval will be given. The decision concerning the burning down of some villa ges known to be band nests is still lacking. Elements of the 1009 Fortress Infantry Batallion and of the reinforced company of the Greek

Free Corps had minor contact with the enemy during an operation in the area of Stephanía (10 North, Northeast Githíon) – Lajíon – Chersowá (8 North Githíon) enemy losses:

6 prisoners."

Continuing on page 140 of the English, 104 of the German, entry in the War Diary for the 68th Corps for the 15th of March, 1944:

"Peloponnesus: As reprisal measures for the band attack on 11 Mar, 44, the following villages, confirmed as band nests are leased to the 117th Light Infantry Division of destruction: Karíe, Wresthena, Kato – and Ano-Kollíne, Skortsínon, Kaltese, Mavrojinánni, Vlaohokerassía, Arvenítokarassía and Manarí.

.....

"14 Mar. 44 Peloponneses:

In the course of reprisal measures for bank attack of 11 Mar, 44, the villages of Mavrojiánni, Kaltese, Skartsínon are being burned down, "15 Mar.

44 Peloponnesus:

As reprisal measure for band attack on 11 Mar, as reported Karíe and Wresthena are being destroyed.

.....

"16 Mar. 44 Peloponnesus:

As reprisal measure the destruction of Arwanítokorassía, Vlaohokerassía, Kato – and Ano Killíne is reported. Operation "Spatz" reports no contact with the enemy."

Continuing with the War Diary of the 21st of March, 1944:

"Attika: During the absence of the Commander-in-Chief the Commanding General takes over Command of Army Group E."

If your Honors please, the prosecution submits that that reference in the War Diary of the 68th Corps is to the Commanding General of the Corps, General Felmy taking over command of the Army Group E during the absence of Commander-in-Chief of Army Group E, General Alexander Loehr.

Continuing with the excerpt from the 68th Corps War Diary for the 21st of March, 1944.

"The Commanding Officer of the 117th Light Infantry Division is charged with the command of the Corps.

"1 May 44. Attika: As reprisal measure for the attack on the truck convoy of the 41st Fortress Division in the area of Molai (Southeast Peloponnesus) 335 Communists and band suspects shot to death.

"3 May 44. Attika: Operation "Geier" is still without contact with the enemy. For the attack on base point (III Caucasian Bergmann) in Chani-Derwene 50 hostages are being shot to death and for railroad sabotage East of Megalo Pefko, 10 hostages are being hanged.

"9 May 44. Peloponnesus: A reprisal measure for the wounding of two Marines by bandits in Patras, 10 hostages are being hanged, curfew set at 1900 hours and civilian traffic to the city is prohibited."

I wonder if we might submit that document to the interpreters for a retranslation. This is Exhibit 480.

THE PRESIDENT: It's NOKW-1065.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Would you translate the entry in the War Diary of the 68th Corps for 9 May, 1944, appears on page 142 of the English, page 103 of the German, and on page 11 of the original exhibit?

BY THE INTERPRETER:

"10 May 1944. Boestia: Pelepenes: As reprisal measures for 2 marine soldiers wounded by bandits in Patras 10 hostages are hanged; deadline 1900 hours. Civilian traffic to the town is barred."

No traffic is permitted to the town, that is.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Continuing Page 142 of the English, 102 of the German entry in the war diary of the 68th Corps, for the 10th of May, 1944:

Boestia:

MR. FENSTERMACHER: That, if your Honors please, conclude the presentation of the documents in Documents Book No. 20.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Mr. Fenstermacher, in connection with the map which was introduced as Exhibit 473, NOKW 1029, do you have any suggestion as to where that should be inserted, as to the page?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Yes, in order to understand the continuity of the document, your Honors, that document should be inserted following exhibit 472, which exhibit begins on page 86 of the English, page 62 of the German, so that this particular map, Exhibit 473, should be inserted after page 93 of the English, and after page 65 of the German Documents Book.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Should that be given a page number, such as 93a?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honors could paginate it 93a in the English and 65a in the German. If your Honor please, I ask now that the marshal be directed to call the witness Takis Spiliopoulos.

TAKIS SPILIOPOULOS, a witness, took the stand and testified as follows :

BY PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: The witness will arise and be sworn. I swear to speak the truth, and only the truth, in reply to whatever I am asked, without fear and without prejudice.

(The witness repeated the oath)

10-2-19 August 1947-A-AEH-STEWART (Lea)

Q. How did most of the inhabitants of the Kalavrita area make their living in December, 1943?

A About 90 per cent of them were farmers, dealing with agricultural work, and breeding cattle.

Q Witness do you recall the month of December, 1943?

A Yes.

A Will you tell the Tribunal what the weather was in the month of December, 1943?

A The weather was rather rainy, and from time to time it was snowing.

Q. Do you recall the 8th of December, 1943?

A Yes, I do.

Q Will you tell the Tribunal what happened on that day, and the succeeding days, in your own words?

A Yes, I will. On the 8th of December, 1943, at 7 o'clock in the morning, German motorized vehicles, armored cars, came in from the direction of Tripolis. This German column blocked all of the roads and exits from Kalavrita and sent patrols into the town telling the population that all male persons ranging from 10 years until the highest age, should gather at the square in front of the Cathedral. The male population gathered in front of the cathedral and we were kept there for about an hour. The German officer, who was able to speak Greek very well, asked us where all of the other men were.

We answered him that there were not any other men. He asked us how many men are you; how big is the population. We answered him about 4,500, whereupon he told us it was not possible that these were all of the men living in Kalavrita. Then he told us to go back to our homes, to stay home, and warned us that whoever would leave his home would be shot by the patrols without being spoken to. We went back to our homes.

In the afternoon he called me and other members of the community, and asked us to furnish foodstuff, meat, bread and oil, for the German troops. We took care of supplying him with the food and stuff he had asked us for. Two German officers that I had kept in my house, offering them hospitality, thanked me in the night and told me that they were very grateful for the hospitality offered to them, and they would leave next morning altogether.

The next morning about 7 o'clock, the whole German column left in the direction to Patras. After half an hour, another detachment came in, coming from the region. Before they entered Kalavrita they insulted the whole town, and the roads were closed by a double, approximately, detachment than that which had come in before, then they began to loot the stores. They had brought in about 150 trucks that they began to load, and these trucks left then for Patras. These new detachments stayed in Kalavrita for the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th of December, and we were always kept in our homes, not emitted to leave our homes. On the 12th of December, at 1150 hours in the morning they had gathered about 30 thousand head of cattle of all kinds that they had brought in from the surrounding villages. These trucks loaded with the Cattle left some in the direction of Patras, some for Korinthes and some for the region.

A. On the 13th of December , at 6:30 in the morning, German soldiers told the population, accompanied by Greeks who knew the German language, that they go altogether in front of the cathedral. Then.....

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If Your Honors please, I wonder if we could perhaps sit later today in order that the witness' story might not be interrupted should he not finish by 12:15?

THE PRESIDENT: Could you complete it by 12:30?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I believe he will, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there any reason why it couldn't be completed after the lunch period?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Well, we're coming now to a particular incident, and it would hurt the continuity if it were interrupted.

THE PRESIDENT: One of the members of the Tribunal has an appointment at 12:15 which would be difficult to change. And in view of the circumstances, we will adjourn at 12:15. You may proceed.

WITNESS SPILIOPOULOS: ---we were told to bring with us enough food for two days and blankets for two days. But they did not bring us in front of the cathedral, but to the public school building. There they separated us -- I mean the men from the women. The men had to stay in the courtyard, which was surrounded by a high wall, and the women and the small children up to ten years of age were locked in the school building. When all the population had gathered there they took the first section of men and brought it to the place of execution -- about 600 men. After half an hour arrived the second section, consisting of about the same number as the first section or more. After we had stayed there for about a quarter of an hour a German officer asked, " Who has knowledge of the English language?" One of the professors of the college answered, "I can speak English." And he told this professor, "Tell the population that we have got orders from our Supreme Commander to burn the town, but all of you will be allowed to go away."

When we stayed there until a quarter to 12:00, suddenly we could perceive a rocket of blue color coming down in front of the townhall. And at the same time, machine guns and the heavy machine guns -- about ten -- started shooting from in front and from both sides. This shooting was going on for about 10 to 12 minutes. Then, it was interrupted for about 5 minutes. Then two German soldiers walked around and gave the people the finishing stroke with automatic weapons. I was one of the first who was wounded. I was first wounded on my leg and then on my head. Then the shooting went on and two soldiers were walking around and finishing the men. This went on until 4 o'clock. I want to go back to a certain point and to tell as soon as the machine guns and heavy machine guns had started some groups of the Greeks jumped toward the machine guns in order to stop them, but on their way they were executed, and so they did not succeed. They jumped there screaming, "You're murderers --and our allies forever." Then, while the soldiers were walking around finishing the massacred persons with coup de grace, they cut off their fingers and looted them, taking away their watches and everything precious they had with them. They turned them around, looting the massacred, and this they did under terrible laughs. After they thought everybody was dead the place was silent. Then they left and after a quarter of an hour the first persons from the town came in. One of the old men who had been hiding among the women, two women and my sister. They took me because I was wounded and they wanted to take me back, but I just fainted because of the loss of blood. After all the women arrived at that place -- I cannot tell you what happened because my tongue is too poor, and it's beyond my capacity of describing. This scene could only be described by one of the great tragedians. Then the night came, and it was very cold. It was freezing. They took me into a house. The German troops who had left were going to the Monastery of Aghia Lavra. They took me into one house that was not entirely burned down.

The population was obliged to stay outside, and they were warming up between the ruins that were still smoking. They had burned down the whole of Kalavrita, the cathedral and another church. The two churches that they had burned were big churches with great treasures inside, and the small churches were not burned. Presumably they had burned the 2 bigger churches to finish the looting which they hadn't done before. Then, the women and I, with some of the old men, began to bury the corpses, but it was very difficult because we didn't have any instruments. Everything had been burned down, and it was very difficult to make the evacuations for burying the people. So this burying went on for seven days.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will be in recess until 1:30 this afternoon.

(The Tribunal adjourned at 12:15.)

AFTERNOON SESSION

THE MARSHAL Military Tribunal No. 5 is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed.

BY MR. FENSTERMACHER: (DIRECT EXAMINATION CONTINUED)

Q. Witness, will you please continue with the narration of your testimony?

A. Yes. On the 17th of December 1943, after the massacre of Kalavrita a Major of the British Command, by the name of Anthony came in and brought us undershirts and money.

INTERPRETER ANAGNOSTOPOULOS: The witness wants to show you the undershirts that they got. (Witness opens his dress shirt and shows the undershirt.)

A. (Continued) On the 18th of December the President of the International Red Cross came from Athens and brought us medicine and flour. And on the 22nd of December we received about 2,000 blankets from Greek industrialists from Athens, who were from Kalavrita. But the German Commander did not allow us to get the flour which was stationed at Diakophto, about 22 kilometers from Kalavrita. And so we had to walk there in order to get some flour; this was difficult because many of us hadn't any shoes. On the 28th of December three American planes came down in the vicinity of Aghia Lavra. They had come from Pyraeus. I had been told to meet them at the spot where the planes had come down, and I went there and brought them medicines and food. Two had survived; the others had died. Then, I informed the British Commanders, and they came after we had given the first-aid assistance to the two wounded, and they came and picked them up. And the others that were killed were buried in Aghia Lavra. Two months later German troops came again. But nobody remained in the town. All of us were afraid and we left in a great hurry, going to the snowy mountains of Chelmos, about 2.500 meters of altitude. A German Colonel, who was the Commander of the detachment, informed me that I had to come down immediately. But the Creek population didn't want me to go down, and so I left secretly by left the mountains secretly.

Then, the German Commander asked me, "Why did you leave the town, you as a mayor, and take with you the population into the mountains?" I answered him that, "You have committed such a terrible massacre that everybody is afraid, and not even the savages of the jungle would have done that. If you wanted to exterminate the friends of the Allies, as I was and a few others of the town, you should have spared all the innocents who did not demonstrate their friendly feelings for the Allies. He got mad with my answer, but then he told me that he wasn't responsible, but only the command of Aegion was to be hold responsible for these deeds. But they took away all the blankets that we had got from Athens and all the foodstuffs that the Red Cross had sent us, consisting of flour and peas. I objected to this, but in spite of my objections they didn't leave anything behind them. Then they left for Patras, and another detachment came again in June, 1944, and this was the last one.

INTERPRETER ANAGNOSTOPOULOS: Now, the witness asks the Court if the Court wants him to testify about another village that he saw burning after the massacre of Kalavrita occurred--that he saw himself burning?

THE PRESIDENT: That will be a matter for the Prosecution to decide. If you will direct your inquiry to the Prosecution....

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Now, witness, I would like to ask you a few additional Questions. You said earlier that on the 8th or 9th of December German troops camps and stayed for four days in the village of Kalavrita. Is that correct?

A. There is a small difference. The first detachment came in on the 8th and left on the morning of the 9th, and the other detachment that came in on the 9th stayed for four days. The detachment having come from Tripolis left again on the next morning. And the other detachment, having come from Aegion, stayed for four days.

Q Did the detachment which stayed in Kalavrita for four days harm you or any of the other inhabitants of Kalavrita?

A No, they didn't do any harm to me, neither to me nor the other inhabitants. The only thing, they looted all the stores and shops, emptied them completely and took away about 30,000 different pieces of cattle, oxen, goats and sheep etc.

Q Did you and the other members of the Kalavrita population feed these troops, and did you give them clothing during that four days' stay?

A Yes, we gave them food and clothing and many of them who were sick, had their frozen limbs, we took care of them in a special way.

Q Why did you do that for them? Weren't those men your enemies?

A The history of Greece, all our traditions and the policy of the Greek army where I was a master sergeant, has taught us to treat anybody with hospitality and even the enemy as they came in and were not fighting- we had to treat them according to our traditions in a very friendly way.

Q Did you know to what unit these men belonged, the men that stayed in your village for four days?

A I don't know exactly; it may be that they belonged to the SS but I don't know it. The only thing I know-- that they were members of the German army.

Q How did you know that? What color uniform did they wear?

A I know of this because I have been for five years a soldier, so I know about the uniforms and besides that they were the single soldiers being left in Greece because the Italians had left already.

Q What color were their uniforms?

A Green, some were green and with the usual German cap.

Q Witness, did you yourself entertain German members of this detachment in your own house during that four-day period in which they remained in Kalavrita?

A Two officers I kept in my house.

Q Did you feed them?

A I fed them in the best way I could, as I would have fed every stranger. They were very much satisfied and when they left I gave them fruits, apples, and a bottle of old wine, which was famous, the old famous wine of Kalavrita. They thanked me for this very great hospitality and told me that they would leave in the next morning.

Q On the next morning, witness, what time was it when you and the rest of the population of Kalavrita were gathered together?

A They started to gather us about 6:30 and this action was completed about 8:30. Everybody then had gathered - about four thousand people.

Q Did you live with anyone else in Kalavrita at this time?

A I was living with my mother and my sister together in the same house.

Q Did both your mother and sister join you in marching away with the rest of the people of Kalavrita?

A My sister followed me but my mother, as she was sick, suffering of rheumatism, could not leave her bed so she remained in the house in her bed.

Q How many people were gathered together in the group that marched away to the school building?

A All the inhabitants, approximately 4,000 people,

Q How many men were there in the gathering?

A Approximately 1,500.

Q Were all of the men taken away from the school building to a place where the shooting occurred?

A All men were taken away with the exception of a few very old men who succeeded to hide among the women and joined them in the rooms of the school building.

Q What did you and the others do at the place where the shooting occurred before the shooting began?

A We were just sitting there and standing and could not escape because this point had been chosen very carefully. It was a very steep mountain going down abruptly to a precipice and about three days before the German soldiers had walked around in order to find out this very strategic point.

Q Could you see the town of Kalavrita from the place where the shooting occurred?

A Very well. I could see the town very well.

Q Did you at any time see the town in flames?

A We just saw the town like an amphitheater and we saw the flames arising from all points.

Q Were you able to see your mother from the place where you were standing?

A Yes, I could see my mother very well. One of the neighbor women had taken her out with the bed and she was in the garden, and so I could see her very well.

Q How far away was this? How far away were you from the town?

A From the last house of the town we were about 7 to 8 minutes away.

Q How many guns did you see at the place where the shooting occurred?

A At the beginning I could see only one machine gun that was directed with its mouth towards us but then they turned it away as if no parole would be for us but at the time the shooting began it must have been about eight or ten machine guns.

The witness wants to point out an event that took place there when they were standing and waiting. I was sitting together with the manager of the National Bank of the Bank of Athens and the manager of the Public Treasury and at one time the Germans came and took them, all three of them to the town of Kalavrita. After half an hour they brought them back and then I asked the director of the National Bank for what purpose they had taken them to the town. He answered me that they had to open the banks and the treasurers and deliver all money and besides that plenty of quinine that the Red Cross had sent to the inhabitants of the whole district of Kalavrita and that they had been keeping in a safe.

Q. How many German soldiers did you see at the place where the shooting occurred?

A. About 1,500.

Q. You stated that you saw a rocket explode over the town of Kalavrita. Do you remember what color that rocket was?

A. It was light blue.

Q. That did you do when you saw the rocket explode—the first thing that you did?

A. The first thing I did was to fling myself on the ground because I was afraid that something terrible would happen and I covered myself immediately with my coat.

Q. Did the shooting begin then?

A. Yes, the shooting began immediately from the front and from the sides.

Q. Did you remain lying down until the shooting stopped?

A. Yes, I was lying down constantly until four O'clock without moving but I kept my senses aware and more aware than I can say I am now.

Q. How many wounds did you receive during the shootings?

A. Two wounds: one on my leg and one on my head.

Q. Were you bleeding from those wounds?

A. Yes, I was bleeding very much indeed.

Q. Do you remember how long it was after the shooting stopped before the women came to you?

A. About ten minutes.

Q. Did you at any time walk around and look at the rest of the bodies lying around at the place where the shooting occurred?

A. Yes, I walked around and two women were holding me because I was too weak to walk by myself and then I saw the corpses and I saw four priests whose faces had been mutilated.

Nobody could recognize them and an axe was lying close by.

Q. Witness, how many male persons were killed that day in Kalavrita?

A. 1,300 men from Kalavrita and about 140 foreigners, Greeks, merchants that had come to Kalavrita for buying supplies.

Q. Are there any survivors besides yourself of the male population of kalavrita?

A. Another 15 survived but two of them died because of their wounds; some 13 are still living.

Q. What was the age of the oldest inhabitant of Kalavrita who was killed that day?

A. The oldest man who was killed was the owner of the dispensary by the name of Estavios Makrijannis who was about 95 years old.

Q. How old was the youngest person who was killed that day?

A. Between 11 and 12 years of age.

Q. Did any family lose more than one person?

A. Many of them lost many. For Instance, a woman by the name of Athinae Nikolai lost seven of her children ranging from 16 to 40 years of age, and besides that her husband; and another woman by the name of Vassiliki Ferliki lost eight children ranging from the age of 10 to 45, and her husband 90 years of age.

Q. How many of your relatives were killed, witness?

A. About 40, among them uncles and first cousins.

Q. And all the persons who were killed that day in Kalavrita were buried in the same place in Kalavrita?

A. No, not all of them could be buried in the cemetery because it didn't take them all, so we buried the greatest part of them at the cemetery and about 300 were buried at the place of the execution.

Q. How long did it take you to bury all the persons who were killed?

A. It took us seven days and even longer because we had to dig the graves with our fingers. We didn't have any instruments and then we had to watch the dogs who came and who dug out again the corpses and we had to bury them again so it took us even longer than seven days to bury again those who had been dug out by the dogs.

Q. How are the widows of these men who were killed dressed today?

A. They are dressed in black and they will always be dressed in black and many of them, the oldest, are spending all their days at the cemetery at the graves.

Q. Witness, you stated that a monastery near Kalavrita was also burned?

A. Yes, there were even two monasteries that were burned. Aghia Lavra and there five monks were killed; and Megeaspilion where eighteen monks were pushed down from a high rock into a deep precipice.

Q Did you see either of these monasteries while they were burning?

A. Yes, I did. The monastery of Aghia Lavra-- I saw it burning myself because it is on a top that we can see like an amphitheater from Kalavrita and Legeaspilion I didn't see while it was burning but I could see the flames and after a few days I went there and saw that it was burned completely.

Q. Do you know what happened to the school house where the women and children were held after they had been separated from the men?

A. While the women were locked there in the school building, the German soldiers put gasoline at the corners and began to light the gasoline. Then when the flames began to rise, the women, some of them, jumped out of the windows and throw their babies down and other succeeded to force the doors, so they came out with burning wounds and they chased the few guards that had remained there away. Those guards escaped because there were very few.

Q. Were there any German soldiers around after the shooting stopped and after the women had come to you?

A. No, there were no German soldiers left, The last one had just gone.

Q. On the same day when the shooting occurred, did you spend that night in the town of Kalavrita?

A. I remained in a house that was not entirely burned down, as I was wounded. They had brought me there, the women and the other population stayed outside between the ruins and it began to snow; it was very cold; so they were freezing outside and stayed there among the smoking ruins.

Q. How many days after the shooting occurred was it before help was brought to you?

A. Four days. First of all came a Major from the British Commandos then a representative of the Red Cross.

Q. Did any German investigators or Germans asking questions ever come to the village of Kalavrita and ask you what had happened?

A. No German came. The only persons who came was the representative of the Red Cross, the International Red Cross.

Q. Didn't some German soldiers come a few days after the shootings occurred? I believe you said a month or a month and a half after the shootings occurred?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. Did they ever inquire about the events that occurred on the 13th of December 1943?

A. No, they did not, because they would have examined me and asked questions of me, who was the mayor, and they did not. They avoided very carefully to mention the whole matter.

Q. When were you elected mayor of Kalavrita?

A. Before the massacre I was the councilor of the community and after the massacre had occurred on the 19th of December I was elected Mayor, after an appointment of the ministry of Interior in Athens.

Q. Did you ever have occasion to make a tour of the area surrounding the town of Kalavrita after the events of the 13th of December?

A. After one month approximately, I visited the two most close villages, Kerreni and Rogoi, and I found that both these villages had been burned just the same and 115 persons had been slaughtered at Rogoi and 30 at Kerpeni.

Q. Did you ever see any other villages burning besides the village of Kalavrita?

A. Yes, another 12 villages and two monasteries.

Q. How many villages did you yourself actually see while they were burning?

A. Personally I saw burning the two monasteries and the villages of Visoka, Kerpeni and Rogoi, and the two monasteries.

Q. Did you ever write out pensions for the widows for the men who were killed in Kalavrita?

A. Yes, I did, and especially for Kalavrita I wrote out 545 pensions. For the village of Rogoi 115; and for Kerpeni 32.

A. Did you write out a pension for each person killed in Kalavrita or for each family killed in Kalavrita?

A. No, I only wrote out one pension, which means for the head of the family, and the other members get some more; the widow gets some more for every child that has been killed, a certain analogy.

Q. At the time when the shooting took place on the 13 December 1943 did you hear that this shooting or burning of Kalavrita was in retaliation for the death of German soldiers?

A. NO.

Q. Were any Greek partisans ever stationed in Kalavrita?

A. No, they were not stationed.

Q. Were German troops stationed in Kalavrita?

A. No, Italian troops were stationed; the German troops were just transient troops.

Q. Then did the Italian troops leave Kalavrita?

A. Just after the capitulation; I think about the middle of September. I just was there at the time of the Italian capitulation; they were supposed to join the British Commandos, but before they could give their agreement the German troops came in and disarmed them and took them away as prisoners of war.

Q. Did you ever hear that Greek Partisan units were operating in the vicinity of Kalavrita prior to 13 December 1943?

A. There were some in that vicinity. I want to correct myself, no Guerillas, but members of the regular Greek Army serving under the British Commandos.

Q. About how far away from Kalavrita were those units operating?

A. About 30 or 28 Kilometers away.

Q. Did you ever hear about a battle fought between these Greek units under the British Commands and German troops?

A. Yes, I heard about such a battle.

Q. When did you hear that the battle took place?

A. In September: I don't remember the exact date.

Q. Did you hear that German prisoners were captured in that battle?

A. Yes, I even saw them. They passed through Kalavrita. There were 78. They stayed one night in Kalavrita. We fed them and took care of them.

Q. When was that?

A. Now, it was in September; I can't remember the exact date because after all there were many events and I can't remember the date exactly.

Q. Do you believe it was September when the German prisoners passed through Kalavrita?

A. Yes, I believe so.

Q. Could it have been later or earlier or aren't you sure?

A. It may be a little earlier or it may be a little later because I didn't keep exactly these dates.

Q. But you remember seeing the prisoners and feeding them?

A. Yes, that I remember very well. They stayed there one night.

Q. How do you know there were 78 of them?

A. Yes, I was told by the Greeks that they had captured 78 German soldiers.

Q. Who told you that?

A. Major Sfakianos, a major of the regular Greek Army.

Q. Do you remember when he told you that?

A. Just the same day when they were brought in after the battle into Kalavrita.

Q.- Did the major tell you anything else beside the number of prisoners they had captured?

A.- Yes, he told me a few days later that he had received a letter from the German colonel of Capras, that he should return the prisoners. He answered, the German colonel of Capras, that they were regular Greek Army under the command of General Milson, the Commander of the middle East, and he answered, in addition to that he answered the German colonel that he would treat the prisoners according to the laws and rights of the prisoners of war.

Q.- Was the major of whom you spoke a resident of Kalavrita?

A.- No, he was from Crete. He was the permanent officer of the Greek Army.

Q.- Were you, witness, in December 1943 a member of any Greek partisan organization?

A.- I was a Liaison man between the Greeks and the British commander between all the Greek patriots and the British Commanders.

Q.- Did you have a gun?

A.- No, I did not.

Q.- Did you have ammunition in your house?

A.- No, I did not have ammunition.

Q.- Do you remember whether there were any explosions during the burning of Kalavrita?

A.- No, no explosions took place.

MR FENSTERMACHER: I have no further questions, your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION BY DR. LATERNSEER: Q.- Witness, you just said that this battle in September 1943 at Kalavrita, 78 prisoners were made?

A.- Yes.

Q.- How long have you been in Nurnberg now?

A.- 9 days.

Q.- Who did you talk to in Nurnberg about your statement of today?

A.- With the delegation with whom together I came, the Greek representatives and with the Prosecutors.

Q.- The Prosecution? Who to?

A.- With the Prosecutor who just now investigated me.

Q.- Did you also talk to him about the 78 prisoners that have been made in kalavrita?

A.- Yes.

Q.- And on this occasion did you hear for the first time that at Kalavrita 78 prisoners were made?

A.- I know that from personal knowledge before.

Q.- Who mentioned the figure 78 at this discussion, you or the Prosecutor. Just a moment, witness, before you answer. You must know that I can check up on your statement.

A.- That I do not remember exactly who first mentioned this number.

Q.- You cannot maintain that you mentioned the figure first?

A.- I know very well the prisoners because we were there when they came through kalavrita when they were fed and they were taken even care of by the doctors and of the people that gave them medicines.

Q.- Before you came to Nurnberg did you make any notes about your prospective statements?

A.- No, not at all. Just the same description gave four or five days after the massacre occurred to the American and English correspondents who came and asked me about it.

Q.- Did you tell them something about this 78 prisoners?

A.- most certainly, I did.

Q.- Has that been written down or noted?

A.- Yes.

Q.- How do you know? Did you read the records or did you sign it?

A.- I got the papers back from London and New York and I regret very much that I didn't bring them along.

Q.- Have you really no copies with you?

A.- I would like to tell the defense counsel that I have lived in this death moments for hours. I am a survivor from a terrible tragedy. I did not come here to do any harm to anybody but only to tell the truth and let the truth shine brightly.

Q.- And in order to state that, to make it absolutely certain, I am asking you, witness for the truth. witness, I am asking you where can I find a copy of the records of the statements made by you sometime ago?

A.- The President of the Swedish Red Cross is in possession of a copy of my first statement by the name of Aleas Stretch.

Q.- When was this statement made by you?

A.- Five days after the massacre occurred, that is to say. on the 18th of December 1943.

Q.- Do you want to swear your mention of this statement is the figure 78?

A.- Yes.

Q.- Is there a copy of your statement at the time in the rooms of the Greek Delegation here?

A.- That I am not in a position to know.

Q.- Furthermore you stated, witness, that units who took part in this battle, the collaborators with the Germans, came under the commanding officer Middle East. How is it that you know this?

A.- I want to correct something. Not the battle of Kalavrita but the battle of Kerpeni, in the woods of Kerpeni, not Kalavrita. It was not the battle of Kalavrita.

A.- Yes, that is correct. There were units of the regular Greek Army under the Command of General Wilson of the Middle East and they were being supplied by the British with weapons, uniforms and ammunition, that were dropped by parachutists.

Q.- Since you are in Nurnberg, have you spoken of this to the prosecutors?

A.- No, I did not especially mention that part.

Q.- You want to tell me, witness, that you were not told that the units came under the command of the Middle East Commanding officer?

A.- I want to let you know, Mr. Defense Counsel, that I don't want you to doubt my credibility. I have escaped from death and I am responsible, not only towards God; I am testifying as a Greek who knows what he owes to his Greek origin and tradition.

Q.- And, therefore, I am asking you, witness -- you haven't answered my question -- do you really want to tell me that you were not told since you arrived in Nurnberg that these units came under the command of the Middle East Commanding Officer of the Middle East, yes or no?

A.- No, no, no.

Q.- And no documents have been shown to you, witness?

A.- No, but I want to tell you again that I myself was a liaison man between the Greeks and the British commanders and knew that broadcasting took place and messages were sent regularly to the Middle East. I know it from my personal activities.

Q.- I asked you, witness, and you have evaded my question, whether you were told, whether you were shewn document here in Nurnberg, about the Kalavrita case or not.

A.- No.

Q.- Witness, you said after the Germans had evacuated the area the funerals of the dead took place?

A.- Yes.

Q.- Who buried the dead?

A.- The women and the small children and some of the old men who had remained.

Q.- Did you also help?

A.- I was a wounded man and could not do it at that time.

Q.- How many women did there remain in the village?

A.- All the women had remained.

Q.- How many were there approximately?

A.- Between 1,300 and 1,500. We have also small children to count.

Q.- And you said just then that you wore digging the graves with your hands. Is that true?

A.- Yes, that is correct, because we had to do it with the hands as we didn't have any instruments to do it with and, besides that, we took out of the burned houses some iron bars and whatever could help us in doing this job.

Q.- You said just then "We did that." Did you help, therefore?

A.- That is the manner of saying. Naturally, I could not help as I was a wounded man.

Q.- How long did it take those women to dig these graves?

A.- Seven days and a half and some more' because, in the meantime dogs were there and dug them out so we had to bury them again, I want to correct myself -- foxes and dogs went there.

Q.- Witness, hots many school children were there approximately in Kalavrita, that is, children who went to school?

A.- 345, because I am a member of the school committee, I know it.

Q.- How many school rooms did the school contain approximately?

A.- You mean now?

Q.- Yes, -- no, at that time, of course.

A.- Six classrooms, Q.- That is sort of a medium sized building, isn't it?

What does it look like approximately?

A.- About six times this room here, as long as six times this room.

Q.- And then, of course, there was a courtyard, I assume? How big was that?

A.- Very big courtyard with flowers and much bigger than the school -- with trees and flowers and much bigger than the school itself.

Q.- What was the size of the courtyard, about three or four times the size of this room?

A.- To give you an idea, it is about two times as big as the square in front of the Grand Hotel in Nurnberg.

Q.- That is, the courtyard is about twice the size of the open space in front of the Grand Hotel?

A.- This is a courtyard and at the same time a garden which surrounds the school building and is as big as I told you.

Q.- Do you happen to have photographs or pictures of this village?

A.- Yes, I had them but, unfortunately, I didn't bring them along, together with the trousers with it that I wanted to bring along, which I wore at the time I was executed and which sowed the bullets. I had taken many pictures but I didn't bring them along.

Q.- You said, witness, there were six rooms in this school house?

A.- Yes, that is correct.

Q.- How many women and children were there in Kalavrita in December 1943?

A.- About 2,600. I cannot give you exact figures.

Q.- Now, you said, witness, that all women and children were locked into the school house. Do you want to tell me that 2,600 women and children were housed, were put into these six rooms?

A.- There were. I really told you this and I mean it because if you have an idea how the sardines are put together in a tin you would get an idea how these people were crowded and jammed together.

THE PRESIDENT: We will take our afternoon recess now.

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal will recess until 1520 hours.

(A recess was taken.)

Q. Witness, how large is a classroom in the school of Kalavrita?

A. It is narrower than this room by about 2 meters and longer than this room about 3 meters.

Q. Is the usual schoolroom in that schoolhouse larger or smaller than this room?

A. I consider it bigger than this room, - larger.

Q. Much larger than this room?

A. About three meters longer than this room.

Q. I have already asked you how many school children were regularly in attendance at Kalavrita?

A. 350 as I said before.

Q. And how many classrooms did the school usually have?

A. Five.

INTERPRETER LEA: That is not classrooms; it is classes.

BY DR. LATERNSEER, (continuing)

Q. You then said before that, in this schoolhouse on that day, I believe it was the 9th of December, -- no on the 13th of December, 2,600 women and children were locked in ?

A. Yes, that's correct.

Q. How many persons had to be in each room - approximately?

A. About 400 persons. It is very simple to figure it out people were standing also in the corridors.

Q. And you mean to say that in every one of these rooms, that 400 persons fit into those school rooms?

A. Yes, I repeat it, and I insist upon that, and I saw it personally.

Q. I have already asked you before, do you have any pictures with you of Kalavrita, -- here in Nurnberg?

A. As I told you already before, I had pictures, but I left them in Athens. I do not have them here. I will have them sent to the Tribunal as soon as I arrive back in Athens.

Q. Then will you also include pictures of the school? Will you please?

A. Most certainly.

Q. Witness, you said that the Germans took -- collected a lot of cattle and drove them away.

A. Yes, I did, especially this cattle had been collected from the various villages around Kalavrita, and had been gathered in the fields and plains of Kalavrita, and were then driven away. There were a great number of cattle.

Q. How were they carried off, on trucks, or were they just driven away, as it was?

A. They drove away the big cattle, and the chickens and the ducks and the geese they loaded them on, - they sent them by railway and cars, and sent them away after they had loaded them on freight cars.

Q. But most of she castle, they loaded most of them on trucks; is that correct?

A. I did not speak about trucks; on the trucks wore loaded the stems that had been looted from the stores; the other items, the geese and the ducks and the chickens had been loaded on freight cars and were sent away, and the cattle were driven away on the highways loading to Patras, Corinthos and Aegion.

Q. Witness, but you just said that all of the cattle were driven together near Kalavrita; is that right?

A. Yes, that's correct.

Q. And where were they gathered together? There was this place to which the cattle were driven?

A. It was just a plain that begins after the town of Kalavrita, in the fields and vineyards and so on, just in the plain that begun after the last part of the town.

Q. And how large is this place where the cattle were collected?

A. The plain of Kalavrita, to give you a picture, is about 25,000 square meters. Now exactly how big the place was where the cattle were gathered together, I couldn't tell you, but it was a big place, because the plain has very big extensions. It could be that they were gathered without any disturbance, because the plain was Dig enough.

Q. How do you know there were 30,000 head of cattle?

A. That is very easy to find out because the various cultivators and farmers that had to bring the cattle in, knew about how many head every man had brought in, and so it was very easy to be sure about the figures.

Q. Who determined that figure?

A. We did not give you just an exact figure. I mean that largely I estimated the figure personally, because 14 villages had to contribute, and every person told me that they had so many head of cattle.

G. But how do you get the figure 30,000?

A. Because this is the approximate figure, that I know exactly well from the farmers who had brought in the cattle. It is an approximate figure that I give you. It could be even more than that.

Q. Witness, you said that during the shootings at Kalavrita, 40 of your relatives were killed. Is that correct?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. Please enumerate these 40 relatives for me?

A. Yes, I will.

Q. Always give the name and the degree of relationship.

a. Hagolnis, and the first name, Spyridon, mother.

Q. You just have to give one name, and the degree of relationship. Just one name is sufficient.

A. Karakassis, a first cousin of mine;

Kamberos, a first cousin of mine, a lawyer;

Gatsos, a first cousin of mine.

Q. This is No. 4, what about five?

A. Yes, I am very willing to continue. Refer, a second cousin of mine. His brother, Alekos Fefes, also a second cousin of mine.

Pagonis, a first cousin of mine, and his brother, Alekos, Pagonis, also a first cousin of mine.

Q. How many have we got now? It is 6 isn't it. No. 7 please.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I believe we are now through No. 8, Your Honor.

BY Dr. LATERNSEER:

Q. No. 8 please. Please list the 8th relative.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I think he has already given 8. The next number is 9 your Honors.

BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q. We will calculate it afterwards. No. 9 for all I care. Give me No. 9.

A. Dimitrios Beskos a 2nd cousin of mine.

Q. No. 10?

A. His father, Christos Beskos, my uncle.

Q. No. 11?

A. Philipos Philippakopoulos, and his two sons by the names of Joanis and Andreas.

Q. What degree of relationship?

A. Second cousins, and their father, my uncle.

Q. Next.

A. Alkibiades Konstantopoulos, and Athmasius Kappis, first cousin.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: Dr. Laternser, may I inquire whether these questions are for the purpose of testing the credibility of the witness?

DR. LATERNSEER: Yes, your Honor, but the critical point is to come as yet. I don't know, but I would like to find out.

Q. We have 14 now; how about 15?

A. You must know that I can even reach the number of hundreds, because I have many persons for whom I have been best man, or have been baptizing their children, and in Greece this means relationship. These are holy relations, and these persons are connected with us through relationship.

Q. By relationship -- don't you mean blood relationship?

A. You must know the Greek custom, that if my father has baptized a child, I am considered as his brother, but I can tell you many blood relatives as well.

Q. To which number had we gotten?

A. I do not remember because I did not count them.

Q. Witness, you testified that 40 of your relatives were killed. If you use the word, "relations" or "relatives" you meant of course that these are blood relatives. Do you wish to change your testimony so far as that point is concerned?

A. I shall continue so far I told you about relatives by blood. I can go on. telling you about them, but I can go as high as 80, - but I also considered, as I told you before, the persons that have relationship by marriage or by baptism in just the same manner.

Q. Witness, I ask you now, when you mentioned the number, "forty" of those who had been killed of your family, were all of those blood relatives or relatives as far as your interpretation goes?

A. I did not mean only relatives from blood, but also the others that we, in Greece, consider as relatives.

Q. Witness, in your testimony, have you any other reservations or any other interpretations?

A. No.

DR LATERNSEER: I have no further questions, your Honors.

Page 2,308

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW: Dr. Mueller-Torgow for the Defendant Felmy. CROSS-EXAMINATION BY DR. MUELLER-TORGOW:

Q Witness, you're a businessman by profession?

A Yes, that's correct.

Q What kind of business do you have?

A I have a grocery, and hides, and a factory for candles and wax lights.

Q May I please have this answer repeated?

(English-German Court Interpreter repeats answer.)

Have you travelled much in your business?

A Yes, within Greece I should say, and as far as Smyrna and Asia Minor.

Q Do you know the Peloponnese well?

A Yes, I do.

Q Witness, do you speak English?

A No, I don't speak English.

Q Witness, you said that the District of Kalavrita has 62,000 inhabitants.

A The whole province of Kalavrita, with the town of Kalavrita. That is correct.

Q And the district outside the town of Kalavrita consists of 55 villages and other small villages. Is that correct?

A That's correct.

Q And the two largest towns each had 350 inhabitants. Is that correct?

A The smallest villages, because the largest had about 3,000 inhabitants. I said the smallest, and the largest 3,000 -- Daphni and Kiporia. I mentioned the two largest villages.

Q Witness, how many houses did the town of Kalavrita have in November, 1943 -- approximately?

A Approximately 600 to 680 houses -- approximately.

Q From 500 to 580?

A No, from 600 to 680. Besides the shops and besides the public stadia, the Tribunal and schoolhouses, etc.

Q And in these 600 to 680 houses there lived about 4200 people. Is that right?

A That's correct -- from 3800 to 4000 -- that's correct.

Q And after the destruction of Kalavrita you said about 2800 inhabitants were left.

A That's not correct. I said that now we had a population of about 2800. After the destruction of Kalavritza about 650 to 800 had remained in the 22 houses that had not been completely burned down but were still there as ruins. And this population from about 650 to 800 stayed there only a few days after the destruction; then the Government took care to send them to Patras, Aegion, to Athens, and the Pyraeus in order to be settled in other villages and smaller villages of the province of Kalavrita where they were placed.

Q Witness, where are the 2800 inhabitants living who are there now?

AAfter the liberation, the Greek Government, with the help of the Allies, built 200 new houses at Kalavrita. And we repaired many of the houses that had not been completely burned down and that could be repaired.

Q Witness, I'd like to go back to a prior point. You said that there were 30,000 pieces of cattle.

A Yes, and I estimate that there were even more. I mean goats, sheep, horses, oxen, and I'm insisting on that.

Q Could you tell me, approximately, of what those 30,000 pieces of cattle were composed?

AAbout 15,000 sheep and about 5,000 horses and oxen together.

Q And how was this cattle transported away?

A They drove them away through the highways to Patras and Aegion and Corinthos. And they loaded besides, two wagons with chickens and ducks and geese that they had already slaughtered.

Q Witness, but you said before that most of the cattle was taken away by trucks and a small part by railway. What was transported by trucks and what was transported by railway?

A I told you that by trucks they transported items that they had looted from the stores. That is to say, the jewelry, clothing, shoes, cereals, fruits, apples -- and by railway they transported that is by two wagons which they loaded chickens, ducks, and geese.

Q But you said something else, Witness. You did not speak of 5 but 150 trucks which were filled with plundered things, but that was previously. You said then once more that the greater part of the cattle was likewise transported by trucks.

A I told you that on the 150 trucks the merchandise was loaded -and not the cattle. The cattle had been driven away mostly by the highways leading to Patras, Aegion, and Corinthos, and also by paths leading from Kalavrita to Aegion.

Witness, you said unequivocally that 150 trucks transported cattle away; besides you said that the largest part of the cattle was transported on trucks. Another question: Were the railroads running at that time?

A Yes, the railway was running. There had been a certain damage which had been repaired. And I can even tell you that they put on the engine a man who was not able to conduct the train because the regular railway officials had gone to the mountains in order to avoid doing service for the Germans. Two Germans had assumed the job to conduct the engine with one Greek who was not able and did not know anything about this job.

Q. How were the railroads run then?

A. This is the cog wheel railway which runs from Diakophta for eleven kilometers with one car and then with two cars.

Q. Witness, you said that for seven days or longer the bodies were buried by the survivors and that you had to dig the graves with your fingers.

A. That's correct.

Q. You said this morning, and I must come back to it once again, "We dug the graves." and you said then upon a protest by Dr. Latenser that it is customary in the Greek language to say "we". Will you please explain why it is customary in modern Greek to say "we" if you yourself did not participate?

A. That's very simply explained. That is just a Greek idiom. When we say "we", we understand that that means persons very close to us and as we were connected through this terrible tragedy we were just like one person.

Q. What did you do during that time?

A. After I had recovered from my wounds - it was about 25 days later - I began to take care of the few inhabitants that had remained. For instance, I went to Patras to ask the German commander to release the flour that the Red Cross had sent to us and that had been withheld from us by the Germans. And I even went there with the representative of the Swedish Red Cross, but the German commander still refused to release the foodstuff that had been sent by the Red Cross, saying--

Q. Witness, you said that approximately two months later, at the end of February 1944, when the Germans came for the second time, you all had fled into the snowed-in mountains, 2500 meters high. Which mountains do you mean, witness?

A. The mountains of Chelmos.

Q. How are they situated in relation to Kalavrita?

A. About two hours from Kalavrita.

Q. In what direction?

A. Southeast of Kalavrita.

Q. Witness, in spite of my eager scrutinizing, I don't find any trace of this in the map submitted by the prosecution, nor do I find that on any other map, nor can I find any mountains 2500 meters high two hours from Kalavrita in that direction.

A. The highest peak of this mountain is about 2500 meters. We naturally went to hide there in the woods of the mountains. I didn't say that we climbed up to the peak of the mountain.

Q. But you said that near Kalavrita there are mountains 2500 meters high.

A. The mountain range of Kalavrita really begins very close to Kalavrita, about 20 minutes after Kalavrita, and the mountains naturally rise gradually. So I can really say that it is near Kalavrita, as this mountain range begins very close to Kalavrita.

Q. Are there any mountains 2500 meters high in the Kalavrita area? Is that correct?

A. About two hours distant.

Q. Then the map is all wrong, witness.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I object to defense counsel's last remark, if Your Honors please.

THE PRESIDENT: I see no basis for that remark. There's no showing as to whether the maps, as presented, cover all the territory of which the witness has testified. And on the Court's own motion the statement of counsel will be stricken.

JUDGE BURKE: I'm wondering as a matter of natural history, Dr. Mueller-Torgow, if you have any serious doubts of the existence of such a mountain, regardless of the map.

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW: No, I don't have those doubts, but the witness said that "we fled to the snow-covered mountains, 2500 meters high".

JUDGE BURKE: But the question now seems to revolve around the fact of natural history, of whether there is such a mountain or not. It ought not to be ultimately such a mystery. Either there is or there isn't; it can be proven.

BY DR. MULLER-TORGOW:

Q. Witness, you said that you were informed to come back to Kalavrita.

A. Yes.

Q. Who informed you of that?

A. The German colonel from Patras let me know that I should return to Kalavrita.

Q. Witness, in June 1944 the German soldiers came for the third time to Kalavrita and again took along 30,000 pieces of cattle. How did that happen at this time?

A. I never told the Tribunal such a thing. First of all, nothing happened there because in Kalavrita there were only ruins and blackdressed widows.

Q. May I ask you to repeat that please?

(Answer repeated by the English-German interpreter)

Witness, you said then that two monasteries were burned and near one of them some monks had been thrown into a gorge from there.

A. That's correct. They had been pushed down from a rock into the depths -- down the precipice.

Q. Did you see that yourself?

A. No, but this had been told me by the Bishop of Afxentios, as well as by the Metropolitane of Kalavrita.

Q. Witness, let us return to the school for a moment -- I mean in front of the school. No doubt it was this way: Women and children were locked up there while the men gathered in front of the church. Is that correct?

A Yes, we first had been told to gather, everybody, men, women and children as well, in front of the cathedral but then the plans were changed and we had to gather in the school while the men were kept in the courtyard of the school and the women locked up in the school building.

Q How many floors did the school have?

A Two.

Q Two? Do you mean by that the first floor and the second floor or do you mean first, second, and third floor?

A I mean the ground floor and one floor above which was being used.

Q And how was the school built?

A With stone. It had been, it was built with stone.

Q And this school was lit up by gasoline? How was that done?

A They naturally poured the gasoline over the wooden doors and over other wooden items, and over the floor too - the floor and the ceiling were also of wood.

Q And how many women and children were in there? How many women and children were able to escape?

A Everybody was saved with the exception of an old woman who had been trampled upon and the others had wounds but nobody died except this woman.

Q Witness, you said before this action in Kalavrita, 78 German soldiers had been taken prisoner and were taken care of and were treated well in Kalavrita.

A Yes, and I can tell you that they had been placed in the same school building and that we had given them meat and everything, fed them very carefully and took care of them in the same school building that afterwards was burned.

Q Do you know witness, what became of those 78 prisoners?

A Yes, they were then transferred from Kalavrita to a village by the name of Planiterou, approximately 30 kilometers from Kalavrita.

Q In what direction?

A Southeast, rather to the east.

Q Witness, do you know anything about the village Marsi?

A Yes, I know of that.

Q That is also situated southeast of Kalavrita.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Can we have the witness' answer to the last question, please?

THE WITNESS: Yes, I know Marsi.

BY DR. MUELLER-TORGOW:

Q Do you know, witness, that in Marsi before the so-called action in Kalavrita, that in Marsi they found the same number of mutilated German soldiers as you saw as prisoners in Kalavrita?

A I know that about five days after the destruction of Kalavrita and after a battle between the Germans and the Greek Liberation Fighters, these German soldiers were killed as a retaliation for the massacre of Kalavrita.

Q In your opinion then, these soldiers were killed after this action in Kalavrita. Is that right?

A That is not my opinion, but the Major of the British Commandos Anthony and the Greek Major Sphagianos know that.

Q Witness, what is your opinion? In your opinion, are these 78 murdered German soldiers connected in any way with the 78 prisoners which you saw? I would like to point out to you in this connection that these bodies were already found on the 7th of December.

A I know from official sources that the bodies of these German soldiers have been found about the 17th of December. Why should they have been killed just during the destruction of Kalavrita since the Greeks hold them captured since three months and had treated and fed them well? There was no reason at all to kill them since they had kept them for three months and a half.

Q Witness, did you ever think about why the men of whom you told us, were killed in Kalavrita?

A Yes, I know perfectly what was the idea -- because the Germans who wanted to break the Greek resistance had just chosen the sacred place of the Greek country where the liberation had been announced and started about 130 years ago and so as a symbol they wanted to destroy the very sacred place of the liberation of Greece.

Q Witness, I return once more to the date. The prosecution has submitted this in document book 20 in document No. 1246, Exhibit 473, this is the War Diary No. 3, 68th Army Corps, up to the 31st of December 1943. There it says on page 64 in the German text – from the 1st July to the 31st December. There it says under 8th of December, 1943, "Peloponnesus according to a testimony of two refugees from the 5th Battalion, 749th Infantry Regiment which was destroyed on the 19th of October at Kalavrita, the company commander Schober who had been taken prisoner and 78 men are alleged to have been shot on the 7th of December in the mountains east of Kalavrita." Witness, do you maintain your statement that the German prisoners were not killed until after the action at Kalavrita?

A Yes. That is the truth. I insist upon it and I can prove it.

DR. MUELLER-TORGOW: I have no further questions, your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: The Court will stand in recess until tomorrow morning at nine-thirty.

(The Tribunal adjourned until 20 August 1947 at 0930 hours.)

Official Transcript of Military Tribunal V, Case VII in the matter of the United States of America against Milhelm list et al, defendants, sitting at Nurnberg, Germany, on 20 August 1947, 0930, Justice Edward F. Carter presiding.

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the Courtroom will please find their seats.

The Honorable, the judges of Military Tribunal V.

Military Tribunal V is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

There will be order in the Court.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Marshal, will you ascertain if all the defendants are present in the Courtroom?

THE MARSHAL: May it please your Honor all the defendants are present in the Courtroom with the exception of defendant Weichs who is absent due to illness.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal has a certificate from the physician which I am handing to the Secretary General.

Judge Edward F. Carter will preside at this day's session.

JUDGE CARTER: Is there any further cross-examination of this witness by the defense?

CROSS EXAMINATION BY DR. BERGLER:

Q. Dr. Bergler as deputy for Weisberger for defendant Speidel. Witness, you told us yesterday you were a soldier in the Greek Army. Is that correct?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. In the Greek army you had a service rank?

A. Yes.

Q. Which service rank did you have?

A. I was a Master Sergeant.

Q. Isn't that a non-commissioned officer?

Page 2,319

A. Yes, quite.

Q. And is that a comparatively high rank of a non-commissioned officer?

A. Yes.

Q. Which is the next highest service rank after your rank, already an officer's rank?

A. Lieutenant.

Q. Did you have any relationships with officers and did you frequently talk with officers?

A. Yes.

Q. After being released as a prisoner of war, did you then talk with officers?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Another question. While serving as a soldier in the regular army, did you take part in fights against the Germans?

A. Yes.

Q. And then you were captured. I mean how did this take place?

A. No, I wasn't captured as a prisoner of war.

Q. Yes. Well then, how did you get to Kalavrita from the army?

A. I had been wounded and then I was serving in their military hospital Sokratis. It was a hospital on a boat and it was sunk in front of Selanitika near Aeghion on the Aegean Sea. The German aircraft had destroyed it.

Q. I didn't want to know that. I only wanted to know how you reached home.

A. The German troops had not yet arrived in the South of Greece. They were still in the north of Greece and so I managed to go back to Kalavrita which is in the South of Greece.

Q. That is quite enough. I only wanted you to answer the question and not to go on talking when the question is answered. Now, witness, the Greek army capitulated. Did you know that?

A. No, at no time the Greek Army did capitulate.

Q. Well, conditions of capitulation have been fixed. How did it come about that the Greek army was currently released from captivity? Something must have been agreed upon.

A. We did not recognize it because the office government with the King had left and one single officer did capitulate but that we did not recognize.

Q. Okay. Who was this officer who signed?

A. This is a man for whom I never was concerned, a certain Greek officer of whom I do not even like to remember the name.

Q. That is -- do you know his name?

A. Yes, I know his name.

Q. What is his name then?

A. His name is Tsolacogloy.

Q. And what office did he have -- this officer? Was he a General?

A. Yes, he was a General.

Q. What was his position? Was he the commanding general or was he a general in a more subordinate position?

A. Yes, he was a commander.

Q. The commander. Was he a commander of a division of a corps or was he commander of the entire Greek Army?

A. He was not the commander of the whole Greek Army. He was the commander of a corps--of an army corps.

Q. Officers were captured too, weren't they?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. Were they also released from c activity?

A. That I don't know. Maybe they were released, maybe they were not.

Q. Did you later see any officers after that or not?

A. Do you mean Greek?

Q. Yes, I mean Greek officers.

Page 2,321

A. Very few.

Q. Only very few. Did you talk to those few?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you discuss their captivity and did you discuss the experiences they made with the Germans during the war?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you read papers, witness?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you also read newspapers in the year 1941?

A. Yes.

Q. In 1941, when did the first newspapers appear after the hostilities ceased?

A. The newspapers were always printed and issued. They never ceased.

Q. Did not cease? Well, did these papers contain anything about the conditions of capitulation?

A. Yes, there were certain points, but I don't remember them because the whole Greek people was not interested, as they never recognized this capitulation of a single Greek officer whom all of them despised.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Can we have the remainder of the witness's answer please?

BY DR. BERGLER:

A Yes. Since the Greek government and the king had left and had not capitulated, we all recognized only our official government and not an officer or people whatsoever to whom we never gave our agreement.

Q That is what you are concerned with. I only asked whether you read the capitulation conditions in the paper; whether you recognize them that has nothing to do with this question.

A I repeat that I do not remember those terms and conditions because I was not interested in them and I never remember things that I am not interested in at all.

Q You don't remember anything about these terms of capitulation, not a single point of them?

A No.

Q Did you never discuss these terms with anyone?

A No.

Q How do you know then that the population did not recognize these terms.

A This is very well known. I am Greek and I know the whole mentality and the feelings of the whole Greek people. It was just one feeling.

Q Witness, can you tell us when the Greek government left Greece?

A Ten hours before the German troops entered Athens.

Q Had the army capitulated by that time?

A One single unit of the Greek army capitulated. I told you before that the Greek army as a whole never capitulated.

Q But it went into captivity as a whole, as a unit, didn't it?

A No., that is not correct. Only part of the Greek army, one part went and joined the Allies in the Middle East. Another part went up to the mountains to continue fighting and another part managed to escape and to come back to their homes without being captured as prisoners of war.

Q Where did those people go? A part you just said -did they all leave Greece?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I didn't get the first part of the question, if your Honor please.

BY DR. BERGLER:

Q You told us previously, witness, of the Greek soldiers. A part went to join the Middle East command. Where did they go now? Did they remain in Greece?

A The whole navy and the air forces left for the Middle East. The mercantile navy left to go with the army.

Q They did no longer remain in Greece?

A Both the fighting navy and the mercantile navy had left Greece. One part, when they were withdrawing, proceeded to Crete and after Crete had been conquered by the Germans they left Crete for the Middle East.

Q But a part went into captivity. That is to say, a large part, and now I am asking you, witness, did you never hear anything about the Greek officers who were released from captivity giving their word of honor?

A I want to tell you that in Albania we had 500,000 Greeks fighting. The army consisted there of 500,000, only 50,000 of them capitulated. Do you mean by the whole Greek army -- do you mean by those 50,000 who capitulated?

Q I have asked you, witness, whether you had heard anything about officers giving their word of honor at being released from captivity?

You can answer me yes or no. You heard this question. I don't want to hear any other questions. I didn't ask you about the strength of your fighting forces.

A No, I don't know that.

Q Did the papers print anything about these or not.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If your Honor please, I submit we are getting quite far afield from the direct examination which as I remember it only took up the operation Kalavrita.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Overruled. He may answer the question.

BY DR. BERGLER:

A No, I don't remember such a thing and I repeat again that the Greek people never recognized those officers. The only officers and army they recognized were those who were faithful to the Greek government.

Q I didn't ask you concerning this. I only asked you whether you knew something about it. Something must have been known to you about it because you did not recognize these officers that there were officers who were released from captivity, and who gave their word of honor when they were released. You just told me you did not recognize these officers, but something must have been known to you that officers were released from captivity and gave their pledged word on this occasion.

A I would like to repeat that I was never concerned with those things. The only thing I know, since a single unit only had capitulated, we never recognized this single unit and we never did know what they did, whether they gave their word of honor or not. I want to repeat that I was never concerned with anybody having dealt with capitulation.

Q. You were a liaison man, you said, witness?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Between whom did you act as a liaison man?

A. Between the British commander and the Greek Army.

Q. From what date onwards were you a liaison man?

A. Approximately, from October 1942.

Q. Did you also act as a liaison with the partisans?

A. I don't know any partisans; I only know the Greek Army.

Q. Were you also acting as a liaison with those people whom you call the Greek Army?

A. I do not call them "Greek Army". They really are the Greek Army; they were the Greek Army; and they still are the Greek Army.

Q. Well, did you also act as a liaison man for this Greek Army?

A. Yes.

Q. Yes. What was your task as a liaison man?

A. We liberated our country from the conqueror.

Q. I would like to know in detail what you did as a liaison man. This is a bit too general for me. Did you collect news about the German Army?

INTERPRETER: Excuse me, I did not get the last word: "Did you collect information about the German Army....?"

Q. Did you collect news regarding the German Army? That is, the German troops who were in Greece?

A. Yes; and we transmitted -- I transmitted that information to the Greek Government and the government in command of the Middle East.

Q. That is to say, you were a spy?

A. No, I was no spy. I was a Greek soldier.

Q. Did you wear a uniform on those occasion?

A. Yes, accordingly.

Q. When did you wear a uniform?

A. When I was with the Greek Army and the British commander, I wore a uniform, and when I was in the town I did not wear it.

Q. And when you were in town you collected news, didn't you?

A. Yes.

Q. -- And then you did not wear uniform?

A. No.

Q. From whom did you obtain this news? Did you collect it all yourself? Did you go yourself?

A. From various persons I just got the information wherever I could get it.

Q. Did they also come from Kalavrita?

A. We all had the task and the desire to increase our liberation army in order to liberate the country from the invader.

Q. I ask you whether the people from whom you obtained this news came from Kalavrita. That is what I asked you.

A. Certainly not, because Kalavrita is a very small place and we couldn't get any information at such a very limited, small place.

Q. Yes. I didn't want to know whether they all came from Kalavrita but weren't some people from Kalavrita among those people who got news for you, and told it to you?

A. No. I repeat that it was impossible to get information at such a small and very limited place.

Q. Apart from you, none was ordered to act news from people from Kalavrita, and to ask them to tell you something if they got to know of something? Did you not ask a single person in Kalavrita to tell you something as soon as he heard something about news regarding Kalavrita?

A. No.

Q. Well, now when you put on your uniform did you leave the town of Kalavrita in uniform?

A. No; because I put on the uniform when I was with the Greek Army when I arrived at the British commandos place, at the battlefield.

Q. Where did you keep that uniform?

Page 2,328

A. It was there where the Greek Army was, actually.

Q. At home you didn't have a uniform?

A. No.

Q. Well, you joined the Greek Army. Of what did this Greek Army consist?

A. That army consisted of Greek officers, Greek soldiers; and British officers and British soldiers.

Q. Did all these people wear uniforms?

A. All of them were wearing uniforms.

Q. There were two groups, weren't there, in Greece? Do you know anything regarding a group lead by General Cervas, and that there was a Communist group?

A. I know of no Communist group. I know only of Greek resistance groups. How they called themselves is of no importance because the German army, too, had several groups, with several names: Divisions and corps, and so forth.

Q. Witness, you claim that you don't know that in the Greek resistance movement there were groups who were at loggerheads with each other?

A. No; one thing that I can tell you is that they always agreed with regard to the common struggle against the enemy. If they had some personal differences between themselves--that is another matter.

Q. Yes, witness; well, that is another matter.

Well, witness, I am now putting to you that we have examined a witness here who belonged to the organization of General Cervas, and this witness was at all times in the immediate neighborhood of General Cervas and his troops, and he told us the following about the uniforms worn by the troops of General Cervas: Only a few officers were supposed to have worn uniforms.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If Your Honor please, I object to the statement of defense counsel. I don't believe that is a proper or correct summary of the evidence given by a preceding witness in this case.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER:

Objection sustained.

Q Witness, from where did those people get their uniforms?

A From the Headquarters of the Middle East, from the Greek and British Government.

Q What was the strength of this Greek Army which still remained in Greece?

A In our sector -- I mean the whole province of Kalavrita between Tripolis and Aegion, there were three battalions, about 2,000 men.

Q What is the strength of three battalions?

A Between 1,800 and 2,000.

At what time did they have that strength?

A The strength was reached little by little, and at the time of the destruction of Kalavrita, we had approximately that strength, 2,000 --3,000 men.

Q Witness, where did the others come from then, the people who currently joined the Army?

A They came from the various districts of Greece. They got their equipment from the British Headquarters of the Middle East.

Q And how was this equipment transported to Greece?

A With airplanes.

Q Was it possible to drop so much equipment that these people could currently be equipped with uniforms?

A I told you before, little by little, gradually, not at once.

Q Witness, tell me now is the organization Edes known to you?

A Yes.

Q What kind of an organization was Edes?

Page 2,330

A Edes was part of the Greek Army.

Q By whom was it led?

A Cervas.

Q Cervas? yes. Is the organization Elas also known to you?

A Elas, too, is a part of the Greek Army.

Q By whom was this organization led?

A There were several officers.

Q Is an organization called EAM known to you?

A Yes.

Q By whom was this organization led?

A This was not a military organization. It was a political organization and I was never concerned with political organization. I was in the Greek Army and I was fighting in the Greek Army and I had nothing to do with political organizations.

Q Is it now known to you that EAM also formed formations and that they fought?

A I was not concerned and I do not know anything about this. I was a Greek soldier fighting and my whole feelings and interest were concentrated on that.

Q Who was the overall commander of this Greek Army of Edes and Elas together?

A This was General Wilson of the Headquarters in the Middle East.

Q To which of the two organizations did you yourself belong? to Edes or to Elas?

A I did not belong to any organization. As I told you before, I was a Greek soldier fighting for the liberation of Greece, and obeying the British commanders who were under the High Command in the Middle East.

Q You just said the Supreme Commander and the two groups, Elas and Edes were subordinate to this group. As a Greek soldier you must have belonged to one of these organization. You were not a British soldier, were you? You said you were a Greek soldier and belonged to the Greek Army and the Supreme Commander was General Wilson.

To which of the Greek organizations did you belong?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If Your Honors please, I object to the question. I believe the witness has already stated that he belonged to neither of the organizations named by the defense counsel.

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: The witness so testified. Objection sustained.

Q Witness, -- Since what date did this Command Middle East take an interest in these Greek soldiers?

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: Counsel, till man wasn't asked anything about that on direct examination. So far as his personal connection with those organizations is concerned, you are perfectly within bounds in asking him about that, but I think your questions are improper as they are and that this question has been pursued far enough.

Q Witness, since when did you have anything to do with Greek officers -- what I wanted to say was, with British officers?

A The Greek Army -- where I was fighting -- was organized when the British Officers came together with Greek officers from the Headquarters Middle East.

Q When did you take part for the first time?

A I told the High Tribunal already that it was in October, 1942.

Q Well, as another question, Witness, let us come back to your release from the military hospital. At which military hospital were you? You also mentioned a hospital ship.

A I was on the hospital ship which had been bombed by the German airplanes, although it was full of wounded soldiers. I was on that hospital ship on the 16th of April -

Q I didn't ask you -

A Yes, on the 16th of April, 1941.

Q And where was this ship anchored?

A I just told you about where it was. I came from the front and it was at Selanitika near Ageion, - near the Ageian coast in the Corinthian Bay.

Q That is what you are saying now. Didn't you tell us before that Ageion was in the Ageian Sea.

INTERPRETER ANAGNOSTOPOULOS: I want to make a personal remark.

This was translated by me, "Ageian Sea, Salanitika near the Ageion. The whole is the Ageion Sea, I think.

BY DR. BERGLER:

A Witness, now another question. Were there several liasonmen between the population as you said, and the British command, and the Greek army?

A What do you mean?

Q In Kalavrita and other regions. Is it known to you that apart from you, there are other such liaison men?

A Yes, there were several.

Q Did they have the same tasks as you?

A Yes, the same tasks.

Q Did the others wear uniforms?

A The whole army being on the march, did wear uniforms.

Q When these men were not in the mountains, when they were collecting their information did they then wear uniforms?

A I was in one part of Greece. It was impossible for me to know what they did in other parts of Greece.

Q You need only answer my questions regarding the regions in which you were, - in the part in which you were. Were there other liaison men or were you the only one?

A I was the only one.

Q The only man in the whole neighborhood? Don't you know any other liaison men apart from yourself?

A In this territory I was the only one.

DR. BERGLER: I have no further questions.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your honors, I only want to clarify two points, which I forgot to clarify yesterday. I shall be through in five minutes.

BY DR. LATERNSEER:

Q Witness, did you also fight against the Germans in the front, during the war between Greece and Germany?

A No.

Q Later, as you said, you were fighting in the Greek Army for the liberation?

A Yes.

Q When and where?

A Do you mean after the occupation by the Germans?

A Yes.

A No, then I did not participate in a battle.

Q You said that you had worn a uniform on various occasions, and that you were with the British Commander, or with the Regular Army?

A Yes, I was wearing the uniform, and I would even have participated in the battle, but it did not occur just at the times when I was there. If it had, I would have taken part.

Q Well now, where did you talk with the British Commanders, and how long were you always absent from Kalavrita for this purpose?

A This was at Demestricha, about 40 kilometers from Kalavrita.

Q For how long did you always stay at Demestricha, or whatever the name of the place is?

A One, two or three days.

Q Now something else. You said yesterday that 10 minutes after the shooting had been carried out, the German troops had left Kalavrita. Is that correct?

A I meant by that, and I made it clear that after they had exterminated everybody they left. Not 10 minutes after the shooting with the machine guns had taken place.

Q That is to say--how am I to understand it? 10 minutes after the executions were concluded, the troops left Kalavrita?

A The event took place in the following way, as I told you yesterday, to the Tribunal--

Q I only want to put one question, whether it is correct as you said that the German troops left the community 10 minutes after the execution. Yes or No? Did all people leave Kalavrita then, -I am sorry, I mean all of the German troops. Did they all leave Kalavrita?

A Yes, all of them.

Q 10 minutes after the executions were concluded, all German troops left Kalavrita?

A Yes, after they had given the finishing shots to everybody. I mean that was 4 hours after the machine gun shooting had finished. After that time they left.

Q Did more of the soldiers take part in the execution?

A Do you mean the shooting of the machine guns, or the finishing extermination which took place after the shooting by machine guns?

Q I mean the shooting of the inhabitants.

A I told the High Tribunal approximately 10 machine guns were shooting, so naturally not the whole of the German soldiers could participate. As many as were necessary for that shooting. I cannot tell the number.

Q When did the 1st of the soldiers leave Kalavrita on that day?

A Approximately five o'clock the last German soldiers left, after having put a fire under the school building.

Q At that date, prior to that time the shootings were carried out?

A Do you mean the shooting by the machine guns?

Q. No, I mean the actual shooting.

AAbout 4 hours.

Q How long did the troops need in order to herd away the 35,000 cattle?

A I don't know how long it took for the German troops, they usually were looting and had quite a system in that. I do not know because we are not accustomed to that.

Q. I want to ask you when did they start driving the cattle out of Kalavrita?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honors please, I believe all this had been gone into in great detail yesterday.

DR. LATERNSEER: I did not put this question.

Q. I ask you, when did the troops start to drive away these 35,000 head of cattle?

A. They started -- they brought them in about 12 o'clock and started at 2 o'clock to drive them away until the next day, on the 13th. When the execution took place, they had taken almost all of them because the German troops, when they left Kalavrita after the execution had taken place, went with them.

Q. Now, how did the troops get all these 35,000 head of cattle together?

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Dr. Laternser, they went through all that yesterday - somebody did - on cross examination. It seems to me like repetition.

DR. LATERNSEER: I only wanted to try and clear up this incredible story because it is completely impossible that 35,000 head of cattle could be brought together in this neighborhood. I only want to show that the witness told untruths in this matter. It is impossible to get 35,000 head of cattle in this neighborhood. For this reason I am putting this question.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: I followed counsel on the other cross examination on the same story and repeating again and again isn't going to help us much.

DR. LATERNSEER: I only wanted to establish how the cattle was herded, Your Honors.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: All right. Do it briefly.

Q. Witness, quite briefly, how did the German troops herd these 35,000 head of cattle together?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honors please, I don't believe the witness ever testified that there were 35,000 head of cattle.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: I think that's correct and I think that question was answered yesterday. It's repetition, Sustain the objection.

DR. LATERNSEER: I have no further questions.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Continue with the cross examination by the defense. Any further redirect examination?

REDIRECT EXAMINATION BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

Q. Witness, yesterday you were asked whether you knew that German soldiers were killed before the destruction and executions which took place at Kalavrita.

A. The German prisoners were killed after the destruction and the executions at Kalavrita had taken place and retaliation measures for the whole massacre.

Q. What information have you in that respect, witness, that leads you to that belief?

A. I was told of this fact by the head of the British command, Anthony, as well as by the Greek major, Sfagianos, and by the inhabitants of surrounding villages.

Q. Witness, during the period 6 to 13 or 14 December 1943, were any announcements made to you by the German troops in your village to the effect that Kalavrita would be burned or was being burned in retaliation for the execution of German prisoners?

A. No, most certainly not, because if they would have told us such a thing we would have fled and would have reached the ocean.

Q. Were there any units of Greek forces fighting the German troops in the neighborhood of Kalavrita during the month preceding the events of the 8th to the 13th of December 1943, to your knowledge?

A. There was a small section.

Q. How far-

A. At the time when the massacre took place, there was a small section of three soldiers who watched the massacre from the fortress.

Q. Did you ever have a gun in your house in Kalavrita?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever have any ammunition in your house?

A. No.

Q. Do you know if there were guns or ammunition in any of the other houses in Kalavrita?

A. No, there were not and it wasn't possible because every other day either the Germans or Italians came and searched the houses entirely.

Q. To your knowledge, did any combat actions take place between Greek forces and German forces in or near Kalavrita preceding the destruction of Kalavrita?

A. Yes, I know a battle took place in the vicinity of Kalavrita, Kertini, and in the village of Rogi, and during that battle the Greek forces captured 78 German prisoners.

Q. How far away from Kalavrita did that battle take place?

A. About 18 to 20 kilometers.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I have no further questions, Your Honors.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Any further cross examination? Any questions by the Tribunal? The witness will be excused for the time beings.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honors, yesterday afternoon at four-thirty I passed out copies of the photographs which were taken by the witness Triandaphylidis, who testified earlier in this proceeding and whom I should like now to recall to the witness stand to identify the photographs.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Probably it would be better to call him after the recess. We will take our morning recess at this time.

THE MARSHAL: There will be a fifteen minute recess.

(A recess was taken.)

Page 2,339

Court No. V, Case No. VII.

THE MARSHAL: All persons In the courtroom will please find their seats.

Tribunal Number 5 is again in session.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: You may proceed.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honors please, I should like to ask the Tribunal to direct the Marshal to recall to the witness stand the witness Triandaphylidis.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: The officer may produce the witness.

COSTAS TRIANDAPHYLIDIS - Resumed REDIRECT EXAMINATION BY MR. FENSTERMACHER:

Q. Witness, will you state your name, please?

A. Triandaphylidis, Costas.

Q. Have you given testimony in this case before?

A. Yes.

Q. Witness, I am handing you a folder containing 39 photographs. Will you examine them? Do you recognize these photographs?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you take them yourself?

A. Yes.

Q. Are they an accurate reproduction of the events which were intended to reproduce?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you take each photograph in order, state the approximate time when you took the photograph and what it describes?

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: I think you better have them marked and handle this by interrogation or we will be confused on them.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: All right, your Honor. I ask that the photographs be marked for identification as Exhibit 481-A.

Q. Will you look at the first photograph, witness? Will you state the approximate date when you took this photograph?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I believe they are in numeral order, your Honors -- the number on back.

A. On the 13th of November, 1942.

Q. What does this photograph represent?

A. This was the proclamation of General Zervas's -- this is an order of General Zervas -- this is a reward that the Italians wrote out for the head of General Zervas after the Greek, after the destruction of the bridge of Gorgopotamus had taken place. It is a poster announcing the regard for the leader. In addition to that, everybody who would tell the Italians where General Zervas was living would get this reward.

Q. Was the poster written in more than one language?

A. It is written in three languages: in the Italian, in the German and in the Greek, because the same announcement had been given by the German command and by the Greek Quisling government.

Q. Will you turn to your photograph marked "No. 2." When was this photograph taken?

A. At the beginning of October 1943.

Q. And what does the photograph represent?

A. It shows in what conditions were the German prisoners who had come down from German airplanes and the Italian prisoners from Italian airplanes, and the Italian prisoners, regardless of airplanes.

Q. Will you turn to the photograph "No. 3." When was that photograph taken and what does it represent?

A. This was received also. This was taken, this photograph, at the beginning of October 1943 and it represents the representative of the Swiss Red Cross, Mr. Bickel, who had come to the mountains where General Zervas was stationed together with the delegates which the Germans had sent in order to make negotiations with General Zervas.

Q. Which of the persons is Bickel?

A. The person dressed in civilian clothes.

Q. Witness, If I hand you copies of these photographs would you be able to identify and testify from the copies so that I might give the originals to the Tribunal?

A. Yes.

Q. We turn now to photograph marked "No. 4." When was that photograph taken and what does it represent?

A. It was taken at the same period and it represents Mr. Bickel and General Zervas at the headquarters of General Zervas in Skiadavas.

Q. Which one of the Figures was General Zervas?

A. This person with the beard and dressed in military clothes.

Q. We turn now to photograph marked "No. 5." When was that taken and what does it represent?

A. This was taken also at the beginning of October, 1943, and it shows the military hospital, the doctors and the nurses and the military hospital of Vugareli, and shows the good condition in which this Hospital is and the good military organization that we did have.

Q. Will you turn next to the photograph marked "No. 6" and state the date when it was taken and what it represents?

A. This was taken also at the beginning of October 1943 and represents the Greeks what the Germans had sent to bring the offer to General Zervas.

Q Can you identify the five persons in the foreground of the photograph by name?

A To the right of the General is the Mayor of Joannina, Vlachlidis.

A The first, from left to right, is an officer belonging to the Greek forces, whose name I cannot recall. After him comes the Mayor of Joannina, Vlachlidis. The third person is General Zervas. The fourth person is the deputy of the Metropolit of Joannina, Athanassios. The last person, I'm sorry, I cannot see very well; so I cannot identify him.

Q Is the person on the extreme left of the photograph wearing the uniform of the EDES organization?

A Yes, he does wear the uniform of the EDES organization.

Q Turn next to Photograph marked No. 7. When was that taken, and who is it a photograph **?

A Approximately at the same date, that is to say, in October 1943, and it represents the British Lt. Colonel Tom Barnes, the head of the British Mission.

Q The British Mission to whom?

A The British Mission, to the staff of General Zervas.

Q What are the letters which appear on the cap of Major Barnes?

A EOE A.

Q What do those letters stand for?

A Greek National Guerilla Bands.

Q And what is the insignia that appears on the left, below the left shoulder of the Major?

A That he belongs to the Corps of the British Parachutists.

Q Turn next to photograph marked No. 8. When was it taken and what does the scene represent?

A It was taken on the 10th of October 1943, and it represents the 40th Regiment of Evzones of the National Guerrilla Bands, which is departing from Vulgareli in order to proceed to Petratomo in order to block the roads to the Germans, who, we were told, were coming on to this point.

Q Did you say that these were Evzones?

A Yes, I said that these were Evzones. Understand that these Evzones had, by no means, any relation with those Evzones that were fighting with the Germans, and that had spoiled the Greek name and reputation of the Evzones, which is an elite troop in Greece.

Q Do they wear any EDES insignia on their uniforms?

A Yes, they always were wearing the EDES insignia on their uniforms.

Q We turn now to photograph No. 9. When was it taken, and what does the scene portray?

A This was taken in March, 1944, and it represents a new section that had been recruited and organized.

Q Next look at photograph marked. No. 10.

A This was taken in April, 1944, and it represents General Zervas who came to review the sacred parade of the students.

Q Which one of the persons on the photograph is General Zervas?

A The person who is proceeding on horse back.

Q Next, look at photograph marked No. 11.

A This was taken in May, 1944, and it represents part of the third division, which is being reviewed by the officers.

Q The third division of what organization?

A The third division of the National Guerrilla Bands.

Q What is the flag which appears on the photograph?

A It is the Greek military flag.

Q We will now turn to photograph marked No. 12

A This was taken also in May, 1944, in the village --near the village of Plessia, and it represents a part of the division Xyrovuni, division of the National Regiment, of the Regiment Xyrovuni which is a regiment of the National Guerrilla Bands.

Q What is the flag which appears in this photograph?

A It's the Greek Military Flag.

Q Turning next to photograph marked No. 13.

A This was taken also in May, 1944, and it represents the 39th Regiment of the National Guerrilla Bands, which has received the order to proceed to another place.

Q Where was this photograph taken -- No. 13?

A Near Pesta.

Q Next turn to photograph marked No. 14.

A It has been taken at the same period, and it represents the same part of the regiment at the same place.

Q The same as which photograph, Witness?

A The same with the photograph No. 13.

Q Turn next to photograph marked No. 15.

A This is the third photograph showing the same regiment as Nos. 13 and 14, and it has been taken at the same period and at the same place.

Q Next, will you look at the photograph No. 16?

A This, again, has been taken in May, 1944, and it shows General Zervas who is reviewing new sections of the Army which had been newly recruited and organized.

A Yes, that is correct.

Q Will you look now at the photograph No. 17?

A This was taken at the same period of this review and has been taken at the same date.

Q As what?

AAAs No. 16.

Q As the photograph No. 16?

A Yes.

Q What is the flag which one of those soldiers is bearing in photograph No. 17?

A This is the Greek military flag, and this is the same flag that the Greek Regular Army had been using when the soldiers had been captured. They had hidden this flag. After the capitulation of 1941 the soldiers had hidden this flag and brought it out newly again. It's the same flag.

Q Turning next to photograph No. 18.

A. This has been taken in May, 1944 and it represents the same parade.

Q. As.

A. As photographs No.s 17 and 18.

Q. Will you look now at photograph No. 20?

A. This has been taken in May, 1944, and it, is a part of another regiment of General Zervas.

Q. Look now at photograph marked No. 21.

A. This has been taken in July, 1944 and it represents the investigation of German prisoners of war.

Q. Are there any members of the EDES organization shown in this photograph?

A. At the right side there's the Lt. Colonel, Christou, who was the head of the Intelligence Service of General Zervas' staff.

Q. Turn next to photograph marked No.22.

A. This has been taken in July, 1944, and it represents the investigation of German prisoners of war by Lt. Colonel Christou, head of the Intelligence Service of General Zervas' staff.

Q. Which person in the photograph as the Lt. Colonel?

A. It is the person standing in the middle, who is just a single person, standing in the middle.

Q. You mean the man with the beard?

A. Yes, the man with the beard

Q. Will you turn now to photograph marked No. 23?

A. This has been taken towards the end of July, 1944, and it represents the investigation of German prisoners of war--some of them are wounded soldiers.

Q. Are there any members of the EDES or anization shown in the photograph?

A. Yes, at the left side of the photograph and at the right side of the photograph.

Q. Is the man with a bread a member of the EDES organization?

A. Yes, that is a member of the EDES organization, by the name of Lt. Col. Christou.

Q. Will you now look at photograph marked No. 24?

A. This was taken towards the end of July, 1944, audit represents the investigation of German officers who had been captured at the village of Lures.

Q. Who are the two men with caps facing the camera?

A. This represents Lt. Colonel Christou and his aide de camp adjutant.

Q. Now, look at photograph marked No. 25.

A. This was taken towards the end of July, 1944, and it represents the investigation of German prisoners of war at the village of Dervisema.

Q. Who is the man in the right center portion of the photograph, the man wearing the beard?

A. This is the head of the Intelligence Service, Lt. Colonel Christou.

Q. Was he a member of the EDES organization at that time?

A. He was one of the oldest members of the EDES organization and was an officer of the Regular Greek Army.

Q. Will you turn now to photograph No. 26

A. This has been taken during the summer of 1944 in Paramythia. And to represents a newly recruited organized regiment, which is taking the place an other.

Q. To what organization do these men belong?

A. They belong to the National Units of General Zervas, the EDES organization.

Q. Are they wearing the uniform of the EDES organization?

A. Yes, all of them are wearing the uniform of the EDES organization.

Q. We will turn now to photograph No. 27

A. This has been taken in July, 1944, during the battle of Preveza, and it represents a mortar activity.

Q. Are the men shown in the photograph members of the EDES organization?

A. Yes, they are. They are the men of the so-called Sacred Company of the students.

Q. Turn next to photograph marked No. 28.

A. This was taken on the 23rd of July 1944, which was the second anniversary of the exodus of General Zervas to the mountains. And it represents the parade in front of the monument of the dead of these National Guerrilla units. It represents General Zervas, and at the right side of Archbishop of Paramythia, by the name of Thortas.

Q. Will you look next at the photograph marked No. 29?

A. This was taken on the 23rd of July 1944, and it represents the artillery that had been given to us by the Americans.

Q. The men in the photograph wear the uniform of the EDES organization?

A. Yes, all of them are members of the EDES organization.

Q. Turn next to photograph marked No. 30.

A. It was taken on the 23rd of July 1944, and it represents the artillery weapons taken off the horses.

Q. Who are the men in the photograph?

A. On the left side there are two soldiers of the artillery. In the middle is standing the Governor of the artillery, Colonel Metaxas, Standing nearby is General Zervas.

Q. Is he the man with the beard?

A. Yes, the man with the beard, And at the right side again are two soldiers of the artillery.

Q. Are all of the men shown in the photograph members of the EDES organization?

A. All of them are members of the EDES organization.

Q. Are they wearing the uniform of the EDES organization?

A. All of them are wearing uniform, and the one of the soldiers to the right side is wearing a uniform fit for him to ride on horseback

Q. Why do there see to be white lines on the photograph, Witness

A. Because I used this photograph in order to publish to in the newspaper.

Q. Turning next to photograph No.31.

Q We turn next to photograph marked 31.

A This has been taken on the 23rd of July 1944 and represents a parade in front of the monument of the dead soldiers and officers of the national guerilla forces.

Q The next photograph is No. 32.

A This has been taken on the 23rd of July, 1944, and it represents General Zervas, the Archbishop of Paramythia, and the whole staff of General Zervas.

Q Is General Zervas the man with the beard standing to the right of the Archbishop?

A Yes, General Zervas is the man with the beard standing to the right.

Q Look next at photograph No. 33.

A This has been taken in August 1944 and it represents the entrance of the hospital of Dervisema with the German wounded prisoners of war to whom a Greek nurse is offering cigarettes.

Q Is the man on the extreme left of the photograph facing the camera a member of the EDES organization?

A Yes, he is.

Q Is he wearing the uniform of the EDES organization?

A Yes, he is wearing the uniform of summer; he is only wearing a shirt without his jacket.

Q Will you turn next to photograph No.34?

A This has been taken after the battle of Menina about the 20th of August, 1944, and represents the General Zervas sitting in one of the cars that we have captured from the Germans.

Q Is General Zervas the man to the extreme left of the photograph?

A Yes, that is correct.

Q We will look next at photograph No. 35.

A This has been taken in summer, 1944. This represents General Zervas together with the Archbishop of Paramythia and with many of the soldiers and inhabitants of the village of Dervisema after the performance of the religious service.

Q To what organization do the soldiers in the photograph belong?

A All of them did belong to the EDES.

Q. Will you look now at the photograph numbered 36?

A This has been taken in August 1944 in the village of Paramythia and it is the arch which the 10th Division of the EDES organization had built up in order to welcome General Zervas.

A They are several of the inhabitants; among whom is a priest and at the right are the soldiers of the 10th Division standing at attention.

Q To what organization do those men belong?

A To the organization EDES.

Q What are the two flag shown in the photograph?

A They are both Greek flags.

Q Will you look now at photograph No. 37?

A It was taken at the beginning of October, 1944, and it represents the bridge of Zita that the Germans had blown up while they were withdrawing and which the engineers of the Engineer Corps of the national guerilla units had repaired within two days in order to materialize the pursuit of the Germans with the artillery.

Q Do you know the name of the river across which the bridge is built?

A It is just a side river of the River Luos.

Q. Turn now to photograph marked No. 38.

A This has been taken on the 18th of October, 1944, and it represents the flag of the General Zervas, at the day when the General entered the town of Jannina.

Q The soldiers in the photograph are members of the EDES organization?

A All of them.

Q What are the flags shown at the top of the photograph?

A The American flag, the British flag and the Greek flag.

Q Which is the Greek flag?

A In the middle of the American and the British.

Q What is the writing which appears on the lower right hand portion of the photograph?

A Entrance into Jannina of the national Greek guerilla bands on the 18th of October, 1944.

Q Turn finally to photograph marked No. 39.

A This has been taken also on the 18th of October, 1944, and it represents a battalion of the Greek notional guerilla bands with their weapons as a souvenir of that day.

Q What is the writing on the lower right hand portion of the photograph?

A Battalion of Galani.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: If your Honors please, I ask that these photographs be admitted into evidence and given Exhibit No. 481. I ask also, your Honor, if we might return the original photographs to the witness and give the Secretary General photostatic reproductions of the originals.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: There being no objection, that may be done.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: I have no further question to the witness, your Honor.

CROSS EXAMINATION BY DR. LATERNSE: Q Witness, where are the negatives of these photographs?

A I don't have them here. They are in Athens.

Q May I see the originals of No. 23 end No. 24, please?

(Dr. Laternser examined the originals.)

DP. LATERNSE: I have no further questions, your Honor.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Any further questions on cross examination? Is there anything further, Mr. Fenstermacher?

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honor, I believe it was last Saturday when Dr. Sauter, counsel for the defendants Geitner and Lanz, indicated that he might wish to make this witness his own witness. Since this witness is planning to return to Greece very shortly, I wonder if your Honors might place a time limit on Dr. Sauter within which he would let prosecution and the Tribunal know whether he wishes to make the witness his own?

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Dr. Laternser, do you think you could find out by one-thirty whether there is any desire on the part of the defense to call this witness on direct examination?

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, I shall try to report to the Court about that at one-thirty but I am not quite sure whether by this time I will be able to do so.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: I wonder if the Tribunal might not make the inquiry of the defense at this time as to the period of time they expect to be allowed them after the prosecution completes its case and before we take up the evidence of the defense?

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, this question comes a little suddenly if I may say. I can't supply the answer now but only then when I have talked about this with my colleagues, as I cannot say now how long each individual colleague wants for the submission of his documents and the stating of his case. I shall sneak to my colleagues and I will probably be then in a position to give you an answer.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: If you will do that and inform the Tribunal at the earliest possible moment, we would appreciate it.

DR. LATERNSEER: My attention was drawn to the fact by Mr. Denney that the question of the Tribunal about the time is about the recess between the prosecution resting their case and the defense starting their case. Is that the question?

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: That is what I was inquiring about.

DR. LATERNSEER: Also this question I would like to think over because in order to give the answer I must talk to my colleagues but I shall do so as soon as I can.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Very well.

MR. FENSTERMACHER: Your Honor, may the witness be excused for the time being?

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Yes, the witness will be excused for the time being. The Tribunal will adjourn until one-thirty.

(A recess was taken until 1330 hours.)

AFTERNOON SESSION (The Court reconvened at 1330 hours, 20 August 1947.)

THE MARSHAL: The persons in the Courtroom will be seated.

The Tribunal is again in session.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: You may proceed.

MR. DENNEY: If it please your Honors, the document which is being distributed to your Honors now is the identification exhibit which goes at the close of Document Book 16. It should be marked 408-A, pages 201, 202, 203, and it is offered as Exhibit 408-A for identification to be submitted, to be placed at the close of Document Book 16.

The document which has just been handed to your Honors is to be marked 423-A and will receive page numbers 132 and 133 and is to be inserted at the close of Document Book 17 and is offered as Prosecution's Exhibit 423-A for identification.

And this next one is to be marked 441-A, pages 107, 108, and is to be placed at the end of Document Book 18 and is offered as prosecution's Exhibit 441-A for identification.

And the last one which your Honors have just received is to be marked 457-A for identification.

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: 457?

MR. DENNEY: 457-A, yes, your Honor, and is to be placed at the end of Document Book 19 and is offered as Prosecution's Exhibit 457-A for identification.

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: Pages?

MR. DENNEY: 156 and 157. I have spoken with Dr. Sauter during the noon recess and he has advised me that he will not require the witness Kosta Triandaphylidis and has authorized me to so inform the court.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: Very well.

MR. DENNEY: We now start with Document Book 21.

Was the last exhibit number, Mr. Stone, 481?

MR. STONE: Yes.

MR. DENNEY: The first document in this book at pages one of the English and the German, NOK W-469, is offered as Prosecution's Exhibit No. 482 in evidence.

This is a series of reports having to do with the operation Klissura, and the reports in the document book are from the standpoint of dates backwards. However, I think they are just as informative one way as the other, and for the convenience of the Tribunal why we will take the pages as they come.

The first page, which is a communication from the Commander in Chief Southeast, who was at that time the defendant Weichs, is dated 6 July 1944, and I would direct Your Honors attention to the number which the communication bears, the German Staff Record Book Number 4506, directed "To the Special Plenipotentiary of the Foreign Office to the Southeast Envoy Neubacher."

This document, incidentally, is signed by the defendant von Weichs.

It says:

Referring to your teletype dated 16.5.44 I am enclosing the report of the commander of SS Panzer - Grenadier Regiment 7, dated 3.6.44, with the comments of the Corps Group Saloniki and of the High Command Army Group E pertaining to the operation against the village of Klissura. And Your Honors' attention is called to the facts it quotes these various reports, which we will come to presently.

Returning now to the document. I see from these reports that the events at Klissura differed from the way in which they are represented in the minutes of the interrogations of some village residents before the Consulate General of Saloniki. I wish to point out in particular that according to the report of Regiment Commander it was not a subsequent reprisal action but that the village of Klissura was stormed and taken with the employment of all heavy weapons of the regiment. One must count on the civilian population of the village already having suffered considerable losses due to the employment of heavy weapons and that the Bulgarian military put in action there are guilty of excesses after the capture of the village, which can not be checked on afterwards. I consequently believe that a further following up of this matter would meet with no success.

This incident is taken as occasion to recall attention to the orders on the execution of reprisal measures which at the time of their issuance had your concurrence.

Signed Freiherr v. Weichs.

Before turning to the next page I should merely like to direct Your Honors' attention to the fact that von Weichs there speaks of the employment of Bulgarian troops.

JUDGE CARTER: Can you advise us, Mr. Denney, as to the meaning of this word "Freiherr?"

MR. DENNEY: "Freiherr", yes, Your Honor, I believe it is a title of nobility. Is that not right, Dr. Laternser? A title that would be similar to Count, or Duke. I am not familiar with the various titles of nobility. Is that right, Dr. Laternser?

DR. LATERNSE: Yes.

MR. DENNEY: Still on page 1 of the German, but on page 2 of the English, or rather on page 2 of the German too, we have a communication of 20 June 1944, which is from the Commander in Chief Southeast, High Command Army Group F, both being the same person, namely, the defendant von Weichs, and this is addressed to the Oberkommando Wehrmacht, Wehrmachtfuehrungsstab, Wehrmacht Operations Staff, and has reference to a communication which von Weichs has sent to them under early date No. 4450. The subject of this operation again is "Operation Klissura", and it states:

Enclosed please find copies

- 1.) Statements of the Greek citizens, Kitsis, Tripis, Papakristos and Manos, all residents of the village of Klissura, as certified by the German Consulate General in Saloniki. Both records are the basis for the teletype from Envoy Neubacher to the Foreign Office which has been submitted to you.
- 2.) Report of the Commander of SS-Panzer Regiment 7, dated. 3.6.44. And that is the report referred to in the earlier communication which we have read, but it bears the later date of 6 July.
- 3.) Comment of Corps Group Saloniki dated 12.6.
- 4.) Comment of High Command Army Group E dated 14.6.44.

And the Court's attention is directed here to the channel of command through which these various papers relating to this incident came up to von Weichs from Army Group E, and from the 7th Corps to Army Group E and from the 7th Panzer Regiment SS to the Corps Group Saloniki.

The report of the Commander of SS Panzer Regiment 7 differs markedly from the statements of the inhabitants of the village:

The Regiment Commander reports that the village was taken by assault with the employment of heavy weapons. In contrast to that the village residents state that the combat actions against the Red Andartes did not touch village itself. They further state that after the Red Andartes had been driven out of the area around the village, the village was searched without further incidents by sections of a German detachment, and that only after a certain time had elapsed and without combat action did further sections of the German troops appear and proceed against the population of the village in the manner known.

On the basis of the comment of Army Group E the Commander in Chief Southeast believes that the accusations made by the Greeks are to be rejected, as groundless by reason of the statements of the Commander of the SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment 7.

It is recalled to attention again that there must be strict observance of the orders on the execution of reprisal measures that were issued in agreement with Envoy Neubacher.

Copies of the report and of the comments have been submitted directly to Envoy Neubacher.

Signature For the Commander in Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group F) Chief of the General Staff Winter (signature) And down at the lower left there is a note, After dispatch Ia/F Order on reprisal measures Department Ia/F No. secret.

22.12.43, to be brought to attention in a suitable way in accordance with the paragraph preceding the last.

And on page 3 of the German and page 4 of the English, the communication of 12 June 1944, which is referred to in the earlier letter. This is the report from the Group Saloniki to the High Command of Army Group E, and the reference Number 6299 of May 18, is called to the Count's attention, and the subject is "Operation Klissura", to "High Command Army Group E."

Enclosed we are submitting another report of the Regimental Commander of the SS-Panzer Grenadier Regiment 7.

The statements of the residents of the villages of Klissura show that the male population were evacuated from the village on the day in question and only women and children remained. On the other hand it is a fact that the soldiers were shot at from the village, that is, from its near vicinity. The regimental commander of course could not know of the withdrawal of the male population. The tactical measure carried out by him to break resistance by using all available weapons in order to avoid unnecessary losses was correct and no accusation can be made against him for that. It can therefore be assumed with certainty that the majority of the women and children lost their lives while the village was under fire and not later when the village was being combed through. It may be correct that in individual cases during the combing through women were fired upon also as some statements of the residents indicate. But in evaluating this incident one must take into consideration the emotion of the soldiers during combat on the one hand and on the other hand that of the population during interrogation.

It may be absolutely correct that in some cases mistakes were made by the soldiers; but it is hardly probable that the detachment more or less murdered the women or children who lost their lives.

I personally know SS-Standartenfuehrer Schumers as a particularly severe superior. Often measures taken by him are draconically hard. But he is always considerate of the welfare of his men and his actions are motivated by this attitude.

The report of the regimental commander makes it clear that the events in Klissura do not represent a reprisal measure but that they were combat actions during a pursuit fight.

And there is a certification to the left as to the correctness of the copy by a Major, and the rank of Pflugradt was Generalleutnant. The Major's signature is illegible.

And the next document in this connection is a report from the SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment 7, with reference to the operation Klissura, and it is made by the Regimental Commander of this Regiment, dated 3 June 1944.

"Two convoys of the I/7 were attacked on the ridge of the Klissura pass on 5.5.1944. This attack cost the lives of 8 men of the I/7. Seven were more or less heavily wounded."

Some of the corpses were entirely disrobed and cruelly mutilated, and lay in a row in the street. This is how I and the sections of my regiment employed in the liberating of the pass found the place of attack.

After receiving information of the attack I myself went to the place of attack with a combat group in order to combat and perhaps pursue the bandits. Considerable detachments of the Bulgarian military stationed near Klisura also participated in the engagement to free the pass. After relatively minor resistance, the bandits preferred withdrawal in a Southwest direction to the village of Klisura taking along their wounded, their weapons and 1 motorcycle. I ordered the immediate and ruthless pursuit of the fleeing bandits.

The bandits stopped at the outskirts of the village of Klisura and resisted anew. They shot with rifles, machine guns and mortars at my units pressing after them. In order to avoid further losses I ordered the advance to halt and ordered that all heavy weapons be brought into position. Brought into action were: 1 trench mortar platoon (6 barrels), 1 light infantry gun platoon (4 light infantry guns), 1 half platoon, 2 centimeter anti-aircraft, 2 groups heavy machine guns (4 heavy machine guns). Then I gave the order to open fire ruthlessly on Klisura. Since I was unable to locate exactly the firing positions of the enemy trench mortars, the firing was directed over the entire village of Klisura. After about 30 minutes observation showed that the bandits had ceased firing and many persons, among them women and children also, were leaving Klisura for a forest situated in a southwesterly direction. I now ordered the advance on the village of Klisura. Even at that time individual shots still were fired from Klisura. Klisura itself was taken by assault. I could not prevent the killing of women and children also during the firing and assault on Klisura, because Klisura had to be taken by assault.

That in the shooting and storming of Klisura women and children lost their lives is regrettable and was in the overall situation not to be avoided.

The enclosed interrogations show beyond doubt that the bandits had occupied Klisura before as well as after the attack. I further believe the interrogation of the Greek tailor Christos Kitsis shows that this man must have been right at the place of attack at the time even if he did not participate in it, for Kitsis gives exact details regarding the attack in his interrogation. I personally know the entire terrain, and it is inexplicable to me how Kitsis was able to observe the details of the attack at a distance of 2.5 kilometers - the population of Klisura was kept in the village by guards. I notice in particular the fact that Kitsis was able to recognize at a distance of 2½ kms. that the two motorcyclists were attacked with a hand grenade which was thrown by an Italian.

As stated at the beginning of this report Bulgarian military also participated in the assault on Klisura. These people voluntarily had attached themselves to my units during the advance and after the capture of Klisura they were the first to break into the houses in which Communists known to them resided. I am not in a position to say whether the events actually took place as the interrogations state. After the capture of Klisura I ordered the burning down of houses from which fire had come and which the Bulgarian militia designated as residences of Communists.

This was done.

In the evaluation of this incident I ask that it be taken into consideration the humanly understandable feelings of my men and of the Bulgarian militia aroused by the sight of their cruelly murdered comrades at the Klisura pass.

Signed Schumers SS-Standartenfuhrer and Redigmental Commander And it is certified to be a true copy.

And next is a communication of 25 May 1944 from the foreign office. It bears the receipt stamp of High Command Army Group F, and Commander in chief Southeast, for 26 May 1944, and it also bears an arrival stamp over on the right for the same date.

And then at the left in the heading is, "For submission to the Chief WFST (Wehrmachtfuehrungstab) Via VO Ag Ausland (Foreign Office Liaison.)

"Copy.

"The Foreign Office forwards the following telegraph report from the Special Plenipotentiary Southeast, Envoy Neubacher, under Pol I M 1138 Top Secret dated 20.5.44. The report is dated 15.5."

"Rapid investigation and information as to its outcome is requested." And then over to the left is typed on this, "Commander in Chief Southeast with the request for speedy investigation and report of the results.

By order of (signature illegible)" "Subject:

The Blood Bath of Clissure."

Your Honors attention is directed to the fact that this comes from Envoy Neubacher who is the German representative down there and the Special Plenipotentiary Foreign Office Southeast, to whom Weichs first communication in this series, the one of 6 July was directed.

According to the reports previously submitted to me on 5 April 215 inhabitants of the village Clissura in the area of Saloniki, mostly women, children and old men, were killed and 27 people wounded. The allegedly was done by order of the Commander of an SS regiment from Saloniki. This action constitutes a most serious infraction of an order on reprisal measures issued by the Commander in Chief Southeast issued with my agreement on the basis of the Fuehrer directive dated 29 October 1943.

Reports available up to now show that among the dead were 9 babies less than 1 year old:

29 children from 1 to 5; 39 old people between 60 and 90.

The competent military authorities are investigating this on the basis of the present report - senseless and irresponsible excess.

The preliminary report of our Consulate General indicates to me that German trucks were shot at by partisans at a distance of about 2½ km from the village on April 4th. No losses occurred. 2 German motorcyclists were allegedly killed later by hand grenades thrown by an Italian of the same group of partisans at the same spot. The motorcycles are said to have been brought to Clissura. As happens daily in numerous villages partisans had been quartered overnight in the village itself.

Partisans surrounded the village and forbade the inhabitants to leave the village and to use the pasture. After the last partisans withdrew on 5 April at about 1400 hours the adult men left the village, because repeatedly in North Greece and elsewhere too it happened that our side proceeded with mass shootings of the male population after the partisans had left. The men went to a neighboring village to a monastery. Women, children and old men were.....

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, could I ask that the Prosecution read this a bit more slowly in order to enable us to follow what is being said?

MR. DENNEY: Do you have a German copy there?

DR. LATERNSEER: Yes.

(note - continue reading)

almost the only ones to remain. The slaughter of those who were left began approximately at 1600 hours, and allegedly was stopped later by intervention of a Wehrmacht officer. I do not know the number of houses burned down.

The village priest was shot with his wife on the street. The house of a Greek captain fighting on our side with a group fighting the partisans was burned. All the relatives of a tailor who had worked for many years for the Consulate General in Saloniki were killed.

In view of the necessity of advancing final operations in the population, the political effects of such incidents are catastrophic. It is utter insanity to murder babies, children, women and old men because heavily armed Red bandits billeted themselves overnight by force in their houses and because they killed 2 German soldiers near the village. The political effect of this senseless blood bath doubtless far exceeds the effect of all propaganda efforts in our fight against Communism.

No matter what the end result of the investigation may be the operation against Clissura represents a severe transgression of existing orders. The shining result of this heroic deed is, it is true, that babies are dead. But the partisans continue to live and they will find quarters again with machine pistols in completely defenseless villages. It is a further fact that it is much more comfortable to shoot to death entirely harmless women, children and old men than to pursue an armed band with a manly desire for vengeance and to kill them to the last man. The use of such methods must necessarily lead to the demoralization of a genuine combat morale.

I shall follow up this affair on the basis of the Fuehrer directive dated 29 October 1943. The Reich Foreign Minister is requested by me today to inform the highest competent military authorities of my attitude and in the interest of our foreign policy in this area to ask for a most thorough investigation."

And down at the bottom is handwritten:

"you bet we'll do it!"

And handwritten over to the right:

"M has been informed that F has asked a very thorough investigation."

And on page 12 English and page 8 of the German, a communication dated 16 May 1944. This is a teletype and it appears on a teletype blank, and it bears the receipt stamp at the bottom of Army Group F, for the 19 May 1944, and this teletype is signed by Neubacher, the Special Plenipotentiary Southeast of the Foreign Office for the Southeast, and it is directed to the Commander in Chief Southeast, General Field Marshal von Weichs, Belgrade.

And it also has to do with the "Blood Bath of Klissure," and I should like to call Your Honors attention to the fact this term "Blood Bath of Klissure" is theirs, not our.

"What ever the result of the investigation may be regarding the reprisal action against babies, children, women and old men, executed in the area of Saloniki, as far as I am concerned it was certainly a flagrant violation of the directions issued by the Commander in Chief Southeast. The principles of these directions were agreed upon with me. I state further that this senseless irresponsible operation has done great political harm which will become greater the more the news of this incident, which frequently is not even believed today, becomes public.

On the basis of the Fuehrer directive dated 29. October 1943, I request the Commander in Chief Southeast to instigate a strict investigation.

Considering the political importance of this affair I have submitted a preliminary report to the Reich Foreign Minister of which I shall inform the Commander in Chief Southeast in Belgrade.

Special Plenipotentiary Southeast (Signed) Neubacher And down written at the bottom is the words:

"What is this?" "Probably puffed up," Then on page 10 of the German and page 13 of the English is a communication of 20 April 1941, which has to do with the statement of the Greek tailor Kitsis, which was referred to in an earlier report.

As I recall there is reference to this in the report from the Commanding officer of the 7th Panzer Grenadier Regiment, page 7 of the English and page 5 of the German "Saloniki 2--April 1944," and this also has Enclosure 1 to the Commander in Chief Army Group E, from the lower units.

"The Greek tailor Christos Kitsis known here for many years appeared today at the office of the Consulate General to make the following statement regarding the incidents in the village of Klissura on the 4th or the 5th of April 1944. These statements are supported by the statement of the principal of the primary school in Klissura Aristotelus Jovas.:

Communist bands who had been in the village of Klissura several times before appeared again on Tuesday, 4 April, towards evening and took billets there. Some days previously the Germans had left. The farmer Andreas Panajotopulos, who at present is a captain with the Pulos Group, had the last guard duty in the village. The night was quiet. The next morning 2 German trucks drove from Kastoria to Amynteon. The road Klissura - Amynteon is about 2½ km distant from the village of Klissura. Both German trucks were shot at by the insurgents from that spot of the road closest to the village. But they continued on their way. Later a German motorcycle with 2 German soldiers passed the same spot. An Italian who now belongs to the Communist bands, threw hand grenades at the German soldiers; four of them were killed. The Andarts brought the motorcycle to Klissura. At that time the village was perfectly quiet. In the village itself the Andartes had left guards behind. The population was not permitted to leave the village. After the Andartes had left (about 1400) all male inhabitants left the village due to fear of German reprisal measures.

The men found refuge partly in the monastery of Panajia and partly in the village of Varikos (a Bulgarian village).

"That means that only women, children and old men remained. German troops arrived in the village about 1600 hours and searched the houses. There were no incidents, no weapons were found.

Immediately afterwards an SS detachment appeared and shot women and children to death partly in the houses, partly on the farms. Furthermore, houses were set on fire.

According to my knowledge the number of dead is 215, primarily women children and old men: and there are 27 wounded. Among the dead were 3 old men who met the arriving detachment and were asked to show the German Wehrmacht the houses in which the Andantes had been billeted the night before. After the 3 old men had pointed out these houses they were shot to death. The village priest and his wife were shot on their ways to the monastery. The house of Captain Andreas Banajotopulos also was burned down.

"According to my knowledge the Nomarch of Florina has made an extensive report of this incident to the Governor General 1 of Saloniki.

"The village inhabitants believe that this incident of the insurgents occupying the village occurred with the purpose of causing the male inhabitants of the village to go to the mountains together with the insurgents"--and there is a pencilled note there: (very characteristic; this method is used frequently by farmers.)

"I note that there never were any Communist elements in Klissura. All my relatives, including a 75 year old uncle, lost their lives in this.

"This statement was confirmed by the Greek teacher Georgies Tripies, who also comes from Klissura. He was present during the making of the report."

And then there is a further statement which is also enclosed which starts on page 11 of the German, page 15 of the English.

"In regard to the incident in Klissura on the 5th of April of this year the Greek citizens Spyres Papchristos and Nikoas Manos make the following statements: these statements were referred to in the earlier communications.

"When the village inhabitants, ourselves included, woke up on Wednesday April 5th they found that there were insurgents outside the village. They surrounded the village and forbade anyone to leave the village. Even the herds might not be driven to the pasture. One detachment of the insurgents marched off in the direction of the road Kosani - Amynteon. The first rifle fire was heard in the village between 9:30 and 10:00. The combat seemingly took place on the main road which was 2½ km distant from the village. Two German trucks could be seen on this road. These however, seemed to have escaped the attack. They continued driving in the direction of Amynteon. A combat between Bulgarian volunteers and the bands developed about 2½ kilometers on the other side of the main road."

"According to my knowledge one insurgent was shot there and 3 to 4 wounded. Shortly after the 2 trucks had disappeared a German motorcycle appeared moving in the same direction. It is alleged that an Italian with the insurgents attacked the motorcycle with hand grenades and that the drivers were killed. The fighting was broken off about 1300 o'clock. The insurgents moved off in the direction of Profiti Elias touching the edge of the village of Klissurea. After they had gone the guards around the village were also removed whereupon the male inhabitants of the village went away in order to find refuge in the monastery and in a neighboring Bulgarian village. Immediately afterwards the Bulgarians together with a German detachment moved into Klissura. They had pushed forward from the village of Verga. Meanwhile it had become about 1400 o'clock. They started the searching of houses which took place without incident. Some time later machine gun fire could be heard coming from the direction of the forest.

A detachment of about 25 German motor vehicles from Amynteon arrived about 1530 o'clock. Although the village was perfectly quiet the shooting started immediately. 5 men, among them 3 old men, who led the Germans through the village were let go then and shot to death from behind. Women and children were shot in houses and yards whereupon the houses were set on fire. We do not know the exact number of losses since there are still some dead under the ruins.

"I, Spyres Papachristos, was told by my son that a German officer belonging to the unit arriving from Verga attempted to order these shootings stopped."

"Although he does not understand German, the behavior of the officer made him think so. Shortly afterwards the firing of a flare gave geh signal to stop the shootings. The detachment left again about 1930 hours. The village priest with his wife was shot to death on the street near his apartment.

"The Secretary of the Society of the Residents of Klissura, Elias Jovas, submitted a list of the casualties ascertained on the first day (5 April). In regard to the appearance of the insurgents he remarked that these probably surrounded the village during the night. The fact was that the people learned of the surrounding of the village only when dawn came. There never had been Communist elements among the residents of Klissure, he said."

And over on page 14 of the original, page 13 of the German, page 18 of of the English, is a list of the victims of Klissura as of 5 April 1944, the total number 215, and the various age groups are listed there. Again Your Honors will note it ranges from under 1 year of age to people who are between 85 and 90; and I would again like to direct the Court's attention to the first page of the exhibit, the comments of the defendant Weichs in his letter of 6 July 1944 to envoy Neubacher, the last sentence of the first paragraph:

"I conscientiously believe that a further following up of this matter would meet with no success."

Turning now to page 15 in the English -- or in the German, page 21 in the English, Document NOKW 081 -- page 14 in the German and page 19 in the English -- excuse me, Your Honors -- Document NOKW --081, which is offered as prosecution exhibit 483, this is a one page report from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group F, dated 16 July 1944, referring to the action at Distomon.

Now, this reference number here of 4506 is the same reference number that was used in communication from the Commander in Chief Southeast of 6 July 1944 with reference to the Klissura action and it is the same number which was used in the communication of 20 June 1944 to the Wehrmacht, Oberkommando Wehrmacht, the Wehrmacht Operation Staff, that communication again being from the Commander in Chief Southeast by his Chief of Staff.

The same file number is on the report of the Commanding Officer of the 7th Panzer Grenadier SS Regiment on page 5 of the English, page 4 of the German. That report is dated 3 June 1944.

This is from Oberkommando Suedost in Army Group F, that is, the Commander-in-Chief Army Group F to OKW/WFSt.

"Reference: Commander in Chief Southeast High Command Army Group F Ic/A O No.4506 Secret of 20 June 44. Subject: Occurrences during combat at Distomon."

" According to combat reports of the 7th SS Tank Infantry Regiment" -- and, if Your Honors please, I would like to submit this to the interpreter. This is the same unit. Still they translate it as a "Panzer Garadier Regiment."

It is the first line of the letter, Mr. Jacobsohn.

INTERPRETER JACOBSON: It is the same unit.

MR. DENNEY: "According to combat reports of the 7th SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment, the village Distomen was attacked during a skirmish with insurgents on the road Lewadia-Amfissa on 10 June and after the mopping up of the village 250 to 300 dead persons, suspected of being bandits and relatives of bandits were counted.

According to another report received from an NCO of the Secret Field Police"--and that, if Your Honors please, is the Geheime Feldpolize, of which we have heard before -- "belonging to the Secret Field Police Group 510 which participated in the operation, Distomon was reached without combat whilst combats with the insurgents only began at Stiri (5 kilometers southeast of Distomon) and the inhabitants of Distomon were shot to death after termination of the operation Stiri when the troops came back. According to this latter report, in contrast to the report of the unit, it was a question of a reprisal measure. When interrogated by Corps Judge of the LXVIII Corps, the NCO of the Secret Field Police upheld his first statement in every detail. The Corps Headquarters of the LXVIII Corps has ordered that the Commander of the 4th SS Panzer Grenadier Division be examined with regard to the false official report which was made knowingly.

"According to information available up until now, there is a striking parallel to occurrences in Klissura which also concerns the SS 7th Panzer Grenadier Regiment. After the submission of the results of the examination, a supplementary report by Corps Headquarters of the LXVIII Corps remains withheld.

"The Special Plenipotentiary of the Foreign Office who requested explanations of the occurrences is informed of the contents of the reports available up to now.

"According to a report of Radio Cairo, in the Greek language, on 15 July, Hull commented at a press conference on the occurrences in Distomon."

The initial "R" and at the bottom is typed, "Commander in Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group F) Ic/Army High Command No.5298 of 16 July 44" and it is certified to by an illegible signature "Colonel in the General Staff."

And, if Your Honors please, the reference to Hull which is here made, it is submitted, refers to the then Secretary of State of the United States Cordell Hull, who will appear in a later document.

The 68th Corps which is referred to here is the Corps of the defendant Felmy and the Special Plenipotentiary of the Foreign Office who is referred to here is the Neubacher with whom we have been familiar before.

Turning then to page 15 of the German, page 21 in the English Document NOKW-467, which is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 494 in evidence this is a series of detailed reports covering the period June to December 1944 and one of January 1945 with reference to the prior exhibit, the action in the Greek town of Distomon.

The first communication is from the Commanding Officer of the SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment 7, the same Standartenfuehrer and Regimental Commander who wrote the earlier report, von Schuemers, dated 21 July 1944. It's addressed to the Commanding General of the 68th Corps and bears a stamp up at the right with reference to an enclosure, one, to the Army, that is, the Commander-in-Chief Southeast, the small stamp; and then there is a receipt stamp from the 68th Corps dated 23 July.

"Subject: Events in Distomon on 10 June 1944. Reference: Order by the Commanding General 9.7.1944" -- that is the 9th of July -- and it is addressed to the Commanding General of the 68th Infantry Army Corps, who was at that time the defendant Felmy.

"The investigation ordered regarding the events at Distomon on 10 June 1944 has been accomplished. The Regiment herewith submits for your information:

"Interrogations of the SS leaders of that company participating in the events at Distomon.

"Comment of the battalion commander "A statement by Corporal Koch of the Secret Field Police."

And that again, if Your Honors please, refers to the "Geheime Feldpolizei."

"Investigations were made to clarify the following points in particular:

"1) Does the shooting to death of the 12 prisoners who were exceedingly suspected of being bandits represent a breach of the Fuehrer order regarding the treatment of PWs?

"2) Were reprisal measures against the village of Distomon justified and was the company commander empowered to order such measures to be taken?

"3) What factual errors and inexactitudes are contained in the combat report of the committed company and how can such deviations from the actual occurrences be explained?"

And then the report continues:

"On the basis of the results of the investigation, the regiment submits the following comment on the individual points of the investigation:

"To 1" -- and that has to do with whether or not the shooting to death of 12 prisoners who were exceedingly suspected of being bandits represented a breach of the Fuehrer order regarding the treatment of prisoners of war -- "The sequence of events regarding the shooting to death of the 12 prisoners is clarified by the interrogation of the SS Obersturmfuehrer Weichenrieder. They were men who were either suspected or convicted of belonging to bands. Since they attempted to escape while being arrested, they had in their possession parts of uniforms and detonation equipment, they were brought to Distomon as prisoners and were guarded by an entire group. As this group had to be employed except for one man and in addition attention seemed to have been diverted by the arrival of the company after the skirmish, these 12 prisoners attempted to escape. Some of them even succeeded in reaching a vegetable plot nearby.

"The use of arms in preventing the escape was a military necessity. The prisoners were shot while trying to escape.

"A procedure for negligent guarding of prisoners would have been the consequence if arms had not been used.

"The statements of Caporal Koch of the Secret Field Police do not contradict this description. Koch states explicitly that he was looking after the wounded interpreter Theo of the Secret Field Police during that period.

According to his own statement, some of his statements regarding some details of the events in Distomon are not based on observations of his own.

"Summarizing the above, one may say that there was no transgression against the Fuehrer order regarding the treatment of prisoners of war. Rather convicted, or at least exceedingly suspicious bandits were shot to death during an attempted escape. The shootings did not fall within the framework of reprisal measures."

Then with reference to "2", this has to do with whether or not reprisal measures against the village of Distomon were justified and whether the Company Commander was empowered to order such measures to be taken, and I would just like to direct your Honor's attention again to these questions and the second question: "Were reprisal measures against the village of Distomen justified?"

"The interrogation of the Company Commander SS Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach offers an impressive picture regarding the cooperation of the civilian population with the bandits. The guilt of the inhabitants of Distomon is proven by their assurances when questioned, that there are no bandits in the vicinity, while actually bands are in readiness at a distance of 500 meters. The inhabitants must have noticed this under any circumstances. During this interrogation SS Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach at length explains the reasons why, as a soldier, he not only believed himself to be justified but even considered it his duty to take immediate measures.

"Tho regiment – in complete accordance with SS Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach – is convinced that the competent authorities would have ordered reprisal measures against Distomon. This would have meant renewed enemy resistance and attacks and it would have meant a high fuel consumption because of the required large amount of troops. One should also consider the argument that immediate measures are considerably more effective than those taken at a later period."

"No doubt that SS Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach has gone beyond the limits of the orders for reprisal measures. However, he did not do so because of negligence or ignorance of the orders, or in a form which might be considered insubordination. Rather he believed that, in accordance with his duty and responsibility, he had fulfilled by the measures he ordered the sense of the reprisal order, even if he had transgressed the text.

"The communist bands in general are proceeding now not only to form rifle women formations but are also using women and children for espionage purposes, as communication agencies, because they have confidence in German humanitarianism which sometimes turns to softness. They train them for acts of sabotage and for throwing bombs (see i.e. Regimental reports on the enemy situation dated 10.6.44 and .7.7.44). The Company commander thought he would have to make an example in such a clear case of civilians belonging to a band, as happened in Distomon.

"Whereby the occupying power would prove with all clearness that it also know how to counteract the meanest and most vicious "warfare". If one side continuously disregards the laws of warfare and international law, it necessarily forces the other side to employ measures going beyond the usual framework of soldierly, combat between two chivalrous adversaries.

"Though I appreciate SS Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach's idea from a soldierly end human point of view, I request to be permitted to punish him by disciplinary action, since "I cannot approve of his acting independently because on his own he overstepped the bounds which were laid down by order of superior authority."

Then with reference to the third point which is contained in the initial paragraph of the communication from the Regimental Commander of the 7th Panzer Grenadier Regiment.

"What factual errors and inexactitudes are contained in the combat report of the committed company, and how can such deviations from the actual occurrence be explained.

"From the combat report submitted by SS Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach the regiment immediately appreciated that SS Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach had exceeded his orders. On the other hand it was clear that he had done so, gladly taking upon himself the responsibility. The regiment believed it had to cover SS Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach. His procedure seemed to be merely a transgression against formality and corresponded to a natural soldierly feeling, SS Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach who is one of the best company commanders of the regiment was to be guarded against incriminating himself with insubordination in his combat report. That is why the regiment suggested changing the form of some individual paragraphs of the combat report. Statements pertaining to losses of the enemy and our own remain unchanged. However SS Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach unhappily changed the location of the fire attack in order to explain, to justify and to give the reasons for his reprisal measures, which were inwardly justified but which did not correspond to the text of the orders.

"In this manner, the combat report does not correspond in all points to the actual course of events. In regard to this also, I request permission to call SS Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach to account. The suggestion of the regiment not to incriminate himself was misunderstood and misinterpreted by him after he realized he was not authorized to give the reprisal order.

"In consideration of the sacrifices which the regiment had to accept in a relatively large measure in its present area, I request that the matter rest with the disciplinary punishment of the case and not to direct further measures.

In an understandable emotion, caused by the sad fate of their comrades, and 2nd Company, a unit particularly young and eager for combat, has made mistakes. The Company Commander was also in error. The regiment believed it ought to cover and excuse this action for reasons explicitly given above.

"Since the mistakes in the combat report are not due to any base motives, I again request permission to handle it by disciplinary proceedings."

Then there is a signature, which is illegible, of SS-Standartenfuehrer and Regimental Commander. Handwritten at the bottom, dated 22 July, 1944. The year does not appear, there appears:

"I agree to the procedure suggested by the SS-Standartenfuehrer and Regimental Commander."

And it is signed, "Felmy", and this is written in his own hand.

Then on page 19 of the German, page 26 of the English, is a report from the Third Battalion of the SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment No. 7, which is dated 20 July 1944, and over on the right is the statement.

"2 enclosures to Commander-in-Chief Southeast/ 1c No. 5924/44" These are minutes of an investigating officer, made by one SS Hauptsturmfuehrer Heske, SS Regimental Provost Marshal, recorded by SS Unterscharfuehrer Hillebrand:

"The person named below appeared by order of regimental commander. He was informed of the subject of the investigation and the legal consequences of untrue statements, and was interrogated as follows:

"1. Personal:

"I am Georg Weichenrieder, 24. I am on active SS leader and SS-Obersturmfuehrer. I am a platoon leader in the 2nd SS Pz. Grenadier Regiment 7. I am married and childless. I am a believer in God. I have no criminal record."

Now this man Weichenrieder is the one who is referred to in the letter from the regimental commander of the SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment to General Felmy, Commander of the 68th Corps, and that communication is dated 21 July 1944.

The reference to Weichenrieder is on page 22 of the English, and page 15 of the German.

Subject matter:

"I gave the order to fire on the 18 Greeks attempting to escape, who were thoroughly suspect of belonging to bandits. The contents of the combat report of the 2nd SS Pz. Grenadier Regiment 7, dated 11.6. 1944 are correct. They are incomplete, or rather inexact, only inasmuch as the attempted escape took place in two different localities. The combat report does not express that clearly.

"First, 6 men shot to death in the area of the Palioklisi Ridge. The remaining 12 were captured. These 12 men attempted their escape in Distomen as parts of the company returned to Distomen on their way back from a reconnaissance mission to Stiri. It is probable that the arrestees considered this moment propitious for their attempt to escape. Only I guard was available to guard the 12 prisoners since he was the only one remaining from the original Guard Group after the rest of the men of this group had to be employed for combat tasks. Two of the 12 prisoners had already escaped to behind the house in front of which they were guarded. 3 others were even able to reach a nearby vegetable plot. The in part almost successful attempt to escape could only be interpreted as proof and admission of membership of a band. Since I had been charged with the responsibility to guard these bandits I was obliged to stop their escape by opening fire on the fugitives.

"Thus, it was not a matter of shooting to death within the framework of any reprisal measures, but it was rather a military necessity to prevent the escape of prisoners who had been recognized as bandits."

It is certified to by, "Heske, and a signature SS-Hauptsturmfuehrer and SS Regimental Provost Marshal". On the left:

"This has been read to me, approved, signed, Weichenrieder, SS- Obersturmfuehrer."

On the next page, which is page 20 of the German, page 28 of the English, is a further report by the investigating officer:

"SS-Hauptsturmfuehrer Heske, SS Regimental Provost Marshal.

"Recorded by: SS-Unterscharfuehrer Hillebrand.

"The person named below appeared by order of regimental commander. He was informed of the subject of the investigation and the legal consequences of untrue statements, and was interrogated as follows:

"1. Personal:

I am Fritz Lautenbach, 27. I am an active SS leader and SS-Hauptsturmfuehrer. I am a Company Commander of the 2nd SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment 7. I am unmarried. I am a believer in God. I have no criminal record.

"2. Subject Matter:

I am acquainted with the orders pertaining to the treatment of prisoners and reprisal measures. I concede to not having followed them exactly in all points.

"The following considerations constitute the reasons for my procedure. Accompanying circumstances showed beyond all doubt that the assistance extended to the bands by the civilian population of Distomon was the only cause of our own losses. The competent authorities would also have subsequently ordered reprisal measures in accordance with orders. The execution of these reprisal measures would have necessitated sending a strong mission with corresponding high fuel consumption to Distomon at a later time. These troops in their turn would have had to count with enemy resistance and consequently with casualties of their own. In fact, on other occasions, there was particularly stubborn enemy resistance in this same area. As the orders themselves state again and again, reprisal measures have an impressive effect only if they follow the action to be avenged immediately, and not only after a longer period of time. In the face of the dead and wounded of my company, these considerations caused my decision to follow the sense and not the letter of the reprisal order.

I understood clearly that my directives could be taken as formal transgressions. However, I figured that they would be approved post-factum on a soldierly and human basis.

"The regiment on its part pointed out to me that my combat report in its original version would incriminate me in regard to a transgression of orders issued, and that a new version was necessary. Thereupon, I rewrote the report. Whereby several unintended inexactitudes crept in, which however were not intended originally.

"Possibly one or the other formulations was influenced or limited by the dramatic and varied events of the 10 of June which in part were painful for the company because of the casualties.

"The 18 men shot to death in the areas of Palioklisi and in Distomon were all shot while trying to escape (6 of them were captured, the remaining 12 during an attempt to escape in Distomon). None of them was shot as a reprisal measure. The urgent suspicion that these civilians belonged to a band was founded on their behavior and the finding of blasting equipment and of parts of uniforms at the locality where they were.

"The shooting attack on parts of my company took place about 2 km. southeast of Distomon. Civilians from Distomon working in the fields energetically denied the presence of bandits. These civilians were about 500 to 600 meters distant from the enemy positions which were situated in an approximate semi-circle around the column. On this assumption it is impossible for them to have overlooked the bandits' preparation to attack. The efforts of the civilians to lure the soldiers into ambush proved their previously arranged and conceded cooperation with the bands. For this reason, I believe myself justified in the immediate execution of reprisal measures. The previous behavior of the population led one to the logical and immediate conclusion that further attacks from the ambush, even from the village itself, would have to be counted on at any time. My measures also intended to stop losses which might possibly occur in the future. My first combat report, which I later rewrote, expressed this also."

Certified, "Heske, SS-Hauptsturmfuehrer and SS-Regimental Provost Marshal". It is also signed, "Fritz Lautenbach SS-Hauptsturmfuehrer".

Then turning to page 22 of the German, and 31 of the English, this is a communication dated 20 July 1944:

"Reference: Letter LXVIII Infantry Corps to 4th SS-Pol. Pz. Gren. Div.

"Subject: Verbal order of the Regimental Commander.

"To the "SS-Ranzer-Grenadier-Regiment 7 "STATEMENT "The statement made against myself in the letter cited above requires the following clarification:

"The combat group SS-Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach accomplished independently the mission I ordered for the reconnaissance in the area Arachowa-Distomen. I received a report of the development of the action via radio at battalion headquarters in Lewadia. Shortly before the combat group Lautenbach reached the village of Distomon, radio connection with it was interrupted. It was reconstituted only after the fighting was over.

"Immediately after the mission, the 2nd company was transferred to Lamia for the execution of an operation in the Sperchios Valley and subordinated directly to the regiment. Since the preceding events required a regimental report to the Army Command, the disputed combat report was produced in Lamia by Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach and immediately sent to the regiment. This combat report was received by the battalion only later for information. For the above reasons, I still feel justified in having made the statements appearing in the last paragraph in my report dated 26 June 44 - Br. Diary No. 339/44 Secret."

Then on the next page, is a report from one George Koch, who has been referred to before, to the First Battalion of the SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment 7, dated 20 July 1944, and again enclosed 5 to the Commander-in-Chief Southeast, 1c, No. 5924/44.

Koch is an under-officer in the Secret Field Police Group No. 510:

I wish to add the following to the events described by me in my report dated 12.6.1944.

"I was unable to make personally all observations of the events described in my report dated 12.6.1944. It was absolutely impossible for one individual to observe everything in an operation executed by two companies, since I myself did not participate in everything nor could I be everywhere at once. That is why by mutual agreement with the members of the company I have used statements and also the combat report of the company as a basis for my report. Neither have I made any observations which would contradict the statement of SS Obersturmfuehrer Weichenrieder which has been read to me since. As explained in my statement dated 2.7.1944, I spent some time looking after our interpreter who was lying in the market place.

(Signed) Koch Unteroffizier" Then there is a personal pencil notation:

"1A IF. In answer to special inquiry R 19/7" I think that is all we have to say about it.

In looking at this document and the previous one, your Honors will please see the large figure 22 D, on this and other documents. On this one I do not know what it means, unless it is some sort of an identification or number that they put on to connect some of these papers.

The next is on page 25 of the German, page 33 of the English, which is from the Commander in Chief Southeast, Commander in Chief Army Group F 1c/AO No. 4506, secret, dated 20th June 1944.

Then if your Honors please, this is the file number that we have referred to before, the first time that was used was on page 2 of this book, and it was later used in July on page 1 of this book, and now they are using it again:

"Events during fighting in Distomon.

"According to the combat report of the SS-Panzer Grenadier Regiment 7, the village Distomon was attacked during fighting with bands on the road Lewadia-Amfissa on the 10.6 and after a mopping up operation of the village, 250 to 300 dead band suspects and band members were counted. In other reports submitted by a Secret Field Police Unteroffizier of the Secret Field Police Group 510 who participated in the action Distomon was reached without fighting. The fighting with a band took place near Stiri (5 km. Southeast of Distomon) and the inhabitants of Distomon were shot dead only after the finish of the operation Stiri and the return of the troops. Accordingly, in contrast, to the report of the troops, it would have been a reprisal measure. Interrogated by the Corps Judge of LXVIII Infantry Corps, the Unteroffizier of the German Secret Field Police fully reaffirmed this report. Corps Hqs. of LXVIII Infantry Corps ordered the commanding officer of the 4th SS-Pz. Gren. Div. to make an investigation of the entire incident because of deliberately false official report.

"The records available up to this point show a striking parallel to the events at Klissura which also concerned Pz. Gren. Regiment No. 7. Supplementary report after submission of the results of the investigation by Corps Hqs. of the LXVIII Infantry Corps is reserved.

"The special plenipotentiary of the Foreign Office who has asked for an explanation of the events has been informed as to the contents of the reports available up to now.

"According to radio Cairo in Greek of 15.7, Hull has commented on the events in Distomon during a press conference."

This is certified to by one, "Harling".

Now on page 26 of the German, and 35 of the English, this is a teletype to Army Group E.

"Subject: Fighting in Distomon".

And this again comes from the Commander in Chief Southeast, High Command Army Group F: "You are requested to request Corps Headquarters of the LXVIII Infantry Corps to submit speedily the results of the investigation re Distomon asked for by the 4th SS Panzer Grenadier Division". The signature here is typed, but at the left is signed, "Certified, v. Harlingm Lt. Colonel". And then the next report-

PRESIDING JUSTICE CARTER: I believe that this is a convenient time to take our afternoon recess.

(Recess taken).

THE MARSHAL: Tribunal 5 is again in session.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: You may proceed, Mr. Denney.

MR. DENNEY: May it please Your Honors. Page 24 of the German, Page 35 of the English, Document No. NOKW-467, which is Exhibit No. 484 in evidence, is a teletype from the Commander in Chief, Army Group F and Commander in Chief Southeast, to Commander in Chief, Army Group E, again with reference to the fighting in Distomon. This is another copy of the same telegram which has just been read, and I don't think we need to read it. It bears pencilled notations which are apparent. And then on the next page, Page 26 of the German, Page 36 of the English - this is to the Wehrmacht Operational Staff, and it's from the Commander in Chief of Southeast and again refers to fighting in Distomon, and the reference is 4506, which goes back to that communication on page 2 of this Document Book, which has to do with Kassura. That is the communication of June 20, 1944 from Weichs, as Chief of Staff to the OKW.

"According to the combat report of the SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment 7, the village Distomon was attacked during fighting with bands on the road Lewadia-Amfissa on the 10.6." And this continues, and I believe there's another copy of the same report which we had a little earlier. Yes, this is the same one which was offered as Exhibit No. 483, and I don't think we have to read it again here. And then the next page of the document is all typewritten and is dated 16 July 1944. It says: "Yesterday, British bombers attacked the German flying bomb base in Licour Northwest of Paris. Flying bombs dropped on the area of London and Southern England last night and today." And I don't think we have to read any more until we get down to the bottom of the page, which is Page 27 and 28 of the German and Page 38 of the English, where it says, "In connection with the destruction of the Greek village of Distomon by the German," and then there is the "Cordell" which should be Cordell Hull, and then as follows: "The execution of the village residents is one more example of the terrorist Reich which the Nazis have brought about in Europe.

They are getting wilder from day to day because they recognize more and more the approach of the day of retaliation. The Allied Nations will punish the criminals." And then ever on Page 29 of the German, Page 39 of the English, is a letter of 10 July 1944 from Army Group E to High Command, Army Group F, Commander in Chief Southeast, and it bears the receipt stamp of the Commander in Chief Southeast for 12 July, Subject: Events during fighting in Distomon. "Enclosed you will find a report of the commanding general of the LXVIII Infantry Corps with four enclosures as well as a letter addressed to the Commanding Officer of the 4th SS Polizei Panzer Grenadier Division for the purpose of a renewed investigation regarding a deliberately false official report from the SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment 7. Obviously it is a similar case to that which happened at that time near Klisura." Here as there the incidents reports pertaining to the SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment No. 7.

"In connection with the incidents themselves, it is pointed out that the regimental commander has reported that the orders issued from here concerning combatting of bands are known and allegedly were acted upon. The report of the investigation by the commanding officer of the 4th SS-Pol.Pz. Gren. Div. as ordered by the commanding general will be submitted in due course. It does not seem impossible that the statements of the member of the Secret Field Police will be voided by the testimony of witnesses of the participating unit, SS Pz, Gren. Regt. 7. The final result is to be awaited.

As can be seen from the letter of the Commanding General, envoy Neubacher has requested submission of a report of the events. It is requested that envoy Neubacher be informed accordingly from there."

And then it is signed "For the High Command of Army Group E, Chief of the General Staff, Schmidt-Richberg." And the next document Page 30 of the German, Page 40 of the English, is from the Corps headquarters, 68th Infantry Corps, The Commanding General, who was, at that time, the Defendant Felmy, and it's dated 4 July 1944, and is addressed to Army Group E, and it bears their receipt stamp for 6 July.

"I am enclosing for the Army Group a report on the events during the fighting in Distomon dated 10.6.44. According to it, the SS Pz. Gren. Regt. 7 has submitted a knowingly false official report.

Envoy Neubacher has requested that a report be submitted from the local branch office regarding those events. I have asked the Branch Office to reply to the effect that the report has been submitted to Army Group E."

And this is signed by the Defendant Felmy. And then on the next page is another communication, again from Corps headquarters of the 68th Corps, at that time commanded by the Defendant Felmy, which is dated 4 July 1944. And this is again an enclosure to the Commander in Chief Southeast/Ic, No. 5298, and is addressed to the Commanding General of the 4th SS Panzer Division, "or his official deputy."

"The enclosed combat report of the operations of the 2nd Company SS Pz. Gren. Regt. 7 on the 10.6.44 pertaining to the fighting at Distomen has been submitted by SS Pz. Gren. Regt. 7.

Enclosure 2: This report and the official report rendered therein is deliberately false.

Under Number 1 of the combat report appears the following: . . . Civilians and bandits opened fire on an approaching dismounted platoon. 18 younger men were shot while trying to escape, while we ourselves were rapidly advancing.

The facts are that no one shot at the troops from the fox holes which had been searched, that 6 Greeks who attempted to escape were shot dead and that the other 12 were arrested. Under number 2 of the combat report appears the following: Fire was opened suddenly against the company from the direction of Distomon with trench mortars, machine guns and rifles even before Distomon was reached.

The company suffered its entire casualties during this first fire attack; 5 men were killed, 18 leaders, subleaders and men were wounded, of whom 4 heavily wounded have died in the meantime at the medical central collecting point. Thereupon, I ordered the opening of fire and the attack on Distomon with all weapons at our disposal. After the mopping up of the village 250 to 300 dead members of bands and men suspected of belonging to bands were counted. Immediately following, the rest of the houses were burned down.

The facts are that Distomon was reached without contact with the enemy and that the troops remained several hours in the village without any action on the part of the enemy.

The fire attack of the partisans took place during a thrust of SS-Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach with a light motorized column from Distomon in the direction of Stiri, about halfway on the road Distomon Stiri. After the return of the troops, reprisal measures were executed on that civilian population which had remained in Distomon. During that time the 12 prisoners who had been brought along were shot dead.

The shooting to death of prisoners is a transgression against the order of the Fuehrer who has determined that all prisoners of war are to be sent to Germany for labor employment. The behavior of the SS-Sturmbannfuehrer and battalion commander Hickert, has not only made the counter propaganda of the Corps Hqs. valueless, which was based on the combat report, but due to it, I no longer have any lever to take steps against the district chief of Lewadia.

Besides, the procedure used by SS Sturmbannfuehrer and battalion commander Rickert does not correspond with the orders issued by the Corps Hqs. Concerning this he says in his report dated 26.6.44 (diary) No.599/44 secret in the last paragraph:

I am acquainted with all orders issued pertaining to reprisal measures and shooting of hostages and I may assume that the superior authorities have confidence in me, that as an officer I will execute my tasks within the framework of these orders:

the strong accusations which I must make against SS Pz. Gren. Regt. 7 are based on the report of Group Secret Field Police 510 T.B. (daybook entry and the day) as well as on the interrogation based on that report of Unteroffizier Koch of the Secret Field Police 510 by the Corps Judge of the LXVIII Infantry Corps, Oberkriegsgerichtsrat Giesecke.

I request the Commanding Officer of the 4th SS-Pz. Gren. Div. to start an investigation of the entire incident and to report its results to me.

Attached: Enclosures 1 to 4.

(signed) Felmy And then enclosure 1 to this is from the Group Secret Field Police 510, Office No. IV, Diary No. 425/44:

"Subject: Operation for the purpose of freeing the road LewadiaArachawa on 10.6.44.

"Report.

"The 2nd Company of the SS-Pz. Gren. Regt. 7 with Lewadia as a base, supported by the 10th and 11th Company, with the base Arachawa, executed an operation to free the road Lewadia-Arachawa on 10.6.44. Attached to the 2nd Company during this operation were Unteroffizier Koch and interpreter Theo, who belong to the local unit.

"The fully motorized 2nd Company left their base in the direction of Arachawa at 8:15 o'clock of the 10.6.44. In order to deceive the bandits a civilian detachment of 18 men was employed. This rode in advance of the company on two Greek trucks at a fifteen minute interval. The civilian detachment contacted the units of the 3rd Btl., 7 Rgt, two kilometers west of the road fork Lewadia-Arachawa - Lewadia-Distomon at 0850 hours without contacting the enemy.

Twelve Greeks were arrested who were found in the dugouts situated five kilometers east of the road fork and one kilometer north of Palioklisi while these were being searched. At our approach six Greeks attempted to escape, whereupon they were shot dead.

"After completion of the actual mission SS-Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach, who commanded the 2nd Company, received a new mission from the battalion. Together with the 10th Company he was to thrust ahead for reconnaissance to Distomon. It was not possible to take over the village at the same time. In Distomon the Burgermeister and the priest of Stiri informed us of the appearance in Distomon of about 30 bandits, who had arrived from the direction of Dessina on 9.6.44 about ten o'clock and left again about 1500 hours of the same day in the direction of Stiri. On 10.6.44, about ten o'clock, the bandits were said to have left Stiri in the direction of Kiriaki. Information was further received that the band leader of the 3rd Battalion, 34-Elas Regiment, who was known under the pseudonym 'Mawrojannis', might have been killed in combat near Dessina.

"The 10th Company having left Distomon about 1430 hours, SS-Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach decided to thrust ahead as far as Stiri for the purpose of reconnoitering the cross country and road situation. He took a light motorized column consisting of two Greek trucks, three passenger cars, and three motorcycles. The headquarters of the local unit also took part in the reconnaissance trip in order to undertake a further reconnaissance of the band situation in Stiri.

"When the head of the civilian detachment was about 700 meters northwest of Stiri - about 1510 hours - the column received strong machine gun and rifle fire from the ridges situated east and northeast of the road. Due to the lack of cover and the insufficient distance between the vehicles, most casualties occurred immediately after firing had commenced. For this reason the immediate deployment of the combat group and the opening of our own fire was not possible. Furthermore no heavy weapons had been taken along. The bandits also employed an 8 cm. trench mortar so that the fire of the bandits covered the entire area in which the combat group found itself. The enemy was in good positions and about 30 to 35 men strong. Alerted by red flare signals and the noise of the fighting, the troops which had remained in Distomon advanced for support. After our own weapons had been fully committed, the bandits took flight in an easterly direction. We followed them immediately. But a continued pursuit of the bandits was considered irresponsible because the combat group had been much weakened if one deduct casualties and medics as well as security troops. For this reason, the losses of the band could not be ascertained. However, it is very probable that the band had suffered losses since numerous traces of blood were found in their positions.

"The company returned to Distomon about 0730 hours. The view prevailed that the population was thoroughly informed regarding the position of the bandits because, oddly enough, there wasn't a human being tilling the soil in the fields situated within the zone of attack.

For this reason, the twelve prisoners and the population still remaining in the village were shot dead and a part of the houses set on fire.

"Immediately at the opening of the surprise fire, the interpreter Theo of the local unit was heavily wounded by a shot through the upper part of the thigh and stomach. He died from his wounds during the night of the 11th-12th of June. Unteroffizier Koch of the local unit was lightly wounded by a shell splinter.

"The heavily wounded were transferred to the main medical collecting station Amfissa.

"The company left Distomon to Lewadia about 1230 hours.

"Casualties: 3 dead; 18 wounded, of whom 4 died at the medical collection station; 1 Greek truck driver dead.

"Signed: Koch, Unteroffizier and Auxiliary Police Candidate."

And down below is typed: "Read: Signed signature Feldwebel and deputy unit chief."

And next again, which is all typed, and is the second enclosure, is the report of the SS-Sturmabführer and deputy regimental commander, with reference to "Operation near Distomon; Reference: Telephone call today from your Ic".

"To the Corps Headquarters, LXVIII Infantry Corps.

"Enclosed we are submitting a copy of a combat report concerning the operation near Distomon. In connection with it I wish to state that resistance was broken at my explicit order according to which enemy resistance was to be broken with all means at our disposal. All available weapons were employed before the company took the village by assault in order to avoid unnecessary losses above those which had already occurred.

"The descriptions of the prefect of Lewadia are immeasurably exaggerated and are thoroughly characteristic of the peculiar attitude of the person concerned. It is regrettable that innocent civilians lost their lives or were wounded in the skirmish, but in such cases this can not be avoided, particularly if the bandits open fire from ambush with trench mortars, machine guns, and rifles."

And then the rest is typed.

And then on the next page is the communication from Corps Headquarters, 68th Infantry Corps, dated 2 July 1947, and has to do with the affairs in Distomon, and a statement signed by Unteroffizier Koch of the Secret Field Police Group 510:

"Unteroffizier Koch of the Secret Field Police Group 510 appears by virtue of an order. Having been informed of the object of this interrogation, of the significance of his statement and also the possibility that he may have to swear to it, he states as follows:

"1) My name is George Koch, 30, Protestant. I am a professional waiter, Unteroffizier with Group Secret Field Police 510.

"2) Subject: the statements I made in my report of 12.6 about the operation for the purpose of freeing the road Lewadia-Arachowa on 10.6, correspond entirely to the facts. I make this report the subject of my interrogation today. I myself participated in the entire operation and was able to observe and follow the individual events.

"A.B.: 1) The Troops were not fired at from the dug-outs which were searched - 5 kilometers East of the road fork Arachowa-Distomon. 12 persons were captured and taken along to Distomon.

"2) Distomon was reached without making contact with the enemy. The troops remained several hours in the village without any action on the part of the enemy.

"3) The fire attack of the partisans took place on the occasion of the reconnaissance thrust on Stiri, halfway on the road between that place and Distomon.

"4) After the troops returned to Distomon, the 12 prisoners who were taken back were shot dead in the market place as reprisal measures, assumedly by order of an Obersturmfuehrer who most likely was present during that incident. Subsequent to that, all people present in Distomon were shot dead where ever they happened to be. At that time, I was at the market place and was looking after our wounded interpreter. As far as I observed events, 60 to 70 persons men, women and children – were killed in the vicinity of the market place. As far as I could see it, all were shot dead. I did not see inhabitants being killed in any other way, i.e. beaten to death by rifle butt, or by pouring gasoline over them and setting them on fire. Detachments were sent out to search for more people in the individual houses. I do not know how many people were killed all together. When presented with the statement that his statements directly contradict the combat report of the unit employed, I can only repeat my statements.

I have read SS Hauptsturmfuehre Lautenbach's combat report, the statements of which are essentially the same as found in my representation, particularly SS Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach stated that the fire attack of the bandits did not take place before Distomon but only after the reconnaissance thrust between Distomon and Stiri.

"I am ready to swear to the above statements.

Approved Signed George Koch Certified:

signed Giesecke" Signed over at the left -- all this is typed -- "Pauschel and Feldwebel."

And this communication again bears the note that it is enclosure 6 to the High Command Southeast No. 5298/44.

Then on the next page is the copy of the combat report of that SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment No. 7 signed by Hauptsturmfuehrer Lautenbach concerning the employment of the II SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment 7 on the 10th of June, 1944, and this is dated the 11th of June.

"Mission of the company: To push ahead on the road LewadiaAmfissa to Arachowa. To mop-up the bases of the bands which are said to be on that road. Encirclement of the village of Distomon.

"Parts of the Company employed for this purpose: 2 : 12 : 80.

"And in addition: 1 Unteroffizler and 1 Interpreter of the Secret Field Police and 2 Greek truck drivers."

And it is submitted the numbers: 2 : 12 : 80 refer to officers. This is on page 36 of the German, I believe.

JUDGE WENNERSTHUM: Pardon me, Mr. Denney. I seem to have drawn a blank for page 51.

MR DENNEY: Page 51? I am sorry, your Honor, there is nothing I can do about it now. There is nobody here with another book. I will be glad to get your page.

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: Page 51 of Book 21.

MR. DENNEY: Yes, sir.

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: Pardon me, Mr, Denney. Judge Carter calls my attention to the fact the pagination at the top is 31 and it is numbered 52 at the bottom of the page. Maybe that accounts for it.

MR. DENNEY: Well this -- what page do you have, sir? You say you don't have 51?

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: But it is listed as page 52 at the bottom.

MR. DENNEY: Well, that is wrong. It must be there are two 52's in your book then?

JUDGE WENNERSTRUM: It doesn't make any difference, just so I have everything I am supposed to have.

MR. DENNEY: Your Honor, it is submitted that the figures submitted at the bottom there: 2 : 12 : and 80 men, officers, non-commissioned officers and men.

Then over on page 51:

"Distributed as follows: 1 civilian detachment, numerical strength 4 : 14." Now I would like to call your Honors' attention to that. It says "one civilian detachment, numerical strength 4 : 14."

It figures up about 2 : 12 and 80. Officers, non-commissioned officers and men. One civilian detachment, numerical strength 4 : 14.

"1 interpreter "1 operational detachment, numerical strength 2 : 8 : 66.

"1 uffz. of the secret field police in addition."

Now if you will go back and add these figures up, the totals, it is submitted, two under one operational detachment, numerical strength. Two--that takes care of the two officers. The second figure there, eight, being non-commissioned officers, one operational detachment, numerical strength. Two--that takes care of the two officers. The second figure there, eight, being non-commissioned officers, one operational detachment, numerical strength two and then eight. You add the eight and the four and you get twelve.

Twelve is the number of non-commissioned officers they list in the parts of the company employed for this purpose.

And the last figures, fourteen, in the civilian detachment, numerical strength and operational detachment, numerical strength, 66--you get 80. So it is perfectly plain from this that they have a civilian detachment, if they call it civilian detachment, which obviously are people just in civilian clothes sent out ahead who are part of their troops.

"Take off of the civilian detachment: 0800 o'clock of the operational detachment: 0815 o'clock.

"At 0850 hours the civilian detachment contacted 3rd Battalion of the Regiment two kilometers West of the road fork Lewadia-Arachowa, Lewadia-Distomon without coming into contact with the enemy.

Single Greek civilians were observed by the operational detachment 5.

"1) kilometers East of the road fork, 1 kilometers North of Paliokisi. There were in 3 small dug-outs with a herd of sheep consisting of about 30 animals. When a dismounted platoon approached the civilians and bandits opened fire on them. During our own penetrating advance, 18 younger men were shot while trying to escape.

"2) In connection therewith, the village of Distomon was to be encircled immediately by order of the regiment, as it was known that heavy skirmishes had taken place nearby on the preceding day and that bandits had been in the area of Distomon during the night and on the morning of the same day. Before Distomon was reached fire was suddenly opened against the company with mortars, machine gun and rifle from the direction of Distomon. This first fire caused the entire casualties of the company; 3 men were killed, 18 leaders, subleaders and men were wounded, of whom 4 were heavily wounded and have died in the meantime at the main medical collecting point. Thereupon I ordered the opening of fire and the attack on Distomon with all available weapons.

After the mopping up of the village we counted 250 to 300 dead men suspected of belonging to bands or members of bands; immediately following the rest of the houses were set on fire. The company left Distomon at 1830 hours for Lewadia.

Then there is a list of the casualties:

Damage to vehicles: Two motorcycles and five other vehicles received damages ranging from tires shot through, shot through fuel tank, a broken frame and shot through the radiator, and in view of the documents, which have gone before, particularly the statement of Kock, I should like to call your Honors' attention to the consumption of ammunition:

Light machine gun, 3,050 round; rifle 962 rounds; pistol ammunition 1385 rounds; 33 hand grenades; 44 mortar shells.

And at the end of it there is typed Lautenbach, SS-Hauptsturmfuehrer and Company Commander.

And enclosure 3 to this report and enclosure 5 to Commander-inChief Southeast 5298/44 and the 1st SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment 7, communication of 24 June 1944 referring to Corps Headquarters, LXVIII Infantry. This is addressed to the regiment and it is from the Battalion Commander.

The combat report concerning the operation in the area of Distomon has been submitted to the regiment with pertinent comment. The rumors which emanated immediately concerning at least 1200 dead and the desecration of the dead bodies were denied by me to the prefect of Lewadia immediately after the clarification of the facts.

"A member of the Kopais who himself has a family in Distomen told Dr. Magers that about 270 persons lost their lives during the combat at Distomon. Dr. Magers told me that personally on the 22.6.

"In my capacity as leader of the security sector, I refuse to comment on the rumor – no matter where it has emanated from – that mass executions have taken place in Lewadia or that 300 residents were shot as hostages. I am acquainted with all orders issued pertaining to reprisal measures and shooting of hostages and I may assume that the superior authorities have confidence in me that as an officer I will execute my tasks within the framework of these orders."

And the next communication teletype, draft which is from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast to the Armed Forces Wehrmacht Operational Staff and again has to do with the Commander-in-Chief Southeast No. 5298. That is the communication of 16 July 1944. which we had earlier in this same document.

"The concluding report of the SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment 7, dated 21.7 of this year shows that the combat report regarding the band operation near Distomon on the 10.6 did not correspond to the actual course of fighting. The Commanding Officer of the SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment 7 has asked for permission to limit further investigation of this case to disciplinary punishment in consideration of the sacrifices of the regiment in the combat area at the time. The Commanding General of the LXVIII Corps has agreed to a disciplinary procedure."

"The special plenipotentiary of the foreign office has been informed of the result of the investigation."

And it is certified to by Commander in Chief Southeast (High Command Army Group F) "von Harling Lt. Col.

General Staff Corps" And down at the bottom again appears this large 22D, and of course the LXVIII Corps Commander at that time was defendant Felmy and the Commander-in-Chief Southeast was defendant Weichs.

Now the next page is a communication dated 3 August 1944 and it is from Army Group E to the Commander in Chief Southeast, High Command Army Group F having to do with a teletype 5298/44, the teletype of 18 July which was referred to earlier. And again it has to do with the fighting at Distomon:

"Enclosed we are submitting the concluding report of the SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment 7, regarding the events at Distomon. The Commanding General of the Corps Hqs. LXVIII Infantry Corps imparted to the Regimental Commander orally his opinion appearing at the end of this report."

Then on page 43 the teletype to OKW from the Commander in Chief Southeast, "Events during the fighting at Distomon," and this again refers to 5298, "The concluding report of the SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment 7, dated 21.

7 of this year shows that the combat report regarding the band operation near Distomon on the 10.6 did not correspond to the actual course of fighting. The Commanding Officer of the SS Panzer Grenadier Regiment 7 has asked for permission to limit further investigation of this case to disciplinary punishment in consideration of the sacrifices of the regiment in the combat area at the time."

And this of course is the same communication that we had earlier. However, this has the Commander in Chief Southeast, High Command Army Group F. Excuse me, this is the same as the earlier communication that we had. There is no need to read it again.

JUDGE BURKE: Mr. Denney, do you have information regarding the present whereabouts of the envoy Neubacher?

MR. DENNEY: I do not, no, sir. I know of no one who does, however, I can make additional inquiries and see if there is anyone who does have information about him.

The next document NOKW-1715 is an affidavit executed in Berlin by one Erwin Lenz. It is offered as prosecution Exhibit 485 in evidence.

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, I object to the submission of this affidavit the best evidence should be submitted and if this affidavit is accepted, I would like to ask the tribunal to instruct the prosecution that the witness -- that this man who made out this affidavit should come to Nurnberg as witness for cross examination.

MR. DENNEY: Of course, we will make every effort to get him here as a witness and if we can't get him here for Dr. Laternser to cross-examine him, why the Court upon motion by Dr. Laternser it is to be assumed will order the affidavit withdrawn.

I might say in connection with the admission of affidavits in these trials that it was originally proposed before Tribunal I by defense counsel, and this affidavit is made in the form which defense counsel have set up and we have no objection at all to trying to get the man here if we can and if we can't get him here, why the Tribunal can give such weight to the affidavit or reject it as they see fit.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: I think the exhibit will have to be admitted on that theory. However, I think the defense counsel are entitled to have the man here for cross-examination if he can be obtained.

MR. DENNEY: Certainly, your Honor, if we can get him down here, we will. It was in May when he gave the affidavit he was in Berlin and if he can't be here, why certainly we don't maintain that we can put affidavits in and not produce somebody to be cross-examined about it.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: All right, with that understanding you may proceed.

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, naturally it was always the rule that affidavits could be submitted but if somebody objects, either the prosecution or the defense, then the man who made out the affidavit has to come to Nurnberg for cross-examination, and I should like to have this rule observed also in this particular case.

DR. GAWLIK: Gawlik for the defendant Dehner. Your Honor, it has not been proved who this man Henry Sachs is, the man who took the affidavit, whether he is a person at all who is in the position to take such an affidavit and receive it and in the Tribunal, the IMT, it was the rule that the prosecution had to prove that it was a person who was able and was in the position to receive oaths.

MR. DENNEY: Well, this is similar to the affidavits which have been used throughout these trials. I have no personal knowledge of Mr. Sachs at this time. However, I can assure the Court that he is as qualified to take an affidavit as anybody else that we have had taking them, ever since we have been here.

PRESIDING JUDGE CARTER: The affidavit will be received with the understanding that if the witness is not produced for cross-examination, that the affidavit may be stricken on motion of the defense.

"I, Erwin Len z, Berlin-Zehlendorf, Hilssteig 7, having been instructed that false statements will be punishable herewith declare under oath voluntarily and without compulsion:

"I was born in Berlin-Spandau on 12 April 1914 I attended elementary and intermediate school in Spandau and the Professional Business School in Berlin. Subsequently, I was employed as apprentice with the Aron-Works (later Heliowalt-Works) in Berlin-Charlottenburg. In March 1937, I was arrested by the Gestapo for Anti-Nazi Activities. On 30 November 1937, I was sentenced to prison (Zuchthaus) for 2 3/4 years. In December 1939, I was released. Having been declared at first unworthy of bearing arms, I was drafted in February 1943 and assigned to the 999th Division in which were many political ex-prisoners. In May 1943, I was sent with my detachment to Greece and from Athens, I was sent by plane to the Airport of Gaddura on the Island of Rhodes. I was attached to the staff of the IV Battalion of 999th Artillery Regiment where I was employed as a surveyor and map maker. At that time our Commanding Officer Major Winter who came from a small town in Hesse.

The unit mentioned above was the only German Artillery Battalion stationed on Rhodes at the time. Consequently, it was not subordinate tactically to any Artillery Regimental Staff but, it was directly subordinate to the staff of "Assault Division Rhodes". - The first fixed garrison of our staff was on the Mountain of Monte di Mezzo in the valley of the Torrente Lutani till September 1943.

"Up to this date the Island was under a purely Italian Command which had the above mentioned German Division attached to it as support. However, when Italy surrendered at the beginning of September 1943, the Italian troops on Rhodes were disarmed and became prisoners of war excepting those who put themselves at the disposal of the Germans as so-called voluntary helpers or voluntary combatants.

"In June 1944, German soldiers whose names I do not recall who had worked as drivers at the AirPort of Gaddura told me that two senior SS Officers had arrived there by special plane. This fact was particularly remarkable since there were no SS troops on Rhodes. -Other German soldiers whose names

I do not recall either told me later that these SS Officers had called on the Staff of Major General Kleemann (Commander of "Assault Division Rhodes"). There extended conferences had taken place but nothing could be found out regarding them. After a few days however, posters were put up all over the Island in four languages (Greek, Turkish, Italian and German). These posters demanded under threat of punishment that all Jews living on Rhodes move their residence within a prescribed short time limit to certain localities which were situated on the North Coast of the Island. Among these villages were Trianda, Cremasto, Villanova, Belpasso etc. The posters were signed by Major General Kleemann. A short time later, German soldiers told me that the Jews who had been in the above mentioned villages were transported to barracks near the city of Rodi. They were not permitted to leave this building and the entire compound was under guard. Then a few days later, the transport from the barracks to the port of the city of Rodi took place.

"On that day, I went to the Dental Hospital in Rodi and there, I myself observed the following: The Jews (approximately 1200 men, women and children, the larger part of whom were called Egeo Citizens, and Italian designation for the inhabitants of the Dodecaness Islands) had to line up close to the old fortifications facing to the wall. They carried hardly any baggage. I asked some German Soldiers employed to confine and guard them about it and they told me that the Jews would not require any baggage since he wouldn't live much longer. - It was a very hot day. Greek and Turkish civilians who wanted to give drinks and food to the people waiting for the transport were not permitted to pass the blocked area.

Beyond that, Jews turning away from the walls were instructed in the "correct position" with kicks and rifle butts.

"In the afternoon, they were embarked on several old barges. Anyone could see that they were not fit for an extended sea trip. German sailors standing around in the port area told me when I questioned them that a rather long trip was not intended but that the situation would have been taken care of after a few sea miles. I could not get any more detailed explanation. On the occasion of another visit to the Dental Hospital a few days later, two sailors, stating that they had been on the barge with the Jews, told me voluntarily that the vents on the ships had been opened at some distance from the Island. They themselves had returned to Rhodes on the life boats and the ships with the Jews on board had been left to their fate which means that all passengers were drowned. Unfortunately, I was unable to ascertain the names of these two sailors.

At that time, that is in June 1944, Major Matthes was the Commanding Officer of the IV Artillery Battalion, to the staff of which I had been assigned and which was located in the village of Psito. Before the war Matthes was a Protestant minister in Erfurt and is now a prisoner of war in British custody in Egypt. As far as I was able to ascertain he did not participate in the deportation of the Jews.

"In June 1944, the battalion mentioned above was subordinate to the 677th Artillery Regimental Staff for special purposes which was located in the village of Peveragno. Colonel Weissenburg was the Commander of this Staff. According to my investigations Weissenburg also does not seem to have participated in the operation described above.

"This regimental staff was in turn subordinate to the staff of "Assault Division Rhodes" mentioned previously. Its Commander was Major General Kleemann who also has been mentioned above (simultaneously Commandant of the Island of Rhodes and Commandant Eastern Aegean.)

To the Eastern Aegean Sphere of command belonged besides Rhodes the Islands of Skarpanto, Caselrosso, Simi, Calchi, Nisirio, Piscono, Co, Leros, Samos and others. The above mentioned order to the Jews was signed by Kleemann and he may have been primarily responsible for the deportation described, although he may have received orders for it from the two SS Officers. In August 1944, Kleemann was promoted to Lt. General of Panzer Troops and transferred from Rhodes to the Southeast front. The last time I heard of him was in the OKW report of about January 1945 which stated that German troops under the leadership of General Kleemann had repelled thrusts of the Soviet troops in Hungary.

"The "Assault Division Rhodes" belonged to Army Group E, the Commander of which was General Loehr, A few months ago, Loehr was sentenced to death and shot in Belgrade for war crimes committed in Yugoslavia. I doubt that Loehr had ordered the deportation of Jews from Rhodes for as a Luftwaffe General he would certainly not have sent two SS Officers to transmit his orders.

"The soldiers employed to guard and confine the Jews belonged to a battalion of the Grenadier Regiment Rhodes (also Assault Division Rhodes). Its Commanding Officer was a Colonel Schulenburg (or something like that). I can no longer recall the number of the battalion concerned nor the name of its commander. However, Herr Gottfried Spachholz who is now living in Bamberg, Weide 3 will be able to name them, and also many details regarding the deportation. -- Spachholz was also assigned to IV Battalion 999 and, since he is a painter and sculptor by profession, he was detached to the city of Rodi for the purpose of painting pictures, etc. There he lived in the museum. At the time of the deportation Spachholz was constantly in Rodi and he is in a much better position than I am to give information regarding the whole affair.

Furthermore, due to his good knowledge of Italian, he had good personal connections with many residents and he can surely give the names and addresses of many Italian and Greek civilians who will confirm the events depicted above.

"After the deportation, in order to counteract rumors, German officers and other superiors spread the story that the Jews had not been drowned but had been taken to the Island of Co.

"Though during the following months and later as a British prisoner of war in Egypt, I had asked many soldiers formerly employed on Co regarding this, no one could confirm that Jews from Rhodes had ever arrived in Co.

"As a supplement to the deportation, I should like to make the following statement:

"After a part of the German Occupation Troops on the Island had been evacuated and after the withdrawal of the German troops from Greece in the fall of 1944, starvation began on Rhodes, due to supply difficulties the effects of which also were felt by the German troops still remaining on the Island. The Staff of the IV Battalion of the 999th Regiment at that time was located again in Psito. One day, I found on the desk in the room of our adjutant and Nazi Indoctrination officer, one 1st Lt. Prunsch from Jena, a report comprising a few pages marked "secret". It was signed by Brigadier General Wagner who was a commander of the then existing "Panzer Grenadier Brigade Rhodes" and simultaneously, Island Commandant and Commandant Eastern Aegean. Among other things, in this report Wagner said that he had ordered Lieutenant Guenther to use the property, which had been confiscated and secured several months ago from the Jews who had been deported, for the purpose of exchanging it with the local shop-keepers for food stuffs. However, Wagner pointed out simultaneously that this bartering had to be done cleverly since the International Red Cross at that time supplied the civilian population of the Island with food.

Furthermore, in this directive Wagner obliged everyone to keep strict silence regarding the origin of the articles to be bartered. Nevertheless, German soldiers employed as drivers told me that such business has been done.

"The former Brigadier General Wagner, according to information received by me, is still in an Officers' prisoner of war camp in Great Britain. I do not know where the former Lieutenant Guenther is at present. However, he will probably still be in British custody either in the Middle East Command Area or in Great Britain.

"After the German Wehrmacht surrendered on 8 May 1945 British troops occupied Rhodes. I myself left this Island on 24 May 1945 and was sent to Egypt as a prisoner of war.

"I have read each of the 8 pages of this affidavit carefully and countersigned it by my own hand. I have made the necessary corrections in my own handwriting and initialed them. I herewith declare under oath that I have told the whole truth in this statement according to the best of my knowledge and conscience.

Signed: Erwin Lenz.

"Sworn to and signed before me this 10th day of May 1947 at Berlin, Germany by Erwin Lenz, Berlin-Zehlendorf, Hilssteig 7, known to me to be the person making the above affidavit. Henry Sachs."

And then turning to page 49 of the German and 64 of the English, NOKW-649, which is offered as prosecution's Exhibit 486 in evidence. These are reports from the military Commander Greece to the Military Commander Southeast for the period June and July of 1944. Political Situation -- the first one is dated 13 July 1944 and covers the period from the 16 of June to the 15 of July, and the author seems to have been anticipating himself by a day or two, but that is the way the original reports reads.

"The attitude of the population is dependent on the same influence as before; the economic and war situation. Since economic difficulties are increasing, and the war situation is judged unfavorable to us, the attitude of the population, even more than before, is partly waiting, partly hostile.

The obscurity of the overall situation causes wild rumors. The keen fight of the government against Communism as expressed by the propaganda operation from 12th to 22nd of June has not left an enduring impression on the population, because the authority and the area of influence of the government is limited and because the population restrains itself, because it is afraid of communist terror. However, the point of view gains ground that Bolshevism means death for the independent national and economic life of Greece. The proclamation of the Peloponnesus as a Soviet Republic has strengthened that anti-communist front. On the other hand, it proves the growth of the communistic power. It is generally believed that it will not take long before the war has been decided against Germany. The fear of seeing the homeland transposed into a heap of ruins as, for example, in Normandy, dampens the desire for an Anglo-American landing in the Greek area. Further internal disunity. The battle for political leadership did not permit either agreement between the Greek government in Cairo and the Reich Foreign Minister, nor between individual parties and the bands. Opposing views even led to combat between national and communist bands. Notwithstanding all -- the national Eam movement.

"The limited allotment of moneys to the Wehrmacht has the effect of reducing production generally. Concrete: Production decreased Ca. 300 tons to 7,095. Value of production of explosives: 36.150 milliards drachmas. (Previous month: 76 milliards drachmas) Wehrmacht orders in manufacturing plants: 1.17 billions drachmas. (Preceding month: 1.4 billions drachmas). Felled..." That should be 3,000. "3,000 cubic meters of wood, 1.500 cubic meters cut up. Delivered to the Wehrmacht, 600 tons of iron and metal products. 127 tons of iron bars produced in electric furnaces.

"Mined 2932 tons of chromium ore, transported to the Reich 3076 tons.

230 tons of lead ore was mined. Shipped 700 tons of zinc concentrates. Mickel mining further non-existent because of the destruction of the mine. 2 concrete ships with a displacement of 350 tons put in commission.

"Coal imported: approximately 4,700 tons. Fuel supply of the Elt-factory in Athens for 4.94 days. Production of current in July reduced to a daily average of 327,366 kilowatt hours.

"Export of war essential bottle-neck goods from the Peloponnesus 6 railroad cars of cotton shipped.

"Labor employment "Due to the wage and food situation deteriorating, labor employment causes difficulties.

For the first time railroad employees also show serious unrest. For financial reasons, substitution of additional rations by money impossible.

"Recruitment of labor forces for the Reich territory continues to the same extend as before. 1590 newly recruited labourers and many people on leave were sent to the Reich territory in 3 transports in June. Concurrently a first attempt to send labour forces by compulsion from the Peloponesus for employment in the Reich. About 600 men are ready. Transport will take place in a few days for "Reichwarke Hermann Goering" Iron-ore mines. A final ruling has been made with regard to the care of persons hurt in the services of the Wehrmacht. It is intended to pay full wages and rations if completely disables; minor disablement will lead to a corresponding reduction of wages and rations.

"Replacement situation unchanged.

"Distribution: see draft only". And it is signed "Scheurien."

There is another report dated the 13 of June 44, and it covers the period from 15 May to 15 June; and again it is from the Military Commander Greece, and it is addressed to the Military Commander Southeast.

"Political situation.

"The crisis in the Greek government was the focal point of the internal political situation. The unavoidable arrest of the Commander of the Evson units, General Detrilis, who was proven to side with the English, further, the resignation of the Minister of the Interior, Tavularis, which had been forced on the Minister President, but, still more it was the search of the Greek Defense Ministry by the SD which caused the Minister President to want to tender his resignation. Since, according to the interpretation of the military commander of Greece, a change in the state leadership was not desirable at this point, the Minister President was made to remain by the special plenipotentiary of the Foreign Office, who was present in Athens during the government crisis. As far as the outside world was concerned, the Minister President took over the leadership of the Ministry of Interior, but in reality, it was under the former Prefect of Patras, Bakojiannis, under the designation of "Director General for the Security". He is an energetic personality friendly to the Germans.

"The declaration of the Peloponesus as a combat zone caused great unrest among the population. This was due to the choking measures which were published by the 117th Jaeger division in the press on 20 May and which would amount to a complete cessation of the economic life. The food for both the population of Peloponesus and for the big cities, Athens, Piraeus, had become problematical by this measure. Furthermore the valuable deliveries of the Peloponesus for the German armament industry would come to a stop. As a consequence, recruitment of labour for the Reich further successful.

"From 1.5 to 1.6.44 inclusive, 1747 labourers were sent to the Armament industry in the Reich in 3 transports. Compulsory deportation to the Reich, in particular from the Peoloponesus, will take place soon in addition to voluntary employment. LXVIIIth Infantry Corps has issued orders to hold in readiness people suspected of belonging to bands and hostages, for deportation to Germany. This labour is em played in Germany in closed working camps.

"Distribution of 1 million leaflets explaining the measures which have become necessary by declaring the Peloponesus a combat zone.

"Distribution of 11,000 picture posters regarding the murder of 3 Greek farmers for enlightenment regarding communist atrocities.

"Comments of daily events and on special report by radio. Increased use of whispering propaganda which promises success considering the mentality of the Greeks.

"In connection with the propaganda welfare of the members of the Italian Wehrmacht, the propaganda echelon publishes the weekly Italian paper, "Radiofante", which has an edition of 20,000. It publishes the daily information report "Del Fronti e della Patria", with an edition of 3,000. The weekly paper, "Working Greece", published in the Greek language, with an edition of 39,000 has proven the best propaganda medium among the whole working population. It is primarily distributed in factories working for the German Wehrmacht.

"X. Replacement situation: Unchanged."

And then follows a distribution list: Military Commander Southeast; Commander-in-Chief Army Group E; Higher SS and Police Leader; and then certain copies on the premises; and it too is signed the same as was the one before.

JUDGE CARTER: The Tribunal will recess until 9:30 tomorrow morning.

Court No. V, Case No. VII.

Official transcript of Military Tribunal V, Case VII, in the matter of the United States of America against Wilhelm List et al, defendants sitting at Nurnberg, Germany, on 21 August 1947, 0930, Justice Wennerstrum presiding.

THE MARSHAL: Persons in the Courtroom will please find their seats.

The Honorable, the Judges of Military Tribunal V.

Military Tribunal V is now in session. God save the United States of America and this Honorable Tribunal.

There will be order in the Court.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Marshal, will you ascertain if all the defendants are present in the Courtroom?

THE MARSHAL: May it please your Honor all the defendants are present in the Courtroom.

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, the Tribunal yesterday asked the Defense what time was necessary for the defense before presenting the case to chief after the Prosecution has closed its case. Your Honor, I am in a position to give you the answer of the Defense after discussing it with my colleagues last night. I shall be grateful for being allowed to speak for a couple of minutes in order to explain to the Tribunal the view point of the Defense. Merely telling the time could not be satisfactory to the Tribunal if I could not at the same time share the position of the Defense.

Your Honor, the main source of material used in this trial is constituted by documents in the hands of the United States Army. That this view is correct the Prosecution will be the last to deny. The Prosecution used this material almost exclusively in presenting its case. This documentary material however has the same importance for the Defense. I want to show this importance to the Tribunal by a very brief example which I take it is typical for most of the defendants. Field Marshal List is charged with an order of 5 September. As his Defense Counsel I want to prove that this order was necessary from the military point of view.

In order to show to the Court the military necessity of this order I have to prove the development of the situation which necessitated such an order but I can only do that if I am in possession of that documentary material which includes those daily reports which referred to the time preceding this order. And, this material is stored in Washington. The ruling of the Court has enabled the Defense to obtain this material in Washington and I hope that the journey may soon start. The trip of the Defense necessitates the necessary time in order not to make it elusory because, your Honor, after the return of my colleagues from Washington the evidence must be looked through by Defense Counsel and must be correlated to the documents of the Prosecution and must be copied, mimeographed and translated.

In order to carry out this procedure the Defense certainly needs four weeks, beginning with the day of the return of the deputies sent to Washington. Your Honor, I certainly see that this will bring a delay in the course of the proceedings here but this is unavoidable. I only want to point out that the Prosecution has prepared its case for at least one year and it only started its proceedings when they had finished their preparations. It only seems just then if the Defense obtains the period of time asked for in order to make preparations on its part which would be an approximate but certainly not an equal ratio of the preparation of the Prosecution. Only then can I carry out my duty as defense counsel in a proper way.

Your Honor, may I point out shortly the following circumstances which also have proven to be obstacles in the way of the Defense:

1. I believe all those concerned in this trial have found out how strenuous the proceedings during the last few weeks have been.

The Defense Counsel only had the hours in the evening between 1800 and 2000 hours to talk to their clients and because of the heat prevailing the whole time of Prosecution's case it proved of a special hardship to the elder defendants. During the evening hours only those questions could be discussed which followed from the matters discussed during the day. Proper preparation for the defense during that time was made extremely difficult. I believe, your Honor, that the extent of this obstacle can only be properly judged by those who know by personal experience, the rooms in which these discussions are carried out. These rooms, without wanting to exaggerate, develop the heat of incubators especially in the evening.

2. Already in the beginning of this trial I had pointed out that the defense had difficulties in procuring evidence material because of the fact that several camps have been dissolved, and people interned there have been released and transferred to other camps. Many witnesses had different addresses making it difficult to find out their right addresses. For instance, I had a letter yesterday from a witness who in the meanwhile had been released and a letter sent to him by me in the Middle of July was received by him only on the 14th of August. Witnesses who live in Austria have so far answered in only one case. As to witnesses in Yugoslav capacity I do not know whether they will appear here also this has been approved by the Court. If that is not the case I must try to meet substitute witnesses.

Your Honor, all these reasons which I only summarize will clearly show to the Tribunal the situation in which the Defense finds itself. For that reason it seems fairly justified that the Defense must count on presenting its case at least four weeks after the return of its deputies from Washington.

That is all I have to tell the Tribunal regarding this point. I assume that one of the other of my colleagues want to say something concerning this problem - I don't know that.

DR. GAWLIK: Your Honor, regarding your ruling about this motion I should be grateful if if you would especially consider my position. For I have only taken over the defense of the defendant General Dehner a couple of weeks ago. Without any preparations I entered these proceedings. I did not make a motion for postponement at the time because I did not want to delay the presentation of the Prosecution's case although I could hardly reconcile this with my duty as a Defense Counsel. Now, however, it is not possible for me to act as Defense Counsel in a proper way if the motion moved by my colleague Laternser is not granted. I now have to acquaint myself with the whole material contained in these proceedings.

THE PRESIDENT: Does the Prosecution have any statement to make? And, in connection with any comments that you might make, Mr. Denney, I think the Tribunal would be interested in knowing what, if any decision may have been reached relative to the ruling as to the production of documents which we here before made.

MR. DENNEY: Well, with reference to the document, that goes through the Secretary General, your Honor. And, as I understood the Tribunal's ruling it varies somewhat from Dr. Laternser said. I understood that there were two primary alternatives, one that the people be allowed to go to Washington, or, two, that the documents which they asked for be brought here. Dr. Laternser throughout his statement this morning, at least as I listened to it, assumed that the people were going to Washington, the people were going to get into G-2 Section of the Pentagon Building.

That is something we don't have anything to do with. We just don't go to G-2 in the Pentagon Building and that application was made, the Tribunal approved it, and the order was sent to the Secretary General. As I understand it they are inquiring into the matter now and I would like to clarify it that we can't say, "let them in", and they will let them in. That is something to be decided by them.

JUDGE CARTER: I wonder, Mr. Denney, if you really have the right conception of this. I don't think the submission to the Secretary General is the answer. The Prosecution here has produced part of these instruments and when the Prosecution does that I think it is to be assumed that it is the duty of the Prosecution to produce the whole instrument and unless the Prosecution does that the presumptions referred to in the order will be indulged in and I don't think it's a complete answer that the Secretary General has been asked to pass judgment on it or to see what he can do. I think it is deeper than that. When the Prosecution brings in portions of an instrument I think it's their duty to make available the whole instrument to the Defense and it is the Prosecution's duty to see that this thing is done. I don't see it is contingent upon favorable action by some other group or individual. Do you see what I mean.

MR. DENNEY: I understand what Your Honor said and I will be very glad to take it up with General Taylor.

THE PRESIDENT: In other words there has been no decision. Is it in the process of being considered what action is to be taken, whether you endeavor to work out some plan or let the chips fall where they may.

MR. DENNEY: As far as I know, Your Honor, they are trying to ascertain what the document is that would be necessary to bring over here, whether or not it can be brought over, or an alternative whether some arrangements can be made to take people over there. I heard last night possibly there may be some microfilms some place in Europe in connection with these documents. I heard it for the first time last night. We have never seen any microfilm copies and if those microfilm copies prove to be here and if they are adequate perhaps arrangements can be made. It is my understanding that they are in the hands of another government. So far as I know, they are doing everything they can to develop that as well as possible.

THE PRESIDENT: May I ask Dr. Laternser another question. If the documents are not brought to Nuernberg or if the arrangements are not made for counsel to go to Washington, how much time do you feel that counsel for the defense should have?

DR. LATERNSE: Your Honor, have I understood you correctly that if we did not obtain the documents and that we could not go to Washington, how much time defense would require, if I understood you correctly?

Your Honor, may I ask you to repeat this question in order to obviate any misunderstanding?

THE PRESIDENT: If arrangements are not made for the production of the documents in question by their being brought to Nuernberg, or if arrangements are not made for counsel representing the defense to go to Washington, then how much time would you feel you should have between the close of the prosecution's case and the beginning of the defense?

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, I must quite frankly say that I have not reckoned on these accumulated refusals and therefore have not thought about the possibilities because I took it to be quite certain that either one way or the other could be taken.

If those possibilities would be closed to us, first of all I would have to determine whether I would be in the position to continue my defense because I then must arrive at the assumption that if defense and prosecution do not enjoy the same rights the Court in view of the defense can never arrive at a just judgment. In that case I would have to think whether I could continue with my defense at all.

THE PRESIDENT: I think it should be kept in mind, Dr. Laternser, that there was a third alternative in connection with the Court's ruling relative to the matter of the consideration which the Court would give to the documents which have been presented. And, as to your last statement, I don't know what the attitude or responsibility of counsel is in a German court but in an American court a counsel cannot leave a case and we would not look with favor upon such procedure or such an attitude. As has been suggested by Judge Carter in a brief conference here, the third alternative is in the nature of a penalty to prosecution and is really more beneficial to the defense than you apparently appreciate.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, may I thank you for pointing this out to me. In that case I would have to confer with my colleagues about the third possibility on which we certainly did not count.

THE PRESIDENT: I am wondering if perhaps ten days time after the adjournment of prosecution's case would be sufficient time for you to prepare for the opening of the defense.

DR. LATERNSEER: I am afraid ten days would not be sufficient. In that case, in my view, four weeks would have to be considered.

DR. SAUTER (Counsel for the Defendants Lanz and von Geitner): Your Honors, I am now considering the third possibility of which your Honor was just talking. I am thinking of the case that the Prosecution cannot procure the missing documents and, apart from that, none of the delegation of the defense counsel can go to Washington in order to obtain the material. I am thinking of the case of the Court's covering the incompleteness and incompetence of the document army evidence of the prosecution on which it has to draw its conclusions; and I am asking myself now, if we consider this third possibility, how much time will be needed in order to enable the defense counsel and the defense for preparing themselves.

Now, we have to consider the following. In view of the fact that the whole case is concerned with happenings in the Balkans, we are forced, to a great extent, to procure our evidence by correspondence with foreign countries. That means tremendous slowing up in the preparation of our case. It goes without saying that we defense counsel worked on this preparation not today and yesterday; that we started on this preparation when the proceedings started the replies from abroad, at least as far as my experience goes, arrive late and an extraordinary time elapses, and experience has taught me that the material which we received from abroad cannot be used in the form it is sent.

Then considerable correspondence starts to and fro because the material sent by the witnesses has to be put into the shape of affidavits and that uses up a great amount of time. We defense counsel, because of our personal interests and the interests of the defendants who have been imprisoned for two and a half years now, would demand that from our side, too, the trial is speeded up as much as possible and were personally would be glad if we could conclude this trial as quickly as possible; but in apportioning the time which the Court will grant to the defense counsel, would ask you to consider these particular difficulties because they result from the peculiarities of our case.

May I point out something else, your Honors. We all, the Tribunal and we, are interested that the defense of every individual defendant is presented in an absolutely uniform way and complete form. If we hurry the proceedings there is the danger that important evidence is procured. Weeks after the case of List, for example, is concluded, there is a formal possibility to present later on such evidence which arrives later but, in the interests of the matter and in order to make everything as clear as possible, it is not right if the complex of the defense of one of the defendants is torn up in so and so many parts.

For that reason, Your Honors, I believe it would be in the interests of a certain speeding up if in apportioning the time which you are now granting to the defense you would be a bit more generous in order to enable us sooner to present the material to you in a complete way.

THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Sauter, you may have misunderstood me. I did not make any definite ruling concerning a period of postponement. I merely made an inquiry and suggestion. I think perhaps we should have some statement from the prosecution as to when, if at all, they are going to be in a position to state or elect as to what courses they are going to follow.

MR. DENNEY: I believe, your Honors, I can advise the Court, possibly at the beginning of this afternoon's session, with reference to what is planned so far as the documents are concerned.

THE PRESIDENT: I do not know that that early an answer would be necessary. Perhaps by tomorrow morning it would give you more time to confer with the authorities with whom you will have to deal.

MR. DENNEY: Very well, your Honor. I will be glad to do so.

THE PRESIDENT: And with that in mind the court will not make any decision until such time as the prosecution may care to make any further statement.

We will pass on to another matter at this time and the Tribunal, wishes to read a statement which was presented to me just this morning. It is a communication from LeRoy H. Watson, Brigadier General, United States Army, Commanding the Nurnberg Military Post, Office of the Commanding General.

"Subject: Policy of Confinement of all Prisoners in the Nurnberg Prison.

"To: Colonel E. J. Ray, Secretary General for Military Tribunals, APO-696-A, U. S. Army."

Paragraph 1: "It has come to my attention that you sent a letter to my office with reference to the policy of confining German prisoners in the Nurnberg prison and that in the reply sent to you some of the statements made with reference to our policy in this matter were in error. Furthermore, the reply of this office to your letter was read to the prisoners in one of the cases now being tried and included in the written record of the case."

Paragraph 2: "I am, therefore, writing this letter to you in order to clarify this matter and to make perfectly clear to all concerned the policy regarding confinement of prisoners in the Nurnberg prison. I request that a copy of this letter be given to the judge concerned and that it be read into the evidence of the trial over which he is now presiding in order to correct the error made and to clarify the policy."

Paragraph 3: "The policy is as follows. It is my desire not to place more than one prisoner in a cell except under the conditions stated below:

"(a) If it is necessary to care for more prisoners in this prison than I have cells, obviously I will have to place more than one prisoner in some of the cells.

"(b) If the evidence presented to me indicates or if I have reason to suspect that a prisoner who has been indicted might commit suicide, I will place another prisoner in the cell with him in order to aid in preventing his suicide.

"(c) Most prisoners do not like solitary confinement. Accordingly, if any prisoner desires to be placed together in the same cell with another, he may submit an application to the prison officer and this application will receive due and humane consideration by me."

Signed: "LeRoy H. Watson, Brigadier General, U. S. Army Commanding."

This communication is read for the purposes of the record.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed, Mr. Denney, with the presentation of further documentary evidence.

MR. DENNEY: May it please your Honors, we are still in Document Book 21 and I believe the last exhibit yesterday was 486. The first exhibit today is on page 57 of the German and page 70 of the English and is 1279PS. These are various papers in draft having to do with an order which was ultimately issued from OKW concerning the treatment of foreign military missions who were captured with partisan groups.

The first one is from the General Staff of OKW. That is the operational staff of OKW and is dated 22 July 1944.

"Subject: Treatment of members of foreign "military missions" captured with partisan groups.

"Minutes of a meeting.

"The Fuehrer has decided that members of Anglo-American and Soviet-Russian so-called "military missions" captured in the partisan fighting in the Southeast arc to be treated in the same way as those taking part in a commando operation and not as prisoners of war."

This is No. 487, your Honors. It is on page 70 of the English, 57 of the German, and the document number is 1279-PS.

"Independently of the above, the AG. Ausl. the following inquiries made by the RSHA-Military Section -- has put forth for decision the question of how British and American soldiers, captured with the partisan groups should be treated.

"The following are the resulting opinions:

"a) Commander-in-Chief Southeast "The members of Allied military missions arc to be handed over to the SD, should the opinion below (b) be inapplicable.

"Supreme Command of the Armed Forces/Prisoners of war general in conjunction with Supreme Command of the Army/Army General Staff/Allied Armies in the West and Armed Forces Operations Staff.

"Treatment as prisoners of war" -- and this is the "b" part here, the one that is in the original. It appears out in parenthesis to the left in the English copy.

"Treatment as prisoners of war in accordance with Order: Armed Forces Operation Staff/OP (Army)" and it gives the date.

"Treatment as prisoners of war in accordance with Order: Armed Forces Operation Staff dated 8.7.43. which disregards differences of nationality. The only exception made is in the case of commando operations (then they are handed over to the Security Service SD).

"RSHA Section IV.

"Fundamentally treatment as prisoners of war under the directives mentioned in B and c) but a more definite ruling is required to decide whether and in what circumstances they are to be handed over to the Security Service (SD) And then we have the Military Section:

"Considers that the Commando-Order cannot be applied to partisan fighting in the south East, that to do so would be dangerous in that it might imperil those taking part in our own operations (Brandenburg).

"No opinion on the question of foreign missions."

And then the next one:

"Fundamentally, treatment as prisoners of war, that implies that members of missions were taking part in a commando-operation."

And the next one:

"Armed Forces Ops Staff "Treatment as the members of partisan groups themselves, i.e. as prisoners of war if they are in uniform and are captured or surrender in open battle, or executed if they are in civilian clothes or are captured in a sabotage-or commando-operation."

And it is noted at the left: "The whole of this paragraph 'g' is crossed out".

"Opinion and proposal of the Armed Forces Ops Staff "According to the orders issued to date, even for example, the British captured in the "Rosselsprung" operation must be treated as prisoners of war.

This is especially evident in the Op. Order dated 18.8.43" And then it is noted:

"(This last sentence is put in parenthesis, underlined, Op (Army) crossed out and a large query inserted in the margin).

"The Commando Order has never yet been applied to such missions, its extended application to cover them has not yet been ordered. If the missions are to be treated otherwise than in accordance with the orders to date, it must first be decided whether a foreign mission acting with the partisan groups in the South-East is to be called a commando-operation and therefore treated as such. Such a decision seems to be indicated even if it does not correspond completely to the wording of the commando-Order or to the previous definition of a commando operation (as an especially under-hand and still unusual form of warfare which must be combatted with the appropriate counter measures). The principle must be adopted from the start that all members of partisan groups, even in the South East are fundamentally guerrillas. Indeed they are treated as prisoners of war for reasons of expediency in order to obtain the largest possible number of deserters and workers. There is no reason for this with reward to the members of foreign missions who are not numerous. There is therefore no necessity to treat them, in every case, in the same way as the members of partisan groups themselves. Basically, it would be far more appropriate to consider Anglo-American as well as Soviet-Russian military missions as commando-operations and to treat their members accordingly.

"The appended Order is therefore proposed".

And that bears the initial of General Warlimont of the OKW Operations Staff.

Now, the next document, which is on page 60 in the German and 72 in the English, is substantially the same as the one we have just read. However, it is dated five days later, 27 July-and the first one is 22 July-and it now has an order number, and if your Honors will look at the original it will be seen that the original bore an earlier number and then that the number of this later order, of 27 July, is inserted in pencil on the first order and then typed on this order, and when we get along a little farther we will have more occasion to refer to The order here, it can be seen, when compared with the earlier one, has certain deletions, particularly paragraph "g", which was crossed out in the original, and other than that it is substantially the same; the first two paragraphs, numbered "1" and "2". "The following are the resulting opinions:"

and then:

"Commander-in-Chief Southeast" (who at that time was the defendant Weichs).

"The members of allied military missions are to be handed over to the SD, should the opinion below (b) be inapplicable"-is the same; and, other than minor alterations in form, which I believe are apparent, it is not necessary to read this order again.

There is one additional fact, that this order of 27.7 is initialed by Keitel, who was, of course, Chief of OKW.

Now, in the copy in the English, there is a note at the bottom of the page 73 which is not in the German, and all this does is refer to the second copy of this order or this communication, rather-of 27.

7.1944. It's identical--defense counsel may see it in the exhibit -- it's just the second of two copies. Your Honors will notice at the top of the first copy it says "2 copies, first copy, "and the second one is merely the other copy of these two. It has some penciled notes on it. It bears Warlimont's initial, whereas the first copy is signed by Warlimont: and the distribution is to be noted on the first copy, that the Chief of the Supreme Command of the Armed Forces via the Deputy Chief of the Armed Forces Operations, Staff and the Quartermaster gets the second copy. Both copies are here; and then the third is a memorandum dated 22 July 1944 and is a draft again. It bears the original number and then is changed to the later number in pencil, as may be seen in the photostat, and it has the final order number of 009074/44, and the subject again is the "Treatment of members of foreign 'military missions' captured with partisan groups", and this again has been worked over in draft.

The Text is:

"The Special Orders for the treatment of captured members of partisan groups do not apply to members of foreign so-called "military missions" (Anglo-American or Soviet Russian) captured in the fight against partisan groups in the areas under the command of the Cin-C South East and South West. They are therefore to be treated, not as prisoners of war, but in accordance with the Fuhrer's Order on the extermination of terrorist and sabotage troops, dated 18.10.1942 003830/Most Secret).

This order is not to be distributed beyond the divisional or equal-ranking staffs of the other branches of the Armed Forces. Any papers distributed to Army Headquarters and equal-ranking staffs of the Armed Forces are to be recalled, when read, and destroyed) (This last sentence is changed in the original to 'This order is not to be distributed beyond General Headquarters and equal ranking staffs of other branches of the Armed Forces and is to be destroyed when read).

That can be seen from looking.

And then annexed to this was a distribution list which appears at the bottom, the first copy going to the Commander-in-Chief Southeast, who was the defendant Weichs, and the various other offices listed there. It is to be noted that Copy 6 went to the Reichsfuehrer SS and Chief of the German Police, Headquarters Staff of the Reichsfuehrer SS for the attention of SS Brigadefuehrer and Major General of the Waffen SS Rohde, also for RSHA, and, of course, the purpose of sending that there is so that the SD could be advised of it.

And the last part of this document is not in the original. However, we are submitting it. That is, it is not in the English, but we are submitting it in the German original.

The, turning to the next document, which is 537-PS, page 75 of the English and 65 of the German, this is offered as 488 in evidence. Again there are some further drafts which we have not put in here. The Tribunal can look at then and see the way it has gone through. The order is finally issued. It is to be noted in the first copy in this second exhibit that it was submitted with a blank date for July, and then the date was filled in, and the final copy which we have here, which is the only one we have reproduced, is signed by Keitel as the Chief of the High Command of the Wehrmacht, and this final copy appears at page 75, and again it has the same order number, 009074/44, and it is dated 30 July 1944, Fuehrer Headquarters.

"Treatment of members of foreign 'Military Missions' captured together with partisans.

"In the areas of the High Command Southeast and Southwest members of foreign so-called "Military Missions" (Anglo-American as well as Soviet-Russian) captured in the course of the struggle against partisans shall not receive the treatment as speculated in the Special orders regarding the treatment of captured partisans. Therefore they are not to be treated as Prisoners of War but in conformity with the Fuhrer's order are the elimination of terror and sabotage troops of 18 October 1942.

"This order shall not be transmitted to other units of the Armed forces via the High Commands and equivalent staffs and is to be destroyed after being made of record.

"The Chief of the High Command of the Wehrmacht Signed KEITEL" Again the distribution is the same as it was in the various draft copies that were being marked over in the earlier exhibit.

487, the first copy again going to the Commander-in-chief Southeast, the defendant Weichs, and the sixth copy again going to Himmler's units.

In this connection I should like to direct the Court's attention to a document which has formerly been placed in evidence as Exhibit No. 225. This is the communication of 18 October, 1942, which is referred to here, the Hitler order with reference to the treatment of commandoes and that is at page 28 in the English Document Book 9, and it appears at page 41 in the German Document Book 9. And if your Honors will read the present order, the one of 30 July, 1944, and then refer to Exhibit 225, it is submitted that it is clear what the context of this order is.

I should also like to direct your Honors attention to the date here of 30 July, 1944, and recall to the Court the fact that it was early in June, 1944, at which time the first Allied landings were effected in the west, that is, the operation that commenced with the Normandy invasion.

On page 66 of the German, and 76 of the English, MOKW 1377, offered as Prosecution's Exhibit 489,- this is a directive of the Commander of the Fortress Crete, dated 14 August, 1944:

The subject is reprisal measures.

1.) The numerous raids on German motor vehicles, small detachments, etc. together with considerable own losses in the last period of time necessitate vigorous action by our divisions in order to force our will upon the Greek population and in order to prove that we can assert our power on the whole island. To this end discretion can no longer be observed towards innocent men, women and children. Quick action is the first condition for a successful vigorous accomplishment.

2.) In case of new raids on German soldiers, the villages concerned which are located in the vicinity are to be fired on by concentrated surprise fire bursts of the artillery. It may be useful to encircle the villages with our own troops sometime after the firing in order to capture the bandits who may come to the rescue from the mountains.

3.) As a further measure the complete evacuation and levelling to the ground of villages with an especially hostile population may be considered. Intentions to this effect are to be reported promptly to the Commandant of the Fortress Crete in order that the economical affairs may be put in order.

Extension of the prohibited areas, the respecting of which is to be guaranteed by severe measures based on random surveys, and which has as its aim the limitation of freedom of movement for the Greeks.

Proposals are to be submitted to the Commandant of the Fortress Crete.

4.) Extension of the curfew, jointly with the District Commandant, is at the discretion of the Division."

5.) "In Short, by quick and thorough action it must be made clear to the Greek population that the terror of the bandits will be answered by still stronger terror in reprisal.

A drive to enlighten the people is being started in the Greek press. By ruthless actions we must succeed in reducing essentially the activity of the bandits. (initial illegible) (signature) Muller."

The next appears on page 69 of the German and page 78 of the English, and is a series of extracts from daily reports of the OKH. The only part of the first one that we are concerned with is paragraph No. 3. This is dated as of 26 February 1944, and is a situation report. It is directed to the various Army groups, "A", "South", "Center", "North", etc., and here with reference to the Balkans:

"In the area of LXVIII Corps 200 hostages shot dead in reprisal for attack on one of our trucks." The LXVIII Corps at that time was commanded by the defendant, Felmy.

The next entry-

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: It is Exhibit 490 is it not? MR. DENNEY: Yes, your Honor. 490.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUM: NOKW 1557?

MR. DENNEY: 1557, yes, your Honor.

Then turning to page 70 in the German, and 79 in the English, there is an entry again from the OKH to the same addresses, and this is Situation information as of 13 March, and again concerning the Balkans, and then under that, there is a note, "Army Group E" and under that;

"LXVIII Corps; In reprisal for band attack Southeast of Tripoli, a state of emergency was ordered for the civilian population, and 200 Communist hostages were shot dead."

Turning to page 71 in the German, and 81 in the English, both still in the same document, and Exhibit 490, the reports are still from OKH and they are directed to the same people, and this is a report again from the Balkans of the situation as of 23 March:

"Situation Island of Solta: 264th Division succeeded in landing two companies on the Island. The combing through of the Island has started.

Situation Island of Hvar: Since landing on 22 March, bitter fighting. The enemy has landed apparently 800 men on the South Coast and after Artillery fire from the sea on the Northwest Coast near Starigrad. Our own forces on the Western part of the Island fought their way through in stiff battles to the Eastern part. The occupation Battalion was reinforced by a company (landing Eastern tip of the Island.)

The enemy stopped the advance of the 2nd and 5th Communist Division in Southwest Serbia in face of our counter-measures."

On page 72 of the German text, page 82 of the English, the situation report for 2 May, still in 1144, still from OKH, and still addressed to the same people, again the Balkans, Army Group E, LXVIII Corps, under:

"Army Group E: Enemy losses during the past week: 526 dead, 163 prisoners."

The LXVIII Corps which is still, at that time, under the command of defendant Felmy.

"In reprisal for the killing in action of the Commanding Officer of 1st Fortress Infantry Division, 325 Communists shot dead."

Then I should like to direct your Honors' attention to the first line of that:

"In reprisal for the killing in action", to the words, "killing in action".

Turning then to page 73 of the German, and 84 of the English, still the same source for the document, and addressed to the same people, -- this is for 5 May, 1944, -- there is a note here that 2nd Panzer Army is listed under the Balkans, and then for Serbia;"Situation Southwest Serbia:

After successfully continued attacks against the remaining elements of the 2nd and 5th Communist Divisions, the mass of the enemy withdraws South having failed in his attempts to break through in the East and Northeast.

According to confidential reports increasing dissatisfaction in the Communist Division Group Koraca because of heavy fighting and losses.

In the remainder of Serbia increased Communist mobilizing activity in central Serbia".

Then on page 74 of the German, and 85 of the English, still on Document NOKW 1557, which is Exhibit 490, this is a report of the situation as of 11 July, again from OKH, and again addressed to the same Army Group headquarters, again a note of the 2nd Panzer Army, again in Serbia;

"In Banat 40 Communists shot dead in reprisal for an attack on a resettlement train".

Then turning to page 75 of the German, and 87 of the English, NOKW 089, is offered as Prosecution's Exhibit 491, this is a typed order of 13 August, 1944. The subject is:

"Kreuzotter" Leaving 4th SS police Panzer Grenadier Regiment in areas now reached is approved until the 20th of August.

Nevertheless, a withdrawal on short notice for other use must be guaranteed. it appears practical to raze the locality of Karpenision to the ground when the German troops finally move out so that it will be out of the question as a bandit strong point.

Then at the bottom is typed. "Oberbefehlshaber Suedost" (Commander in Chief Southeast) and the order number is filled in, and the date, and over to the left there is a certification by a colonel of the General Staff Corps which is illegible.

Then on pages 76 and 77 of the German, and starting at page 88 of the English, is NOKW-933, which is offered as Prosecution's Exhibit 493--

DR. LATERNER: Your Honors, I do not know, and I am by no means certain of what the prosecutor just read as being the end of Exhibit 491.

MR. DENNEY: What I said about it was, to the left there was a certification that this was a copy and that "Oberbefehlshaber Suedost" was printed; that the order number was filled in, and the date was filled in, and that there is a signed certification to the left in handwriting illegible, by a colonel of the General Staff Corps.

DR. LATERNER: Thank you.

MR. DENNEY: This Exhibit 493 contains extracts from the War Diary of Army Group E for the months of July and August 1944. The first one, up at the top, printed on the cover page of this War Diary:

"1st Copy - Chief of Army Archives "2nd Copy - High Command Army Group E (without enclosure)
"3rd Copy - Wehrkreis Commander, XVII (without enclosure)" What it amounts to is "17th Service Command, without enclosures". This diary was begun on 1 July 1944 and concluded on 31 December 1944.

Then at the bottom is listed the people who kept the diaries, one, "Councillor Fink" and another,
"Councillor Sokoll".

The first entry with which we are concerned is on page 78 of the German, 89 of the English, under date of 36 July 1944:

"'Weihe', without contact with the enemy. During 'Eule' in the area of Avlon (30 north of Athens) 17 bandits shot to death, three machine guns and other weapons captured."

Then for 31 July the entry as it is in English says, "22nd Mountain Army". However, I will submit it to the interpreters and ask them to translate it. That is a mistranslation. Dr. Laternser concedes that it should be "XXII Corps". The Roman numerals "XXII AK", which appear on page 89 of the English and on the fifth page of the document.

The corps numerals are always Roman numerals, at least in the German army and the American army.

"Line repair detachment attacked by hand west of Agrinion. Eight dead of our own, 14 wounded.
Reprisal measure: 71 communists shot to death."

Then for 20 August 1944:

"Combat Group Eberlein scatters hand group northeast of Ardea. Larger enemy losses, a hand village burned down. Three hundred head of cattle and 50 vehicles with grain captured."

Then again on August 23, 1944, on page 79 of the German, page 90 of the English, it says:

"LXXXXXI Army Corps" -- which is the correct translation -- "In reprisal for hand activity southeast of Larissa, three villages destroyed, near Platamon 24 hostages shot to death."

And then for the 27th of August 1944, for the operational group Arsakli:

"Transport of Band Suspects.

"Corp Headquarters LXVIII, LXXXXXI Army Corps receives the following order (?) BVtO at 1330 hours:

"On 28 August, 1700 hours, a transport with 1,000 hand suspects leaves for the Reich territory. One must count on attacks on this transport by the hands. For the units employed for railroad security an increased degree of alertness is to be ordered."

Army Group E, of course, at this time was under the command of the defendant Weichs, XXII Corps under the command of defendant Lanz, and LXVIII Corps under the command of defendant Felmy.

Just for the record, I just called Dr. Sauter's attention to the translation which appears in the document as 22nd Army, and he concedes that it is a reference to the XXII Corps, as it involves his client Lanz. I beg Dr. Sauter's pardon for having referred the question initially to Dr. Laternser.

However, I Believe that it is a matter that is well enough known among any of defense counsel to take it up With them.

Then on page 80 of the German and page 91 of the English, Document NOKW-578, which is offered as Prosecution's Exhibit 493; these are extracts of the daily reports from July to September 1944 of OKH with reference to the execution of communists and bandits in Serbia and Greece, forced labor in Crete and other matters.

The first part with which we are concerned, the rest here, of course has to do with France; we are not in any way concerned with that. The first entry is one which appears on page 83 of the German and page 95 of the English. The heading here is: "Balkans, Army Group E," and under that is "XXII Mountain Corps", which, of course, at that time was commanded by the defendant Lanz:

"The demand submitted by a negotiator to the 10th Zervas Division to evacuate the coastal sector, to release prisoners, and to settle on a line of demarcation was refused by Zervas. The impression remains that Zervas is acting according to an agreement with the English."

Then there is a note with reference to the Second Panzer Army, and then under that, "Serbia":

"For reprisal against an attack on a train filled with people who were being resettled, 40 Communists were shot to death in the Banat."

Then we can pass page 96. The date of that earlier report is 11 July 1944, and it is submitted that it includes some dates prior to that. We may also pass 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 102, and 103. Over on page 104, again the Balkans, Army Group E, and under that -- the date of this particular report of OKH is 30 July 1944.

Under Army Group E "XXII Mountain Corps", then commanded by the defendant Lanz:

"In reprisal for an attack on line repair detachment in area of Agrinion, eight dead of our own, 71 communists were shot to death."

And then down in Albania--

THE PRESIDENT: I think we shall take our morning recess at this time.

(A recess was taken.)

THE MARSHAL: The Tribunal is again in session.

DR. SAUTER: Dr. Sauter for the Defendant Lanz. Your Honor, I should like to call the attention of the Tribunal to the following fact. Again today it occurs that the same communication occurs again and again. For example, in this Document 578, which is at present under discussion, 71 Communists are mentioned twice - on page 91 and page 97 - who in the area of the 22nd Mountain Corps of Defendant Lanz were shot. These 71 Communists we heard about today for the fourth time. The first time these 71 Communists were mentioned in Prosecution Volume 20, German version page 12. Today, in Prosecution Volume 21, these 71 Communists are mentioned on the German Page 78, on German Page 97. That is four times, exactly the same shooting. This is of course not meant as a reproach to the Prosecution. That is what the documents say. But I wish to direct your attention to this example, so that you don't get the impression that these are four different cases. That is not the only time; this has happened repeatedly.

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will give consideration to Dr. Sauter's comments and will keep in mind this statement made, and I think the Tribunal is conscious of the fact that there have been repetitious statements in these diaries of the same occurrence from time to time.

DR. SAUTER: Yes, Thank you.

MR. DENNEY: The Prosecution, of course, is aware of that. It is just that we get the same actions reported in different documents from different units and then going out in information reports, and we certainly will not take any figure and multiply it by anything.

Returning then to Document NOKW-578, which is Exhibit 493, on Page 91 of the German and 104 of the English, for Albania, is a note for the XVI Mountain Corps, at that time commanded by the Defendant Leyser.

This, again, is under date of 29 July: "The 1st Mountain Division, which is being transferred from the area Florina-Prilep to North Albania, is subordinated to the 2nd Panzer Army effective 31 July.

And on page 92, that concerns of the German, 105 of the English.

The next is on Page 93 of the German and 106 of the English, the entry for the Balkans, and this is the period from 26 to 31 July, noted 2nd Panzer Army, and under that Albania: "The attempt of 3 to Communist Brigades to invade Serbia via the Ibar River was repelled by a concentric attack on the part of the mass of the 1st Mountain Division West of the Ibar River. The enemy suffered heavy losses."

And then on Page 94 of the German, 107 of the English: "Balkans, Army Group E: Crete: During mopping-up operations, 50 persons suspected of belonging to bands were shot to death as a reprisal measure."

And then the next report is for 25 August 1944, the last entry on Page 96 of the German, 108 of the English, still coming from OKH: "Balkans, Army Group E: A total of 223 Bandits shot to death during a mopping-up operation on Crete."

And then Document NOKW-1641, which is Page 110 in the English, and 97 in the German, is offered as Exhibit 494. These are daily reports of Army Group E to the Commander-in-Chief Southeast, having to do with--or rather these are reports from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast to OKH for the period 1 to 25 August 1944, and during that time the Defendant Weichs was Commander-in-Chief Southeast.

These are all on telegraph blanks and bear the various stamps which appear on the English translations, The first one for 31 July, on page 97 of the German and 111 of the English, has reference to the XXII Corps commanded at that time by the defendant Lanz, and this is the one about which Dr. Sauter was just speaking.

"In reprisal for an attack on a telephone repair squad in the Agrinion area (8 dead, 14 wounded) 71 communists were shot."

It is signed by -- that is, it is typed for the Commander-in-Chief Southeast by his chief of staff.

The next one is for 14 August, again to CEE from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast by his chief of staff.

"Crete: During mopping-up in the area of Iraklion and Paleochora numerous arrests made, two band villages destroyed, 20 shot in reprisal."

The next one is for 15 August to and from the same headquarters as those previously read, page 99 of the German and 115 of the English:

"Increased band activity on the island." (Referring to Crete) "'Alarm Stage I' has been given.

"Mopping-up operation at the southern slopes of the Ida Mountains encountered well-established band positions in the area of Kamara. During reprisal measure in the Messara plain 50 band suspects shot."

The next one is dated 22 August, received at OKH on the 23rd, entry on page 100 of the German and 117 of the English, for the 91st Corps.

"During mopping-up in the Ardea area by components of Combat Group Eberlein, one band village and one band hospital destroyed."

And then a note about the 264th Division: "Band activity in the Channel, I and II unchanged. Eleven civilians shot in the restricted zone west of Marina by own reconnaissance troops."

Then for 23 August, again from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast, for Crete: "During mopping-up northwest and southwest of the Ida Mountains no enemy resistance.

"One hundred ninety-one bandits and band suspects shot, one band village destroyed. Fifteen hundred civilians are being resettled.

"LXVIII Corps:" (commanded at that time by the defendant Felmy) "North of Erseke during local mopping-up one band village was destroyed, 12 prisoners taken.

"LXXXI Corps: In reprisal for band activity in the area southeast of Larissa three villages were destroyed, near Platamon 24 hostages were shot."

And the last one for 24 August, page 103 in the German and 121 in the English: "Crete: During reprisal measures southwest of the Ida Mountains four band villages destroyed, about 200 persons selected for labor service."

And then NOKW-961, which is at page 105 of the German and 132 the English, is a teletype or typewritten, an extract from the Daily Report of Army Group E to the Commander-in-Chief Southeast of 5 September 1944:

"Area of the LXVIII Infantry Corps:" (That is the defendant Felmy.)

"On Euboa, supply convoy of North Caucasian Battalion 843 annihilated by bands south of Kymi. Forty own dead, all weapons and equipment completely lost. For attack upon Luftwaffe convoy (see yesterday's Daily Report) 186 suspects shot."

NOKW-664, which is at page 106 in the German and 123 in the English, is an extract from the War Diary of the Commandant of the Fortress Crete for 12 September 1944. This is typed and has a signature of a first lieutenant on it. It is dated 12 September 1944 and is an addition to the War Diary for the period 13 August-10 September:

"Our own operations took place in the second half of the month as counter-measures against the surprise attacks on truck transports, ration transports, shelters and guard posts in the first half of the month of August, above all in the region of the Ida Mountain Range and in the bandit territory of the western sector. The bandits retreated everywhere and withdrew into their hiding places. Our own operations covered, above all, the areas and villages which were proven to have supported the bandits in every way and in part had also taken part in the kidnapping of Lt. General Kreipe.

"The following 13 villages were destroyed:" -- and then they list the villages.

"Since these measures of force were used, surprise attacks and acts of terror have almost ceased. On 3 Sep 44 the inhabitants of the towns of Chavia, Rethymnon, Jraklion, and Agios Nikolaos were scrutinized also and therewith numerous arrests of those wanted and persons listed in dangerous lists were effected.

"Enemy propaganda, partly of English, partly of Soviet origin, was used at the beginning of September as demoralizing propaganda. Small handbills were used especially frequently. The speeches of the commanders of the 22nd Infantry Division and the 746th Grenadier Regiment were especially of effect, in our own propaganda. (Signed) Hoffmann, 1st Lieutenant."

Then Document NOKW-981, which is at 107 in the German and 125 in the English, is offered as Exhibit 7. These are reports from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast to OKW and OKH with reference to various activities in Greece and Yugoslavia. They are all teletype blanks and are taken from the War Diary Southeast, or rather from the diary of the Southeast. Daily reports, the first one: "In Nish, Field Gendarmerie raids a recruitment station for German soldiers. Ring leaders and 10 accomplices shot to death." It's dated 15 September 44.

The next one is on page 108 of the German, 129 of the English, "Second Panzer Army:" (This is a report of 14 September 1944) "Chetnik insurrection in Bosnia.

"Headquarters Second Panzer Army transferred to Nostar (five miles northeast Vinkovci).

"Roman 5, SS Mountain Army:" (That should refer to the 5th Mountain SS Corps.)

"In the east and central Bosnia area, Chetniks have started fighting against our own troops. Railroad Sarajevo-Visegrad and Sarajevo-Doboj blocked and destroyed. Considerable number of motor vehicles destroyed; personnel losses. Our ultimatum: From 13 Sep, 2000 hours, severest reprisal measures against all Pravoslavs."

Then on page 109 of the German, 132 of the English, the report for 10 September, still from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast:

"In Katerini demonstrations by several thousand civilians from the environs of the city broken up by force of arms."

And the report for 10 September, on page 110 of the German, 134 of the English:

"Situation in Bor extremely difficult with over 20,000 foreign workers (including 6000 Jews and 6000 Italian military internees), 1200 wounded, and 1500 Rumanian returnees. Production stopped, no export possibility. Measures have been initiated to evacuate the incompetent ones and the laborers who have been released."

And on page 111 of the German and 136 of the English, report for the 5th of September, still from the Commander-in-Chief Southeast to OKW: "For attack on construction detachment, 186 suspects shot to death."

Then the last page, 111 of the German and 138 of the English, again to OKW, on 4 September from the Commander-in-Chief Army Group F under the Commander-in-Chief Southeast, and again from the Chief of Staff Winter:

"As reprisal measure against kidnapping Hako Glossa, the village of Skiathos destroyed, four sailing boats destroyed.

"Crete: During raids in the capitals up to now about 300 under arrest."

And then what appears as "Roman 68 Army" should be the 68th Corps:

"Withdrawals on Peloponessus up to now according to plan and without contact with the enemy. Attack of strong band on construction detachment south of Chalkis. Losses of our own."

In the last document in the book, which is NOKW-964, is offered as Prosecution Exhibit 498, page 112 in the German and 139 in the English. This is the report for 16 October from the High Command Army Group E to the Commander-in-Chief Southeast, and it bears the receipt stamp for the 16th: 2449 "No report from Salviati group.

Casualties: Wehrkreis Palanka: Enemy, 250 dead (estimated), own casualties: 1 ; 13 dead, 3 ; 65 wounded, 11 missing." And again I would like to direct Your Honors' attention to the incidence of these figures about officers and men.

"In the rear area, during the night of 15 October, railroad blasting southeast of Skoplje. Traffic interrupted for 20 hours. Northeast of Stip, attack by bands upon supply column. As retaliation, four villages burned down, 160 suspects shot."

And it is typed at the end, "High Command Army Group E," and over at the left is a certification, which is illegible, by a first lieutenant. That, if Your Honors please, concludes the presentation of Document Book 21, and Mr. Rapp will now continue with the prosecution's evidence.

If your Honors please, we have two films which we would like to show, and we hope to be able to conclude our case by Wednesday of next week. Arrangements have been made, perhaps a little prematurely, to show the film. Of course, if it isn't convenient with the Tribunal, why we will have to make other arrangements, but we would request that the Tribunal sit on Saturday morning to see the film and perhaps a short time longer on Saturday, so that we can conclude by Wednesday. The evidence may go fast enough before then so that we would only have to show the film on Saturday, but perhaps we could have an expression from your Honors with reference to it, because there is a good deal of paper work involved in getting the film set up and operators and people detailed for the various other tasks.

DR. LATERNSEER: Your Honor, the defense cannot agree to having a session on Saturday again. On the contrary, since the examination of the Greek witnesses is concluded or seems to be concluded, I wish to ask that tomorrow there should be no session. I have already pointed out to the Tribunal the difficulties we have in carrying out our work and that only the evening hours are at our disposal to talk to the defendants. On the contrary, I should like to ask not only no to have the session on Saturday but also not to have any sessions on Friday either.

Since the examination of the Greek witnesses seems to be concluded, I ask the Tribunal to consider the position of the defense concerning sessions, because apart from that we have to make preparations.

THE PRESIDENT: I am advised by Judge Burke that he has appointments for Saturday which would make it impossible to have a session on Saturday, so that takes that out of any contemplated session at that time.

Dr. Laternser, I feel that your request will have to be denied so far as a Friday adjournment is concerned. The Tribunal is desirous of giving every consideration to counsel but we must insist upon the matter being carried through as rapidly as possible, and yet such other time as you may feel you need some time, your request will receive consideration, However, the matter of adjournment on Friday will be denied at this time.

MR. DENNEY: Perhaps the Tribunal might care to indicate when the films could be shown, because one of the films is a 16 mm. film and the only place where they have a projector is in Court Room 1. Would it be convenient, as a suggestion to the Tribunal, if we arrange for them on Friday at 4:30? The two films together will only take an hour.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there any reason why we cannot have them earlier in the afternoon?

MR. DENNEY: Well, the only reason that we suggested 4:30, your Honor, was because we have one more witness in the Greek picture which we are going to produce now, and we thought that perhaps if we could have it at 4:30 that would be at the end of the session, whereas otherwise we would have a great many people having to wait around and we certainly don't want to limit the defense's right to cross-examine him.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well. Arrangements may be made for the showing of them at 4:30 tomorrow afternoon.

MR. DENNEY: And at this time I would like to advise defense counsel that these two films, one concerns Greece and the other one concerns Norway -- I don't know how you can very well give anyone any better notice about a film. We can't submit the films to them for examination, and in other cases the proceeding has just been to advise them, in accordance with the rules, 24 hours in advance.

THE PRESIDENT: I think it should be kept in mind that this date and time, being set for 4:30, should be complied with and all parties concerned be there promptly at 4:30.

MR. DENNEY: Yes, sir. Well, we can adjourn right from here and go over there. Again we will do our best to get it set up on time.

Case V Case VII The Signal Corps, who so ably handles the transmission system, also is responsible for that, and we entertain no doubts about their being there.

THE PRESIDENT: All right. You may proceed with the presentation of the next document book.

MR. RAPP: If the Court pleases, I should like to request that the Marshal be directed to summon the witness Johannes Sontis.

THE PRESIDENT: Marshal, present the witness.

JOHANNES SONTIS, a witness, took the stand and testified as follows:

BY THE PRESIDENT:

Q The witness will raise his right hand in order to be sworn.

I swear to speak the truth and only the truth in reply to whatever I am asked without fear and without prejudice.

(The witness repeated the oath.)

MR. RAPP: If your Honors please, the witness is fluent in the German language, and I believe it would solve some of our interpreting difficulties if I could examine him in the German language, and we have the official Greek interpreter standing by in case there should be anything unclear to the witness. Is this agreeable?

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed along that line.

MR. RAPP: Very well.

BY MR. RAPP:

Q What is your full name, please?

A Johannes Sontis, Dr. Johannes Sontis.

Q When were you born?

A On 14 July, 1907.

Q And where were you born?

A In Monastir, Macedonia.

Q What is your present nationality?

A Greek.

Q What is your profession?

A I am a lawyer.

Q How long have you been practicing this profession?

A For 16 years. At present, I am licensed to appear before all courts in Athens and in the court of appeals.

Q. Do you have any other titles or profession apart from your profession as a lawyer?

A. Yes. I am a lecturer at the university and professor at the college for political science.

Q. Where did you study, witness?

A. First I studied in Athens, and after I completed my examination as assessor I went to Germany, to the University of Heidelberg, where I passed my examination after studying for almost seven years.

Q. In other words, you passed the law examination in Germany?

A. Yes, I am a doctor of law.

Q. Witness, where were you between 1941 and 1944?

A. In Athens.

Q. And what did you do when Greece was invaded by Germany? In other words, what was your profession at the time?

A. When the Italians declared war on us, 28 October 1940, I left my office and was put in charge of radio propaganda to foreign countries. This position I held until the German troops entered—

Q. Continue, witness, please.

A. What shall I say? Shall I continue?

Q. You answered the question. Would you repeat your answer, please? I could not hear it due to the siren.

A. Well, I held this position as chief of radio propaganda to foreign countries until the German troops entered Athens.

Q. What did you do then, witness?

A. After Athens was occupied, I resumed my profession as a lawyer, first in Greek courts. At the end of May 1941 the first permanent German summary court martial (Feldgericht) was set up in Athens. It was called Summary Court Martial of the Commander of Air Gau Southeast. If I am not mistaken, that was Lt. General (General der Flieger) Felmy at the time.

Q. Witness, what kind of cases did this summary court martial you mentioned deal with?

A. This summary court martial dealt with Greek cases as well as with German cases. Greek lawyers were also admitted for Greek cases. At the beginning only three lawyers practiced in this court. Concerning their ability, they were not considered the best in lawyer circles of Athens. This fact came to the attention of the Chamber of Lawyers of Athens and the president of this chamber assigned me to take the necessary steps in order to have other lawyers who were more capable admitted.

Q. Witness, may I interrupt you for a moment? You are now speaking of Greek lawyers, is that right?

A. Yes, I am speaking of Greek lawyers. First of all I went to the president of the summary court martial. At that time that was Oberkriegsgerichtsrat der Luftwaffe Dr. Buckstein. I transmitted the request of the chamber to him. First he hesitated, but after he had consulted the supervisory judge, Oberkriegsgerichtsrat der Luftwaffe Dr. Frohwein, he accepted my request. Other lawyers were admitted to this summary court, including myself. Thus, toward the end of June 1942 I began my work as defense counsel before the German court.

Q. Witness, how many other lawyers apart from you were permitted to practice before this summary court?

A. At the moment I cannot tell you the exact number, approximately 7 or 8 altogether.

Q. And they all spoke German, witness?

A. Yes, more or less.

Q. Now, after you were admitted to the summary court, did you continue with your sideline as well?

A. What do you mean by that?

Q. Did you take other cases which had nothing to do with the summary court?

A. No. I gave up the other cases; I did not have time for them. I was fully occupied in my activity for the German court. This was an assignment by the Chamber of Lawyers.

Q. Now, please tell us what happened then after you were admitted.

Page 2,457

You are speaking about May -

A. The end of June 1941.

Q. And what happened then?

A. This activity lasted almost one year. I cannot give the exact date. It was approximately to June 1942 when this summary court martial of the Commander of the Air Gau Southeast ceased to deal with Greek cases. At that time a new summary court martial was set up, the name was Summary Court Martial of the Commander of South Greece. This court was organized by the lawyer Dr. Frohwein and had jurisdiction over Greek cases only. The other summary court martial only dealt with German cases.

Q. Witness, who was the judicial authority (Gerichtsherr) of this court about which you are now talking?

A. I don't know whether it was General Speidel in the beginning or not. In any case, a few weeks after this court was organized, it was General Speidel as Commander for South Greece.

Q. Now, witness, would you please inform the Tribunal in what kind of cases you appeared before this court?

A. In various kinds of cases.

Q. Give us examples of these cases.

A. Examples? Cases of sabotage, espionage, theft, damage to armed forces equipment, and later, after an order which General Speidel issued (it was the order of 17 June 1943 – that is, one year later), for communist activities.

Q. Now, can you describe a typical or specific case which impressed you particularly, which appeared before this court in which you worked?

A. I could give many such examples. I do not understand what you mean. Do you mean an individual case?

Q. Could you tell me about an individual case which impressed you particularly in connection with your defense or which you remember particularly?

A. In what respect?

Q. I mean concerning treatment, occurrences in the court, sentences.

and everything that occurred in connection with this court.

A. Here I must give you an introduction. Pursuant to an order which General Field Marshal List gave one lay before the German troops entered Greece, the law to be applied was the German penal code, the orders which the various commanders issued – those were the two categories of regulations to be applied. The German courts had jurisdiction over offenses against these orders.

Q. You are speaking too fast. The interpreter cannot keep up with you. Will you please repeat what you just said?

A. According to the same order, I believe of 5 April 1941, the law to be applied in German summary courts martial for Greek cases was the Reich penal code and the orders issued by the commanders in the occupied territory. On the basis of these orders the German courts were competent--

Q. I'm sorry, but you are still too fast. Please make a pause between sentences. It has to be translated from German into English, witness. Please speak slowly.

A. Shall I repeat the answer?

Q. Yes, please.

A. One day before the German troops entered Greece an order was issued by General Field Marshal List, according to which the penal law to be applied was, first, the Reich Penal Code, and secondly what I forgot before, regulations in effect apart from this law, the Reich regulations, I mean, which were valid throughout Germany, and the orders which were issued by the commanders in the occupied territory. Pursuant to this law, the German courts martial in Greece were competent to judge offenses against these laws by the Greeks. There were cases--

THE PRESIDENT: The Tribunal will be in recess until 1:30 this afternoon.

AFTERNOON SESSION (The hearing reconvened at 1330 hours, 21 August 1947) JOHANES SONTIS - resumed DIRECT EXAMINATION - continued

THE MARSHAL : Persons in the Courtroom will be seated.

The Tribunal is again in session.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed.

MR. RAPP: If your Honors please, I shall continue with the examination of the witness.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

BY MR. RAPP:

Q. Before the lunch recess, witness, we were talking about the regulations which were published by Field Marshal List at that time, in connection with the law to be applied. Could you tell us that again in one sentence quite briefly, to summarize, so that we may make better progress from now on.

A. You mean to say I should repeat the contents of this regulation?

Q. Quite briefly, for our own information, so that we will have cleared this subject.

A. As regards the substantive law, according to regulations, it was the Reich Penal Code, the Reich regulations which were also valid alongside the Reich Penal Code, and the orders of the Commanders in the occupied Greek territory. Competent for violations against these penal regulations for issuing sentences regarding these violations, were the German summary courts martial, Feldgerichte, in the Greek occupied territory. This regulation of the commander of the 12th Army was often violated. Shootings, even mass shootings, without a legal trial and sentence became the rule in the course of time. That on the one hand. On the other hand, I experienced many cases where intentionally the rules of international law, as well as the regulations of German military law, were not applied rightly. I might even say they were applied wrongly or against international law.

I cannot mention all the cases here. All of them would take up a lot of time. I can only mention here a few examples, the most outstanding examples which I could observe and follow from my position as defense counsel at those summary courts martial.

Q. Witness, how many cases, in order to clarify this right from the start, did you as attorney defend or were you in connection with?

A. My activity as defense counsel, in summary courts martial, as I said before, started at the end of June 1941. The second summary court of the Commander for South Greece, -or rather, the Military Commander for Greece --as far as I can remember exactly, was in operation until August, 1944. That is, from June 1941 until August 1944, including those cases which I had to conduct before a third court, for minor cases, that is the summary court of the Field Command post of Athens. I defended about 300 cases.

Q. Thank you, witness. Please continue now.

A. I must first of all relate the most striking example which I know from my post as defense counsel before the first summary court martial of the Air Gau Southeast. I only want to mention one thing. It was, as far as I remember, at the end of April when a few Greek officers were arrested while trying to escape to Egypt. The case did not come before the summary court martial. For instance, a few officers -- 4, 5 or 6, I don't remember exactly, I can only recall three names -- were shot without trial. It must have been at the end of May or the beginning of June 1942. These defendants here, if I am not mistaken, had nothing to do with these murders; for these murders only General Andre is responsible. That example is the first case that greatly impressed me.

Q. Witness, you are talking here about murders and you are talking about the fact that these people were not brought before a court martial, that they were, so to speak, shot illegally. Why does this case represent something extraordinary -- I don't understand the emphasis you are placing on it.

Can you explain that?

A. I should ask you to hear my view on this in connection with a case I shall mention later on.

Q. As you please.

A. The most striking examples of violation of law -- I repeat, of International law as well of domestic German law --- I experienced as defense counsel before the second summary court martial. I now begin to mention individual cases. The first case is the case of Boros. At the beginning of September 1942 on the Island of Boros the secret field police arrested nine respectable Greeks because they were suspected of making propaganda for England among the population of this island. Communistic activities were not at issue in this case. Even the G.F.P. (Secret Field Police) who appeared before the Summary Court Martial as prosecution witnesses, later, admitted that those arrested were Greek of nationalist views.

14-1-A-GW-21 Aug 47-Biolsi (Jacobson) Among those arrested were a doctor, a lawyer, a pharmacist, a retired officer, and three civil servants.

Those arrested were taken to the office of the G.F.P. in Piraeus. There they were subjected to examination of a severe nature. We know exactly what severe examination meant at that time. For the benefit of those who did not experience these conditions in my country, and there may be many in this courtroom, I want to mention the following: One of the foremost Germanists, Professor Hans Fehr, in 1923 published a book entitled "Das Recht im Bilde". This book refers to the methods of examination employed in the middle ages. What we see of these methods in the various pictures in this book was recalled to life in the middle of the 20th century by the G.F.P. in Greece as well as, of course, by the SS.

I shall mention only two examples: Tying of the hands behind the back, hanging up with a weight attached to the feet, hanging by the feet for a certain period of time, and other things of a like nature. As regards those arrested on the island of Boros a severe examination took place in the office of the G.F.P. in Pireus--such an examination that one of those arrested, the chief tax official of the island of Boros, later became insane. I personally at that time intervened with the President of the Summary Court Martial of the Military Commander for Greece, who was at that time Oberkriegsgerichtsrat Kirchberger Dr. Kriegsrichter, and asked him to bring about the transfer of this insane person to a clinic and, in fact, he fulfilled my request. The preliminary investigation by the G.F.P. in Pireus took up to the middle of October or maybe a few days later in October 1942, and then the files with the concluding report of the G.F.P. were sent to the summary court-martial, as usual, the military judge dealt with this case, and after issuing the penal regulation the matter came into court on the 30th of November 1942.

President of this court on that day was Kriegsgerichtsrat der Luftwaffe, Dr. Rattke, and the prosecutor was Kriegsgerichtsrat der Luftwaffe, Dr. Hennich--quite a nice lawyer, I must admit that -- from Leipzig, and not a severe judge as regards the Greeks. When the session started the president stated that the trial would take place in camera, since this was a serious case of espionage. After the court was cleared the examination of the prosecution witnesses began. As prosecution witnesses the G.F.P. officials appeared--two of them who had conducted the preliminary investigation in Pireus. I can only recall the name of one of them. His name was Steierhof. The defense consisted of three Greek lawyers, among them myself. The defense knew from the start that the defendants had been subjected to a severe preliminary investigation. For that reason I put to the first witness the question whether that really had been the case. The president admitted this question, and then the witness gave the following answer: "There is an order according to which in such cases we have to subject those arrested to a severe examination. In this case I only slapped the idea of defendant number one, a doctor of Boros". For one moment my equanimity left me and I asked the witness what his profession was in civil life. He answered: "I am a Municipal judge." My excitement increased. "Witness", I said, "you are an educated man, then. How did you dare to slap the face of an equally cultured man and a doctor who studied at the university?"

Then he cried out, "I received such a remark, and I went for it." The court was equally excited and asked me to be quiet. After the examination of this witness the second witness testified. The G.F.P. official Steierhof. This time my colleague questioned, the other Greek lawyer. He asked him: "Have you done the same, witness?" The witness answered: "No, I personally did not do any such thing. I left this to my other colleagues." And then his colleague replied in a very excited frame of mind, turning to the Court: "Your Honors, this is a new method. You may call it the "Steierhof Method"." Now excitement and now calls for order. The proceedings began at eight o'clock in the morning and lasted until seven in the evening. At seven O'clock the Court retired for consultation and after two hours it delivered its verdict. The contents of this verdict was that the evidence offered did not suffice in order to arrive at a sentence of the defendants. For that reason the defendants must be acquitted and further legal proceedings must be quashed. However, the defendants are not to be acquitted because the G.F.P. of Piräus appeared—I don't know his name—and he turned to us, to the three defense counsel, and said this: "Gentlemen, you have offended my men, you will have to pay for that. You will soon hear from me. Please give me your address now." We know what that meant. We went at once to the Archbishop and asked him to intervene in our behalf to the superior authorities. He went at once to the plenipotentiary at that time, von altenburg, accompanied by the military attache von Klemm of the German Delegation in Athens; and by this intervention saved us from falling into the hands of the G.F.P. That, as I said, was on the 30th of November 1942.

Those acquitted, after the proceedings had been quashed, were not released from custody, as I have already said. They remained in custody for the whole month of December, and in the beginning of January 1943 I decided to turn directly for help to the general. To visit General Speidel was impossible for a lawyer, and for that reason I approached the officer of I-C. The notorious Captain Stoeckle was the only one I could approach in order to make a petition. My request was to release my clients since the court-martial in the field of the general had quashed the proceedings, as the same court-martial did not find sufficient reasons, and as in the last resort, the people concerned were certainly not people who had violated any penal provisions. For the first time I entered this famous Department I-C, and then I understood what this department represented. On the table of Captain Dr. Stoeckle there were heaps of documents, files, copies of the files of the documents submitted to the court-martial; and on every file a red strip had been affixed. Naturally, I could not understand what this red strip meant. I learned this later on. Captain Stoeckle received me politely. He asked for the purpose of my visit and I told him the reason. Suddenly he got up in excitement and told me verbally the following: "Doctor, the court-martial in the field can say what it wants to say. I here possess in these documents proof according to which I can have the defendants shot at once. In any case I will think the matter over." It was about ten o'clock. And it is important that I mention this time that is, the morning of the 4th of January 1943. Dr. Stoeckle promised me that he would think the matter over.

He certainly thought it over well. Three days later, on the 7th of January three of those who had been acquitted by the  German field court-martial-- he sent three of those before the firing squad. At six o'clock on the morning of the 7th of January 1943 they were shot, that is the first case.

Now I am coming to my second case. In the middle of September 1942, by a band of about ten Greek hooligans who represented themselves to be friendly towards Germany--the building of the so-called ESPO, situated near the Romonia Square, the largest place in Athens,--was blown up. A few days later, 14 or 16 people-- I don't remember exactly-- Greeks of national views, were arrested under suspicion of being implicated in this blowing up. The investigation took the course of the G.F.P. For about a month and a half or two months, at the end of October or the beginning of November, I had worked on this case and later the files with the concluding report were sent to the court-martial by the G.F.P. The Judge Advocate dealing with this case ordered that the case was to be quashed without any trial--that is, the case did not come into court. In this case, too, those arrested were not released from custody since the G.F.P. had ordered protective custody for them. It was on the 7th of January 1943, on the same day which I mentioned in the previous case, at nine o'clock in the morning, when I went into my office, I found a gathering of the relatives of those defendants, mostly women, almost exclusively women of some of those arrested, and they were crying and sobbing, and they told me that this morning the guard of the prison had refused to take the parcels with foodstuffs. We knew, of course, what this meant in such cases. It meant that those in prison were no longer alive.

At once I went to the palace of the Archbishop. I always did that in such cases, and asked the Archbishop to take some steps. The Archbishop telephoned the guard; he told him who he was, that, as a religious leader of those arrested he was interested in them, and he asked this guard or sergeant to tell him where these Greeks had been taken to. The sergeant answered, "I don't know; at any rate, they took them away early this morning, at five o'clock."

Page 2,468

At the same time we had approached the then director of the Radio Corporation. At that time we had telephoned General Speidel's office, who knew the director of the Radio Corporation very well. In fact, he harried away somewhere, I don't know where he went, and between ten and eleven o'clock he went into the office of the brother of one of the Greeks where, in the meantime, all the relatives had gathered. He took me aside and he told me that, in fact, all seven together who were taken away from the prison, had been shot this morning at six o'clock; that is to say, Greeks were shot who had not been sentenced to death by a German court-martial, and in whose case the German courtmartial had ordered a Quashing of the proceedings.

We sent the relatives home. We did not want to tell them at once that their people were no longer alive. I must also mention here, what I should have done before, that I talked to the director of Radio Corporation a couple of days before the shooting and I had asked him to intervene either with General Speidel or with Captain Stoeckle. I also asked for the Hungarian delegate, at that time Develich, who had social relations with General Speidel and Captain Stoeckle, to do the same thing. Their efforts were unsuccessful.

Even the director of the Radio Corporation repeated to me the talk he had with Captain Stoeckle concerning this case. I recall this quite clearly because I made notes every evening and at present I can make them available.

Stoeckle on this occasion told the director, "The Greeks must leave us in peace, otherwise I will have recourse even to the upper classes of society the next time." That is the second case.

These two cases I have particularly mentioned, and almost in every detail, because I considered them severe violations, not only of international law, not only of German inner military law, but of international ethics, and this because people were shot who had been acquitted by the German court martial.

I believe this case is even more serious than the mere shooting of hostages.

Q. Witness, if we have understood you correctly, the shooting took place in the first days of January 1943, is that correct?

A. Yes, indeed, on the 2nd of January.

Q. Witness, was there SS and SD in Greece at that time?

A. There was no SS in Greece at that time.

Q. How do you know that, witness?

A. Well, there is a way of telling. We know exactly that the SS in Greece started its activities in the beginning of October 1943.

Q. Witness, can you give us other examples falling in this period, and which you have taken part in yourselves?

A. After the arrival of the SS? It was only before the arrival of the SS.

Q. Well then give us those first.

A. A second category of severe violations of international law, and I might even say of international ethics, I experienced as defense counsel before court martial as the Commander Southern Greece the following cases:

Many officers, after the occupation of Greece, Greek officers of the army, of the navy and of the air force, tried to escape to Egypt in order there to unite with the forces still active of the Greek Army and the Greek fleet. Many were arrested while trying to escape in this manner. I have conducted the defense in many such cases before the court martial. General Speidel well remembers those cases.

First of all, that was on the 25th of January 1943. I defended three officers before the court martial, two of the navy and one of the air force. Later I defended a Greek colonel; still later I defended a first lieutenant; and in the spring of 1944, if I remember correctly, I defended two naval officers. In all of these cases the defendants were sentenced to death.

I wouldn't object to the fact that they were sentenced to death if there had been a special directive of the German commander, but that was not the case. They were sentenced to death on the strength of Article 91 B of the Reich Penal Code, "Giving aid and comfort to the enemy".

We know well – that is, the lawyers know well – that giving aid and comfort to the enemy is a crime, or a kind of a crime, which belongs to the category of treason. The provisions regarding treason and high treason rest on a firm principle, on the principle of loyalty toward one's own country. How could they ask the opponents, or enemy in this case, to be loyal to Germany? That is to be loyal to the enemy. That is against any view. Nobody can deny that.

Secondly, the defendants in these cases were obliged and bound by their military rank or military oath to join forces with those formations still fighting. To the utmost they could have in this case been considered as prisoners of war.

No, the court martial did not want to hear anything about it. It did sentence, all without exception, to death. General Speidel, of course, could not confirm these sentences in all cases; he did not confirm these cases, but now we are coming to the violation of international law. He did not look upon them as prisoners of war but he simply changed the death sentence to a term of penal servitude.

All of these officers were treated as common prisoners, and taken to Germany. Here they were not kept in a prisoner of war camp but were imprisoned in the ordinary prisons as ordinary convicts.

And that, I repeat, was a violation of international law, and of international ethics, but also a violation of inner German law. As a witness I have not the text before me of Article 91-B, but I know that the crime of aid and comfort to the enemy in a foreign country – according to the German law – can only be committed by a German. Only within Germany also a foreigner can commit this crime. This shows that also the German law has been applied wrongly in these cases.

Q. These things which you have related to us here, witness, in connection with your request – did you mention all of these reasons in order to achieve a mitigation of sentence?

A. I quoted all of these reasons and I knew of such attitude. We had the right, according to the provisions of military penal law – we had the right after the verdict was announced to make known our views to the Supreme Judicial Officer and to ask him not to confirm the sentence, but to mitigate it or to issue a pardon.

All of these reasons we listed, and I will make them available to the Tribunal if it should prove necessary.

Q. Now, witness, to leave this period

A. I have to mention something else.

Q. Yes, please do.

A. I am now coming to the category of the cases of sabotage. It is known to all German lawyers, and to all who understand something of German law, that according to German military law the crime of sabotage

Q. Witness, tell us the facts and what you did. We do not want to have any lectures from you at this time. Please tell us the facts, and after you have told us the facts, please tell us what you did.

A. The violation of a legal provision is not a legal question.

DR. LATERNER: Mr. President, I want to point out the same thing and join in what the prosecutor has just said. The witness should testify to facts and not make speeches.

THE PRESIDENT: May I suggest to the witness that it is the desire of the Tribunal that you state facts. Perhaps under certain circumstances it may be necessary for you to give some explanations, but, generally, restrict your comments to what you may know and what you may have seen, rather than commenting upon them in detail.

THE WITNESS: I certainly will.

A. I now come to the third category of the violation of penal law, those cases belong where a summary court martial sentences people to death for sabotage without considering whether in the case under discussion there was an intention of endangering the war potential of the German army or not. In my practice before the court martial, I experienced between 25 and 30 death sentences of this type. That is all that I have to mention.

Q. Witness, when you talk of cases of sabotage here, please give us a typical example of a so-called case of sabotage, which, for instance, took place before your court, where you appeared as defense counsel, without giving any further explanations.

A. Very well.

DR. LATERNER: I object. The question cannot be material. I do not know of a single count of the indictment saying that in cases of sabotage a wrong verdict was given.

MR. RAPP: Your Honor, We submit that it may be of some importance to have two witnesses testify as to the type of offense that was handled by these courts and the ultimate results and/or disposition of those who stood either as defendants or were found not guilty before such tribunals. I believe that this has some bearing on our case.

PRESIDENT WENNERSTRUP: The witness may testify, restricting his comments solely upon the facts that he knows, and as to his observations that he personally made.

MR. RAPP: Very well, your Honor.

A. Example of sabotage cases: Cutting of telephone wires, in order to interrupt the telephone communications of the German authorities.

That is a typical case of sabotage which we had in Athens, and the defendants were sentenced to death in complete conformity with the law. Also blowing up of motor cars. I also had such cases. Motor cars of the German Wehrmacht. They were legally sentenced to death. Setting fire to a camp. A typical case of sabotage, which I also had the defendant was legally sentenced to death. But a kid goes into a German camp, steals two liters of gasoline and is sentenced to death for that reason. This was illegal, because it was never his intention to impair the war potential of the German Army.

Q. Very well, Witness, will you continue, from this period of time and relate further facts of your experiences from that time on, during the period of the occupation?

A In spite of the violations which I have mentioned, until September, 1943, I could not assert that we found ourselves in a state of complete lawlessness. In the last analysis, there were cases which came into court, which came into the German court, and in some of these cases the people were shot on the basis of a legal verdict. This state, however, ceased completely after the arrival of the SS in Greece. I cannot speak for the whole of Greece. I am only talking of Athens. The SS, as I have already mentioned, arrived in Athens about the end or beginning of October, 1943. The Greeks, were now hardly over prosecuted by the GFP. The GFP dealt mainly with the minor cases, and the SS took over the major part of the prosecutions, through the notorious SD, Security Service, that is.

Of course the Summary Court Martial of the Military Commander for Greece did not stop functioning all of a sudden. Some serious cases came before this court martial, but in the course of true this also ceased. I might say that about February or March, 1944, the Summary Court Martial of the Military Commander for Greece had become a shop without customers. It only dealt with minor offenses. The was only carried out by the SS.

The SS, of course, had no court martial, Their tortures, were, of course, a daily occurrence, and the people were not shot on the basis of a legal verdict; they were not ever shot singly, but on masse. 40, 100, 25, 30, etc., There were so many cases that I cannot remember them. Of course I was not an actual eye-witness of these events, but I was an eye witness of a part, that is to say, the following case.

On the 1st of May, 1944, I heard from the Arch bishop's office, -- (I must make here, an explanation). I get the assignments of the arrested Greeks from a department of the office of the Arch bishop of Athens. That is, the relatives went to the Arch bishop's office and the Arch bishop's office gave me the assignment to defend these people, and for that reason I had a connection with the Arch bishop's office). I learned from the Arch bishop's office that a policeman had brought clothes and suits of about 200 shot Greeks to the headquarters of the 21st Police District of Athens.

I went to this office in the Arch bishop's Palace. He sent a motor car, and about 11 o'clock in the morning all of these things were brought to the ground floor of the Arch bishop's Palace. In the meantime the population got to know that on this morning a mass execution had taken place of people who had been brought from the concentration camp at Heidari (?). The relatives, of course at once hurried to the Arch bishop's Palace, as often happened in these cases, and they gathered there.

The picture was awful. All of these people pushed their way into the ground floor. I cannot describe the crying of the women as they went in and when they started looking for the clothing of their loved ones.

They searched the pockets in order to find some kind of identification, or a letter. The pockets were completely empty.

Suddenly, I saw an old woman from the suburb of Pentelli (?). She had noticed the jacket of her oldest son, and she took it, and she pressed it against her breast, and began to cry.

After a few seconds she turned around, and this time she found the clothes of her second son. She fainted. That is the only picture of the terror of the SS of which I was an eye witness. This state continued until the end of August or beginning of September 1944 -- Athens had become a hell -- until the liberation. That is to say, until the 12th of October 1944. That is all I have to report regarding facts.

Q. Witness, in order to return quite briefly to the court trials in which you took part, I'd like to ask you how long, on the average, did these trials last -- that is, individually.

A. Mr. Prosecutor, I cannot give you an exact answer. There were cases of trials lasting one, two, or three hours, or even a whole day, when there were more defendants than one. There were cases where the trial took only a quarter of an hour, but that doesn't mean a thing. This was a case of a spy who had been caught in flagranti at the broadcasting station with a radiogonimeter. It was quite clear, and he was convicted immediately. It was quite legal. In any case, whether law was spoken in a proper manner always depended on the judge. In the beginning and, to be just, especially in the case of the court martial of the Military Commander for South Greece, in the beginning there were good court martial judges who came to Athens. There were judges who were professional judges.

Q. Witness, I did not ask you regarding these things. My question was precisely what was the average duration of the three hundred cases in which you took part as a defense counsel.

A. I am telling you, Mr. Prosecutor, there were cases which took one, two, or three hours. I want to tell you that exactly. Later some proceedings -- and that was illegal -- had become "blitz" trials, but I can't say that this was true in all the cases.

Q. All right. Now, the next question: In the cases in which a death sentence was announced, what was the average duration between the announcement of the verdict and the execution of the verdict?

A. Sometimes two weeks, sometimes a whole month, sometimes more than a month, sometimes only three days.

It was like this: The president of the court always gave a time limit for making an appeal. There were cases where he gave us a limit of ten days. There were cases where in 10 or 24 hours we had to make an appeal for mercy and to give our reasons for it. The execution, of course, there were cases where the verdict was executed in three days, two weeks, a month, and in some cases perhaps even more than a month.

Q. All right. Now, witness, did you at any time personally, in Athens, read or see public announcements which were issued in connection with the taking of hostages?

A. In the beginning such reports were published in Greek papers. In the case of a sabotage it stated so many Greeks will be shot for the killing or wounding of a German soldier. That was in the beginning. Later these announcements stopped.

Q. When you say "in the beginning", can you give the date more accurately?

A. I cannot do that; I don't recall that exactly.

Q. Are you talking of 1941, 1942?

A. Perhaps in 1942 such announcements were still made public, but I don't remember that exactly.

Q. Now, witness, in connection with your testimony you spoke, I believe, about so-called security custody (Sicherheitsverwahrung), is that correct?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. What was that?

A. Security custody was, so to speak, a police measure, on the strength of which an arrested person could not be released, but, in fact, the people who were shot without a legal verdict came from this category of people who were in security custody.

Q. Witness, do you mean to say that when these public announcements mention was made of hostages these people were actually people taken into security custody?

DR. LATERNSE: I object to this question. This is a leading question.

THE PRESIDENT: Sustained.

BY MR. RAPP:

Q. Witness, would you kindly explain to us whether there was a difference between hostages and people in security custody?

A. In fact there was no difference.

Q. What do you mean by "in fact"? Will you kindly explain this in more detail?

A. The fact that all these people who were shot without legal verdicts were taken from these people who were in security custody. There were also shootings without legal verdicts of people who were not in security custody.

Q. Was the word "hostage" as such ever used before the summary courts martial?

A. Yes, before these courts martial hostages could never be mentioned, because "hostage" was an administrative question. That was not a legal question.

Q. Could you kindly explain this in more detail?

A. Well, how can I explain it? For a person to be designated as a hostage does not require a legal verdict. You don't need a verdict for that. That's merely an administrative measure.

Q. All right. Did you ever protest against the fact which you have mentioned to us here?

A. Yes.

Q. That hostages were taken from people who were in security custody? Or that hostages actually were people in security custody?

A. First of all, we could not dare to do that, and secondly as defense counsel we had the right to turn only to the court, and, of course, we would have received the answer that the summary court martial was not competent in this matter.

Q. You said at the beginning of your answer that you could not do that, that is to say, protest.

Why could you not do that?

A. We could not do that because--- Well, how can I tell you that? Well, of course, from fear of the GFP. Only once I remember when the SS came to Athens, and the cases were not all brought into court. Only once I, together with two colleagues, protested to the president of the summary court, Kriegsgerichtsrat der Luftwaffe, Dr. Kirchberger, and we discussed this state of lawlessness. And we told Dr. Kirchberger the opinion that at least those cases would have to be brought before the court martial which were in direct connection with the interests of the German Wehrmacht. Dr. Kirchberger, at that time, promised us that he would deal with this question, but we did not have any success. That is to say, he did not do anything.

Q. Witness, now to come to a finish. Concerning the shootings or murders carried out by the SS you said that the summary court martial was, so to speak, shelved. Did you try to have these cases brought back before the summary court martial? Can you tell us anything in this connection?

A. We always tried to bring these cases before the summary court martial because we thought if there were only a small -- even if it were only a chance of ten persons, it was always better to have a legal verdict rather than having the people shot without a legal verdict.

Q. Whom did you approach?

A. Dr. Kirchberger. We did not have the right to go to any other authority.

Q. Now, witness, do you know who, at that time, was the highest SS officer in Greece?

A. At that time it was universally known that General Strupp came to Greece first, and then, after about a month, his place was taken by Schimana.

Q. You knew, witness, that the SS carried out these shootings, is that correct?

A. Which shootings are you talking about?

Q. These shootings about which you told us that took place after October 1943.

A. No. There were also shootings - the execution of the court's sentences, death sentences - for those the SS was not competent - rather the regular army.

Q. I'm talking about the extra-legal shootings.

A. The SS.

Q. Now, why did you approach the summary court martial, which was, after all, a military authority?

A. Would you kindly repeat this question?

THE PRESIDENT: The Court will take its afternoon recess at this time.

(A recess was taken.)

DIRECT EXAMINATION (Continued)

THE MARSHAL: The persons in the Courtroom will be seated.

The Tribunal is again in session.

MR. DENNEY: Your Honor, at this time I would like to distribute to the defense counsels eleven copies in German of various documents which we propose to offer, which are reports of the Greek National war Crimes Office, and it will not be necessary to refer to them further at this time. We are just distributing them for the purposes of getting them to them so that the 24 hours can correctly run.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there any further examination, Mr. Rapp?

MR. RAPP: Yes, your honor.

THE PRESIDENT: You may proceed.

BY MR. RAPP:

Q: Witness, shortly before the recess, you were telling us that you and quite possibly some colleagues of yours had tried to prevent the shootings carried out by the SS or at least to direct them into decent channels or to bring about further trials by the Field Court Martial in order to give an extra chance to your client in this manner and under certain circumstances obtain a milder sentence than the death sentence. Is that correct?

A: Yes, that is correct. That is corrects

Q: Now let me ask you whether these Field Court Martials had an institution -- were an institution of the military?

A: Yes, these Field Court Martials were an institution, a court which came under the military.

Q: But then, why did you address a military department in order to, shall we say, stop these shootings, if the shootings were actually carried out by the SS?

A: Well, there was a reason for that but what we were trying to do was to ask the President of the court martial to put the whole affair before his superior, and that of course was the Military Commander in Greece. He was of course only a subordinate source, and it was in the police department and we thought that the Commander, that is to say the highest officer in Greece, would act, and might have success with the SS. He could, after all, give them orders.

Q: You say the supreme Commander, the highest commander in Greece, the Military Commander could give orders to the SS?

A: Whether in fact he could do so or not that is a question which I can't possibly answer, but at any rate he was the commander in the occupied territory. He was, shall we say, the highest ranking authority in the occupied territory and he had responsibility for the application of measures of the Hague, land warfare, conviction, etc. And as responsible highest officer, he could even give instructions and orders to the police department.

Q: Did your complaints -- or shall we say your representations actually have success?

A: No, they had no success.

Q: Do you know whether your representations were ever put before the Military Commander?

A: That I can't possibly know.

Q: Upon your representations, did you receive any type of answer at any time?

A: No, he promised that we would one day be able to see the General, that the matter would become a matter for the General to see to.

Q: But you never had an answer?

A: No we never did.

Q: Would this mean that the existence of Field Court Martials ceased de facto?

A: Neither de facto nor de jure. It merely limited the activities of the Field Court Martials.

Q: After that time?

A: Yes, after that time and gradually step by step not all in one gulp.

Q: What type of cases did the Field Court Martial deal with after that?

A: Usually with minor matters -- bagatelles.

Q: I thought you told us earlier that these bagatelles matters, these minor affairs, had been dealt with by the Court Martials of the Field Kommandantur?

A: Yes, that I did say but the less serious cases, for instance thefts of gasoline, were a matter came before the Field Court Martial of the Commander. Of course, there were some exceptions. There were cases where some serious matters went before the Military Court but they were merely exceptions.

MR. RAPP: I have no further questions.

THE PRESIDENT: Any cross-examination on behalf of defense?

CROSS EXAMINATION BY DR. LATERNSEER: Witness, I have only very few questions to put to you. You said earlier at the beginning that you were a professor at the University at Athens. What lectures did you give?

A: Roman law and civil law.

Q: And you also said that you were a professor at the University of State Science?

Page 2,485

A: Yes, and that is an independent school in Athens.

Q: What were you reading there?

A: Civil law.

Q: You have passably showed to us also that you are an experienced defense counsel and that during the time of the occupation you defended many of your fellow countrymen. Did you -- looking at your activities from a broad point of view, were you successful?

A: Yes. In some of them anyway.

Q: Could you, for instance, talk to your client before the trial?

A: Yes, I could but only after the procedure had been laid down. Before that, no. During the preliminary investigation it wasn't permitted at all.

Q: When you say the preliminary procedure, do you mean the indictment?

A: That is it. That is something different. It is the trial in order to impede punishment. I am talking about the indictment now.

Q: Now during the actual trial, did you have the possibility of stating such facts as you considered necessary as a defense counsel, generally speaking?

A: Yes, and no. If you are speaking generally, then I will tell you that I can't give you an exact answer. That is to say, as I told you earlier, in the case of Boros, there was, shall we say, an excellent system of defense because we could ask the question whether the defendants had been subjected to more severe pre-trial investigation and that we received in answer to that the statement that he had actually been beaten up during the pre-trial investigation, that they had been subjected to such methods. That of course made an impression on the court.

It was an excellent means for our defense but it was the last time when we had it at our disposal and could state it. After that, we had been prohibited to put such questions to the prosecutors who were, of course, Gestapo and police officials. This was the last time.

Q: But at that time you could?

A: That was on the 30th of November, 1942 , you know. You have got to think of two more years.

Q: Yes, I know, but I am merely asking you about this case which you have related to the Tribunal. Now did you after the trial had finished and when, no doubt, illegal threats were uttered to you or by the GFP, did you tell that to the President?

A: No, we didn't. We immediately hastened to see the Archbishop and he took the essential steps.

Q: Did you later on tell the President of the Tribunal about that, that you had been exposed to such treatment?

A: He knew it. He was the President.

Q: Did he tell you what he thought about it?

A: I cannot remember that he did. I cannot remember.

Q: Then let me put another -- well a general question to you regarding your defense counsel activities. In developing your defense counsel's work, did you find considerable restrictions being imposed upon you or could you contribute to it that facts were properly investigated?

A: Not in detail. First of all, because time was limited, which was necessary for the preparation of the defense. For instance, we received a telephone call saying tomorrow that such and such a case will be heard. We didn't know it at once. Secondly -

Q: But if such a call came through -

A: Let me answer your entire question. Maybe that will help you. First of all, that was the first point. Quite suddenly we found ourselves having to defend a case in the morning.

Secondly, in many cases time was very restricted in order to prepare the so-called opinion of ours. That was an important means at the disposal of the defense, in order to prepare for the case and that was often restricted sometimes very restricted, and then we couldn't ask the defendant really when police officials were about. For instance, this question which you as an attorney and defense counsel would put and know the importance of to the defense -- you couldn't tell the judges that such and such means were employed to obtain a testimony. That is an important means for the defense which we however could not employ at a later stage after this famous date of November, 1942. The Tribunal prohibited us from doing so and I am telling you that under my oath.

Q: Were you expressly prohibited from doing that?

A: What do you mean "prohibited?" You Germans often use the word "prohibit" and "forbid". Maybe it was a recommendation but we considered that recommendation to be a prohibition.

Q Well then, I had asked you or rather I would like to ask you whether in the trials which were pending, the facts, the evidence, was investigated?

A Yes. How can you arrive at a judgment without investigating the facts?

Q Quite. I just wanted you to tell me that.

A They were investigated as far as was possible in this restricted period.

Q I have no further questions, Mr. President.

BY DR. WEISGERGER:

Q Dr. Weisgerber for Speidel. May I call you colleague and Mr. Witness? I just want to continue from the last question put by my colleague, Dr. Laternser. You told us that during 25 to 30 sabotage cases you acted as the defense counsel. Now were these -- or shall we say was that the total figure of cases where death sentences were imposed?

A Yes, those are the death sentence cases. And above those, there were other cases of life and 15 years' penal servitude and the least matter, say two loaves of bread -- there, even there a prison sentence was imposed.

Q Now before that when you described in detail the activities of the German courts and when you also described the attitude you had adopted with regard to the type of justice used, particularly in the sphere of sabotage, you said that you quite frequently missed it, that the Tribunal took into consideration the intention to damage Germany's armed force and didn't ascertain it for certain.

A I wasn't talking about damage done to Germany's armed strength. I was talking about sabotage, and sabotage is a general conception, as you know. These are cases of sabotage which appear in the nationalist period too. Let me mention Professor Muggler's name who, as you know, has written about the law of warfare. There he says sabotage never has a political character, never lost its political character.

Q Well, let's not go into this chapter too much. I am just going to ask you with regard to a case during which you, as far as I know, acted as defense attorney very successfully. Do you remember this following case? Immediately before the Action Crete, carried out by the German armed forces, had started, that is in May 1941, there was a Greek aged about sixty who was indicted because he had stolen a field cable from the airport at Athens which he had cut out. Do you remember that you defended him at that trial?

A Yes, I was the defense counsel.

Q Now can you recollect that on the part of the prosecution a motion for the death sentence was submitted?

A Yes, I remember that.

Q And may I ask whether you remember what punishment was actually given -- thanks to your defense?

A Four years I think.

Q Well, was it four or was it even less?

AAAs far as I remember, it was penal servitude but that was before the Field Court Martial of the air force district Southeast. May 1941 -- it was at the end of June that the trial started, Mr. Attorney, and it wasn't the Field Court Martial of the Commander South of Greece; it was the Field Court Martial of the General Voeln? I think after that time, and I will tell you exactly when the new jurisdiction began which was in November, 1942.

Up to that time, the Field Court Martial always demanded the existence of a subject momentum. The argument for the damage from the jeopardy of Germany's armed strength. In those days, jurisdiction was correct.

Q Well, you will probably be able to admit, won't you, that the judgment, the sentence of the Court was just considering the entire circumstances? I don't think we will have to go into this case in detail. I just thought I would refresh your memory.

A Let me answer your question with one word. In this case, it turned out during the trial that uneducated people were affected, an uneducated man who did not have the intent, could not have had the intent, who was not able to have such an intention.

Q I see. Now, Mr. Colleague, surely in the course of more than three years which you spent working with German Field Court Martials in Athens, you had contact with individual judges?

A Yes.

Q Could you -- or shall we say was the contact such that if you had any special request you could go to see the judges, that you could go and tell them "I have this and that suggestion to make"? Was that usually complied with?

A Before I answer that question, Mr. Attorney, I would like to ask you what you mean by contact. Do you mean personal -- do you mean that we have the possibility to visit the judge and discuss the case with him? Is that what you mean?

Q Yes, yes.

Q Well, we could but as far as requests were concerned, you have talked about -- that is something which I couldn't state. A German when he had orders to give and when he had orders he strictly adhered to them and I did not know that perhaps because I had beautiful eyes Dr. Rattke might in this case help me along. That certainly wasn't so.

Q Well, when I said request, I didn't mean that.

A Well, that is what I understood.

Q What I wanted to say, if you intended to call numbers of witnesses with regard to the case, could you previously go and talk it over with him?

A Do you mean the witnesses?

Q No, I mean the judge. So could you tell the judge "I have the intention of calling this and that witness" or so and so?

A A In practice, this is how it was, Mr. Defense Counsel. Before the trial, we put a piece of paper before the judges as was the custom before Greek courts containing the names of defense witnesses and usually I must admit the Field Court Martial would say "All right, I will let this witness testify and that has been the same everywhere.

During peacetime, if I have ten defense witnesses for a case or fifteen, then of course the Tribunal won't admit them all, but we could discuss these matters, yes, with the Field Court Martial judges but of course there were hard ones, severe ones, and milder ones; that depends upon the personality of the judge.

Q Were you in touch with Froheim, the Supreme Court Martial Counsellor?

A No. I once met him, personally. Incidentally, he was the supervising judge. He was not the president of the court. That was Dr. Kirchberg.

Q Now, esteemed Colleague, you know that for instance edicts appeared ordering the discontinuation of proceedings and that they were put before the Supreme Judge for signature?

A Yes.

Q And that his signature influenced the position whether the proceedings would continue or were quashed or whether proceedings would actually take place. Now who was -

A Excuse me, please, Mr. Defense Counsel. As far as I remember, though I can't tell you with exact certainty, I think the Field Court Martial Judges who would deal with the case -- they signed the indictment or would sign on behalf of the president to discontinue proceedings but I can't say that for certain. It is my impression.

Q You are quite right, witness. They signed on behalf of their superior judge, but at that stage, both in order to serve an indictment as well as to discontinue proceedings, the signature of the Supreme Judge was necessary.

A No, not of his. To discontinue proceedings, he did not have to sign, no.

Q Confirmation?

Q All right.

A All right, we agree on that; that is something different. If, for instance, in the case Boros, the Tribunal had passed judgment up to that time, the Tribunal had an idea of what was going on but that judgment requires the confirmation by the Supreme Judge and that is the General. For that reason, we asked in our opinion to have it confirmed. That was the point not to have the judgment which had been passed confirmed.

Q And you knew that your opinion, your plea, your final plea would be put before the supreme authority?

A Yes, we did.

Q Well then, can you remember whether, on the strength of your plea, you had successes in mitigating the sentence?

A. Yes, yes I remember that General Speidel in some cases either changed the sentence or did not confirm it and at an unfortunate moment meant the case to be reheard or the punishment not carried out. But, I am not certain to whom we owed it. For instance, in certain cases which General Speidel will undoubtedly remember which concerned two Naval officers, Sazosch and Mithakis, there was for one of them, as far as I remember, clemency and I am sure General Speidel will remember, not thanks to me, but thanks to the Archbishop.

Q. You are speaking about the intervention of the Archbishop. May I put this question to you?

A. May I interrupt, Mr. Defense Counsel. I admit to you it was due to argument on the part of defense counsel. That is something I can't deny.

Q. It was therefore, due to the argument of the defense counsel which the Supreme Judicial Officer acted upon?

A. May I ask you to repeat.

Q. The confirmation of a judgment was, therefore, partly due to your argument?

A. Yes.

Q. It was put before the Supreme Judicial Office and it was agreed upon?

A. Yes, and there were other interventions from higher sources.

Q. That intervention included those put forth by the Arch Bishop of Athens?

A. Yes, those are just the ones I mean.

Q. Do you know by any chance whether Archbishop Damatinos at the time turned to General Speidel repeatedly in order to ask him for clemency on some favor?

A. Yes.

Q. And did the Archbishop have success?

A. Such cases which I know where he was successful were due to the Archbishop's intervention.

Q. You also mentioned that certain defects had developed particularly late in 1943, as late as October 1943, shall we say. When the SS came to Athens?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever discuss with the Judge from Field Court Martial this development I am talking about?

A. Well, with regard to the steps we took in connection with Dr. Kirchberger we did discuss the matter because a responsible high ranking Judge like Dr. Kirchberger, you can't tell exactly what he thinks about the SS, and can't state an opinion about the SS. He announced we would be the subject of a report to the General.

Q. Did you think he meant he himself would report to the General?

A. He couldn't, he wasn't responsible.

Q. The way I understood your previous testimony was that you were saying Kirchberger promised you that yourself would be able to report to the General about this.

A. No, you misunderstood me or probably it was due to the translation. We were going to be the subject of him to the General.

Q. Kirchberger promised you that on the strength of the information you furnished him and your fellow defense counsel.

A. There were two others. Probably three who took the stand. May be there were more but I think it was three.

Q. You also mentioned it that quite often you attempted to deal with matters in the hands of the SS or SD by bringing them before the Field Court Martial.

A. Well, I wasn't saying I went to the SS.

Q. I understood you to say that you tried to persuade the Field Court Martial to use its influence to have these matters handled by them, is that what you meant?

A. You don't understand. You misunderstood me. It was our wish as defense counsel to put the matter before the Field Court Martial if we had a chance, whether small or big. I would rather be shot on the strength of a Field Court Martial than without any judgment at all. And it was because of this we went to Kirchberger at the time about this ugly boy I was telling you about.

Q. Then your point was that the supreme judicial officer up to a certain date in 1944 was General Speidel. Now you have told us in a number of cases you obtained from him a reduction and changes of judgment and sentences. Now, upon a question put by the Prosecution to the effect whether General Speidel couldn't have given orders to the Police you announced, "I don't know what the jurisdiction in question was." You said your impression was he as the highest military officer in Greece, was also superior who could give orders to the Police.

A. If you will permit me I will give that more in detail. What I wanted to say was this. Greece was occupied territory, who is responsible for the observance of the Hague convention and the maintenance of order and justice no other than the superior.

Q. That was your personal opinion?

A. That is my personal opinion. I am now speaking about myself because I am questioned as a jurist and I am giving you legal argument. He was responsible for maintenance of order in the occupied territory as the highest authority.

Q. When taking this case wouldn't you say that this was a surprise on one side; General Speidel, as supreme judicial official give you a number of successes?

A. First of all ask me how many death sentences there were.

Q. Well let me ask you, can you tell us?

A. I admitted it. I had successes - 10 to 15. I am not going to argue with you about that.

Q. Now, witness colleague, let me call upon you to ask you this.

Earlier you said that in 25 to 30 sabotage cases in which you officiated there were death sentences. Can you tell us how many of those death sentences were confirmed and how many were not.

A. In sabotage cases confirmation nearly always came.

Q. But in a number of sabotage cases the sentences were changed?

A. Once, or twice -- hardly more. "Kaüm", if I can use the German word.

Q. You can't actually remember.

A. The details, no, but I am telling you I can tell you the cases where I succeeded in getting clemency plea. In 8 cases of officers sentence was not confirmed or was there clemency.

Q I don't think we need to waste the time of the High Tribunal with details. You did score successes with the supreme judicial authority in a number of cases and this same man who held the highest judicial authority permitted the Police to become active in the form you described to us?

A In the Boros affair, and other affairs, certainly.

Q Do you believe that one and same man would act once like this, and once like that?

A No, Mr. Defense Counsel, the soldier as you know has to only according to his purpose, maybe in one case he thinks it useful for his purpose have people shot as a warning to others this may not seem suitable to him under other conditions. He does not act on the basis of a legal principle, he acts from the practical point of view.

Q Witness after October 43, among your colleagues as is customary in lawyer circle, discuss the fact that these shootings were being carried out by the Police, SS and SD or did you just say General Speidel does that?

A The rumors circulating among the population differed. We said of course, at that time already that the shootings were carried out by the SS, shootings without preceding judgment, we have to make this difference. Shootings without proceeding verdict were executed by the SS. But as lawyers we said to each other, who is after all responsible for this state of lawlessness in the occupied Greek territory.

Q Of course, you were in Germany for a lengthy period. Just want to put that on the record. But in spite of that I do believe that the Police conditions in Germany as they were up to 1945 were unknown to you.

A I left Germany in 1936.

Q You had told us earlier that persons who had been acquitted by a Tribunal or whose proceedings had been quashed had been handed over to the SS.

A No. The SS was not there at that time. I was talking about the period of January 1943. At that time no SS was there.

Q To whom were they handed over?

A To the Secret Field Police - a military authority - no SS authority.

Q Did you ever talk to a Judge of a Field Court Martial about the question how it happened that a Tribunal considered a man innocent and didn't begin proceedings against him whereas on the other hand the same supreme judicial authority did not object that these people remained in prison.

A That was a Police matter, not a matter of the Field Court Martial and in such the judges used to discontinue the conversation, and they were right.

Q Did you ever find any clues indicating that the instructions given to the Secret Field Police or rather from which source these instructions were given to the Secret Field police?

A Yes, Department I-C.

Q I-C, have you any indication showing that this department I-C did not receive its instructions in turn from another source?

A I know nothing about that.

Q Mr. Colleague, earlier you dealt with the case of several Greek officers who were sentenced because of helping the enemy. Are you aware under which terms the capitulation of the Greek Army was accepted by the German Armed Forces, particularly what provisions were made with regard to the release of Greek officers by the German Army.

A. Yes, I can answer that question but let me tell you this first. Naturally you have more experience than I have in such matters because you have worked before the big IMT, but I am afraid I will have to give you a lawyer's answer to your question regarding the application of paragraph 91b.

Q. I think we can be quite brief. I merely wanted you to tell me what you know about the negotiations.

A. The Greek officers were not released on parole.

Q. What do you mean by that?

A. Parole -- that he will not try to join the forces of his country which are still in the fight. That is parole -- the promise to remain in the occupied territory -- and they would not give it when the capitulation occurred.

Q. Then when individual discharges of Greek officers took place they did not give their word of honor they would not go against Germany?

A. That is what I just answered. Released subject to parole, i.e. subject to word of honour; this is the proper German expression (word of honour -- Ehrenwort).

Q. Your Honor, I have no further questions.

THE PRESIDENT: Any further cross examination?

Any re-direct?

MR. RAPP: There is no re-direct examination, Your Honor.

THE PRESIDENT: The witness may be excused then.

(The witness was excused.)

May I now inquire of Prosecution as to whether or not there are any further Greek witnesses to be called.

MR. DENNEY: No, if Your Honor pleases, that's the last one which we plan to call and I must say we anticipated that defense counsel would be considerably more lengthy in their cross examination in view of some cross examination that had been conducted before and I certainly appreciate their effort to expedite the proceedings. Perhaps we could -

THE PRESIDENT: Let me interrupt further, Is there any desire on the part of any German counsel or defendant to further question these Greek witnesses?

DR. LATERNSEER: Mr. President, we agree to the release of all of the Greek witnesses.

THE PRESIDENT: Upon the statement of Dr. Laternser that it is agreeable to all German counsel and to all defendants, the Greek witnesses who have been called will be discharged from the case and released as witnesses.

That is the order of the Tribunal then.

MR. DENNEY: Perhaps the Secretary General could tell me the number of the last exhibit. I believe it is 498.

THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY GENERAL: Yes, sir.

MR. DENNEY: I have just handed your Honors three copies in English of the portion of the document which I gave to the defense counsel. I have already distributed copies to the interpreters and the reporters, Defense counsel have a German copy. How many do you require, Mr. Stone, in English?

THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY GENERAL: Three English, two German.

MR. DENNEY: We are distributing to Your Honors, three additional copies in English. These are the three English and the two German copies for Mr. Stone.

I would request that the loose pages, the ones that are not contained in the folder -- there are 39 pages -- headed "Official of the Greek National War Crimes Office and Atrocities Committed in Greece" be marked 499-A for identification.

And the certificates can be placed at the end momentarily and that the document which says "Greek Document No. 1" be marked 499-A 1 for identification. That is a letter dated Athens, September 14, 1945, together with 9 pages annexed thereto. And, then the next document in the folder which is Greek Document No. 2 -- it is requested that that be marked 499-A 2 for identification. This is an interrogation of 3 pages. And then the last document, which is 26 pages, which is the translation of Greek Document No. 3. It is a decision dated 3 December 1946. It is requested that this be marked 499-A 3 for identification.

And the last part of the document in the folder, which is 5 pages, Greek Document No. 4 -- this is a translation of the sub-titles that accompany the Greek film. It is not what we are familiar with as a talking film but a list of sub-titles and we are submitting them in advance. It is requested that this be marked 499-A 4 for identification.

And there is an additional document which we do not have at this time.

However, in order that things may be kept in order, I would ask that the certification by Dimitrius Kissopoulos be marked 499-A 5 for identification. Your Honors will note in the certification that there is one document which is not present at this time.

That, if your Honors please, concludes the evidence with reference to Greece except for the offer of these documents which have just been finally prepared and submitted and the film. We perhaps might ask defense counsel tomorrow to waive the 24-hour rule but we certainly don't want to do it now. We have just handed them the documents.

In connection with the matter under discussion concerning the inquiry by the Tribunal this naming, with reference to what progress has been made in connection with the order of the Tribunal concerning the notion by the defense counsel for the purpose of investigation of documents, the matter -

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Denny, let's have it understood that it was a ruling in which we made certain statements in the alternative.

MR. DENNEY: Your honor please, I was just about to recite the ruling. I submit that I may state how the ruling was arrived at. I believe this was made as the result of a motion made by defense counsel and the Court's rule was that:

(a) They be allowed to go to Washington or (b) That the documents be brought here or (c) In the event those things didn't happen that certain conclusions would be drawn by the Tribunal.

In that connection I have examined the rules and discussed the matter with General Taylor and would like to say this at this time.

Defense counsel have made a motion for the production in Nurnberg of a large number of documents presumably located in the Pentagon building in Washington D.C. or, in the alternative, for permission to send two of their number as representatives to Washington to examine the documents.

The tribunal has granted this motion in the alternative.

Rule 12 of the Uniform Rules of Procedure, Military Tribunals, Nurnberg, describes the method by which the defense counsel may apply to the Tribunals for the production of witnesses or documents.

Paragraph "C" and "D" of Rule 12 describes the methods by which documents and witnesses can be obtained if such application is granted by a Tribunal. These provisions are clearly applicable to the present situation and provide as follows:

"(C) If the application is granted by the Tribunal, the Secretary General shall promptly issue a summons for the attendance of such witness or the production of such documents and inform the Tribunal of the action taken. Such summons shall be served in such manner as may be provided by the appropriate occupation authority to insure its enforcement and the Secretary General shall inform the Tribunal of the steps taken.

"(D) If the witness or the document is not within the area controlled by the United States Office of Military Government for Germany, the Tribunal will request through proper channels that the Allied Control Council arrange for the production of any such witness or document as the Tribunal may deem necessary to the proper presentation of the defense.

The prosecution is advised by the Secretary General that immediately after the Tribunal granted the motion in question he took steps to secure the execution thereof as provided in Rule 12.

The Secretary General has informed the prosecution that he has been in communication with the director of the Legal Division, Office of Military Government for Germany, United States, Berlin, and has transmitted to him a copy of the court's ruling on the application, together with full information as to the location and quantity of the documents in question.

The prosecution is further informed that the director of the Legal Division, OMGUS, is taking steps in connection with this matter and will communicate with the authorities of the United States War Department in Washington to determine whether the documents can be transmitted to Nurnberg or whether representatives of the defense counsel can be transported to the United States and admitted to the Pentagon Building to examine the documents.

It appears, therefore, that the matter is being handled strictly in accordance with the Uniform Rules of Procedure of the Military Tribunals, Nurnberg, and that the authorities are moving with all possible expedition.
